Attractive Dining Rooms.

Why shouldn't the dining room be attractive? There's no reason on earth why it shouldn't be, and there's every reason imaginable to encourage and promote this state of affairs in every home. The dining room is used as much as any room, and if the surroundings and furnishings are pleasant to look at, it adds much to home happiness. Here's an offer worthy of consideration. A handsome solid oak sideboard, with beveled mirror plate, a beautiful polished oak pillar extension table, and six of the latest style oak dining chairs. An entire dining room set fit for a lord to use, and our wonderfully low price for the whole outfit is but $25 00. We have placed one of these sets in our show window for inspection and you will do well to merit by such an unusual offer.

NEW ENGLAND'S PETS

Finished In Fifth Place In the Race For the League Pennant.

Brooklyns Hold Same Position In Final Standing.

How the Other Clubs Lined Up at the Close of the Season.

BOSTON, Oct. 1. — The championship season of 1895 of the National League and American Association of Professional Baseball clubs is a thing of the past. Baltimore wins the pennant for the second consecutive time, with the other clubs trailing along in the following order: Cleveland, Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, Brooklyn, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, New York, Washington, St. Louis, Louisville.

When the season opened, on the 18th of last April, the Baltimores, Bostons, Clevelands, New Yorks and Pittsburgs were regarded by baseballdom the only ones in the pennant class, with Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Chicago and Cincinnati as dark horses, though the Phillies had many admirers who thought their batting ability would land them in first place As it was, the Quakers marred an otherwise brilliant record by falling down ignominiously before Baltimore in their last series together.

The Chicago team captured the position they fought for, and Anson is probably $3000 richer by the result. Of the clubs in the National league that have been a failure this year, Boston, Louisville and Cincinnati are the most prominent.

The home team have tied the Brooklyns for fifth place, which is another remarkable epoch in the struggle.

The Temple cup series between Baltimore and Cleveland will begin at Baltimore. From every indication the Orioles should win, as they are in better condition than the Spiders.

Cleveland a Good Second.

The Cleveland team finished a good second, which is as high as the team has got in a good many years. The position the Phillies gained is very commendable under the circumstances. Pittsburg has managed to keep away from Cincinnati and New York, while the Cincies win from the Giants by .04.

The New Yorks are at the foot of the clubs who have over .500. Baltimore has won the largest number of games, 87, but she is two games behind her record of last year. The New Yorks finished second last year with 88 games won, and the home team was third with 83 games to their credit.

Philadelphia finished one place better than last year, while Brooklyn, who was fifth last season, is tied for that place this year. The Clevelands were sixth and Pittsburg seventh in the fight of last year, and Chicago was where New York is this year. St. Louis finished ninth and Cincinnati 10th.

Taking in the way the clubs finished last season, it will be seen that all of the western clubs, with the exception of St. Louis, have obtained better positions this year than last, which proves that the west is getting stronger every year in the game.

Washington was 11th last year, which is the only improvement in the eastern clubs, as this year the Senators managed to capture 10th place. Louisville finished the same this season as last.

It will not be known for some time yet what the Boston magnates intend to do and the new material they will have on the team.

Here is the final standing of the clubs:

	Won.	Lost.	Per c't.		Won.	Lost.	Per c't.
Baltimore	87	43	.669	Pittsburg	71	61	.538
Cleveland	84	46	.646	Cincinnati	66	64	.508
Philadel	78	53	.595	New York	66	65	.504
Chicago	72	58	.554	Wash'n	43	85	.336
Boston	71	60	.542	St. Louis	39	92	.298
Brooklyn	71	60	.542	Louisville	35	96	.267

Split Even.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Washington and Boston concluded the season by breaking even. Boswell won the first and Molesworth would have secured the second had he received proper support. McGuire yesterday made the record for continuous catching, having appeared in every game this season. He was presented with a silver service. Bannon was struck on the elbow in the first game and Ryan took his place. The second game was called at the end of the eighth on account of darkness.

Hits and Misses.

First game for the Temple cup at Cleveland.

Anson has the splendid fielding percentage of .933.

Hoy has struck out but six times in the season just over.

Fred Clarke has signed a contract to play in Louisville next season.

Pittsburg took $21.25 as its share of one of the games in Louisville.

The Pittsburgs have signed Pitcher Herr of the Norfolk club of last season.

Arlie Latham wants to be a roller polo referee this season. He will hibernate in Lynn.

Nashville won the championship of the south as the result of the series with Richmond.

Chicago is a big winner this year, and the profits are expected to be as high as $75,000.

Pitcher Callahan, who has done so finely for the champion Springfields, is just 21 years of age.

Charles Irwin, who was with Anson last season, will try to play third base for Cincinnati in 1896.

Curt Welch was released outright by the Syracuse club. He could not resist the temptation to drink.

Fleet Billy McAleer of the Clevelands did not make a home run during the season. He made four triples.

McBride, who played with the Austin club in the Texas league this year, led that organization with a batting percentage of .444, and is booked to take the place of Walter Wilmot of Chicago.

Ban Johnson of Cincinnati has been elected president, secretary and treasurer of the Western league at an increased salary.

McAleer, McGarr, Blake, George Tebeau O'Meara, Knell and Wallace have already signed to play with the Cleveland club next season.

In the game between the Buffalos and the Detroits, Jimmy Collins went five times to bat, made four runs and three hits, including two doubles, and stole two bases.

For Cuban Independence.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Four thousand persons yelled themselves hoarse last night in the cause of Cuban independence. Central Music hall was not big enough to hold all the sympathizers with the Cuban revolutionists, and there was an overflow meeting in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian association building. At both meetings the same resolutions were adopted in favor of the island's independence, and speeches were made by men prominent in civic affairs, all of whom favored the freedom of the island.

Not a Bad Suggestion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Immediately preceding the discharge of the grand jury here yesterday by Judge Bradley, a written recommendation was submitted to the court favoring the establishment of the whipping post in the District of Columbia for the punishment of wife-beaters and other petty criminals. It was signed by the foreman and 15 jurymen. Judge Bradley said that he thought such a method of punishment would be productive of good results.

All Anti-Tammanyites.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The convention of Good Government clubs last night made the following nominations: For county clerk, J. T. Lockman; for register, Charles Blauvelt; for justices of the supreme court, Hamilton O'Dell and M. S. Isaacs; for judges of the court of general sessions, Thomas Allison and G. H. Adams; for justices of the city court, J. A. Beall and L. L. Delafield.

A Denial From London.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The Spanish embassy here published this morning a denial of a statement to the effect that Secretary of State Olney had given warning to the Spanish government that unless they had succeeded in suppressing the insurrection in Cuba in the next three month the United States government would intervene for the protection of the insurgents.

Women's Progress.

ATLANTA, Oct. 1.—The exercises attending the formal opening of the Woman's building at the exposition began yesterday afternoon. Mrs. E. C. Peters presented the complete building with its exhibits to Mrs. Joseph Thompson, president of the woman's board, who, in behalf of the board, accepted the building in an appropriate address. John T. Graves was the orator of the day.

Sealers Seized.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Captain Hooper, in command of the patrol fleet in Behring sea, reports the seizure of two sealing vessels for violation of the Paris award. The first vessel seized was the British schooner E. B. Marvin, taken within the 60-mile zone on a charge of using firearms. The second vessel was the American sealer Louis Alsen, charged with not being duly licensed.

Last of Surprise and Magellan.

HALIFAX, Oct. 1.—Schooner Magellan, Cape Breton for Yarmouth, with a cargo of coal, went ashore at Shut-in island, and became a total wreck. The crew were saved. Schooner Surprise, from Halifax with a Montreal cargo, is a total wreck on the coast of Newfoundland. The crew were also saved.

Hard Nut to Crack.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Wong Kim Ark came here recently from China, demanding a landing on the ground that he is a native of California. The collector of the port, while admitting his nativity, refused him landing, claiming he is not an American citizen. The courts will decide the matter.

Pleasing to Spaniards.

MADRID, Oct. 1.—Senor De Lome, Spanish minister to the United States, telegraphs that the United States government has decreed that all arms and munitions intended for the Cuban rebels shall be seized by the American authorities and not returned to their owners.

Coal Goes Up.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—As a result of a consultation between the larger coal producers, an advance was made yesterday in the line prices of anthracite coal. There was no general agreement, but prices were put up 15 to 25 cents a ton.

Steamer Sunk.

GLASGOW, Oct. 1.—Steamer Wallachia struck the rocks on Beacon Perch in the Clyde and bounded off and sank. All on board were saved. The Wallachia was a wooden screw steamer of 1794 tons.

A Day of Rest.

ATLANTA, Oct. 1.—The question of Sunday opening of the exposition was settled by an overwhelming vote against it at the directors' meeting yesterday.

Disruption Threatened.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 1.—The attacks upon the Whiteway party continue, and it is believed that the whole government is on the eve of disruption.

CHINA BENDS HER KNEE

By Degrading Viceroy Liu For Failure to Protect Missionaries.

Premier Salisbury Would Permit No Trifling.

United States Government Also Evinced Deep Interest in the Matter.

PEKIN, Oct. 1.—China has yielded to the pressure of the British ultimatum by degrading the viceroy of Sze-Chuen, and according in full the other demands of Great Britain.

This demand of Great Britain and the demonstration of a powerful British squadron proceeding up the Yang-tse-Kiang are the sequences of the tacit refusal of the Pekin government to satisfy the demands of the Marquis of Salisbury for the punishment of the late viceroy of Sze-Chuen, whom Minister O'Conor reported to be responsible for the outrages beginning in May at the mission stations at Cheng-Tu, which were followed by the massacre at Ku-Cheng.

The viceroy's term of office expiring, he left Cheng-Tu, and the Pekin government tried to induce Minister O'Conor to believe that the withdrawal of the viceroy had been enforced, and that this action on the part of China ought to satisfy the British government.

Lord Salisbury, however, instructed the British minister that nothing would suffice less than a public imperial decree banishing the viceroy beyond the frontiers of China, with a statement that the crime for which he was punished was neglect to Afford Protection to the Missions.

This action of Lord Salisbury appears to have been prompted by the conviction, doubtless based upon foreign office reports, that the Chinese literati, abetted by most of the higher officials, foment agitation against Europeans generally, and not against the missions alone, and that the degredation of the viceroy of Sze-Chuen would be a blow to the literati and an effective example to the whole of China.

It is understood that the United States government, although not actively cooperating with the British government, has been informed of and approves the latter's plans to protect the missions, which involve the strongest practical measures, in the event of the mere squadron demonstration not proving sufficient to wake up the government at Pekin.

Clerical Strife.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—Father C. Cosgrove announces that he will enter suit against Archbishop Kain for 14 months' salary, covering the period during which, he alleges, he has deprived him of a permanent appointment in the diocese. Saturday the archbishop publicly advertised that he heard Father Cosgrove was collecting money in the city, and warned the public that the priest had no authority from him to collect.

Spiteful Utterances.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The Evening News expresses itself editorially as indignant at the fact that Hugh Paget, at attache at the British legation at Washington, has ordered a yacht from the Herreshoffs. Commenting on the subject, the Westminster Gazette also remarks: The crop of attaches is abundant, and we might find better than this Yankee-smirched one.

Was Losing Money.

STAUNTON, Va., Oct. 1.—The Valley Mutual Life association of Virginia has reinstated its risks, amounting to $5,000,000, in the National Life of Hartford, and has accorded an assignment of all its property. The company has met with reverses, and the management deemed it prudent to replace the insurance in another company and stop the loss.

To Be Built at Seattle.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—As the report of Chief Engineer Wilson, who was sent to Seattle to investigate the capacity of the plant of the Moran Bros., was entirely satisfactory, Secretary Herbert yesterday awarded to the firm the contract for the construction of one of the three torpedo boats to be built for the navy. The price to be paid is $160,000.

Report on a Sea Disaster.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 1.—The result of the official inquiry by the board of trade into the collision between the British ship Prince Oscar and an unknown ship, which sank with all hands, July 14, near the equator, is "that the Prince Oscar appears to have been navigated with proper and seamanlike care, and no one is in default."

Warships Going South.

HALIFAX, Oct. 1.—There is great activity among the North Atlantic British squadron here, and it is believed to have some connection with the Mosquito coast difficulty. The Rambler and Magicienne leave for the West Indies tomorrow. The Canada arrived here yesterday.

Muzzling a Newspaper.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 1.—The directors of the defunct Union bank yesterday began law proceedings against The Telegram, the mouthpiece of the government, complaining that its articles upon the bank inquiry are calculated to prevent their clients from securing a fair trial.

Athletes at Dinner.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. — The New York Athletic club last night gave a dinner to their vanquished contestants for international athletic honors. It was a dinner to the representatives of the London Athletic club. Covers were laid for 120 persons.

Pasteur's Tomb.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The tomb at the Pasteur institute will be constructed beneath the monument in the building erected to commemorate the first case of hydrophobia cured by the Pasteur method of inoculation.

An Armenian Uprising.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 1.—A body of Armenians made a demonstration against the authorities in this city. The police killed and wounded some of their number and arrested many of them.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

NOW THAT the Boston aldermen have authorized an agreement with Quincy as to sewer disposal more rapid progress should be made toward the consummation of the system. Perhaps the next city government of Boston may be contra minded. Probably no agreement can be made until a system is adopted and it is known how many miles of sewers are to be built. Why the delay?

Young Men's Christian Association.

The annual meeting and election of officers will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 8. The meeting will be held in connection with the opening reception, including entertainment and refreshments. It is proposed to make this the most interesting meeting in the history of the Association.

The exhibit of clay modeling is being arranged at the Mechanic's Fair today. It is the only exhibit of the kind and has been put in at the earnest request of the fair committee. The display will include photographs and models made by Mr. H. W. Beattie, instructor of the Association Industrial Classes.

That the educational work of the Association is attracting wide attention is quite evident. Recently the International Committee of New York requested 150 specimens of printed matter advertising the courses, to send to Associations doing similar work, and today a similar request from the State Secretary of New Jersey.

Jurors Draw.

It took the City Council just seven minutes Monday evening to call the roll, draw three jurors and adjourn.

The absent members were Councilman Adams, Barker, Bigelow, Johnson, Lamb, O'Brien, Phillips, Rice, Russell and Spear.

President Bass read the call for the special meeting and Mayor Hodges requested Councilman Pinkham to assist him in drawing jurors.

The three good and lawful men drawn were Edmund Griffith, Joseph A. Bass and Abel Nutting.

UNIQUE MONUMENT

To Commemorate the Landing of Miles Standish

Erected at Squantum by Daughters of the Revolution.

The Quincy Historical Society Supply Box for the Corner Stone.

Yesterday was a gala day for Squantum when the Daughters of the Revolution, of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts erected an unique monument commemorating the 274th anniversary of the landing of Capt. Miles Standish and his exploring party on Squantum Head, Sept. 30, 1621, just about a year after the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth.

The day was perfect, and two or three hundred people were gathered by noon time. Invitations had been extended to the societies of Colonial Dames and Colonial Wars, to the Massachusetts Historical and Quincy Historical, the New England Genealogical, the Bostonian and the Bostoniana. Barges and carriages were waiting at the Atlantic station to meet the people who came by train, others came in private carriages. Four tally-ho coaches came out from Boston, coming by the way of the Parks and Milton. At Milton Lower Mills a halt was made at the old historical house, the Suffolk Resolve, which was decorated with bunting.

Upon the arrival of the tally-hos at Squantum the ceremonies were begun. Mr. Nelson V. Titus being master of ceremonies, welcomed all to Squantum and introduced Rev. Ellery Channing Butler of the Adams Temple, Quincy, who invoked divine blessing, after which Mr. Titus introduced the orator of the day, the Hon. Charles Francis Adams, our former and much esteemed townsman.

Mr. Adams' speech was historical and full of interesting data. He sketched briefly Miles Standish trip up from Plymouth, his landing at Thompson's island the night of September 29 and embarking early the next morning and crossing over to Squantum. He spoke of the brave Indian woman Squanto who guided Standish and his men. From her Squantum derived its name, and it is a name that will live on forever.

Mrs. William Lee of Boston, state agent of the Daughters of the Revolution, was the next speaker and she extended a greeting to all the societies present. Many of our ladies, who are about to join the Daughters of the Revolution, were much interested in Mrs. Lee and her remarks concerning the Daughters. Mrs. Lee personally is a very charming woman and brimful of patriotism.

At the close of Mrs. Lee's remarks all joined in singing "America," followed by music by the band, composed of young lads from the school on Thompson's island. These boys were fine musicians and added much to the day's enjoyment.

The laying of the corner stone was next in order and Mr. Adams was deputed to assist Mrs. Lee. Mr. Adams said, "that unless Mrs. Lee was better posted on laying corner stones than he, he was afraid it would not be done very scientifically."

The box which was furnished by and in charge of the Quincy Historical society contained papers relating to the society, to the Daughters of the Revolution, a receipted bill for box, a printed slip containing account of organization of the Quincy Historical society, Mr. Adams' remarks when chosen president of the Society, a fac-simile of the Society's charter, extracts from by-laws, copies of invitations issued to the dedication of the cairn, photographs of Hon. Charles Francis Adams and Samuel A. Bates, Esq., of Braintree, a map of the City of Quincy, map of proposed new sewer, catalogue of Adams Academy, list of names of the Daughters of the Revolution, by-laws, also copies of the Quincy PATRIOT, Quincy DAILY LEDGER, High School Golden Rod, Young Men, Quincy Monitor and other newspapers published in neighboring towns. Besides the box, guests present contributed pieces of money and other tokens. After which Mr. Adams handed Mrs. Lee a silver trowel, tied with red, white and blue ribbon, filled with mortar and the corner stone was laid. Every one present formed in line and added a stone which the masons quickly put in place.

Swithin Brothers of Quincy furnished a block of granite to be inserted in the cairn with polished front with the following inscription cut on it:

CAPTAIN MILES STANDISH,

with his men, guided by the Indian Squanto, landed here

SEPTEMBER 30, 1621.

This Memorial is erected by the Daughters of the Revolution, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Quincy Historical and Bostonia Societies,

SEPTEMBER 30, 1895.

Buglers Lovesy of the Roxbury Horse Guards and Koppyts of the American band, played the "Star Spangled Banner" on the cornet and all joined in singing.

Boys from the Farm school raised the American flag during the singing and at the close saluted the flag and the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Three rousing cheers were given for Mrs. Lee, Mr. Adams and Squanto and another for Mrs. Titus.

After Rev. E. C. Butler brought the services to a close with a benediction, Mr. Titus invited the assembly to his house to lunch. In going across the fields to the house the Miles Standish spring was passed and many stopped to refresh themselves, as Standish had done years before.

The Titus house was hung with bunting and looked festive. A large tent had been erected with a long table in the centre loaded with the good things Caterer Cook of Boston knows so well how to serve. Coming from the cool breeze of the heights to the comfortable tent and piazza was a delightful sensation, to say nothing of the effect of the hot coffee, escaloped oysters, steamed clams, etc.

As the sun was beginning to wend its downward course in the west, the people bethought themselves it was time for them to wend their way homeward.

For a most enjoyable day the people were indebted to Mrs. Lillie B. Titus, who planned and carried out the erection of the cairn, and to Mr. and Mrs. Titus who entertained all right royally. Mrs. Titus is an intimate friend of Mrs. Lee, and both are enthusiastic patriotic women.

Among those attending from Quincy were noticed: President Bass of the City Council, Hon. and Mrs. Charles H. Porter, Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bass, Mrs. Fred. H. Smith, Dr. J. H. Gilbert, Mrs. George W. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Saville, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Allison Tupper, Mrs. Eben Sheppard, Mrs. Walter T. Babcock, Mrs. Roger H. Wilde, Mrs. Granville Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Slade, Mr. William G. Spear, Mr. Horace E. Spear, Miss Etta M. Prescott, Miss Annie L. Prescott, Mrs. Annie E. Faxon, Mrs. S. O. Moxon.

TODAY'S COURT.

William Currington was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

William White of Milton was fined $5 for drunkenness and $7 for disturbing the peace.

George F. Mason of Weymouth was fined $5 for assault on John Reynolds, $5 for an assault on Ellen Long, $5 for assault on Elizabeth C. Brag and $5 for assault on Mary A. Mason.

Alexander Frazier of Braintree was arraigned for defrauding Jeremiah DeCost out of four weeks board to the amount of $15.

John Burbank of Cohasset was arraigned for non-support of his wife and family and was sentenced to the House of Correction for 4 months.

The continued case of Patrick Murphy of Quincy for drunkenness came up this morning when he was fined $5.

Pinel; house and 17000 feet of land, No. 20 Central avenue, Wollaston, for J. B. Price of N. Y. to Wm. R. Culver, who will occupy; 8700 feet of land at Wollaston Park to same.

A Business Opportunity.

A business opportunity doesn't always mean a chance to get work. Its a business opportunity to be able to get and keep on hand, a box of TAYLOR'S ANTI-HEADACHE POWDERS, to be used to clear the head of the excruciating pains of headache. Guaranteed absolutely harmless. Cure any headache in 5 minutes. Get them of Leonard J. Pastor, Ph. G., 27 School street.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

October.

Almost freezing weather.

Now for October weddings.

Thirty-four degrees this morning.

Mrs. John Hunt has moved from Atlantic street to Brockton.

Miss Nettie Holbrook has moved from Hotel May to the Wollaston Hotel.

Do you read the small advertisements? There are several new ones today.

A good day to get out your spring overcoat. One almost needs a winter one.

J. N. Coit and family of Cambridge have moved to the house at 37 Botolph street.

The prize dance at Music hall last Friday evening was won by William Duran.

Mrs. J. Clean and Misses Mattie and Annie Clean have gone to Laconia, N. H.

Frank Leslie, late with S. W. Hayden, has accepted a position with Timberlake & Small.

The Wollaston Co-operative bank has declared a dividend at the rate of 6 1-2 per cent. annually.

The Republican Representative convention was held earlier last year, the date being Sept. 28.

Mr. William Wilson has been making some extensive improvements to his lawn which now looks very handsome.

Thomas Whalan has moved his shop from Fratus block on Hancock street to the Nickerson block on Depot street.

Mr. T. Dexter Pierce returned Monday from Centre Ossipee, N. H., where he has spent several weeks with his son.

The wood work on the interior of the Atlantic depot has received a coat of varnish and the walls a new coat of gilt paper.

Remember the meeting of the general committee of the Hospital festival tonight and be sure and make returns for tickets, etc.

There is quite a demand for good houses in Quincy and parties having such to let should advertise them in the DAILY LEDGER.

Little Willie Bullock of Willow avenue, Wollaston, fell from a bridge near his home on Saturday afternoon and fractured his right arm.

It was the Quincy foot ball club, which has no connection with Clan McGregor, that gave the exhibition foot ball game at the Hospital festival last week.

W. R. Lofgren is building a large house at Braintree for N. E. Hollis. He has also just completed a new house for R. E. Teasdale on Willard street, Quincy.

Patrick J. Hines, reported as breaking his collar bone at Nantasket, was Patrick J. Sommes, teamster for Mr. A. Keating. He is now at the Quincy Hospital and as comfortable as could be expected.

A. E. Nash furnished 135 gallons of cream and 130 gallons of coffee at the Hospital festival and James McConnell furnished 13 bushels of peanuts and 45 cases of tonics, all of which were sold.

The free evening schools will open next Monday at the Adams and Willard buildings, and all desiring to attend are requested to register on Friday evening. The evening drawing school will open three weeks later.

Mr. Alvah S. Redman who has so admirably conducted the Wollaston hotel, during the past six months, has retired from its managment. He has moved to Newport avenue and will henceforth devote his time to his former business, carpentering.

Wollaston is having its regular annual burglar scare. Stories of men prowling around houses nights, trying window and attempting to hold people up, are current. It would be well for everybody to pay particular attention to "fastening up" nights during the fall months, as burglaries are generally plenty this time of the year.

The forthcoming entertainment to be given by Merry Mount Lodge of Good Templars promises to be one of exceptional interest and quality. The committee in charge have been successful in obtaining the services of Myers and Burnett, the talented artists who so pleasantly entertained the members of the Wollaston Cycle club last spring.

It is Known By Its Cures

It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit.

The thousands of people whom it has raised from disease and despair to happiness and health, are the strongest and best advertisements Hood's Sarsaparilla has. No other preparation in existence has such a record of wonderful cures.

This is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sale, and requires for its production the largest laboratory in the world.

Now if you need a good medicine, why not try that which has done others so much good. Remember

DEATH OF RODERICK

Will Result In Manslaughter Charge Being Brought Against Deamon.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 1.—John Roderick, who was shot near Chesuncook lake several weeks ago, died at Oldtown yesterday from the result of his wounds. Deamon, who has been confined in jail here on the charge of assault on Roderick with a deadly weapon, will now be tried for manslaughter.

Deamon expresses much sorrow at the death of Roderick. He and Roderick were working together outting meadow hay. On the day of the shooting a guide named Morrison came along with a supply of whisky, and they all got to drinking. After dinner Deamon and Roderick commenced to scuffle. They were all in the tent at the time. There was a rifle in the tent, and Morrison says that Deamon fired twice at Roderick. After Deamon sobered up he was told that he had shot Roderick, and he went down Moosehead lake and gave himself up.

Morrison, the only man who can testify to the shooting, is said not to bear too good a reputation, and there is no certainty that Deamon actually did the shooting.

Bridegroom Did Not Appear.

NORTH BROOKFIELD, Mass., Oct. 1.—The marriage of Dr. Jolivette and Miss Marie E. Charlebois, that was to have taken place yesterday in East Brookfield, failed to take place as announced. Dr. Jolivette, the intended bridegroom, has left town and gone nobody knows where. It seems he borrowed $100 of his promised bride, besides securing money from several others here. It is hinted that he is wanted by the officers, who are hot on his trail, on other charges.

Wanted In Lowell.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 1.—The Lowell (Mass.) police have applied for the removal of Francis E. Rousseau from the county jail at Auburn to Lowell. Rousseau a year ago posed as a rich nobleman and obtained considerable money on the strength of his claim. He was convicted and sentenced to Auburn jail. His term expires in a few days. Rousseau will be tried at Lowell for a crime committed before his present incarceration.

A Real Object Lesson.

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—The state of Massachusetts will send as an exhibit to the Atlanta exposition samples of goods manufactured in the state prison at Charlestown, consisting of a number of different kinds of harnesses, as well as nine varieties of brushes. The goods will be packed in trunks also of prison workmanship, as an object lesson to those unacquainted with the teaching of trades in prisons.

True Worth Appreciated.

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—A memorial service was held in Faneuil hall last evening to commemorate the public services of the late Rev. A. A. Miner. A memorial drafted by the Anti-Tenement House league, setting forth the facts in relation to Dr. Miner's work during his connection with the league, was read. Eloquent tributes to the illustrious citizen were made by eminent persons.

Interesting Insurance Case.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 1.—The Knickerbocker Towing company of Bath began suit yesterday against the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company to recover $56,000 on the tug B. W. Morse, which was lost in Charleston harbor in 1893. The defendants claim that the Morse in going south violated the conditions of her policy and forfeited her insurance.

Investigation Called For.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 1.—The relatives of John F. Hehir, who died at New Bedford, Mass., Sunday, have called upon the police to investigate the circumstances attending his death, claiming foul play. It is asserted that he (Hehir) had considerable money, and that when the body was examined after death neither money nor valuables were found.

Albee's Trial Begun.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Oct. 1.—The trial of Arthur A. Albee of Brockton for the murder of Collins A. Leamen in that city on April 26, 1892, was begun here yesterday, Judges Hammond of Cambridge and Gaskell of Worcester presiding. The drawing of the jury was completed at 12:10, and the trial was at once begun.

Trip Cost a Life.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 1.—Mrs. Nellie Knight of this city was descending a stairway last night behind her little girl, who was carrying a lamp. Mrs. Knight tripped and fell against the child and the lamp exploded. The woman's clothes ignited and she was fatally burned. The little girl escaped with slight burns.

Welcome to Wefers.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 1.—Bernard J. Wefers, the champion amateur sprinter of the world, was tendered an enthusiastic welcome to his home in this city last night. There was a parade, with music, fireworks and thousands of spectators. Following this a banquet was served at the Franklin House.

Derelict Discovered.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 1.—United States revenue cutter Woodbury reports the derelict of a British three-masted schooner, Gypsum Queen, lodged on the rocks at Seal island, where she was abandoned, but when is not known. The Woodbury has been ordered to blow the vessel up.

Robbers Must Have Been Disgusted.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Oct. 1.—Burglars entered The Times office during the night, but they did not know that the door was unlocked and that by turning the knob they could have seen all that was inside. They used explosives, and obtained 13 cents and a few stamps.

History Incomplete.

SANFORD, Me., Oct. 1.—Edwin Emery, who died in New Bedford, Mass., was a native of Sanford. He had been for more than 20 years engaged compiling a history of this town. His death leaves his work incomplete.

New England Briefs.

George H. Wallace was killed by a train at Lynn, Mass.

BOSTON READY.

To Execute an Agreement to Receive the Quincy Sewerage.

At a meeting of the Boston aldermen on Monday, the committee on streets and sewers, to whom was referred the message of Mayor Curtis relative to sewer drainage by the city of Quincy into the improved sewerage system, made a report recommending the passage of the following order:

That the superintendent of streets, in behalf of the city of Boston, execute an agreement with the city of Quincy on such terms and conditions as the mayor may approve, for connecting the sewerage system of said Quincy with the outfall sewer of the city of Boston, in Squantum, for receiving and discharging sewage from said system, for a term not exceeding five years, and providing a method by which the amount to be paid annually by said Quincy after the expiration of the term stated in such agreement shall be determined.

The order was passed.

Wollaston Bowling Teams.

The members of the teams of the Wollaston Bowling club for the coming season are as follows:

Team A.—E. S. Taylor, E. F. Taylor, Harry B. Sanborn.

Team B.—Charles M. Bryant, Wm. I. Dewson, V. J. Emery, Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks.

Team C.—C. L. McClintock, Geo. F. Briggs, Howard W. Battison, Jas. P. Casey.

Teams D.—Elbert H. Brock, R. P. Freeman, Edmund A. Lyman, Chas. T. Baker.

Darling Renominated.

The Republican Senatorial convention for this district was held in Boston today. W. W. Adams of Quincy was chairman and Mr. Leslie of Milton, secretary. The convention was entitled to 56 delegates but only 46 were present.

Francis W. Darling of Hyde Park was unanimously renominated by acclamation. A committee waited upon the nominee and he responded and spoke enthusiastically.

Thompson for Representative.

QUINCY, MASS., SEPT. 30, 1895.

To the Quincy Daily Ledger:

I see by tonight's issue that you claim that if Mr. Thompson had made a contest he would no doubt have received a nomination. Now for once I think you are not posted. Mr. Thompson is in the contest, and with a solid ward behind him, and we hope as it is so many years since Ward 3 has presented a candidate for Representative and with a name as well known as James Thompson that the convention will endorse our candidate.

Yours truly,

TIMO REED Secretary.

Political Field.

Mr. Field's assurance that Ward Three is solid for James Thompson for representative and that he really is in the contest, will help the candidacy of the ex-Councilman. There was some doubt, certainly, whether any work was being put in in his behalf, and some doubt as to the Ward Three delegation. Mr. Thompson is a representative citizen, one who would reflect credit on the district.

Commodious and Pleasing Exterior—Can Be Built Inside $2,500.

[Copyright, 1895, by George Palliser, Architect, 32 Park place, New York.]

It is a good thing in the building of a home to aim at consistency. This is hard to do for the inexperienced, for the reason that few know the exact purchasing power of a given sum, and they are apt to let their ideas and wants overlap the cost mark. This is perhaps one reason why in times gone by so many people who have built homes have patterned after some other house they have known the details of, and on account of this knowledge have been willing to start from the standpoint of where their neighbor left off. This method has, however, been by the progress made the last few years generally relegated to the rear, and today the home builder wants something more attractive than his neighbor, and a variation of design is thus obtained which is very much to be encouraged, as the greater the variety the more picturesque and pleasing any neighborhood becomes.

The greatest aim in the erection of a home should always be to be consistent with your wants and with your ability to pay, and keep these two points within the circumference of the artistic and other superfluous needs, and you will be safe as to the result.

This is an excellent plan for a narrow lot and one that will give full satisfaction for a good sized family, and for the price named the plumbing, of kitchen sink and tubs as well as the bathroom, ought to be included.

Plan.—A two story frame cottage, suitable for erection on 25 foot lot; 20 feet front, 44 feet deep. Height of stories: Cellar, 6 feet 8 inches; first story, 9 feet; second story, 8 feet 6 inches; cellar walls of stone below grade level, brick over; an open fireplace is provided in the front parlor; portable range for the kitchen. Interior woodwork: First floor, whitewood, stained; balance of pine, painted; cellar under the whole house, cement floor; walls of first and second floors hard finish; piped for gas; plumbed complete.

Exterior: Frame sheathed and clapboarded first story; balance shingle finish.

This is a good house for suburban situation and an excellent house to build either for a home or as an investment.

When to Paint Your Houses.

Paint applied on outside work in autumn or winter will last twice as long as when put on in summer or hot weather. In the former it dries slowly and becomes a hard, glazed surface, not wearing off by storms or easily affected by the weather, while in hot weather the oil in the paint sinks into the wood like into a sponge, leaving the lead on surface dry and easy to crumble off. Painting in cold weather also avoids the annoyance of flies, which collect on green paint in the warm season.

DEAR BLACK HEAD.

Dear black head, will you go with me
Where the Tir na n'og shines mistily?
Climbing the mountains or sailing the sea
Dear black head, will you go with me?

On seas uncharted though we set sail
I will not fail you when all things fail;
I'd drown lighthearted your love to be.
Dear black head, will you go with me?

Avourneen deelish. Your dear black head
Shall know no sorrow until I'm dead.
Your borrow in sorrow or shame I'll be,
Dear black head, if you go with me.

And till the Islands of Youth we find,
Oh, I'll be faithful and you'll be kind.
Your heart of gold shall my castle be,
Dear black head, if you'll go with me.

—Nora Hopper.

A PIECE OF SOAP.

It was about ten years ago, in the month of December. The day was cloudy and dull, and the wind was roaring among the oak trees. I was going to dine with Maitre le Bitouze, who in those days lived on the Haut Putois farm on the farther side of the Nehon moorlands.

The dinner was to be served at 6 o'clock. As I left the forest of Belle-Garde and took the little cross path that led to Monroe I heard the church bells in the valley striking 4.

As I went along the idea came to me to get shaved. It was quite a natural idea, for my beard was hurting me—the cold wind seems to bite an unshaved skin. My beard was eight days old, and there were to be other people at dinner, so I should be more presentable if shaved.

At the entrance of the village on the right hand side stood a picturesque little inn. The wind was rattling the leaves of the holly trees that stood in front of it. Inside I could hear the sound of loud voices. I went in, and ordering a glass of wine asked the host if there was a barber in the village.

"Parbleu oui!" cried an old peasant who was sitting with his feet in the stove and lighting his pipe with a firebrand. "There is old Bridevent, who shaved the whole camp of Nehon during the war. If he is at home—and he ought to be, for as I passed the church just now I saw his dog Ronflot running down the street—he will do the trick for you first rate, and very quickly too!"

"And this Bridevent," said another peasant, who was stirring his cup of coffee at the end of the table, "evidently means to live and die here. I thought he went away to his vegetables and his cabbages in the country when the camp left Monroe. He comes from the neighborhood of Piron, doesn't he?"

"So he always says, yet he never goes much farther from his little shop than a rabbit does from its burrow."

"And how does he live? A little poaching on the sly and occasionally dressing a beard are not enough to fill the pot. Yet he does nothing else, so far as I can see."

"Bridevent is a sly one, Maitre le Hodey, and has put aside a little money. He used to keep a cantine, and has done other things than shave chins."

Satisfied with what I had heard, I asked the proprietor to show me Bridevent's house and left the inn. I found it, as he had described, a low, picturesque cottage, standing alone far back from the road, with its broad, sloping roof giving to it a somewhat lugubrious appearance, not lessened by its lonely situation.

When I was within a few feet of the porch, which was partly concealed by low bushes, the door suddenly opened and a figure appeared.

It was that of a small man, a very small man, squat, dark, thickset, with long arms and tremendously bowed legs. The enormous head, which did not set straight on the massive shoulders, was covered with unkempt black hair. The neck was short and thick, and there was scarcely any forehead to be seen.

Add to this feature that had the appearance of having been crushed a large mouth with thick lips that drooped at one corner and two large gleaming black eyes, and you may have some idea of this singular individual.

My first thought on seeing this hideous apparition was to turn and retrace my steps or to go straight on past the house. But a second glance at the person showed me that he was properly dressed, and that it was his deformity chiefly that thus inspired the sensation of repugnance. So, suppressing my surprise, I addressed him in a voice that was almost gay:

"Eh bien, my friend, at this time of day, and with this kind of weather, I suppose trade with you is not booming. Do you think you can shave me before it gets too dark?"

"Come in, monsieur," he said simply. "I will do the best I can."

He went in first, to make room for me to pass, and pointed to a chair beside the fireplace. The interior of the cottage was very modest. Everything was clean and in its place. A high, old fashioned bedstead stood in one corner, and in another a cupboard with deep shelves and several dozen plates with blue patterns painted on them.

A tall kitchen clock, a mirror, a table, several chairs and a kneading trough composed the rest of the furniture in the room. Two or three dingy looking pictures hung on the smoke stained walls.

From the rafters hung smoked hams, dried plants and sausages, long and black. In the corners stood fishing rods and fowling pieces, and two guns rested their long gleaming barrels against the mantelshelf.

"A little bit of fire is not so bad in this weather, hein. Is it, monsieur? I'll see to the stove while your water is boiling. It won't take long."

And as he stooped to throw a bundle of fagots into the stove I was amazed at the breadth of his shoulders and the enormous size of his hands. Without doubt this strange fellow was possessed of tremendous strength. He rose from his stooping position and went into a neighboring room, shutting the door carefully behind him. When he returned a few moments later, I heard a stealthy step going down the passage.

"Warm yourself, monsieur," he said to me again, placing a little stone jar filled with water, preparatory to shaving. "Don't fear to burn the wood. Wood is not expensive in the country. It only costs the trouble of gathering it."

Then he opened a cabinet and took out a pair of razors, which he began to strop conscientiously.

"Famous razors these, monsieur. This one especially is an English razor, which, if properly ground, could cut your neck through without spilling a drop of blood!"

This pleasantry I had often heard before, but from the lips of this strange individual it took on a peculiar character. There was a sound in his voice that made me shudder.

As I sat there poking up the smoldering embers of the fire the conversation of the peasants in the little inn came forcibly back to me. And the more I thought of it the less I felt reassured.

This fellow Bridevent did not belong to this part of the country. No one seemed to know where he came from. Beside his ostensible avocation of barber, which surely did not bring in enough to pay for the wood that burned in the great stove, no one knew of any other means of livelihood that he possessed.

And his manner, too, had roused my suspicions. Why had he gone into the other room and closed the door so cautiously behind him? And those steps I had heard, what were they?

Some one had doubtless been in that room whom he had thought it well to get out of the way. All manner of old tales of persons who had disappeared and left no trace behind, of mysterious assassinations at night in lonely houses, awoke to life in my mind until I began to feel that at any rate it was not prudent to help the murderer to his task by offering my throat unprotected to his razors.

From this moment I carefully watched every movement of my man. He walked up and down the room, ever stropping his famous razors and every few minutes stopping to listen.

Every time he passed the half open door I saw him look nervously out over the fields to the right and left.

Presently his step became more hurried and feverish, and his face betrayed marked impatience. He appeared uneasy, undecided. Was he hesitating?

"I began to feel very uncomfortable indeed and cast frequent glances at the door.

The darkness was coming on rapidly. The room was only lit up by the flickering light of the burning wood. Long ago the water in the stone jar had begun to boil. It had half boiled away and was nearly empty.

Evidently the man was trying to gain time! Perhaps waiting till the shadows of fast approaching night would aid him in his ghastly scheme.

Suddenly he placed the razors upon the edge of the table, looked into the steaming little stone jar, and without a word passed hurriedly into the next room. When he returned, a moment later, he found me standing up ready to bring the adventure to the point.

"All things considered," I began, looking him straight in the face, "I do not care to get shaved tonight. It is getting late, and I am expected to dinner. I will look in tomorrow morning. Here are 50 centimes for the operation. I pay in advance!"

But, without appearing to hear me—I think he was a little deaf—he ran to the door again, and putting his head out listened intently for several seconds.

In the distance I could hear the barking of a dog that was coming nearer and nearer. Suddenly a big dog sprang past his legs.

"Down, Ronflot, down!" he cried angrily.

Then a child came in out of breath, with her hair flying like leaves before a storm. She held something in her hand wrapped in paper.

"Give it here, quick!" cried Bridevent. "Monsieur has been waiting ever so long. Here, give it to me!"

It was a piece of soap!

I sat down again. All was in readiness. Bridevent shaved me, and I must honestly say that even if I was a good deal frightened I have never been better shaved in my life.—From the French.

What He Came For.

It came to pass, then, when Macallister McIlhenny preferred his simple request for her heart and hand, she respectfully but firmly declined, saying in that guileless, disingenuous, original way of hers that she would not be his wife, but would be a sister to him—oh, so gladly!—extending her lily white hand with a string tied to it.

That was only last night, and this night he had come to gather up the rich and costly presents he had given her, and she was sitting in the drawing room with her mother, when there came a pull at the doorbell, like the sluggish pull of a mud turtle at a frisky fishline.

"Who can that be?" asked the maiden's mother as she waited for the butler to respond to it.

"It is Macallister McIlhenny, mamma," replied the girl.

"What is he coming here tonight for? I thought you gave him the bon—excuse me, I mean rejected him last night."

"I did, mamma."

"Then what is he coming here tonight for?"

"I suppose, mamma," said the fair creature, gazing tenderly on a photograph of her fiance, "that he wishes me to hold an inquest on him."

As Macallister McIlhenny entered the apartment there were tears in his eyes.—Detroit Free Press.

Sidney Smith's Sneer.

"Who reads an American book?" the famous sneering utterance of Sidney Smith, was used in the Edinburgh Review of January, 1820. The article in which it occurs was the review of Adam Seybert's "Statistical Annals of the United States." At the time of its employment the Americans bitterly resented the covert sneer and with great energy defended their literature from the supposed attack.

A Great Pity.

"Haow d'ye like that cider?" asked a close old farmer of a poor fellow that he had given a glass instead of a tip for a job.

"Pretty good, but it's a pity you didn't have another apple."

"Another apple! Why?"

"Because you could have made another barrel of it, you know."—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

The Maid With the "Bicycle Walk."

They say that she revels in riches,
She charms with her beauty and talk,
But, alas for her charms,
She'll not come to my arms—
Not her, with that "bicycle walk!"

They say she's been feted by princes
Where kings are accustomed to stalk,
But, alas, though 'tis hard,
She'll not play in my yard,
Not her, with that "bicycle walk!"

And the maids, they may ride when they're ready
And primp with pink powder and chalk,
But they'll never catch fish,
Though they weep and they wish,
Not them, with that "bicycle walk!"

Mrs. Vaneering—There's the wagon with the piano we bought today. You can just send it back.

Mr. Vaneering—Why?

Mrs. Vaneering—Do you suppose that we are going to buy an $800 piano and have it brought home at night when the neighbors can't see it? Never!—Pathfinder.

For Her.

"What is that, dear?" the young husband asked.

"Angel food," said she sweetly.

"I—I guess you better eat it yourself. You are the only angel in the house."

And he helped himself liberally to the bread and beef.—Indianapolis Journal.

My Lady.

The streets that were so dull and dark
Are bright and fresh today;
The air, once hot and dusty,
Is sweet as new mown hay.

The country has no beauty now,
The city holds the crown,
And this because my lady
Once more has come to town.

The Fable of Death.

Once I saw Death go sporting through a plain
Of living men, and none perceived him there.
The old, of what they did all unaware,
Each moment ran against him to their bane.
The young, trusting their youth, that of the pain
Of death knows nothing, gave him not a care.
Purblind were all, none sought to 'scape the snare,
While with his hand he counted out the train.

Then he prepared to shoot, closing each eye.
He fired and missed. I, that his aim did see
Thus reckless, shouted, "Butcher, hold thy hand!"
He turned, and "Such is war" was his reply.
"If you pass life without a look at me,
How dare you more respect from me demand?"

THE LISTENER.

General Longstreet is still deaf from the cannonading at Gettysburg and is compelled to use an ear trumpet.

Frederic Archer, the organist of Chicago, may become the organist of the Carnegie library of Pittsburg in the autumn.

For 55 years Dr. George W. Miltenberger has been a popular practicing physician in Baltimore. He now thinks he has earned the right to retire.

Bishop Potter, who loves to ride horseback, is out almost daily in New York and takes rides against time, though he is seldom in the saddle more than an hour.

C. M. Bailey, a Maine manufacturer, said to be the wealthiest man in the state, has for years employed a band of evangelists to work in the small towns of the state.

Mr. Wanamaker has increased his life insurance to the remarkable aggregate of $2,000,000. He is certainly the most heavily insured man in America, and possibly in the world.

Dr. Hiram R. Revels of Washington, the first negro ever elected to the United States senate, succeeds the late Fred Douglass as the supreme trustee of the colored Knights of Honor of America.

One of the smallest men in Maine, and doubtless in the country, is John H. Robbins of Belfast, a native of Deer Isle. He is 31 years old, is 36 inches high and weighs 37 pounds and 6 ounces.

Ex-President Harrison has a double in one of his personal friends, General A. H. Beech of Wheeling. His figure and features, even to his eyes and the color of his hair, make him almost the counterpart of Mr. Harrison.

John B. Harlow, the United States civil service commissioner, is universally known as "major," though he never attained a higher ran in the army than captain. He was offered a major's commission and refused it, but the title stuck.

Billy Caffyn, once a famous cricketer and a member of the first English team that visited Australia, is now, at the age of 70, earning a precarious living as a barber at Hertford. On account of his prowess at the bat he used to be known as Terrible Billy.

The Rev. Peter Havermans of St. Mary's church, Troy, N. Y., is the oldest priest in active pastoral service in the United States, if not in the world. He is now in his ninetieth year and has just celebrated the sixty-sixth anniversary of his ordination.

Dr. D. Frank Powell has the unique distinction of being mayor of the town of La Crosse, Wis., and chief of the Winnebago Indians. His Indian name is White Beaver. For many years he was a surgeon in the United States army, and he is a man of fine personality.

Only seven of the defenders of Fort Sumter are now living. Two of these, Privates Costello and Johnson, are now living in Washington. A third, Mr. John Doran, who was at the fort on a pleasure trip at the time of the firing on the flag, is living at Meriden, Conn.

William M. Evarts was going up once in the elevator at the state department when it happened to be loaded with an unusual number of strangers, presumably applicants for ministerships and consulships. Turning to a friend, who accompanied him, Evarts said, "This is the largest collection for foreign missions that I have seen taken up for some time!"

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Favorable Conditions For Harvesting Products of the Farm.

But Little Damage Reported From Light Frosts.

Showers Have Had but Little Effect Upon Wells and Streams.

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—The weekly weather-crop bulletin of the New England service for the week ending Sept. 30 is as follows:

Except along the eastern Massachusetts coast, about one inch of rain fell over the most of New England during the week just passed. The showers on the 26th were severe in northern districts, and gave a considerable downfall of rain locally, while on the night of the 29th one inch or more of rain fell in southwestern districts. The rain has greatly benefited grass roots and newly seeded land, but reports indicate that it has had but little effect on water supplies. The correspondent at Winslow, Me., reports that he never saw the Kennebec river lower. The observer at Albany says the Hudson and its tributaries are very low. The weather during the week has been much more fall-like, but without damaging frosts. It has been fine weather for harvesting and for curing corn and other crops. The storm of the 26th was very severe in the three northern states, and considerable damage was done by wind and lightning. The correspondent at Strafford, N. H., states that much hail fell, and the heavy gale wrecked fences and tipped over sheds and corn houses; buildings were burned and cattle killed by lightning.

The bulletin of next week will be the last for the season, and will be mostly in the nature of a summary of the weather and crop conditions for the season.

Temporary Relief From Showers.

Heavy local thunder showers occurred in parts of Maine on the 26th and moderate rains on the 30th, doing great good wherever they occurred. About one inch of rain fell during the week at Eastport and Portland, but in northern sections the amount was generally less, while in many towns all crops are still suffering for rain. The rain that has come, while of a benefit to grass and field crops, has had but little effect on the rivers. Apples are dropping, root crops are maturing before reaching their growth and the ground is too dry for plowing, generally. Corn is drying off in excellent shape, and much of it is harvested. Light frosts occurred in places on Friday and Saturday mornings, but no damage of amount has been reported.

Good Harvesting Weather.

Favorable weather has prevailed in New Hampshire for harvesting during the past week, and corn cutting and apple picking have been pushed. Heavy local showers fell on Thursday, helping out late crops and doing much good to fall seeding, but not enough to affect the wells and streams to any great extent, the water supply being very low. The correspondent at Derry Depot reports that pastures are green and that cattle are getting good feed, but most observers report pastures badly dried and feed poor. Much more rain is needed before the ground freezes up. The temperature this week has been much lower than last, and light frosts occurred on the morning of the 28th. Apples are coloring up well. Reports from Cheshire county indicate that apples and pears are badly rusted.

Some Damage From Frost.

Light frosts occurred in Vermont on Saturday morning, but doing very little damage in most places. In the valleys in this state frosts have been quite severe, but a good many observers report corn and vines as green as ever and the late varieties growing well. Considerable rain fell on the 26th and again on the 29th, but the week has been favorable for work, and harvesting has been pushed. Corn is ouring very nicely. Potatoes that had got their growth before the rust struck them are of good quality and generally sound, but the late ones are rotting badly in places. One correspondent in Addison county reports some pieces hardly worth digging, where two or three weeks ago there were no rotten ones to be found.

Fall Work Well Under Way.

Fine September weather has prevailed for the most part in Massachusetts during the week, and fall work has progressed nicely. A great part of it is now done, and crops are generally out of the way of damage by frost. Corn is nearly all cut, a good many potatoes dug and squashes gathered. Cranberry picking is progressing rapidly. One correspondent states that the recent hot weather did more damage to the berries than did the frost prior to it. Tender varieties were badly cooked on the vines by the sun in many bogs. Wells and streams continue low, and summer seeding of grass has been much injured by the dry weather. In many fields the seed came up poorly, and that which did come was burned by the hot sun. Apple picking is going on, and they are pronounced riper than is usual in September. There are many wormy ones.

Wells Still Low.

Fully one inch of rain fell in the southern part of Rhode Island during the week, and a good deal of benefit has resulted to all grass roots and field crops, but much more is needed to have an appreciable effect on wells and streams. Harvesting is going on rapidly under most favorable conditions. The observer at Narragansett Pier reports potatoes badly injured by wire worms; one farmer reports 200 bushels destroyed by the pests.

Apples Dropping Badly.

The correspondent at Storrs, Conn., reports the 23d the hottest day of the season, but with much cooler weather during this week. The hot sun of last week burned or "baked" the sides of apples on the trees, causing quite a loss in places. Tomatoes were injured in the same way. The high winds of this week, following the hot weather, have caused apples to drop quite badly. Moderate showers fell over most of this state on the 26th and 27th, and good rain occurred on the afternoon and night of the 29th, doing a great deal of good to grass roots, newly seeded grass and grain, and helping wells and streams to some extent. Harvesting is well under way, but there are a good many onions out yet and potatoes to be dug.

Followed Up by Daly.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—The fight over the production of the drama "Honour," which commenced in New York, has been carried into Cook county courts. Augustine Daly yesterday filed a bill to enjoin the production of the drama upon the Chicago Opera House stage by Lilian Walrath and her company.

General Mahone Paralyzed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Ex-Senator Mahone of Virginia suffered a stroke of paralysis yesterday morning at his room at Chamberlin's hotel. His physicians—Drs. Wales and Baker—think his chances of recovery very doubtful. The relatives of the ex-senator have been summoned by telegraph. The entire right side of the sufferer is paralyzed, including the right arm and leg. He is unable to speak, except a few inarticulated sounds. He has maintained consciousness, however, and seeks as best he can to assist those who are ministering to his comfort.

Dastardly Revenge.

TUCKAHOE, N. J., Oct. 1.—Some young men discovered the corpse of a woman lying exposed beside an open grave in the local cemetery. It was the body of Mrs Mary Wallace, the wife of a well-known Prohibitionist. The coffin and the body had evidently been subjected to rough usage. A ring was missing from one of the fingers. It is suspected that it is a work of revenge on the part of misguided adherents to the liquor party because of the attitude of the dead woman's husband on that question.

New President For Colby.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 1.—The trustees of Colby university yesterday afternoon elected Professor Nathaniel Butler of the University of Chicago as president of Colby. Professor Butler graduated from Colby in 1878. He succeeds President Whitman, who recently resigned.

Old Mariner Dead.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 1.—Captain Edward A. Swift died here yesterday. He was for 27 years engaged in the whaling industry, and for 12 years was a master mariner. He subsequently became prominent in state and town affairs. He was born in 1812.

Hull Not Worth Repairing.

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 1.—The lumber laden schooner Josie F, which went ashore on Napatree point, was hauled off the rocks yesterday afternoon. The cargo will be taken out, but the hull is so badly damaged that the captain will not repair her.

Will Take In Athol Fair.

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—Secretary of Agriculture Morton arrived in this city yesterday, and spent the day in looking over many historical points of interest about the city. The secretary will attend the Worcester Northwest Agricultural fair at Athol.

Beaten and Robbed.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 1.—A Russian Finn was waylaid and robbed last night of a large sum of money. The footpads beat and bruised their victim in a horrible manner. No arrests have been made.

A Trip to the Sound.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Oct. 1.—President Cleveland started last night on a fishing trip to Long Island sound with Commodore Benedict on the Oneida. The trip will cover a period of several days.

Victim of Apoplexy.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Oct. 1.—The dead body of Barna A. Clark, 60, one of Brattleboro's most prominent citizens, was found by the roadside last night. Death had resulted from apoplexy.

Deadly Diphtheria.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 1.—A serious diphtheria epidemic is raging in the town of Thornton, and the schools have been closed. Five deaths from the disease have occurred within a few days.

A Little Late.

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—The Cunard steamer Scythia arrived at this port yesterday 11 hours overdue, occasioned by an accident to her machinery while 100 miles east of Boston light.

Danger Has Passed.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 1.—Recent rains have about extinguished the forest fires in eastern Maine. All towns within the fire region report that the danger is over.

Short Stay In Bath.

BATH, Me., Oct. 1.—Flora Jones, a young Nova Scotia girl, who arrived in this city a week ago, is missing. An active search is being made for her.

Baptists at Oldtown.

OLDTOWN, Me., Oct. 1.—A large number of delegates have arrived for the Maine Baptist anniversaries. The convention was formally opened this morning.

Haverhill Druggist Missing.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 1.—George E. Tozier, a druggist, of this city, is missing. No cause is assigned for his disappearance.

D. E. WADSWORTH & CO.

Largest Dry Goods Store Between Boston and Brockton.

Under the Greenleaf, QUINCY. Ellsworth Building, EAST MILTON.

SWITHIN BROS.,
Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

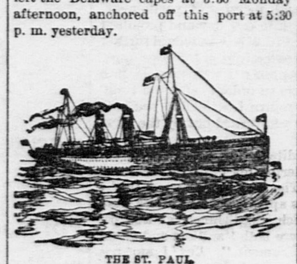
REMARKABLE RESULTS

Obtained by the Steamer St. Paul on Her Trip to Gloucester.

Will Come In the Auxiliary Cruiser Class.

Her Behavior Pleased All Those Who Were Aboard of Her.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 2.—The new American line steamship St. Paul, which left the Delaware capes at 3:30 Monday afternoon, anchored off this port at 5:30 p. m. yesterday.



THE ST. PAUL.

During the run up the coast the ship behaved admirably, and the working of her machinery was so satisfactory that for an hour yesterday afternoon the two engines were run at an average of 90 revolutions a minute. One of them was speeded up to 94 on a spurt, which is within one of the maximum capacity, and during this period the steam pressure ran up to 197 pounds, three pounds less than the maximum. An estimate speed of 21 knots was acquired, with a horse-power development of about 20,000.

In view of the fact that the machinery has been in use but little over two days, the results obtained are considered remarkable. Until the hour's fast run was made yesterday afternoon, the journey had been made at a moderate speed, those in charge of the ship not caring to test her until they were assured that the machinery

Was In Good Condition.

No one on board the ship doubts that she will easily develop the 20 knots an hour necessary to place her in the auxiliary cruiser class, and many believe she will beat the St. Louis, which ship, on her recent trial in the English channel, averaged 22.1 knots an hour for nearly five hours. During the night the crew will clean the flues, boiler tubes and smoke boxes, but no other special preparation will be made for the trial trip.

President Griscom of the International Navigation company, who spent much of the time during the trip on the bridge with Captain Jamison, is much pleased with the behavior of the St. Paul. At her highest speed yesterday she was steady, the vibration being scarcely noticeable.

The official trial board will consist of Commander Bradford and Lieutenant Commander Schroeder, who came aboard here, and Lieutenant Mulligan, who came around from Philadelphia. The latter made a special inspection of the ship to ascertain her ability to carry guns in the event of war, and has found that she meets all the requirements of an auxiliary cruiser.

Semi-Annual Convention.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—The semi-annual convention of the Cotton Mule Spinners' National association opened here yesterday with 30 delegates present. It is likely, according to the official reports of the conferences with employers, that if the growth of business continues, favorable consideration will be given the demands of the organized spinners for better wages in several localities. Altogether, say the reports, the future looks bright for the organized textile workers of America.

Considering Sunday School Needs.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 2.—The annual convention of the Massachusetts Sunday School association opened here yesterday. Two hundred young children attended a service in the afternoon, and at the evening session addresses on "The Bible School, Its Place, Power and Possibilities," by Rev. Everett D. Burr of Boston, and on "The Relation of Young People's Societies to Sunday School Work," by Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D.D., of Boston, received much applause.

Behind Prison Bars.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 2.—S. L. Griffin, sentenced to two years for breaking and entering and larceny, and J. T. Fitzsimmons, J. H. Walker and William Hunter, who will serve 13 months for the same offense; Daniel Gribbins, assault with intent to ravish, five years, and J. L. Carter, for adultery with a 14-year-old girl, two years, were all sent to Thomaston prison yesterday.

Gone From Concord.

CONCORD, Mass., Oct. 2.—Mrs. George W. Lovejoy of Concord Junction is missing, and her husband is of the opinion that she has eloped with Robert H. Allen. The truant wife is about 37 years old, and particularly bright, stylish and attractive. Her maiden name was Eva F. Graffam, and she is a native of Auburn, Me., where the family previously lived.

Nabbed In Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 2.—The police arrested four runaway boys last night. Ernest Charleton, 15, and James Wallace, 18, ran away from Lewiston two months ago. Ernest Ballivean has been missing from Lynn, Mass., for three weeks, and Ernest Sweeney of Manchester, N. H., was thought to have been drowned some weeks ago.

A Novel Organization.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 2.—The new society composed of English residents of Irish descent completed its organization last night. The organization voted to call itself The Order of the Triangle, the three sides of the triangle representing Ireland, England and the United States. The order is to be made a national one.

Want Annual Elections.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—The Annual Elections league held a meeting here last evening. Information, it was said, had been received from many Republicans stating that there was a decided movement against the proposed biennial law, while the labor element are practically unanimously opposed to it.

Mill to Be Sold.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 2.—The Privilege woolen mill of the Harris Woolen company will shut down within a few weeks, and the entire property be offered for sale. The concern employs 500 hands. It is now running half its machinery. The property is valued at about $500,000.

Disappointed In Love.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 2.—Henry Thompson, 40 years old, committed suicide yesterday. He was recently jilted by a young woman, since which he has been despondent. He left $150 on a table in his room, with a letter stating that it was to be used for his funeral expenses.

Stopped For Stores.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 2.—Steam yacht Oneida arrived in this harbor yesterday afternoon. On board were Mr. Benedict, President Cleveland, Private Secretary Thurber and Mr. Huntington. The Oneida, after taking on stores, proceeded westward for a few days' fishing.

Visited by Big Guns.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 2.—More than 4000 people attended the Worcester Northwest fair at Athol yesterday. Among the guests of the day were Governor Greenhalge, Secretary of Agriculture Morton and Senator Hawley of Connecticut, all of whom made addresses.

Took Rope and Knife With Him.

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., Oct. 2.—Frank Knowles of Jay, who left home last week with rope and knife, stating to his mother that she would be better off without him, is thought to have committed suicide by drowning. Knowles' wife committed suicide about a year ago.

In New Pastorate.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Rev. Howard N. Brown assumed his new pastorate at King's chapel, although his installation will not take place until the last of the month. Rev. Mr. Brown was called to this church last spring, after serving 22 years in Brookline.

White Angel Won.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 2.—The event of yesterday here, in connection with the merchants' week celebration, was the playout of the veteran firemen. Salem White Angel company won first prize of $250, throwing a stream 217ft. 11in.

Peary to Take a Rest.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 2.—Lieutenant Peary, the Arctic explorer, intends to pass the winter in New York or Washington. He does not believe another Arctic expedition will be sent from this country for many years to come.

Filled the Bill.

EAST PROVIDENCE, Oct. 2.—John Wilde, inventor of the tidal wave power, gave an exhibition of an engine run by his inventions at Burrell's Cove yesterday. It was satisfactory in every way.

Was Despondent.

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Oct. 2.—Mrs. William I. Allen of this city committed suicide by hanging yesterday, as the result of despondency.

May Fight In Mexico.

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 2.—It appears that the Florida Athletic club has a doubt as to their ability to pull off the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight in Dallas, and yesterday secured by telegraph an option on the amphitheater and arena used for bull fighting in New Laredo, Mex. The option is for one month, but further particulars could not be obtained.

Ecclesiastical Differences.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 2.—The triennial convention of the American Episcopal church opened today. The report of the commission which has in charge the revision of the constitution does not please the lay members of the commission, and it is evident that a battle will be fought in the convention.

Ore Workers Win.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Oct. 2.—After a three days' strike the demands of the miners at the Britherton mine at Wakefield for higher wages have been granted. Mines which have been idle for years are opening up every week, and prospects of range towns were never better.

Cattle Receipts and Quotations.

Amount of live stock on the markets at Brighton and Watertown:

Totals	3,002	19,275	25,290

Prices for market beef—A few choice, $6@7.50; extra, $5.50@5.75; first quality, $5@5.25; second quality, $4@4.50; third quality, $3@3.50.

Prices of store cattle—Working oxen, $ pair, $80@140; farrow cows, $10@22; fancy cows, $50@70; milch cows and calves, $30@48; yearlings, $8@16; 2-year-olds, $12@22; 3-year-olds, $20@2.

Western fat swine—Live, 4@5c; northern dressed hogs, 5½c $ lb.

Prices for sheep and lambs—In lots, $3@2.50@$2.75 each; extra, $3@4, or 2@4c $ lb; lambs, 3½@4¾c; veal calves, 2@@5c.

Prices for hides, tallow and skins—Brighton hides, 6½@7½c $ lb; tallow, 3@4c $ lb; country hides, 6c $ lb; country tallow, 1½@2c $ lb; calf skins, 75@1.10 each; lamb skins, 30@50c; dairy skins, 40@55c each.

Northern and eastern beef cattle—Only a few common cattle were offered. There were no sales, and the quality was very poor.

Milch cows and springers—The supply was fairly active, the demand moderate, and speculators and jobbers were active in examination of stock. This makes the outlook bright for drovers.

Sheep and lambs—Demand active and a clearance was effected. Among the offerings were some very extra choice lambs, and the prices paid were higher than any paid during the past month.

Veal calves—The supply on sale was lighter than a week ago. The demand was active, with values firm at unchanged quotations. A clearance was easily made.

Western beef cattle—The receipts for the week were mostly for the export trade, but a few carloads were sold to home slaughterers at unchanged prices.

Swine—The arrivals from the west were consigned. The New England supply was fair, and sold for 5½c $ lb, dressed weight.

SPANISH VESSEL LOST.

Cruiser Cristobal Colon Runs on a Reef and Is Abandoned.

Buffeted by Fierce Gale and Heavy Seas.

Disaster Has Cast Gloom Over Spanish Government Officials.

HABANA, Oct. 2.—The Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon ran aground on the Bajos Los Colorados, off Mantua. All the crew were saved. The vessel is a total loss.

The Cristobal Colon was an iron, bark-rigged cruiser of 1130 tons, with engines of 1500 horse power. She was 210ft. long, of 32ft. beam and 12ft. 5in. draught, and carried 10 guns.

The Cristobal Colon formed part of the fleet of the Spanish warships detailed to watch the coast of Cuba in order to prevent the landing of filibustering expeditions from the United States and elsewhere. The cruiser carried four 12-centemetre Hontoria guns, two seven-centemetre guns and two rapid-fire guns. Her crew is estimated to have numbered about 300 officers and men.

The station of the Cristobal Colon was the waters about Cape Antonio of the western extremity of the island of Cuba, her commander having particular instructions to watch the Gulf of Correntes and Guadiana, south and north of Cape Antonio. The disaster occurred off Colorado Point, in the Gulf of Guadiana, south of the town of Mantua, in the province of Pinar del Rio, near which territory Habana is situated.

For some days past a cyclonic disturbance has prevailed over these latitudes, and is understood to have recurved in the central part of the Gulf of Mexico and was looked upon to enter the United States through New Orleans and Apalachicola. The Cristobal Colon appears to have encountered the severe weather off Cape Antonio and to have put into the Gulf of Guadiana for shelter.

Run Into Cyclone.

There she tried to ride out the fierce gale and heavy seas, but was slowly driven toward Colorado Point, off which jutting there is a dangerous reef known as the Colorado reef. When the commander of the cruiser saw that he could not make headway against the storm he attempted to anchor, according to the stories told here, but the anchors would not hold and the cruiser was driven ashore.

Another report has it that the Cristobal Colon ran on the reef at night time when her commander believed her to be far enough off shore to continue steaming against the force of the cyclone.

In any case, she ran ashore in a most dangerous position and with a heavy sea running. Everything possible seems to have been done to save the cruiser, but all efforts in that direction were useless, and she was finally abandoned, a helpless wreck, pounding herself slowly to pieces on the Colorado reef.

Some of the crew swam ashore, others reached land by means of pieces of wreckage and in the boats, but all the crew, officers and men were saved by one means or another.

The wreck of this fine warship, so soon after the sinking of the Barcasetugi, has cast a feeling of intense gloom over the government officials here.

As Viewed In London.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Times and The Chronicle this morning give leading places in their foreign columns to special telegrams regarding the South Carolina constitutional convention. The Chronicle, in a leader upon this subject, says: A very serious problem has suddenly leaped to the front in the troubled politics of the United States. The negro question may completely overshadow the currency and the tariff issue in the presidential election fight.

Naval Changes.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Captain R. D Evans has received his orders relieving him from the further command of the New York and assigning him to temporary duty on the Indiana, which ship he will command when she is completed. He will be succeeded in the command of the New York by Captain W. S. Schley.

Kaiser to Czar.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—The emperor's aide-de-camp, Lieutenant Colonel von Moltke, handed to the czar yesterday, at St. Petersburg, an autograph letter from Emperor William. Although the contents of the letter are unknown, the sending of it is regarded as an act of great political importance.

Services Desired In Chicago.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—Dr. J. E. James, professor of public finance and administration and political science in the University of Pennsylvania, has resigned his position to accept the professorship of public administration in the University of Chicago.

Boston Man Won.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 2.—The 15-round contest between McHugh of this city and Mullen of Boston, both weighing in at 130 pounds, was a very hot one. McHugh was knocked out in the seventh round.

Lamont Is Mum.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The order assigning General Miles to the command of the army is still withheld for some reason that cannot be divined, Secretary Lamont refusing any information on the subject.

An Old-Fashioned Town.

PORTLAND, Pa., Oct. 2.—Fire in the business portion of this town did damage amounting to $55,000. Portland has no fire department, and was at the mercy of the flames.

Ging Tragedy Recalled.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 2.—The supreme court has set the hearing in the appeal of Harry T. Hayward from the death sentence for the murder of Catherine Ging for Nov. 4.

The Brooklyn public library now circulates pieces of sheet music, as well as books. The experiment has been successful so far, and the practice will undoubtedly be continued.

SWITHIN BROS.,
Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Quincy, June 11—tf

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

THE LEDGER would have been pleased to print Josiah Quincy's address at the convention today in full, but it would have filled a page in small type. He spoke of the old issues, our foreign relations, the Cuban insurrection, the currency and finances, the tarriff and civil service, and concluded with State issues.

The Standish Monument.

There has been rare wisdom shown by the promoters of the Myles Standish Monument in selecting as the design a cairn of natural beach boulders, for thereby they have insured the lasting qualities of the monument. They have removed all possibility of defacement by relic hunters, and there is no probability that the coarse heap of stones will ever be overthrown or disturbed.

There is something awe-inspiring in these heaps of huge field stones; they seem to be a part of the past, and, like the pyramids of Egypt, to hold a secret not to be carelessly told. But, unlike the pyramids, these cairns can be marked by a single tablet or carven stone, which shall contain the facts in memory of which the pile has been reared, and all done at a marvelously small expense.

This style of memorial, demanding, as it does, no further attention, is to be commended to those societies and organizations which have in mind the memories of other days, for, once instituted, it will outlast all succeeding generations, and the stories of the ages will be safely handed down to sons as yet unborn.—Journal.

Institute at Braintree.

A Teachers' Institute under the direction of the State Board of Education will be held in the Monatiquot School Building, Braintree, Wednesday, Oct. 9, beginning at 9 A M. These gentlemen will lead in the discussions: Frank A. Hill, Secretary of the Board; John T. Prince, Agent of the Board; Frank E. Parlin, Supt. of Schools, Natick; George A. Walton, Agent of the Board; George H. Martin, Supervisor, Boston; J. B. Gifford, Supt. of Schools, Peabody; Mr. Prince, James W. MacDonald, Agent of the Board; Frank F. Murdock, Bridgewater Normal School: Mr. Gifford, Andrew J. George, Newton High School; Mr. Parlin, Mr. MacDonald, Mr. Walton, Mr. Murdock, Mr. George.

On Wednesday evening, at 7.45 o'clock, Mr. Hill will address the citizens of Braintree in the Town Hall. Subject: "New England Primer Days." A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of education to attend the day and evening exercises.

A SOCIETY EVENT.

The Mitchell-Long Wedding at Braintree Last Evening.

The Groom and Best Man in Full Uniform of Navy.

Newport, R. I., to be the Future Residence ~~of the Couple~~.

Tuesday evening, October first, will be remembered as the one on which the society event of Braintree for this season, at least, took place. It was a charming night, the moon never shone brighter, the wind that prevailed through the day became a gentle breeze and the shadows danced about over hills and valleys in delightful harmony with the occasion. The great organ in the First church softly played while friends gathered to witness the marriage of one of Braintree's charming daughters, Miss Alice Musette, daughter of the late John Long, of River street, formerly of Weymouth, to Ensign George Grant Mitchell, U. S. navy. The church was handsomely decorated with flowers and plants, the front of the pulpit being hidden in a mass of green and white.

At a few minutes past eight the bridesmaids came slowly out from either side of the organ, followed by the ushers to the centre isle where they marched in impressive silence to the vestibule to escort the bride, who was leaning upon the arm of her elder brother, Mr. Richard H. Long, to the altar. During this time the groom and his best man, Lieut. Charles G. Long, U. S. M. C. stood at the right of the altar in full uniform of the U. S. navy, and as the music became softer, the Rev. A. A. Ellsworth slowly read the marriage service, which was performed with a ring.

The bride was gowned in ivory white satin with collar and front of waist entirely covered with pearl passementrie; the veil was caught up with orange blossoms, and she carried bride roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Marie Thayer of Braintree. The bridemaids, Miss Elsie Drinkwater, Miss Miriam Lane, Miss Lillian Merritt of Braintree, and Miss Bertha Burrill of South Weymouth, who were charming in yellow organdie, cut decollete, with bouquets of white pinks, with asparagus and trails of smilax the gift of groom.

The ushers were Mr. Thomas P. Harrison, Mr. Henry A. Thayer, Mr. E. Stanwood Hollis and Mr. Harold C. Stevens, all of Braintree.

A reception followed the ceremonies at the residence of the bride's mother on River street. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Eliza Long, the bride's mother; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Long, Lieut. C. G. Long, Mrs. Matthew Alderson of Bozeman, Montana, and the maid of honor. The decorations at the house were of green and white.

The bride gave the bridemaids gold laurel wreath pins, and the groom gave the ushers scarf pins and gloves.

Mr. Mitchell is stationed at Newport, R. I., and the future residence of the happy couple will be at that fashionable resort. They will be at home at 108 Church street, after October 15.

A Reminder.

As announced last week the Hospital Aid Association will hold its September meeting Thursday of this week, October third. The October meeting will be as usual upon the last Thursday in the month. The President trusts the hard work and dissipation of the fair will not prevent a full attendance on the third. Anyone wishing to contribute fruit, jam or jelly for the use of the hospital, will find at this meeting a few dozen empty tumblers sent from there. If these can be returned filled they will prove a great addition to the winter supplies. A full report of the proceeds of the fair will be given Thursday, as well as the usual reports.

Hospital Contributions.

The festival committee have received from

Mrs. E. W. H. Bass	$25 00
Contributions previously received	403 75
	$428 75

Among the exhibits at the Brockton fair, which opens today, is a very handsome quilt, made entirely by hand without the use of a thimble, by James E. Tewksbury, an employe of the Dorchester Beacon, during his spare hours.

As stated in Tuesday's LEDGER 135 gallons of ice cream was disposed of at the Hospital fair, which was an average of 45 gallons per day. This may seem small but when figured down is looks larger. Each gallon makes 25 dishes and thus the total number of dishes would be 3,375. Then allowing that the fair was open eight hours per day it would mean that 2¼ dishes were served every minute which shows the amount of work done by the man who dished it and the ladies who served it.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

The Wollaston Hotel is closed.

Many of our people are at the Brockton fair today.

J. W. Pratt is building a house on Merry Mount road.

Sherman Gould, clerk for E. H. Doble & Co., is enjoying his vacation at Portland, Me.

Samuel Allen of the Quincy camp, S. of V., visited the camp at Brockton Monday evening.

M. F. Drinkwater has entered his grey mare Mollie June in the 2.35 pacing class at Brockton, today.

There were 25 applications to the Quincy court for naturalization during the last two weeks of September.

The young people of the West Quincy Methodist church are arranging for a social at an an early date.

The Craig & Richards Granite Co. has shipped seven loads of monuments to the Brockton fair for an exhibit.

Mr. Thurber of Boston will open a class in dancing and department in Faxon hall, Thursday evening, Oct 10.

Mr. Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., of Quincy Point is married tonight at Francistown, N. H, to Miss Edith Woodbury.

The Quincy lodges of the Knights of Honor have received an invitation to a union meeting at Brockton, Oct. 24.

Mr. Ellis Hollingsworth of Braintree and Miss Elsie Littlefield of Neponset will be married at Unity church, Neponset, tonight.

Hodenosaunee Tribe of Wollaston will adopt two pale faces and advance five to the Hunter's degree at its meeting Thursday evening.

The burning of the steamers Forest City and Katahdin at Houghs Neck, on Tuesday evening, made a brilliant spectacle from the Wollaston Hills.

Many in South and West Quincy took the blaze from the burning vessel at Houghs Neck for the Box 26 alarm and thought the Centre really had a large fire.

Mayor Hodges is in New York and City Clerk Keith is officiating. Today, however, Mr. Keith is at the convention, and it is Mayor Burgin if he is in town.

The torch was applied yesterday afternoon to the old vessels at Nut Island which have been stripped during the summer and were burned for the old junk they contained.

In responding to the fire last evening one of the engineers came in collision with Dr. Wites of Boston, who was driving to North Weymouth. It was a narow escape, no one being hurt.

Councilman John P. Bigelow is now a stock and bond broker, as will be seen by a card today. He is the senior member of the firm of Bigelow & Co., who make gold mining a specialty.

Angelo Lucanio while in the woods at Weymouth, Tuesday, was taken for a bird by a sportsman and as a result his face was filled full of bird shot. The wounds although painful are not serious.

At the meeting of the Republican executive committee held Tuesday evening, next Tuesday evening Oct. 8, at 7.45 o'clock, was fixed as the time for holding the Republican representative convention.

The Wollasten Cycle club parade, which was advertised to occur on the 4th has been, on account of a full moon that evening postponed until the evening of the 10th, Thursday. Route of parade will be advertised later.

W. F. Macy, who has been quite successful as a real estate agent at Houghs Neck, will manage the Greenleaf park property recently purchased of the Greenleaf Land Associates. Additional land has been laid out and the land will be boomed.

In the trial of Albee at Plymouth for the murder of Leaman, Oliver H. Leaman of Quincy, a brother of the murdered man identified a pocket book and bag as being like those carried by his brother, and that he had seen them a month before his death in Quincy.

Mr. W. G. Corthell had a narrow escape from being killed at the Wollaston station on Tuesday forenoon. He was crossing the tracks when a train came on to him before he was aware of its presence. It would seem as if it was about time for the Wollaston people to appeal to the commissioners for better protection.

Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows of this city is one of the oldest in the jurisdiction although it once surrendered its charter. It was reinstituted March 10, 1884, under very favorable circumstances and is today one of the leading orders in Quincy, with a membership of about 200. Tomorrow evening the 50th anniversary will be observed in their hall.

At the last meeting of John Adams Council, 1210, R. A., of Wollaston, an invitation was received from Brockton Council to join in a union meeting to be held at Brockton on the evening of Oct. 23. Negotiations are pending, which it is hoped will result favorably, so that members may be conveyed to and from Brockton by special electric car.

—Mrs. Sarah Littlefield of Milton, 85 years of age, is visiting her grand-daughter and great-grand children at Campello.

A Bible Courtship.

A young gentleman at church conceived a most sudden and violent passion for a young lady in the next pew, and felt desirous of entering into a courtship on the spot, but the place not suiting a formal declaration the exigency suggested the following plan: He politely handed his fair neighbor a Bible, open, with a pin stuck in the following text—second epistle of John, verse 5: "And now I beseech thee, lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, that we love one another." She returned it with the following—second chapter of Ruth, verse 10: "Then she fell on her face and bowed herself to the ground, and said unto him, why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldst take notice of me, seeing I am a stranger?" He returned the book, pointing to verse 12 of the third epistle of John, "Having many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper and ink, but I trust to come unto you and speak face to face." From the above interview the marriage took place the coming week.—Scottish American.

Who Can Answer This Conundrum?

In the memoirs of Baron Stockmar is a note by his son, the editor of the work, in these words:

"There were not wanting instances of shamelessness against which he had to defend himself. A rich Englishman, an author and member of parliament, called upon him one day and promised to give him £10,000 if he would further his petition to the queen for a peerage. Stockmar replied: 'I will now go into the next room in order to give you time. If upon my return I still find you here I shall have you turned out by the servants.'"

Very creditable, of course, to Stockmar, considering his circumstances and position. The incident occurred in the early forties apparently, and there were not many rich Englishmen at that period who were both "authors and members of parliament." But I am not aware that anybody has as yet identified the would be corrupter of the immaculate baron. Who could he have been? And did he get his peerage in the end?—London World.

A Kentucky War Story.

An old Confederate soldier said recently: "I remember an occasion where a colored man, a body servant to General Forrest, saved his life. The general had broken two swords, and the servant rushed forward and handed him another to defend himself with. This occurred at Sacramento, a little village in McLean county, and the combat was with John Williams, the grandfather of John McIntire, the artist, who lived in Owensboro for some time. Mr. Williams was a gallant Federal soldier, who had served in the Mexican war and made a good fight. He fought so well that General Forrest paroled him and accompanied him to his home in the neighborhood and asked his wife to bind up his wound and care for him, saying that so brave a man deserved the best of care and attention."—Owensboro (Ky.) Inquirer.

An Early Betrothal.

In the early days of California the daughters of the Lugos were sought in marriage by the best families of the state. It was a boast that they were even courted in the cradle, as when the young officer, Colonel Ignacio Vallejo, being in San Luis Obispo on the occasion of the birth of a daughter to the Lugos, asked her father for the hand of the day old baby, provided when the time came to fulfill the contract the senorita should be willing. This seemingly absurd betrothal took place. The child grew up to be an intelligent as well as attractive young woman, married her betrothed and became the mother of many children, among them Mariano Guadalupe Vallejo.—Overland Monthly.

A Business Opportunity.

A business opportunity doesn't always mean a chance to get work. Its a business opportunity to be able to get and keep on hand, a box of TAYLOR'S ANTI-HEADACHE POWDERS, to be used to clear the head of the excruciating pains of headache. Guaranteed absolutely harmless. Cure any headache in 5 minutes. Get them of Leonard J. Pastor, Ph. G., 27 School street.

—The Roman Catholic university in Washington is to open its doors to women on precisely the same terms as men are received. In view of the traditional conservatism of the church whose highest educational institution is concerned, this makes a forward step as remarkable as it was unexpected. There was opposition to this departure, but the liberality of Bishop Keane, rector of the university, has carried the day.—Springfield Republican.

Slight Fire.

The alarm from Box 26 at 6.20 Tuesday evening called the fire department for the second time within a week to the residence of Hon. E. C. Bumpus on Goffe street. When the house was struck by lightning last week the chimney was probably damaged although it was not noticed at the time, and when a fire was built in the furnace Tuesday the sparks escaped and set fire to the roof and also filled the house with smoke. The flames were extinguished with but slight loss.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Gerrish was fined $5 for disturbing the peace at Quincy.

The continued case of John J. Connors of Quincy for drunkenness came up this morning when he retracted his plea of not guilty and pleaded nolo and was discharged upon payment of costs amounting to $1.

The Shakers have made a great hit. Their Digestive Cordial is said to be the most successful remedy for stomach troubles ever introduced. It immediately relieves all pain and distress after eating, builds up the feeble system and makes the weak strong.

The fact is, foods properly digested are better than so called tonics. The Cordial not only contains food already digested, but is a digester of other foods. Food that is not digested does more harm than good. People who use the Cordial insure the digestion of what food they eat and in this way get the benefit of it and grow strong.

The little phamplets which the Shakers have sent to druggists for free distribution, contain much interesting information on the subject of dyspepsia.

Laxol is not a mixture of drugs. It is nothing but Castor Oil made palatable.

THE A. P. A. QUESTION

Likely to Be the Predominant Factor In Massachusetts Politics.

Democrats Nominate George F. Williams For Governor.

Banquet and Speeches Preceded the Convention at Worcester.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 2.—The Democrats are here by hundreds, attending their state convention, which begun at 11 today at Huntington hall.

The convention was called to order by Hon. John W. Corcoran, chairman of the state committee. Josiah Quincy was the presiding officer.

Hon. John E. Russell, who has worked so faithfully and so long for the Democracy, and who has himself for two years been the standard bearer in this state, presented the name of George Fred Williams to the convention and moved his nomination.

C. C. Spellman of Springfield, who has represented that city in the house and senate, was nominated for lieutenant governor.

Edward J. Flynn of Boston was nominated for secretary of state.

James S. Grinnell of Greenfield, that old warhorse of the party, was once more nominated for treasurer and receiver general.

A. C. Whitney of Boston, who was the candidate last year for auditor, fills the same position on the ticket this year.

Henry F. Hurlburt of Lynn will represent Essex county as the party candidate for attorney general.

Mr. Williams accepted the nomination in the following speech:

Speech of Acceptance.

MR. CHAIRMAN AND DELEGATES—No man can meet the greatest honor of his life without the highest gratitude to those who confer it, and a sense of responsibility that the principles for which he has contended are trustingly placed in his keeping.

Such a trust does not change in value from failure or success at the polls, because in the battle of contending parties, principles, more than men, appeal to the public for a verdict. Consciousness of conscientious performance of political duty, the man is called by his own associates to bear the standard at the front, it would not be human if a sense of pride and triumph did not possess him when he accepted the duty.

I know what is expected of me, and I need not say what so many well know, that I should have preferred in this year, as in the last, to give my strength in support of another candidate with whom I never had, and fear I never shall have, the right to compare myself. If I did my duty to the party last year, it was under the impulse of an inspiring leader who this year has declined for good reasons of his own to take the responsibilities which are now put upon me.

The success of our cause will on Nov. 5 be in the hands of the people; until then I shall share with others the duty of presenting the arguments which are to be made in behalf of the Democratic policy.

I have confidence that I have not been called to this leadership with the expectation that we may by silence or evasion upon any issue gain votes for our ticket. It is not material to me what are the prospects of success or failure, for I shall fight to win. I have a controlling confidence that the platform adopted by this convention will sooner or later be the will of a majority of our people. May I take advantage of this opportunity to suggest some considerations for the coming contest.

Two weeks ago I took it upon myself to trace out certain lines which seemed to me essential in the alignment of our forces this fall; and I may confess now that the suggestion of my name for this honorable candidacy led me to express my views early; first, in order that public sentiment might be seasonably tested, and, second, that I might not be nominated upon any misunderstanding of my views. I wished it known in advance that I could not refuse to award just approbation to anyone, even a political opponent, who joined us in reproving an upon the free, open discussion of the public welfare by patriots of any religion, race or political faith.

If, as has been alleged, my words have operated to expose the weakness of a hidden political cause, or even to strengthen a powerful political opponent, I have yet accomplished what I intended, deeming it to be of supreme importance to the state that its greatest dangers be first repelled and that no alliance to this end be discouraged or refused.

The second suggestion made at Springfield was that the Democracy undertake in this campaign the great work of legislative reform and purification. I am satisfied that the public heart has responded to this appeal. Let us now go to our labors seeking strong, earnest, just and honest men to represent the Democracy in our legislation, so that we may now or later command majorities with which to put our platform of today into living, operating legislation.

In my judgment this platform exposes the very roots of that corruption and incompetency which have grown up within the field of legislation so as to choke the progress of the state and to throw even a deadly shadow over the rights of the people. If we may have an honest and full discussion of our respective party policies, our legislative candidates may call their opponents to account for a policy of usurption of the popular will and popular rights which has at last brought our people to their knees in prayer for relief. Before the legislature, before legislative committees and before commissions of the commonwealth, I myself have made repeated attempts to secure what seemed to me to be undoubted public rights only to stand today aghast at the utter helplessness of private effort in the face of organized corruption and greed.

I have thought night and day how relief might be obtained and our commonwealth restored to a position in which it can at least have self-respect.

Plans Conscientiously Considered.

As your candidate now I enter your service at least after conscientious consideration of the remedies which your platform of today advocates. Let all legislative candidates now put this platform to the test before the people. There can be no doubt, on the one hand, what the established policy of the Republican party is which is to be extended into the future, to take away from the governor elected by the people every function which is not guaranteed by the constitution. Whereas the popular vote can approve or condemn a governor in his administration of the public business, the Republican party has placed this business absolutely beyond the reach of the people or their executive.

If, indeed, public affairs are in this republic to be continued in the hands of the people, how, under Republican policy, can this will be made effective? Commission after commission has been entrusted with executive power, the members of which have fixed tenure and who can be reached neither by any popular vote nor through removal by the governor. You cannot, through your vote or through your executive, punish these irresponsible executives, even for the worst wrongdoing.

Not satisfied with making captive the business of the commonwealth, the Republican party proposes to wrench the hands of the people from the control even of their home interests. Even the police power, the protection of home, life, property, is being now progressively removed from the reach of the people, and the hands of the law are not the hands of the people or their servants, but of independent, autocratic, undemocratic and irresponsible masters.

Together with this system has gone the policy of creating powerful corporations to make profit from the necessities of the people. Your streets, built at the expense of hard-earned millions, are turned over without compensation to corporations created by the state, which are now organized together to withstand the just demands of the public and to meet by the unlimited expenditure of money and political power even the fair claims of our citizens upon their own legislature for protective measures. Not only have these combinations obtained apparently complete control of legislative action, but they have used the Republican party policy to entrench themselves behind the adamantine walls of irresponsible commissions.

I beg to ask this one pregnant question: As against these policies, powers and combinations, who represents the rights of the people? Where is the defender against the encroachments of power?

Alas, there is none, and I venture to assert that there will be none until the platform this day adopted shall have given to the Democratic party the control of the legislature and therewith the remedy which this day we offer to the people.

In the days when the plebs of Rome triumphed over an aristocracy of wealth and family, an office was devised which should forever shield and maintain the rights and privileges of the people. This office was held by one who was called the tribune of the people. He was elected, as the historian Gibbon tells us, to defend the oppressed, to pardon offenses, to arraign the enemies of the people, and when he adjudged it necessary to stop by a single word the whole machine of government. This official was elected by the commons. He had no robes of office, no official chair and no troop of lictors, but his person was sacred, he was the court of final appeal, and his doors must be open to suppliants

By Night as Well as by Day.

There is now no tribune to whom the people of this commonwealth can appeal, but we can at least give to the governor, who is elected by the whole people, the power, through responsible subordinates, to stand responsible for the redress of grievances and the assertion of the just rights of the public.

With the giant forces which now under a Republican administration stand opposed to popular rights it is time that at least some David were invested with a sling. If we shall obtain this champion of the public rights then we may proceed well organized to the reform of legislative abuses.

We propose today legislation which shall bring back some, at least, of the people's right to control their own highways, over which they, their goods and their comforts are now conveyed by private corporations. We insist that these private bodies shall no longer be conducted merely for private profit, but with full accountability to the public for honest administration, just compensation and the highest efficiency. Until these corporations are put upon the basis of justice to themselves and to the community, they will be regarded by the people as enemies, not friends; they will imperil pure government, and not maintain it.

Reduce these corporations to their proper basis as public servants, and not, as now, public masters, and the arm of the lobby will be paralyzed and the fruitful seeds of legislative corruption will wither and die. With such a purpose, Democrats of Massachusetts, with such a plan honestly devised, we ask discussion with our opponents and for the ultimate approval of the people.

Declaration of Principles.

The platform which was presented to the convention contains a short, incisive reference to the A. P. A., decrying its influence and existence.

Another plank declares in favor of the gold standard for government moneys and praises President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle for their courage and persistence in stirring up the country to an appreciation of the financial situation when the leaders of the Republican party paid no attention to the situation.

The tariff plank says that the effect of the new tariff law has just begun to appear, and asks the people to withhold their judgment until the whole favorable consequences of the new statute have become known.

Still another plank asks for legislation to make the corporations which hold public francnises, railroads and the like more under the control of the state. This part of the platform insists that the people ought to know more about the standing of such corporations and that some official of the state should be given power to investigate their affairs and tell their true standing.

Good Cheer Prevailed.

The Young Men's Democratic club of Massachusetts gave a banquet at the Lincoln House last evening, at which about 200 members and guests were present. The president of the club, Charles E. Stratton of Milford, presided, and after dinner addresses were made by Mr. Stratton, Nathan Matthews, Jr., of Boston, John E. Russell of Leicester, John W. Corcoran of Clinton, Josiah Quincy, John F. Fitzgerald of Boston, ex-Governor Russell, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hamlin and George F. Williams.

Ex-Mayor Matthews of Boston suggested that if the Republicans wanted to rid themselves of the A. P. A. they should adopt a resolution at their state convention Saturday condemning it by name, and refuse any of its friends a voice in the party deliberations.

Messrs. Corcoran and Quincy urged the voters to stand shoulder to shoulder in the campaign, and Messrs. Fitzgerald and John E. Russell replied to Congressman Walker's speech before the Massachusetts club last Saturday, and especially took him to task for what he said about the impeachment of Cleveland.

Ex-Governor Russell said the case of the Democracy against the A. P. A. was based on three great principles, the right of every citizen to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, the necessity of popular education and the establishment of the public school system, and the recognition by the state of the rights of parents over the religious training of their children.

Hon. George Fred Williams said: "I took the liberty a fortnight ago to attempt to speak what I thought to be the mind of the Democracy of this commonwealth on the A. P. A. I held out the hand of friendship to the man who I thought might be strengthened as a political opponent upon ordinary political questions, because I thought I saw in his words and his deeds an ally in a contest which I believe must be fought out before any other. I wish to see now whether the party that gentleman heads has the courage to sustain him in his position. If it does, we may have at last eliminated from our politics a deadly and miserable question. If it does not, we must keep up the fight. We shall see next week."

Texas Solons Meet.

AUSTIN, Oct. 2.—The Texas legislature met yesterday with a quorum present. The governor in his message reviews the laws against prize fighting in Texas, calling attention to the errors therein. Several bills, strictly anti-prize-fight, were introduced in both houses, and adjournment was had till today.

The Net Receipts From the Hospital Festival.

It Was Voted to Hold Another Festival Next Year.

And It Is Possible that Trustees Will Erect a Large Hall.

The general committee on the Hospital festival held a meeting at City Hall, Tuesday evening, to wind up the affairs of the recent festival. There are, however, some returns yet to be heard from as well as some bills to pay that have not yet come in.

Each committee was called upon for a report and the reports made were very gratifying, but in many cases, particularly that of the ticket committee, were not complete.

The net receipts from the several committees as far as known are as follows:

Sales Committee,	$1,110.07
Refreshment,	412 53
Confectionery,	300 00
Entertainment,	187.00
Tickets,	1,800 00
Street railway fares,	342.40
Gypsy camp,	26 55
Shooting gallery,	29.00
Contributions,	439.75
	$4,647.30

It is thought that when everything is settled up the net receipts will not be far from $5,000.

It was voted that all bills be presented to the executive committee for approval and settlement.

Mr. Rice said this festival had been gotten up in a hurry and that mistakes had been made but none intentionally and he hoped that the citizens would overlook anything that might feel like a slight. The festival was certainly a great success, even if a cent had not been made, for it was a good thing to get the people together. The Hospital needs and must have the good feeling of all, and he would move that the matter of thanks be left in the hands of the executive committee which was carried.

Mr. Rice was grateful for what the press had done and moved that a vote of thanks be extended for the manner in which they had written up the festival which was also carried.

The Quincy bicycle was then awarded to number 37 which was held by Edwin B. Pratt.

The disposition of the Lovell Diamond bicycle, Italian statuary, and other articles on books were left in the hands of the executive and sales committees.

The carpet sweeper on the West Quincy table was awarded to number 23, which was held by Mrs. Johnson of Willard street.

Albert Keating moved that it be the sense of this meeting that another festival be held next year.

Mr. Rice hoped to see an expression of opinion. Nothing would be more pleasing to the trustees than to know that some plan could be formed to take care of the Hospital. A circus could come to town and carry away thousands of dollars and people would get no more enjoyment from it than at the recent festival. One might be arranged so as not to draw too heavily upon any one person. Some of the ladies have worked too hard. He would be glad to see a Hospital fair committee as a result of this motion.

To carry on the work of the Hospital $10,000 was needed every year. We are sure of $5,000 from the endowment fund, etc. We ought to have $4,000 or $5,000 every year besides what we are sure of. Our endowment fund now is $35,000; it should be $100,000. The Hospital should be enlarged. If it was sure of something of this kind every year he thought the wing needed could be built within a year. There should be a hall for festivals and large gatherings in Quincy. The Hospital has the land, but trustees do not feel as though they should build at present, but if this should become a success the trustees would be able to build for $15,000 He thought $1,000 could be raised next year. If anyone was in touch with persons about to make their will he hoped that they would not forget to mention the Hospital.

Mr. Moxon thought it would be a good thing for Quincy if the trustees could see their way clear to build the hall now. Evening sales should take place under cover. He believed a permanent organization might be made which would make a steady income for the Hospital. Quincy needs a large hall for many purposes.

The motion of Mr Keating that another festival be held next year was carried.

It was then voted that when this committee adjourn it be until the first Monday in May, 1896

It was also voted that the executive committee make its report through the press.

Adjourned.

BEAUTY IS POWER.
Perfection of Form, Feature, and Mind Render Women All-powerful.
[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]
Yet blended with those perfections must be perfect health. Women are today stronger in their character, better in their nature, truer in their love, warmer in their affections, than they ever were.

But most women do not know themselves; and often when their influence is doing the most good, break down. They drift gradually and unconsciously into that tempestuous sea of woman's diseases. Then they should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restores natural cheerfulness, destroys despondency, cures leucorrhœa, — the great forerunner of serious womb trouble, — relieves backache, strengthens the muscles of the womb, and restores it to its normal condition, regulates menstruations, removes inflammation, ulceration, and tumors of the womb, etc.

It is a remedy of a woman for women. Millions of women owe the health they enjoy, and the influence they exert, to Mrs. Pinkham; and the success of her Vegetable Compound has never been equalled in the field of medicine for the relief and cure of all kinds of female complaints. So say the druggists.

Here is another one of thousands who speaks that others may know the truth:—

"For five years I suffered with falling of the womb, and all the dreadful aches and pains that accompany the disease. I tried several doctors and different medicines, until I lost all faith in everything. I had not tried your Compound. I watched your advertisements from day to day, and each day became more hopeful. At last I resolved to try it. I have taken seven bottles, and have gained forty pounds. My pains have all left me, and I am a well woman. I do all my own work, and can walk two miles without feeling tired. Your Compound has been worth its weight in gold to me. I cannot praise it enough." MATILDA EHNAM, Columbia, Lancaster Co., Pa.

The Sweetin Apple Tree.

That high top sweetin useter stand
Right on our way ter school,
Stood thare ter coax us boys ter break
Command an golden rule.

Part of the tree wuz 'hind the wall,
Part 'truded on the road
An hung them sweetin apples out
Our appertites ter goad.

Ef any boy could pass that tree
An not let fly a stick,
He must ha' been a angel boy
Or else a boy that's sick.

Ole Deacon Jinkings useter say,
" 'Tis cur'us unter me
Why all them sticks an stuns an clubs
Should k'lect beneath that tree."

Oh, high top sweetin apple tree!
Schooldays when we ware young!
Them very words bring smiles an tears
When slippin off the tongue.

Whare air them keerless barefoot boys
That clubbed that tree with me?
Thay're layin low ter shoot them boys
As club our sweetin tree.

NO INDICTMENT

Found Against William Henry, Suspected of His Father's Murder.

WILLIAM HENRY, THE BAD SON.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 2.—In the Henry case the grand jury declared the evidence insufficient to justify an indictment against William Henry, who was accused of having killed his father.

FERDINAND'S COUP.

Baptism to Play an Important Part In Politics of Bulgaria.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The infant Prince Boris, son of Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, will be baptized in the Russian Orthodox faith on Oct. 30 next.

The celebration of that baptism might insure Prince Ferdinand his reconciliation with Russia, and consequently his recognition by the powers as the legitimate sovereign of Bulgaria, of which he has been only the de facto ruler. It might show also that political ambition had got the better of his religious sentiments, for he is a strong Roman Catholic, like his mother, Princess Clementine of the Orleanist house, and his wife, the Duchess of Parma.

Ferdinand must have had a hard fight before convincing them of the necessity of making an Orthodox Greek out of young Prince Boris, now two years old, and this is why absolute confidence better not be placed in the correctness of the information. If it proves to be true, the principal grievance of Russia against the Bulgarian sovereign will have disappeared.

It is likely that the Russian government would not require Ferdinand himself to abjure his faith and become orthodox. The baptism of his presumptive heir would be considered a sufficient token of his willingness to follow in the tread of Muscovite ideas and policy. The two other articles of the Zankoff program would be easily executed.

A New Departure.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—With the dedication yesterday of McMahon hall, the central and most beautiful building of the Catholic university group, that institution enters upon the work of education in secular branches. The dedication ceremonies were held in the presence of a distinguished assemblage, representing the dignitaries of the church from every section of the country.

The Cholera Plague.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—The steamer City of Pekin arrived yesterday from China and Japan, and went immediately into quarantine. When she left Yokohoma cholera was raging there. It is feared that the disease will linger until late in the winter. In northern Japan there has been little change in the status of the disease.

Turkey's Side of It.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2. — The Turkish legation has received the following telegram from Constantinople: "Under the instigation of certain Armenian agitators, hostile gatherings were formed opposite and in the neighborhood of the Armenian patriarchat. Thanks to the measures taken, the city is perfectly calm."

SYRACUSE, Oct. 2.—The Syracuse Post prints letters from members of the Republican national committee in 22 states endorsing the suggestion of a reunion next year of the survivors of the first Republican convention at the 40th anniversary of the birth of the Republican party.

Saving Her Cargo.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 2. — Steamer Mariposa is still hanging on the rocks, while several steamers are engaged in taking out the cargo salvage. If she does not go to pieces, nearly all the cargo, except the grain, will be saved.

China Apologizes All Round.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—It is announced that China has accorded full satisfaction to France for the recent attack made upon the French missions in China.

Lexow's Popularity.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Oct. 2.—State Senator Clarence Lexow was renominated yesterday by the Republican convention of the wenty-third district.

Gold Nuggets.

The structure of gold nuggets was the subject of a paper recently read before the New South Wales Royal society by Professor Liverbridge. Among other facts stated was the peculiarity of such nuggets, on being cut through or sliced and polished and then etched by chlorine water, of exhibiting a well marked crystalline structure closely resembling the figures shown by most metallic meteorites. On heating such nuggets in a Bunsen burner blebs or blisters form on both the polished and unpolished surfaces, and on still more strongly heating these in some cases burst with sharp reports, and pieces of gold are projected with considerable violence. As no explosions have been observed on dissolving or eating away the crusts of these blisters by chlorine water it is thought that the blebs may probably be due to the evaporization of some liquid or solid substance. Further, in slicing some nuggets, scattered granules of quartz were met with inside, although quite invisible outside. At first it was supposed that such explosions might be due to the quartz, but the gas in some instances continued to issue from the burst bleb—where the aperture formed was small—and forced the Bunsen flame out into lateral, just as if urged by a blowpipe.

The Samoan Mascot.

In time of war it is the tapo's duty to lead on to combat the warriors of her village, and she is often in the thick of the skirmishing, but should she be wounded or killed it is a pure accident, as the Samoans have the greatest horror of hurting a woman in any way, and would not even injure their enemy's tapo. There is a story told of how, during the war which was carried on in Upolu for a considerable time, five or six years ago, two armies had met and were drawn up, blazing into each other's lines, when a native woman appeared with a cow she wished to place in safety. The entire firing was immediately suspended on both sides till she and her charge had crossed the lines and were completely out of harm's way.

The women could rely so thoroughly on the gallantry of their countrymen that they had no fear during the fighting, and would take food to their husbands and brothers at any time, and pass through the ranks of the warriors of the belligerent army with perfect impunity; as long as the daylight lasted and they could be easily seen they were quite safe.—"In Stevenson's Samoa," Marie Fraser.

Engraving on Glass.

A most ingeniously contrived machine for engraving on glass, insuring the rapid and economic production of decorative work in that line, as also in metal manufactures of every variety, is described in The English Mechanic. Among the merits claimed for this device is the fact of there being no limit to the number of objects that may be operated upon simultaneously, with a perfect uniformity of workmanship, and further, the facility with which this machine, being of 12 multiplying power, can be operated upon and replaced with fresh objects, is another important characteristic, and three different patterns may be produced in one hour on a single machine. The construction of this apparatus fulfills the desideratum of great simplicity, it would appear; that is, the globes, or whatever is to be engraved, are fixed on platforms in two upright cylindrical forms, these platforms being raised or lowered as desired by means of a handle, and the engraving needles are applied or let off by a touch of the treadle—the pattern to be followed resting on a board at the back.

Where Franklin Flew His Kite.

Colonel Enoch Taylor of this city, speaking of the researches of the savants into the vagaries of lightning, remarked that probably there were few people who ever gave a thought when they crossed Spring Garden street in the vicinity of Thirteenth street that they were walking over the spot where Benjamin Franklin flew his kite. Yet such is the fact. A diagonal line from the southeast corner of what is now known as Thirteenth street to Spring Garden will about cover the space in which "Poor Richard" drew lightning from the clouds. It was a bare field then, with a few farms and country houses scattered around. Bostonians fondly imagine that it was on Boston Common Franklin conducted his experiments. That's a mistake. It was in the Quaker City and on the spot referred to. —Philadelphia Times.

Daudet.

M. Daudet, the eminent French author, was for a long time an usher in a second rate school on a pittance which scarcely sufficed to keep body and soul together. After a time he grew sick of this hard and unremunerative kind of work, and then made his way to Paris, where he arrived with only a capital of two shillings and a bundle of poems. He was fortunate enough to find a publisher for the latter almost at once, and it was not very long before he obtained journalistic employment, which kept him going until he found novel writing sufficiently lucrative to provide him with a living. Now he can command almost any price he likes to ask for his books and articles, and must be a very wealthy man.—Paris Letter.

It will be pleasant to learn that Mr. Potter's next venture is to be in collaboration with Bill Nye. They are busy at work on a comedy, which, with Mr. Potter's cultured talent for dramatic construction and his experience in stage literature, Nye's crude and inexhaustible humor, his wit and philosophical turn, ought to be a great go.—Chicago News.

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

IV.

The first warcry of the still unborn republic, "No taxation without representation," is falsely quoted now as a warcry for woman suffrage. There is no true connection, historical or ethical, between representation as our forefathers then meant it and universal suffrage. Their cry had no reference to individual powers or privileges. It was a collective cry from an oppressed people, practically enslaved because their interests—not themselves individually—were not represented in the British parliament. If the interests of the women of America, collectively considered, are not represented at the polls, then they too may consider themselves oppressed and enslaved and refuse to pay their taxes.

The true basis of the justice of taxation is not the permission to take active part in the government. "The protection of the government," says Judge Cooley in his "Law of Taxation," "being the consideration for which taxes are demanded, all parties who receive, or are entitled to that protection, may be called upon to render the equivalent." If our government does not recognize the equal claims of men and women to receive its protection, or if, when it fails to give equal protection in certain respects, we can show that only woman suffrage is likely to induce it to, then, and then only, we may rightly raise the old cry, "No taxation without representation," and give it a new meaning.

This would be more generally understood if certain people had not got into the habit of calling women a separate "class" of citizens. They are not a special, distinct class of citizens, with corporate interests unembraced in the corporate interests of the community as a whole. Physiologically they differ from men, and this fact has brought about certain differences in legislative action with regard to the two sexes, notably as affects participation in the work of running our government. But as social factors, as children of the state, they are inextricably mingled with men—as inextricably as they are in family and business life. And the great majority of legislative acts must hurt or help men and women in equal measure. When negroes are legislated for, or farmers, or bankers, or fishermen, are not the women of the class as nearly, as directly affected as the men? Women do not go to sea for codfish or whales or seals. But the wives and daughters of the men who do are as keenly interested as themselves in the laws which protect their lives and labors. And, conversely, American men are as deeply concerned as American women in legislation which affects the property rights of women, the moral safety of young girls, the welfare of the children of the poor.

Are we prepared to say that this is not so? Or do we desire to say that it ought not to be so—that women must specially care for their own interests, which implies, of course, that men may specially care for their own? Do we wish to evolve into separate "classes," saying, "The best interests of American women are not identical with those of American men?" Is this what we do in our families, in society, in the church or in business?

To my mind nothing more dangerous could be said to American women today than that they need, as women, specially to care for the interests of women. These cannot be separated, except in certain minor points, from the interests of men. Our men have never desired to separate them. And the blood of the happiness of our country will be upon our own heads if we set them the example and they are tempted to follow it. The ruin of our country will lie at our doors if we do aught to cultivate this, the most horrible and pernicious kind of selfishness—antagonism between the sexes—for from the growth of woman's love and respect for man and of man's love and respect for woman, resulting in the consciousness that their best interests are indeed and in truth identical, all the progress, all the happiness of the world have grown.

I do not pretend to say in how far these feelings might be fostered or injured by the establishment of woman suffrage. But I do say that the tenor of the propaganda in favor of woman suffrage has often done much and is now doing very much to injure them, at least among our own sex.

An advocate of woman suffrage writes to me that, nevertheless, "it is a mockery to call those free who have no voice in framing the laws they are forced to obey." Of course this statement is true. But the manner in which the writer construes it is typical, I am sorry to say, of the manner in which a great many true statements are being construed just now. When we pronounce axioms, we should be careful to respect the genuine sense of the words which compose them.

Is it needful that in this connection "a voice" should be understood as meaning "a vote?" Every person has a voice in the making of our laws who plays a part in influencing any individual voter, or in helping to form that deep and strong voice called public opinion which influences all voters, and the collective result of which is the collective vote of a community.

By their fruits ye shall know them—ye shall know those who visibly act and also those who mold the course of their action.

Have women really had "no voice" in the making of laws like those of New York and Massachusetts? Are they justified in feeling that they must "protect their own interests" by means of the ballot box? May they not believe that, if further legislation specially favoring them is needed, it will come in the established way—through the votes cast by men whose conscientiousness it lies so largely in their own power to develop, whose thoughts and actions are so largely determined by their own influence, consciously or unconsciously exerted? And should they not see that their task, which no man can take away from them and in which no man can replace them, is to mold public opinion, to form and train, inspire and reward the executive sex?

It has been said that only ignoble minds can be content with indirect action in the political field—with power at second instead of first hand, with influence instead of a share in control. But why is this true of politics more than of other things? And if it were true of everything, could any good work ever be done? No one works to himself or herself alone, and no one's mind and life are trained or guided by himself or herself alone. Behind all people who do worthy things stand others to whose help their power of action is due. In some noble tasks it is men who thus stand behind a woman; in others it is women who stand behind a man. And in both cases the rôle of the Aaron and the Hur is as important as the rôle of the Moses.

DEMOCRATS' DEMANDS

Bay Staters Call For a Gold Basis For the National Obligations.

Government Should Withdraw From Banking.

The A. P. A. and Home Rule For Cities Receive Attention.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 3.—The Democratic state convention of '95 has made its declaration of principles, nominated its state ticket and declared its confidence in making great gains in the coming campaign. Mr. Williams held an impromptu reception, and the convention was dissolved with the heavy thump of the gavel in the hands of Chairman Quincy.

It was found necessary to make a change in the plan for nominating a candidate for lieutenant governor. It was agreed Tuesday night to nominate James W. Hull of Pittsfield for the second office on the ticket. Word came from him yesterday that he would prefer to be excused. James S. Grinnell of Greenfield was asked to step into the breech, and, giving his consent, he was nominated for lieutenant governor.

It was the original intention to nominate Mr. Grinnell for treasurer, but, as he was placed higher up on the ticket, a new man had to be found for this place. Eben S. Stevens of Dudley was selected. He is a prominent manufacturer in his town, and has been a member of the Massachusetts senate.

The full text of the platform, as offered by Mr. Coughlin of Fall River, chairman of committee on resolutions, follows:

The Platform.

The Democrats of Massachusetts, in convention assembled, again declare their allegiance to the principles of government formulated by Thomas Jefferson and illustrated by a long line of distinguished successors from Madison to Cleveland. We commend the present administration for its dignified, energetic and patriotic management of our foreign affairs, for the economies and reforms effected in the various branches of the federal service, and for the many improvements in the civil service, particularly the recent order concerning foreign consuls.

We congratulate the manufacturing interests of Massachusetts on the successful operation of the present tariff. While we renew our regret that the full advantages of the bill as it came from the house were not realized, the placing of important raw materials of manufacture on the free list is already producing beneficial results. We call attention to the marked increase in the exports of our manufactured goods as an index of the enlargement of our foreign commerce, which under the reduced duties will furnish a sufficient revenue for the legitimate needs of the government.

We demand the maintenance of the existing gold standard of value, and that the government shall keep all its obligations at all times redeemable in gold.

We oppose the free coinage of silver and any further purchase of silver bullion on government account.

We reaffirm the demands of our platform of last year that the government shall not carry on a banking business, that the untaxed notes of state or national banks shall be the only credit currency, and that the government shall, with the development of a banking system adequate to the demands of trade, retire as rapidly as possible all its paper money.

State Issues.

In state affairs we firmly believe that every city in the state should be allowed to govern itself. We denounce the efforts of the Republican party to centralize the police power of cities in the governor of the state as a deadly blow at local self-government and libel on every community affected by such legislation. We arraign the Republican party for foisting upon cities, for partisan purposes, a system of guardianship at variance with the free exercise of the rights of their inhabitants. This autocratic method, adopted to thwart the will of majorities, is another proof that the Republican party lacks confidence in the people.

Bad roads constitute a heavy tax upon any community. Sound economy requires the improvement of highways for the use of vehicles of all kinds and we favor all practicable steps in this direction.

Corporations to which power is granted to use the public ways or to take private property by right of eminent domain we hold to be incorporated for a public purpose, to be accountable for a just and reasonable exercise of their powers, and bound to make reasonable compensation to the community for the special privileges enjoyed.

Rules For Corporations.

To make the policy of this commonwealth respecting these organizations conform more closely to that obtaining in other states and foreign countries, we demand:

(1) That all franchises hereafter granted to such corporations shall be for a fixed term of years, during which the company shall pay to the commonwealth a fixed sum, percentage of receipts or profits, or other compensation, and the franchises shall not be revocable so long as these and other conditions are complied with.

(2) That cities and towns granting licenses for the use of the public ways shall be given power by contract to fix for a specified term additional compensation, terms and conditions for the use of the highways.

(3) That in respect to corporations now exercising such franchise, the legislature shall impose a tax on gross receipts, net profits, or such license fees as in each case shall be just, granting security of tenure in return.

(4) That the governor be given full power by appointment and removal over all state officers and commissioners who are not elected by the people, and thus be made responsible for the manner in which they perform their duties.

(5) That the number of legislative counsel and agents who may be employed by such corporations and the amount of money that may be expended by any person or corporation in securing or opposing legislation may be limited by law.

(6) That all such counsel and agents be requested to make sworn returns of the amounts received by them, of the purposes for which, and the persons to whom any moneys have been paid by them, and of the amount of said payments.

Special Attorney Recommended.

That in order to cure the present inability of the private citizen to secure redress for a breach of corporate duty, and to remedy the want of a public officer to represent the interests of the public before the various courts, judicial commissions and legislative committees that have jurisdiction in the matter, the legislature shall authorize the governor to appoint a special attorney directly responsible to him and through him to the people; this special attorney to be required to investigate all reasonable complaints against such corporations for failure to perform their public duties, and be given full power to investigate the accounts and papers of such corporations, and to make such presentation to the attorney general, governor and the legislature, as the circumstances may require; said special attorney to be granted sufficient appropriations by the legislature to cover reasonable expenses for assistance, experts and other agents necessary for the efficient performance of his duties.

Religious differences should find no place in American politics, and the Democratic party is unalterably opposed to the spirit of intolerant bigotry fostered for political purposes by those who seek to breed discord and animosities among the citizens of the republic. Secret political bodies are a curse to party, state and nation; we denounce the so-called American Protective association, its purposes, its methods and its allies. We welcome the assistance of all good citizens who will co-operate in the suppression of any political movement organized for religious proscription.

Urging the voters of Massachusetts to keep in mind the selfish, partisan and incompetent policy of the Republican party in state and national affairs, we confidently appeal to their intelligence and loyalty to free institutions to elect a Democratic governor and legislature for 1896.

Jeremiah T. O'Sullivan of Lawrence offered an additional plank to the effect that the Democracy of this state is opposed to a third presidential term. The resolution was referred without debate.

Interesting Case Settled.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 3.—When Clinton A. Woodbury died in his office a year ago there were suspicions that he had committed suicide. The Mutual Life Insurance company had two policies of $25,000 each on his life, and the New York Life had also two policies for $25,000 each. The insurance companies resisted payment, and suit was brought by David F. Murdock, who held one of the Mutual Life's $25,000 policies. That company settled yesterday by paying a portion of the policy. The other Mutual Life policy, in favor of the widow, will also be settled on the same terms. The New York Life has effected a settlement of its two $25,000 policies on private terms.

Murder and Arson Attempted.

BARRE, Vt., Oct. 3.—Burglars entered the farmhouse of George Rowell early yesterday morning, attempted to burn the buildings and, perhaps, fatally injured the farmer's wife. At the time of the dastardly deed, Mr. Rowell was at the barn milking the cows. The burglars entered the back door of the house, crept to the room where Mrs. Rowell was asleep, struck her over the head with a club, and then, after plundering the house, set fire to the kitchen. They took two gold watches and a small sum of money, but left no clew.

Boilers Not In Condition.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The American line steamship St. Paul yesterday attempted to make her preliminary trip over the government trial course, between Cape Ann and Cape Porpoise, but was compelled to abandon the trip, because of the serious priming or foaming of the boilers, due in great part to the fact that the water from the Delaware river, with which the boilers and water bottoms were filled, instead of being fresh water, as was supposed, was really quite brackish, and, therefore, totally unfit for steam-making purposes.

Suicide at Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 3.—Elliot F. Rogers of Chicago, an instructor in chemistry at Harvard, was found dead in one of the laboratories in Boylston hall yesterday afternoon. Rogers was a hard worker, and became completely broken down in health a year ago. At times he suffered from mental aberration, and his mind had seemed in an unstable condition of late, particularly so since college opened this fall. Dr. Driver and Medical Examiner Durell viewed the body and pronounced it a case of probable suicide.

Captain Swan Suspended.

CHELSEA, Mass., Oct. 3.—The police committee of the board of aldermen, before whom the charges were heard in which Chief Drury charged Captain Swan with being absent from duty without leave, finds the charge sustained, and that Captain Swan violated the rules and regulations of the police department, and sentences him to be suspended from the Chelsea police department for a period of 30 days, with loss of pay.

Working In a Good Cause.

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 3.—There was a large attendance at the opening of yesterday's session of the Massachusetts Women's Christian Temperance union convention. The early hours were devoted to listening to the report of the international congress in London by Mrs. Ruth B. Baker and Mrs. Mary F. Howes. There was a rollcall of about 150 names of members who have died during the past year.

Shrewd Swindler.

MALDEN, Mass., Oct. 3.—A swindler has been operating in this city, and has left for parts unknown. He represented himself as a builder, showing plans of houses, which he agreed to put up for a very small sum. A number of people advanced the stranger sums of money, from $25 to $100, to bind the bargain, and in this way he is said to have obtained from $1500 to $2000.

Myer Not Guilty.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Oct. 3.—The second day of the October term of the superior court was devoted to the case against A. C. Myer, charged with violating the election laws and with criminal libel against Allen Coffin in being a party to the printing and circulating of certain circulars last winter which attacked Coffin. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

To Cigaret Smokers.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 3.—An experiment on the effects of cigaret smoking was made at Brown university yesterday. A healthy young man was selected, and after inhaling cigaret smoke a few minutes it was shown that cigaret smoking affected the heart's action. Smoke from a pipe or cigar had comparatively no effect on the heart's action.

Every Lodge Sent Delegates.

BRADFORD, Vt., Oct 3.—The 10th annual assembly of Rebekah lodges of Vermont was held here yesterday. Every lodge was represented. The following officers were elected: Mrs. H. L. Stillston, Bennington, president; Mrs. J. H. Jones, Bradford, vice president; Mrs. E. C. Finney, Lyndonville, treasurer; Mrs. L. C. Boyse, Barre, secretary.

PRIDE OF THE NAVY.

Brooklyn Will Be Best All-Around Fighting Ship In the World.

Cruiser New York Will Be Eclipsed by New Boat.

Successful Launching From the Cramps' Shipyard at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3. — The United States armored cruiser Brooklyn was launched from Cramps' shipyard at 1:07 o'clock yesterday afternoon with the usual accompaniment of the noise furnished by shrieking steam whistles and the cheers of at least 15,000 spectators.

It was exactly 1:07 o'clock when the army of workers knocked the last shores from the cradle of the vessel, and she slowly began her first voyage. It was then that Miss Ida May Schierin, daughter of the city of Brooklyn's mayor, grasped the bottle of American champagne, wrapped in the Stars and Stripes, and, crashing it upon the big cruiser's bow, exclaimed in a loud and firm tone: "I christen thee Brooklyn."

Then the vessel sped down the greased ways as lightly and gracefully as a swan, while everything for miles around possessed of the gift of sound paid her tribute. The shrieking of the whistles of the big shipbuilding works and the numerous craft which dotted the river mingled with the roar of the multitude of humanity which filled every inch of space within the range of vision.

Meantime the newest marvel of marine architecture had plunged into the waters of the Delaware, while her rapidly lowered anchors brought her to a halt in the middle of the stream. It was one of the prettiest launches ever made at the shipyard—the cradle of the new navy.

The launch was crowned with conspicuous success. The christening stand was reserved for the guests from Washington and Brooklyn. Above it towered the cruiser, decorated from stern to stem with the entire code of signals. After the launch an informal luncheon was served in the mould loft of the works.

Second to None.

The Brooklyn was authorized by act of congress approved July 19, 1892, and her keel was laid the following year. It will have taken three years to complete her. Her contract price was $2,986,000, for hull and machinery, to which a speed premium is to be added, amounting to $50,000 for every quarter knot she exceeds the contract speed of 20 knots.

Neither the British Blake and Blenheim, the Russian Riveik, nor the Spanish Vizcaya could hope to vanquish the Brooklyn which, it may be added, could in all probability do battle with good prospects of victory with many battleships.

The armored cruiser New York is today generally admitted to be not only the finest vessel of her class afloat, but probably the best all-around fighting ship in the world, all things considered.

Yet the armed cruiser Brooklyn promises to be as much superior to the New York as the latter is to her closest rivals. She will have better protection, a heavier armament and, in all probability, a higher speed than the New York.

Comparison of Dimensions.

The Brooklyn's principal dimensions, as compared with those of the New York, are as follows:

	Brooklyn.	New York.
Length between perpendiculars	400ft. 6in.	380ft. 6½in.
Extreme breadth	64ft.	64ft. 10in.
Mean draught	24ft.	24ft.
Displacement	9123 tons	8200 tons.

The speed required of both ships by the contracts was 20 knots. The New York made 21, and from the fact that the Brooklyn is longer she will probably exceed this. It is in the battery powers of the two ships, however, that the principal superiority of the Brooklyn is manifest. She will carry, in her main battery, eight 8-inch, against six of the New York, and 12 5-inch rapid fire guns, instead of the same number of 4-inch. She will carry in her secondary battery 12 6-pounder rapid fire guns—the New York having but eight—and four 1-pounders, with four Gatlings.

The 8-inch guns will be carried in four barbette turrets, from 4 to 8 inches thick, made of the best grade of Harveyized nickel steel. There will also be a partial water-belt line, 4 inches thick, and a protective deck from 3 to 6 inches thick.

Safe at Yokohama.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions has received a cablegram announcing the safe arrival at Yokohama of its deputation to the Japanese churches, which consists of Rev. James L. Barton, D.D., W. P. Ellison, Rev. A. H. Bradford, D.D., and Rev. James G. Johnson.

His Requisitions Honored.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The requisitions of Congressional Librarian Spofford are passing through the treasury department regularly, and the impression is becoming more general every day that nothing serious is the matter with Mr. Spofford's accounts.

Two Wrecks.

HALIFAX, Oct. 3. — Fishing schooner Winnie L is ashore and a total wreck at South Ingonish, C. B. Schooner Surprise, before reported ashore at Grand Brit, N. F., has gone to pieces, nothing being saved.

No Love For Husband.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—Emanuel Pisco of Boston was arrested here yesterday for abducting Mrs. Silvio Granato, a friend's wife, and her two children. The woman refused to return with her husband, who is here.

At $17.60 Each.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The contract for furnishing 10,000 of the new Lee rifles for the navy has been awarded to the Winchester Repeating Arms company of Connecticut, the only bidder, at $17.60 a rifle.

"I have given Hood's Sarsaparilla to my children as a tonic and have been pleased with the results." Mrs. Enos W. Connor, Box 174, Canton, Mass.

Attractive Dining Rooms.

Why shouldn't the dining room be attractive? There's no reason on earth why it shouldn't be, and there's every reason imaginable to encourage and promote this state of affairs in every home. The dining room is used as much as any room, and if the surroundings and furnishings are pleasant to look at, it adds much to home happiness. Here's an offer worthy of consideration. A handsome solid oak sideboard, with beveled mirror plate, a beautiful polished oak pillar extension table, and six of the latest style oak dining chairs. An entire dining room set fit for a lord to use, and our wonderfully low price for the whole outfit is but $25.00. We have placed one of these sets in our show window for inspection and you will do well to merit by such an unusual offer.

Rev. Mr. Deetz, formerly pastor of the M. E. church at Atlantic, but now of Newport, N. H., was in town Tuesday.

Mrs. W. A. Coles formerly of Atlantic, but now a resident of Albany, N. Y., is on a visit to her sister Mrs. D. Hislop.

The choir of Memorial church resumed its duties last Sunday. William H. Owen gave one of his charming tenor solos.

A bunter was pulled out of one of the cars on the 4.15 train Wednesday afternoon at the Quincy depot. The damaged car was side-tracked.

The second in the series of tournaments of the Wollaston Golf club will be held this afternoon. It will be a handicap game of 9 holes for ladies.

Badger Bros., have just completed putting their heating apparatus in the Catholic church at Rockland and are now at work on a house job in Brockton.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Congregational church will meet Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Charles E. Snow, Central avenue.

Franklin Curtis of this city was among the custom house officials removed on Wednesday. All were Republicans but inefficiency was the cause assigned.

James Edwards, West Quincy's popular hair dresser, has moved his place of business from Copeland to Cross street, next building to Williams' jewelry store,

Mrs. David Hislop of Atlantic returns home this week from a very pleasant visit to New York and Albany where she has been enjoying herself for the past five weeks.

James S. Grindell of Greenfield was nominated for lieutenant governor by the Democrats instead of Treasurer as reported, and Eben S. Stevens was the nominee for the latter office.

The Myles Standish monument forms a new attraction for wheelmen to Squantum, and many are making the trip these beautiful days. Among the riders we noticed Tuesday the Rev. Dr. Ingalls of Somerville.

Two gayly decorated cars of the Quincy & Boston street railway left Quincy this morning for the Brockton fair, running direct without change from Quincy to the grounds. The old Pilgrim fog horn was on the front platform of the first car and will herald their approach to the people of Brockton.

Arthur L. Hurton of Atlantic who holds the postion of teller in Freeman bank, Boston, was surprised Monday by his fellow clerks who were aware of his approaching marriage. The surprise came in the shape of a marble clock, and the surprise was increased by gifts of silver from the president and cashier.

REPUBLICANS MEET

To Make County and District Attorney Nominations.

Robert O. Harris Selected for District Attorney—A. C. Paul for Sheriff.

Thomas B. Blanchard of Stoughton for County Commissioner.

H. O. Shultz called the Republican District Attorney convention to order in Boston today. A ballot was taken for temporary chairman, and Robert W. Carpenter of Foxboro was elected over Mr. Shultz by a large majority. John P. S. Churchill of Milton was chosen secretary.

Only one of the 122 delegates, to which the convention was entitled was absent.

Deputy Abram C. Paul of Stoughton was nominated unanimously by acclamation for sheriff.

There was a contest over the county commissioner and four names were presented. Thomas B. Blanchard had as rivals, W. Walter Ewell, Tisdale South worth of Randolph and Everett Eaton of Needham.

There were 119 votes cast, 60 being a majority, and they were divided as follows:

J. T. Southworth,	10
W. W. Ewell,	12
E. J. Eaton,	37
Thomas Blanchard,	60

The ballot was made formal.

For special commissioner Everett J. Eaton was nominated by acclamation.

The District Attorney Convention did its business up in short order, Robert O. Harris was renominated for district attorney.

Hollingsworth—Littlefield.

Dorchester, Braintree and Quincy society people were out in large numbers Wednesday evening to the church wedding of Miss Elsie Littlefield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Littlefield of Ashmont, to Mr. Ellis Hollingsworth of Braintree. The Church of Unity at Neponset was the scene and was tastefully decorated with potted plants in bloom and palms. Rev. Mr. Hosmer officiated and Mr. W. M. Prest was best man.

The bride, an attractive blonde of medium height, attired in white moire with full court train and trimmings of chiffon with tulle veil caught with lilies of the valley and a bouquet of bride's roses, advanced to the alter leaning on the arm of her father.

The maid of honor, Miss Katherine Leavick, wore white crepe over white silk and carried a bouquet of Catherine Mermot roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Madeline Trask and Miss Harriet Lord, were attired in picturesque gowns of Dresden silk trimmed with pink taffeta ribbon. They carried pink roses.

The ushers were Mr. L. B. Stevens, Mr. F. I. Moar, Mr. B. P. Richardson, Mr. J. T. Eager, Dr. M. R. Rand and F. W. Trafton.

At the reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Littlefield at Shawmut park, Mrs. Littlefield wore a wedding gown 25 years old, and some of her wedding cake, hermetically sealed at the time graced this occasion.

Mrs. and Mrs. Hollingsworth will be at home at 38 Fairfield street, Dorchester, Wednesdays November 13 and 20.

Delano—Potter.

Miss May and Clara Merrill of this city and Miss Edith Potter of Ashmont were bridemaids at the wedding Wednesday evening of Mr. J. M. Delano of Boston and Miss Grace Potter, daughter of Mrs. Clara Potter of Ashmont. The ceremony was performed at the Second Congregational church, Dorchester, by the Rev. Dr. Little. Miss Ethel Potter was maid of honor and Mr. Frank Delano the best man. The bride was preceded to the altar by a bevy of girl friends who sang "Valiant and Free." The bridemaids were gowned in pale pink silk muslin over pink silk and carried pink carnations. A reception followed at 97 Ocean street.

BATTLE OF PITCHERS.

Spiders Win the First Game in the Temple Cup Series.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2.—Cleveland is baseball mad. Heretofore Cleveland audiences have been rather quiet, but the intense rivalry between the Orioles and home club stirred the people up to a high pitch. The rooting, tooting, ringing of bells and clapping of hands throughout the contest was something unprecedented in the history of the game here. The game was close and exciting throughout. It was a battle of pitchers from start to finish, and was anybody's game up to the instant the last man was out.

Coining on Their Own Hook.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—For two or three months past the United States secret service bureau has been in receipt of complaints from various parts of the eastern country concerning the prevalence of spurious coin, mainly half dollars, quarters and dimes, made of pure silver. Chief Hazen and Officer Burns immediately set quietly to work on the case, and the first result of their investigations was the arrest here of Max Frankel, Moses Rosengarten, Jacob Friedman, Jacob Fineburg and Frank Silberman. It was learned that these men were only part of an organized gang working throughout the country, and the disposition of their cases was held in abeyance until the leaders could be taken. This was accomplished yesterday when Henry Greenburg and Julius Stein were captured in New York. Detectives found in the cellar of a house in a New Jersey town an entire coiner's outfit. There was an immense iron press, used for stamping; a number of dies; between 600 and 700 pounds of nickel, the same as that used by the government, and a quantity of pure silver, which were used in the manufacture of bogus dimes, quarters and halves.

Lamont Said to Be Angry.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The World's Washington correspondent says that Secretary Lamont feels indignant that information conveyed to General Miles, in a private conversation, to the effect that the latter was to be appointed head of the army, should be heralded to the country through a newspaper interview before the president made the official announcement. President Cleveland is known to be extremely opposed to official loquacity. That Secretary Lamont's indignation finds a counterpart in the presidential mind, goes without saying.

Watson Looked Cross.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The last of Lord Dunraven's yachting crew left this port for home yesterday. The 25 men sailed on the steamship Teutonic. Dunraven's daughters also sailed on the Teutonic. Designer Watson, who planned the Valkyrie, was another passenger on the Teutonic. The defeat and hasty withdrawal of his best effort in marine architecture seem to have soured his disposition, for he was very cross just before he trotted up the gangplank, and sought the peaceful solitude of his stateroom.

Disastrous Conflagration.

CAMBRIDGE, O., Oct. 3.—The business portion of this city was destroyed by fire yesterday, with a loss of over $100,000. The wind drove the flames so that the firemen were powerless. Telegrams for assistance were sent to neighboring cities. One man was burned to death. The insurance was less than one-half the loss.

He Is a Married Man.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 3.—Potter Hazzard, who is believed to have eloped with 15-year-old Bessie Winters, is said to be a married man. His former boarding mistress states that she has received a letter from his wife. Street railway employes who knew Hazzard think that he is in Boston.

Held In Abeyance.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—In regard to the pending sugar bounty controversy, it seems to be the opinion of the treasury officials that the case will remain as at present, without going to the court until congress meets in December.

Passengers and Crew Saved.

ODESSA, Oct. 3.—The Russian mail steamer Tsarewna has been wrecked near Cape Tarkhankut, on the coast of the Crimea. Her passengers and crew were saved, but it is believed that the steamship will prove a total loss.

Choked to Death.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 3.—Harold, a 2-year-old son of Cornelius G. Reilly, yesterday swallowed an acorn, which caused him to choke. His mother tried without avail to relieve him, but he died in 10 minutes.

Texas Legislators Say There Shall Be No Prize Fighting in Texas.

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—Corbett and Fitzsimmons must find another place than Texas in which to pull off their proposed fight for the championship of the world. The legislature, by a vote of 107 to 5, passed the bill prohibiting prize fighting, and thus accomplished the purpose for which the governor assembled it in special session.

The bill that will prohibit prize fighting in Texas in the future, as passed, reads as follows:

Section 1—Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Texas:

That any person who shall voluntarily engage in a pugilistic encounter between man and man, or a fight between a man and a bull, or any other animal, for money or other thing of value, or for any championship, or upon the result of which any money or anything of value is bet or wagered, or to see which an admission is charged, either directly or indirectly, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than two nor more than five years.

Sect. 2—By the term "pugilistic encounter," as used in this act, is meant any voluntary fight or personal encounter, by blows, by means of the fists or otherwise, whether with or without gloves, between two men for money or for any championship, or for any other thing of value, or upon the result of which any money or anything of value is bet or wagered.

Sect. 3—That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sect. 4—The fact that there is no adequate penalty against prize fighting or pugilism or against fights between men and beasts, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three separate days and that this law should be effective and be in force from this passage, and it is hereby so enacted.

A Seventeen-Rounder.

MASPETH, L. I., Oct. 3.—The Empire Athletic club last night furnished an opportunity for the sports to see Arthur Valentine, England's light weight champion, try conclusions with Charley McKeever, Philadelphia's pet boxer. In round 17 McKeever rushed at Valentine and sent him down three times with his right. Each time the Englishman struggled slowly to his feet and beat the watch. McKeever was relentless and pushed his advantage, landing his right for the fourth time on the desired spot. The Englishman fell in his own corner and the time keeper's watch ticked off 10 slow seconds, but Valentine was done this time and could not get up. Referee Hurst awarded the fight to McKeever.

Rough Weather on the English Coast.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Numerous wrecks are reported from the Bristol channel and other points along the west coast of England. Altogether, 19 steamships and large sailing vessels and 30 smaller craft are reported to have been lost. Although only 24 lives are known to have been lost, it is feared that many more sailors and fishermen have lost their lives, as the coasts of Devonshire and Somersetshire are strewn with wreckage.

Memorable Church Event.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Eucharistic congress of the Catholic church was opened here yesterday with pontifical high mass at St. Patrick's church, Mgr. Satolli being the celebrant and Cardinal Gibbons and many archbishops and bishops assisting. The event was one of the most memorable in the history of the church, as with three exceptions all the dignitaries and diocesan heads of the church in America participated.

Representing Spain's Side.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Spanish government has established a formal news representative in the United States, and Hillary Bell of this city was officially appointed to the position by the Spanish minister at Washington. Mr. Bell will receive simultaneously with the Madrid Imparcial all the war correspondence addressed to that paper by its Cuban correspondent.

More Spies Captured.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—The authorities of Cologne have taken into custody several additional persons who are charged with being connected with what seems to be a thoroughly organized attempt to spy upon different fortified positions in Germany. It is said that the parties are either French officers, or men in the employ of the French government.

Young Baptists Organize.

OLDTOWN, Me., Oct. 3. — The young people's session of the Maine Baptist anniversary yesterday voted to organize a state society. A committee was chosen to draft a constitution, and a constitution was adopted. The new society will be known as the Baptist Young People's convention. A. J. Bedelford, D.D., was elected president.

CARD OF THANKS.

THE Committee in charge of the Hospital Festival take this method of expressing their grateful thanks and acknowledgements to all the people who, in any manner, contributed to the success of the Hospital Festival. If it were possible, the committee would gladly mention by name each society and individual to whom they feel under obligations, but the responses to the appeal for aid and assistance were so general and varied that any attempt to particularize, without doidg injustice, would be simply impossible. That the Festival proved a success, clearly demonstrates the fact that the people of Quincy have a tender and abiding regard for their City Hospital, and that it is only necessary for an appeal to be made to them in its behalf to meet with a most generous and hearty response. While the committee herein give expression to their gratitude, they yet feel that the people who contributed will find their greatest reward and satisfaction in the consciousness of having assisted an institution maintained solely for the purpose of allieviating the suffering and distressed. THE NEW WOMAN.

The Quincy High School Society Debate Over Her.

Mr. Chapman, president, took the chair. Miss Briggs '96, secretary, gave a full and interesting report. Under unfinished business the debate of last week about "The New Woman" was concluded.

The speakers in the affirmative were: Miss Cummings, '65; Miss Cahill, '96.

The negative were taken by: Miss Edwards, '96; Miss Feeley, '96.

When the debate was opened to the society, Miss Coyle, Miss Leak and Miss Cummings spoke. The Board of Decision then retired. Mr. Warshaw, '96, the critic, then offered a decidedly original report. The following entertainment was then given:

1. Recitation, "Hawthorne," Emma Healey, '96. An excellent selection.
2. Piano solo, Miss Cook, '97. This selection was rendered in a very pleasing manner.
3. Essay, "The New Woman," Miss Mary Pitts, '96. The hope was expressed that the follies of the "New Woman" had reached their limit.
4. Recitation, Miss Rothwell, '96. A very poetical recitation.
5. Vocal duet, Miss Burke, '97, Mr. Burke, '99. Miss Emery, '96, accompanist. The voices of these singers blended very agreeably. The duet was received with loud applause.
6. Essay, Miss Garrity, '96. An interesting account of a trip to Plymouth.

The Board of Decision brought in a verdict in favor of the "New Woman."

Political Notes.

The voting lists must be posted on or before Saturday to comply with the law.

Norfolk County Prohibitionists nominated this ticket on Wednesday: For county commissioner for three years, E. B. Clapp of Stoughton; for special commissioners, C. W. Hodges of Foxboro and D. C. Rose of Stoughton.

The Registrars will meet on Saturday from 7 to 9 P. M. to revise the new voting lists.

F. W. Dallinger of Cambridge, who was chairman of the committee on county estimates of the last legislature, has been nominated for the senate by the third Middlesex Republicans.

A Portable Electric Propeller.

Among the multitude of inventions that are offered to the public day by day there are some that commend themselves to the judgment at first sight, and fill off-hand a long-felt want. The electric boat propeller is surely one such invention as mentioned above. It has the accumulated advantages of being cheap, portable, compact, and thoroughly safe to the user. Briefly described, it consists of a movable tube which is hinged at the stern of the boat, much as an oar is used in sculling. The tube contains a flexible shaft formed of three coils of phosphor bronze. This tube extends down and out into the water, where it carries a propeller, and at the inboard end an electric motor is attached, which is itself driven by batteries. The rudder and the propeller are thus in one, and the steering properties of a boat so fitted would be very swift and powerful. The tube, with its inclosed flexible shaft is partially filled with oil; and these parts are thus automatically and constantly lubricated. The rate of speed is from three to five miles per hour. The combined propeller, motor, and rudder weigh only 35 pounds for a 10 foot to 18 foot boat. The batteries weigh from 100 pounds to 275 pounds, but being in four parts are easily handled.

This very ingenious and effective invention will be gladly welcomed by the sea and river sportsman. Its handiness and noiselessness make it admirably adapted to duck shooting; and it will commend itself at once to the special needs of the fisherman. The running expenses amount to only five cents per hour.—Scientific American.

A COWBOY RACE.

A pattering rush like the rattle of hail
When the storm king's wild coursers are out on the trail,
A long roll of hoofs—and the earth is a drum!
The centaurs! See! Over the prairie they come!

A rollicking, clattering, battering beat,
A rhythmical thunder of galloping feet,
A swift swirling dustcloud—a mad hurricane
Of swarthy grim faces and tossing black mane.

Hurrah! In the face of the steeds of the sun
The gauntlet is flung and the race is begun!

THE PRIMULA LADY.

I entirely forget the name of the opera, what it was about and who sang in it, but I know it was the first I ever saw—if indeed I can be said to have seen it! At all events, I was present at the performance, and the evening and its occurrences are indelibly stamped on my memory. I was 17, thoroughly unmusical, but possessed of a keen sense of enjoyment, and the scene, looked upon for the first time in my life, delighted me. The fair faces, the gorgeous toilets, the hum of voices, the light, the movement, all combined to quicken the beat of my pulse and make me feel giddy and light headed.

The curtain went up, and after the first few minutes I began to be bored. It was a heavy opera, so I was told, with no "airs" in it, and full of loud, deafening choruses. It seemed to me there were nothing but choruses—choruses of monks and soldiers and village maidens and peasants—and the noise wearied me. I did not understand the plot, and I turned to the spectators for amusement. Opposite to us, in a box immediately facing ours, sat a couple whose appearance arrested my attention. I could not see the lady's face, for it was turned away from me toward the stage, but in her hair was a diamond comb of quaint design that took my fancy. Against the smooth dark tresses the stones sparkled and glittered as in a setting of onyx. It was a warm evening, but she kept her brocade cloak of a curious shade of Rose du Barri pink shot with gold wrapped closely round her. She had no bouquet, but in front of her, on the ledge of the box, was an enormous black feather fan mounted in tortoise shell. Her companion—a slight man with a pale olive complexion and dark beard streaked with gray—had a face that interested me strangely. It wore such a weary expression—more weary perhaps than actually sad. He looked like a man who at some time or other during his life had made an effort beyond his strength and had never recovered from the exertion. Like me, he did not appear to be interested in the story of the opera.

The noise went on. The peasants retired, and after a short love scene between the hero and the heroine a band of soldiers came on and sang to some very loud music. I leaned back in my seat. My head was beginning to ache and my eyes to feel tired. I closed them, simply for a few minutes' rest. When I opened them, they seemed to light naturally on my opposite neighbors, and I started as I noticed the changed aspect of the box. The lady had evidently thrown off her cloak and had come more forward. Her eyes were no longer fixed on the stage. They were turned toward me. And what different eyes they were from those I thought she would possess. They were soft and veiled by lashes very little darker than her hair, which could scarcely be termed golden, it was so fair. How could I have believed her to be a brunette? She must have been seated in the shade when I first saw her and had since emerged into the light. She had moved her fan, and in its place lay a bouquet of mauve and white primulas. A small bunch of the same flowers were pinned into her simple high white dress at the throat and another showed among the loosely coiled tresses of her fair hair.

"It cannot be the same woman," I said to myself, "and yet my eyes were not closed for more than a minute or two, I am certain. There could not have been time—and—yet"— The irritating accompaniment to the "recitative," the perfume of my chaperon hostess' bouquet, the effort to explain the mystery, the unusualness of the scene, and the exhausted state of the air, all combined to produce an overpowering effect on my brain. I closed my eyes again and was very nearly asleep—not quite, I am certain—when a touch from Mrs. Waldo's fan and the sound of a light, unfamiliar laugh recalled me to myself and to a consciousness of my duty.

The first act had come to an end, and a gentleman had just entered our box to pay his respects to my chaperon, who forthwith introduced us, "Mr. Venning, Miss Linthrop." I bowed and felt very sheepish. I had literally been caught napping. Mrs. Waldo's explanation was not soothing:

"Miss Linthrop is unaccustomed to late hours, Mr. Venning. This is her first season, and her very first opera. I wish for her sake that it had been a more amusing one. Valezzi has clearly mistaken his vocation. He must never attempt another opera, must he? This one is deplorably dull."

"It is, as far as we have gone. But still one's first opera is always—one's first opera, and one is too well amused to be hypercritical. I'm sure Miss Linthrop wasn't bored, although she might have been a little sleepy?"

"I was not at all bored," I replied, and then going straight to the point, as has ever been my wont, I continued: "Who are the people—the lady and gentleman in the opposite box—the lady with"— "With the primulas," I was going to say. But, lo! they had vanished, and so had she, and in her place sat the tall dark woman in the pink brocade cloak with the diamonds in her hair.

"The lady with the magnificent cloak?" said Mr. Venning interrogatively. "That is Baroness Kurz, and that is her husband with her—or rather he was with her a moment ago; but, as you see, he has just left the box."

"Who is Baron Kurz?" asked Mrs. Waldo. "I am perpetually hearing of him. German, of course?"

"Only partly so," replied Mr. Venning. "He is the son of a Scotchman, who made a good deal of money in California, and I believe his mother was a Pole. He was brought up by a German grandfather, whose name he eventually took. He is a clever fellow, but an unhappy one, I always fancy. She was a Miss Charcote, a daughter of Lady Jane Charcote."

"But who was the other lady in the box"—I inquired eagerly—"the lady with the primulas?"

"There was no other lady in Kurz's box tonight, Miss Linthrop. You must have been looking at some other box."

Mrs. Waldo laughed. "My young friend has been dreaming, Mr. Venning."

I scorned the imputation, but they would not believe me, and they were still laughing when the door opened and old Lord Saintsbury peeped in.

"Very merry here."

"My friend Miss Linthrop declares that she has seen a lady with primulas in her hair—such a terrible decoration—seated in Baron Kurz's box this evening," said Mrs. Waldo in her loud, clear, penetrating voice, that carried farther than any voice I have ever heard.

I noticed a shade flit across Lord Saintsbury's face. He turned his head sharply and glanced back. Then, stepping quickly into the box, he shut the door behind him.

"Why so mysterious?" asked Mrs. Waldo, smiling.

"Kurz was just behind me. He must have heard what you said." And the old gentleman looked genuinely distressed.

"But why not? We were only laughing at my young friend here. Are you going, Mr. Venning?"

I began to be afraid that I had made a goose of myself. And Lord Saintsbury was looking so solemn. Perhaps that was because he was in the ministry.

"Mrs. Waldo," he began, as soon as Mr. Venning had disappeared, "don't repeat that little story about—the—the lady with the primulas. It"—

"My dear Lord Saintsbury, why mayn't I? I love a little anecdote, and this is such a thrilling one."

"But you would not like to cause pain, I am sure."

"And you think Miss Linthrop so very thin skinned that she cannot take a little chaff?"

"It is not on her account that I am speaking. You may or may not have heard that Miss Charcote was not Kurz's first wife. No? Well, she was not. His first wife was a girl of the people—some said a nursemaid, some a peasant. It really doesn't signify which. At all events, she was neither a lady by birth nor a person of education. After a time he grew tired of her. His father died, and he came into money. He began to go in for society. He met Miss Charcote. One night—it was at the Grand Opera in Paris—she was seated for some time in Lady Jane Charcote's box. His wife was alone in the loge opposite. What she saw or thought I don't know, but when he returned to her she complained of feeling very tired, and he suggested that they should go home. She fainted on the staircase and was carried into their brougham. That same night she died. It was very sudden and rather mysterious."

"Good gracious! Did any one suspect the baron of having poisoned his wife?"

"Not that I know of. But they did say that his neglect had broken her heart. But to come to the point of my story. The first baroness Kurz—Rosine—was a fair, blue eyed woman, with a passion for primulas. In Paris, where she had no acquaintances and was only known by sight, and by many people was not supposed to be Kurz's wife, she always went by the name of 'the lady with the primulas.' That is why I was startled and upset by what you told me. That was why I was distressed that the flower should have been mentioned in Kurz's hearing—for hear I am sure he did."

It was my turn to feel distressed—distressed, but at the same time vividly interested. I was just going to ask Lord Saintsbury whether he had ever known Rosine personally, when Mr. Venning reappeared, and at the same moment I noticed that while we had been discussing the first Baroness Kurz her successor had disappeared from the opposite box—had left the house probably, I thought, bored by the dullness of act 1.

"Such an awful thing has happened!" Mr. Venning's face was pale, and his voice sounded low and hoarse. "Kurz has fallen down dead, just outside the omnibus box."

"Good gracious, how dreadful! But very likely he has only fainted."

Mr. Venning shook his head. "Cleveland met him looking ghastly—you know he does sometimes. And he asked him, 'Are you ill, Kurz?' And the other just stared at him and muttered: 'True, true! She has come for me,' and fell back dead."

I started to my feet. "Mrs. Waldo, I must go home. Please let me. Don't you come, but"—

"My dear child," and her voice sounded a shade harder and louder than usual, "don't make a scene, please." Our visitors had vanished at the bare mention of such a possibility, ever dreaded and held in abhorrence by the sterner sex.

"But I cannot stay. Didn't you hear? He is dead."

Mrs. Waldo stared at me with a look of derision on her handsome stony face. "But you did not know him. It is not customary for young ladies to make scenes over the death of a man they never knew. Such things are not done."

"Ah, but you don't understand. I saw her."

"Her? Whom?"

"The lady with the primulas—his first wife. She came to fetch him. He said so—you heard."

"My dear child, what nonsense! You were dreaming, of course. Hush! We must not talk any more now. We must listen."

And the curtain rose upon act 2.—St. James Budget.

GOOD QUALITIES COMBINED.

Simplicity and Utility the Features of This Design—Costs $3,750.

[Copyright, 1895, by George Palliser, Architect, 32 Park place, New York.]

The last few years have been very prolific ones for the suburban home builders. The cause of this is justly attributed to the aid and inspiration obtained through the marvelous growth and development of building and loan associations. The good that these associations have done and are doing can never be measured by mortal hands, for it is as broad as the country and as high as space limits allow. That they are young in their efforts as yet goes to say that the future will work out results that the most sanguine cannot dream of or realize. Help on the good work all you can and push it along, for it is a good thing.

This design represents utility and simplicity and combines some excellent arrangements of plan to suit the particular requirements of the family for whom it is intended, and for their uses is a perfect house every way. Yet, however well suited a plan may be for one family, it may be as unsuited to another, and it is only from the standpoint of suitability that each plan can be considered, and in doing this it will be generally found for situations and needs different from that planned, for slight changes will need to be made to cover individual needs and site wants, all of which can be done by replanning.

Twenty-eight feet front, 42 feet deep. Height of stories: Cellar, 6 feet 6 inches; first story, 9 feet; second story, 8 feet 6 inches; three finished rooms in attic, foundation of brick, cellar floor cemented and walls whitewashed, walls hard fin-

THE BEST BUILDING MATERIAL.

Stone and Brick Insure the Best and Most Lasting Results.

Every locality has characteristics, the result of its resources, which naturally have effect up on work done, one locality being prolific in stone, another in lumber, others in neither, but with good markets. These all have a great deal to do with cost of building operations, and to a certain extent govern the style of work. The Dutch settlers who built farmhouses in New Jersey and Pennsylvania worked the stone they found at hand, cut and hewed their timber, and their work has stood the test of time and is congenial to surroundings.

Stone is one of the best building materials we have, the most lasting and natural when properly manipulated. It is easily procured in most localities, and a wall of stone for cellars, foundations or even a part of the superstructure is the best, most serviceable and economical if rightly built. The undressed stones laid up just as nature furnishes them produce the most artistic and natural effect. The advantages of natural stone, as originally quarried or gathered from the land, have been very little understood, chiefly on account of the expense deemed necessary in working and dressing. This has been brought about by the artisan's lack of training as to the economical, substantial and artistic effects that the materials give when rightly employed.

Much good work is today being done from the materials composing old stone walls and fences, which have heretofore been considered useless. While wood will undoubtedly for a long time be the standard material for economical housebuilding, brick will in many localities, on account of scarcity of wood, become more prominent, and then we shall have better and more lasting results, for the better the material the better will the work be.—George Palliser.

Forgive.

Wait not the morrow, but forgive me now.
Who knows what fate tomorrow's dawn may bring?
Let us not part with shadow on thy brow,
With my heart hungering.

Wait not the morrow, but intwine thy hand
In mine, with sweet forgiveness full and free.
Of all life's joys I only understand
This joy of loving thee.

Portrait of Commodore MacDonough.

A recent addition to the portrait gallery of the navy department is a rare old oil portrait of Commodore MacDonough, the naval hero who rendered Perry valuable assistance in his memorable engagements on the lakes in the war of 1812. The portrait is the work of Jarvis and is owned by one of the old families of Charleston, S. C. Assistant Secretary McAdoo saw it on a recent visit to that city and brought it back with him to Washington with a view to its purchase by the government, as a companion piece to the portrait of Commodore Perry, now in the navy department gallery.—Washington Star.

Slow to Tumble.

She had now become desperate.

After a time she sat as one in a trance, and wondered what would be the chances of his tumbling if a wheat elevator were to precipitate itself upon him.—Detroit Tribune.

IN A STATE OF SIEGE.

Disturbances at Constantinople Have Assumed Formidable Proportions.

Fears That Discontent May Extend Much Further.

Many Lives Have Already Been Sacrificed in Street Riots.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A dispatch from Constantinople gives the following version of the riot which occurred there. Several Armenians on Monday started on their way to the gate of the sultan's palace, where justice is usually administered, with the intention of presenting to the grand vizier a protest against the government. Warning had been given to the officials, and, at their orders, all the approaches to the palace were blocked with police.

A conflict occurred between Armenians and police. Probably about 60 Turks and Armenians were killed and many wounded.

On Tuesday several more were killed. Tuesday night 80 were killed. Several hundred persons have been imprisoned. Much terror exists.

The serious apprehensions felt by the Turkish authorities and the precaution taken by them to keep the military force in the garrison constantly under arms on account of the fear aroused by the riot precipitated on Monday by the Armenians of this city are shown to be amply justified by the further outbreaks which occurred.

It is only by personal investigation that those seeking news of the disturbance can secure any details, as the lips of all police and government officials are closed, and no reliable information from official sources regarding the riot can be had.

The Armenian quarter of the city is deserted and quiet as the grave. This is the quarter which usually presents the scene of greatest animation and life, the shops and great bazaars attracting throngs of chattering traders. The authorities have closed the shops and peremptorily forbid the gathering of groups in the streets of the quarter, and to insure the observance of this order the streets are constantly patrolled by military.

The guards who are stationed at the Babi Thumayan (the high door of the "sublime porte") of the seraglio or sultan's palace were also strongly re-enforced in apprehension of an attempted attack upon the person of the sovereign.

Officials' Lives In Danger.

Carriages, which were conveying the ministers of the interior, of foreign affairs and of the police to the council, which was convened to consider measures for suppressing the disturbance, were pierced with bullets, as they passed through the streets, fired from arms in the hands of the insurgent citizens. The public officials in the carriages escaped injury from the flying bullets, so far as has been learned. Many passers-by in the streets were not so fortunate, and the latest accounts of the number killed and wounded place it at 80.

The great church of the Patriarchate, situated in the Greek quarter, which was the scene of the first outbreak on Monday, is now surrounded by troops. The Korumkapou quarter is also in a state of siege.

With regard to the death of Serivet Bey, one of the officers who was killed in Monday's riot at the Patriarchate, the following details are learned. It is alleged that he called the Armenian bearer of the petition which it was sought to present to the grand vizier "ghiaour." This is equivalent to saying "infidel dog," and is the term of approbrium used by the Turks toward those who do not follow the prophet Mohammed. The Armenian retorted to this, and the quarrel increased in heat until the shooting began.

The customs office in this city has been closed during the riots.

It is reported that a number of Armenians broke into the law courts of the city during the disorder and killed two judges. The murderers were recognized and were subsequently arrested.

An Armenian cashier, employed in the department of customs of this city, has been assassinated, and this crime, it is believed, was actuated by motives of political revenge.

There is a vague and widespread feeling of apprehension here in all circles caused immediately by the outbreaks, but fed by fears of how far the discontent may extend and where its breaking out is to be looked for next.

An Entering Wedge.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Mr. Sill, United States minister to Korea, has informed the department of state that his Korean majesty has granted a limited mining franchise to James R. Morse, an American citizen. There have been many attempts at mining and the obtaining of mining franchises here by people of various nationalities. This is the first instance in which the right has been formally given over the proper seal.

Fireworks Exploded.

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 3.—An explosion occurred yesterday in Detwiler's fireworks factory. Five employes were badly injured, all except one of them being boys from 14 to 16 years of age. The roman candle factory, in which the explosion occurred, was burned to the ground.

Parade Six Miles Long.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 3.—The feature of the second day of Merchants' week celebration was the parade. It was six miles in length and was the greatest display of the kind ever seen here. It took nearly four hours for it to pass a given point.

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—General O. M. Poe of the United States corps of engineers, who had charge of the 20-foot channel project through the great lakes and their connections, died here yesterday.

Moraes May Resign.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 3.—The chamber of deputies has again rejected the bill for amnesty to rebels. It is thought that this will lead to the resignation of De Moraes as president of the republic.

Admiration For Wefers.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 3.—The Lowell friends of Bernard J. Wefers, the crack sprinter of Lawrence, tendered him a banquet at the American house last night.

COMPENSATION.

If Helen love me, she does so
After the cautious modern fashion,
And usages, like linkboys, go
To light the progress of her passion.

Say mine estate should dwindle; say
The breath of scandal fogged mine honor,
Helen would weep her love away
And bid me think no more upon her.

Say I fell ill or lame or blind,
The counsel of her friends would move her
Regretfully to prove unkind
And seek a less unfortunate lover.

But these things happen not—that is,
Not in such sort as frightens Helen—
Whereas her dear small prudencies
Make me a fenced demesne to dwell in.

—J. W. H. Crasland.

PUPPY LOVE.

I was 19, and pretty Lois Tanner was three years my junior. Sweet 16! Is there in all this world anything sweeter? There may be other sweet sixteens, but the comparative degree of the adjective in this connection has grown rusty from long disuse, and sweet 16 remains positive in kind and superlative in degree.

And Lois Tanner was 16.

From the first day of our meeting—we were the children of wealthy parents and were summering by the sea—some intangible influence, some inexplicable force seemed to draw us to each other and to run the lines of our lives parallel. For two years we had known each other, and one day—it was the third summer after our meeting—we sat on the rocks by the shore, and as the waves beat in rhythmic measures upon the silver sand stretching out at our feet I looked into her sweet blue eyes and knew that Lachesis, as she drew two threads from Clothio's spindle, was twisting them into one cord, forever indivisible.

In early youth how far the eyes, undimmed by years, can see into the future, and how keen is young love to decipher the handwriting on the wall!

"Lois," I said as we sat there in the fading twilight, "do you know how long we have known each other?"

"Does it seem long, Mr. Beldon?" she replied, with a coy little smile.

"It has been two entire years, Miss Tanner," said I, falling into her mock formality of manner.

"And one learns a great deal in two years," she added.

"In one direction I have learned nothing, Lois," I said, with a quietness I did not feel.

"Why, Jack," she exclaimed, "I don't see how you could stand still."

"But I have," I insisted.

"How?" and her eyes looked her guilelessness.

"In loving you, Lois," I broke forth, "I couldn't love you any more in a thousand years than I loved you after our first meeting."

"Oh, Jack," she cried nervously, "what made you say that?"

"Why shouldn't I say it?" I answered, with a dogged resolve not to be put down by any woman's whim.

"Because, Jack," she said very earnestly, "papa has been saying all along that you and I were together too much, and the first thing the family knew there would be a case of puppy love to cure."

"Did your father say that?" I asked, with the anger showing in my face.

"He did, Jack, and he says"—

"Well, I don't want to hear what he says, or has said, or will say," I interrupted. "If he says anything like that, he doesn't know what he is talking about and hasn't the most remote idea of what a man truly in love with the one woman in all the world for him feels."

"He ought to know something about it," Lois said hesitatingly. "You know, Jack, he has been married three times."

"That's just it," I growled. "He's grown callous. He thinks because I am not 100 years old I don't know my own heart and am irresponsible into the bargain. If it weren't for you, Lois," I added, ameliorating my wrath to a slight extent, "I wouldn't have a man like he is for my father-in-law under any circumstances."

"Papa isn't so awfully bad, Jack," she said in extenuation of the paternal weakness.

"I never thought he was either until you told me what you have," I admitted. "But, Lois," and I grew hard again, "you must know that no father who regards the future happiness of his daughter can take the position he does and assume to dictate the course of two lives which in the nature of things must be independent of his."

"Papa says your papa said the same thing and agreed with him thoroughly," she replied, arguing as women do.

"Lois," I said in my firmest tone, "don't speak to me of your father again. If you do, I shall be tempted to do him some bodily injury."

The dear little woman laid her hand on my arm restrainingly and smiled with such irresistible sweetness that I even forgot the wound my own father had given me.

"Let it go, dear," she pleaded. "They have forgotten they were ever young."

The shadows were growing into a deeper purple, and the waves took on the mellower shades of the evening sky. The night wind, just rising, tossed Lois' golden hair about her smooth white forehead, and the pink of the sunset brought a rosier glow to her cheeks. I brushed my hand across my eyes and looked into her face.

"Do you remember what I said a few moments ago?" I asked, returning to the previous subject.

"What did you say?" she replied, trembling a little, I thought, for she surely could not have forgotten so soon.

"I said, darling"—it was the first time I had ever called her that, and it almost frightened me—"I said that there was one thing I had not learned in the last two years, and that was to love you better than I did when I first met you. Do you think I should have learned?"

"Perhaps, Jack," she blushed, "if you had, you would have gone ahead of me in the class."

"Oh, Lois," I began to say, and then stammered and grew red in the face. I could feel the blood fly along my neck, and my hands shook so I could not have put them out to her if she had asked me to. I had never spoken of love to a woman, and now my inexperience was painful to me. I knew that the brave man could win a triumph now, but I was not brave. On the contrary, I was a coward, an arrant coward, and in my fear I slipped down off the rock where we had been sitting and walked out upon the sand.

"Where are you going, Jack?" she called to me. "I don't like to be left here all alone. I'm sure Charlie Verder wouldn't treat me like that."

That was enough to set me wild. Verder was the one fellow I dreaded, and he hadn't known her six months either. I went back to the rock and stood at the foot of it, just near enough to touch the hem of her gown—such a sweet, white gown, with a bit of blue showing through it as the blue sky peeps in and out from the fleecy white clouds.

"Do you like him?" I asked sullenly.

"Not any more, I guess, than you like Mattie Swann," she retorted, with a perk of her nose and a shake of her fluffy hair.

"Then you like him pretty well," I said in worse humor than ever, and quite insistent upon nagging her all I could.

"Perhaps I do," she snapped, "and, if I do, I'm sure he is a very nice fellow."

"Not any nicer fellow than Mattie Swann is a girl," I put in as mean as I knew how.

"Well, I don't care," she said as she slipped off the rock and touched the sand as lightly as a thistledown. "I'm going home, and when you get me to come away off down here in this lonesome place again at this time of day, or any other time, I think you'll know it."

Then she started off along the beach toward the row of cottages. It was a mile or more, and I thought I would keep within call, so I let her get some distance ahead of me. I poked along behind, gazing out to sea and wondering where all the beauty of the purple shadows had gone, and why it was the waves looked so cold and cruel and clammy. They were the same shadows, and the same waves, and there I was, and—but where was Lois? Fifty yards up the shore and hurrying along as if she were afraid of twilight ghosts or other strange inhabitants of the crepuscular air. I looked over my shoulder nervously, and all around, and shivered. What it was I don't know, but on the instant I called to her and went after my call as fast as I ever ran after a football.

"Lois, Lois!" I kept on calling, but she gave no heed. Her face was set away from me and she was going with it rapidly. But not so fast that I could not catch her in the next 50 yards or so.

"Oh, Mr. Belden," she said in a tone of pretty surprise as I came up panting by her side, "how you frightened me! I had no idea you were on the beach this evening."

Think of that, and still her father having the temerity to talk about puppy love! If that wasn't full grown mastiff sarcasm, I'd like to know what it was. But I was not to be thwarted by a woman's whim now, any more than I was in the beginning.

"Oh, Lois, Lois," I pleaded, though I puffed as I did so. "Don't talk like that. We are not children to let a trifle come between us and our love. You know I love you, and I know I love you. It was because I love you so that I grew wild with jealousy when you spoke of Verder. I don't care a rap of my finger for Mattie Swann, even if you do like Charlie Verder."

"Mr. Belden," she began very stiffly—

"Call me Jack," I cried, with all my feeling come again. "Call me Jack, as you have always called me."

"Perhaps I'd better," she said coldly. "You have acted so childishly that Mr. seems scarcely an appropriate title."

"You shan't talk that way to me, Lois Tanner," I exclaimed as I stepped in front of her and blocked her path. "I have done wrong, and I apologize humbly for it. Now, as a lady, you cannot do otherwise than accept it."

"I accept the apology, and pray let that end the matter."

"No; it shall not. I insist upon your accepting the apology and the apologizer as well. I want you, Lois, and that's what I started to tell you down there on the rocks. Answer me now, with only the sea, and the sky, and the sweet twilight as witnesses."

I was about to take her hand and more tenderly urge my claim to an answer, when she gave a slight scream and sprang to one side as if she had stepped on a mouse in the sand.

"Look there," she whispered, pointing to a couple seated on an old spar half in the sand, and who until then were not visible. I looked and saw Verder and Miss Swann, very close together and talking earnestly.

"Let them be witnesses also, if they will, darling," I said bravely, and this time I took her hand in mine.

But is was too dark for them to see, and when Lois and I walked by them in the duskier shadows of the later evening she had promised to be my wife, and though the great sun of the heavens had set over the world and the earth was full of shadows the greater sun of love had risen in our hearts, and they were filled with the light inextinguishable.

That was a dozen years ago, and today Lois is the proud and happy mother of three of the prettiest and sweetest children in the world, except four that I am the proud and happy father of.

She is Mrs. Charles Verder, and Mrs. Belden was Miss Swann.—Detroit Free Press.

Why He Paused.

"I ought to have known better than to come here," said the departing drummer to the landlord. "I was told beforehand that it was a one horse town."

"Well, there's no use of kicking now," was the placid response.

"No; I just wanted to stop long enough to express my sympathy for the horse."—Washington Star.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

ALBEE IS ACQUITTED.

Verdict of Not Guilty Rendered In the Leaman Murder Case.

A Mystery Which Is Likely to Remain Unsolved.

Brief Review of a Crime Which Startled the Citizens of Brockton.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Oct. 4.—The trial of Arthur A. Albee on the charge of murdering Collins A. Leaman at Brockton ended yesterday. Able arguments were made by Lawyer Osborne for defendant and District Attorney Harris for the government. Judge Gaskill charged the jury and they went to their room at 4 o'clock.

At 8 o'clock they had agreed upon a verdict. The court came in, Albee was brought in by the sheriff, and the clerk asked Foreman Ripley if Arthur A. Albee was guilty or not guilty. "Not guilty," said the foreman. The courtroom was crowded with people, and a shout arose.

Sheriff Harmon ordered his deputies to clear the room, which was done. The judge thanked the jury and discharged them.

Albee was taken back to jail, as he is under six months' sentence, being unable to furnish a bond to keep the peace. The lawyers for the defense were congratulated on all sides.

Story of the Murder.

The murder for which Albee was tried was wholly for the purpose of robbery, but whether the assault was with intent to kill or only to injure him, so that the robbery could be accomplished, is among the uncertainties.

Leaman was a barber, and on the evening of April 26, 1892, he closed his shop a little before 9 o'clock and started for his home, which he had nearly reached when he was assaulted by some person or persons, rendered insensible, robbed and then thrown down an embankment. A short time afterward two young men, who were walking in the vicinity, plainly heard groans, and, when they went to ascertain what was the matter, found the injured man. He was assisted up the embankment, but was not able to give his name. He was recognized, however, as Leaman, and helped to his home and medical aid summoned.

Leaman was so dazed that he could not give any account of what had happened, only that somebody had struck him. He suffered terribly during the night, and died the next day. A diligent search was made for the perpetrator of the crime, but no arrests were made until Nov. 18 of last year, when three men were taken into custody, but after a hearing in the Brockton police court they were discharged.

Albee was residing at Brockton when the murder took place, but he was not suspected until May of this year, and on June 11 he was indicted for the murder. Albee had previously served a term in Plymouth jail for serious assault.

CUT HIS OWN THROAT.

The Least Crime Which Is Charged Against a Maine Man.

SHERMAN, Me., Oct. 4.—In a new settlement called New Siberia, in Stacyville plantation, about eight miles from this place, Edwin Hutchins, a farmer, attempted to kill his daughter Edna by cutting her throat and hacking her about the head and shoulders with a knife. He then kicked her in the head in a most brutal manner, leaving her for dead and took to the woods. The motive of the assault is supposed to be rape.

The girl, who is about 16 years old, and unmarried, is already the mother of a child 3 years old, of which her father is said to be the father. After the father had gone, Edna revived enough to take the other children and go to a neighbor's, where she was cared for and her wounds dressed. It is thought by physicians that she will recover. Her mother was absent from home at the time of the tragedy.

Hutchins afterward returned to his home with his throat cut, having attempted his own life. He is now under close surveillance by officers. His condition is very serious, and it is doubtful if he recovers.

Thrilling Experience.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 4.—Dr. William L. Rombough and D. A. Sullivan had a wonderful balloon trip yesterday with Professor James K. Allen. The balloon ascension was made from the north Common. The balloon had not reached the city line on Chelmsford street when Mr. Sullivan discovered that Professor Allen was unconscious. Professor Allen's legs were dangling toward the basket in which his companions were seated. They barely had time to seize his legs to prevent him from falling headlong through the air. The balloon, without a guide, passed through Tewksbury and Andover, and then changed its course toward Bedford and Lexington. It was nearly an hour in the air, and Rombough and Sullivan were nearly exhausted when the landing was made. Professor Allen did not recover full consciousness for some time after the landing of the balloon. Professor Allen, it is thought, was rendered insensible by the gas escaping from the balloon. His companions do not know what caused the balloon to descend. They suppose that in the struggles for air Professor Allen may have touched the valve which caused the gas to escape.

What Women Want.

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 4.—At the last day of the W. C. T. U. convention resolutions were adopted advocating efforts for the enactment and enforcement of municipal, state and national prohibitory laws against the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages; the continuance of all measures which have secured even partial success in the enforcement of laws; seeking, through the power of education, legislation and regeneration, to conquer the evils which arise from a double standard of morality, and assert the maxim for all sex reform "a white life for two;" urging upon the women of the land the necessity of taking advantage of every opportunity to exercise the right of franchise.

The Epworth League.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Oct. 4.—The convention of the Epworth league of Vermont and New Hampshire elected the following officers: Edward M. Taylor, Boston, president; E. O. Taylor, Gardiner, Me., first vice president; I. P. Chase, St Johnsbury, second vice president; W. J Yates, Rockville, Conn., third vice president; E. P. Herrick, Springfield, Mass., fourth vice president; W. T. Perrin, Boston, general secretary; William A. Flanders, Newton, Mass., treasurer; Mrs. A. E Smiley, Ipswich, Mass., superintendent of junior league.

Duggan Elected President.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The final session of the National Cotton Mule Spinners' association convention was devoted to the reports of districts and the discussion of grievances. These officers were elected: President, Michael Duggan, Lowell; secretary, Samuel Ross, New Bedford; treasurer, Thomas O'Donnell, Fall River; executive committee, Robert Howard, Fall River; Michael White, Dover, N. H.; John Fallon, Pawtucket, R. I.; Arthur Herbert, Taunton, and George Byron, Lewiston, Me.

Shrouded in Mystery.

BARRE, Mass., Oct. 4.—The would-be murderer of Mrs. George Rowell of this town is still at large. State Detective Murray has discarded the theory that the work was done by some wandering tramp or criminal, and this, coupled with the statement of the husband that there was but one man who knew the location of the valuables, indicate that suspicion is directed toward some resident of this town. Mrs. Rowell is still in a critical condition, but is expected to recover.

Sunday School Officers.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 4.—The Massachusetts Sunday school convention elected the following officers: President, R. G. Seymour, D.D., Lowell; vice presidents, F. P. Shumway, Jr., Melrose; Rev. D. G. Babcock, Hyde Park; Rev. G. H. Clarke, Malden; John Gilchrist, Boston; secretary, Alba M. Markey, North Andover; treasurer, C. C. Barry, Boston; auditor, Samuel Usher, Cambridge; W. N. Hartshorn, Boston, chairman executive committee.

Struck a Hurricane.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The New York ship Patrician arrived in port yesterday after a passage of 167 days from Manila, with a cargo of hemp. Captain Sterling reports that the ship was struck by a terrific squall and was thrown on her beam ends. Her entire suit of sails had been blown away, and her main and mizzen topgallant masts were sprung.

Ruth Is Four Years Old.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Oct. 4.—Ruth Cleveland attained yesterday her fourth birthday, and it was pleasantly observed at Gray Gables. A party was given to her young friends. As many who have been present on former anniversaries had returned to their city homes, there were not as many present as heretofore.

Took Laudanum.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Carrie Gordon, an actress, 23 years of age, tried to end her life last evening by taking laudanum. An acquaintance found her almost unconscious, and a doctor being called, an emetic was administered, and the woman's life saved. Sickness and lack of employment caused her rash act.

Robber Took Big Chances.

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 4.—A stranger was arrested while cracking a safe in the plumbing establishment of A. R. Jordan yesterday afternoon. He had succeeded in opening the safe when discovered, and a revolver, powder and drills were found upon his person. The burglar is doubtless a professional.

Baker Monument Dedicated.

FORT FAIRFIELD, Me., Oct. 4.—A monument erected by the state, commemorative of the patriotism of John Baker, a citizen of this town, was dedicated yesterday. Mr. Baker rendered great service to the state during the contention over the disputed territory on the eastern frontier in 1834.

O'Brien Wins.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The contest in the Republican convention over the shrievalty of Suffolk county resulted in a victory for the present incumbent, John B. O'Brien, who beat F. B. Gallupe by 34 votes. The opposition was entirely of the A. P. A. element, and the contest was a bitter one.

Inclined to Equivocate.

HARTFORD, Oct. 4.—In the Griswold arson case yesterday the principal witness for the defense, John J. Sullivan, was inclined to equivocate, and Judge Prentice told him to answer questions satisfactorily. He denied that he ever said, "We must do something to save the doctor."

From Riches to Pauperism.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 4.—George Morton, aged 70, died in the almshouse yesterday of general debility. At one time he was associated with P. T. Barnum in the circus business, and was wealthy. He lost his money and became dissipated. His wife is now in jail.

Strikers at Auburn Win.

AUBURN, Me., Oct. 4.—The moulders in the Auburn stove foundry struck yesterday for a restoration of the pay they were receiving a year ago, and got it. The reduction was 10 per cent.

HUGE PILE OF RUINS

All That Now Remains of the Warren Manufacturing Plant.

Mills, Lumber Yard and Dwellings Burned.

Would Have Been Much Worse but For Timely Aid From Outside Cities.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 4.—The mills of the Warren Manufacturing company of Warren were burned last night, and the loss will reach $1,000,000.

The fire started shortly after 7 o'clock in the washroom near the engine room of No. 1 mill, and within an hour after the blaze was discovered the flames were roaring through all three mills and lighting up the sky so that the conflagration could be seen in Providence.

The size of the fire at once became apparent to the local department, and help was almost immediately asked of Bristol, Fall River and Providence. The scene when these out-of-town companies arrived was a thrilling one, and the whole of the southern part of the little town of Warren was one seething mass of flames, which were threatening not only the adjoining tenement houses of the company, but even the business part of the town.

Almost immediately after the arrival of the Providence companies trouble was found with the supply of water, and the combined department worked under great disadvantage.

The mill in which the fire started was built 25 years ago, but the other two were comparatively recent in construction, and all these were each 700 feet in length, and contained in all 87,000 spindles, the care of which gave employment to 1600 operatives, all of whom will be thrown out of employment.

Five-Story Brick Structures,

Immediately upon the discovery of the fire the sprinklers were turned on in all three of the mills, but the fire working south from the No. 1 mill, the windows of the other two mills were soon shattered, and the hills of merchandise caught fire.

A carload of tar and another of cotton were a material assistance to the fire in its onward sweep through the great plant, and soon it was impossible to get within 200 feet of any of the buildings. The great heat caused a tremendous draught into the center of the fire, causing it to roar like an enormous furnace.

At 10:30 the two warehouses, containing $400,000 worth of Sea Island cotton and completed sheetings, caught fire, and the buildings were soon a roaring mass of flames. These two buildings had not been on fire but a few minutes when the flames jumped across to the adjoining lumber yard of Ezra Martin, and soon his entire stocks of coal, wood and dressed lumber were also being licked up by the fiery element.

Shortly before 11 o'clock the walls of two of the mills fell in, and a few of the dwelling houses occupied by the operatives also caught fire.

By most persistent and arduous efforts, the fireman gained control of the conflagration at midnight, but all that was left of the big factories, warehouses and tenements was a blazing pile of ruins. The entire contents of the plant were destroyed, with the exception of 50 bales of cotton from the warehouses, which, after taking fire, dropped into the water and were carried down the day a blazing mass,

Endangering Vessels at Anchor.

Several persons in the crowd of spectators were injured by flying bricks when the walls fell, but none was seriously hurt. When the roof of the warehouse fell, four Providence firemen were caught. They escaped by crawling down the waterpipe and then jumping a distance of 17 feet. Two were slightly injured.

The fire service here is ridiculously inadequate, as the steamer which previous to the introduction of the water service, some four years ago, had been condemned soon after that time, and the town has since relied on two hand engines and two hose carts and hydrant service for what small fires have occurred. All the assisting companies worked hard to stay the flames, but only the Bristol engine was able to use the local water service, the Fall River and Providence engine having to use salt water from the bay.

The Fall River engine broke down shortly after arriving here, and was helpless just under the walls of the warehouse. A volunteer company of 50 men drew it to a more safe position, although the walls began to totter as they worked.

The Result.

The losses are estimated as follows:

Warehouses and factories	$800,000
Material	300,000
Martin's lumber yard	15,000
Tenements	10,000
Totals	$1,125,000

The insurance on the whole of the Warren Manufacturing company's property is as follows: On the three 700-foot five-story mills, $850,000; on the raw cotton and completed sheetings in warehouses, $100,000, and on dwellings occupied by operatives, $100,000, making a total of $1,050,000.

The Warren Manufacturing company is one of the best known companies in the country, and nearly every mill owner in New England, the middle and the central states will be called upon to pay a proportionate share of the loss, which will amount to from $500 to $3000 apiece.

Increase In Gold Product.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. — Mr. Preston, director of the mint, is of the opinion, based upon unofficial data, that the gold product during 1895 will show an increase over last year of from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000.

—The fact that Dr. Talmage gave the proceeds of his lectures to his wife, and that she left him $166,000 in her will, should not encourage a rush to the platform. The list of lecturers that can draw a crowd is very small.

HISTORIC ORDER.

Mount Wollaston Lodge of Odd Fellows Celebrates

The Fiftieth Anniversary of Institution in Quincy.

An Historical Address and Others by the Grand Officers.

Among the many pleasant occasions of the Odd Fellows of this city should be placed the celebration Thursday evening of the fiftieth anniversary of Mount Wollaston lodge. There was a large gathering at the I. O. O. F. hall in the Adams building, including the lady friends of the members, and several grand officers and prominent Odd Fellows were present.

The addresses were interspersed with readings, and vocal and instrumental music. The reader was Miss Buskett who appeared twice on the programme and was recalled each time. Miss Marjorie Souther's solos were appreciated and she also responded with encores. The Misses Miller of West Quincy gave pleasing piano duets and were recalled. The male quartette was a taking card and were recalled again and again.

The historical address of Past Grand Jacobs is fully reported below. Deputy Grand Master Nevins of Salem brought the greeting of the grand lodge. He spoke of the early trials and adversities of Odd Fellowship and the difference now, and the great progress being made throughout the world.

Grand Representative Cook of Weymouth spoke of recent legislation at the Sovereign Grand lodge, a three-fourth vote being obtained to exclude from membership saloon keepers, bar tenders and professional gamblers. Odd Fellows should be proud of their order, as the institution was doing a great work not only in this country but abroad.

District Deputy Grand Master Litchfield of Weymouth was present with suite, and brought congratulations.

Grand Secretary Perkins of Chelsea, "the centenarian" of the order spoke of the progress and work of Odd Fellowship.

Grand Instructor York of Wollaston and Past Deputy Richardson of Neponset also spoke. Refreshments by Caterer Nash closed the evening's entertainment.

The Historical Address.

He said in part: The mystic symbol of the three links and the pledged devotion to the cardinal virtues of "Friendship, Love and Truth" by an organized body were first introduced in Quincy on July 18, 1845, and the institution of Mount Wollaston lodge, No. 80, I. O O. F., dates from that time.

Odd Fellowship obtained a place for itself in Maryland in 1819 and in Massachusetts in 1820. From 1841 it has been an active force as a beneficent influence for the elevation of humanity and the amelioration of the adverse circumstances surrounding human life. In 1845 there were 78 lodges with a membership of 8,254.

The charter members of the old Mt. Wollaston lodge were: J. V. Clark, (Sec.), James Brokenshire (V. G.), James B. Perkins, Isaac Cowing (N. G.), Alfred Showell, Dudley Folsom, John B. Carrier, Joseph B. Whicher (Treas.), G. Mace Gay, Joseph Pearce and Eleazer Frederick.

The first meetings of the lodge were in the hall of Norfolk lodge, Dorchester. It soon secured the hall over Wyman Abercrombie's store, now Cronk's bakery, on Washington street, and remained here until the lodge surrendered its charter.

Noble Grands.

The Noble Grands with their terms of service were:

July 18, 1845,—Isaac Cowing.
Oct. 1, 1845,—John Brokenshire.
Jan. 1, 1846,—James B. Perkins.
April 1, 1846,—Eleazer Frederick.
July 1, 1846,—John B. Currier.
Oct. 1, 1846,—Rev. S. A. Davis.
Jan. 1, 1847,—Wyman Abercrombie.
July 1, 1847,—Rev. Orange Clark.
Jan. 1, 1848,—Samuel A. Bates.
July 1, 1848,—Jabez Bigelow.
Jan. 1, 1849,—Shadrach Wade.
July 1, 1849,—Ebenezer Bent, Jr.
Jan. 1, 1850,—George L. Gill.
July 1, 1850,—S. O. Stone.
Jan. 1, 1851,—Enos Ricker.
July 1, 1851,—Dudley Folsom.
Jan. 1, 1852,—Elisha French.

Since Reinstitution

The Noble Grands h ve been: William L. Qualey, Frank W. Folsom, Thomas Talbot, Tobias H. Burke, Charles L. Hammond, Frank F. Prescott, Hiram W. Campbell, George W. Cummings, Hazen E. Ricker, Walter H. Cobb, Arthur W. Stetson, Charles L. Orne, Franklin Jacobs, Nathan Ames, Charles B. Tilton, Horace O. Souther, John C. Stewart, Edward B. Souther, Edward B. Brown, Edward L. Goodridge, Aubrey R. Keith, Alexander Shirley and T. W. Good is now in the chair.

Among the causes which led to the surrender of the charter in 1853, there may be noted as fully accounting therefor: First—Extremes following each other. We have noted the rise of Odd Fellowship in its early years, its depressions in the 30s, its rapid recovery in the 40s, and it is natural that some reaction should occur. Brothers disappointed in not finding the order all their fancy painted; not having subdued selfishness so but that the obligation they had taken proved irksome or burdensome, and the like, caused many to drop out.

Second—An excessive rate per week for benefits.

Third—A difference of opinion between the lodge and the Grand lodge, as to powers and duties of grand lodge.

Reinstitution.

March 10, 1884, the lodge was reinstituted under very favorable circumstances, increasing to 130 members before July 1 of that year. The first officers were:

N. G.,—W. L. Qualey.
V. G.,—J. R. Qualey.
R. S.,—Frank F. Prescott.
P. S.,—Walter H. Ripley.
Treas.,—George L. Gill.
Con.,—Frank W. Folsom.
W.,—Tobias H. Burke.
R. S. N. G.,—William H. Mears.
L. S. N. G.,—A. A. Hunt.
R. S. V. G.,—J. Frank Kemp.
L. S. V. G.,—Thomas Talbot.
R. S. S.,—Henry A. Willey.
L. S. S.,—George W. Cummings.
I. G.,—James Craig.
O. G.,—John Dunstan.
Chap.,—Alex. Grant.

The banner of the old lodge presented by the ladies is now in possession of the new lodge, and carefully protected in a glass case. It was presented by Samuel A. Bates of Braintree, who kept it in his possession when the old lodge surrendered its charter.

Upon reinstitution the lodge met for five years in Wilson's hall, moving to the present quarters in the Adams building in 1889.

From 1845 to 1853 the number admitted was 123. Since reinstitution 266 have been connected with the lodge, and there are today 203 members.

The lodge has assets of $4,456.61 exclusive of building fund, and has expended for beneficiary purposes $4,782 76.

Y. P. S. C. E. Officers.

The Y. P. S. C. E., of the Wollaston Congregational Church held it first meeting of the season in the church vestry on Thursday evening. There was a large attendance of members. Refreshments were served. These officers were elected to serve for the ensuing six months:

President,—Levi Nichols.

Vice President,—Miss N. Maud Thompson.

Secretary and Treasurer,—Barney D. Mann.

Lookout Committee,—Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Austin, Miss Mary MacKay, Miss Alice Thompson, Miss Helen Dunham.

Social Committee,—Mr. and Mrs. John A. Barbour, Miss Mae A. Lincoln, Miss Marion Nickerson, Miss Mabel H. Winship.

Flower Committee,—Miss Susie L. Delano, Mrs. Amos T. Leavitt, Miss Emma White, Miss Ida Simpson, Miss Carrie White.

Prayer Meeting Committee,—E. Wilson Blake, Miss Stella M. Haynes, Miss Abbie Mann, Charles A. Tanner, Miss Annie Perry.

Missionary Committee,—Miss Margaret M. Thompson, Miss Alice B. Dunham, Miss Sarah P. Wiley, Miss Maud A. Perry, Frederick K. Belcher.

Delegate to State Convention held at Pittsfield, Oct. 8th and 9th,—Miss Margaret M. Thompson.

Thayer Academy.

The boys are ready to play the Weymouths again as soon as they have had a little more practice.

Miss Thompson has gone away for about a week leaving Miss Burns, her assistant, in full charge of the history department.

The bowling alley has been well patronized lately in the early part of the afternoons especially by the new boys. Some of the scores are not very remarkable.

Mr. J. W. Chick thinks that it is rather early in the season to start the furnace fires.

Harry Merritt, the well known swimmer of Braintree, was admitted to the junior class this week.

—They have girls for street car conductors down in Chili. Down there it takes three bells to start a car.

The largest piece of bronze work ever cast in this country is said to be the statue of Gen. Devens, by Olin L. Warner, and the arms only are separated.

The greatest light above the sea over which a canal boat has been carried by means of locks was on the old Ohio canal in Poatage county.

GAYNOR DECLINES.

Will Not Become a Candidate For Brooklyn Mayoralty Honors.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4.—Judge William E. Gaynor has declined to become a candidate for mayor upon the call of a mass meeting which was held in this city Monday evening.

JUSTICE GAYNOR.

His declination, he says, is because the expectation of the meeting that he would be nominated by the regular Democracy and the Shepard Democracy was not realized.

VETERAN ATHLETE DEAD.

Gained an Unenviable Reputation as a Baseball and Cricket Player.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 4.—Harry Wright, chief of umpires of the National League and American Association of Baseball clubs, and ex-manager of the Philadelphia National League club, died of catarrhal pneumonia, aged 60 years. Mr. Wright was taken sick in Philadelphia about 10 days ago, and thought the trip to the seashore would be beneficial. He grew worse, and an operation was deemed advisable by his physicians. A large quantity of pus was removed from his chest two days ago. He rallied for a time, then sank rapidly until death came yesterday afternoon.

Harry Wright was the most widely known and perhaps the best posted baseball man of the times; always thoroughly honest and conscientious in his dealings with managers and players he established a most enviable reputation. He was born in England in 1835, but came to this country with his parents a year later.

His athletic career began as a cricketer. He commenced to play baseball in 1857, when he was center fielder for the famous Knickerbockers of New York. In 1866 he helped to organize the Cincinnati Red Stockings. During the season of 1869 the Red Stockings traveled all over the United States without losing a game. It was while a member of this club that Harry Wright, June 22, 1867, made seven home runs, the record to this day.

As a cricketer Harry Wright ranked in the first class, and for many years took part in all the important matches played in this country. His quiet, gentlemanly deportment had made him many friends on and off the field.

Husband's Sentiments Endorsed.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Mrs. William E. Gladstone, in opening a bazaar at Chester in aid of the Armenian fund yesterday, said: "No words of mine are necessary to commend to you the frightful need of help. Thank, God, you are fully aware of the horrible details, and I plead to you in behalf of the poor Armenians to allay their sufferings. We can not, as my husband says, dictate to the government as to the time, but the whole country awaits with the greatest anxiety the arrival at some effectual agreement which is properly guaranteed."

Had to Settle.

HALIFAX, Oct. 4. — The Gloucester (Mass.) schooner Shenandoah put into Halifax yesterday for shelter. She is bound home from the Grand Banks and has 12,000 green fish on board. Her captain got his clearance papers and departed from the custom house, like others have done, without paying the fees, etc. He weighed anchor, and was just departing when a customs officer boarded the Shenandoah and made the skipper liquidate his liabilities.

Two For Spiders.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3.—The visitors were outplayed at every point in the second game for the Temple cup. The Clevelands began to do business in the first inning.

Cleveland..... 3 0 0 0 1 2 1 0 — 7
Baltimore..... 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 0 0— 2

Earned runs—Cleveland, 3; Baltimore, 1. Base hits—Cleveland, 11; Baltimore, 5. Errors—Cleveland, 3. Baltimore, 3. Batteries—Cuppy and Zimmer; Hoffer and Clarke.

Not Ready to Talk.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Lieutenant Peary came quietly to this city from Boston with Mrs. Peary and went to the Bartholdi hotel. The explorer looked the picture of health. He remained only a few hours in this city and then went to Philadelphia, saying that he would be back in about a week, until which time he refused to have anything to say to reporters.

Barred All Around.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 4.—The question of allowing the prize fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons in Mexican territory has already been decided on at a consultation with the governor of Chihuahua, who had telegraphed for President Diaz's opinion. The latter replied, peremptorily forbidding the prize fight occurring on Mexican soil.

Eucharistic Congress Closed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The Eucharistic congress of the Catholic church completed its session last night with a procession. It was a most imposing demonstration. Prior to the procession, a strong resolution was passed in favor of Sunday observance as a practical means of sanctifying the holy eucharist.

In Favor of Increasing the Jurisdiction.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 4.—The Association for the Reform and Codification of the Law of Nations is sitting here. The association voted in favor of increasing the jurisdiction over the sea of maritime nations to six miles from the shore instead of three miles, as at present is the law.

Condor's Captain Held.

LIMA, Oct. 4.—Advices from Guyaquil say that the British steamer Condor, which ran into the United States cruiser Alert and damaged her to an extent of $20,000, has been released. The Condor's captain is, however, detained, pending a decision in the case.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

A Business Opportunity.

A business opportunity doesn't always mean a chance to get work. Its a business opportunity to be able to get and keep on hand, a box of TAYLOR'S ANTI-HEADACHE POWDERS, to be used to clear the head of the excruciating pains of headache. Guaranteed absolutely harmless. Cure any headache in 5 minutes. Get them of Leonard J. Pastor, Ph. G., 27 School street.

—In July and August 15,655 people visited Pilgrim Hall, Plymouth. These being the two largest months of visitors ever known.

—Five and a half million dollars' worth of oysters were taken in Maryland in 1893.

HOOD'S PILLS Cure LIVER ILLS.

Your Liver Is out of order if you have bitter taste, offensive breath, sick headache, slight fever, weight or fullness in the stomach, heartburn, or nausea. Hood's Pills rouse the liver, cure biliousness, restore proper digestion, expel accumulated impurities, cure constipation. 25 cents. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. James T. Weeks will build a house on Tremont street. Work will begin next week.

Robert Vaughn will conduct a religious service in the Square, Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock.

Remember the Teachers' institute to be held in the Monatiquot school building Oct. 9th at 9 A. M.

The M. E. people will continue to hold gospel meetings in C. H. Hobart's old store every evening. They commence at 7.30 and all are welcome.

Mrs. George French, who has been the organist at the M. E. church during the past twenty years and more, has recently resigned the position and Mrs. H. C. Stone is now officiating.

The Republicans of Braintree are invited to attend a caucus in the Town Hall Tuesday evening Oct. 8th, at 7.30, for the purpose of choosing delegates to the Sixth Norfolk Representative Convention.

Dr. Bridgham, who by the way, has a host of friends here, has moved to Malden where he will build up a practice. A town like Braintree hates to lose good men, but we must rest with the thought that Malden gains what we have lost. Dr. Brett takes his business here.

While Mr. N. R. Procter was busy in his store one day this week he lost a ring from his left hand and immediately made a search for it. He could think of only three places where it could be, one was in the stove where he had pushed in some waste paper, in a basket of laundry that he had packed for Wollaston, or in a bag of waste paper that he helped put up for Mr. Long of East Braintree. Hastily he tried the stove but no ring; so he wrote a postal card to Mr. Long and one to Wollaston asking for the missing article. The next morning Mr. Long brought in his ring, and the next mail brought another ring from Wollaston. Now the question is, who lost the laundry one? Mr. Procter is satisfied with his own.

Miss Martha J. Ambrose of the Perkins school, has resigned to accept a position in a grammar school in Revere.

The lecture of Hon. F. A. Hill next Wednesday evening at the Town House, although an able and scholarly one, is free to all who desire to be present. Mr. Hill is a popular and entertaining speaker and his subject, "Our schools of an earlier period," should be of interest to all.

The new flag pole was placed on the Monatiquot building last Saturday.

Mr. C. E. Townsend has stopped carrying the Pond street pupils, because the pay, five dollars per week was insufficient. The committee are looking for some one else to do this work.

White, Lewiston, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Brown, Livermore Falls, Me; Mr. and Mrs. Charles French, Bangor, Me.; William H. Ryder, Pembroke; Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Plymouth; D. J. Padula, Worcester; Mary F. Readdy, Ellen M. Ready, Charlestown.

Red Men.

There was a large attendance of Red Men at the wigwam of Hodenosaunee tribe of Wollaston last evening, to witness the adoption of two palefaces, and the conferring of the Hunter's degree on three brothers. The deputy grand sachem of the tribe, J. Frank Gardner of Brockton, was present and made a long talk to the tribe and complimented the chiefs on the good degree work they had performed.

Resignation and New Pastor.

The resignation of Rev. Oliver M. Fisher was read from the pulpit last Sunday morning. He sent it while away on his vacation stating as his reason that he had been called to a wider field of usefulness. Rev. George B. Shanor has been appointed as pastor. He is a married man, a member of the Cincinnatti Conference and will take up his residence in Atlantic at once.

—According to the census there live in Massachusetts 207,901 people of Canadian parentage, or about as many as the entire population of Montreal, by far the biggest city in Canada. Of Irish parentage there are 596,323 people in Massachusetts, which number exceeds the combined population of Belfast, Dublin and Cork, the three largest cities in Ireland. The Germans contribute 56,126 to the make up of the commonwealth, which are enough to make a bigger city than New England has north of Boston. The English have 120,028, or nearly as many as are in any New England city outside of Boston; and so the story runs for all nations.

Yesterday's Conventions.

A fuller report of the conventions yesterday will be of interest. Time did not admit of a lengthy report yesterday.

County Convention.

There was a breezy convention of Norfolk county Republicans in Wesleyan hall, Boston, Thursday. It began with a ballot for temporary chairman, when Robert W. Carpenter of Foxboro was elected over R. H. O. Shulz by a large majority. John P. S. Churchill of Milton was chosen secretary.

Only one of the 122 delegates, to which the convention was entitled was absent.

Then Henry H. Faxon bobbed up and in a lengthy speech placed W. Walter Ewell of Quincy in nomination for county commissioner, but it was largely lost as the convention voted to proceed to the nomination of a sheriff.

Abram C. Paul of Stoughton was placed in nomination, and in spite of Mr. Faxon's objection to method, was nominated by acclamation.

It was then voted to proceed to an informal ballot, although Mr. Faxon desired it to be formal. When it was discovered that Mr. Blanchard had a bare majority Mr. Faxon objected to making it formal, but the vote prevailed.

These nominations were made: W. W. Ewell of Quincy, Thomas B. Blanchard of Stoughton, J. Tisdale Southworth of Randolph and Everett J. Eaton of Needham. Mr. Faxon spoke several times in opposition to the present board of county commissioners and Mr. Blanchard, and for a while there was a hot discussion.

There were 119 votes cast, 60 being a majority, and they were divided as follows:

J. T. Southworth,	10
W. W. Ewell,	12
E. J. Eaton,	37
Thomas Blanchard,	60

The ballot was made formal.

The terms of Everett J. Eaton and Silas A. Stone will expire as special commissioners and there was a motion that they be renominated by acclamation, but Sharon delegates objected to their townsman. Mr. Eaton was renominated by acclamation, and after two ballots L. R. Whittaker of Franklin was the other nominee.

There was some opposition to the county committee reported, but the list was adopted, viz: W. E. C. Swan of Stoughton; C. H. Henry of Wellesley; O. H. Green of Sharon; James McCullough of Brookline; S. R. Moseley of Hyde Park; C. L. Hammond of Quincy; F. A. Fales of Norwood; N. W. Hawes of Wrentham; John Graham of Milton; J. W. Chase of Dedham.

District Attorney Convention.

Only 102 of the 227 delegates chosen to the Republican District Attorney convention were present Thursday.

Hon. R. O. Harris of East Bridgewater was nominated district attorney by acclamation on motion of Judge Grover of Canton. The opposition to Mr. Harris has disappeared since it became understood that he would not reappoint Mr. Shulz assistant district attorney.

This district committee was selected: W. T. Danforth, Plymouth; I. F. Burnham, Stoughton; J. R. Bacon, Norwood; W. T. Copeland, Brockton; H. D. Pierce, Abington; J. H. Flint, Weymouth.

—In this great world in which we live, few people are successful compared with the large population that throng the globe. In the United States, only five per cent. of the 70,000,000 are counted successful, while the thousands of others who started in business life, run for a time, couldn't make both ends meet, and then came the frost. Young men should first learn the ins and outs of a business, which knowledge greatly enhances their chances for success. Fifteen to forty is said to be the best years of any man. See that you improved them.

—Our people who rush into Boston for a thousand and one things they could buy as well or better at home show very funny ideas of economy. Our local merchants keep full lines of all essential goods culled from the best stocks in Boston and New York. For the same grade of goods they are not undersold in the Boston market, while the satisfaction of being in touch with the dealer for the rectification of mistakes or exchange of goods is worth a great deal to the purchaser.—Waltham Free Press.

—The South Shore Press says, "It is reported that Elisha Thayer of Braintree has sold to a syndicate a large tract of land at Cedar Beach (near Whitehead for $25,000. It is stated that a dike will be built and the water front considerable improved.

—Mr. Lenas Loring of Hingham, one of the pioneers of summer hotel business at Nantasket, and for 50 years proprietor of the Centre House, died on Saturday, aged 81 years.

—The state roads now being built are awakening interest in the public mind. The Massachusetts Highway Commission have now in hand 220 petitions from towns and cities desiring them built within their limits. Forty roads are now in process of construction, and the extent of all petitioned for is about 800 miles.

—The opening of the Mechanics' fair in Boston this week has been very successful. This year, being the centennial of the formation of the Association, the fair will be of unusual importance.

Ladies' Handicap Tournament.

There was a large attendance of spectators at the Wollaston Golf club's links at Bellevue Park, on Thursday afternoon, to witness the ladies' handicap tournament of nine holes. There was some very clever playing. Mrs. Elbert H. Brock was the prize winner. The score:

Whiton—Woodbury.

Among the hills of New Hampshire, in the quiet town of Francestown, there was a pretty wedding on Thursday which was attended by the Quincy relatives of the contracting couple. Miss Edith Woodbury of Francestown, daughter of Jesse P. Woodbury, Esq., and granddaughter of the late William S. Morton, Esq., of Quincy, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., of Quincy Point. Rev. Herbert Remick of Riverside, R. I., an uncle of the bride was the officiating clergyman. The bride was given away by her father. Little Fanny Woodbury, sister of the bride was a charming maid of honor. The halls were decorated with mountain laurels and brilliant fall leaves, and the parlors were beautiful with flowers.

A BABY

CONTRADICTS THE DOCTORS.

All Are Happy, Glad, and Well.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

The theories of physicians in regard to female complaints suffer a "Waterloo" very frequently, when sensible and thinking women take matters into their own hands.

Women are sometimes compelled to act for themselves, because of the suffering forced upon them by incompetent doctors, who are baffled by very simple complaints, because they are not the right sex to comprehend them.

Lydia E. Pinkham, when she gave to the world her Vegetable Compound, lifted women from the darkness into light. She placed within their reach a guaranty, not only of health, but of delicacy and self-respect.

The following letter is a little story where a "dear little boy" was the "Waterloo."

"I have taken three bottles of your Vegetable Compound, one package of Sanative Wash, one box of Liver Pills; and now I have a dear little babe four weeks old, and I am well. I have to thank you for this.

"I have spent $200.00 for doctors' bills without a cure. For my cure I only spent $5.00.

"I was once a victim of female troubles in their worst form. I have suffered untold agonies every month; had to stay in bed, and have poultices applied, and then could not stand the pain.

"My physician told me if I became pregnant I would die. I had bladder trouble, itching, backache, catarrh of the stomach, hysteria, and heart trouble, fainting spells and leucorrhœa. Can you wonder that I sing the praises of a medicine that has cured me of all these ills?" MRS. GEO. C. KIRCHNER, 351 Snediker Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Faith.

My God, I thank thee! May no thought
E'er deem thy chastisements severe,
But may this heart, by sorrow taught,
Calm each wild wish, each idle fear.

Thy mercy bids all nature bloom.
The sun shines bright, and man is gay;
Thine equal mercy spreads the gloom
That darkens o'er his little day.

Full many a throb of grief and pain
Thy frail and erring child must know,
But not one prayer is breathed in vain,
Nor does one tear unheeded flow.

Thy various messengers employ,
Thy purposes of love fulfill,
And, midst the wreck of human joy,
Let kneeling faith adore thy will.

Tramps or Firebugs.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Oct. 4.—Three large barns and a corncrib on the farm of F. J. Haskins at Zylonite burned to the ground yesterday. The stock was pastured and escaped. Fire probably incendiary or due to tramps. Loss, $7000.

Overcome by Sleep.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 4.—James Dougherty, aged 24, a brakeman on a freight train, who was sent back to flag a passenger train at Oakland, fell asleep, and was run over and killed by the train.

Wandered to Her Death.

MILFORD, Mass., Oct. 4.—The dead body of Mrs. Bridget Noon, the aged Upton woman, who wandered into Bear Hill woods, South Milford, Sept. 19, was found last evening in Box pond, Bellingham.

Stabbing Results Fatally.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Charles Dahlberg, who was stabbed in a row on a steamer last week, died yesterday. His assailants, Theodore Ringhoff and Charles Mitchell, will be arraigned for manslaughter.

SALISBURY IS NOTIFIED

That the Powers Should No Longer Delay on the Armenian Matter.

Further Disastrous Disturbances Are Inevitable.

Not Since Greek Revolution Has Such Terror Prevailed In Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 4.—Intelligence from Erzroom states that in Passen, Khnouss and other parts of Armenia further disturbances may be expected unless measures are taken immediately to calm the people, who are emigrating whenever they can.

The principal Armenian ecclesiastic is the authority for saying that disastrous disturbances are inevitable unless the powers intervene. The people are convinced that their life is simply impossible. The metropolitan archbishop of Erzroom has telegraphed to the British premier, Lord Salisbury, to that effect.

The Armenian patriarch was on Tuesday invited to attend the porte, but he declined, because none of his followers was allowed to accompany him. He remained at the patriarchate, shut up with several hundred armed Armenians. The authorities have summoned him to surrender these people, otherwise the building will be stormed.

Softas Blamed.

In reviewing the incidents of the past few days, it appears that the police have generally not been supplied with ball cartridges, and have been instructed only to use the flat of their swords and the butts of their rifles. Most of the violence upon Armenians has been committed by Softas (students) and the low class of Moslems, whom the police, however, do not appear to have arrested or interfered with.

Great consternation prevails at the palace, and the sultan has not been in bed since Monday. It is felt that a crisis has arrived, and there is much anxiety lest other revolutionary factions shall join with the Armenians. Since the Greek revolution, Constantinople has never fallen into such terror as is now reigning.

The police have not yet attempted to clear the patriarchate, and it is hoped that they will not resort to force, as a most fearful massacre would inevitably result. The Armenians are huddled together in the church, with barely standing room. They have to depend for food upon such scraps as are brought to them.

It is estimated at the patriarchate that over 200 Armenians have been killed.

A Close Shave.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Colonel Crofton, commander of the Fifteenth infantry, Fort Sheridan, narrowly escaped death at the hands of Lieutenant Pague of company F, Fifteenth infantry, yesterday. The lieutenant fired three shots at the commander. One passed through a loose fold of his overcoat, over the right groin, the second and third passing close to the body. Lieutenant Pague had been undergoing treatment for mental trouble, occasioned, it is said, by over-indulgence in liquor.

Not a Great Success.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The agricultural department has received information that among the cattle shipped to London from Australia six cases of pleuro pneumonia were discovered. This may have an important bearing on the competition with our meats from that quarter, as it is presumed England will prohibit further importations from Australia. The prices obtained from Australian meats (7 cents, dressed weight) were not satisfactory to the Australian shippers.

Thought of Poor Farmers.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 4.—The convention decided last night to take a recess from today until Oct. 14. The convention, but a day or two since, overwhelmingly decided not to take a recess. Senator Tillman introduced the motion last night because, he said, the farmers ought to be at home, seeing about gathering their crops. The convention agreed with him

Armes Must Explain.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—It has been definitely decided by the war department to appoint a court-martial to try Captain G. A. Armes for his alleged offensive conduct toward Lieutenant General Schofield. Charge one is that of conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline. The second charge is that of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Pekin Considered Unsafe.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 4.—Li Hung Chang has gone to Pekin at the special request of the Dowager Empress of China, with whom he has always had the most cordial relations. A grand scheme of administrative reorganization has been prepared between them, a prominent feature being the removal of the capital from Pekin to some more secure place in central China.

Finances Still In a Tangle.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 4.—Revenue returns for the past quarter will fall far below the corresponding period last year, and will fail to realize the hopes of the treasury department. It is absolutely necessary to thoroughly reorganize the customs department, or else the colony will again be involved in financial embarrassment.

A Bank Official's Error.

RICHMOND, Oct. 4.—R. W. Cardwell, for many years bookkeeper in the State bank of this city, plead guilty yesterday to making false entries so as to allow a depositor to overdraw his account. He was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Pockets Well Lined.

MOUNT VERNON, Ind., Oct. 4.—It has been learned that Albert Wade, assistant cashier of the First National bank, who disappeared Monday, took with him $7000 in gold and $6000 in silver and paper belonging to the bank's depositors.

To Fight Tammany.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Resolutions were passed by the Chamber of Commerce favoring a union ticket against Tammany Hall this fall. A committee of 55 was appointed.

Struck by a Switcher.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 4.—Chester B. Russell, 50 years old, was struck by a switcher on the Consolidated road last night. He will die.

'Tis Now a Law.

AUSTIN, Oct. 4.—At 4:50 yesterday afternoon Governor Culberson signed the anti-prize fight bill.

THE DURRANT TRIAL

Continues to Furnish Sensational Incidents as It Proceeds.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—The trial of Theodore Durrant was replete with sensations yesterday. Henry W. McCoy, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, who was cited for contempt last Monday for telling Juror Truman that if he did not hang Durrant, the people would hang him, was fined $250, with the alternative of five days in the county jail.

During the cross-examination of a witness summoned by the defense the prosecution developed the fact that a student at Cooper medical college who did not attend the lecture delivered by Dr. Cheney on the afternoon of April 3 was recorded present in the rollcall book. This testimony is of the greatest importance to the prosecution, from the fact that it shows the unreliability of the rollcall book, in which Durrant was recorded present on the afternoon that Blanche Lamont was murdered.

The last sensation of the day was an order made by the court committing Miss Carrie Cunningham, a newspaper reporter, to the county jail for refusing to answer a question. The defense desired to impeach the testimony of Mrs. Leake, who said she did not tell Miss Cunningham that she saw Durrant and Miss Lamont enter Emanuel Baptist church on the afternoon of April 3. Miss Cunningham testified that Mrs. Leake did not tell her what she had seen, but when asked to reveal the source of her information the witness declined to answer. An order was made committing the witness to the county jail for contempt, but, on motion of the defense, it was made to go into effect today, when Miss Cunningham will be given another chance to answer the question.

The defense placed on the stand yesterday eight more students who attended the lecture delivered by Dr. Cheney on the afternoon of April 3, to testify as to whether they had answered to Durrant's name at rollcall. Each witness gave a negative answer. With the exception of six, all of the members of the class have now been asked this question. One of the students has died since April 3, and the prosecution has been unable to obtain the attendance of the other five in court. The prosecution limited the cross-examination in each case to asking if the witness saw Durrant at the lecture. Not a student was found who remembered having seen the defendant.

The notes of each witness were placed in evidence by the prosecution. The notes promise to play an important part in the future proceedings, as the prosecution intends to compare them with the notes said to have been taken by Durrant at the time.

The defense endeavored to show by F. A. Ross, a student at Cooper medical college, that on the afternoon that Blanche Lamont was murdered, he and Durrant took a walk from the college to the vicinity of the Golden Gate. Ross remembered that he and Durrant had taken such a walk, but said he could not fix the date.

Silence Causing Worriment.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Considerable anxiety is beginning to be felt in scientific centers regarding Dr. Donaldson Smith's African expedition, news of which is long overdue. According to the latest advices, Dr. Smith had been stopped by the Abyssinian army, and it is feared he had to retrace his steps. He may thus have got behind the district where the British are now fighting and been caught by the natives.

A Bank Wrecking Case.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—In the Indianapolis National bank case against Francis and Percival Coffin, for conspiracy, the jury returned a verdict that Francis Coffin was guilty, as charged, and that Percival was not guilty. The charge was aiding and abetting President Haughey of the late Indianapolis National bank to wreck that institution.

The New Commanders.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—General Ruger left Washington last night for New York to assume command of the department of the east, which will be turned over to him by General Miles today. General Miles will announce his assumption of the command of the army in a general order issued by himself.

Won't Accept Resignations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Judge Lacombe has refused to confirm the appointment of the new receivers for the Northern Pacific Railway company, or to accept the resignation of the old board, Messrs. Oakes, Payne and Rouse.

Wound Up With Fireworks.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 4.—Merchant week ended last night with a grand fireworks display, which was viewed by thousands. The celebration has been the most successful ever undertaken in Lowell.

No Indictment.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 4.—The grand jury yesterday refused to find an indictment against Editor D. F. Lingane, who was arrested for shooting Oceola Cook.

Windle's Great Mile.

HARTFORD, Oct. 4.—Willie Windle made a mile at Charter Oak park yesterday in 1:47 3-5, which equals the record by J. S. Johnson.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 6. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The duty of happiness.—John xv, 11; Ps. xxxvii, 1-11.

Happiness is desired by all. It is universally sought. The goal of almost every project in life is happiness in some form or another. We seek wealth, position, fame and honor most of all that we may find happiness in them.

There are different kinds of happiness. The world has one kind of happiness. Sinful pleasures do, for a time at least, bring to men a certain kind of happiness. But the joy of the sinner is short lived. It works death, and death ends all his joy, if it has not been ended even before death, but the Christian's joy really only begins at death. His joy is the joy of Christ, and Christ liveth forever. Some one has compared the sinner's joy to lightning—a flash and it is gone—and the joy of the saint to light—"lasting, healthful, healing and beautiful."

But the Christian's joy, while it does not end in this life, is to begin here. Christ here imparts some of His joy to us. He spoke comforting words to His disciples that His joy might be with them, and their joy be fulfilled. There may be many things about us in life that may tend to dampen our joy and happiness, but still we are to rejoice. It is our duty to do so.

Happiness is a duty, because if we are not joyful in the Lord we misrepresent Christ and Christianity. Christ has promised us happiness and joy, and if we are not joyful we say to the world that He has not fulfilled His promise. There is a duty resting upon us, therefore, to "rejoice in the Lord."

Happiness is a duty, because it is commanded. "Delight thyself also in the Lord, and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart," says the psalmist. "Rejoice in the Lord," says the apostle, "and again, I say, rejoice." God commands us to be happy in Him. We are in duty bound to obey the commands of God. It should be a matter of congratulation to us that God not only desires us to be happy, but actually commands it. We might think that in this world of sin and sorrow it was not for the children of God to be happy. This was once the principle upon which many Christians lived. But it is a false principle. God wants us to be happy even here. He commands us to be. Let us as Christians cultivate man, and the spirit of cheerfulness, of joy, that we may correctly represent Christ, and that we may obey God's commands.

Bible Readings.—Job xxii, 23-26; Ps. i, 1, 2; xvi, 11; xxxii, 11; xxxiii, 1-5; xcvii, 12; Prov. xvi, 20; xxviii, 14; Isa. lviii, 14; Heb. iii, 18, 19; Joel ii, 21-24; Math. v, 12; John xiv, 28; xvii, 13; Acts ii, 25-27; v, 41, 42; Rom. xii, 10-15; II Cor. vi. 10; Gal. v, 22, 23; Phil. iv, 4; I Pet. i, 3-8; iii, 14-16; I John i, 1-4; Rev. xix, 7-9.

NO EXCUSE FOR POOR MEETINGS.

A Seven Member Society That Sets a Good Example For Others.

There is a California society of only seven members, yet on a recent evening they held as a regular meeting one whose brief synopsis is the following:

There was first a ten minute praise service of prayer songs, prayer being the subject of the evening. Then came a moment of silent prayer, after which the members read in concert the sixty-first psalm. The prayer meeting committee then led a Bible reading, whose subject was, "The Bible Teachings With Regard to Prayer." In answer to the leader's question, "What is prayer?" five members gave their answers. Then came quotations and poems taken from "Aids to Endeavor," and sentence prayers in which one prayed who had never prayed before. Following this, one member recited a poem, "Answered Prayer," and another told about the emphasis B. Fay Mills puts upon prayer in his meetings, and at the close were prayers for special objects.

If a meeting of so much interest and variety can be conducted by a society so small, can any of us find an excuse for poor meetings in our larger societies?—Golden Rule.

Junior Endeavorers.

And now for the Juniors. In addition to the 8,859 Junior "spokes" from the United States, there are 339 from Canada and 224 from other lands, making in all 9,122 Junior societies, with a membership of 340,000. While the numbers of Juniors were included in the enumeration by states it will be of interest to know that Pennsylvania still leads the Juniors, with 1,023; New York, not very far behind, with 920; Illinois next, with 746; Ohio, 623; Indiana, 470; California, 414, etc.—Annual Report.

Endeavor Jottings.

The Junior Endeavor society of the Parliament Street Baptist church of Toronto gave a birthday party a short time ago, at which bags were distributed, and in them each placed a penny for every year of his age. These bags were then collected by the Juniors.

Total societies, 39,725; total membership, 2,383,500.

Let not your committee chairmen get into easy chairs.

"For Christ In All Things" is the individual motto of a South Africa Endeavor society.

The Cleveland convention is not yet done "echoing." Two Chinese boys reported the gathering at a rally in Fuchau, China, and great interest was manifested in the story.

A Vancouver (B. C.) Japanese society reports 80 conversions of associate members within a year and a number of missionaries sent out to their countrymen.

The secretary's report shows that Oklahoma now boasts 109 Young People's societies, with a membership of 2,280, and 20 Junior societies, with a membership of 515, making in all 129 local societies, with a total membership of 2,795.

ST. PAUL'S TRIAL TRIP

Earns Her the Right to Carry Mail Across the Ocean.

Record Did Not Reach That of the St. Louis

But Conditions Prevented Her Showing Up to Her Full Advantage.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 5.—The big ocean steamship St. Paul, built by the Cramps of Philadelphia, as a sister ship to the St. Louis for the International Navigation company's line, made an average speed of 20.5 knots an hour in her official trial trip of almost 88 knots over the government course off this coast yesterday.

In every respect the trial was a most satisfactory one. The vessel's machinery worked perfectly; there was nofoaming of the boilers as on the preliminary run last Wednesday, and the vessel cut through the waves gracefully and easily, with a noticeable lack of vibration. Her builders and the officials of the International Navigation company are well satisfied with the result of the trial, and are confident that after she has been docked and her bottom has been cleaned a little work will greatly add to her speed, and when the stiffness of her machinery has worn away she will equal the St. Louis' record of 22.3 knots an hour.

Yesterday's trial was under the supervision of Commander Bradford, Commander Schroeder, Lieutenant Patch and Lieutenant Mulligan of the government trial board, who took careful notes of the vessel's performance to determine her eligibility as a United States mail steamship and as an auxiliary cruiser of the United States navy in the event of war. She met fully the speed requirement of 20 knots an hour, proved herself steady and powerful, and in every respect met the demands of the government.

Details of the Trial.

The St. Paul left her anchorage off Boston light with her boilers thoroughly cleansed and filled with fresh water, her machinery in perfect order and 400 tons of coal in her bunkers. She made good time from the light down to Cape Ann, and at 8:30 she was headed for the starting line. She crossed it at 8:50 and pointed her nose down the course to Cape Porpoise, Me., 43.96 knots to the eastward.

Her twin screw propellers were then pushing her through the waves at a rate of almost 20 knots an hour, with a 15-knot breeze blowing dead against her. Every piece of machinery assisting her in her propulsion was working perfectly, the boilers were performing their duty faithfully, and the liner swiftly sped to the eastward.

Her vibration was noticeably slight, the "bone" at her bows was small as her prow cleaved through the waves, but the milk-white wake astern, churned up by her rapidly revolving propellers, and the whirl of the patent log which dragged behind gave ample evidence of her speed.

The second mark boat on the course anchored off Boon island, 32 knots from the start, was passed at 10:22, at a speed of about 20 knots, and soon after the tugboat anchored at the finish line, off Cape Porpoise, was sighted. This mark, which ended the first half of the trial, was passed at 11:01, two hours and 11 minutes after the start, making the average speed for the 43.96 knots 20.11 knots an hour.

On the Way Back.

Less than 15 minutes were occupied in making the turn preparatory to the run back, and at 11:15 a. m. the St. Paul recrossed the line and began her race back. The Boon island mark was passed at 11:55. The tug which was anchored there got under way as soon as the St. Paul passed, and followed the big ship at her top speed, but it was the feeble effort of a midget in pursuit of a giant, and she was soon lost sight of.

The stakeboat off Thatcher's island, indicating the finish, was in view soon after noon, and with an exultant shriek of her whistle she crossed the line and terminated the trial at 1:22 p. m. with a clean record.

She had made the run westward on the last half of the trial in two hours and seven minutes, at an average speed of 20.89 knots an hour, making her average for the entire trial 20.5, or over 23 miles an hour. The average revolutions of the vessel's screw during the run were 89.5 going east and 90 on the return trip west. The boilers steamed easily, at no time giving trouble, and the indicators showed an average pressure of 190 pounds. The slip of the wheel was about 18 per cent, much higher than in the trial of the St. Louis, caused, in the opinion of experts, by the condition of the ship's bottom.

All of the conditions being considered, the builders and owners of the vessel were well satisfied with the work of the ship, and believe that she will prove one of the fastest and best of her class in the world.

The St. Paul stopped a few moments off Gloucester, immediatly after the trial, and then proceeded to New York. She will go on the International Navigation company's European line next week.

Paid $7500 In Fines.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 5.—Twenty-four liquor dealers were fined $100 and costs each yesterday and 16 have been summoned for today. When the 16 cases have been passed upon, every dealer in the city will have been fined for second offenses. The penalty for third offense is imprisonment, and the dealers are greatly agitated at the prospect of being again summoned. During the past three days the city has received more than $7500 in fines.

Returned From Long Trip.

BOSTON, Oct. 5. — The Massachusetts nautical training ship Enterprise, Commander Merry, U. S. N., arrived in this harbor yesterday and dropped anchor off India wharf. The Enterprise has been absent from this port since May 20, and during that time has visited the Western islands, Tangier, Gibraltar, Malaga, Madeira and the Canary islands.

Asks Forgiveness.

AMESBURY, Mass., Oct. 5. — Jacob Crosby of Merrimac, brother of Henry Crosby, who was murdered last fall, has received a letter from Frank C. Hunt, one of the murderers, now serving a 30-year sentence in state prison, asking forgiveness for the deed. Mr. Crosby has not yet answered the letter.

Charter Changes Proposed.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 5.—The committee appointed last January to revise the city charter made their report last evening. Among the most important changes recommended are: The abolishment of the present board of aldermen, and substituting one legislative body of 32 members; the giving of the appointment and removal power absolutely to the mayor in all offices except city clerk, city treasurer and auditor. This charter will be submitted to the legislature for approval at its next session.

Old Schoolmaster Dead.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Colonel Samuel Harrington, aged 65, head master of the Eliot school, died this morning. He had been sick for a month past, and his death had been expected for some days. His military record extended through the entire period of the civil war.

A Marked Building.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 5. — The Barstow building on Weybossett street was set on fire yesterday afternoon for a third time within six months, and damaged to the amount of $10,000. The fire was set on the second floor by some person unknown.

Work For Builders.

WARREN, R. I., Oct. 5.—The Warren Manufacturing company will rebuild at once at a cost of $1,000,000. The erection of the plant will occupy over a year, and the hundreds of operatives will be obliged to seek for work elsewhere.

Trolley Cars' Latest Victim.

NORWICH, Conn., Oct. 5.—Willie Dunn, aged 6 years, was run over by an electric car yesterday and instantly killed. The body was cut in two. Conductor Larkin and Motorman Ellsworth are held, pending investigation.

One Hall Held Them All.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 5.—About 500 people listened last night to addresses by E. G. Brown, the People's party candidate for governor, and T. C. Brocton, that party's candidate for lieutentant governor.

Was Bottom Up.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 5.—The schooner Maud Sherwood, from Norfolk, reports having seen a large iron steamer bottom up, 30 miles south of Fire island. The wreck was deserted.

Murderer Sentenced.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Salvator Albano, the Italian who shot and killed Daniel F. Sullivan on Castle street last June, was yesterday sentenced to the state prison for a term of 10 years.

Won't Run For Congress.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 5.—J. H. Manley denies the report that he has announced himself as a candidate for congress in the Third district, to succeed Congressman Milliken.

Farnham Gets the Plum.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 5.—Colonel A. B Farnham of Bangor has been nominated by Governor Cleaves to be sheriff of Penobscot county, to succeed Sheriff Reed, deceased.

The famous breach of promise suit of Miss Bartlett against the estate of the late Dr. Bigelow, to be retried in Cambridge, Mass., next month.

A large barn on the J. I. Duncan estate, Haverhill, Mass., with contents, was burned. A smaller barn near by was also destroyed. The fire was probably set by tramps.

A mortgage was recorded from the Pentucket club of Haverhill, Mass., to the Haverhill Safe Deposit and Trust company for $32,000, to secure an issue of bonds of the club.

Sylvester Pingree of Rowley, Mass., aged 55, made an unsuccessful attempt to kill himself with morphine. Business embarrassment and a charge of liquor selling hanging over him were the causes.

A Free Man.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 5.—When the grand jury came in yesterday there was the usual batch of indictments and discharges. Among the latter was that of William Henry. Judge Moore called the prisoner to the bar and said: "The grand jury has considered the charge against you and has failed to find sufficient evidence on which to base an indictment. You are, therefore, discharged."

Won't Interfere.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—After an examination of the papers appended to the application for pardon in the case of Frank P. Allison, who is confined at Governor's island, N. Y., under sentence for desertion, the war department has declined to interfere.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The British minister at Pekin has been instructed to ascertain whether the degradation of the viceroy of Sze-Chuen was decided upon prior to the acceptance by China of the ultimatum of Great Britain, as has been stated.

Guarding Gunboats.

GLASGOW, Oct. 5.—The Spanish government has taken steps to ensure the safety of the gunboats being built for Spain on the Clyde and which, it was reported, the insurgents of Cuba intended to prevent reaching Cuba.

BAD FOR ARMENIANS.

Constantinople Riots Have Injured Sympathy of the Powers.

Softas the Leading Figure In Present Disturbances.

Their Uprisings Have Often Caused Turkish Government to Tremble.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Foreign officials have expressed the opinion that the disturbances at Constantinople will seriously embarrass the powers in their efforts to bring about reform in Armenia. They hold that a heavy responsibility rests upon the Armenians for precipitating the riots at Constantinople, and the opinion is gaining ground that the recent events there have caused a revolution of feeling throughout Europe, and those who were urging their governments to take immediate steps to deliver the Armenians from oppression begin to see distinctly that there is another side to the question.

The Berlin correspondent of The Standard telegraphs to that paper that he learns privately that the number of Turks killed on Monday in the riots at Constantinople was 48 and of Armenians 111. The number of wounded on both sides was several hundred.

Latest From Constantinople.

A dispatch from Constantinople states that the city is now tranquil, although it is still patroled by troops and police, and there is yet much apprehension among the Armenians. The Softas were especially guilty of great excesses on Tuesday, especially during the raid on the Armenian quarter, which they made at night.

At Tookurtchesmo, near Stamboul, the students and populace broke into an Armenian building, killing 15 persons and wounding 35 others. In addition, it is said that they immediately conveyed the bodies to the shore and threw them into the sea.

There was another fierce fight in an Armenian cafe at Scutari, during which several persons were killed and wounded on both sides.

At Hasskoin, a number of Armenian houses were broken into and sacked by the Softas, who killed a number of Armenians inhabiting those buildings. On the other hand, at Karqheumruk, near Stamboul, revolvers were fired from the windows of Armenian houses, and all the Armenian inhabitants were arrested.

Owing to the threats of the Softas, the Armenian college at Galaeta has been closed.

The arrests of Armenians continue to be made in all parts of the city, and the police are making domiciliary visits wherever the Armenians live and are searching all the Armenian stores.

There was further trouble yesterday at Tophane, during which about 40 persons were wounded.

A Bad Crowd.

The Softas, who are leading the present riots in Constantinople, have been engaged in various demonstrations before. On May 12, 1876, the Softas assembled to the number of 5000 and send a deputation to the sultan demanding the removal of the grand vizier. The sultan was compelled to accede. Again in 1877 the Turkish capital was practically under their sway. A demonstration against the chamber of deputies and the palace was participated in by about 2000 Softas.

The sultan, thoroughly frightened, crossed over to Scutari, on the Asiatic side, and remained there until the crowds had been dispersed by the military and a state of siege had been proclaimed. Many people were wounded during the melee, general consternation reigned, the Christians fled from the city, and many of the Europeans sought safety on board the ships.

On both these occasions the demonstrations led to changes being made in the Turkish ministry. This, it appears, is again likely to be the result. Before the massacre and disbandment of the Janissaries in 1825 that famous corps used frequently to bring about the deposition of obnoxious ministers, and several times the reigning sultan himself was overthrown and put to death through their agency. From 1825 down to 1876, however, the Ottaman rulers had never yielded to a popular demonstration of any sort.

From Priest to Student.

The Softas are, properly speaking, the pupils who are engaged in the study of Mussulman theology and law in the medresses or schools attached to the mosques, the range of their studies, however, being practically limited to learning to read the Koran. The Softas take their name from a corruption of the past participle soukhte—burned—applied to them because they are supposed to be consumed by the love of study of sacred things and devoted to a life of meditation.

The term Softa, as used in the telegrams, includes all the grades, from the imaum, or priest, to the Softa proper, or mere student of the Koran. They are usually distinguishable in Turkey by wearing a white turban around their fez, or skull cap. Sultan Abdul Medjid some years ago endeavored to induce his subjects to wear a European dress, and succeeded so far that almost without exception everyone except the very lowest in the public service adopted it. But the Softas to a man retain the old-fashioned baggy, slouchy dress which Abdul Medjid wished to get rid of.

Generous Shakir Pasha.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The Armenian correspondent of The Daily News says that Shakir Pasha, who has been appointed by the sultan to carry out projected reforms in Armenia, has granted permission to William A. Sachtleben of St. Louis to accompany him to Bayazid, and has promised to aid him clearing up the matter of the murder of Frank Lenz.

Bigelow's Bond Filed.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 5.—The bond of Receiver F. G. Bigelow of the Northern Pacific railroad was filed yesterday, and immediately approved by Judge Jenkins. Kansas City and Philadelphia parties appear as sureties in the sum of $500,000.

—The State Park Commissioners have now taken possession of the beaches along the North Shore, including Crescent Beach, and will at once improve the territory.

Following is the programme Monday evening: Subject: "Am I afraid of Ridicule," Luke 22: 54-62. Speaker Rev. E. N. Hardy. Wednesday, Subject: "Something I cannot earn," Eph. 2: 8, 9, Titus 3: 5. Speaker Rev. E. A. Robinson. Thursday, Subject: "How am I building," Matt. 7: 21-29, Cor. 3: 11-15. Friday, Subject: "The Divine Indictment," Rom. 3: 10-23, Isiah 1: 5-6, Rev. Robert W. Peach. Saturday, Subject to be announced. Speaker Rev. C. A. Parker. The music for the entire week will be conducted by Mr. T. B. Emery. All men will be made welcome.

Antics of a Yacht.

The yacht Mudjekeewis owned by Davis and Abbot, which has been moored off Quincy Point, slipped her moorings at high water last night and floated up the stream against the bridge between Quincy and Weymouth. She became wedged between the piles of the bridge and her mast became entangled in a telephone cable and the receding tide left her hanging by the mast. The telephone linemen were notified and after working nearly all night succeeded in clearing the tangle. It is thought that the yacht is not damaged much.

Blue Hill Predictions.

During the coming week the coolest days promise to be the 6th and 7th and the warmest days the 9th, 10th and 11th. Except during the first three days the week will probably average warmer than the past week. The greatest probability of rain is on the morning of the 6th or morning of the 7th, and on the afternoon or night of the 11th.—Norfolk County Gazette.

Reception and Entertainment.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Y. M. C. A. will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 8, at 7.30. A reception and entertainment, the first of the season, will be given in connection with the meeting. The North Weymouth Quartette, in charge of Mr. A. J. Sidelinger, the instructor of the proposed Glee Club, will sing. Rev. E. N. Hardy will be one of the speakers. Members and friends are cordially invited.

New Appointment.

Judge Everett C. Bumpus of this city was yesterday appointed by Judge Holmes of the Supreme court one of the Commissioners to apportion among the various cities and towns comprised in the Metropolitan Sewerage System their respective share of the cost of the system for the second five years, vice Hon. W. C. Endicott, resigned. The other Commissioners on the cost question are Hon. E. H. Bennett and Hon. J. E. Sanford.

New Die Wanted.

A warrant has been issued for a town meeting in Stoneham, Thursday, Oct. 10, when the voters will consider the matter of purchasing a new granite die for the soldiers' monument, as the old marble die is crumbling away, and there are also several names on it which do not belong there, and others not on it that should be there.

The Dedham Court.

The Norfolk superior civil court will come in at Dedham before Judge Sheldon next Monday morning at 10 A. M. The trial list contains 118 jury trials, 31 jury waived cases and 20 libels for divorce.

THE COURT ROOM.

The Subject of Its Removal being Considered.

Mr. Faxon May Lose His Troublesome Tenants.

The County Commissioners View Quarters in the Adams Building.

Everybody has their day sometime. Mr. Henry H. Faxon got one in on Mr. J. P. S. Churchill, clerk of the district court, at the County Convention Thursday, when he showed his love for the latter gentleman by an emphatic "no" on the vote for secretary.

Mr. Churchill said nothing but smiled inwardly as he pictured to himself the wrath that would seize Mr. Faxon when he learned that unknown to him the County Commissioneer had visited the little court room in Quincy.

This morning unheralded and unannounced, Commissioner Morrell walked into the court rooom and was greeted with the winning smile by Clerk Churchill, who hurried him into the back room. A little late Commissioner Blanchard arrived and was also greeted with the same bland-like smile.

A juvenile case was being heard in the judge's room, but an adjournment was immediately ordered and the two dignitaries of Norfolk county accompanied by Judge Humphrey and Clerk Churchill were not long in making their way across the street to the Adams building, where new rooms for court purposes were looked at and the alterations necessary to make them convenient for court purposes were suggested and talked over.

When the visit of inspection was finished Clerk Churchill returned to his desk, his smile having expanded into a broad grin, while the two commissioners had taken their departure.

While all this was going on Mr. Faxon in blissful ignorance was taking in the Republican State convention in Boston.

Just what he will do when he learns of the above visit is hard to tell but he will evidently stir them up a little.

Political Potpourri.

Register tonight.

Will Governor Greenhalge receive a majority of 100,000 ?

The Democratic ward and city committee has opened headquarters in the Adams building.

James H. Slade of Ward Two and Charles T. Baker of Ward Five have been mentioned in connection with the Democratic Representative nomination. Both gentlemen have served in the Council and Mr. Slade has in addition to this service been at different times on National and State commissions and has an extensive acquaintance in this State. Mr. Baker made a very efficient councilman, besides polling a handsome vote in each election. It is not known that either would accept the nomination. Mr. Paul R. Blackmur has been thought of by some, but Democrats feel that he has received a good share of public office of late and hence hardly in line this year for Representative.

The Republican Representative contest is complicated from the fact that two are to be nominated, and it will make considerable difference how the convention proceeds. The proper way would seem to be to ballot for two at once. The Quincy convention is entitled to 74 delegates and if all are present 148 votes may be cast. On a full vote 38 would be necessary for a choice. It is probable that more than one ballot will be necessary, but one may be elected on the first, which would simplify matters.

More active work has been put in the past few days for the candidacy of James Thompson, and his friends claim now that he may be nominated on the first ballot.

THE 1895 VOTERS.

The Preliminary Lists of This Year Compared With Past Years.

The voting lists as revised by the Board of Registrars to Sept. 21, 1895, contain 3,512 voters, about 200 less than at the city election of 1894.

Compared with the preliminary lists of 1894, all wards show gains except Wards One and Six. In 1893 and also in 1894 each ward showed an increase over the preceding year, and there will be some surprise to learn that the Centre and Atlantic do not this year.

The number on the September lists the last four years was as follows:

	1895.	1894.	1893.	1892.
Ward One,	621	640	619	578
Ward Two,	545	542	522	495
Ward Three, 1, Ward Three, 2,	384 / 314	676	590	562
Ward Four, 1, Ward Four, 2,	364 / 383	360 / 364	682	652
Ward Five,	514	461	460	365
Ward Six,	387	389	307	295
In City,	3,512	3,432	3,180	2,947

The final lists of 1894 contained over 3700 voters. In the summary below the number in each ward is given also the loss by revision.

	1894	Loss
Ward One,	699	78
Ward Two,	569	24
Ward Three,	747	49
Ward Four,	789	42
Ward Five,	522	8
Ward Six,	421	34
	3747	235

It is not probable that the lists will show a loss at the November election however, although registration will close Wednesday Oct. 16. Meetings of the board to add names will be held tonight, also Oct. 8, 9, 12, 15 and 16. Is your name on the list ?

The Millinery Openings.

If there is any one thing that delights the heart of the gentler sex, it is to be possessed of a handsome and stylish hat, and therefore millinery openings are to them of more than ordinary interest. As a man at this season of the year finds pleasure in attending political gatherings so do the ladies find pleasure in the fall styles in millinery. Quincy has several millinery stores and just now they are displaying a line of novelties that can not be equalled outside of Boston.

From a visit to the several establishments in this city it was learned that this season's hats will be worn well forward, and that the large hats are as popular as ever, many of this season's being extremely large. The sailor hat continues in favor but the prevailing shapes are the Lillian Russell and the Spanish Beret.

The marked form of trimming is the fan and cornicopia, and the distinguishing shades are the chamelion and cashmere, although there are beautiful tints in standard colors, among which are the Rubens and Van Dyck.

Miss C. L. Bliss of Chestnut street shows a large line of trimmed and untrimmed hats of the prevailing shapes. One of the most striking shown being a green velvet Spanish Beret. Miss Bliss also makes a specialty of linen art work of which she has a beautiful line.

Miss M. A. Tingley of Wollaston held her fall and winter opening this week, and at her parlors were displayed an exceptionally line of fine French millinery of the correct styles for fall wear.

Miss C. S. Hubbard at her store on Hancock street also shows some attractive hats as well as a full line of the latest novelties in feathers, flowers and velvets.

Miss Belle Patterson had an exhibition of a large number of stylish and artistically trimmed hats and bonnets, also a large assortment of untrimmed goods. The new changeable effects in ribbons also the cashmere ribbons and velvets were shown on a number of hats, and new shades in velvet, roses and foliage. Plumes and tips were much used, also wings in both black and fancy shades. Miss Patterson makes a specialty of orders, and guarantees satisfaction on all work. She has as her assistant Miss Beatrice Porterfield.

Miss E. B. Collins of Faxon block, who also has her opening this week, shows an unusually large line in all the latest cashmere effects in ribbons and velvets and fancy mercury wings. She also shows some very dainty designs in nouveante ornaments as well as handsome velvet plums and tips. Besides these a line of trimmed and untrimmed hats of the latest shapes are shown.

GREENHALGE ACCEPTS

The Republican Nomination For Governor of Massachusetts.

Lieutenant Governor Walcott Again Has Second Place.

The Governor Makes a Plea For Loyalty and Good Citizenship.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—The Republican state convention met in Music hall this forenoon at 10 o'clock.

Rev. John Cuckson of Boston offered prayer, and Curtis Guild, Jr., was chosen permanent presiding officer.

FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE.

George H. Lyman, chairman of the Republican state committee, was unable to preside at the convention, and Colonel Benton called the convention to order. The convention got down to business in quick order, the first thing on the program being the reading of the following communication from Mr. Lyman:

BOSTON, Oct. 4.

Chairman Executive Committee Republican State Committee:

DEAR MR. BENTON—My physician forbids my being present at the convention tomorrow, as I intend to be at headquarters next week and continue attending to the duties of the campaign. The honor as well as the good fortune is therefore yours, in the name of the Republican state committee, to welcome the delegates to the Republican state convention of 1895.

It is a matter of congratulation that the committee did not fear, on the part of the delegates chosen, such lack of enthusiasm in their party's cause as to induce the committee to hesitate about summoning them to record their votes in this their capital city. The meeting is strictly for organization to declare our principles of government and to establish a system for the coming campaign.

Upon the result of the convention hang the results of this campaign, nor do I believe that any one present will fear the issue. The Republican party moves forward, not backward, and its candidates will be worthy of its cause, as well as successful in upholding it.

But we cannot, as patriotic citizens, afford to relax our energies in any particular, nor be misled in the slightest degree by a verbal victory, but misplaced confidence diminishes a number of our votes, and is an entering wedge to possible future defeat. It was not accident, it was not merely dislike of Democracy, it was the distinct approval of Republicanism, and more than an appreciation on the part of the citizens of Massachusetts of the necessity of showing that approval that gave us in 1894 a majority of 65,000.

The convention will come together as free delegates of a free people. The candidate presented to the people by the Republican party must and shall be selected by that representative body as the deliberate choice of the Republicans of Massachusetts.

Men must differ honestly, on questions of fiscal legislation, on questions of public policy; but aside from such issues the rivalry between the two great parties should not be as to which shall serve our country the most extensively, but which shall serve her best.

Believe me, yours very truly,
GEORGE H. LYMAN,
Chairman Republican State Committee.

The Ticket.

Today's program included the nomination of Governor Greenhalge by ex-Governor Long. Congressman Apsley seconded the governor's nomination. A ballot was then called for.

The rest of the state ticket was nominated as follows:

Lieutenant Governor Wolcott, by Speaker Meyer.

Secretary of State Olin, by Mayor Hodgkins of Somerville.

Treasurer and Receiver General Shaw, by Representative George A. Hibbard.

Auditor Kimball, by Judge A. A. Putnam of Uxbridge.

Attorney General Knowlton, by Congressman McCall.

Lynn's delegates to the convention voted to support Governor Greenhalge unanimously in the convention. It was claimed that eight delegates would not vote for him.

ROGER WOLCOTT.

Governor Greenhalge, in accepting the nomination, said:

Greenhalge's Acceptance.

GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION—I thank you most heartily for the honor you have just conferred on me—it calls for my most profound gratitude and my most earnest acknowledgment. Your nomination, coming to me at this time and under existing circumstances, is, indeed, an honor of triple magnitude and full of uncommon significance.

I think it may be said that your action is not limited by the lines of mere routine. Perhaps it is not too much to say that it represents the deliberate judgment of the Republican party upon an administration of two years. During that administration, many vital and momentous questions have arisen in the onward movement of a great commonwealth like Massachusetts there is a necessary friction and disturbance occasioned by the velocity of progress. Upon these questions, involving the interests of property, the fortunes of parties, the triumph or defeat of systems, and the sacred rights of men, it is not to be wondered at that honest and marked differences of opinion have arisen and a great degree of interest and zeal aroused. While I am uncharitable to no man who differs from me, while I ascribe to sincere opposition no unworthy motive, while I acknowledge my own many errors and shortcomings, I must say, as I look back upon the past and note the many instances where perplexities arose—where prompt and decided action was required—that I must still hold fast to the principles by which I have endeavored to guide and regulate my course, and in humble imitation of the great reformer, say, "So help me, God, I cannot do otherwise."

I have always believed—I still believe—that to be a good Republican it was and is necessary for a man to be a good citizen, true and loyal to his country, with a supreme and single devotion. The principles of the Republican party mean progress and development—the lifting up of the individual—and of the state; those principles favor sober, righteous and intelligent living; they are at once the lamps of

The State, the Nation and the Home.

Education, free as air and lofty as heaven, temperance in thought, word and life; justice, blind to artificial distinctions of wealth or station, eagle-eyed to the distinction of right and wrong; loyalty to state and nation, rising to a love that "passeth understanding," these and every principle that make for good government are written in the hearts of all Republicans.

Again, the Republican party believes in the individuality of the country; it desires to stimulate and develop that growing spirit of American nationality which is already stirring in every heart from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We think that the ship of state will meet the stormy seas quite as successfully as one beautiful integral fabric as in sections or comparatively loosely-jointed together. The unification of state is a noble object, worthy of the highest ambitions and the grandest efforts of statesmanship—the unification of a people, making all Massachusetts one family, bound together by ties of affection and esteem, inspired by the Almighty with the loftiest ideals of citizenship—is, I am sure, a step in the direction of that

"Far-off, divine event
To which the whole creation moves."

Gentlemen, I do not think that our party has lost anything of power or prestige in the last few years. In state and nation, here at home and in the country at large, that power and prestige have grown and strengthened. It is, therefore, fair to assume that the administration of affairs here in Massachusetts, to a limited degree, in New York and elsewhere in the country, has met with the approval of the people, and it is the people, in whose service we are enlisted, whose good is our highest aim, and whose commands we, as a party, and as individuals, must obey.

Gentlemen, let us move forward to the coming contest with all courage and confidence, and above all with the profound sense of the immense responsibility which Massachusetts is once more about to impose upon the Republican party. Gentlemen, again I tender you my profound gratitude, for which I must consider the crowning honor of my public life.

Declaration of Principles.

The much mooted question of how to deal with the A. P. A. caused trouble for the platform builders. It was thought the best course to pursue would be to insert a plank reciting as an historical fact that class, race and religious distinctions had arisen in the past, and that they had led to certain counter-movements.

The tariff plank does not commit the party to any particular bill or schedule, but declares in favor of adequate, logical and scientific protection for all American industries and for a tariff on imports that will create sufficient revenue to support the government as it ought to be administered.

On the currency the platform favors international bimetallism.

The plank in the Democratic platform relative to corporation franchises met with the declaration that the present sound, conservative and equitable corporation laws in Massachusetts are exclusively of Republican origin and workmanship.

The platform favors the submission of the question of biennials to the people. The Walcott-O'Brien fighting case finds sharp expression in the platform. It declares that the Republican party abhors prize fighting, and favors such legislation as will wipe it out.

A CREDITABLE QUINCY JOB.

The Handsome Shepherd Memorial Erected by Milne & Chalmers at Waltham.

We find in the Waltham Daily Tribune the following comment and description of a monument recently erected in that city by our well known Quincy firm:

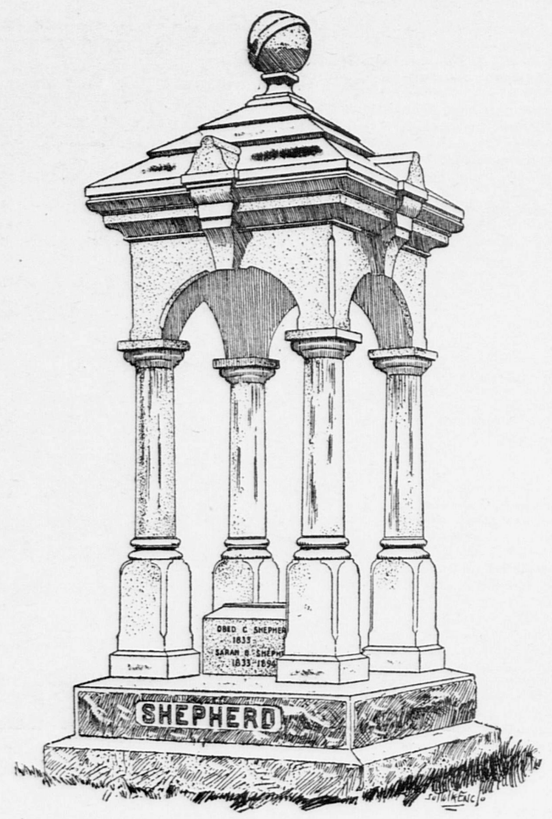
Mt. Feake cemetery is noted for its beauty all over the state and within its borders are to be found some of the handsomest monuments and tablets that can be turned out. There has been an addition to the stones this week which for beauty and workmanship cannot be surpassed anywhere. The accompanying cut will give the reader an excellent idea of what it looks like.

It was erected by the well known firm of Milne & Chalmers of Quincy for Mr. Obed C. Shepherd of Moody street. Perhaps a description of the monument at this time would not be amiss.

The lower base is 8.0. x 8 0., rustic finish; second base 7.0. x 7.0., rustic finish with fine axed margin lines. Both are of dark Quincy granite. The centre pedestal is of dark Quincy granite, moulded and polished. The pedestals under columns are of Barre granite and the four columns are of Red Peterhead granite.

The canopy is of dark Quincy also plinth on top of canopy which is heavily moulded. Light Barre key-stones are neatly fitted into plinth and canopy. The cap is 7.0. x 7.0. of Barre granite and the plinth is made from same stone. The neck-piece is dark Quincy. The whole is surmounted by a dark Quincy ball, 20 inches in diameter. Every part of the monument over the second base is highly polished. The name Shepherd is raised and polished on the rock-face of second base. The total height of monument is 20 feet. It has taken about 18 months to complete the monument.

This is one of the finest and most elaborate monuments to be seen anywhere in this vicinity and reflects great credit on the builders. It will well repay a visit to Mount Feake cemetery by any of our citizens who are interested in artistic work.



Castle Square Theatre.

"The Merry War" at the Castle Square Theatre this week has scored one of the most brilliant hits of this sterling opera season. The general verdict is that the music has not been surpassed for grace and beauty since the opera season began there. The rhythmical airs of the famous waltz composer who wrote the opera, Johann Strauss, are given with an expression and power that make them charming. The Castle Square chorus was drilled for two weeks in its part, and its thorough preparation is shown by singing which has not been equalled for many weeks. The first of Strauss' works to be produced has met exceptional favor. Next week, there will be a reproduction of Balfe's "The Bohemian Girl." The most successful and the best patronized opera of the summer season at the Castle Square. There was "standing room only" at every performance then and hundreds were turned away. The immense popularity of Balfe's opera was shown by a double line of ticket purchasers that extended from the box office to Chandler street every night. The costuming will be almost entirely new and the whole production will be on a scale of magnificence and beauty that has never been equalled at the Castle Square. There is certain to be a large advance sale of tickets, and those who wish te be sure of good seats ought to speak for them a day or two ahead.

Three Million Dollar Hotel.

The mammoth apartment hotel to be erected on Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay, Boston, is a certainty. An application to erect the structure has been filed in the names of Charles Francis Adams and others, trustees, J. Pickering Putnam being the architect. The building will be 11 stories high, towering 125 feet. The design is after the palace of the Duke of Mechlenburg-Schwerin.

Mechanics' Fair Open.

The Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics Association is signalizing the rounding out of its first century of useful existence by a grand exhibition, the 19th of its triennial fairs, which, from first to last, have been the delight of hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of the people of this and other New England states. It opened at the Mechanic Building, in Boston this week, and will continue for eight weeks.

More attention has been paid to the structure of exhibits than in previous years. To stimulate a rivalry in producing fine arrangement of exhibits, five gold medal prizes have been offered for the most artistic designs.

A good many novelties will be seen this season. One that will doubtless attract much attention is a coach and span of horses made entirely of paper.

There will be a good many new inventions on exhibition, One of the most curious is an augur that bores a square hole. And Yankee ingenuity will be shown in many other ways.

That Hydrant Again.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

In your issue of yesterday you again bring up that hydrant on Goffe street and infer that I took it up and carted it off and afterward carted it back and relocated it. Now I wish to emphatically deny that that hydrant was ever carted away from that place or that it was disconnected until it was ready to be reconnected, which was done with all possible despatch. If you have any proof to the contrary I will be pleased to hear it.

Yours,
JOHN T. CAVANAGH.

The above communication appears to be direct and conclusive, but the LEDGER has an equally positive assertion to the contrary from reliable authority.—[EDS.

Without rockers or springs and yet it rocks delightfully and when you see one you will want it. Then you may want one of those handsome rugs, a sideboard, chamber set, lamp, clock or—but don't ask us to enumerate here but just call at Guy's Coliseum for anything needed in the housefurnishing line, and if you do not see what you want ask for it. lpo

ELECTRICAL POWER.

How Shall We Educate Our Sons For the Electrical Profession?

We come back now to the original question, and the only answer that can be given is, "Give the boy the broadest education that his time and abilities will permit." My own belief is that there is no better early preparation for a professional career of any kind than that given in the public schools of our larger cities.

Having completed the public school course, I would have him take the usual academic course involved in preparation for our larger colleges, giving more attention to mathematics and less to classics, but, if there be time, a great deal of attention to both. The object of this period of a young man's education is decidedly more the training of the mind than instruction, and for that reason it matters less what the boy learns than the habits of thought which are inculcated at this time.

In the study of quantitative chemical analysis the student is most easily introduced into the methods of exact science. In it he is familiarized at the outset with instruments of precision, with the niceties of manipulation which characterize all scientific work, and he learns to handle the atom and the molecule which are the ultimate particles of matter as the mathematician does imaginary quantities and symbols. To the analytical chemist these atoms and molecules are as living entities as the trees and the hills, and they are endowed with individual characteristics more definite and more easily recognizable than are the members of his own family. The study of chemistry in its definite proportions is the easiest and surest road to a rational understanding of the physical qualities of matter upon which the structural engineer depends for the success of his creations.

Above all should the candidate for electrical engineering honors be instructed in the higher physics, for it is the mechanism of the ether with which the electrician has chiefly to deal, just as it is with the various gears that the mechanician is concerned. —Electric Power.

"NO GOT A OIL; NO GOT A WICK."

Railroad Travel In China Seems to Have Its Drawbacks.

Having engaged a coupe in the train to Shang-I-Yuen, the only railway in all China, I found on entering the first class vestibule car that, like the rest of the train, it was horribly dirty.

I asked for an explanation of the matter, and for answer was conducted to another part of the train which appeared a little cleaner, but still the coupe was very dirty and only had the advantage of having a table, which the first one had not, it having been broken up by some former occupant.

After the train began to move a most vile smell came from the adjoining compartment. On asking why such a state of things was permitted I was told that Chinese mandarins were a dirty people and did not understand any better standard of cleanliness.

Two young Cantonese are in the same carriage with me, and I ask them why the railway is so badly managed and the cars so dirty. They inform me that they are related to one of the directors, and that no doubt the dirt arose from the number of strangers who had traveled lately by the line, who do not understand western sanitary arrangements—in fact, never were in a train before.

It has become quite dark, and we are not provided with a light. I inquire the reason.

"The wicks are finish; no got a more; no got a oil; not a wick," is the reply.

And so we sat in darkness till the end of our journey, when we steam into Shang-I-Yuen, a name which means in English "City of Hills and Sea Pass," the famous frontier pass situated near the maritime end of China's great wall. —Paris Herald.

The Parliamentary Franchise.

Men and women in England vote equally for town councils, local boards, poor law guardians, vestries, churchwardens and school boards. For very shame, says the president of the International union, extend the parliamentary franchise, which has been granted to every ignorant laborer and denied not only to the honest, industrious working woman, but to the thoughtful, educated lady, whose gardener, coachman and groom can record their votes before her eyes, while she is practically outlawed. As for the argument that women as politicians would destroy the peace of the domestic circle, it is universally conceded that family life is infinitely richer and more attractive to men when politics are not tabooed on account of the ignorance or indifference of the female members of the household.

In questions of intellect women have proved themselves able to cope with men. Let justice then be done to both. Our ruler is a queen, yet still a politician. In the duties and difficulties of her high and arduous office let her daughters as well as her sons have the privilege of helping her. Strike off the last shackles which cramp a woman's energies and restrict her usefulness and let justice triumph over prejudice and hypocrisy.

About Breathing.

In the ordinary respiration of man 16 or 17 cubic inches of atmospheric air pass into the lungs 20 times a minute, or a cubic foot every 5¼ minutes—274 cubic feet in 24 hours. The lungs hold 2.80 cubic feet. At each respiration 1.375 of oxygen is converted into carbonic acid gas. The nitrogen inspired and expired is exactly equal. During the act of inspiration the lungs have been found to be the coldest parts of the body.

It is figured by Edward Atkinson that cotton fiber prepared by hand in India is four times as strong as that torn and tortured by power gins, as in this country.

A True Friend.

The friend who holds a mirror to my face,
And, hiding none, is not afraid to trace
My faults, my smallest blemishes within,
Who friendly warns, reproves me if I sin—
Although it seems not so—he is my friend.

But he who, ever flattering, gives me praise,
Who ne'er rebukes, nor censures, nor delays
To come with eagerness and grasp my hand
And pardon me ere pardon I demand,
He is my enemy, although he seem my friend.
—From the German.

He Kept His Vow.

"I offer thee my hand and heart," said he.
"Ah, no! Your wealth is not enough for me.
Guy Havelock is a better man than thou."
In anguish Jack replied: "Then hear my vow.
I swear by yonder marvelous dog star,
I swear by—thee, so near and yet so far,
If thou refuseth me I die." He ceased.
The dog star winked and vanished in the east.
"Thy oath is naught to me," the maiden cried.
* * * * * * *
Full forty autumns passed, and then he died.
—Occident.

Would Help Him Out.

Green—Yes, I think it's getting on very well. Who has been sitting to you for your Apollo?

Brown—Well, I couldn't get a man to suit me, and, as a matter of fact, it has been done mostly from myself in the glass.

Green—But, my boy, why didn't you let me know? I'd have sat for you with pleasure.—St. James Budget.

A Natural Organizer.

To Miss Pearl Jones of Cleveland is due the fact that there is in existence the National Association of Colored Stenographers of the United States. Miss Jones' father was supreme grand chancellor of the Colored Knights of Pythias of the World, and her faculty for organization was inherited. She sent out a call for a convention, and about 1,200 young women and young men who can play on a typewriter and write potbooks to dictation assembled recently in Chicago and made Miss Pearl president of the association which they formed.

Three Hard Workers.

There are three girls in Pennsylvania who are making a record for good hard work. They are daughters of Joseph Mans, they live in the Mahoning valley and act as engineer, pumper and shipper in their father's colliery, which supplies the whole valley.—Exchange.

Rape Fiend Lynched.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 5.—Neal Smith, a negro convict, who recently outraged a young white lady at Cole City, Ga., after beating her into insensibility, was last night taken from the prison guards by a mob and shot to death.

Cruiser For a Guard.

GREENOCK, Oct. 5.—Two new gunboats, purchased by the Spanish government for use in Cuban waters, sailed yesterday for the island of Cuba, convoyed by a Spanish cruiser.

—It looks like cheap corn this season. Chicago parties are contracting with farmers in Central Illinois for corn at twenty-five cents a bushel.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Figures on Failures Show That Prosperous Times Are Coming.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s review says: Commercial failures in the third quarter of 1895 were 2792, with liabilities of $32,167,179, averaging $11,521 per firm, against $10,028 last year, about 15 per cent more. The rate of commercial mortality, 2.34 failures in a quarter for every 1000 firms in business, is lower than last year, and the proportion of defaulted liabilities to the solvent business represented by payments through clearing houses is but 2.49 per $1000 against 2.77 last year.

The defaulted liabilities per firm in business averages $26.92, against $26.39 last year. In the third quarter, when failures are usually low, the average of liabilities in prosperous years falls below $10,000, the number below two in 1000 firms, the defaulted liabilities below $2 per $1000 exchanges and below $25 per firm in business. Thus the analysis indicates a condition approaching, but not yet reaching, one of general prosperity.

The cotton market has mounted above 9 cents, and holds in spite of realizing, but as the crop is late and quite largely held back, it does not yet feel the influence of the receipts natural at this date. Reports of injury and low estimates of yield have impressed all minds, while few remember the stocks brought over. Receipts are growing, but for the month have been 275,000 bales less than last year.

Wool speculation continues with enormous transactions, but the average of 104 quotations is 1 cent lower than a month ago. The manufacture is doing well in dress goods and many specialties, but has lost a large share of the business in men's woolens, and wool is 1 per cent higher and goods 2 per cent lower than a year ago.

Professor Boyeson Dead.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Professor Hjalmar Hjorth Boyeson of Columbia college died yesterday of rheumatism of the heart. Death came unexpectedly after an illness of but a few days. Professor Boyeson was born in Norway in 1848. He graduated at the University of Christiania in 1868. It was in 1881 that he was appointed instructor in German at Columbia college, and in 1883 he was appointed to the Gebhard professorship of German and literature. The chair of Germanic language and literature was created for him in 1890, and that he retained until the day of his death. Among the writings of Professor Boyeson were "The Story of Norway," "Lives of Goethe and Schiller," "Tales of Two Hemispheres," "The Mammon of Unrighteousness," "Ilka of the Hilltop," "Falconberg," "A Daughter of the Philistines," "Essays of German Literature" and "Queen Titania." He enjoyed a high reputation as a lecturer, a broad and discerning student of language and a graceful novelist.

Freedom's Cry.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 5.—The constitutional convention took a recess at noon yesterday until Oct. 14. The following resolution was unanimously passed: "That we, the delegates of the people of South Carolina, assembled in convention for the purpose of framing a constitution for a free and independent people, extend our hearty sympathy to the Cuban patriots now struggling for the same precious rights. Resolved, second, that we call upon the federal government to recognize the Cubans as belligerents as soon as the rules of international law will permit."

Not Through Croaking.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The Field this morning says: It has been stated that it is on behalf of the Americans that the Bankers Rose have issued a challenge for the America's cup, in order to prove that the Americans can conduct an international contest on the water on fair lines. We are not much concerned to know how Americans treat Americans, but we have occasionally had to complain of the manner in which they treat a Britisher when he is foolish enough to enter upon an international contest on a distant shore.

Explanation Demanded.

LIMA, Oct. 5.—The Peruvian government has asked their minister at La Paz, Bolivia, to secure an explanation of the telegrams sent from Sucre to Buenos Ayres, to the effect that Peru had entered a protest against that clause in the Chilian-Bolivian treaty which provided for the cession to Bolivia of two seaports on the Pacific coast, situated between Iquique and Arica.

Insurance Men Arrested.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 5.—J. E. Bowles, C. T. Baird and J. H. Curry, representing the Kentucky and Tennessee Insurance association, were arrested yesterday for violating the anti-trust laws. The arrests grew out of the attempt of the association to force local agents to pool rates by interstate agreement.

Electric Car Disaster.

TACOMA, Oct. 5.—A head-end collision occurred between two electric cars in this city yesterday. Both cars were crowded, and running very rapidly. A dozen people were badly injured, two fatally. Both cars were shattered. The accident was due to carelessness in running too fast in a fog.

A Dangerous Coast.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 5.—Three vessels, one French and two English, have been lost on the south coast of the island, and five men were drowned.

Wyoming's Overcoat.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Oct. 5.—Ten inches of snow has fallen here since yesterday noon.

THE NEW WOMAN PICTURED.

Composite Picture Embracing Features of a Dozen Famous Reformers.

Herewith is presented a picture of the new woman, the well worn phrase being used rather in a Pickwickian sense, as none of the women whose features are included can fairly be called new so far as years are concerned. In the matter of representing the advanced ideas of the sisterhood all are new, the name of each being known wherever the English language is spoken. The composite face is a strong one, which is not to be wondered at considering that it embraces features of the following famous women: Frances E. Willard, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Susan B. Anthony, Lady Henry Somerset, Annie Besant, Anna Shaw, Belva A. Lockwood, Mary E. Lease, Lillie Devereux Blake, Sarah Grand, Mary Livermore and Mrs. E. B. Grannis.

These women believe that nature fully intended the female sex to be equal in all respects with the male, and they have devoted lifetimes in the effort to make others, especially the men, believe so too. These women believe that, as they constitute quite an essential element in a world which is kept peopled by a reproduction of the species, they should have just as much to say about governing themselves, just as many opportunities for mental advancement and for earning a living, as men. They do not totally disapprove of the "old" woman, the woman who nursed you when you didn't know where on earth you were or what business you had there; the woman who soothed you when you were consumed with the agony of cutting your first teeth, the woman who has been and will be your refuge through life.

The most utter novice in composite matters of this sort will detect at once the intellectual features that make the countenance of Mrs. Stanton instantly attractive, mingled with the resolution and enterprise of that forceful western citizen, Mrs. Lease. The picture is printed only to show what an intellectual looking person the new woman is, and what little chance there is, judging from facial indications, that she will ever languish in the royal struggle for the liberty of her sex.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Revival of the Motto.

The motto, whose revival is noted in the above title, is the expression in architecture of some sentiment to the place to which it is applied, and eternal is its significance, writes Alice Graham McCollin in The Ladies' Home Journal. It is more frequently and more noticeably in domestic architecture than elsewhere that the motto is found. Scarcely a country house of sufficient size to boast a hall and fireplace but announces in script or text a welcome to all guests or some appreciation of the comforts of its four walls. The favorite place for this motto is over the fireplace, either above or below the mantel shelf, and of all the old ones, "East or west, home is best," with its variety of expressions, is the favorite. "A man's house is his castle,"

"Home is the resort
Of love, of joy, of peace,"

"A man's best things are nearest him," "Our house is ever at your service," "You are very welcome," "Take the goods the gods provide thee"—any one of these will as appropriately welcome the stranger as the friend.

A Woman's Throat.

A well known sculptor, George Wade, has been giving his opinions as to the artistic value of a woman's throat. In a model, Mr. Wade says, he requires a long neck, but not too upright, the line from the head to the shoulders to be gradually curved, the head thrown back and the neck itself to be well rounded. A "scraggy" neck, unless the set on the shoulders denotes a remarkably distinguished air, cannot be considered beautiful from a sculptor's point of view, nor a badly set neck, however well rounded. There are three women in London society whose necks Mr. Wade considers beyond reproach. These are Princess Maude of Wales, Lady Annesley and the Marchioness of Londonderry. Of course, when the Duchess of Leinster was alive her neck and shoulders were the admiration of every artist in the kingdom.

Miss Hypatia Boyd.

Miss Hypatia Boyd is the first deaf and dumb girl to enter a college in this country. She has passed the Wisconsin university entrance examination with honor and will begin the regular course this fall. Miss Boyd lost her hearing when she was 6 years old and the power of speech soon after. She was one of the first pupils at the Milwaukee school for the deaf and dumb, where the oral method is used exclusively. So effective did this method prove in Miss Boyd's case that when she was graduated from the school, in 1891, she was able to enter the regular high school and to understand her teachers by following the movement of their lips.

Bells.

In many homes the musical chimes of the Japanese gong sound on the air for a dinner call. Some chatelaines prefer a set of Norwegian cowbells for the same office. These are hung across the doorway on a straight cord. A second cord is then run through the handles of the bells and hangs loose to be pulled when the summons is sounded.

Brazil Has Her Hands Full.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 5.—England, France and Italy have decided upon collective action with a view to securing satisfaction of their respective claims from Brazil. The claims of France grow out of the disputed jurisdiction of the territory of Amapa, lying between Brazil and French Guiana. Italy's claims are for the reparation on account of damages suffered by Italian subjects during the revolution in Brazil. England's claims probably relate to the island of Trinidade, which she seeks to obtain as a cable station.

Big Paper Combine.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A meeting of the paper manufacturers, who have been working up a combination, was held in this city yesterday. They include in the list all the mills of New England and New York which can fill large orders. They propose to capitalize these properties at $35,000,000, and to buy the mills from the present owners on an appraisement based upon a payment of $20,000 for each ton of daily output, or $18,000,000, and an allowance of $17,000,000 for timber tracts, power rights, franchises and buildings.

"The most fascinating five cents' worth on earth."—Boston Post.

The Black Cat

A New Monthly Magazine of complete original short stories. Unique and fascinating. No translations. No borrowings. No stealings.

No. 1, October, 1895.

In Gold Time. By ROBERTA LITTLEHALE. A stirring "true-to-life" story of California pioneer days, graphically told just as it happened.

The Unturned Trump. By BARNES MACGREGGOR. A thrilling tale of an American traveler's adventure in a Syrian desert, told on board a tramp ferry-boat.

The Secret of the White Castle. By JULIA MAGRUDER. A ghostly tale of love and mystery, revealed to one who sought seclusion in a French chateau.

Miss Wood—Stenographer. By GRANVILLE SHARPE. A weird and absorbing detective story, in which a supposedly deaf and dumb stenographer is the central figure.

Her Hoodoo. By HAROLD KINSABBY. A providential encounter with a Colorado cowgirl college graduate, in which a little speckled heifer plays an important part.

In a Tiger Trap. By CHARLES EDWARD BARNS. An exciting experience in the jungles of India, which proves that the royal Malay tiger is no gentleman.

The Red-Hot Dollar. By H. D. UMBSTAETTER. The mysterious chain of events caused by a still more mysterious coin.

All for 5 Cents.

At news-stands and news companies only. If your dealer hasn't it, make him get it.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 30 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Five Mysteries Which Police Are Trying to Solve.

None of the Missing Ones Left Even a Trace of Their Whereabouts.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Samuel A. Wright, a well-known citizen of Charlestown, left his home in that district on Sept. 25, saying that he would return immediately. Up to yesterday no tidings had been received from him. His wife has received intelligence from Cape Breton, N. S., that he was down there and had been seen by several.

Why he left home is unknown. He was not a drinking man, and had been a steady workman. At the time of his disappearance it was not known whether he had any valuables on his person or not. He had not been well of late, and a few days before his departure he wrote to his Nova Scotia relatives. Foul play theories have been cast aside, now that she has learned that he is in Cape Breton.

Gone From Cambridge.

John A. Meyers of Cambridge left home Sept. 26, ostensibly to go to work. He had on his working clothes, and, as far as is known, had no valuables with him. After he had been absent two days the case was put in the hands of the Cambridge police, but they have been unable to find him, and have called on the Boston police for assistance. Search has been made without avail.

He was well known in Cambridge. The last person to see him was a next door neighbor, who saw him when he was passing down the street from his house, and from that point all trace of him was lost. He had not been afflicted with sickness, and there does not seem to have been any reason for the supposition that he had been temporarily deranged and had wandered away. Meyers is 36 years old.

Colored Barber Vanishes.

The Boston police have another Cambridge disappearance in which they have been asked to join in solving. Last Tuesday John H. Smith, colored, disappeared. Nothing has been heard from him since. Smith lived in Cambridge for nearly 50 years. He kept a small barber shop near his home and had a large patronage.

He had enjoyed remarkably good health, not having had a sick day for many years, so that his friends cannot see how his disappearance can be attributed to sickness. He had accumulated a sum of money, but it is not known whether he had taken any of it with him.

Case of an Aged Man.

A peculiarly sad case comes from Winthrop. This time, also, the disappearing man is a life-long resident of the town. About a week ago Charles Dunham, 78 years old, left the home of his relatives and wandered away and has not been seen since. A prolonged search has been made of all the dangerous spots in the vicinity, but no trace of him has been found. He has been unwell for some time.

Where Is May Tracy?

The last case on the list is that of May Tracy, who a week ago disappeared from her home at 3379 Washington street. The parents of the girl can assign no cause for her disappearance. She is described as being 16 years old, 5ft. 3in., dark hair and eyes, and when last seen wore a black skirt, striped pink waist and black straw hat with yellow flowers.

Scared Out of Her Wits.

WEYMOUTH, Mass., Oct. 7.—Mrs. M. Clifford Nash of Front street had an experience with a masked burglar at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. She awoke to find a masked man standing over her with a revolver pointed at her head. Her husband was asleep beside her, and the burglar reached under his pillow and took out a pocketbook and a bag of silver. The thief had previously entered Mr. Nash's son's soom and taken a pocketbook from there. He made his exit from a rear window, and in his haste dropped all his booty, which amounted to about $300, and it was recovered later by Mr. Nash. Mrs. Nash was so badly frightened that she could give no description of the thief.

A Firebug's Confession.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 7.—Noel Foster, aged 26 years, was arrested last evening, charged with being the long-looked-for firebug. Foster confessed to having set fire to six business buildings in ward 5. He also admitted having set the fires at his employer's shop on Aug. 12 and 27, and also said he was responsible for the extensive conflagration at Shea's hay and grain storehouse. He gave as his reason for setting the numerous fires because he "liked to see the engines pump." A rough estimat of the damage caused by Foster places it at no less than $80,000.

Looking Toward Uncle Sam.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—J. V. Fuentes, president of the Cuban club of Boston, says: "The revolutionists have formed a government and are now perfecting it before sending out agents to the various countries to secure recognition. We care more for recognition from this country than any other. Let the United States recognize us and in a month things in Cuba will undergo a change that will surprise the world. Politically we belong to Spain, but in every other way we belong to the United States."

A Happy Family.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—The Massachusetts Republicans express themselves as well pleased with their state convention, because it was a short convention and without any sensational features. There was no contest over any of the nominations and only the shadow of opposition, even that was intended, according to statement of some of the men who led it, simply as a declaration of the strength of the A. P. A.

Run Into Open Switch.

WALPOLE, Mass., Oct. 7.—A freight train was wrecked Saturday afternoon near Blackstone Junction. Engineer Lawton and Brakeman Fay were instantly killed. Brakeman Munroe was fatally burned, and Fireman Holden and J. H. Montell, in charge of some horses on the train, were severely injured. The train ran into an open switch leading to a turn-table. Eight freight cars were completely demolished.

Sympathy For Those at Home.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—At a mass meeting of Armenians of Boston and vicinity yesterday, resolutions were passed expressing sympathy for the compatriots now suffering in Turkish dungeons, and advocating revolutionary measures as the only way that the Armenian nation can be saved from extermination, as well as calling the attention of the civilized world to the recent uprising in Constantinople.

Laid Him Out.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 7.—Undertaker Colbath, while on his way to Scotland Hill on business early yesterday morning, was held up in a lonely place by a highwayman, who demanded his money. Colbath got out of his wagon, and, while pretending to feel in his pockets for money, made a quick move and knocked the man senseless, and then drove away.

Boy Killed by Boy.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Oct. 7.—J. F. Cashman, a 12-year-old boy, died here yesterday from the effects of a stone thrown by a newsboy named Joseph Townsend, 16 years old. Cashman was teasing the newsboy by calling him names, and Townsend threw a stone at Cashman, hitting him on the head, fracturing his skull.

Burns Out on Bail.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 7.—Michael Burns was released Saturday on $5500 bail. Burns was found guilty of an assault with intent to kill on his brother-in-law, H. R. Hopkins, last June. His case will be carried by counsel to the law court, on exceptions.

Suicide by Drowning.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 7.—The body of a man about 65 years old was found floating in the Merrimac river yesterday. In one pocket was 45 cents, while the others were filled with stones. There were no evidence of foul play.

Schooner Sunk.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Oct. 7.—A three-masted schooner, supposed to be the Nellie S. Pickering, is sunk in Muskeget channel, near Skiff island. The sails are all furled and there are no signs of men in the rigging.

Italians In Fatal Quarrel.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 7.—In a fight last night between Jerry and Luigi Magoni and Dan L'Dessassia, Luigi was stabbed just under the heart by Dessassia and will probably die. The other Italians were arrested.

Firemen Kept Busy.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 7.—Three fires broke out here yesterday, two of which were of incendiary origin. The Munroe paper mill, Hale's bobbin shop and a lot of cheaper structures were damaged. Loss is about $7000.

Drew Out Nearly $14,000.

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 7.—The order giving permission to the Nashua Savings bank to pay 20 per cent of the deposits went into effect Saturday. Up to the close of banking hours $13,830 had been withdrawn.

Going Back to Work.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Oct. 7.—President Cleveland will probably leave Gray Gables for Washington some time this week. Mrs. Cleveland and her daughters will remain for a week or two longer.

After a Record.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—M. C. Coburn is making an attempt to break the bicycle record between this city and New York, via Worcester and Springfield. W. U. Swan gave the starting signal at midnight.

Took French Leave.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 7.—Late yesterday afternoon Albert A. Hodson and Nelson Bacon, two boys confined at the Cape Elizabeth reform school for larceny, escaped from that institution.

New England Briefs.

Three fires in Cambridge, Mass., caused a loss of about $5000.

A chemical engine was struck by a train at Waltham, Mass., and two firemen injured.

Montauk Indians have returned to their old grounds on Long Island, and propose to fight for possession.

John Q. A. Carter of Rowley, Mass., was probably fatally injured by being thrown from his buggy by a runaway horse.

The Franklin Methodist church in Brockton, Mass., was dedicated. The church cost, including furnishings, about $10,000.

Perrin's cafe in Camden, Me., was almost completly destroyed, and Hunt's clothing stock and building badly damaged by fire.

Aaron Oliver of Athol, Mass., is charged with procuring a criminal operation. He has served three years in state prison for a similar offense.

James Cunningham, aged 35, a brakeman on the Fitchburg road, fell from a car near Greenfield, Mass., and was probably fatally injured.

Rev. William F. Stearns of the Union Congregational church, Marlboro, Mass., read his resignation, to take effect Nov. 1. Sickness is the cause of his action.

The dead body of an infant boy was found by two young men in some woods north of Nashua, N. H. It was wrapped in a woman's skirt and other clothing. Initials on the skirt may prove a clew in the case.

In Need of Funds.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The national officers and executive committee of the Irish National alliance have issued an appeal "to all friends of the independence of Ireland to aid us in this good work by placing at our disposal the means requisite for its accomplishment. You are asked to forward your subscriptions to the treasurer of the Irish National alliance, P. V. Fitzgerald Fitzpatrick, 154 Twenty-second street, Chicago."

A SHORTAGE OF FOOD.

Nicaraguans of Middle and Lower Classes Feel Poverty's Pinch.

Sample of Government Management of Finances.

President Zelaya Seeking Reform at Atlantic Ports of Nicaragua.

MAUAGUA, Sept. 17.—President Zelaya has issued a decree granting free transportation of corn, beans, rice, plantains and vegetables over the national railroads in an effort to reduce the prevailing high prices in western Nicaragua for all articles of food.

The long-continued, unseasonable dry weather has largely decreased the crop, the demand for labor and the wages to all kinds of laborers, consequently a majority of the lower and middle classes, which constitute about 80 per cent of the entire population of about 850,000 of Nicaragua, are reduced to living in closest economy on such wild fruits and berries as they can gather, supplemented by the small quantities of corn, beans, plantains or rice they can buy, from day to day, with their small earnings.

The coffee crops in the districts of volcanic formed soils—the largest coffee producing areas in this country—are not expected to yield this year over one-half the average annual production, and will require not one-half the usual number of laborers to gather the crop through the three months when ripening, and then the competition of the unorganized laborers will reduce, most probably, the heretofore very low prices paid for this work. The season is too dry to clear more lands and plant more coffee trees. Thus the prospects are that the present straitened condition of the laboring classes will become more unbearable.

El Pueblo, a government-subsidized daily in Managua, announces the discovery of "trichinia spiralis" in quantities in fresh pork sold in the cities in western Nicaragua. This is not surprising, in light of the fact that hogs, like buzzards, are permitted as scavengers on the streets and in many of the houses and yards. El Pueblo cautions the people against the too free use of hog meat, but it is a warning that most probably will go unheeded during the present scarcity and high prices for all kinds of food in western Nicaragua.

Poor Financiering

The 400,000 pesos (silver) foreign debt, settled yesterday by the government, was contracted early in 1893, during the administration of President Sacasca, with a London company named "The Nicaragua Developing company, limited," and was a loan in silver pesos distributed largely and shamefully among some of the members of the national congress of Nicaragua, to be repaid to the lender in gold, with interest at 24 per cent per annum; 25 per cent of the gross receipts of the National railroad and steamboats, and parts of other revenues were pledged to redeem in gold the principal and interest of that loan of silver pesos.

In June, 1893, the Sacasca government was dethroned, and the subsequent internal and external wars prevented the payment of but a part of the loan. The present government of Nicaragua ignored the terms of payment of the debt and the rate of interest, and recently Secretary of Treasury Callejas declared:

"The government having received silver will pay in silver, and as follows: 50,000 pesos in coffee bonds of the next crop (1895) and 15,000 pesos monthly until total payment of the balance due, with 15 per cent per annum interest on account from the beginning of the debt, commissions to be paid on such sums as have been collected by the Nicaragua Developing company, limited."

These terms were agreed to yesterday by both parties. The "coffee bonds" are really permits to export, and are an export tax of 2 cents (silver) a pound on coffee, which will be paid to the holder of the bonds before the coffee can be exported.

Looking Toward Reform.

Senor Callejas, minister of treasury and acting minister of interior, is to go to Bluefields, Rama and other Atlantic ports of Nicaragua, with full power to make such official changes, and issue and enforce, if he can, such orders and decrees as he may find necessary in an effort to try and regulate satisfactorily to the government of Nicaragua the political, financial and judicial systems there.

In other words, it will be an attempt to cause to the people on the eastern coast of Nicaragua—who all have grown up under a civil and criminal jurisprudence, copied or modeled by one of their former 'supreme court judges," Judge Jackson (previously one of the late showman Barnum's best clowns), from the New York state code—to adopt and comply with the unimproved, commingled old Spanish laws and Napoleonic code that have been used, abused and evaded, as conditions suited, by lethargic western Nicaraguans for many years past.

Indian Vengeance.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 7.—J. W. Wilson, who lives near Jackson's Hole, reports that Captain Smith, who precipitated the Indian troubles in the Jackson's Hole country last July, and two other white men, were killed by the Indians on Oct. 3 at the lower end of Jackson's Hole, the victims being shot from ambush.

Robbed by Masked Men.

ARCADIA, Fla., Oct. 7.—County Treasurer B. F. Wood was held up by four masked men and was made to open the county safe and turn over to them the contents, which amounted to $6000.

Outflow Continues.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The exports of specie from the port of New York for last week amounted to $826,009 in gold and $81,908 in silver. The imports were: Gold, $26,530; silver, $17,618.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

HOW OUR weekly contemporary does rave because it is not mentioned in the columns of the DAILY LEDGER and how picayunish. The LEDGER finds a compliment however for "several of our much respected citizens" are readers of the LEDGER. Inasmuch as the two slips made in the rush on a daily paper were corrected in the weekly edition, the PATRIOT, before our contemporary was published, the satire loses force. We were not under contract to publish the entire contents of box placed in the Squantum monument, and did not attempt it. As it was, we did not omit as many articles as our contemporary did names from the list of officers at the reinstitution of Mt. Wollaston lodge. It said, "the officers were" and then gave but three names where there should have been seventeen. What a bluster to put the librarian of the Quincy Historical society under oath, just as though his statement could not be believed without. But how could he certify in advance of publication?

Will the librarian certify that "Myles" is the proper way to spell Standish's name? In the poetical works of Henry W. Longfellow, published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., it is spelled "Miles." Encyclopedias and histories also give it the same way with no reference to any other way.

But one finds many queer things in our contemporary, sandwiched in between the pirated news. Just read this:

George W. Peniman, now of Brockton but a Quincy boy, has taken up his residence in Roxbury."

As an example of the inaccuracy of its news, here is one example in connection with the Odd Fellows anniversary: "After the speechmaking a musical and literary programme was enjoyed." As a matter of fact the addresses were sandwiched in, and two concluded the entertainment.

IN WHAT newspaper did you first read the ballot cast at the Republican State convention on Saturday? Yes, the DAILY LEDGER, which was upon the streets at 2 30, had it, and none of the Boston three-o'clock dailies did and few of the "five o'clocks." At Souther's agency at four o'clock not a Boston paper had the figures, and we don't know how much later it was. The LEDGER gets there occasionally, doesn't it?

Hard Run for Brush Fire.

The alarm from Box 442 at 5.18 Sunday evening was for a brush fire near Fagan & Ballou's quarry and could have been extinguished without calling out the department. The road to the quarry is very rough and hilly after leaving Granite street and was a hard pull for the horses on the steamer and Hook & Ladder and they were obliged to stop several times to get rested. Some means should be adopted to save this unnecessary hard work for the horses.

Accident at Depot.

A Mrs. Rosenfel of Chelsea, aged about 60 years, came to Quincy Saturday night on the train due here at 5 37. In crossing the track she tripped on one of the rails and fell headlong striking on her face upon the opposite rail. Her face was quite badly cut and bruised and she was rendered unconscious in which condition she was removed to the City Hospital. Her injuries are not of a serious nature.

WATER RUNNING LOW

The Low Level of Last Year Nearly Reached at Reservoir.

Sixteen members of the City Council, including the Committee on Water Supply, went on a junket Sunday to the reservoir of the city water supply, to view the premises. The water in the reservoir at this time is over eight feet below the overflow and is lowering nearly an inch per day. In October last year it reached about the same level, being over nine feet below. In 1893 it was over seven, and in 1892 touched six.

What water there was in the reservoir was found to be badly discolored and looked anything but inviting. Around the banks the mud was black and thick, which President Bass can testify to, as he accidentally got in, and as a result he had to give considerable of his valuable time to scraping off the mud.

The board of Water Commissioners will probably call the official attention of the Council to the matter tonight in a communication.

The members of the Council who were not present were Councilmen Sidelinger, Johnson, Adams, Barker, Bryant, Nickerson and Pinkham.

AT THE GOLF LINKS.

A Contest in Long Drives for Prize of a Silver Cup.

The third in the series of golf matches of the Wollaston Golf club was held Saturday afternoon at the links near Norfolk Downs and was witnessed by a large number of spectators. Saturday's event consisted of a series of drives for a silver cup. Each contestant was allowed nine trials and the prize was given to the one making the longest drives. There was quite a strong breeze blowing and for this reason extra long drives were out of the question. Mr. Elbert H. Brock captured the cup, his longest drive being 594 feet. The records made were as follows:

Elbert H. Brock,	594 feet
Henry R. Porter,	550 "
E. S. Taylor,	547 "
Charles R. Rippey,	540 "
James F. Harlow,	510 "

Funeral of Mrs. Clark.

The obsequies over the remains of Mrs. Eliza S. Clark of Wollaston took place from her late home on Beale street on Sunday afternoon. The services, which were simple, were conducted by the Rev. James E. Bagley of the Unitarian church. There was some beautiful singing by a quartette composed of Mr. Samuel M. King, Mr. Charles F. Wilde, Mrs. F. A. Page and Mrs. E. A. King. There were some beautiful floral tributes, including a pillow of roses and white carnations, with the word "Grandma" inscribed upon it, from the grandchildren; a beautiful wreath of ivy from her daughter, Mrs. Richard Polson; a wreath from Andreas Blume, Esq., of Boston; a crescent and spray from Mrs. James T. Burchstead, and a large quantity of cut flowers from other friends. The interment was at Forest Hills cemetery.

TODAY'S COURT.

The cases against the boys who stole the money from Thomas F. Walsh at Lovell's grove, were disposed of as follows: Thomas Callahan $10, Daniel Flannigan $5, David Tooney $5, and John Kearns $2, Joseph Lyons and Jeremiah Lynch had their cases placed on file.

Benjamin T. Raymond of Weymouth was arraigned for being a vagrant. Case continued two weeks.

Matthew L. Craig was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

James Doherty was fined $5 for drunkenness at Holbrook.

Bernard Donaher of Quincy was arraigned for assault. Case continued until Tuesday.

Edward Horne was arrested by Officer Barry Saturday night for drunkenness. Sunday he was bailed out but failed to appear in court this morning and was defaulted.

It may surprise the advocates of brick schoolhouses in the Council, who have so streneously insisted that the day of the wooden schoolhouses is past to learn that Boston has recently built a wooden schoolhouse at Roslindale and another on Morton street.

Members of the Wollaston Trap club, as well as Mr. Q. A. Faunce, will mourn the loss of the famous fox-hound "Daisy," who was recently struck and killed by a locomotive at Townsend, Mass., while chasing a fox. Daisy was a particularly clever animal and has assisted her master in bringing home more than one brush. Her equal as a trailer will be hard to find.

Dr. E. S. Simpson, of South Braintree, gave a very interesting talk at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Sunday. It was preparatory to the week of prayer which begins tonight, when Rev. E. N. Hardy will speak on "Am I afraid of Ridicule." The annual meeting and reception will occur tomorrow evening.

IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

Echoes of the Riots In Which Many Persons Were Killed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7.—Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, has had an interview with Kiamel Pasha, the grand vizier, in which he made strong representations and forcibly urged upon him to cease making arrests of Armenians. Kiamel Pasha, in reply, expressed his anxiety to improve the situation. It is expected that he will advise the sultan to grant amnesty to all the Armenians who have been arrested in connection with the riots since Monday.

The ambassadors of the powers held a conference and drew up a collective note, which will be presented to the porte. Afterward they went to the porte personally and made verbal representations on the subject of Armenia.

The foreign men-of-war which are acting as guardships have been ordered to moor in the harbor for the winter, in order to protect foreigners in case of need.

Up to Friday 80 bodies had been registered as victims of the disorder, all of which had been terribly wounded. Some of them contained over 20 gashes beside bullet wounds, and others had been battered with bludgeons so as to be unrecognizable. The number of victims thrown into the sea was three. The gens d'armes killed some of the wounded.

The Armenian patriarch has received a list of the names of 400 Armenians who have been missing since last Monday, exclusive of the 92 bodies which have been sent to the Armenian hospital.

Spanish Troops Hard Pushed.

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 7.—Passengers arriving from Cuba report the landing on Thursday of an expedition in Bahai Honda, 40 miles west of Habana, composed of 180 well-armed men. Last Thursday night insurgents entered the city of Santa Clara, killing many Spanish soldiers, obtaining their arms, ammunition and provisions and returning to the country. It was a most daring attack and caused great excitement. The authorities are taxing the merchants of Habana by subscriptions for large amounts to aid in the purchase of new warships. The Spanish soldiers' rations for several days consist of a piece of dried beef and pilot bread.

Captain Stuck to His Post.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 7.—The Indian liner Dunera, from Calcutta for London, has landed here nine of the crew of the Italian bark Filippo R, which left Cardiff for Buenos Ayres, and foundered en route. The Filippo R sprang aleak in mid-ocean, and the crew worked incessantly at the pumps for three days, but they were obliged to abandon the ship. Captain Mortela, who refused to leave his ship, and the carpenter were drowned. The others of the crew had a terrible experience in an open boat.

Gunboats Watching Chinese.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Among the naval movements reported to the navy department yesterday were the arrival of the Monocacy at Shanghai and the departure of the Machias from Hannow for Shanghai and treaty ports. It is assumed to be a desire of the admiral commanding the Asiatic station to have the vessels in southern China, where they may be readily available in the event of trouble such as has been experienced during the past summer.

But One Suit Left.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—An order has been entered by Judge Showalter, under the terms of which Greenhut and Morris and the reorganization committee of the Whisky trust become a happy family, each dismissing all suits against the other, with the exception of one—the action to recover $200,000 from Greenhut, Morris, Hennessy and Woolner, which, it was alleged, they had wrongfully diverted. The suit is to be litigated.

Harry Wright's Funeral.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—The funeral of Harry Wright took place yesterday. The services were conducted by Rev. W. W. Sylvester, and consisted simply of the ritual of the Episcopal church. There were many beautiful floral offerings. Thousands of old friends took a last look at "Dear Old Harry," as he was universally known.

Wagner Weds His Victim.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 7.—Father Dominick Wagner, who caused the downfall of Maud Steidel, aged 15, was married to the girl Saturday night. The marriage was performed by a justice of the peace. After the ceremony the priest was taken back to jail. Wagner transferred to an uncle of the girl all his property, to be held for her in trust.

Was Tippecanoe's Friend.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7.—General Samuel F. Carey has been selected as orator at the unveiling of the Harrison monument in Garfield park, in this city, next December. General Carey was a warm personal friend of the hero of Tippecanoe, and stumped the country for him in both of his memorable presidential campaigns.

On a Big Scale.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 7.—Negotiations are pending between parties in this city, Denver, San Francisco, New Orleans and the City of Mexico for the organization of a stupendous sporting club in El Paso, with a capital stock of $100,000. The full amount of the capital stock has been pledged.

Denied by Peru.

LIMA, Oct. 7.—The foreign department pronounces as false the assertions to the effect that Peru has advanced objections to that clause in the Chili-Bolivian treaty which granted to Bolivia two seaports on the Pacific coast between Iquique and Arica.

Took 7137 Ballots.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Oct. 7.—The Republican representative convention at Rolfe, which has been deadlocked since July 16, adjourned yesterday finally, without making a nomination. The convention took 7137 ballots during its intermittent sessions.

Flood of Counterfeits.

TOLEDO, Oct. 7.—This city is flooded with counterfeit $5 bills. During the last few days they have been thrown out of nearly every bank in town. Hundreds of the bills were passed.

Cuba's Latest Affliction.

HABANA, Oct. 7.—A hurricane has ravaged the tobacco plantations in the province of Penar Del Rio and 20 are reported killed and numbers of houses destroyed.

Big Fire at Denver.

DENVER, Oct. 7.—A four-story brick block on Lawrence street was burned last evening. The total losses will reach $78,000.

Norfolk, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-Law, Next-of-Kin, Creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of MARY LYONS, late of Quincy in said County, deceased, intestate.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court, by a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to Daniel C. Lyons of Quincy, without giving a surety on his bond:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the tenth day of October, A. D., 1895, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy DAILY LEDGER, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, George White, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-sixth day of September, in the year one thousand, eight hundred and ninety-five.

Milkmen Take a Day Off.

The customers of the New York Condensed Milk Company, of whom there are about 50,000 in that city, were asked a few days ago if they would be willing to take a two days' supply and without any exception, although the number is made up from all classes of the community, living in all parts of the city, no one objected. The same was asked of the concern's patrons in Brooklyn, Jersey City and Newark, and with like results. The request was made and the wheels of the great industry were allowed to rest for a day in order that the employes might enjoy their annual outing. Accordingly eleven car-loads of fine-looking milk-men had a grand outing.

Amid cheers, horn blowing and music, the party were taken to the Walden plant, where they were received with cheers and cannon salute. Every man in the party was in some way interested in the milk business, nearly all knew all about the process of condensing, bottling and canning milk, and still the party had hardly reached the factory grounds and had not yet been welcomed by the superintendent, Nelson Smith, before a rush was made for the group of buildings known as the factory, and a general tour of inspection was begun. The plant is one in which one becomes at once interested, and although it contains marvels of machinery and instruments and implements which cannot fail to attract attention and which command admiration, the one characteristic which seems to eclipse all else is the absolute cleanliness of the place. The grounds, the workshops, the engine and machinery rooms, the vats and tanks, everything about and around the place, even to those who are employed there, is so tidy and clean that the word factory seems a misnomer when applied to the plant.

The plant at Walden manufactures what is known as the "Gail Bordon Eagle Brand condensed milk;" which is well known, and used in Quincy by many of the LEDGER readers.

The plant at Walden consists of a group of five buildings, of which one is used as a bottling establishment, two as warehouses and one for the general work of the company.

—Those who have sailed in Boston harbor this season have taken great interest in the breaking up of the Venetian, the large cattle steamer, which got upon the rocks. Mr. Townsend, the contractor, has been given until Dec. 1, 1896 to finish the work. The hardest part of the work will be that below the waterline. Most of the work being done now is so high up that no great lifting power is necessary to get the material on to the lighter, but it will soon be lower, and powerful derricks will be required. For this part of the work a large derrick lighter has been brought from New York.

IN THE CHURCHES.

Mid-Year Rally at the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal Church.

Yesterday was the middle Sunday in the present ecclesiastical or conference year. The occasion was improved by arranging special services for the day. An invitation was given to all the members and friends of the church to be present.

In the morning the pastor, Rev. C. W. Wilder preached a mid-year sermon from Nehemiah 4:6, "And all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof:, for the people had a mind to work." Lessons appropriate for the occasion were drawn from the history of the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem by Nehemiah and the people.

The treasurer of the church then made a report of the financial condition of the society, showing a small deficiency for the first half of the year. Subscriptions were taken to meet this, and it is expected that before the close of the week the full amount will be secured.

In the evening the annual harvest concert by the Sunday School was held. On the first of January, last, the Sunday School was reorganized and graded. It was divided into five departments viz; primary, intermediate, junior, senior, and home departments. The primary department taking the scholars from about 4 to 8 years of age, the intermediate from 8 to 12, the junior from 12 to 16 and the senior from 16 years upward. The first three departments have each four grades, and the pupils who are faithful and learn the prescribed lessons in their respective grades are to be advanced from year to year. The senior department has young people's normal and assembly classes, while the home department is for those who find it impracticable to attend the sessions of the school at the church.

The concert was entitled "Harvest Home and Thanksgiving." The programme was as follows:

1. Opening chorus.
2. Scripture reading.
3. Invocation.
4. Chorus of school.
5. Opening address,-Miss Abbie Barker.
6. Chorus by school.
7. Recitation, Ola Leake, Edna Paine, Ralph Coates, Walter Campbell.
8. Recitation, Charlie Hoxie.
9. Chorus by school.
10. Recitation, Fannie Reith, Ernest Moore, Charlie Hoxie, Mary Leake, John Metherell.
11. Recitation, Miss Ethel Douglass.
12. Solo and duet, Misses Lois Metherell Maude Charlton with chorus by school.
13. Recitation, Miss Flora Leake.
14. "Seed Time and Harvest," an exercise of eight young ladies with song and chorus.
15. "Little Harvesters," six children.
16. Address by pastor.
17. Promotion of classes in the several grades.
18. Song and chorus by school.
19. Benediction.

The church was elaborately decorated with flowers and autumn fruits and vegetables.

The quarterly meeting of the vestrymen of Christ church will be held this evening when important business will come up.

Rev. E. N. Hardy, pastor of the Centre Congregational church, begun work Sunday in the Sunday School. He has a promising class of young men.

"Help, Helpers, and the Great Helper" was the subject of Rev. Preston Gurney's discourse on Sunday morning. Mr. Gurney's text was taken from Psalms 89, verse 19. At the close of the sermon Mrs. Frank A. Page and Mr. S. M. King rendered a duet from "Eli."

The Woman's Guild of Christ church has reorganized with Mrs. Theodore Hardwick as president, Mrs. Howe as vice president, and Mrs. E. W. Newcomb as secretary.

The Chapel Builders of the Centre Congregational church will resume their meetings this week.

The guild of the Wollaston Unitarian church opened its meetings Sunday, and a large number felt well repaid upon hearing Miss Kate Brown, secretary of the National Alliance.

The vespers services at the First church will be resumed next Sunday, and the Wollaston Unitarian church will probably alternate with the Quincy church.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hudson of North Weymouth preached Sunday morning at the Washington street church. A good sized congregation listened to an excellent sermon from Matt. 28:2.

Augustus P. Record will be installed as pastor of the First Unitarian church of Chelsea on Wednesday evening.

It is good news to the members of Christ church to learn that the debt of about $3,000 for the new organ is cancelled.

The Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Point church elected officers as follows: President, Bessie Brown; Vice-President, Victoria Carter; Treasurer, Alice Caldwell; Secretary, Annie Carter. The little Endeavorers seem to be doing good work.

The Reapers Circle of King's Daughters at Christ church will reorganize on Friday evening.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Some Lively Hustling for the Representative Nominations.

It is probable now that the Australian ballot will be used at the Republican Representative convention in this city. Eben W. Sheppard is reported to have withdrawn, which leaves but four prominent candidates for the two places to be filled, Thaddeus H. Newcomb, Russell A. Sears, Eugene H. Sprague and James Thompson. With the possible exception of Mr. Newcomb, it is not a sure thing for any of these gentlemen; in fact their strength is regarded as about equal, and fluctuates from day to day. Had the convention followed close upon the caucuses the nominees would undoubtedly have been Newcomb and Sears, and they may be now, but most of the work for Thompson and Sprague has been done since the caucuses and with gratifying results. It should be understood before the ballot whether a majority or plurality shall elect.

The Republican Councilor convention for this district will be held in Wesleyan hall, Boston, Saturday.

Had H. H. Faxon known as much about Abram C. Paul, the candidate for sheriff, as he now does, he says he would also have raised his scalp at the county convention.

Another opportunity to register tomorrow night.

The Boston Central Labor Union is opposed to biennial elections, and has again adopted a resolve in opposition.

The Registrars of Voters added 22 new names to the voting lists at its meeting Saturday evening and restored 9.

The Republicans of Hingham have nominated Walter L. Bouve for the Legislature.

Saturday was a busy day in United States courts, the occasion being the naturalization of foreign born residents and the investing of them with the rights of citizenship. The applications for naturalization have been so many that parts of the several days have been set apart for the transaction of this business by the United States circuit court. The times fixed are: Monday, Oct 7 at 11 A. M., Thursday, Oct. 10, at 3 P. M, Saturday, Oct. 12, at 3 P M, Monday, Oct. 14, at 11 A. M., Wednesday, Oct. 16, at 3 P. M. and Saturday, Oct. 19, at 12 M.

The political pot is boiling over.

THE RATTLESNAKE.

COMMON ERRORS REGARDING ITS FIGHTING ABILITIES.

Doesn't Have to Coil Before Striking and Kills by a Blow—Quickly Replaces Lost Fangs—He Will Not Go Out of His Way to Attack Anything.

"Nobody was ever bitten by a rattlesnake, and nobody ever will be," said a man who has studied them. "And the reason is the best that could possibly be. A rattlesnake can't bite. It isn't likely that any creature that lives and is provided with teeth and jaws has less power of biting. The snake's jaws are not hinged. They are attached to each other by an elastic cartilage. Thus the snake has no leverage whatever in closing one jaw against the other, and if it attempted to inflict injury by biting it couldn't so much as pierce the skin. The fangs of a rattlesnake are driven into the flesh by a stroke, not a bite, as is well shown by the fact that punctures are made only by the armament of the upper jaw. The lower jaw has nothing to do with the act. A man striking a boat hook into a log is an exact representation of the manner in which the rattlesnake bites. So whenever any one tells you about some one else being bitten by a rattlesnake bet him it isn't so. You'll win. It is an impossibility for a rattlesnake to bite.

"But although the rattlesnake can't bite, if you're fooling around in a country where he is spending the summer, you want to keep your eye peeled. And there is one particular thing you don't want to forget. It is a common and widespread fallacy that a rattlesnake is entirely harmless so long as he is uncoiled. I believed that once and found out by a startling personal experience that it wasn't so. It is true that when a rattlesnake is stretched at full length, with the muscles extended to the utmost, he could not strike an inch forward, but from that position he can strike backward his full length and with lightninglike velocity. One day I dropped a big stone on the head of a big rattler that lay in this position, crushing the head, the stone lying partly on the head. After gazing for some time at the quivering reptile so suddenly taken from life, I stooped down to remove his rattles. I had no sooner touched his tail than his mutilated head flew back, and almost grazing my cheek struck the sleeve of my coat just below the shoulder, where both fangs were buried, pulling out of the jaw and remaining in the sleeve as the snake fell back to the ground. They had not missed my cheek by more than a hair's breadth. With precaution I have made that test of a rattlesnake's capacity of striking in that way many times since then, and the snake always struck. The instinct is so strong in this reptile that I have known a rattler two hours after its head was severed from its body to strike back fiercely with its bleeding stump the instant its tail was touched.

"But the typical position of the rattlesnake when intent on deadly assault is the coil. This is not always a symmetrical spiral, but the body is massed in more or less regular folds, the muscles are contracted, and the reptile is literally an animate set spring. From this position the rattler can spring from one-half to two-thirds of his length. Before the stroke the mouth is opened wide, the fangs falling down from their sockets in the upper jaw and standing firmly in their position. The head is thrust forward, the half coils below it being straightened out to lengthen the neck and to give power to the strike. There is no preliminary motion. The stab is made with abrupt swiftness that defies escape of the victim. There is but one strike. The snake passes back into its coil again with the same swiftness that it threw itself out. As the fangs enter the flesh the venom is injected. If the thing struck at is beyond the rattler's reach, the snake has the power of squirting its venom in jets, which it can do to a distance of four feet or more.

"Sometimes a rattlesnake loses its fangs in the flesh of the object it strikes, but that does only temporary damage to its deadly armory. There are plenty of incipient fangs lying in the jaw, only waiting for a chance like that to come forward and be in line for business. They grow very fast, and in the course of two or three days a rattlesnake that has lost its fangs is refitted with a brand new pair. This is a good thing to remember, for it is the popular belief that a rattler is made harmless by extracting its venom fangs. The only way to render one of these reptiles harmless, besides killing it, is to apply redhot iron to the cavities left by the fangs. This will destroy all the vitality of these dangerous parts, and new fangs will not come in.

"The rattlesnake never pursues his prey; he waits. He will not go out of his way to attack anything. He will invariably keep on his course if not cornered or teased. You may step within four inches of a rattlesnake and will not be disturbed by it if you keep right on your way. If you stop, the snake at once will take it for a challenge and hit you only too quick. It is said, as if by authority, that the rattlesnake never sounds his rattle until he has coiled. If that is so, rattlesnakes that I have seen must have been freaks, for they have rattled when lying at full length and even when moving, as well as in their coils. The rattler, when traveling, will cross lakes and streams, and he swims with his head and his rattles raised well above the water. The force with which a rattlesnake can strike is such that I once teased one into striking at a piece of belting at least a quarter of an inch thick, and he sent his fangs clear through it."—New York Sun.

WORKING GIRLS.

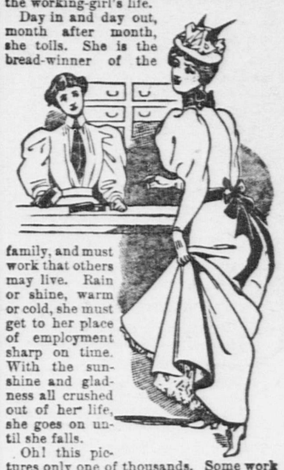
WILLING, ABLE, AND AMBITIOUS,

But Often Held Back by an Illness They do not Understand.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

A young and intelligent working-girl of Brooklyn, N.Y., graphically pictures the working-girl's life.

Day in and day out, month after month, she toils. She is the bread-winner of the family, and must work that others may live. Rain or shine, warm or cold, she must get to her place of employment sharp on time. With the sunshine and gladness all crushed out of her life, she goes on until she falls.



Oh! this pictures only one of thousands. Some work in cramped positions, but the great majority of working girls, so to speak, live on their feet.

Among the latter the symptoms of female diseases are early manifested by weak and aching backs, pains in the lower limbs and lower part of the stomach. The "monthly period" is irregular: with some profuse, with others a cessation. The sure symptom, leucorrhœa, is present, and with faintness, weakness, loss of appetite and sleep. She may be sure that a womb trouble assails her. She knows not where to go for aid.

Miss Mary Smylie, of 2078 Susquehanna Avenue, Kensington, Philadelphia, Pa., urges her fellow working-girls to have faith in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says: "I am a working-girl, and must stand eleven hours every day. I have suffered terribly from painful menstruation and kidney trouble; and my head was so dizzy I could hardly see. I began to take your Lydia Pinkham's Compound some time ago. It was highly recommended to me by a friend. Now I feel like a different girl: no more aches and pains. I am praising it to every one. Our Druggist sells lots of it.

The vessel to the sturdy anchor's form,
Enabling it thus to safely endure
The wild tempestuous onslaughts of the storm,
So is the chain of Hope, that bids depart
All grim despair as on life's way I plod,
The one end firmly linked around my heart,
The other resting in the hand of God.

Remorse.

"How do I know that you are not an impostor?"

"Do I look like an impostor, mum? (Weeping) Oh, mum, you have wounded me to the core!"

"Here, my good man, take this. I did not mean to wound your feelings. I ought to have known better."—Life.

A Russian Girl Naturalized.

Judge Butler in the United States district court a few days since naturalized Rosalie M. Blitzstein, a medical student, giving her all the rights of citizenship except voting. Miss Blitzstein is a native of Russia, and has been studying at the Women's Medical college. Her counsel stated that she wished to complete her education abroad, where she intended to study at another medical college, and as she required a passport it was necessary to have her admitted to citizenship here.

The judge asked Miss Blitzstein a number of questions. From her answers it appears that she is 22 years of age, and that she will return to this country after finishing her studies in Europe She said that she had read the constitution and gave correct replies to questions put as to its contents.—Philadelphia Record.

Smuggler Sent to Prison.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 7.—A sensation was created by Wicks, the first of the smuggling syndicate to plead guilty, being sentenced to six months' imprisonment, without the alternative of a fine. The prosecuting attorneys expect to dispose of five cases this week, and hope to procure conviction in each of the cases.

Welcomed to Richmond.

RICHMOND, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston arrived here last night. All the Richmond military organizations escorted the visitors to the First Baptist church, where a service in honor of the Ancients was held.

Railroad Scheme Endorsed.

LIMA, Oct. 7.—Congress has approved the project of a railroad running from Lima to Pisco, traversing a rich and cultivated district. The construction of this railroad offers a grand opening for American capital.

Visit Postponed.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 7.—Chang Chi Tung, viceroy of Nanking, has declined to receive a visit from the British admiral, Buller, on the plea of sickness.

Think of This. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only true blood purifier preeminently in the public eye today. It cures disease when all others fail, because it makes pure blood.

Further Comment From Abroad Concerning the America's Cup.

English Athletes Again Outdone by the Sons of Eli.

Spiders Make It Three Straight In the Contest For the Temple Cup.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Charles D. Rose writes to The Times this morning: In your edition of Sept. 26 your New York correspondent said that the Prince of Wales was connected with my proposed challenge for the America's cup. I beg you to contradict the statement, inasmuch that his royal highness' name was used without warrant, and nothing, whatever, was known of my challenge by the Prince of Wales until he saw the announcement in the newspapers.

CHARLES DAY ROSE.

The Times this morning prints a two-column article giving a history of the difficulties that have arisen between the challenger and the challenged since the cup was won. It reprints the deeds of gift of 1857, 1882 and 1887, and in an editorial on this subject says: The lawyers will peruse the so-called deeds with wonder not wholly free from amazement. They will be perplexed at the two documents being described as deeds at all. The general public will wonder why, if everybody wants a race on fair terms, it cannot be settled somehow or other.

The Times proceeds further to say: We have not the temerity to try to define the rights or duties of the trustees under the deed of 1887. This is a task that might tax the powers of a commodore and a judge of the chancery division sitting together. But it is pretty [illegible] to man that the provisions are clear to the layman that the provisions of the document lengthen considerable advantage to the challenged side.

If the next race for the America's cup does not come off under satisfactory conditions, it will be very hard to persuade him that all of the blame or much of it attaches to the terms of the trust deed.

ELEVEN TO THREE.

How the Points Stood in the Contest Between Yale and Cambridge.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Once more the Englishmen had to yield to the better brawn and muscle of Americans at Manhattan field. Two weeks ago the representatives of the London Athletic club were whitewashed by the representatives of the New York Athletic club in a program of 11 events. Some of the men who contested in the waterloo of a fortnight ago were again in evidence Saturday.

The following table of winners tells in the briefest possible space the result of the competitions in track and field sports:

100-yard dash—W. M. Richards. Time 10 1-5s.

120-yard hurdle—E. H. Cady. Time 16s.

200-yard run—W. M. Richards. Time 32 2-5s.

Putting 16-pound shot—W. O. Hickok. Distance 42ft. 6in.

Running high jump—J. H. Thompson, Jr. Height 5ft. 8¼in.

Running broad jump—L. P. Sheldon. Distance 21ft. 4½in.

Throwing 16-pound hammer—W. O. Hickok. Distance 130ft. 7in.

120-yard hurdle race, on turf—G. B. Hatch. Time 16s.

One-half mile run—F. S. Horan. Time 2m. 2-5s.

One-mile run—W. E. Lutyens. Time 4m. 35 3-5s.

Quarter-mile run—C. H. Lewin. Time 49 4-5s.

It will be seen by the above that Yale won eight out of the 11 events.

Lewis, the square-shouldered Cambridge runner, after one of the most exciting finishes ever seen on an athletic field, won the 440 yards run, beating Richards of Yale by a scant six inches. Horan, the cadaverous looking middle distance man, made a show of his opponents in the half mile, and Lutyens, the spectacled student of Sydney college, had things all his own way in the mile run. These were Cambridge's only victories.

It was the first international university competition in track and field sports ever held in this country, with the Cambridge team representing old England and Yale upholding the honors of America.

That Yale proved faithful to her trust was fully demonstrated by the marked superiority of her men in the majority of events, and by winning so handsomely no room was left for doubt or bickering.

Merit Recognized.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Graphic says this morning of the Yale-Cambridge contest at New York on Saturday: America has taken the conceit out of us in a way unequalled since Australia beat England at the Oval in 1882, and it may perhaps be a longer time before we recover from the shock. As a first step toward accepting defeat gracefully, we might perhaps cease to talk quite so much about the differences of climate as a contributory cause to our defeat. When the Yale team came over and were beaten by Oxford, they had to compete under conditions of cold and damp quite as foreign to their experience as the heat of New York has been to the Englishmen. We do not urge the disadvantages which Yale had suffered in diminution of our triumph, and it is not quite game to enlarge upon similar causes in mitigation of our defeat.

The Standard says: The victory was most decisive, and in view of the fact that, except Fitzherbert, the Cantabs performed as well as they have generally done at home, one is driven to the conclusion that Oxford was somewhat lucky to beat Yale, or decidedly unlucky in subsequently losing to Cambridge. It is impossible to shut one's eyes to the fact that at the present time America is peculiarly rich in capable athletes of all kinds; and though we may hope that at the next important meeting the Englishmen will assert their supremacy over their rivals, or at all events come out on an equality, it would be churlish to refuse the frank and cordial acknowledgment which the recent achievements of their American opponents merit.

The Daily News says: Though not so overwhelming as when the London Athletic club was beaten by the New York Athletic club, the defeat was bad enough. Winning or losing, however, is a small consideration compared with the social results brought about by these friendly rivalries between the old and the new worlds. Our athletic invasion of the States has resulted in a heavy blow to our self-esteem; but the tables may be turned if the Americans send over a team next year. Climate accounts for a good deal in these matters, and other things being at all equal, the advantage must always be with the home team. Admitting this, however, the fact remains that the Americans are just now marvellously strong.

Third Defeat For Baltimore.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5.—Cleveland made it three straight in the wind-up of the games in the Temple cup series in this city. The visitors were unable to hit Young effectively, while McMahon was pounded for seven singles and four doubles, three of which would have been three-baggers at least, but for the ground rules. Cleveland won in the first inning with three runs.

Earned runs—Cleveland, 6; Baltimore, 1. Base hits—Cleveland, 13; Baltimore, 7. Errors—Cleveland, 1; Baltimore, 1. Batteries—Young and Zimmer; McMahon and Robinson.

Fitz as an Indian.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Oct. 7.—When Fitzsimmons was informed that he was to be admitted to the Chickasaw tribe of Indians in order to escape federal interference when he went to Indian Territory to fight, he said that while he was not stuck on joining the red men, he would gladly do so if it would assure him of meeting Corbett, and meet Corbett he must, or suffer the worst disappointment of his life.

Henry Folks Want It.

HENRY, Ills., Oct. 7.—There has been organized in this city a stock company guaranteeing $50,000 for the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight. The company has selected the Henry islands, belonging to the United States government. The company claims to be able to guarantee protection and no interference from officials.

Warning Was Unheeded.

LORAIN, O., Oct. 7.—While nearly 2000 people were standing on a temporary floor yesterday attending a [illegible] Monday to witness the laying of the corner-stone of the new St. Mary's Catholic church, the floor suddenly gave way, precipitating many people into the basement. One was killed outright, 10 were fatally injured, and between 30 and 40 others were badly hurt. The accident was due to defective timbers. The contractor was told Saturday that the platform was insecure, but he said it would hold all the people that could be crowded upon it. Despite the accident, the services were continued and the laying of the corner-stone was completed.

French Fighters Advancing.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—A letter to The Times, dated Tananarivoo, Sept. 23, says: The French are 30 miles off and are advancing fast. The British cemetery and the French observatory have been wrecked. The queen in a speech yesterday said: "The French are close upon you. You said you would fight for me, but you have not fought. I will not yield. I shall die at the palace." The Hovas are preparing to make the last stand at Ambohemanga.

Swept by Prairie Fires.

IPSWICH, S. D., Oct. 7.—Prairie fires, started by farmers for protection, escaped from control and are devastating a rich farming region. Great stock ranches have been entirely burned over, many farmhouses destroyed and a total damage inflicted that already exceeds $100,000. Many families are homeless, and fleeing for shelter. The fires are spreading and rain is earnestly looked for.

Paris Safely Arrives.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The steamer City of Paris was docked at 11 o'clock last night. The delay of the Paris was due to her trouble of priming, or foaming of the boilers. Repairs were made during her stay in Southampton, which were expected to remedy the difficulty, but as soon as she was well started the priming again started and continued all the way across.

Lese Majeste.

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—Herr Illge, editor of the Liepsic Tageblatt, was sentenced to five months' imprisonment for publishing an article commenting unfavorably upon the emperor's speech to the officers of the guards on Sept. 2.

Another Preliminary Trial.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The Texas has returned from a two days' preliminary trial trip at sea. The Texas will make another run to test the machinery before undergoing her official trial.

Barely Alive.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The condition of ex-Senator Mahone shows no particular change. He is simply clinging to life by a slender thread, which may be severed at any time.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

"TRAMWAY BILLY."

An Intelligent Little Black Dog and His Cunning Ways.

Living some distance from the center of the city of Denver, I have occasion to ride a great deal on the Tramway cars, which is the name given to one of the street railways in this western city. Several times a little black dog has been a fellow passenger. He is a bright, intelligent, good natured looking fellow and appears as if he was accustomed to dine upon the best of food three times a day. He is called Tramway Billy and seems, by general consent, to have become the property of the Tramway company.

Billy formerly belonged to a private family, but they could not keep him at home, for he would run away to the depot where the cars came in and seemed to enjoy very much taking rides about the city. He rides over the entire system, sometimes going out as far as University Park, Montclair or Riverside. All the conductors and motormen know Billy and make a great deal of him.

Whenever he wishes to board a car, he goes to the proper side of the street, because he seems to understand that the cars stop only at certain places, and waits there. They always stop the car for Billy as much as for any other passenger. He is always greeted very cordially. Sometimes he is undecided in regard to what car he will take, and as one comes along, he seems to think that it would be better for him to wait until the next one comes. Then the conductor or motorman calls out, "Come, Billy, come and take a ride!" Billy usually accepts this invitation so hospitably extended. He often occupies the seat on the front of the car beside the motorman.

Need we say that Billy is a great favorite with the employees of the road? "Why," as one conductor expressed it, "if a person wants to get into trouble, just let him attack that dog! The boys would fight until the last minute for Billy."

Oh, yes, they feed him well! Whenever the cars stop at an eating station he always expects to receive a lunch. One day a motorman said to a conductor when they were stopping at one of these stations at the terminus of a line:

"Oh, get Billy something to eat! He's hungry."

"He's the biggest beggar I ever saw. I never saw him when he didn't want something to eat," replied the other.

Sometimes Billy is invited to dine at the homes of his friends. One day about noon Billy, in company with a gentleman, got on a car. After riding several blocks they alighted and went up the steps of a house. Probably Billy had accepted an invitation to take dinner out that day.

Perhaps some day my little readers may have the pleasure of visiting Denver, the Queen City of the Plains, and may then have an opportunity to form the acquaintance of Tramway Billy.—Mattie J. Atkins in Zion's Herald.

A Cycle Club's Mascot.

It was conceded on all hands that the parade of the Union Men's Cycle club was one of the pleasing incidents of the building trades council's big procession in Chicago on Labor day. The club attracted general attention, but the club's mascot, little Eddie Hollister, was at all times the special center of interest and curiosity. Eddie is not yet 7 years of age and looked amusingly diminutive when on a wheel and surrounded by the other members of the club. He is an intelligent little fellow, but evinces no desire to be regarded as a boy prodigy or to be particularly precocious. He is every inch a boy and seems to have figured it out that he should have all of a boy's fun while he is yet a boy. And boylike his greatest ambition is to excel in everything bearing semblance to a contest, a peculiarity which renders it extremely difficult for the rest of the club to keep pace with him on occasions and at the same time prevent him from breaking his neck. Mascot Eddie gave an exhibition of his abilities as a "scorcher" on Labor day which was highly relished by the throngs of people assembled at the reviewing stand. Dressed in the most approved bicycle costume, with a sash which bore in gilt letters the words, "Eight Hour Herald," the little fellow repeatedly circled the monument at a high rate of speed, much to the edification of the judges and guests. It was the unanimous verdict that the Union Men's Cycle club and its mascot were all right.—Eight Hour Herald.

How to Make a Ball.

A homemade ball that costs nothing to make and is really serviceable can be made by any boy. Take an ordinary cork and cut it as round as possible, making it the size of an ordinary marble. Then tear off very narrow strips of rag and wind these one at a time around the cork until the ball is of the desired size. Then cover it with cloth, or if you can get a pair of your father's or big brother's discarded heavy dogskin or buckskin winter gloves cut out four quarters from them, shaped to the ball, and get your sister to stitch them together for you with stout waxed linen thread as a strong and durable cover.

RESTLESS OPERATIVES

Have Grievances Which May Cause Another Strike at Fall River.

Slashers Likely to Ask Weavers to Quit Work.

Figures Show Fall River Mill Dividends For Past Ten Years.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 8.—A novel sort of strike is on at the Merchants' mills and bids fair to be a prolonged one. A young man who had worked about sizing machines three years was given a machine to run on his own account about a month ago. In four or five days the other men decided not to labor with him because he was not a member of the union.

The mill authorities, to avoid trouble, consented to wait until the learner's name had been acted on by the union, but before action was taken the machine's production was needed, and he again went on operating it. A strike resulted by order of the Slasher Tenders' union, five men leaving work. Their places were filled. On Saturday one new man was induced to leave his place, and the vacancy was soon filled. Yesterday two slasher tenders in No. 3 mill were called out, although no trouble existed there, but the union sought to influence the authorities in this manner. The vacancies were filled yesterday afternoon.

Manufacturers have given Agent Borden to understand that he will be given every assistance in the power of the association. The slasher tenders are equally firm and say they will soon have the weavers on the streets, because poor warps are now being furnished.

Interesting Statistics.

G. M. Haffards & Co., local bankers and brokers, have prepared a statement of dividends paid by local corporations in 10 years, showing the highest and lowest prices of stocks, the amount of dividends paid each year and the average for the whole time. The averages are carefully figured.

The capital of many of the mills has undergone a change in the time taken, from July 1, 1885, to Dec. 31, 1894, as in the case of the Davol, Globe Yarn, Granite, Hargraves, Osborn, Pocasset, Richard Borden, Sanford Spinning, Sagamore, Stafford, Seaconnett, Wampanoag, American Linen, Bourne, Border City, Barnaby and Laurel Lake mills, but the approximate averages are reliable. A condensation of the table is given herewith:

The Averages.

Cotton stocks.	Present capital.	Par value.	Average rate for 10 yrs.
American Linen Co.	$800,000	$100	6.97

Explanatory Figures.

The average of the Union mill includes an extra dividend of 50 per cent paid in 1892. In 1887 the capital of the Granite was increased from $400,000 to $800,000, and the par value of shares was reduced from $1000 to $100, and 10 shares of new stock given for one share of old. The capital of the American linen was increased in 1889 from $400,000 to $800,000, and the par value of shares reduced from $400 to $100, and eight shares of new stock given for one share of old. Excluded from the Granite mill average is a stock dividend of 100 per cent declared in 1893.

The Anawan mill paid nothing, and the Durfee and Iron Works are private corporations.

The Cornell mills, incorporated in 1889, paid 4½ per cent in 1893 and 6 per cent last year. The Hargraves, incorporated in 1888, paid 6 per cent in 1890, and every year thereafter until last year, when it paid 5½. The Sanford Spinning company, incorporated in 1891, paid 3½ in 1893 and 8 in 1894. The Kerr Thread, incorporated in 1888, paid 8 per cent in 1892 and 4 per cent in 1893.

In the past year the dividends have been handsome, owing to the sharp advance in cotton.

'LECTION DAY.

Republican Majorities In Connecticut Cut Down In Some Cases.

HARTFORD, Oct. 8.—The town elections in Connecticut yesterday derived unusual interest from the first application of the new state law against corruption, which compels candidates and political committee chairmen to file with the town clerk within 10 days, a sworn statement of expenses under penalty of a fine of $1000. The law also prohibits bribing or influencing electors. A law for greater secrecy of the ballot also went into effect. Local issues caused splits in many towns, but in general the large Republican majorities of last year were materially cut down. There were few independent tickets, the voters contenting themselves with much scratching, particularly in Hartford. The local option license issues caused some surprises in the larger towns.

Masked Robbers in Lewiston.

LEWISTON, Me., Oct. 8. — Early this morning, William Mennealley, night operator at the Central Telephone Exchange, was reading a paper, when two masked men opened the door and presenting revolvers at his head said: "Hands up. Hurry up now, we mean business." Mennealley told them to get out. They jumped the rail, and, seizing him, tried to gag him with a handkerchief. He broke away, and one of them struck him twice over the head with the butt of the revolver, causing bad wounds. Mennealley fought and called loudly for aid. The would-be robbers became frightened and fled.

Campaign Opened.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., Oct. 8.—The first gun of the political campaign was fired here last night by the Republicans. Governor Greenhalge and Lieutenant Governor Wolcott arrived early in the afternoon and were shown about the town. A reception was held in the afternoon, and a great many took advantage of the occasion to shake the hand of the governor. Prominent citizens occupied seats on the platform at the rally in the evening.

O'Sullivan's Surprise Party.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 8.—A meeting was held in city hall last night to discuss the projected new city charter. All the most prominent citizens of Lawrence were there to express themselves in favor of the measure. Jeremiah O'Sullivan, however, vigorously opposed the project, accusing its supporters of being actuated by selfish motives and with concealing certain important facts from the people. His remarks created considerable confusion.

Welcomed by Crimsons.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 8.—Harvard gave the Cambridge (Eng.) athletes a rousing reception here today. After seeing the sights in Boston, the visiting athletes were driven to Harvard, where 1000 students greeted them. President Eliot gave them a reception, after which a banquet was tendered at the Hasty Pudding club.

Out of Business.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 8.—The affairs of the Hopkinton Savings bank were yesterday wound up in the supreme court. The bank, which is one of the oldest in the state, has found business unprofitable of late, and decided to go out of business. The cash above the amount of liabilities is $347.97.

Skull Stopped Bullet.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Family troubles over which Edward J. Roberts, a colored man, had brooded, made him so despondent that yesterday afternoon he attempted suicide by shooting with a revolver between his eyes. The bullet flattened up against his frontal bone.

Last of the Pickering.

EDGARTOWN, Mass., Oct. 8.—Schooner Jennie of New London, Conn., yesterday stripped the schooner Nellie F. Pickering, which sank off this port after going ashore Friday, and landed Captain Kimball and the crew of the Pickering. The vessel is a total loss.

Stabbed In the Back.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Three jealous Italians got into a quarrel at the West End, and one of them drew a pistol and attempted to shoot Antonio Cimpo. As Cimpo started to run, the third man in the group, Pallala, stabbed him in the back. The wound was slight.

Going to Georgia.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 8. — Governor Cleaves has appointed P. H. Richardson of Portland, C. S. Hichborn of Augusta, G. H. Hamlen of the Maine State college and R. T. Patten of Skowhegan delegates to good roads parliament at Atlanta.

Didn't Get Very Far.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 8.—The runaway son of D. W. Jackson of Rockland was arrested here last night while on his way to the plains. The boy was a walking arsenal, and swears that the paternal roof shall never shelter him again.

Yale Wouldn't Answer.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 8.—Oct. 5 having passed, and Harvard having received no invitation from Yale to play football, it is definitely settled that there will be no football game this year between the elevens of these universities.

New England Briefs.

Colonel William L. Chase of Brookline, Mass., is dead.

Rev. John Malvern, pastor of Roger Williams Free Baptist church, Providence, has resigned.

A. D. Wallis, who is wanted on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, was brought from Hartford to Boston.

Patrick Grant, aged 86, father of Robert Grant, the novelist, a successful merchant of Boston for many years, died in that city.

Major Lewis Simons of Manchester, N. H., died at the age of 80 years. Mr. Simons went to Manchester from Weare in 1858, and engaged in the lumber trade and acquired great wealth.

Dishes Dropped.

WENONA, Ills., Oct. 8.—The inhabitants of this town were greatly alarmed by an earthquake at 1:20 a. m. yesterday. The shock was preceded by a rumbling noise that awakened nearly everyone. There was a lull for two or three minutes, followed by more rumbling and then more quaking, which shook dishes from pantry shelves. A great deal of damage was done to the coal mines in this vicinity.

Run Down.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. — Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson, who for many years has been a powerful factor in Presbyterian circles, is still very sick. His physicians have issued imperative orders that he refrain from work of any kind.

There Are Others.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Oct. 8.—The grand jury found but one bill for bribery in the legislative investigation, but, it is said, had evidence of several cases on which Chicago and Peoria grand juries could find indictments.

SPENT YEARS ABROAD.

Death of William Wetmore Story, a Native of the Bay State.

Famous as a Sculptor, Poet and Artist.

Statues In Many Cities Give Testimony to His Professional Skill.

ROME, Oct. 8.—William Wetmore Story, the distinguished American sculptor, died at Vallambrosa yesterday, aged 76 years.

Mrs. Story died of paralysis on Jan. 7, last year, in Rome. Their children are Waldo, himself a sculptor; Julian, who married Emma Eames, and a daughter, who married Sig. Peruzzi, a descendant of the famous Florentine house.

William Wetmore Story, artist, sculptor and poet, was born at Salem, Mass., Feb. 12, 1819, and was the son of Joseph Story, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, and the famous commentator on the constitution. He was graduated at Harvard in 1838, and at its law department in 1840, where he studied under his father's direction. He was admitted to the bar and devoted his attention largely to the preparation of law reports and a treatise on contracts. At the same time he was a frequent contributor of both prose and verse to the Boston Miscellany and other periodicals.

Mr. Story was the poet of his class, and in 1844 delivered the Phi Beta Kappa poem at Harvard on "Nature and Art," in which he indicated the tasks which were to govern his future life. His first volume of poems was published in 1847, and in 1856 he delivered a poem at the dedication of the statue of Beethoven at the Boston Music hall.

Many Tributes to His Skill.

In 1848 his fondness for art led to his going to Italy, where he had ever since resided, devoting his attention chiefly to sculpture. His statue of his father in the chapel of Mt. Auburn cemetery, of Edward Everett in the Boston Public Garden, busts of James Russell Lowell, Theodore Parker and Josiah Quincy, and the sitting statue of Chief Justice Marshall, in front of the west terrace of the Capitol at Washington, are well-known examples of his art, and he modeled a bronze statue of George Peabody, which was erected in London in 1869, and a replica of which was presented, in 1888, to the city of Baltimore, through the liberality of Robert Garrett.

He was a United States commissioner on fine arts to the World's fair at Paris in 1879, and has received decorations from France and Italy. Mr. Story held a professorship in the Academia Degli Arcadi Ste. Cecilia, and had received the degree of LL.D. in the university of Oxford and an honorary degree from the university of Bologna on its 800th anniversary. Among his other works are "Sappho," "Saul," "Delilah," "Helen," "Judith," "Sardanapalus," "Jerusalem In Her Desolation" and "Thetis and Achilles."

His "Cleopatra" and "Semiramis" are now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York city. Mr. Story was also an accomplished musician. Since his residence abroad he had published "Life and Letters of Joseph Story," a volume of poems and numerous other books of poetry, essays and in other departments of literature.

All Over a Steer.

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 8.—A shooting affray occurred near Twohig's station yesterday, which resulted in the death of J. Shaw, an American ranchman, and two Mexican men, a Mexican child and a Mexican woman. Shaw had lost a yearling steer, and he, in company with Deputy Sheriff Swink, trailed the thieves and came upon them, together with a woman and child. Resistance was offered and the shooting commenced.

Kentucky Warfare.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Oct. 8.—A man named Burns and his son, John, waylaid three men near Loudon. All three of them were wounded, one so seriously that he will die. The ambushed men were on horseback, and two of the horses were killed and the third wounded by the fusilade.

Commander Walker's Selections.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 8.—Commander-in-Chief Walker of the Grand Army has issued a general order appointing A. J. Burbank of Chicago, quartermaster general; William M. Olin of Boston, inspector general, and Alfred Darte of Wilkesbarre, Pa., judge advocate.

Lumber Fed Flames.

GREEN BAY, Wis., Oct. 8.—At the docks of the Murphy Lumber company 750,000 logs were swept away by fire yesterday. Out of 7,000,000 feet of select lumber, 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 feet were destroyed, together with docks and a number of buildings. The loss is $100,000.

Passed a Wreck.

HALIFAX, Oct. 8. — Steamer Olivette, from Boston, arrived yesterday, 12 hours late. Captain Hanlon reports the trip the roughest of the season. Ten miles off Cape Sable the bowsprit of a vessel was passed. It had apparently been only a short time in the water.

Visitors' Day.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—All of the bureau officers of the war department now in the city called upon General Miles yesterday to pay their respects to the new commanding general. The mail and telegraph also brought many messages of congratulation.

Printers Robbed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Frank Padgett, secretary of the Columbia Typographical union, is short in his accounts, and has left the city. The amount of his defalcation is not known. The police have been asked to look out for him.

—Twelve jurymen of the Commonwealth in Boston rendered a decision last week in the Walcott-O'Brien trial, which permits men to pound and pummel each other into insensibility under the cause of boxing.

HENRY A. RICHARDS DEAD.

A Promising Son of Weymouth Succumbs to Typhoid Fever.

Mr. Henry A. Richards, one of the most popular young men of Weymouth, died this morning at his residence on Commercial street, in his thirtieth year, of typhoid fever, brought on by a complication of diseases extending over a period of ten days.

Mr. Richards was graduated from Harvard, class of '86, and shortly after entered business with his father under the firm name of A. J. Richards & Son, with offices at Quincy and Weymouth, with whom he remained up to the time of his death.

Some two years ago he was united in marriage to Miss L. Charlotte, eldest daughter of Col. B. S. Lovell, who survives him.

He was affiliated with Orphans Hope lodge, F. A. M., and South Shore Commandery, Knights Templar. He was also for several years a member of the 1st Corps of Cadets.

Funeral services will be held from his late residence Thursday at 2 o'clock and will be for relatives and immediate friends only.

The Y. M. C. A.

Five hundred young men ought to have heard Rev. E. N. Hardy's talk on "Ridicule" at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. He spoke of how young men take the first steps in drinking, in gambling and in impurity because they are afraid of the ridicule of their companions.

Mr. T. B. Emery has charge of the singing at these meetings and sang a beautiful solo.

Owing to the annual meeting there will be no evangelistic meeting tonight, but on Wednesday evening Rev. E. A. Robinson will speak on "Something I cannot earn."

This evening in addition to the reports and the election of officers there will be an address by Rev. E. N. Hardy and a short entertainment followed by refreshments.

Boy's Leg Broken.

Harold Farrington, the young son of Mr. William F. Farrington of Arlington street, Wollaston, while climbing on behind a wagon on Monday afternoon, got one of his legs caught in the spokes of one of the rear wheels in such a manner that the leg was broken in three places, making a compound fracture.

Houghs Neck Timetable.

PERSONAL. Mr. I. W. Chick of the firm of John H. Pray, Sons & Co., of Boston, sailed from Southampton for home on Saturday last, on the Furst Bismarck.

During the last four months Mr. Chick has been ransacking the European and Eastern markets for novelties in Oriental rugs and for special designs and ideas in high-grade carpets.

Messrs. Pray & Co., have received many shipments from Mr. Chick during the summer, and all of these goods are now offered for sale at reasonable prices. They combine utility, beauty and inexpensiveness to a most unusual degree. pol

NO SCHOOLHOUSES.

The Mayor's Veto is Sustained by the City Council.

And President Bass Rules Against Introduction of Similar Orders.

Another Attempt to Get Quincy Into Metropolitan Water District.

The absent members of the Council at Monday evening's meeting, were Councilmen O'Brien, Rice and Spear.

A communication was received from the Mayor returning the bill for fence around Mt. Wollaston cemetery and recommending that it be paid from unexpended balance for burial expenses. To Committee on Finance.

The Mayor forwarded a claim of Fred W. Hardwick of $90 for rent of hall, for evening schools, from April 1, 1894 to Oct. 1, 1894. To Committee on Finance.

Petition.

Petitions were received from H. L. Kincaide for an auctioneer's license and from A. G. Brown for bowling alley. To Committee on Licenses.

The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for a location for one pole on Washington street. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Nickerson presented a petition for three incandesent lights on Beale street west of Pine street. Upon motion of Councilman Bryant the petition was referred to the executive department.

Councilman Russell presented a petition for the laying out as a public square the lot bounded by Liberty and Trafford streets. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Rinn presented a petition for the laying out of Madison street, from Newbury avenue to Hancock street as a public way. To Committee on Streets.

Reports of Committees.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing, Oct. 21, on the orders laying out Bennington street and Butler road as public ways. Adopted.

The same committee reported on order granting the Electric Light Company permission to erect poles on Bigelow street, Warren and Grand View avenues. Ordered to second reading.

The same committee reported an order for a public hearing Nov. 4, on the petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a double track on Hancock street. Adopted.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on the following petitions, which was adopted: Quincy & Boston street railway for relocations on Copeland and Sea street. Quincy street railway on the same; the acceptance of Park Hill avenue; to widen and straighten Sea street; to lay out and accept Manet avenue and to lay out and accept Ryden street.

The order appropriating $1800 for a combination chemical engine was passed.

Metropolitan Water.

Councilman Pinkham introduced an order requesting the Mayor to appear before the Metropolitan Water Supply Commissioners and request that Quincy be included in the cities to be supplied under that system.

Councilman Bryant requested the ruling of the chair on the order.

The chair ruled it was in order and referred it to the Committee on Water Supply.

COUNCILMAN JOHNSON

Who is after the scalp of the Commissioner of Public Works and the Superintendent of the Water Works.

An Opinion Wanted.

Councilman Johnson offered an order that the City Solicitor be requested to report to the Council if it was in accordance with the City Charter for a member of the Water Board to serve and draw salary as superintendent of said board. Adopted.

Report Wanted.

Councilman Rinn moved that the joint committee report at the next meeting on the order for heating apparatus for the Quincy school. Adopted.

Civil Service.

Councilman Johnson offered an order requesting the Commissioner of Public Works to forward to this Council a list of the persons in the employ of the city who have taken the civil service examination, with the date thereof. Passed.

Goffe Street Hydrant.

Councilman Johnson also offered an order for the investigation of a dispute which has arisen between the public and the superintendent of the water works relative to the removal of a hydrant on Goffe street.

Councilman Bryant thought it was not city business and Councilman Adams opposed meddling.

Councilman Johnson maintained that it was city business.

Councilman Pinkham was opposed to investigations which were simply a farce.

Councilman Sprague wanted to be enlightened as to the trouble, but Councilman Johnson thought that could best be done in committee.

Councilman Grindell thought it a matter that concerned only the fire and water departments.

Councilman Bigelow moved to amend the order to enquire into the removal of the hydrant, rather than to investigate the dispute, etc.

Councilman Shackley thought if the present location was all right no investigation was necessary.

Superintendent Cavanagh was present and was called for. He said the Water Commissioners voted on Tuesday, Sept. 24, to remove the hydrant, and that work was begun early the next morning, and done as quickly as possible. To disconnect the hydrant it was necessary to shut off the water and residents of the street can testify when this was done. The hydrant was relocated about one o'clock.

The order for an investigation was lost.

No Schoolhouses.

Councilman Sprague moved to take from the table the Mayor's veto of the order for schoolhouses.

Councilman Shackley was opposed as some members were absent.

Councilman Sprague understood another order was to be introduced if the veto was sustained, and we might as well dispose of it now.

The communication was read.

Councilman Bigelow asked if the Committee on Public Buildings had received any communication from the architects.

COUNCILMAN BARKER

Who would have liked to furnish the lumber for the new schoolhouses, but who voted against the order.

Councilman Sprague read a letter from Randlett & Howe setting forth that they had been unable to see the plans because the Mayor was in New York. That specifications would be furnished on application, and the firm would give a bond of $10,000 guaranteeing its work.

Councilman Bigelow was ready to go on record over the Mayor's veto in favor of the order. I have done all I could for schoolhouses, have voted for stone and brick and wood. There would be no trouble about specifications.

Councilman Shackley favored the passage of order over veto. If delayed the thing would be engineered around for brick, which would cost about $80,000.

Councilman Nickerson still maintained that the difference between brick and wood was not as great as the gentleman persisted in claiming.

Councilman Adams thought the question was whether the Mayor's reasons were good. He thought they were. That the Council had done its business in a loose way.

Councilman Sprague had been in favor of passing the order over veto, but had now changed his mind and would vote to sustain the veto.

The question came on passing the order, notwithstanding the objection of the Mayor, and the order was lost by a vote of 6 to 13, viz,

YEAS, — Bigelow, Grindell, Hayden, Johnson, Shackley and Sidelinger—6.

NAYS,—Adams, Barker, Bryant, Dixon, Geary, Lamb, Nickerson, Parker, Phillips, Pinkham, Rinn, Russell and Sprague—13.

Not voting or absent,—President Bass, O'Brien, Rice and Spear—4.

Councilman Lamb offered a new order appropriating $34,000 for a new schoolhouse at West Quincy.

President Bass, however, ruled it out of order, as the Council had already acted upon similar orders this year.

At 8 40 the Council adjourned to Oct. 21.

A Business Opportunity.

A business opportunity doesn't always mean a chance to get work. Its a business opportunity to be able to get and keep on hand, a box of TAYLOR'S ANTI HEADACHE POWDERS, to be used to clear the head of the excruciating pains of headache. Guaranteed absolutely harmless. Cure any headache in 5 minutes. Get them of Leonard J. Pastor, Ph. G., 27 School street.

EMPEROR DEFIED.

Sharp Speeches Indulged In at the Congress of German Socialists.

BRESLAU, Oct. 8.—Herr Liebknecht, in his inaugural speech at the opening of the Socialist congress yesterday, referred to the remarks recently made by Emperor William of Germany, saying that attempts had lately been made to vilify the Social Democracy; but, the speaker added, that party could now defy defeat, no matter how many bayonets were at the disposal of those who wished for a trial of strength. Continuing, Herr Liebknecht said that if people wanted a fight, the Social Democrat was their man.

Continuing, Herr Liebknecht said the highest authority in the land throws down the gauntlet and insults us. Let us take up the challenge, no matter who it may be who casts this mud at us. He is incapable of touching us, for we are above his insults. The German empire would first collapse, but Socialism will triumph. A violation of universal suffrage will be equivalent to the death warrant of the imperial government. Herr Liebknecht's speech was enthusiastically applauded.

In the hired hall in which the congress meets is a life-size portrait of the late Emperor Frederick. The Socialists wished to veil it during the sessions of their congress, but they were prevented from doing so by the police, whereupon the chairman remarked that if the deliberations did not disturb Emperor Frederick, his portrait would not incommode the Socialists.

Milliken Was Muddled.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. — Benjamin H Milliken, charged with feloniously entering the house of ex-Solicitor General Philipps of North Carolina and attempting an assault on Miss Philipps, July 4 last, yesterday told his side of the story for the first time. He says that he entered Judge Philipps' house on the evening named, and gave his card to the servant, who carried it upstairs. He had been drinking heavily all day, and had a bottle of whisky in his pocket, from which he took a drink during the absence of the servant. He immediately lost consciousness, and when he regained his senses found himself in a strange room. In his desire to escape quietly and without recognition, he turned his hat and coat inside out and removed his shoes.

Spiders Shut Out.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7.—More than 10,000 people saw the Temple cup battle, and the enthusiasm was unbounded, so much so that some of the rougher element offered some indignities to the visitors. Paper balls, peanuts, one or two eggs, and, finally, a rock, were thrown at them as they left their hotel for the grounds, and after reaching there they were hissed by a small part of the crowd.

Viceroy Will Be Warned.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8. — The captains of H. M. S. Undaunted and of the United States cruiser Detroit have been instructed to ask the viceroy to order the mandarins who are said to be openly menacing with vengeance those Christians who give information of the Ku-Cheng outrage to stop these obstructive tactics and to allow the inquiry to proceed. It is believed that the refusal of Chan-Chi-Tung, viceroy of Nankin, to receive a visit from the British admiral, Buller, is due to direct instructions from Pekin.

To Hold Retail Trade.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8. — The American Window Glass Jobbers' association was organized in this city yesterday. The object of the new association is to force manufacturers to quit retailing and to give jobbers better commissions. The jobbers decided to ask the manufacturers to sell nothing under 3500 boxes. This would shut out the retailers from buying direct from the manufacturers.

On Trial For Murder.

BUFFALO, Oct. 8.—Hackman J. Towe was put on trial yesterday for the murder of Josie Bennett, an abandoned woman, on the night of June 30, 1894. Towe was the woman's lover. The women who lived in the same house with Josie at the time she was strangled are expected to give evidence that will convict Towe.

Wishes to Resign.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Commander F. F. Barber, who has occupied the post of naval attache to the United States legation at Tokio for some time, has applied to be retired, because of failing health. Commander Barber did much toward the establishment of the great armor and gun producing plants in this country.

Richmond's Hospitality.

RICHMOND, Oct. 8.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Massachusetts attended a grand banquet last night. Distinguished citizens of Richmond were present as guests, and the occasion was one of great enjoyment. Governor O'Ferrell held an informal reception and shook hands with all the visitors.

From a Third Story Window.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Oct. 8.—Mrs. John K. Marshall, wife of a Boston manufacturer, who has been stopping at a boarding house near the Delaware Gap, attempted suicide by throwing herself from a third story window to the ground. She will probably die.

Summoned to Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Captain Hooper of the revenue cutter Rush, who has been in command of the Behring sea patrol fleet, has arrived at San Francisco, and yesterday was ordered to report here at once for the purpose of a conference with the treasury officials with regard to the season's sealing.

Getting After Smugglers.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 8.—The steamer Fiona has been dispatched to Placentia bay to seize a number of schooners whose men are implicated in smuggling and against whom the customs department believes it has sufficient evidence to secure a conviction.

Oshkosh Makes a Bid.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Oct. 8.—The Oshkosh Athletic association offers a purse of $30,000 for the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight. The association proposes to have the mill on the Indian reservation, and guarantees non-interference.

De Campos Is There.

HABANA, Oct. 8.—Reports to the effect that Santa Clara had been captured by the insurgents is untrue. General de Campos has made Santa Clara his headquarters.

A GRAND WEDDING.

The Schenkelberger----Harlow Nuptials a Society Event.

Marriage at Quincy Point Church; Reception on Adams Street

The Decorations Very Elaborate at the Church and the House.

Conspicuous among the October weddings this year is the Schenkelberger-Harlow nuptials of last evening. It was a grand society event, very largely attended by Quincy's 400. The church at Quincy Point was never more extensively and beautifully decorated than on this occasion. The desk was almost hid by plants, palms and wild flowers. Above the desk was Boston ivy, and evergreen and holly were festooned on the side walls and the gallery in the rear. The colors white and green predominating. On each of the pews of the broad aisle were white pinks and asparagus tied with large white satin bows. The whole church was reserved and was none too large for the host of friends.

The four ushers led the bridal procession and were followed by the four bridemaids, the maid of honor, and the bride on the arm of her brother, Mr. James Francis Harlow. Mr. Herbert Hayden, the organist of the church, playing the wedding march.

The bride, Miss Lillian Trask Harlow, is the charming daughter of the late Dr. James Frederick Harlow. The bridal party was met at the altar by the groom, Mr. Albert Frederick Schenkelberger and best man, Mr. Frank Bartlett Steele of Utica, N. Y.

Rev. Mallery Channing Butler of the First church was the officiating clergyman.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin and point lace cut en train, with long tulle veil and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The bridemaids were Miss Bessie Louise Pratt, Miss Gertrude Russell, Miss Mary Rice and Miss Ellen Reed Dewson, and their dresses were white muslin over white silk with long white satin streamers.

The ushers were Mr. Walter B. Holden, Mr. Harry L. Rice, Mr. Fred B. Rice and Mr. Stephen A. Foster. They all wore boutonnieres of lilies of the valley.

A grand reception followed the marriage ceremony at "Grenwold" on Adams street, the future residence of Mr. and Mrs. Schenkelberger. Adams street was lined for a mile or more with carriages and presented a lively scene.

The whole interior of the house was transformed into a floral bower by ferns and large potted plants. An orchestra furnished music during the reception. The piazza which encircles the house was inclosed and a canopy went from the house to the driveway.

Mrs. Harlow, Mr. James F. Harlow and Mr. and Mrs. J. Schenkelberger assisted in receiving.

Weber of Boston catered and his corps of waiters were kept busy all the evening attending to the guests in the dinning room.

In a room on the second floor the wedding gifts were displayed and presented a dazzling array of silver, cut glass, delicate china, beautiful embroideries, pictures and bric a brac.

After a brief European tour Mr. and Mrs. Schenkelberger will be at home at Grenwold, Adams street, after December 1.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The Representative Convention Tonight Interests Politicians.

Who will be the nominees of the Republican Representative Convention, is a question which only the convention tonight can decide. With a full attendance 38 votes will be necessary for a choice, for there is no doubt but a majority vote is required. If the strength is as equally divided as represented it will take more than one ballot to select the two nominees. Ward One will have 16 delegates, Ward Two, 10; Ward Three, 15; Ward Four, 11; Ward Five, 14; and Ward Six, 8; a total of 74.

Ex-Councilman Newcomb in addition to the solid Ward Two delegation will have Ward Three, Four and Six practically solid and will have votes in the others, and will be handsomely nominated on the first ballot. Russell A Sears, Esq., has the largest ward delegation with him and needs but 22 from the other five wards. He will make a a sharp bid for the nomination. Councilman Sprague will not have his own ward solid but will, it is said, poll the A. P. A. strength whatever that may be. Ex-Councilman James Thompson is a promising candidate, and will have votes from every ward in addition to the solid 15 from Ward Three. In event of a failure to make a selection from the above, the names of Eben W. Sheppard or Rev. Edward Norton may be presented.

The Democrats have not yet elected delegates to a Representative convention but will do so this week. There appears to be no particular contest. C. F. Adams, 2d, and C. T. Baker are most prominently mentioned.

Register tonight or tomorrow night.

Henry H. Faxon is a delegate to the Councillor convention, and is not friendly to the nomination of Col. B. S. Lovell.

GOLDEN ROD WEDDING.

Wollaston to be the Future Residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. C Seymour.

Mr. Herbert C. Seymour of Hingham, and Miss Grace May Morrison of Nantasket, daughter of Mr. Ira P. Morrison were united in marriage at 1 o'clock today at Summit House, Nantasket, the ceremony being performed by Rev. A. A. Ellsworth of the First Congregational church, Braintree.

The house was very prettily trimmed with golden rod and the bridal party stood in an arbor of clematis and golden rod, with a marriage bell of wild white asters suspended above their heads.

The bride wore a white India silk with trimmings of fedora lace. The dress being fastened at the neck with a wreath pin of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and wore a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony after which the newly married couple left for a brief tour, returning from which they will reside at Wollaston, where a reception will be held Jan. 8.

That Affidavit.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I presume that you will have the fairness to allow me to answer through your columns the questions that you have put to me in tonight's issue of your paper; and also allow me to explain why I took that oath.

Mrs. George F. Daniels, State Secretary of the Daughters of the Revolution, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, wrote me under date of September 28th, 1895, and Mrs. William Lee, State Regent of that order, verbally requested me to furnish their society with a sworn statement of the contents of the corner stone box, as is customary with all such societies on such occasions. My method was to save expense to our society.

As to my certifying in advance of publication, I did not do so. I have in my possession copies of the newspapers that were printed before I took oath to the correctness of the list. They do not contain the affidavit.

As to the proper spelling of Myles Standish's given name, I must admit that I have not paid much attention to that question. The inscription having been written by the lady who did so much to make the affair the success that it was.

All that I can say about it at present is that about a year ago the Burnham book store, Old South church, Boston, had a copy of a book published in London in the year 1621. In the inside of the cover was written, "Myles Standish His Booke 1626." The register of deeds Plymouth County has certified that a book of the same title is mentioned in the inventory of "Myles Standish's" estate.

"The Standish Memorial Committee" in October 1893, marked the grave of Capt. Myles Standish in the old cemetery in Duxbury, Mass., with a large pasture boulder on which is cut the words Myles Standish. Respectfully yours,

W. G. SPEAR,
Librarian Quincy Historical Society.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

ONE OF THE INTERESTING RESIDENTS OF HULL HOUSE, CHICAGO.

The Latest Wrinkle For Weddings—A Boon to Mothers—Housecleaning Time—To Whiten Tanned Faces—Women as Silk Designers—Timely Hints For Women.

To say that Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Stetson, the writer and lecturer, who has become a resident at Hull House, is an unusually progressive thinker is to declare a great deal in this era of the new woman. In peculiar touch with the great questions of the day as they tend to the ethical development of the race, she is essentially one of the best types of womanhood.

"In what are you most interested?" she was asked yesterday afternoon.

"Humanity," was the instant rejoinder.

"What part of humanity?"

"Woman," was the equally prompt response.

This brief conversation tells its own story. Mrs. Stetson is a humanitarian. Descended from many generations of New England ministers, Dr. Lyman

CHARLOTTE PERKINS STETSON.

Beecher being her great-grandfather, it is natural the trend of her interests should be toward the betterment of humankind.

In appearance Mrs. Stetson is of medium height, slender, quick of movement. Her face is of delicate mold, the eyes dark and expressive. In dress and manner she possesses that New England simplicity that invariably attracts.

Mrs. Stetson came to Hull House several weeks ago from California, where she has resided seven years. Five years ago she began writing clever verses, which were subsequently published under the title "In This Our World." Probably the most popular poem is "Similar Cases," which has been translated into many languages.

Not only as a writer, but as a speaker, is Mrs. Stetson well known, particularly along the Pacific coast. The unique way in which she presents new lines of thought developed her popularity as a lecturer on interesting questions of the day. These are some of her subjects: "Woman's Suffrage and Man's Sufferings," which deals with woman's enfranchisement; "The Woman's Club and the Domestic Strike," which considers the new woman and the servant question; "The Submerged Third," dealing with rights of children; "The Royal Road to Learning," having reference to labor saving inventions in education; "A New Way to Heaven," which tells of miserable sinners and sinners who ought to be miserable; "Kingdom Come," which includes a discussion of the future man and the future state.

Mrs. Stetson not only speaks from the platform, but from the pulpit. In California she frequently preached on progressive and reformative questions of the day and more than once received an invitation to become a permanent pastor. "She is not only the prophetess of a new religion, or the new conception of religion," said William Dean Howells, speaking particularly of her poems, "but she speaks with a tongue like a two edged sword."

Mrs. Stetson came to Hull House to remain three months, but may decide to make Chicago her permanent home. She has the greatest admiration for the work and worth of the Chicago woman and sees great possibilities for the furtherance of her particular lines of work in this city.—Chicago Tribune.

The Latest Wrinkle For Weddings.

Here is sweet charity again, clad in modish robes and with an all sufficient excuse for the originating of what promises to become an amazingly popular custom. The last half score of smart brides who blushingly took their stately way altarward paced through churches thronged to the doors with whosoever of all ages, sexes and colors chose to attend the always charming ceremony, and these read first a bit of printed notice pasted up at the door. In so many words the notice stated that all were free to enter, subject to the levying of a small contribution. Curiosity brought in consequence a goodly congregation, which was vastly interested in observing that at the conclusion of the solemn benediction up rose six bridesmaids, or six pretty feminine relatives of the groom, and at the head of the aisle they were met by six kinsmen of the bride, or six ushers.

Every young woman bore in her left hand a bit of a lace and satin reticule matching her gown, and giving her right hand to her masculine escort was led down the aisle holding out her reticule for pennies. Three girls with their swains levied the wedding tax on one side of the church, three on the other, and as the fair collectors passed in pretty procession the spectators dropped sums of money into the bags, in proportion to their means or appreciation of the scene. All the while the bride and groom were walking very slowly down the aisle, and at the door the outgoing crowd saw that the bags of dimes and pennies were emptied into church plates held by rosy faced choirboys, and the poor of the parish profited by one more wedding.—From "Society Fads" in Demorest's Magazine.

A Boon to Mothers.

The newest electric household appliance, and in future no nursery will be complete without it, is the "baby alarm." It often happens that in a large house, where the infant is sleeping in a room on an upper story, the nurse cannot retire to the servants' room, which may be on a different floor and too far distant for any one to hear the child's signal that it is awake. The intention of the baby alarm is to give warning to any required distance when the child cries. A sensitive microphone placed near the cot is connected to a battery and induction coil and thence by wires to a small electro magnet at the end where the sound is to be received. When the child cries, the microphone will set up an undulatory circuit, the electro magnet will be actuated, its oscillation will close a bell circuit, and a bell will continue to ring as long as the sound of the baby's voice is sustained. As the device is at present constructed the adjustment of the balance lever which is set in motion by the electro magnet is so delicate that the apparatus has to be handled with extreme care, and any bungling by an inexperienced person is apt to derange it. Suggestions have been made for lessening the complexity of the instrument and making of it a practical and durable means of enabling infants to unconsciously signal to a distance and thus save much anxious watching on the part of those in charge.—New York Times.

Housecleaning Time.

Sharp witted city housekeepers do not depend upon servants cleaning their own rooms without supervision. An ounce of prevention that my save a gallon of cure is to thoroughly besprinkle the servant's sleeping quarters with gasoline in the interim between the departure of one and the arrival of the next incumbent. Her trunk and its contents, if they have come from other quarters less carefully looked after, should be thoroughly searched. Hence an eye should be kept on the room from week to week.

If clothes closets have moths in them in spite of your careful spring attempts to keep them out, burn sulphur in them. Put the sulphur in an old porcelain dish and set in a wide pan of water, light the sulphur and shut the closet up. Don't go far away or leave the blaze unheeded. With the pan of water there is, however, next to no danger that a spark will fly off and set anything on fire. The scintilla of possibility, though, should not be overlooked.

Do not take the screens out of doors and windows yet awhile. The flies will creep into the sunshine in the middle of the cool autumn days and pour into the house for weeks after it is late enough for them to be gone, making havoc of the newly decorated chandeliers and regilded picture frames and newly whitened ceilings.—San Francisco Examiner.

To Whiten Tanned Faces.

The young women, and the more mature ones, for that matter, have commenced on their first autumn duty—to lighten up the gloom of the coat of tan on their faces. The old adage that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is quite as true applied to this subject as to a more weighty matter. If girls would only get over the nonsense about trying to get tanned for the absurd purpose of showing their acquaintances that they have been "summering" at the shore or in the country, and shade their faces by a large hat, a parasol, or, if in the country, one of the dear old fashioned sunbonnets so dear to our grandmothers, there would be none—or at least little—of the hideous burn and darkening of the pretty, sensitive skin.

Many rules are given for removing tan. The simplest and oldest is to wash hands, face and neck in fresh buttermilk night and morning.

Another way, and a certain one, is the following: Take the white of an egg, beat it until it is all foam, wash the affected parts with it, let it dry for a quarter of an hour, then rinse with clear water. Repeat three or four nights in succession and always at night only. This last recommendation and the one to dry your face after with a soft linen cloth are essential.—Exchange.

Women as Silk Designers.

Silk designing is one of the few occupations of which women have almost a monopoly. There are a few men designers in New York city, but they are foreigners, and their work stands no chance against that of women. This is because the designs of women are better than those of men. To be a successful silk designer requires more originality and a keener sense of color than men appear to possess. "Men," said one of the best known women designers in New York city, "are apt to have more education and more training, but they are less original. They know all about the Byzantine and other periods of decoration, they can tell you just why and when the crescent is preferable to the chrysanthemum, but they go on turning out the same sort of stuff week after week. A woman rarely understands about the different periods in the various schools of decoration, but she has an originality, an unconventionality, a versatility, that makes her work more interesting, and hence more valuable. The woman who joins her native abilities to education and training stands a splendid chance as a silk designer. The trouble is that so few are willing to be systematic and thorough in anything."

The Coming Woman.

Mrs. Emily Huntington Miller, at the twenty-first anniversary of the original Chautauqua assembly, Aug. 6, 1895, said:

"The coming woman will not be cast in one mold. The type of the sex will be the crystal, reflecting light from many polished sides. In this infinite variety there are some types that never can be lost. The woman who is loving and self sacrificing, the home making woman, is not going to vanish from the earth, but she is learning in these days and will learn still more effectually in the years to come, that the best thought for others means also taking thought for herself; that the best care for others means also taking care for herself, and she is taking care of herself in the developing of her physical well being, in the filling out of all sides of her nature and in becoming more clearheaded, wiser thoughted, a better companion and guide."

A Woman of Nerve.

A runaway horse attached to a buggy created excitement in Hazleton, Pa., on a recent afternoon by dashing down Broad street. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bowen, with their 5-year-old daughter, had driven in from their country place and stopped at a store on Broad street. Mr. Bowen went into the store and left Mrs. Bowen with the child to take care of the horse. The reins were lying on the dashboard, and when an electric car passed by it frightened the horse, and he started down the street on a run. Mrs. Bowen kept her presence of mind. She told her little girl to hold on tight, and then climbed out on the horse's back and got hold of the lines, and then got back into the buggy. Inside of a block she had the horse in check. Mrs. Bowen was congratulated on all sides when she finally drove back to the store.

Twin Sisters Aged Ninety.

In the charming old Cape Cod town of Barnstable reside twin sisters who celebrated their ninetieth birthday a few weeks ago. Possibly older twins may be found; but, if so, it is very doubtful if any can equal these ladies in vigor of mind and body. They are Mrs. Mehitabel Smith and Mrs. Deborah P. Hall, and they were born in Barnstable Aug. 30, 1805. Their maiden name was Parker. They have been widows for many years. Mrs. Hall moved to New Bedford at the time of her marriage to Mr. Nathaniel Hall of that city, returning to her native town to live with her sister soon after his death.

They have long resided in the house in which lived Governor Thomas Hinckley, governor of Plymouth colony in 1680.—Boston Transcript.

What Mrs. Booth Said.

Mrs. Ballington Booth protests that she never denounced bloomers and bade the new woman reform before the day of reckoning. She writes a letter denying the interesting remarks which were imputed to her.

"I made no attack on the new woman," she says. "I spoke in the highest terms of the 'advanced woman,' but in logical dealing with my subject I had to show the audience what was not the new woman. I drew to them a picture of what I called the 'mock man,' and showed them that she was in no sense the new woman, but was a repulsive perversion of womanhood. I never denounced bloomers, did not even mention them and merely remarked that mannish dress I would give back to the sex to whom it belonged."

Style In Wheeling.

It is noticed that in cycling the elegant woman does not coast. Neither does she race. Rapidity of movement she considers neither conducive to grace nor as evincing good style. On the contrary, she sits erect, with elbows well in, gliding along slowly, and with so little body motion that loss of dignity is not thought of in her connection. She does not wear her skirts so short as to attract attention when she dismounts. In fact, in everything connected with the wheel, her movements are so quiet and unobtrusive as to excite the admiration of the onlooker instead of the derision so frequently accorded. "Repose is always elegance," and rapidity on the wheel is quite the reverse.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Missionaries to China.

Miss Miranda Croucher and Miss Althea M. Todd of Boston recently started for China as missionaries. They go out under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church and are pledged to remain in the field five years, health permitting. Miss Croucher is to be located at Tsumhua, in the north of China, and Miss Todd is going to a station near Fuchau, the scene of the recent massacre. A large party of friends were at the station to bid them adieu, and a farewell service was held in the car.

English Yachtswomen.

Among the best known yachtswomen in England are the Misses Maud and Winifred Sutton, the daughters of Sir Richard Sutton and sisters of that Sir Richard who brought over the Genesta to race for the America's cup with the Puritan. They began racing in 1891 with the half rater Eileen. The next year Miss Winifred purchased a Herreshoff boat, the Wee Win, with which she has carried off many prizes.

Miss Eva A. Wood is the first woman to be appointed a dr[illegible] woman by the city of Brooklyn. She passed a civil service examination and stood at the head of the list with an average of 94. Her salary will be $70 per month.

The round top trunk is quite gone by, and the newest and most convenient has no tray in the lid, but is so arranged that it can be set close against the wall and opened without being moved forward.

A clever American girl, Miss E. R. Skidmore, one of the delegates to the international geographical congress, has been lionized socially in London.

Women of Boston and other Massachusetts cities are reminded that registration for the state election closes Oct. 16.

Mme. Patti is the best paid woman in the world. She receives $5,000 for an evening's work.

A Good College Outlook.

There is just about 25 per cent increase in attendance over any other year promised for the women's colleges that are beginning to open their doors for the terms of 1895 and 1896. At Vassar, Wellesley, Bryn Mawr and Smith the problem as to how they can lodge several hundred more young women than the dining rooms and dormitories were built to shelter has robbed the trustees of half their pleasure during the summer vacation. "Last year six of the leading universities in the eastern states believed that they had touched their high water mark in attendance; but, as severe as we make the examinations," remarked a hot and wearied secretary, sorting a gigantic heap of mail at her desk in one of these temples of feminine education, "still they come. One reason of the great increase in applications," she continued, pausing in her preparation of a big matriculation book in which is the registry of names, "is owing to the discovery girls have made in the last few years that they can earn the money to carry them through the nine months of study by working hard during the three of vacation."

Favor Woman Suffrage.

Those who are in favor of woman's suffrage will be gratified to learn that there are in the new British parliament no less than 240 members pledged to female enfranchisement. And, what is more, they for the most part belong to the Conservative and Unionist side of the house and include several members of the cabinet, among others Mr. Arthur Balfour, the leader of the house and first lord of the treasury, and Sir John Gorst, the minister of education. Incidentally it may be mentioned that in olden times ladies who were great landowners enjoyed the right of voting at parliamentary elections, and there are several cases on record, notably one in 1572, when a Lady Dorothy Patington, by reason of her proprietorship of the land, enjoyed the exclusive right of electing the member of parliament for Aylesbury. In times still more remote all the women freeholders of the city of London were inscribed on the list of registered voters. This shows once more that there is nothing new under the sun.—New York Tribune.

Little Feet.

Two little feet, so small that both may nestle
In one caressing hand;
Two tender feet upon the untried border
Of life's mysterious land,

Dimpled and soft, and pink as peach tree blossoms
In April's fragrant days—
How can they walk among the briery tangles
Edging the world's rough ways?

These rose white feet along the doubtful future
Must bear a woman's load,
Alas! since woman has the heaviest burden
And walks the hardest road.

Love, for awhile, will make the path before them
All dainty, smooth and fair,
Will cull away the brambles, letting only
The roses blossom there.

But when the mother's watchful eyes are shrouded
Away from sight of men,
And these dear feet are left without her guiding,
Who shall direct them then?

How will they be allured, betrayed, deluded,
Poor little untaught feet?
Into what dreary mazes will they wander?
What dangers will they meet?

Will they go stumbling blindly in the darkness
Of sorrow's tearful shades,
Or find the upland slopes of peace and beauty
Whose sunlight never fades?

Will they go toiling up ambition's summit,
The common world above,
Or in some nameless vale, securely sheltered,
Walk side by side with love?

NO CLASS LEGISLATION

And Women Can Do Most and Best by Co-operation.

Best and Purest Governments Where Women Vote.

A Suffrage Manifesto In Reply to an Appeal of Remonstrants.

"Is it expedient to extend municipal suffrage to women? Yes, or no? This question the Massachusetts legislature invites women and men to answer at the polls on the 5th day of next November.

It is expedient:

1. Because it is unfair that one-half of the citizens of a free country, under a government professedly representative, should be denied political representation solely because they are women.

2. Women need the ballot. Legislation made and enforced by men alone is class legislation, and therefore partial and imperfect. Women are a class, with special rights to protect and special wrongs to remedy. If farmers cannot be trusted to legislate for merchants, or lawyers for mechanics, or employers for laborers, how can men alone legislate justly for women?

3. Government needs the women. Every class that votes makes itself felt in the long run in the direction of its interests, tastes and peculiarities. Women differ from men in nature, position and training. They are superior to men in certain qualities. They are more peaceable, temperate, chaste, economical and law-abiding. These qualities are needed in our legislation. Women comprise three-fourths of our church members and less than one-tenth of our convicted criminals.

4. In Massachusetts only citizens who can read and write can become voters. Of possible women voters, more than two out of three were born and educated in this country. This would add to our voting constituencies 401,000 American voters; only 173,000 of foreign birth.

5. Municipal suffrage has been tried in Great Britain since 1869. Mr. Gladstone testifies that women have voted "without detriment, and to great advantage." In England and Scotland, where about one-fifth of the voters are women, the city governments are said to be the best and purest in the world; in America, where women are excluded, city governments are profligate and corrupt.

6. In Wyoming and Colorado women vote more generally than men, and the better class of women vote more generally than the more ignorant class. In Wyoming since 1869, in Colorado since 1893, the testimony is unanimous to the good results. Women not only vote more generally than men, but men vote much more generally because women vote.

7 In short, wherever woman suffrage has been tried, it has worked well. In Massachusetts, with our educational restriction, it will purify, refine and elevate.

8. Women will be more highly respected when their opinions are counted in municipal elections. Voting is one form of power, and power always commands respect. Communities which respect women always lead in manners and in morals. Woman suffrage is a step in the direction of a higher civilization and the supremacy of mental and moral forces.

HENRY B. BLACKWELL.

The Suffrage Manifesto.

The executive committee of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage association held its first meeting for the season in Boston, Oct. 4, at 3 Park street. There was a large attendance. It was voted to issue the following answer to the recently published appeal of the remonstrants:

TO THE PEOPLE OF MASSACHUSETTS: The manifesto sent out last week by the Massachusetts Association Opposed to the Extension of Suffrage to Women says: "We find tangible proof that the women of this state do not desire the ballot in their general indifference to school suffrage." We ask a candid consideration for the following facts:

In Massachusetts, at presidential elections a majority of the men vote; at state elections less than half; at municipal elections a still less number; and at school elections, wherever these are held separately, only a small fraction of the male voters turn out.

In the 20 states where women have school suffrage their vote is small. In England the voting lists show that the women who have municipal suffrage exercise it as generally as the men. In Wyoming, where women have full suffrage, nine-tenths of the women vote. In Kansas women obtained school suffrage in 1861. Their vote was small. In 1887 they obtained full municipal suffrage. Their vote immediately became much larger, and has increased at succeeding elections. In Colorado women obtained school suffrage in 1876. Their vote was small. In 1893 they obtained full suffrage. At the next election the women of Denver cast 50 per cent of the entire vote of the city, and the vote of women throughout the state was large.

The vote both of men and women is large or small according as the election is large or small. It is to be regretted that women do not vote more generally at school elections, but it is only a new proof of the truth of Mrs. Poyser's saying: "I am not denying that women are foolish; God Almighty made them to match the men."

The "division of labor" invoked by the M. A. O. E. S. W. has no application to suffrage. The progress of civilization has been marked by a greater division of labor among individuals, but this has gone hand and hand with a wider extension of suffrage among the people. Since men of the most arduous trades and professions find time to vote without neglecting their business, it is plain that the busiest mothers and housekeepers could do so without neglecting their homes.

The manifesto of the M. A. O. E. S. W. says: "We do not urge women opposed to the further extension of suffrage to vote." The remonstrants have been actively circulating for signature by women a pledge to vote "no" in November. This change of front shows their conviction that they cannot get as many women to vote "no" as are likely to vote "yes."

We urge both men and women who favor equal suffrage to vote "yes" on the so-called referendum in November; and we remind women that registration closes in the cities Oct. 16, and in the towns Oct. 26. The chairman of the Boston board of registrars has decided that, under the law, women can vote without the payment of a poll tax or any other tax, and without being called upon to make a declaration of their property.

The central registration office for Boston is in the old court house on Court square. Women in the suburbs can register at the wardrooms in their own wards, if they prefer.

WALLED IN BY FIRE.

Laborers and Engineers Meet an Awful Fate In a Pennsylvania Mine.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 8.—A very serious accident occurred in the Dorrance colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company in this city late yesterday afternoon.

Four prominent mining engineers and 15 miners were shut in by a wall of fire. The accident was one of the most distressing recorded in the coal region in many years.

At 8 o'clock five men, all badly burned, were brought to the surface. They are: Robert Blanchard, William Miller, Michael Moss, George Lafly and Joseph Murphy. The first two are members of the engineer corps. Moss and Lafly are laborers and Murphy is a driver. Miller and Blanchard are so badly burned that they cannot live.

At midnight the rescuers had made very little headway in their efforts to reach the scene of the explosion. Fire-damp made its appearance shortly after 8 o'clock, and it was necessary to do considerable brattice work, which proceeded very slowly.

The engineer corps all perished in the explosion, and if they were not killed outright they were suffocated by the fire-damp.

The dead bodies of the victims were recovered at 2:15 this morning.

Mixed Politics.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—At the Republican county convention last night the nominating committee agreed on the following candidates: For register, T. E. Keating, State Democrat; county clerk, T. L. Hamilton, Platt Republican; justice of the supreme court, Ernest Hall, Platt Republican; judges of the court of general sessions, Thomas Allison, Platt Republican, and John Fennel, State Democrat; city court justices, H. C. Bolly, Platt Republican; Daniel O'Connell, State Democrat, and J. W. Hawes, plain Republican.

An "Affair of Honor."

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Oct. 8.—A duel occurred at Maxwell between two young cousins, John and Proctor Shewmaker. They had a quarrel at a church door the night before, and after being separated, agreed to go out of the town limits and shoot it out. After stepping 10 paces they fired five shots at each other. Proctor was shot through the body. Two shots from Proctor's pistol passed through John's hat. Proctor's wounds may prove fatal.

Still Far From Settlement.

LIMA, Oct. 8.—The truth regarding the controversy between Peru and Bolivia is that the Peruvian government ignores what the representative of its predecessor may have said to Bolivia, and its only instructions to the minister to Bolivia are to declare that Peru will never cede Tacha and Arica for a pecuniary consideration or otherwise. Tacha and Arica are the cities which formed the old bone of contention between Bolivia and Peru.

Police Interfered.

CONSTABLE HOOK, N. J., Oct. 8.—The Active Athletic association, after months of preparation, announced that their new clubhouse would be opened last night. There were three contests carded, the principal of which was a 20-round go between Young Griffo and Kid Lavigne. The police, however, decided not to allow the fights to come off, and the bouts have been indefinitely postponed.

Big Street Railway Deal.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—The big traction amalgamation was consummated yesterday, when the three local street railway systems—the Philadelphia, Electric and People's—were joined together under the name of the Union Traction company. The deal represents about 420 miles of road and a combined capitalization of more than $108,000,000.

No Game.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 8.—The Princeton student body and the executive committee will support the action of the advisory board in agreeing not to meet Pennsylvania. This settles the question of a football game between these institutions, and puts a stop to further negotiations.

At Washington, Oct. 21.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Unitarian and other Christian churches of the United States convene in Washington Oct. 21 and will remain in session four days. Representative men and women will be present and take an active part in the proceedings.

Figuring on Next Convention.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—The silver Democratic state central committee last night issued an address to the Democrats of Ohio urging concentrated action looking to the control of the next national Democratic convention.

LAST OF THE SEASON.

An Interesting Bulletin From the Weather Bureau Officials.

Review of the Condition of the Past Year.

Season as a Whole Has Been Favorable For Crop Advancements.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The New England weather bureau issues the following bulletin, the last of the season of 1895:

Generally clear weather has prevailed during the week, with warm, sunshiny days and cold nights. Killing frosts have occurred in the valleys, but many hill towns in both the north and south are still free from damage by cold weather, and late corn, tomatoes, vines, etc., are growing uninjured. The clear weather has been improved, and harvesting of all crops is well under way. Apple picking is not a large task this year in all central and northern districts, and the quality of the apples is very poor. Insect pests have worked on them badly, and they are reported small and poor-looking. It is possible that the result from the lack of birds is being felt to a greater extent on fruit this year than was expected. The fruit trees have generally made a good growth.

The drought is getting to be serious in a great part of New England, though not so much in injury to surface crops as to the wells and springs. Northern sections especially are suffering, and wells are dry that have never failed before, and rivers are lowest for years. At Belfast, Me., a large part of the wells in town are dry. Mills on the St. Croix and Dennys rivers in eastern Maine have stopped for want of water, and electric power stations in other towns have had to shut down. In parts of Connecticut wells are dry that did not get dry all last year. Much rain will be needed to fill up the reservoirs before the ground freezes.

The effect of the drought on the top of the ground has been to cause apples to fall, reduce feed in pastures and shorten the second crop of grass, and damage fall seeding of grass and grain.

A Glance at the Past.

The winter of 1894-1895 was termed a "hard, old-fashioned winter," especially in southern New England, giving continued cold weather and more snow than usual. The abundant snow served to protect grass and grain roots, however, and very little damage was done to those or to fruit.

Much cool weather prevailed in April, and in central districts there was an excessive precipitation, with one of the most damaging floods on record in north central districts, The rain delayed farm work on intervales, but it started the frost and snowbanks, and at the end of the month some work had been done in the north, but was backward in the south.

The second week in May was unusually warm, and all vegetation made a rapid growth. The fruit buds came out so fast that they were considerably injured by the cold weather following, especially in the valleys in the northern states. Cranberries were damaged also.

June was warmer and drier than normal. From the 5th to the 25th very little rainfall came, and all crops were affected by the dry weather. Grass especially suffered, and in the south all uplands were prematurely ripe, and cutting was begun very early. With the last week of the month abundant rains came for surface saturation, and the month of July opened with very favorable prospects for all farmers. On meadows grass was thickening up well, pastures were generally good and newly cut fields were showing very green. Corn was looking especially well.

Cooler Than Usual.

July was cooler and drier than the normal in the north and northwest, but with more than the usual amount of precipitation in the southeast. Much cloudiness prevailed with frequent showers, and haymaking was carried on under rather poor conditions. Pastures were unusually luxuriant, however, except in the northwest; the second crop of grass promised well, and most field crops were growing very fast.

Both the maximum and minimum temperatures were lower than are usually recorded in August. The nights were generally cool, and light frosts were experienced in valleys on the morning of the 22d. The rain was well distributed, and although less than the normal amount of grass and all field crops did well in most places, favorable weather prevailed for harvesting, and most grain was gathered in good shape. Tobacco was cut and housed in splendid condition, and its quality was reported above the average. The showers were not heavy enough, however, to fill up springs, and all water reservoirs were lower than they are often found at this time of year.

Wide Range of Thermometer.

September was a month of extremes in temperature, with light precipitation, and with several severe local storms. On the 15th a frost was experienced in most valleys, and considerable damage was done in the northern states. The 21st to the 23d gave unusually warm weather, with strong drying winds, and newly seeded ground was dried—apples, ungathered fruit and tomatoes were badly scalded. The rain was not sufficient for surface growth, and pastures were reported in poor condition generally. Apples have dropped badly.

The season as a whole has been very favorable for crop advancement, and it closes with most crops harvested in extra fine condition. Corn especially is very sound and fine and has cured well. Although, for the most part, showers have occurred with sufficient frequency for crops, there have been no long rains during the summer, and the deficiency for the year amounts to 10 inches and over in many parts of New England.

Correspondents' Aid Appreciated.

In closing the crop bulletin issue for this season we wish to publicly thank the correspondents who have sent weekly reports. The issue of bulletins this year has been the largest ever sent out in New England, as we are mailing weekly nearly 4000 copies, and their value and importance are due entirely to the careful, accurate and regular reports of the correspondents.

Fatal Lamp Explosion.

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

CONTROLLED BY IRISH.

Lord Sackville's Opinion of Politics In the United States.

Remarkable Statements In a "Private" Pamphlet

In Which the Integrity of Americans Is Placed In a Questionable Light.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The London correspondent of The World sent the following copyrighted cablegram, which appears in today's issue of that paper:

An extraordinary and in many respects unprecedented publication by a British or other high diplomat has been quietly but amazedly discussed the past few days among the foreign representatives to the court of St. James and in higher official and social circles of London.

This is a handsomely printed pamphlet, marked "For private circulation only," and entitled "My Mission to the United States, 81-89," and has just been issued by Lord Sackville, who, as Sir Lionel Sackville-West, K. C. M. G., was the English minister to Washington for the period named.

It will be remembered that President Cleveland, almost on the eve of the election of 1888, sent Sir Lionel his passports, because of a letter written by him to an alleged Englishman in California commenting upon the approaching election. This pamphlet is and explanation, after seven years, of that incident.

But the probable unprecedented part of it, and the part which has aroused very excited comment in the circles named is, first, the freedom of his strictures upon the American people and American public men; and, second, his own expressed indignation that the British ministry should have accepted Mr. Bayard as ambassador to this country. While as secretary of state of the United States Mr. Bayard had wantonly insulted in person its accredited representative. Except for a brief reference to it, which appears in Truth today, no English journal has apparently had an intimation of its existence.

A copy of the pamphlet, however, now lies before me, and is so full of interesting facts relating to the framing fishery treaty, afterwards rejected by the senate, and the Behring sea negotiations, not to speak of Lord Sackville's many venemous pages relating to his personal controversy with us, that only the lateness of the hour at which it come to me prevents my cabling its contents more fully.

Chester A. Arthur was president and James G. Blaine secretary of state when Lord Sackville came to New York in November, 1881. At a reception given him by the St. George's society, he says that Mr. Blaine was sent to greet him by President Arthur, and he made a most cordial address of welcome. Lord Sackville notes also his very cordial reception by the president himself.

"Fenian Influence."

He says he entered upon his duties with great solicitude. "I was well aware of the difficulties I should have to contend with in combating the influence of the Fenian organization, exercised over the government, and which was so powerful in both houses of the legislature."

Lord Sackville quotes a private letter he wrote to Lord Granville, then foreign minister, in April, 1882, in regard, apparently, to a request or demand made by Secretary Frelinghuysen for the immediate release of certain Irish suspects. In this letter Lord Sackville distinctly states that Assistant Secretary Davis represented to him that the president felt embarrassed by the action of congress in the matter, and "that he (the president) trusted to the courtesy of her majesty's government in enabling him to avert it." He says he told Secretary Davis that "he must remember there was a public opinion in England as well as a press, neither of which were likely to be convinced of the necessity of a concession to the United States government on this question simply because congress was terrorized by the Irish voters." Davis frankly admitted this, and said that the president himself appealed to her majesty's government in the present case.

Lord Sackville here deliberately states that Lord Granville, upon representations of Lord Spencer, then lord lieutenant of Ireland, telegraphed the first assistant secretary of state saying that his (Lord Sackville) life was in danger and asking for protection.

A Queer Yarn.

Secretary Frelinghuysen, he says, declined to take any step officially, but sent him to General Sherman. The latter invited him to a trip in "the president's yacht." They spent 10 days cruising in the James river, after which "it was deemed that the excitement caused by the Irish executions had abated."

He says danger again became imminent when he was instructed to demand the extradition of Patrick Sheridan for complicity in the Phœnix park murders. He felt that such a demand would be hopeless, and so replied to Lord Granville, and the instructions were revoked.

A presidential election was approaching, and Mr. Blaine was likely to be the Republican candidate. "It was at this time Mr. Blaine spoke to me in the most condemnatory tones of the conduct of her majesty's government in dealing with the Irish question. They had created such a hostile feeling in the United States that he felt convinced if the population were polled the result would be an almost unanimous expression of hatred toward England. This language clearly indicated his intention to trade upon this hostility to England in order to gain the Irish vote for his election."

He notes Mr. Blaine's defeat with not greatly repressed exultation, and says he looked hopefully to the new Democratic administration and Mr. Bayard. The latter, he says, deprecated to him "the influence which the Irish party had obtained in the constituencies, and expressed himself as determined not to allow his action to be dictated by it."

Took Notes.

Lord Sackville quotes conversation with Mr. Bayard, of which he made a minute at the time, in which the latter said: "The Irish vote had now become a great factor in American politics," and he might tell me that the word British, prefixed to any political or commercial question, was sufficient to create enmity toward England.

Lord Sackville treats of events prior to Mr. Cleveland's renomination in 1888, saying: "It was necessary for him to show himself more anti-English than his opponents. The excitement over the Sackville incident, as it was called, became farcical." He was caricatured. He saw Mr. Bayard four days before election, and the secretary "cordially accepted my expression of regret at what had occurred."

"When, however, I saw Mr. Bayard the following day, he said the matter had become serious, great interests depended upon the re-election of Mr. Cleveland, and he could not ignore the injurious effect which my letter had had upon a certain faction, the vote of which was necessary for the success of the Democratic candidate."

He was furnished with a copy of the following telegram received by a member of the cabinet from the Democratic national committee in New York:

Does the president know that the Irish vote is slipping out of our hands because of diplomatic shillyshallying? See Lamont (the president's secretary and chief wire puller) at once. Something ought to be done today.

Accordingly he received his passports that afternoon.

His Opinion of Bayard.

Lord Sackville quotes a long statement he made to Lord Salisbury, accusing Secretary Bayard of flagrant misstatement of facts and of duplicity. He refers to President Cleveland in bitter terms, and adds: "There is no base action which an American politician will not resort to in order to gain an election."

"Mr. Bayard remained in obscurity for four years, until the re-election of Mr. Cleveland, when he was appointed ambassador to London, as recognition, it may be presumed, of his remarkable achievement.

"The perpetrator of these degrading acts of political trickery emerges from the political mire a social success and meets those upon whom he has so mercilessly trampled with a smiling countenance."

He quotes a letter in full from a manager of a dime museum in New York offering him $2000 a week and expenses for himself and suite if he would hold two levees daily of two hours in "my palatial museum."

"It is unnecessary," adds Lord Sackville, "for me to comment further upon the political degredation which avowedly exist in the United States, nor upon the difficulties which a British minister has had to contend in maintaining amicable relations with a government influenced solely by the political necessity of the moment and whose action is controlled by a faction hostile to his own country."

Burned at Sea.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—At the Maritime Exchange the following notice was posted on the bulletin board: "The British ship Garfield, from Liverpool, June 29, for Valparaiso, has been destroyed by fire at sea. All hands saved and landed at the port of destination." The Garfield was built of iron and steel. She registered 2290 tons and was 300 feet in length. She had a crew of 33 men, and was carrying a cargo of coal to South America.

Retains Her Cargo.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Oct. 9.—The alleged filibustering steamship Commodore will be released as soon as papers can be prepared, as orders were received yesterday from Washington to this effect. The arms and ammunition are still on board the steamer. She will be at liberty to sail with her cargo in a few days.

An Iron Combine.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 9.—A meeting of bar iron manufacturers was held here yesterday for the purpose of uniting the eastern and western association into one, with national scope. A form of organization was adopted, and it will be submitted to the manufacturers of the country for consideration.

Miners' Awful Fate.

LEADVILLE, Colo., Oct. 9.—James Moore was instantly killed and Doc Morrison fatally injured by the explosion of giant powder in a shaft of the Matchless mine. Morrison lay at the bottom of the shaft 12 hours in terrible agony, his eyesight being destroyed and his body frightfully mangled.

Coal Goes Up.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The Philadelphia and Reading and Lehigh Valley Railroad and Coal companies have advanced the tidewater price of anthracite coal from 10 to 20 cents a ton, in order to conform with the new figures of the Delaware and Hudson company.

FIGURING ON A FIGHT.

Opportunities to Pull It Off In London, Melbourne or Hot Springs.

Chessmaster Pillsbury Receives an Invitation From St. Petersburg Clubs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Many hands seem to be stretched out for the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight, and, if the championship is not decided between them, it will not be because of lack of opportunity to fight. The latest offer of a purse and guarantee of non-interference comes from London. A cablegram from that city to a well-known sporting man here reads as follows:

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Mirror of Life agrees to bring off Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight; offers £2000 and diamond belt, valued at £1000, to fight in England, the principals to select their own referee. One thousand pounds will be placed in the hands of Al Smith as a guarantee by Mirror of Life that the fight will take place.

A copy of this cablegram was last night telegraphed to both Corbett and Fitzsimmons, and an early answer from the pugilists is expected. It is said that the National Sporting club is behind the offer of The Mirror of Life.

Half-Hearted Objections.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 9.—"You can say that I would not convene the legislature in special session to stop it if they were to fight in the state house yard." Governor Clark used this language in conversation with a reporter yesterday in reference to his probable action in the event that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons contest should be advertised to take place at Hot Springs. His manner was so deliberate and emphatic that there could be no possible doubt of the earnestness of the governor.

Governor Clark was in a most amicable frame of mind and talked freely concerning the latest phase of the situation. "I do not really know anything about it, but I have heard a great many rumors about schemes to hold the contest in Arkansas. It looks, though, as if they mean to bring it off at Hot Springs, sure enough. The fact that Mayor Waters and City Attorney Martin of Hot Springs are in Dallas negotiating with the managers of the affair indicates beyond doubt that Hot Springs wants it, and they will very likely get it."

"Will you interfere should they attempt to bring it off there?"

"My position in regard to it is well known. You may say that I will do everything in my power to prevent the fight; that I will go as far as the law as it stands gives me authority, and no further."

PILLSBURY INVITED

To Take Part In a Grand Chess Tournament at St. Petersburg.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—H. N. Pillsbury, the winner of the Hasting chess congress, received the following letter yesterday:

H. N. Pillsbury, Esq., Brooklyn:

DEAR SIR—The St. Petersburg Chess club proposes to organize, in the month of November of the current year, in St. Petersburg, a tournament between the strongest masters of the world, and hopes to obtain your consent to participate in the contest, issuing at the same time invitations to Messrs. Steinitz, Tarrasch, Lasker and Tichigorin. Each of the participants would have to play four games with each other, playing each four games every week.

The St. Petersburg Chess club offers the participants in this tournament (supposing they will be the five mentioned masters, including yourself) four prizes, as follows: First, $250; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50, and, in addition, a remuneration for every game played of $20 to the winner and $5 to the loser, and $10 to each player when the game is drawn.

The St. Petersburg Chess club proposes to cover the traveling expenses of the players to St. Petersburg and back, offering you for this purpose the sum of $300. During the stay of the masters in St. Petersburg, the St. Petersburg Chess club will provide for their lodgings, including tea or coffee in the morning, and lunch, dinner and supper served at the club rooms, and also offers $25 each for small expenses during their stay here.

P. SASZUROF, Honorary President St. Petersburg Chess Club.

Pillsbury could not say today whether he could get away or not.

CLEVELAND WINS

The Deciding Game In the Contest For the Temple Cup.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8.—The Temple cup goes to Cleveland as the result of a game in which the champions were outplayed in every point. Up to the seventh inning, however, it looked as if either side might win, although Hoffer suffered rather more than Young, and the visitors got the most men to bases. The Temple cup is lost and won, and the hearts of the Baltimore "rooters" are as lead within their breasts.

Earned runs—Cleveland, 2; Baltimore, 1. Base hits—Cleveland, 11; Baltimore, 9. Errors—Cleveland, 3; Baltimore, 5. Batteries—Young and Zimmer; Hoffer and Clarke.

Texas Means Business.

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—W. K. Wheelock, secretary of the Florida Athletic club, was served with papers yesterday to appear before the grand jury at Austin. Papers are also out for W. A. Brady, Martin Julian, Joe Vendig and others for conspiring for the purpose of committing a felony. The penalty for such conspiracy, by the Texas criminal code, is "Confinement in the penitentiary for not less than two nor more than five years." There is much uneasiness, and the new developments have caused a sensation.

Again That Cup.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The written challenge has been received by the New York Yacht club from the Royal Victoria Yacht club on behalf of C. D. Rose for the America's cup, and a special meeting to consider it has been called for Monday evening, Oct. 14.

Feat Accomplished by Coburn.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Monroe W. Coburn accomplished the feat of riding from Boston to New York on a bicycle in 23h. 40m., including stops.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

THE ORDER in the hands of the Committee on Water Supply relative to entering the Metropolitan system, should receive very careful consideration from the members of said committee, Messrs. Rice, Phillips, O'Brien, Geary, Shackley, Pinkham and Parker. It is possible that this course is the wisest and most economical, but with it should be considered the cost of enlarging the present source of supply, and the committee should make an exhaustive report. There is no occasion for a rush, even if there was danger of a water famine this fall, for we can expect no water from Nashua river for a few years at best. The supply for Quincy would be insignificant compared with what Boston and the other cities will need, and the large main toward Quincy will not be built until needed.

WHEN HANCOCK street is double tracked from the Neponset bridge to Granite street it will look quite Metropolitan.

East Norfolk Union.

The East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union held its October meeting in Memorial Congregational church Atlantic, Monday evening. Delegates were present from the following societies: Wollaston Baptist, Wollaston Congregational, Braintree, Holbrook and Atlantic.

The addresses of the evening were given by Mr. James Y. Noyes of Dedham, President of the Pilgrim Union, and Mr. Harry Dixon of Neponset, Vice President of the Boston Union. Both speakers gave excellent advice in regard to the best way of carrying on the Union work. President Belcher then took the lead of a consecration service which closed the meeting.

On adjournment the Atlantic society served cake and coffee to all present and a pleasant sociable was held.

Royal Arch Masons.

St. Stephen's chapter at its annual meeting Tuesday evening elected these officers:

Most Excellent High Priest,—Charles W. Nourse.
Excellent King,—Arthur W. Stetson.
Excellent Scribe,—Theo. C. Gram.
Treasurer,—John D. Nutting.
Secretary, James H. Webb.
Captain of the Host,—Samuel Webster.
Principal Sojourner,—Edward E. Hoxie.
Royal Arch Captain,—William H. Whitney.
Master of the 3d Veil,—William J. Hammond.
Master of the 2d Veil,—Douglas Brooks.
Master of the 1st Veil,—Edward E. Jameson.
Tyler,—John D. Nutting.

Real Estate Activity.

The John E Drake estate recently sold at public auction to Mr. John R. Graham is being cut up into houselots. Mr. Graham retains the homestead of about two acres but has placed the remainder in the hands of a syndicate, together with several acres of land near the shore which he formerly owned. A broad new street will enter the property nearly opposite the residence of Mr. Graham, and will place some very desirable land upon the market.

It is also reported that the Kittredge farm at Quincy Point has changed hands and will be placed upon the market.

Public Bequests.

The will of D Howard Bills which was admitted to probate at Quincy this morning makes the following public bequests:—Home missionary society of Maine, Foreign missionary society of Maine, Baptist Ministers' society of Maine and Baptist Ministers' Widows' society of Maine, $250 each.

A WINNING PAIR.

Thaddeus H. Newcomb and James Thompson the Candidates for Representatives.

The Republicans of Quincy have selected as their candidates for Representative Thaddeus H. Newcomb of Ward Two and James Thompson of Ward Three, both thoroughly representative citizens with four years' service in our City Council. The contest for the nominations was the most active ever witnessed in the city, but only one formal ballot was necessary for a choice and all in all it was a good natured contest.

The convention met Tuesday evening in the Republican headquarters, over the Savings bank, and was called to order by Hon. H. O. Fairbanks, president of the city committee, who was elected temporary chairman. Wilson Marsh was elected secretary.

Messrs. C. M. Bryant, E. W. Newcomb and Harry W. Read were a committee on credentials. Their report with subsequent additions showed a full convention as follows:

	Delegates.	Substitutes.
Ward One,	16	2
Ward Two,	10	1
Ward Three,	15	3
Ward Four,	11	0
Ward Five,	14	4
Ward Six,	8	0
	74

The temporary organization was made permanent.

It was voted to adopt the Australian ballot and to proceed to an informal ballot. Dr. J. F. Welch, Fred Goss and Charles H. Johnson were appointed a committee on ballot, and the result of the vote was:

Thaddeus H. Newcomb had	38
James Thompson had	34
Russell A. Sears had	35
Eugene H. Sprague had	28
Scattering	10

It was voted to proceed to a formal ballot, the two highest if they had a majority, to be declared the nominees.

Ex-Senator John F. Merrill presented the claims of Russell A. Sears. He said it was an era of young men and that they were coming to the front in the house, the senate and congress. It was just this life that should be enthused into the Republican party.

Councilman Charles H. Johnson made a stirring speech in favor of Thaddeus H. Newcomb, claiming he had all the necessary qualities; that he was a stalwart Republican—a party man. I have no sympathy with those independents who affiliate with Democrats. Mr. Newcomb is a thorough Republican and has demonstrated its principles. He was in favor of reforms within the party. Mr. Newcomb was a veteran of the war, a citizen above reproach and had given the city four years of good service in the Council.

Councilman Grindell presented the name of James Thompson, who was no stranger he said. He was successful in business and was identified with the progress of the city. From four years in the City Council, two as president, he was thoroughly posted in city business, and well qualified for any position to which he might be elected.

Chandler W. Smith of Wollaston presented Councilman Eugene H. Sprague as a candidate worthy of support, and ex-Councilman H. W. Read seconded the nomination. He also was a young man; honest, reliable and successful in business A thorough Republican with every attribute needed.

Councilman C. M. Bryant endorsed the candidacy of James Thompson.

The ballot was then taken, and Messrs. Newcomb and Thompson had a majority and were declared the nominees. [Applause.]

The vote was as follows:

Thaddeus H. Newcomb had	47
James Thompson had	39
Russell A. Sears had	34
Eugene H. Sprague had	24

Upon motion of Hon. John F. Merrill the nomination was made unanimous. [Applause.]

This committee of five was appointed to meet the Weymouth committee and ratify the nominations: Hon. John F. Merrill, Charles H. Grindell, C. L. Hammond, Wilson Marsh and T. F. Mitchell.

A committee of three, C. H. Johnson, R. H. Wilde and Fred Goss were appointed a committee to wait upon the nominees and request their attendance.

Messrs. Newcomb and Thompson were greeted with applause, and three cheers were given. Both gentlemen addressed the convention.

Candidate Newcomb thanked the convention very kindly for the handsome endorsement, and would endeavor to the best of his ability to fill the position if elected. He had always been a Republican and hoped always to be with that party. He would endeavor to carry out its principles. It was a party of progress and possibilities. Under its rule the country had prospered. How different the object lesson the last two years. The Republican party was the American party and will uphold the dignity of the whole country. Now we have an easy task, but many a battle had been lost by not being vigilant, and it was our duty to roll up a larger majority; to buckle on the armor and be ready for the election of 1896, which was second only to the election of President Lincoln. [Applause.

Candidate Thompson expressed his deep appreciation of the honor conferred, and gratefully accepted the nomination. If the district ratified the same at the polls he pledged himself to do all within power to advance the interests of this municipality and promote the peace, welfare and prosperity of the people of this commonwealth. He expressed his belief in the conviction and principles of the Republican party as representing the highest purposes and progress attained by any party in this great nation. He believed that past successes were to be continued in future triumphs. The contest for the nomination had been a friendly one and the other gentlemen named in connection therewith were equally deserving of the honor. He asked the cooperation of all, and again returned his thanks. [Applause.]

The convention then adjourned.

GRAVE SUSPICION

Against Women Who Gained a Living by Using Knockout Drops.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—There was published some days ago a story about the arrest of two women who were accused of being concerned in many robberies in hotels where "knockout drops" had slyly been put in glasses of liquor. One of the prisoners boasted that she had sometimes obtained as much as $300 in a single instance in this way.

It is now stated that the police think that the women may have been connected with the mysterious death of Corporal H. P. Sullivan of company G, Third United States infantry, of Fort Snelling, Minn., on the night of Sept. 14. Sullivan was found lying unconscious in an alley off Shawmut avenue, and while he was being carried to a police station he expired.

It was asserted by the medical examiner at the time that it was almost certain that the dangerous drug which forms the chief ingredient of the "drops" had been given to the man. The evidence since collected against the women is so strong that this case is laid at their doors, one reason being that the corporal's pockets, though empty, were not turned inside out, as is usually the case when a robbery is committed on a highway.

This circumstance leads to a belief that the soldier was drugged and robbed in some house in the neighborhood and afterward staggered out and fell in the alley where he was found by the police.

Endeavorers In Session.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Oct. 9.—The 10th annual convention of the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor union opened here yesterday afternoon, about 450 delegates being present. The convention opened with a devotional service. Some preliminary business was transacted, after which President Hibbard of the Pittsfield union made an address of welcome, which was responded to by John W. Baer, secretary of the National society. The address of the afternoon was delivered by President Raymond of Union college, who spoke on "Our Duty as Christians to Serve." Last evening, after addresses by Dr. H. A. Simpson and Rev. J. T. Beckley, a reception to delegates was held at South church.

Doctor's Dead Body Found.

LINCOLN, Me., Oct. 9.—The body of Dr. P. Frank was found about a mile south of this village yesterday. The doctor was in Lincoln, Sept. 21, and had a prescription filled at a drug store and also bought a hypodermic syringe. The medicine and syringe were found upon the body, together with $180.30 in money and a gold watch and chain. Dr. Frank claimed to have come from Augusta. He is believed, however, to be one P. F. Labelle of Fredericktton, N. B. The cause of his death is unknown.

Lightning Proof.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 9.—Captain George Wallace of the schooner General Walsh, while gunning in Lower Casco bay, was struck by lightning. He was rendered unconscious for several hours by a thunder bolt and drifted about the bay in a heavy sea at the mercy of wind and waves, and was 48 hours without food and water, being unable to lift a hand to save himself from destruction. He was finally rescued by a passing vessel, and may recover.

No Case Against Childs.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Oct. 9.—Officer D. S. Childs, who was tried for alleged blackmail at Ayer yesterday, on complaint of William Moore, was discharged, the court deciding that no case had been made against the officer. Moore asserted that Childs demanded $100 from him on threat of prosecution for selling liquor to Childs' minor son, and that the plaintiff gave the officer $20 cash and a note for the balance.

Against a Change.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 9.—The question of the acceptance or rejection of the proposed city charter was submitted to the voters of the city yesterday. On the main question of charter adoption the vote stood: Yes, 1386; no, 2500. On the secondary question of a single board the vote stood: Yes, 1253; no, 2639.

Only $700,000 Difference.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 9.—The story that James McCormick of Guatemala had died, leaving $800,000 to heirs in this country, six of whom were in Rhode Island, has been found to have been partially false, as the amount which will be divided among the different heirs amounts to but little over $100,000.

Improving Mail Service.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 9.—Superintendent Ryan of the railway mail service came here yesterday from Boston and made arrangements for the inauguration of an electric railroad mail service to supply the surrounding towns with mail from the Portland office by means of electric postal cars.

Explosion and Fire.

WALTHAM, Mass., Oct. 9.—An explosion of chemicals in the photograph gallery of L. C. Brown, on the second floor of a three-story wooden business block, last night, started a fire which caused a damage of $25,000. The offices of the Waltham Evening News were completely wrecked.

Election and Ball.

CLAREMONT, N. H., Oct. 9.—The annual meeting of the Patriarchs Militant was held in Masonic Temple yesterday, and Charles F. Ober of Milford, grand patriarch, and other officers were elected and installed. A ball was given in the evening.

Governor on the Roll.

Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL.

The Most Successful Year of the Association.

A Surplus in Treasury When Subscriptions Are Paid

H. T. Wason Declines Reelection and A. D. Albee is Elected President.

The largest and most interesting annual meeting in the history of the Young Men's Christian Association was held Tuesday evening. It witnessed the closing of the fourth and best year's work of the association. Several prominent members were at the Republican convention, but there was an unusual number of prominent citizens present.

The first forty five minutes were spent in social intercourse. The business meeting and entertainment was held in the gymnasium. President H. T. Wason presided.

Rev. Robert Westly Peach offered the opening prayer. The recording secretary, Mr. E. W. Branch, gave a synopsis of the transaction of the board of directors. President Wason spoke of the pleasant relationship which he had born to the association during the past three years and regretted that ill health had made it imperative that he should serve no longer at present. He spoke especially of the interest which had been manifested on every side in the welfare of the association, it being a very rare thing for any one when solicited to refuse to give some assistance.

The treasurer's report showed that over five thousand dollars had been received and expended during the past year. It had been impossible to close the books however, as all the pledges had not been paid. As soon as these are received the books will be closed and a complete report will be published. The finance committee reported that there were enough pledges due to pay all bills and leave a small balance, so that for the first time in its history the association would be free from debt. One year ago the indebtedness amounted to $1385.

The Rooms committee reported that the reading room had been supplied with four dailies, twenty-two weeklies and twelve monthlies. A number of books had been contributed to the library. Considerable saving had been made in lighting and heat by substituting kerosene for electric light and gas.

The statistical report showed a great increase in the attendance of all departments. The total number of visits to the rooms was—Men, 19,341; Boys, 3398; total, 22,630; a daily average of 73. Number of bath taken,—Men, 3978; Boys, 1187; total 4165; daily average 16. Number of times gymnasium was used—Men, 3978; Boys, 1187, total 3702; daily average 12. The average attendance at the Men's gymnasium class was 20.

Other reports were made on the religious work, industrial classes, and the General Secretary reviewed the work of the association in general at length. An abstract of the reports will appear in tomorrow's LEDGER.

Rev. E. N. Hardy of the Centre Congregational church was one of the speakers. He rejoiced when he came to Quincy, to find an association which was doing aggressive Christian work; which, while not neglecting the mental and physical work, did emphasize the spiritual. He said that many associations failed in their mission for lack of this but that if the local associations continued along these lines in the future as in the past it could not fail to be a blessing to the community.

During the evening the reading of the reports was interspersed by readings by Mr. Bingham of Boston, who rendered some interesting pieces.

After the reports of the committees, the election of officers was taken up. Five directors were elected to fill vacancies, for three years. They were, Amos D. Albee, Everett S. Litchfield, Herbert W. Pinkham, Ernest D. Gourd and Rev. Edward Norton.

Mr. Geo. A. Sidelinger was elected treasurer and Mr. Ernest D. Gourd recording secretary, vice Mr. E. M. Branch, who declined to serve on account of pressure of other duties. At the meeting of the board immediately following the annual meeting, Amos D. Albee of Wollaston was elected president. The election of vice-president was left over on account of the lateness of the hour.

—Wilber Cleverly and A. L. Flint of Weymouth were victims of a serious runaway accident on Tuesday. Cleverly has a broken arm and other injuries, and Flint was cut about the head.

ONCE WAS ENOUGH.

Quincy Prices All Right for First Class Monuments.

The following letter may explain indirectly why the excursion of the Michigan granite dealers to Quincy in August was a failure. They had got the idea that Quincy prices were high and placed their orders with middlemen, and were ashamed to come. They have had their experience and are ready to be forgiven, and henceforth their work will be done in Quincy. Read this letter to the Granite Producer and Builder and judge for yourself:

MR. EDITOR: I carefully read your editorial condemning the practices of the "middlemen," which appeared in your issue for Sept. 15, and must say that I heartily agree with the conclusions drawn. As a member of the retail monumental trade I have had ample opportunity to experience the disastrous results attendant upon business dealings with one of the so-called wholesale houses. In my whole business career, coveringa period of over twenty years, I have never, with the one exception mentioned, experienced any serious difficulty in satisfactorily adjusting differences of opinion between myself and those with whom I have dealt. There are two concerns at Quincy with whom I placed orders at regular intervals since originally starting in trade here, and it is a source of gratification to know that both were amazed to find themselves prohibited from filling orders through the appearance of my name upon the confidential list.

It may be of interest to other members of the retail trade to learn the full facts of this case from my standpoint. In 1891 I closed the contract for a memorial on which the margin of profit was to me an unknown quantity. It was for a poor widow, and the monument was to commemorate the deeds of her husband, and my neighbor, who had frequently befriended me in life. On my part it was a charitable enterprise rather than a business investment. I forwarded designs of the work to one of the two concerns for estimates and received word back that they could not take the job at less than $25 more than I was to receive for it. The same day I was waited upon by the agent of an eastern commission house and as a test I asked him to give an estimate on the same job, and his figures were $55 less than the Quincy manufacturer which would show me a clear profit of $30. I was interested naturally and talked with him regarding the quality of his work, showing him a set job in my yard as a sample of what I desired. He promised still better work and prevailed upon me to place the order.

Two months later I had the dissatisfaction of unboxing the poorest specimen of monumental art ever shipped into this section. The stock was cheap, knotty and discolored and the workmanship horrible. I rejected the job and so wrote the selling agent, who threatened all sorts of rough treatment, advising that he had personally inspected the work before shipment and knew it to be correct and according to order. I paid no attention to such pugnacious clap-trap and a little later when I placed work for estimates with the Quincy firms I was advised that they could not favor me unless I first arranged to have my name taken from the confidential list.

Fortunately the memorial was as good as a hundred witnesses in my favor and I then wrote the commission dealer demanding its immediate removal from my premises and also the erasure of my name from the unworthy list, intimating that he had so recorded it. I was not favored with an answer but the team of another local dealer in monumental work came after the memorial, and my old-time Quincy manufacturers hastened to notify me that they would be pleased to estimate on my work. What would have been the result if the job had been but slightly imperfect and I as poorly situated financially as a majority of our retail dealers are, I can only surmise, but suffice it to say that this was all the acquaintance I desired with the "wholesale granite trade."

Yours truly,

ONCE WAS ENOUGH.

The Shakers have made a discovery which is destined to accomplish much good. Realizing that three-fourths of all our sufferings arise from stomach trouble, and that the country is literally filled with people who cannot eat and digest food without subsequently suffering pain and distress, and that many are starving, wasting to mere skeletons, because their food does them no good, they have devoted much study and thought to the subject, and the result is this discovery of their Digestive Cordial.

A little book can be obtained from your druggist that will point out the way of relief at once. An investigation will cost nothing and will result in much good.

Children all hate to take Caster Oil, but not Laxol, which is palatable.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Dr. Everett the Probable Nominee of the Democrats.

Newcomb and Thompson.

Weymouth Republicans have renominated Hon. James H. Flint for the Legislature.

It is now said that Dr. William Everett will be the nominee of the Quincy Democrats for the Legislature, and that he will accept. Weymouth will nominate two this year.

But four more opportunities to register. Tonight is the best time.

The Councillor is the only nomination yet to be made by the Republicans.

Messrs. Sheppard and Sears are suggested as candidates for the City Council.

Braintree Republicans at their caucus Tuesday evening, nominated Will W. Mayhew for the Legislature; he received 109 votes, to 83 for L. W. Morrison.

At the session of the Board of Registrars Tuesday evening 23 names were added to the voting lists and 4 names were restored.

Suffrage Meeting.

The Wollaston Unitarian church was well filled on Tuesday evening with an audience of ladies and gentlemen to hear Miss Alice Stone Blackwell and the Rev. Olaf F. Miller of Newton Lower Falls speak upon the "New Law of 1895." The Rev. Blanche Pentecost Bagley presided and prayer was offered by the Rev. Preston Gurney of the Wollaston Baptist society. Miss Blackwell dealt with the social and political side of the problem and Rev. Mr. Miller with it from a statistical and temperance point of view.

Myles Endorsed.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I have read with interest the article in Tuesday's LEDGER upon the correct way to spell Myles Standish's christian name. With your permission I would like to add a few words in support thereof.

I have before me an ancient colonial document signed by Capt. Standish, in which he signs himself as Myles Standish. In signing his name to other documents, notably that instrument generally known in history as the "Social Compact of the Forefathers" he always spells his christian name as noted above.

She Beat the Experts.

Topeka has a young woman, aged 17, Adele Pollock by name, who for amusement learned to turn a horseshoe in her father's blacksmith shop. At a recent entertainment for the benefit of a church Miss Adele appeared in a match against two of the most expert blacksmiths in the city. Three portable forges were placed upon the stage. Each of the contestants was allowed a helper to blow the bellows. She appeared in a very workmanlike garb—a corduroy skirt and leather apron. Her competitors smiled indulgently at her when time was called, but became anxious, then alarmed and finally discomfited when she turned and cast a perfect horseshoe before the judges in less than four minutes. The curtain dropped on the pretty picture of the flaming forge, and a few minutes later Miss Pollock appeared among her friends daintily clad in white, and charmed all by her graceful manner.

A Clever Frenchwoman.

Mlle. Jeanne Benaben is a young bluestocking of whose extraordinary attainments all France is talking. This exceedingly scholarly young woman received the college degree of bachelor of arts two years ago, when she was 16. She then became professor of philosophy in a woman's college at Lyons, and this year she was a candidate at the Sorbonne for the important degree of licentiate in philosophy. The examiners were prepared for a prodigy, but were nevertheless amazed at the extent of her erudition and her serene composure in dealing with the vexed problems of Descartes, Kant and Comte. She was third on a list of 200 candidates, all of them older than herself, and is now a lecturer on the science of the mind in the College of Rouen. If she does not develop an unlucky love affair of the Bashkirtseff or Kovalevsky kind, she will have a great future.—New York Tribune.

ANTI-TAMMANYITES

Take Preliminary Steps Toward Placing a Ticket in the Field.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The anti-Tammany Democracy last night appointed a committee of five to submit names for the county ticket. This was the ticket the committee prepared for acceptance or revision by the committee of 35: For county clerk, J. J. O'Brien; for register, Otto Kemper; for the supreme court, A. S. Hutchins, Meyer Isaacs and Alfred Steckler; for the general sessions, J. M. Brady and Fred House; for the city court, T. B. Steele, A. F. Acker and Alexander Wemburger.

At Least Seven Victims.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 9.—The debris in the Dorrance mine was cleared up last evening, and a search of all the breasts and gangways failed to reveal any more bodies. The list of dead will, therefore, not exceed five, unless Blanchard and Miller should die. The feeling in mining circles is that Fire Boss Davis was, to a great extent, responsible for the disaster. As the man paid the penalty for his own negligence, if such it was, the public is not inclined to censure him.

Agent Beck Sustained.

OMAHA, Oct. 9.—Federal Judge Shirras has dissolved the injunction that restrained Captain Beck, the Indian agent on the Winnebago reservation, from using his police to evict settlers who refused to lease direct from him. The court has also issued a mandatory injunction, which is practically an eviction of about 250 sublessees. The lands are covered with corn, a heavy crop having been raised, and the lessees may see hardships.

Slavery Alleged.

ATLANTA, Oct. 9.—Writs of habeas corpus were served yesterday upon Kee Owyang and Leon Lam, proprietors of the Chinese village on the midway of the exposition, commanding them to bring the bodies of nine Chinese women, charged by Lum Ling, an Atlanta laundryman, with being held in involuntary servitude. Ling says the women were bought in China and transported here against their will.

Masury's Millions at Stake.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The will of John Masury, who died recently, worth $10,000,000, is to be contested. Masury's two grandsons, who claim to have been brought up with the idea that they were to be well provided for, are disinherited, and the dead man's young widow and her two children inherit the whole estate.

An Exploring Tour.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—Dr. W. H. Furness and Dr. H. M. Miller will start on Saturday next for San Francisco, and will head an expedition from that city which will make a tour of the South Sea islands for the collection of etnological and archæological specimens for the University of Pennsylvania.

The Talmage Installation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Washington Presbytery convened yesterday, and Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage announced that he accepted the call to come here as co-pastor with Dr. Sunderland of the First Presbyterian church. It was arranged that the ceremony of installation should take place Oct. 23.

In Harrison's Town.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—The municipal contest excited much interest and a full vote was polled. Returns indicate a majority for the Democratic ticket of over 3000. Early last evening the Republican committee and candidates conceded Taggart's election as mayor by a healthy majority.

Not Officially Confirmed.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Inquiries made at the war office regarding the reported capture of Antananarivo show that while the news is credited there, no particulars have been received, and it is not expected that the report will be officially confirmed before Oct. 11.

Boiler Burst.

DOVER, N. J., Oct. 9.—There was a serious boiler explosion at the Wharton iron mine at Hibernia yesterday. Six men were badly injured, but none of them fatally. The explosion shook the whole village. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Crack Cycler Kills Himself.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Edward C. Yeatman, one of the best known bicyclists in the city, and at one time holder of the 24-hour championship road record of 330 miles, accidentally shot and killed himself while out riding near Charleston, W. Va.

Editor Killed a Druggist.

WILLOWS, Cal., Oct. 9.—W. A. Gehorn, editor of The Journal, fired three shots at J. E. Putnam, a druggist. Putnam fell dead. An altercation over a disputed account amounting to a few dollars caused the shooting.

Brief Freedom.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 9.—Hodson and Bacon, the two boys who escaped from the state reform school on Sunday, were arrested in Gorham, N. H., yesterday, and returned to the reform school.

Mrs. Grant's New Home.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Mrs. U. S. Grant has bought the home of ex-Senator Edmunds on Massachusetts avenue, and will have her household belongings brought here from New York.

YOUNG GIRLS.

INTERESTING CONCLUSIONS.

Mothers Agree on One Vital Subject.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Young girls, to the thinking mind, are ever subjects of the deepest interest.

Some lead lives of luxury, while others toil for mere existence. Separate, however, as their paths in life may lie, Nature demands of them the same obedience. All are subject to the same physical laws, and suffer in proportion to their violation. Young girls are reticent through modesty, and often withhold what ought to be told.

Yet they are not to blame, for information on such subjects has been withheld from them, owing to the false interpretation of a mother's duty.

In such cases they should do as thousands of young ladies are doing every day: write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., giving as nearly as possible their symptoms, and receive her freely given advice and timely aid.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the young girl's most trusty friend. It can be obtained of any druggist, and speedily relieves and cures irregularities, suspension, retention, and all derangements of the womb and ovaries.

It banishes promptly all pains, headache, backache, faintness, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholia, etc. Young girls must know that self-preservation is the first law of nature.

Fallen.

Born of rich and honest parents, with ancestors known to fame,
Not a stain of foul dishonor e'er had crossed the noble name,
Not a single scion e'er disgraced the blood they loved so well,
Until he, the last descendant of the grand old family, fell.

Fell he sudden and completely—he, the cashier of the bank—
From his upright, high position, in a moment sad he sank;
Fell as fell so many others who have met the selfsame fate—
One misstep, and all was over—came repentance then too late.

When the fatal step was taken and he'd fallen from his place,
Grim the shadow was of anger and of pain upon his face.
"I'd just give," he said, "a dollar for a moment's forceful talk
With the man who threw that peel of a banana on the walk."

AN ACTIVE LIFE ENDED

General Mahone Possessed Indomitable Will and Tireless Energy.

Placed Himself at the Head of "Readjuster" Party.

A Brief Review of Chief Events In His Military and Political Career.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—General William Mahone died at Chamberlin's hotel at 1 o'clock yesterday from the effects of a paralytic stroke sustained on Sept. 30. He had been totally unconscious for more than 48 hours previous to death, and passed away seemingly without pain.

Few Virginians of this generation have possessed the capacity for strong leadership to a greater degree than William Mahone. War, business and politics have been his three fields of valor, and in each he had shown himself the same undaunted commander, with masterful resources and unflagging courage. But no less in business and politics has he been driven to give up the sword, than in the pursuits of war.

General Mahone was born in Southampton county, Va., Dec. 1, 1826, graduated at the Virginia Military institute in 1847, engaged in engineering, and when the civil war broke out it found him the constructor of the Norfolk and Petersburg railroad. He joined the Confederate army in 1861, took part in the capture of Norfolk navy yard in April of that year, raised and commanded the Sixth Virginia regiment, which engaged in most of the battles of the peninsula campaign, those on the Rappahannock and around Petersburg, where he won the sobriquet of "The Hero of the Crater," and was, throughout his career, noted as a fighting commander.

A Fighting Commander.

In March, 1864, Mahone was commissioned a brigadier general, and in April of the same year he was made a major general. He subsequently led a division in A. P. Hill's corps, and when Lee surrendered he was at Bermuda Hundred.

At the close of the war he returned to engineering and became president of the Norfolk and Tennessee railroad. While acting in this capacity he also entered politics, and was a leader in the movement that resulted in the election of Gilbert C. Walker, the conservative candidate, to the governorship of Virginia.

He was himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1878. He organized and became the leader of the "readjuster" party, which advocated conditional repudiation of the state debt. The new party met with such success as to attract the attention of the country to Mahone as a political leader, and in the meantime the general laid his plan to capture the legislature and go to the United States senate.

He consulted the Republican leaders at Washington as to his plans for securing a senatorship, parties being closely matched in that body. He also went to Philadelphia, where he conferred with State Chairman Quay and Senator Cameron, pledging himself, if $35,000 were raised for his financial aid in the campaign, to carry the Virginia legislature, send himself to the senate and stand by the Republicans.

Riddleberger His Running Mate.

His pledge was accepted, the money was raised and handed to him. He was elected to the senate in 1880 for six years, which ended in March, 1887, and was associated during his term of service with Riddleberger, another readjuster.

In 1888 he was the Republican nominee for governor of Virginia, and was defeated by an overwhelming majority by his Democratic opponent, Philip W. McKinney of Prince Edward county. Since that time and up to about six months ago he had not been very active in Virginia politics. But recently he had formed a combination with the Populists and was preparing to fight the Democrats in the approaching campaign on the issues involved when stricken with paralysis.

General Mahone has always been a man of indomitable will, of tireless energy, with a natural propensity for domineering his political associates and subordinates. To this trait of his character may be attributed the disastrous defeat which he sustained in 1888. From the inception of the readjuster movement down to Mahone's overthrow, Virginia politics were marked by a bitterness and intensity rarely equalled and never exceeded in the history of the state.

General Mahone had been one of the richest men in Virginia, but for the last few months had been virtually a pensioner upon the generosity of one of his old associates. In politics he not only experienced bitter and disappointing defeat, but accompanied with it he had endured the ostracism of his old friends and neighbors, who regarded him as little short of a traitor to the Old Dominion hearthstones. For the lost cause he likewise fought long and well, only to lay down his arms.

Poisoned by Wholesale.

DES MOINES, Oct. 9.—A large part of the population of Sabula are suffering from the wholesale poisoning which occurred at a recent wedding. Four deaths have occurred. D. C. Gage, groom at the wedding, will die, and others are almost certain to succumb. More than 100 are now sick. The doctors believe it is trichinosis.

Great Things Expected.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—An organization was effected in Chicago yesterday, the object of which will be to contest the right of ownership to the estate in England of the Earles of Antrim, said to be high up in the millions of dollars. Descendants of the Antrim family will send attorneys to England to look after the interests of the society.

Crespo's Ministers Disagree.

CARACAS, Oct. 9.—There is a ministerial crisis in President Crespo's cabinet. The trouble grew out of a lengthy cabinet discussion over the country's financial affairs, and resulted in four members resigning, namely: General Matos, Lucie Pallde, Alexandra Urbaneja and Jose Maria Manrique.

Long Journey Begun.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—The brig-rigged steam-yacht Erl King, owned by A. H. Davis of Syracuse, and commanded by Captain Derham, left here yesterday on a two years' cruise around the world.

Korean Disturbances.

SEOUL, Oct. 9.—Tai-Ron-Kin, the king's father and leader of the anti-reform party, entered the palace at the head of an armed force, and the queen's life is reported to be in danger.

MERELY A BLUFF.

It Might Have Worked Had an Explanation Been Made.

Ex-Congressman O'Neill of Missouri, who was in the city for a week or ten days recently, has a friend in Washington, a Frenchman, who has the happy faculty of beguiling the hours in such a pleasant manner that the Missourian often gets to bed long after the chimes of midnight have tolled the beginning of another day. About 3 a. m. a few nights ago it occurred to Mr. O'Neill that nature had some claims upon him of paramount importance with those of his French friend, and just for a bluff he suddenly broke off the conversation, which took place in the lobby of the hotel in which the retired statesman was stopping, and said to the clerk in a loud voice:

"Call me at 6:30. I've got to take an early train!"

The Frenchman excused himself hurriedly and departed, and with a heart rejoicing in the success of his stratagem O'Neill sought his couch and prepared to press it until the dinner bell should summon him to his day's task, for he had no intention of leaving for several days to come.

About 15 minutes of 6 o'clock a violent rapping at his door aroused him from the sweetest part of his slumbers, and a familiar voice in the corridor was heard to exclaim:

"Pardonnez-moi, Meester O'Neill. Eet's nearly seex o'clock"—

"Hang it!" exclaimed O'Neill, "what's that to me? Go away and let me sleep."

At this the pounding at the door became more violent than before.

"Bud you sed you wanded to geet oop to catch ze t-r-ain, and zo I haf coom to wake you. Geet oop, geet oop, or you will meez ze t-r-ain," and the pounding continued.

It was no use to remonstrate. O'Neill's friend insisted on making him get up and open the door. Then he explained that he had heard him tell the clerk to call him in time for the early train, but as he had kept him up so late the night before he feared that the clerk might forget, and accordingly he had come to the hotel to see that he did not oversleep himself.

"You old muttonhead!" exclaimed the Missourian. "Don't you know that I left that order just to get rid of you because I wanted to go to bed to get some sleep? Don't you know it was all a bluff?"

"Bloof?" exclaimed the Frenchman. "Bloof, Meester O'Neill?"

"Yes, bluff," repeated O'Neill.

"So! Why you not tell me zat?" demanded his friend, "and I woot not haf come."—Washington Post.

POINTS ABOUT A BULLFROG.

How He "Hollers" and How He Wears His Teeth on His Backbone.

"Do you know how a bullfrog bellows?" said ex-Magistrate Camp last night as he spread out his legs and joined in the conversation of the sidewalk group in front of the Willard hotel. "Now, most people think that when a bullfrog bellows he is lying upon a big rock just blowing off. That's not so. When a frog bellows he is lying flat on the water, this way," and the speaker spread out his broad palm. "I've seen 'em. You know he has a sort of wattle under his throat. Well, he fills that up about half full of water and blows out the air through it. You've all put water in a bottle and then blown into it?" There was no response, but Mr. Camp continued: "You know how that sounds. Well, a frog bellows in that same way, and it sounds just like blowing in a bottle partly filled with water. Just this way," and the speaker expanded his own "wattle" and gave an imitation so natural as to alarm the cook in the hotel kitchen.

"Do you know where a frog's teeth are?" continued Squire Camp, encouraged by the absence of argument.

"In his belly," somebody suggested.

"No. A frog's teeth," resumed Squire Camp impressively, "are just about the middle of his backbone, between his hind and fore legs."—Louisville Courier Journal.

Japanese English.

Commander Wilde, United States navy, presented to his kinswoman, Miss Louise Withington of North Easton, a silk handkerchief which some enterprising merchant in Yokohama furnishes to patrons for advertising purposes. As an illustration of Japanese English the following words which decorate the four sides of the border are unique and worthy of preservation in print:

"My shop was constantly trading the various clothes of the domestic and the foreigner. Although I was advised by the every foreigner, at this time I have made the nice handkerchief of the different specious silk and begun to sell it. Then I was observed with the honor on the several portions. Thence whatever will perform truly for something, and it will sell lower price for everybody's wants. Please I beg consequently to obtain the more favors and the many produces. But the all colors of the handkerchiefs that be done by the one method will by free hurtless for washing it."—Boston Commonwealth.

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

V.

Turn now from the "right" of woman suffrage, which is no right at all, to the question of its expediency. This is the true problem, and of course the best way to approach it is at the very foundation.

Is there indeed good reason why women, simply because they are women, should not take active part in political life?

Women are physically much weaker than men. It matters nothing that here and there a woman may say, "Lo, I am physically as vigorous as a man." Averages must rule when millions of men and women are concerned. No sane person believes that the average woman equals the average man in vigor, any more than that the exceptionally strong woman equals a Corbett or a Sandow.

Nature has made us weaker than men, not merely by giving us smaller skeletons and tenderer muscles, but by fitting us for the rôle of motherhood. Of course in being fitted for this rôle a special kind of strength has been conferred upon us, and no kind could be more valuable to ourselves or to the world. But we have to pay for it in weakness in other directions—not only in lesser muscular power, but in lesser ability to withstand strains and exertions of many kinds.

Man's greater physical strength is not merely a reason why he has hitherto done all the work of government. It is also a sign and proof that this is part of his natural work. By nature he is the protector of his family, whether it be attacked by wolves, by human individuals, by the fear of poverty or by the dread of public calamities. And by nature a woman is a being to be protected. Her physical weakness is a sign of this. So is the great fact which necessitates it—the fact of her motherhood. So are the domestic and social cares which the probability of motherhood, and the absence of the working males from their homes, make the business of our sex as a whole. And so is the fact that while man needs to safeguard his life and proverty only, she needs to safeguard her chastity as well.

Woman is the homemaker, the homekeeper; man is the home supporter, the home protector, and government is only one form of home protection. Often today a woman must assume part of a man's work of protection. But this is a misfortune, not an "opportunity." We must make the best of it by educating our girls better, and by teaching our men to realize, even more thoroughly than they do now, that it is their business to protect all women in so far as they can. But it as foolish, as against nature, which means common sense, to think that it would be well if women should share equally in the hard outside work of money making and of organizing and protecting society as it would be to think that the world would be improved if men could bear and rear half the children. Any doctrine which tends toward a general reversal of the great rôles of the two sexes, or toward their confusion, or toward the growth of the idea that they may be confused with out danger to society, must be distinctly pernicious.

Woman needs more liberty, truly—at least in intellectual directions. She needs to know more, to think more, to have a deeper sense of responsibility. But she needs this to do her own work more thoroughly, to teach her what had better be left to man to do, and to teach man how he may do it well. She is the world's educator. He is the world's executive. Her work is really more important than his, for it is the making and molding of human character and of social characteristics—which means the making and molding of public opinion—while man's work is to support and protect her as she does this, and to give public opinion shape in that practical form which we call government.

I have actually heard women say, and with much decision and fervor: "Certainly we should not hold office. The men ought certainly to do the work of governing. But it is our duty to see that good men are put into office. It is our duty to vote, because this is the best way to show what we think ought to be done by the men who govern."

Surely this would be very unequal suffrage—half the controlling power to be ours, all the work and responsibility to fall upon the men. It would be interference—not influence. It would be irresponsible dictation—not education, direction, help and counsel.

And of course it would be impracticable. How could we vote for good men unless good men were always nominated? And how are men nominated except through difficult, exacting work, which is heaviest just before an election, but must be persisted in more or less all the time? Going to primaries, pulling wires, and influencing voters in favor of the nomination of good men is not very hard work in little country places. But it is work that needs time even there, and needs knowledge of a particular kind—special knowledge with regard to the qualifications of special men. And in big cities the work is so difficult, disagreeable, and harassing that, just because of it, very many men lose their interest in politics altogether. Yet in this work at least we should positively be obliged to share if we wished to vote those whom we might consider the best men into office.

No one can simply vote for "the best man" without regard to anything but his personal trustworthiness and ability. Behind every man who stands for an office lies a principle of one kind or another—legal, financial or economic. Choice must be made between principles, and choice must be made between men, and then the claims of the one and the other must be balanced against each other. No problem is more frequent or more difficult than that which confronts the voter obliged to choose between a "good man" representing principles or expedients of which he disapproves, and a less good one representing principles or expedients he thinks right. Thus no intelligent vote can be cast without a knowledge and consideration of abstract political, financial or economic ideas. The best man, when political office is in question, is the one who will have the most power to legislate for us toward the best result, and this necessitates considerations with regard to his ideas and beliefs, his wisdom and tact, his influence with other politicians and with the people, as well as with regard to his knowledge and conscientiousness.

And this all means that women would have to take an earnest part in political thought, an active part in political life, if they wished simply "to see that the best men are put into office." Otherwise they could only vote with blind eyes for men whom they had had no share in selecting, or else duplicate the votes of men whom they esteemed intelligent. I think no woman need ask for the suffrage who desires to be an ignorant voter or a mere echo.

A PLAN OF CAMPAIGN

As Mapped Out by Chosen Leaders of the Massachusetts Democracy.

Battle Royal For the Control of the Legislature.

Religious Proscription and Corporations' Greed Receive Consideration at Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The Bay State Democracy fired its opening guns of the campaign in Music hall last night. Music hall has seldom held within its walls a larger gathering than that last night. There was not a seat to be had on the floor at 7:45, the side aisles were crowded from the stage to the rear of the hall, the galleries were all well filled, and there were not a few ladies in the large audience.

Chairman Corcoran of the state committee opened the meeting and introduced ex-Governor Russell as the presiding officer of the meeting. Mr. Russell said in part: "The Democratic party has made no mistake in making a frank statement of the living issues of the day. We rejoice that our candidate and platform fit each other, without evasion, compromise or contradiction. Our candidate does not have to repudiate his own convictions or his party's platform. I do not wonder that the leader of our opponents says that the issues are not made by platforms.

"The most important question in the state is the existence of a secret organization whose motto is proscription on religious lines, and whose aim and boast are that it controls the Republican party. The Republican party fears to fight this new element, so it compromises. It has played this old trick before by nominating a prohibitory candidate on a license platform.

GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS.

"Of the existence of the A. P. A. there can be no doubt. It has two characteristics: it excludes all Roman Catholics from public office, and it advocates methods described by Senator Hoar as cellar politics. These principals are obnoxious to the people and detrimental to their welfare, and we demand that this question be removed out of politics.

"The governor has shown courage in some of his acts, and I am sure he will make a free and frank statement of his sentiments on this subject. If he endorses the platform, then a vote for him is one for religious proscription. The very least that he can do, and the lieutenant governor with him, is for them to define their position. If Senator Hoar is right, and these two gentlemen conduct the campaign ignoring this fact, then there can be no doubt but that they will find themselves in a cellar."

Williams' Argument.

Candidate George F. Williams was then introduced. He said: "There are three issues in this campaign which I wish to lay before the people: First, the love and brotherhood of our common citizenship. Second, the wise regulation of the public service. Third, the protection of the public rights against corporations. These are all state questions, and the Republican party has evaded them all.

"The force of our campaign this fall should be directed toward the control of the legislature. I consider that I have in accepting the candidacy made myself the advocate and defender of the Democratic platform. When a candidate has declared that he stands upon a platform, the people should judge him by that platform. I am ready to discuss all questions of public policy with my opponent. So far as the governor is in disagreement with his party, let us join with him in this for the public good.

"The most potent factors in the state are the corporate creatures without souls. Their duties are to stockholders and not to the people. We demand that assessments made for public improvements that are used by private corporations shall give the public a fair return of the profits of the corporation. So long as million dollar rights can be obtained by the judicious expenditure of thousands, so long will your legislature be ruled by the money makers."

Flynn, Hurlburt and Russell.

Edward J. Flynn, the candidate for lieutenant governor, made a speech, in which he said he congratulated the manufacturing interests of the state in the improved conditions of trade under Democratic tariff laws, and demanded the same religious freedom here as do the Armenians abroad.

Henry F. Hurlburt of Lynn also spoke, and John E. Russell closed the meeting.

Mr. Russell said that upon reviewing the work of the Republican convention, he was glad he was a Democrat. He deplored the absence from that convention of certain prominent men, and paid his particular respects to Lieutenant Governor Wolcott, whom he termed a gilded axle box of the wheel of fortune.

He said that he took a different view of the A. P. A., for in the platform it said that the movement was a counter irritant; that is to say, the A. P. A. is a mustard plaster applied to the Republican party to cure an ailment in the Democratic party. They have the blister in the neck, and it will take soft soap next year in the person of Elijah Morse to heal the sore. The meeting closed with cheers for the candidates.

Miss Hodgkins Is President.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 10.—At a meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary societies of New England yesterday the following officers were elected: President, Miss L. M. Hodgkins Auburndale, Mass.; first vice president, Mrs. Charles Parkhurst, Somerville, Mass.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. A. Alderman, Hyde Park, Mass.; recording secretary, Mrs. M. D. Buell, Boston; home secretary, Josephine Carr, Warren; secretary of young woman's work, Mrs. C. S. Miller, St. Albans, Vt.; secretary of children's missionary work, Mrs. L. F. Harrison, Worcester, Mass.; treasurer, Miss M. E. Holt, Boston.

A Joy Forever.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., Oct. 10.—A magnificent drinking fountain, presented to this town today by Colonel William L. Brown of New York, who has a country mansion here, is about 15 feet high and is surmounted by a life-size bronze figure of a newsboy selling the New York Daily News, of which Colonel Brown is part proprietor. The main shaft is of polished Quincy granite and the remainder of dolomite granite. The fountain was received on behalf of the town by the president of the board of selectmen and a committee of citizens. The corner-stone contains coins and copies of various papers. The fountain is located in a small park, which has been given in perpetuity to the town by Colonel Brown. The statue was designed and executed by David Richards of New York. The casting was done at the bronze factory of Maurice J. Power, New York.

Harvard's Decision.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 10.—Contrary to the general opinion at Yale that the cessation of all sports between Harvard and Yale was but a "dream" of Professor Ames, it is stated positively that Harvard and Yale will not meet in any sport this year or next. Professor Ames, in making this statement, has acted but merely as the spokesman of all Harvard undergraduates and graduates prominently connected with athletics here.

Dr. Brooks Endorsed.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—At a meeting of the overseers of Harvard College yesterday Dr. W. A. Brooks was chosen as one of the graduate members of the athletic board. In view of the fact that the present controversy between Yale and Harvard was precipitated by criticisms by Dr. Brooks, Harvard men say the action of the overseers cannot be considered in any other light than that of endorsement of Dr. Brooks' position.

Five Hundred Delegates.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 10.—The fourth annual meeting of the Maine Federation of Women's clubs begun in this city yesterday. Sixty clubs sent delegates, which makes the total number in attendance 500 people. A reception was held in the rotunda of the state Capitol last evening. Refreshments were served in the agricultural department after the ceremony. The convention will last until Friday.

Mystery Cleared Up.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 10.—The mystery concerning the identity of the body of a man found at Lincoln has been cleared up. The body has been identified as that of F. B. LaBelle of Fredericton, N. B., who has been missing about a month.

THE CUBAN CAMPAIGN.

Troops at a Disadvantage by Having to Fight In Wildernesses.

Campos Disposed to Be Lenient Toward Enemies.

Insurgents Are Neither Criminals Nor Bandits, From a Soldier's Standpoint.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The following interesting interview with General Campos appears this morning in The World in a special dated Santa Clara, Cuba:

Captain General Campos conversed with your correspondent two hours at the general headquarters of the Spanish army in this city. This is General Campos' statement:

"At present the military situation in Cuba is satisfactory. The rebellion in Cuba has attained greater scope than I anticipated when I embarked from Spain. At present there are numerous small bands of insurgents scattered about the country in the provinces of Santiago, Camaguey and La Villas. In Matanzas there are only a very few rebels against authority. The insurgents are not all armed, and their supply of ammunition is deficient in some districts.

"My duty is to use all the means in my power to suppress the insurrection. Political considerations do not weigh as much with me as purely military ones do. I am a soldier, and my profession is first with me.

"There is a considerable number of Spanish troops on the island, though it is not as large as the conditions warrant. The country is a very difficult one to operate in, more difficult than a European army is ordinarily called on to campaign in. Were the roads as they are in Spain, the Cuban revolt could easily be quelled in a short time.

"The insurgents are familiar with the regions in which they operate, and they generally have the active sympathy of the country people. Fidelity to their friends is a Cuban trait.

Not Lacking For Sympathy.

"The country people allow their sympathy for Cubans who come in conflict with law to go too far. Bandits like Mirabal, in Camaguey, and Matigas, in the region known as the Zapata, have been able to go at large because of their sympathy. People, not criminals themselves, and not in league with the bandits, have sheltered them against law. It cost the government $200,000 in one year to capture the criminals named.

"I do not class the insurgents as criminals or bandits. They use every means in their power to attain their end, and who can blame them when their limited resources are remembered. I do not propose to treat the insurgents as if they were of the class mentioned. I have given orders that prisoners shall not be cruelly treated, and that wounded insurgents who may fall into the hands of the troops shall be well cared for. I do not kill prisoners.

"The war will be conducted on different lines from the last one. I have a definite policy in my operations. The country paths are generally too bad at the present time for a persistent campaign. Again, I do not wish to expose the soldiers continuously until the season is improved. In November there may be looked for as active and as aggressive campaign as I can make.

The War Program.

"My present plan is to divide the troops into small detachments, the number of each column varying according to circumstances. Were I to send out a column of say 5000 men, they would have the march for their pains. They would see no enemy. The insurgents would melt away in the dense and difficult country where they find shelter.

"As an example of the futility of large columns at present, I refer to the expedition led by General Suarez Valdez, who left this city a few days ago, going first to Manigauragua, in the direction of the Trinidad mountains, with a provision train. General Valdez took 1500 soldiers. The insurgents expected only 300 soldiers, and were assembled to the number of over 2000. They hoped to capture the train. When the size of General Valdez's force became known to them, the insurgents melted away like the dew under the sun.

"General Valdez divided his force into four different detachments when he had placed the supply train, and is now nearer the Seguanea valley. As soon as he divided his men, the rebels reappeared, and skirmishing has gone on since.

Compared With Indian Wars.

"This war makes me think of the Indian wars in the western United States. The Indians used to fight when a good opportunity occurred and ran when pressed. The United States army sometimes had a lively dance after the Sioux and the Apaches. Our officers understand what campaigning in a difficult wilderness means.

"The lack of arms and ammunition has always been a drawback to the insurgents. They usually have nearly as many unarmed men as armed ones. When there is an engagement the unarmed men carry off the dead and wounded, taking care to secure the fallen man's arms first. The wounded are a clog on the Spanish column during an expedition; they have to be carried.

"Of the insurgent leaders in the present war Antonio Maceo has done the best work for his side. He is ambitious and has a reputation which he desires to increase. Although not the equal to Maximo Gomez, speaking from a military standpoint, Maceo has led in the present war.

"I have been satisfied with the sanitary condition of the army during the past summer. Until September there was less sickness than I expected. Yellow fever has not been epidemic the present year, except in a few localities, and the losses from that cause have been comparatively small.

"Had the season been unhealthy, thousands of men might have succumbed to the effects of the climate. Dysentery and kindred diseases have not prevailed to an unusual extent."

The bell on the First church will be cut out of the fire alarm circuit for a few days. The foundation having rotted away it will have to be raised up that a new foundation may be put in.

A meeting of the Quincy Historical Society will be held at the Probate Court Room, Adams building, tonight. Mr. E. H. Dewson will read a paper entitled: "The Tanning Industry of the South Shore."

The testimony given by police officers in court is often times quite amusing; for instance an officer this morning, in testifying in a case for disturbance of the peace, said the prisoner was "a good scrapper and accumulates disturbances."

People should beware how they purchase wood of peddlers. While one may think that he is getting a bargan in many cases he is not, for the wood is piled in the wagon in such a manner as to look large, but when measured the purchaser often times finds that he has paid a good price for a little wood. It is far better to purchase of your local dealer.

The new factory of the Jacobson & Blasser Electric Manufacturing Co. at Quincy Point is about ready to start up. Most of the machinery has arrived and it is now expected that November 1st will see the plant in full operation. When everything is in readiness, an invitation will be extended to those interested to be present and inspect the plant and see the big engines start.

HARVEST SUPPER.

One of Those Nice Ones for which Universalist Ladies are Famous.

The Ladies association of the Universalist church held its annual harvest festival in the church vestry Wednesday evening which proved to be a most enjoyable affair. On the side of the room there was displayed a large quantity of vegetables and fruit, as well as many useful and fancy articles all of which met with a ready sale.

At 6.30 an old fashioned harvest supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Ira Litchfield and Mrs. A. C. Merritt and the large number who partook can testify to its excellent quality.

At 8 o'clock the farce, "Timothy Delano's Courtship," was presented by young people from North Weymouth, the following being included in the cast; Herbert E. Curtis, Walter Brayshaw, Miss Lura Oldham, Miss Stella Dunbar and Miss Eliza Ford.

Between the acts there was a banjo solo by Miss Ellis, and a solo by Miss Haskill, both of which were greatly enjoyed.

Ice cream was also served during the evening.

BIGELOW---HARDWICK.

A Notable Wedding at Centre Congregational Church.

Quincy Young Lady Becomes Bride of a Cohasset Clergyman.

Rev. Edward Norton Assisted by Dr. Hamlin the Veteran Missionary.

The Centre Congregational church was the scene of a very pretty wedding last evening, the occasion being the marriage of Carrie Theodosia Hardwick, daughter of Franklin Hardwick and Rev. Edwin Victor Bigelow of Cohasset a son of T. H. Bigelow of Seattle, Washington. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Norton, formerly pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Cyrus Hamlin, D. D., the founder of Robert College, Constantinople, Turkey.

Professor Wrigley was the organist for the occasion, and at 7.30 he began playing the wedding march. The wedding procession was led by the ushers, Rev. Arthur L. Bumpus of Natick, being head usher. The other ushers were: Mr. George E. Phelan, of Concord; Mr. Ernest V. Fitts of Quincy; Mr. Levi Nichols of Cohasset; Mr. William Tanner of Wollaston; Mr. Walter H. Brown of Cohasset.

The bridesmaids were gowned in white silk mull over yellow in recognition of Miss Hardwick's class colors at Wellesley, of which college she is a graduate. They wore coronets of pansies, the class flower. The bridemaids were all college friends of the bride. They were: Miss Gertrude Bigelow of Natick; Miss Bessie L. Burns of Quincy; Miss Charlotte D. Irish of Pittsburgh, Pa; Miss Roxana H. Vivican of Hyde Park. Immediately following the bridemaids, was the bride's maid of honor, her little niece Miss Alice M. Hardwick. Her gown was of yellow India silk.

The bride was escorted by her father, and was met at the altar by the groom, and his best man, Mr. John O. Hall, Jr., of Quincy. The service was read by Mr. Norton, the bride being given away by her father. She wore a beautiful gown of white satin cut en traine, and carried a bouquet of white Bride's roses.

After the service at the church, which was certainly one of the prettiest weddings seen in Quincy, there was a small reception for the family and most intimate friends of the bride and groom, at the bride's home, 23 Spear street. The father and mother of the bride and the bridemaids assisted in receiving.

Immediately after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow started on an extended tour of some months through the West. As they left the house, the bridemaids gave the musical Wellesley cheer and the couple were showered with rice and with good wishes for a safe and pleasant journey.

Before returning they will visit California and Seattle, the home of Mr. Bigelow's parents. On their return they will reside in Cohasset, where Mr. Bigelow's church is situated. They will be "at home" on the second and sixteenth of January, Thursdays.

The church was decorated with evergreen and hemlock boughs sprinkled with flowers of the bride's colors, yellow and white, garlands of evergreen were festooned from the roof and the whole effect was striking.

The wedding gifts were beautiful and displayed in goodly number.

Much interest was added to the ceremony by the presence of Dr. Hamlin, who is the veteran missionary to Constantinople, Turkey, and the founder of Robert College, which was the cradle of Bulgarian liberties. His work during the Crimean War in relieving the suffering of the British soldiery is a part of his fame. He is eighty-five years old and a friend of the groom.

Dr. Edward Everett Hale was unable to attend owing to the sad affliction in his family but sent a very kind letter of good wishes.

Mr. Bigelow has a host of friends in his own town and also in many foreign lands. Miss Hardwick was also well known here, and in her new relationship her friends wish her every happiness.

Evangelistic Meetings.

Rev. Edward A. Robinson of Wollaston spoke on "Something I cannot Earn" at the Evangelistic meeting last evening. It was a very practical talk, aptly illustrated from business life, showing the true meaning of the Grace of God.

Tonight the subject will be "How am I building." Rev. H. A. Youtz, who was advertised to speak, will be unable to be present and the meeting will be in charge of the General Secretary. It will consist of a song service, in charge of Mr. Emery, and a testimony meeting.

Teachers' Institute.

The institute for teachers at Braintree Wednesday was largely attended by teachers of Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Holbrook, Randolph, Stoughton, Milton and elsewhere, and it was a profitable meeting for all. The programme as already published was carried out. Secretary Hill's address in the evening was attended by the public and they listened with interest to his paper on "New England Primer Days," a good abstract of which will appear in the Braintree OBSERVER on Friday.

CUBA AND THE U. S.

High School Society Have a Debate and Election of Officers.

The vice president, Miss Cummings, presided Wednesday in the absence of the president of the Q. H. S. Debating society. Miss Briggs, the secretary, read her report, which was accepted and adopted.

The election of officers followed. These nominations were made, those marked with an asterisk being elected:

For President,—*Mr. Foley, '97, and Mr. Northcott, '96.

For Vice President,—Miss Leake, '96, and *Miss Pratt, 97.

For Secretary,—Miss Thompson, '97; Mr. Mekins, '97; Miss Hayes, '97. No choice.

For Treasurer,—Miss McPherson, '97; Mr. Briggs, '97; and *Miss Joss, '97.

The debate then followed: "Resolved, That Cuba ought to be helped by the United States."

The speakers in the affirmative were: Miss Garrity, Miss Gavin, Miss A. Healey, Miss C. Healey, and Miss Hay.

The negative was taken by: Miss Leake, Miss N. Lord, Miss McKay, Miss Melzard, Miss Peterson.

When the debate became general Miss C. E. Healey, Miss Peterson, Miss Leake and Miss Garrity spoke.

The negative won in the debate.

COMPANY K AT NEWTON.

The Annual Field Day of the Fifth Regiment Today.

The members of Co. K of Braintree and Quincy left town about 8 o'clock this morning for Boston and at 8 45 took a Boston & Albany train to Newton where the annual field day of the Fifth Regiment is being held today. A sham battle is first in order and the Braintree company together with those from Boston, Plymouth, Charlestown, Malden, Woburn, Hudson, and Medford will be the attacking force.

The attack may be made in any way that the battalion commanders think best, whether by the flank or not, but the movement when made must be inspected by the Colonel before definitely assuming to ascertain whether it could be really made were this actual warfare. There will be no firing until possibly at the wind up, beyond the gravel bank, when blank cartridges may be issued.

The afternoon programme included rations, a march with street column and riot drill, a review, and a regimental parade. Co. C of Newton will entertain the officers of the regiment this evening at the Newton club.

BICYCLE PARADE TONIGHT.

The Second Annual of the Wollaston Club—Band Concert.

The parade of the Wollaston Cycle club tonight will start at 8 o'clock sharp and the following route will be taken: From club house on Beale street to Safford street, to Central avenue, to Farrington, Brook, Arlington, Central avenue, Newport avenue to Quincy Centre. Countermarch to club house where light refreshments will be served, followed by a band concert. A large number of invitations have been sent to neighboring clubs and all unattached riders are cordially invited to participate. The following are the names of committee in charge: G. W. Brown, H. C. Seymour, E. H. Riley, H. Haskins, J. Thomas.

During the evening a band concert will be given on the piazza of the Wollaston Hotel by the Quincy band.

Really Handsome Building.

Mr. Jorge Oyarzabal a citizen of Malagar, Spain, and ex-consul Nicaraugua, well known among men of art and letters was the guest of the Librarian of the Quincy Historical society on Tuesday. Having had a personal acquaintance with the late architect Richardson he was much interested in the Thomas Crane Library building, and remarked that it was one of few really handsome public buildings that he had ever seen in Europe or America, and that the citizens of Quincy should point to it with pride.

SMYTH AND TRUAX

Again Appear on the Latest Ticket Put Forth by Tammany Braves.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The revival of interest in the political affairs of Tammany Hall was manifest last evening in the crowds which collected around the wigwam long before the opening of the county convention which was to put in nomination candidates for the city, county and judicial offices. Thousands collected about the doors, and the jam was terrific. An attempt was made to exclude all those not holding tickets, but when the doors were open the crowd carried everything in its way.

The executive committee agreed upon the following ticket: For justices of the supreme court, C. H. Truax and Frederick Smyth, Tammany, and C. F. MacLean, Democrat and G. A. R. U. candidate; for judges of the court of general sessions, Joseph E. Newburger and M. T. McMahon; county clerk, H. D. Purroy; register, William Sohmer; justices of the city court, R. A. Van Wyck (renominated), J. P. Schuchman and E. F. O'Dwyer.

Frederick Smyth was recorder of the city of New York for 14 years. He was defeated last November by John U. Goff. Charles H. Truax served a term in the superior court. He was defeated for re-election last year.

The ticket, as offered by the executive committee, was nominated shortly before midnight. The platform endorsed the administration of President Cleveland and the Democratic candidates for state officers. The platform further said:

We favor the enforcement of the law, but protest against and denounce the discrimination that has been made between the rich and poor in the severe, oppressive and unintelligent exercise of powers by the police board of this city.

The Democratic party is, as it has ever been, strictly in favor of a respectful observance of Sunday, by abstaining on that day from all unnecessary employment, and yet mindful of the rights of every citizen to the enjoyment of worship, comfort and recreation, according to his own conscience and wishes as far as compatible with a due regard to the beliefs and desires of others, it favors the immediate enactment by the next legislature of a modification of the present oppressive excise laws, and, in addition, promises to propose to, and endeavor to obtain from, the coming legislature a law which will enable this community to determine for itself by popular vote whether the sale of food, beverages and all necessaries shall be permitted on the first day of the week during certain prescribed hours and in a manner so restricted as not to interfere with religious observances.

The Congregationalists.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 10.—Never before were there so many people crowded together in the Plymouth church as assembled last night for the evening session of the national council of the Congregational churches of the United States. Moderator Nelson Dingley, Jr., opened the meeting, and Rev. F. W. Gunsalus of Chicago was introduced as the speaker of the evening. His remarks were largely upon the pentecost and the securing of universal peace. At an overflow meeting at the Baptist church short addresses were delivered by many college presidents.

Victims of Carelessness.

CORSICANA, Tex., Oct. 10.—A terrific explosion occurred in the Merchants' Opera house yesterday afternoon, where the Devil's Auction company were preparing to play last night. Harry Coleridge was testing a calcium light cylinder. There arose some doubt as to whether or not it contained black gas, and a bystander suggested that he try it with a match. He struck the match and touched it to the cylinder, and the explosion at once followed. Harry Coleridge was killed and eight other persons were badly cut and injured.

Greenhalge at Greenfield.

GREENFIELD, Mass., Oct. 10.—Governor Greenhalge continued his swing around this circle of western Massachusetts last evening with a speech here. So large was the audience in the opera house that many were obliged to stand. The governor made a short speech, but branched out a little more widely into political issues, devoting some time to national affairs. In the discussion of state politics he followed his plan of allowing the work of his administration to speak for itself, and laying great stress upon the record.

Train Jumped the Track.

MANOR, Pa., Oct. 10.—While a mail train was passing through this town last night the two rear coaches jumped the track, swinging against an eastbound train, which struck the passenger cars with such force as to knock them over a 40-foot gully against a coal train standing on the siding. Conductor J. W. Miller was killed outright and Miss Washington will probably die. Eleven persons were more or less seriously injured.

Butchered by Turks.

TREBIZOND, Armenia, Oct. 10.—Serious conflicts between Turks and Armenians occurred here on Tuesday. Many Armenians were killed. The Turks were armed, and the number of troops present here is few. No attempt was made to stop the massacre of the Armenians. In fact, it is even stated that the soldiers took part in the slaughter and in the pillage which accompanied it.

Western Union Finances.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10. — The Western Union Telegraph company's report for the fiscal year, which terminated June 30, represented the gross earnings at $22,218,019 and the total expenses incurred amounted to $16,076,629, leaving a net balance of $6,141,389 and a surplus of $439,844.

New Brunswick Politics.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 10.—Nominations took place throughout New Brunswick yesterday for the provincial legislature. Altogether the government has 18 seats by acclamation and opposition five. In three counties all the candidates running are government supporters.

On Southern Ground.

WINCHESTER, Va., Oct. 10.—Forty-one members of the Eighteenth Connecticut volunteers yesterday dedicated the monument which is being erected in the National cemetery here by the surviving members of that company in memory of their dead comrades.

A Mississippi Outrage.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 10.—Mrs. Hathearne, wife of F. D. Hathearne, a farmer living near Morriston, was assassinated in the presence of her family by being shot, through a window, with a double-barrel shotgun. Thompson Wade, a negro, has been arrested.

A Russian River Disaster.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10.—A raft on the river Oka, near the village of Ozery, with 200 factory hands on board, capsized, and of the large number drowned, 42 bodies have been recovered thus far. Others are still missing.

THE MEN'S SUPPER.

A Feast for Mind as Well as Inner Man.

Ex-Mayor Fairbanks Speaks on "The Future of Wollaston."

Other Interesting Addresses by Well Known Gentlemen and Ladies.

The men's supper, which was given in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Wednesday evening, was a decided success. This was due mainly to the efforts of Mr. F. A. Page and Councilman Sprague. The supper took place at seven o'clock. For half an hour preceding the appointed time, an informal reception was held.

At seven o'clock the guests were seated around the long tables covered with immaculate napery and resplendent with cut glass, silver and choice china loaned for the occasion. Cut flowers and graceful banquet lamps decorated the tables.

It was a roast beef supper. Not that roast beef was the only dish served, but that it was the principal one. The menu opened with Cape oysters on the half shell, and then came bouillon. Other tempting dishes followed rapidly. The serving was perfect. It was in charge of Mr. W. E Simmons, Jr.

After the coffee and water crackers had been disposed of, Mr. Page, who was the chairman of the committee, called the hundred people to order and introduced Mr. W. E Simmons as the toast master of the evening.

The speeches were particularly to the point. Mrs. John H. Litchfield, Jr., spoke on "Good Books;" Mr. E. Walter Arnold upon "Music;" Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop, "The Angelus;" Rev. Blanche Pentecost Bagley, "The needs and wants of the Kindergarten school;" Mr. Walter M. Hatch, "Women's Rights;" Mr. Frederick H. Bishop, "The Unity Club;" Rev. James E. Bagley, "Why I am a Unitarian;" and Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, "The Future of Wollaston." Mrs. F. A. Page rendered in excellent taste a vocal solo.

We have taken the liberty of giving an abstract of ex-Mayor Fairbanks, speech, not because it is more meritorious than the others, but because it forshadows several important public works which are shortly to be undertaken either in that ward or in the city.

Mr. Fairbanks said in part: "The location of any village is certainly a factor in its growth, and it is hard to find any section more favorably situated than this, our home. Endowed by nature with a lavish hand, we have as a result many natural advantages. The nearness to the great city of Boston, where most of us devote the hours of the day, permits its residents to go to and fro within a short space of time, and it is reasonably safe to predict that within a few years that a four track railroad will run by our village, separating the freight traffic from the passenger service, giving us rapid transit with frequent train service, probably the use of the electric motor. The electric road is rapidly consolidating the adjacent cities and towns near Boston to the great metropolis, and it cannot be many years before another link will be laid through Milton, affording our residents additional facilities for travel.

We are well aware that many of the best minds in our state have grappled with the problem of preserving a part of the public domains for the use of the people, and as a result, parks, boulevards, roadways and playgrounds are being built and planned for the future. Some three years ago my attention was called by Boston officials to the proposed improvements near our city, asking for the cooperation of our citizens. On the Boston shores of the Neponset River it was proposed to construct a boulevard or drive, some 100 feet in width, and it was suggested that we in Quincy should take by the right of eminent domain, the land upon our side of the river, in order that in the future the proposed system be carried out. Extending this boulevard to Squantum and thence along the shores, affording a beautiful roadway on two sides of Wollaston.

As you are aware, a short time ago the beautiful Blue Hills were taken by the State as a public reservation, and now it is proposed to ask the State to construct a boulevard along the shores from Squantum to Black Creek, and thence following the brook to the Blue Hill reservation, making a most delightful roadway, which would be of immense advantage to our city and to our own section. It was also in the minds of these officials that another bridge should be thrown across the river and a wide street constructed direct to Braintree, affording another avenue from the city. So as we contemplate what must come in the future (how soon of course depends upon the times), cannot we say that Wollaston from its location is most admirably situated for a place of residence in the future.

My time is too limited to speak of the many attractions here in our midst, or of the historical association which makes this section famous in many respects. We are surrounded by the memories of the past, and furnish to our friends who visit us a rich treat, and as they visit the place where Capt. Wollaston landed on our shores in 1625, where the revels at Merry Mount occurred, where the Massachusetts Indians lived in their power, and the beautiful views from our hills, both seaward and inland, can but tempt them to say Wollaston is an ideal place.

Taking everything into consideration, the character of our citizens, our location, our attractions, cannot we predict a glorious future for Wollaston, and may we not hope that the future will bring to others happy, contented homes.

Y. M. C. A. REPORTS.

A Total Membership of 313, A Gain of 20.

The Religious, Industrial and the Physical Work.

The Raising of the Debt the Most Encouraging Feature.

Abstracts of the reports at the annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. are continued today, some having appeared yesterday in connection with the annual meeting:

The report of the committee on religious work showed aggressive progress in this department during the past year. Forty men's meetings have been held Sunday afternoons with an average attendance of 58, or a total of 2341.

It is estimated that 1750 persons attended the five open air meetings in September, an average of 350. Special meetings were held during the week of prayer for young men in November, and during a part of March and April mass meetings were held in Hancock hall.

The Bible work was a decided improvement over previous years. Evangelist Geo. S. Avery conducted the Bible class from October to January. Rev. Robert Westly Peach gave four talks on the authenticity of the Bible, and for the past six months the young men have been studying under the direction of the general secretary, the books of the New Testament. In all forty-six sessions were held with an average attendance of fifteen, or a total of 659. Two young men had been led into church membership. One personal purity talk was given with an attendance of 135.

The reception committee reported that during the winter months members of that committee had been on duty during the evenings, to act the part of host.

The Membership committee reported the total of numbers as 313, 2-5 of whom are men and 27 boys.

The total number of active members is 126, associate members 160. The membership is classified as follows: Sustaining,—Those who pay $10 or over, 98. Full,—Those who pay $5, 125; limited or $2, 63 The total membership has gained about twenty during the past year. Formerly all who contributed were considered as members, but it is thought best to only include those who desire to become members.

Seven receptions were held during the year, with an average attendance of 92. These included receptions for members, for business men, for Swedes and for Italians.

Fifty young men were enrolled in the evening industrial classes. These represented nine nationalities and the average was 22. Forty-four out of the fifty were granite men. The class enrollment was, free hand drawing, 40; monumental drawing, 29; clay modeling, 23. The fact that the association received the award of merit for North American cities under 25,000 population at the last International convention, and that by invitation an exhibit had been placed in the Mechanics' Fair reflected great credit on both pupils and the teacher, Mr. Herbert W. Beattie.

Additional classes, consisting of English for Swedes and Italians, and vocal music, has been planned for the coming year, also a Sloyd school at Wollaston for boys through the generosity of Mr. W. G. Corthell. Mr. A. J. Sidelinger of North Weymouth, the instructor in music, was presented to the audience, also Mr. Charles Sampson, the instrucor in English, both of whom made a few remarks.

The General Secretary, in his report, reviewed the work of all departments during the past year, pointing out the weak as well as the strong points, and suggesting how the work could be improved in the future.

The most encouraging feature of the past year was the raising of the debt. This has been done by hard work, coupled with an unwavering faith that it was the Lord's work. One of the practical methods used had been to curtail on some of the non essentials, but to broaden out in the essentials and by doing a broader work along religious and educational lines.

The physical work had been improved by keeping the gymnasium closed except on class nights. The officers regretted to lose Dr. E R. Johnson, the physical director, who had done such good service for the past three years, but felt that a great deal would be gained this year as Mr. J. E. Merritt, the new physical director, would give his entire time to the work. Three evenings instead of two would be given to this work.

A remarkable work had been done for the Italians during the past summer, made possible by the presence of Mr. Agide Pirazzani, the general secretary of the Rome Italy association.

The publication of "Quincy Young Men," the Association bulletin, last October marked an advance step. It has helped the Association in many ways and has been self-supporting. Many dollars could be saved if every member would subscribe for it, as it could then be admitted as second class matter in the post office.

The work for boys has been limited to the gymnasium classes and the use of the rooms in the afternoons.

During the year the Association has entertained as their guests the members of the New England Secretaries' Association, 75 in number.

Few city Associations have such a large percentage of mechanics in its membership as Quincy. The rooms should be made a helpful rendezvous for the granite men of the city, not only through the evening classes, but by having a reference library with all books helpful and all papers helpful to the trade, also photographs and drawings of statuary and monumental work, specimens of granite, in fact anything which will help to make better workmen. There is no reason why a regular trade school should not be developed.

The members of the Association should be loyal to the work, and take pride in everything which pertains to its welfare. The membership could be largely increased by each member telling his friends about the privileges and bringing them to the rooms. The young men should, so far as possible, contribute something aside from their membership fee, so that a too heavy burden should not fall upon the business men. This would encourage the latter to give when the association commences on a canvass for funds for a home of its own. This will be done as soon as the present rooms are filled to their utmost capacity, which can easily be done.

Members should remember that they are joining, not for a single year but for an unlimited time, and when they do withdraw, should send in a resignation.

The association will be run on as economical basis as possible, consistent with good work. If a short canvass was made immediately, and all would make their pledges, the board of directors and the secretary could spend their time in doing more thoroughly the work of the different departments during the year, instead of discussing methods of raising finances.

The sympathy and aid of the pastors, the kindness of the city papers, the help of the ladies and the generous contributions of the citizens should all be recognized. It was greatly regretted that the association was to lose, as President, the excellent services of Mr. Wason, who has done so much to make the work a success.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

At the board of registrars at its meeting Wednesday evening 29 males and 5 females were added to the voting list, and 7 males restored.

FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Republican Club of Massachusetts Presents the Claims of Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—At the regular October meeting of the Republican club of Massachusetts the most important business of the session was the adoption of a resolution inviting the Republican national convention to meet in this city in 1896. The following letter was prepared and ordered sent to the chairman of the national committee:

BOSTON, Oct. 9.

Hon. Thomas H. Carter, Chairman National Republican Committee, Helena, Mon.:

DEAR SIR—The Republican club of Massachusetts begs to present to your committee the claims of Boston as a place of meeting for the Republican national convention of 1896.

Boston has repeatedly shown her ability to entertain great gatherings, and the facilities for such a meeting are many. A great convention hall, capable of holding 6000 persons, ample first-class hotel accommodations, splendid railroad and telegraphic facilities, all go to make Boston an ideal convention city.

We beg that your committee will give our petition careful and earnest consideration. Should it decide to honor Boston by appointing the convention of '96 to meet here, we confidently assure you of a warm and hearty welcome from Republican New England.

Very respectfully yours,
FRANCIS H. APPLETON, President.
FORREST C. MANCHESTER, Secretary.

The Christian Endeavorers.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Oct. 10.—The closing address of the state convention of Christian Endeavorers was made last evening by President Clark, who spoke upon "God's Purpose Toward Christian Endeavor." Rev. Dr. Goodspeed of Springfield, who has been chosen president of the state association, also spoke. Junior societies' exercises were conducted by Miss Grace E. Hyde, state superintendent of that branch of Christian Endeavor. Other addresses were made by Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad of Worcester, Rev. Dr. Lorimer and Rev. E. P. Farnum.

Amelie Gets a Divorce.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—W. G. Maxwell, of the law firm of Chandler, Maxwell & Philip, is authority for the statement that a decree of divorce, on the ground of incompatibility, has been granted Mrs. Amelie Rives Chanler. There was no opposition to the decree, and nothing in the pleadings or the proceedings reflected on either of the parties. Mr. Maxwell positively declines to give any further information.

At Hot Springs, Oct. 31

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 10.—A telegram announcing that the Florida Athletic club had decided to pull off the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight here caused general rejoicing. The mill will take place on Oct. 31, as originally intended. Stuart and his associates arrived here today to arrange the details, and work will be commenced at once on a big amphitheater.

Durrant Testifies.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Theodore Durrant took the stand in his own behalf yesterday. He told a story, precisely as outlined by his counsel, of accompanying Blanche Lamont to the school on the morning she disappeared, and, describing his movements, detailed his route and arrival at the church.

To Talk to Reformers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Secretary Carlisle and Assistant Secretary Hamlin will leave here Friday for Boston, where the secretary will speak at the dinner to be given Saturday evening by the Massachusetts Reform club. Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Hamlin will stop at Gray Gables en route.

Farnham Declined.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 10.—Colonel Farnham, nominated for sheriff of Penobscot county, has notified the governor that he will be unable to accept. Charles R. Brown of Springfield was yesterday nominated as sheriff for the county, for the unexpired term, by Governor Cleaves.

Seized Tug Sold at Auction.

OTTAWA, Oct. 10.—The American fishing tug Grace, which was seized by the government cruiser Dolphin in Lake Erie in April, 1894, for illegal fishing, and condemned by the admiralty court at Toronto, has been sold at public auction for $1260, in order to satisfy a judgment.

A Bad Mixup.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The affairs of the Davis and Rankin company, the big dairy supply concern whose plant was seized on a judgment, were decidedly mixed yesterday by the appointment of two receivers in different courts. Extended litigation will probably result.

Pompadour Is Unpopular.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Nothing is known at the London clubs of any inducements being held out to Corbett and Fitzsimmons to fight in Europe. In fact, members of the National Sporting club say that Corbett would not be allowed to put his foot inside their doors.

A Youthful Carver.

WEST DERBY, N. H., Oct. 10.—Bertie Young got into a fight with a school mate yesterday, and Teacher Bean undertook to punish him. Young drew two knives on the teacher, but the knives were taken from him, Mr. Bean's hands being cut during the row.

Six Children Cremated.

TWEED, Ont., Oct. 10.—At Snider, 80 miles north of this town, a house occupied by Thomas Lindsay, his wife and 11 children, was destroyed, and six of the children were burned to death. Lindsay himself was badly burned in attempting to save the children.

Wants Milliken's Place.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 10.—A. M. Spear of Gardiner says: "Whenever the time comes for a successor to Mr. Milliken in congress, I shall, as at present advised, be a candidate for that position."

THE OLD TIME FRIENDS.

"I like to meet the old time friends," the speaker said, "for, oh!
The best part of our lives is in the days of long ago!
And memory's sun upon the past in mellowed light descends.
I want to see the scenes of old and meet the old time friends!

"Sweet memory wears them in her crown—her brightest diadem,
I stretch my arms and fain would share my heart—my all with them!
And on their love that trusting heart with tenderest love depends.
The dearest friends earth holds for me are still the old time friends!"

Then one walked weeping from the crowd—and no one sought to check,
He grasped the speaker by the hand and fell upon his neck,
And said: "I'm Jones, the grocery man—though changed and broken so.
I wish you'd add a twenty to that bill of long ago!"

Then the speaker changed the subject, and he seized a hickory stick
And shouted to the audience, "Here's a raving lunatic!"
And they trounced him, and they bounced him, and they hustled him, and, oh!
They sent him up for thirty days—that friend of long ago!

A NIGHT RIDE.

The bicycle is a queer instrument. You think you know all about it; then suddenly you find there are still things to learn. The other evening I got on my bicycle and worked my way for five or six miles through one of the prettiest lanes in England to a country village where a friend of mine lives. The lane which leads to this village is one in which I did a good deal of practicing when I first took to the bicycle some months ago. It is bordered by hedges and trees on each side and looks like a long green tunnel through which the sun sends some flittering, flickering rays down on the excellent roadway, making a sort of dancing carpet of light and shade, eternally weaving themselves together and mimicking in shadow and sunshine the interlacing of the trees above.

But there is, alas, along the side of this lane a ditch with which I have before now made acquaintance while teaching myself how to ride. It is always a pleasant experience for a bicycler to revisit a spot where he has had his conflicts with the machine. It gives him a sense of having accomplished something. I recognized all the places where I had been thrown in the ditch and where I had been thrust through the hedge. It was nice to know that these exciting days were past, and that I now rode the machine as if I were a part of it.

The lane is a lonely place at any time of the day. Broader roads and more direct ones lead to the little village I have spoken of, but whose name I need not mention. My friend proved so entertaining that I staid on and on. I was invited to stop for dinner, and I did. I was afterward censured for this, when I ultimately did reach home. People in the country, I was told, were not always prepared to receive unexpected visitors to dinner. It was not the thing to drop down with my bicycle upon a helpless man in the country and then hang around the premises until I was invited to dinner. I am always putting my foot in it this way. It makes me feel guilty afterward, but what is a man to do?

It was pitch dark when I left the house, and when I came to the entrance of the lane it was even darker than pitch, if such a thing be possible. I lit my bicycle lamp for the first time in my life. The lamp had cost me a lot of money and was said to be the best in the market, but when it tried to compete with the appalling darkness of the lane I saw what a futile thing it was. It shed a dim circle of light a long way ahead that didn't seem to me to be of much practical use. I pushed the machine along and sprang lightly on its back. Now I thought I knew how to ride perfectly, but I was to find out that riding in the broad daylight and riding in the darkness are two entirely different things. The machine gave a wabble first in one direction and then in the other and my heart came into my mouth when I found that unless I saw the wheel I did not know how to balance the concern. Sitting down a moment afterward, fortunately not on the side where the ditch was, I had some time to meditate on the situation. The wheel was on top of me, and the lamp was out. This was old times over again, and I had not even the chance in the darkness to select the spot on which to fall. I did not like the idea of trundling the machine all the way along the lane when I ought to be able to do so much better time on its back, so I rose slowly, placed the machine upright again, and relit the lamp. The lamp hung on a couple of vacillating flanges which apparently were actuated by springs and gave the lamp a wabbly motion when you joggled unexpectedly over a stone. I got once more upon the machine, this time with better success, and we went along nicely for some distance. Then I got off again. Coming along that road in the daylight the lane seemed perfectly smooth and unobstructed. Yet I suddenly came against some unseen obstacle that appeared to me as I alighted to be a bowlder lying on the road. It was in reality a stone about the size of my fist. The lamp had gone out of course simultaneously with my fall. This one I have goes out whenever I joggle over anything. I have been told that it was on account of the bad oil I was using, but I have since secured the most expensive oil in the market, an oil with a beautiful name, but the lamp joggles out just the same.

After going over the stone I saw that I had to do something definite with the lamp. I took out my handkerchief and tied down the springs, so that the disk of light touched the front wheel. This wasn't so bad, as it showed me plainly the stones in the road, but hardly in time for me to avoid them, although I did dodge some by performing acrobatic feats that usually led to the ditch. In my evolutions and anxiety about the lamp I had forgotten the existence of that ditch, but it was there just the same, lying low and saying nothing. I found it without the least trouble. The lamp went out again, of course, and I began to fear that I would not have matches enough to last until I got into the radius of street lamps. I crawled out of the ditch, righted the machine and once more applied a match to the wick. I had lost the handkerchief, but I tied the lamp down with the oiling cloth. I was bowling along at a rapid and satisfactory pace through the bright circle of light in front of me, when all at once, within an incredibly short distance, there appeared before me a young man and a young woman, strolling along together with their arms about each other's waists. Their backs were toward me, and the lamp did not shine far enough ahead to let them know I was coming. Of course, if I had had presence of mind, I could have steered around them and passed on, but they had become so suddenly silhouetted against the darkness, just as a magic lantern picture is thrown upon a screen, that the unexpected sight drove what little sense I had clear away from me, and I gave one terrific yell fit to rouse any recently dead man and flung myself from the machine. The girl complicated matters by wildly throwing her arms around the young man's neck and calling upon him to protect her, which he had no chance to do, because the next instant the machine climbed his back. We three were in a heap in that silent lane before any of us knew what had happened, and of course the lamp went out. By way of excusing myself and saying something conciliatory I shouted out:

"What in the name of the prince of darkness are you two dawdling along this lane in the middle of the night for?"

The young man intimated to me in rather harsh language that if I would be good enough to wait there until he found his stick he would show me what he was doing. However, I found my machine first, and being in an utterly reckless mood I sprang upon it without examining it to see if anything were broken or not, though I knew that no ordinary fall would injure that machine, and away I went and left them there. I did not see that any explanation on my part would help matters, so I thought it best to leave well enough alone, which I did. Little use as the lamp was I found it had its advantages, because the lane turned a short distance ahead. In fact, it was always turning, even in the daylight, although I had never noticed that particularly before, and this time I ran square into the hedge on the side opposite the ditch. I extricated the machine and once more lit the lamp. I thought perhaps it was safer not to attempt to ride any more, and so walked along, trundling the wheel, for I knew there was a bridge some distance ahead that had no parapets and I did not want to enter into an encounter with it. As I walked along beside the bicycle I saw something move on the side of the road and within the circle of light. A stalwart, unkempt tramp, who had been making the roadside his bedroom, rose up on his elbow and said menacingly:

"Say, marster, can you oblige me with a match?"

"Yes, I can," I said climbing upon my machine and putting the wheels in motion. "Get on your bicycle and we'll have a match. Come along!" He merely stood up and cursed me in loud and forcible language.

I thought my troubles well over on coming to the street lamps. I was bowling along within half a mile of my own house when suddenly a policeman stepped out into the middle of the road.

"Stop!" he cried, and having a respect for the law I stopped and got off the machine. "What are you doing," he demanded, "traveling with your lamp out?"

"Good gracious," I said, "my lamp isn't out!" but on looking around I found, alas, it was, and I had not noticed the fact, so well was the street lighted. I assured him that it had been lighted a moment before, and that it must have jogged out.

"If you will put your hand on the lamp," I said, "you will find it is quite hot."

He did so and shook his head. I touched the lamp myself, for it, when lighted, becomes uncomfortably hot (it smokes worse than I do), and, would you believe it, it was as cold as a rich relation from whom you want to borrow money.

"You will have to come with me," he said.

"Won't a cash payment down save me the trouble of appearing before a magistrate?"

"No, it won't," said the policeman. "I must do my duty."

I detest a policeman who has to do his duty, so I said:

"Oh, very well! I joggled some money out of my pocket as I dropped off. You took me so by surprise. I'm going to light my lamp and look for it."

I lit the lamp and backed the machine up a bit. The policeman kindly helped me to look for the coins, but when his back was bent I pushed my machine forward a bit and sprang on it. My lamp was lit. He blew his whistle, but I managed to turn down a side street, then down another, and so managed to get safely home. But, much as I like the bicycle, I have made up my mind that night rides are too exciting for me until I get a lamp that, like that policeman, will do its duty.—New York Advertiser.

Canaries.

Sometimes a canary's coat gets a pale, sickly yellow. Give him half an ounce of ground red pepper such as is used on your table, and let the bird eat it as he likes. In a week he'll turn a beautiful orange color. Bird lice are troublesome at times. A pinch of powdered saffron put under the wings will drive away the pests. Gravel in the cage every day and a dish of tepid water for a bath every other day are indispensable to the singer's health and happiness.—Boston Advertiser.

My Little Boy That Died.

Look at his pretty face for just one minute,
His braided frock and dainty buttoned shoes,
His firm shut hand, the favorite plaything in it,
Then tell me, mothers, was it not hard to lose
And miss him from my side,
My little boy that died?

How many another boy as dear and charming,
His father's hope, his mother's one delight,
Slips through strange sicknesses, all fear disarming,
And lives a long, long life in parents' sight.
Mine was so short a pride,
And then—my poor boy died.

I see him rocking on his wooden charger,
I hear him pattering through the house all day,
I watch his great blue eyes grow large and larger,
Listening to stories, whether grave or gay,
Told at the bright fireside,
So dark now since he died.

But yet I often think my boy is living,
As living as my other children are.
When good night kisses I around am giving,
I keep one for him, though he is so far.
Can a mere grave divide
Me from him, though he died?

So, while I come and plant it o'er with daisies
(Nothing but childish daisies all year round),
Continually God's hand the curtain raises,
And I can hear the merry voices sound
And feel him at my side,
My little boy that died.

PLEA FOR SUFFRAGE.

Mrs. Ellen B. Dietrick Tells Why Women Should Ask For It.

Gives a Reply to Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer.

Claims That Disfranchisement Is a Dishonor In a Democracy.

Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer's several articles opposing self-government of women betray that this fluent writer has allowed her mind to be confused by words, instead of setting it to work upon the real things behind the words. If she had reflected that "suffrage" is the necessary symbol of self-government; that enfranchisement is an honor, disfranchisement a dishonor in a democracy; that the "state" is simply an association of women and men, and that "politics" is only a convenient term for the joint affairs of these men and women; that women, as half of the people, are morally entitled to the use of the vote in a government which explicitly professes to be a government of the people, by the people themselves, then Mrs. Van Rensselaer would have saved herself from the fallacies set forth in her objections to woman suffrage. Her first point is that:

1. Woman suffrage has never been tested in any way which indicates how it would work in our eastern states; that the experience of Colorado and New Zealand is too brief, and that of scantily populated Wyoming under too dissimilar conditions to prove anything with regard to New York or Massachusetts.

But Mrs. Van Rensselaer ignores the fact that Great Britain (whose cities have precisely the same problems found in American municipalities) has had a quarter of a century's experience in woman suffrage, and that throughout the whole of these 25 years English city government has as steadily improved under the joint work and council of men and women as American city government has retrograded under the sole management of men. This fact all students of municipal government admit. As women are the complement of men, as their training fits them for certain departments of municipal business, for which men's special training does not fit men, this result of men's and women's joint work in political affairs is just what might have been anticipated. Ruskin well expresses their respective roles in political life in his "Sesame and Lilies," showing how man's work in the state corresponds to his work for the home, and how, likewise, woman's political responsibility corresponds to her domestic duties; how in the state work, as in the home, woman is needed as a mirror of beauty, a center of order and economy and a balm for distress, while man is better fitted for other things, the part of each being equal in importance, though dissimilar in detail. Surely every thoughtful person will see that, with 25 years of English woman suffrage before us, it is absurd for Mrs. Van Rensselaer now to declare that woman suffrage in New York and Massachusetts would "mean an innovation of unparalleled significance with regard to the future of our women and of our men, with regard to our political course, our social conditions and the status of the home and family." The experiment of our mother country has amply demonstrated that woman suffrage is no risk whatever, but a public good. Common sense asks, "Why should the legally expressed opinions of women seem a dangerous or monstrous thing?"

Secondly, Mrs. Van Rensselaer argues that:

2. "The power to take direct, active part in political life is not a right in the true sense of the word. * * * Our constitutions, our systems of law, our political beliefs, do not include the power to vote among the indisputable rights even of masculine humanity. * * * Expediency, not right, is the basis of the suffrage."

The truth is, however, exactly the reverse of this argument. Our only reason for existence as a distinct, self-governing people is set forth in the declaration of rights, formally adopted by the continental congress of 1774. Therein we find the affirmation that "the foundation of English liberty and of all free government is a right in the people to participate in their legislative council," an affirmation which distinctly recognizes, not expediency, but an inborn, personal right of suffrage, for without the suffrage no people can participate in their legislative council. The men who wrote that clause clearly perceived that the possession and use of the suffrage is the inevitable price that must be paid for freedom. Our experience during the past century demonstrates that our enslavement by political tricksters and "ward bosses" grows out of too little use of suffrage by the half of the people who now possess the right to use it, joined to compulsory dispossession of the other half of the people, who ought to be trained to prize the vote and to conscientiously exercise it. We are now enabled to pronounce the subjection of one-half the people a failure, and common sense dictates the advisability of trying what true and full self-government of the whole people can do for the improvement of our bad political condition.

Self-government is the ultimate goal of the race, and toward that mankind is steadily marching. Every wise kindergartener now knows that even babies may be trained to self-government, self-direction, self-control, with results far more satisfactory than were ever obtained under the regime of arbitrary parental rule. Such being the case, it is as vain to oppose the legalized self-government of sane womanhood as it would be to fight against the revolution of the globe.

Women must remember that their own enfranchisement, as half of the people, is therefore a question of principle, of right, of fundamental law; that, sweet as the childishness of subjected and protected life may be, the woman who is no longer a child must put away childish things, and nobly recognize the responsibility of citizenship, which no citizen, male or female, can get rid of, however much it may be denied, neglected or ignored. The municipal vote is a sacred trust, inseparable from residence in a municipality, and its neglect must be paid for in municipal evil, misery, discomfort, wretchedness and crime, the suffering of the young, the weak and the poor being commensurate with the selfish apathy of the silly women who shove the whole load of political life upon the overburdened shoulders of men.

For these reasons, all noble women should work for the enfranchisement of their sex, accepting the suffrage, not only as a right, but as a high and sacred duty and a proud privilege, symbolical of all that is politically good and free.

ELLEN BATTELLE DIETRICK.

MERITS OF THE RAISIN.

It Has Great Nutritious As Well as Medicinal Properties.

As the grape cure has made its way into modern methods of dealing with disease—hundreds filling the German establishments where this return to nature is practiced—many a patient who has found himself made over by the treatment has added to it a use of the dried grape or raisin. Fruit of all sorts is becoming more and more a part of the regular food supply, and a growing constituency of people announce themselves as believers in a diet of fruit and nuts. Leaving these extremists out of the present question, it is certain that health increases for whoever substitutes fruit, both fresh and dried, for a large part of the ordinary diet in daily use. One of our best literary workers has found that a bunch of good raisins with a slice of bread or a crisp cracker or two makes a lunch that is not only satisfactory, but leaves the brain clear for the afternoon's work. Even in the days of our forefathers the Muscatel raisins, called so perhaps from the Musca grape, brought by the Moors from their African homes into Spain, were credited with a special recuperative force, and known as "raysons of the sun." They were part of the equipage of a last illness. Saffron water and these "raysons of the sun" were side by side on the neat little table, which held also the big Bible reserved for solemn occasions, all three reminding the sufferer that he or she had done with the ordinary fare of mortal life.

But there need be no such somber association with the raisin of today, our own California providing at its best a rich fruity raisin, sun dried, of course, yet not so much dried as distilled, all the watery parts being driven off and the richer qualities of the grape developed in nature's own alembic. These raisins, with whole wheat bread, make a genuine food, good for child as well as man and hailed by the children with acclamation. The need for sugar—an instinct with children—is met in raisins or dates in infinitely more healthy fashion than in any other order of sweet, and the child who has full provision of such fruits makes no demand for candy or cake.

The best California raisins are now cheap enough to be within the means of all, and their use is steadily increasing. A set of young lawyers in New York have adopted fruit as a lunch, finding that work can go on with none of the sense of heaviness produced by the ordinary meal, and raisins have been introduced as one of the most satisfying forms.—Philadelphia Press.

INDIAN DOGS.

They Have No Love For the White Man and Show It.

Kickapoo Indians are very fond of dogs, both alive and fricaseed. Around their tepees, or wickiups, or Queen Annes, or whatever they call their abodes, there are always half a dozen wolfish dogs. An Indian dog hates a white man as far as he can see him and loves an Indian as far as he can smell him, and that is saying a good deal.

When a white man driving through the Kickapoo country sees a dog by the roadside, his natural impulse is to whistle in a friendly way, for somehow in a wilderness of prairie or forest a dog is a comfortable sight.

But the instant you whistle to an Indian dog he turns his tail and is out of sight quicker than if he had been kicked. An Indian never whistles to his dog when he wants his beast to come to him; he places his tongue against his teeth and hisses.

The colored population of Oklahoma have almost as many dogs as the Indians. Those who live in the blackjack sand hills are dog rich. These dogs have a deep rooted aversion for the white man also. When an old colored cotton planter comes to town, some of the dogs are sure to follow, and when the old man walks up town the dog stays right between his feet like a country dog under a wagon. And whenever a white man comes within snapping distance the dog gets busy.—Kansas City Star.

A Question of Wills.

The making of one's will is hardly to be ranked among the pleasant duties of life. "My will," says Slender, "I never made my will yet, I thank heaven. I am not such a sickly creature, I give heaven praise." So also Dame Quickly, when considering Falstaff's spiritual concerns, hopes that "it isn't time to think of making a will yet." When David Garrick ostentatiously displayed to the great lexicographer his pictures, china, rare books and furniture at Hampton Court, the sage exclaimed, "Ah, David, David, these are the things that make a deathbed terrible!"

A story is told of a dying miser, by whose bedside sat the lawyer, receiving instructions for the preparation of his last will and testament. "I give and bequeath," repeated the attorney aloud, as he commenced to write the accustomed formula. "No, no," interrupted the sick man, "I will neither give nor bqueath anything; I cannot do it." "Well, then," suggested the man of law, after a few moments' consideration, "suppose we say lend. 'I lend until the last day.'" "Yes, that will do better," assented the unwilling testator. —Temple Bar.

Wanted a Change.

An Irishman of the Dublin city artillery militia was admitted for treatment in the Stokes hospital. Pat was rather displeased with being ordered "milk diet," and applying to the ward master for a change was directed to mention the matter to the doctor attending him.

Next morning he was greeted by the doctor with the usual, "Well, and how are you this morning, my man?"

Guess the doctor's surprise when Pat replied:

"I'd thank ye, sorr, if you'd change me doiet. Sure I was weaned off milk when I was noine months ould."—Life's Calendar.

"AN ELECTION TRICK"

Formed the Foundation of the Woes of Mr. Sackville-West.

International Contests as Incidental Side Issue.

How the Sensational Pamphlet Is Looked Upon by Washington Officials.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The statements made by Lord Sackville, who, as Sir Lionel Sackville-West, was the British minister at Washington in 1881-89, in a pamphlet marked "For private circulation only," have caused amazement in diplomatic circles. Truth, commenting upon the statements made, says:

Whether courteous or judicious for Lord Sackville to publish this attack when Mr. Bayard is ambassador in London is a debateable question, to which it may, however, reasonably be replied that Mr. Bayard was immeasureably more discourteous and injudicious in his behavior toward Sackville-West when the latter was at Washington. Mr. Bayard, therefore, would be mean to complain of this point. But the matter acquires exceptional interest when it is considered side by side with a recent dispute regarding the race for the America's cup.

It should be remembered that Sackville-West was the victim of an election trick. An indiscreet expression of opinion upon his part was exaggerated for the purpose of exciting anti-English agitation. The trick was successful, and Sackville-West was handed his papers. England, in the person of her envoy, was grossly and wantonly insulted. Mr. Cleveland, however, failed to secure the election.

In our relations with America, experiences teaches us always to be on the alert. This has made the English, perhaps, over-suspicious, and, being so, they possibly imagine trickery where it does not exist. For this reason it is especially advisable that international contests be discontinued until this impression is removed or the Americans realize that they are sufficiently strong to depend upon themselves without the support of sharp practice.

The two nations are very nearly allied, and everything should be done on both sides of the Atlantic to unite them more closely. Both nations have much in common. In America they have our peers, and in England we have their heiresses.

A reporter called upon Ambassador Bayard, who is the guest of the Marquis of Bath at Longleat, in reference to the attack made upon him by Lord Sackville. Mr. Bayard said that the matter was entirely out of his hands, and was contained in the official diplomatic correspondence exchanged between Great Britain and the United States in 1888. Mr. Bayard added that he would say nothing more.

LACK FOUNDATION.

Ex-Minister's Statements Differ From Views Expressed In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The extracts from the pamphlet printed by Lord Sackville-West divulging his diplomatic career in this country, which ended in his being summarily given his passports in the fall of 1888, after the publication of the Murchison letter, have attracted great attention here, and it is thought that Minister Bayard, who was so severely scored in the publication, may ask the state department to make complaint against Lord Sackville-West. The latter, although retired, is on the pension list of the British government.

J. C. B. Davis, who was first assistant secretary of state under Frelinghuysen, and whose conversations Lord Sackville repeats, made the following statement yesterday:

"I appear in the account twice. Once in connection with an alleged request made by Secretary Frelinghuysen for the release of imprisoned Irish suspects, and once as receiving information from Lord Granville of an alleged Irish conspiracy to take Lord Sackville's life.

"In regard to the first, what took place between the two governments was this: Mr. Frelinghuysen, by direction of the president, instructed Mr. Lowell to ask Lord Granville to have the lord lieutenant of Ireland instructed to exercise the discretion reposed in him by law to order an immediate trial of the prisoners, who had been imprisoned without trial many months. This request, when pressed, brought about the release of all the prisoners. I cannot recall that I had any conversation with the British minister on that subject; but, as his account appears to have been a contemporaneous one, it is probably substantially correct.

"In regard to the conspiracy against Sir Lionel's life, this is the first that I have heard of it. The telegram which the account says was sent to the assistant secretary—perhaps an error for the secretary—never reached me."

Mr. Davis added that he never knew that any representation should be made that Lord Lionel's life was endangered, and had never heard before that he had been taken on a 10 days' cruise by General Sherman to avoid possible violence to his person.

From semi-official sources the following explanation is given of what took place at the time of the passage of the crimes act in 1882. The Irish suspects had been imprisoned under the orders of Mr. Foster, then secretary for Ireland, but no disposition was made to bring them to trial, Mr. Foster's policy being to hold them in prison as suspects. The British parliament endorsed that policy by the passage of the crimes act, which empowered the lord lieutenant of Ireland to hold suspects prisoners until he chose to place them on trial.

There was a great outcry in this country against the crimes act. As month after month passed without a trial, it was believed that under it the prisoners could be held for life without trial. President Arthur, in response to this sentiment, did not demand the release of the prisoners, but he requested Lord Granville to have the lord lieutenant of Ireland exercise the discretion reposed in him by the crimes act, and either release or bring the prisoners to trial.

Within two weeks after that request was preferred, the suspects were all released, and Mr. Foster, whose policy had been overruled, had resigned from the British cabinet.

SWITHIN BROS.,
Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dall estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Parlor Sets.

No, everyone isn't buying Parlor Furniture at the present time, but you'd think so if you only watch our delivery wagons. Of course the price has much to do with it—we mean it should. Now don't tell all your neighbors, for we won't have half enough to go round, and perhaps you may be the one to get left. Here they are. Silk Brocatelle, overstuffed, spring edge, full fringed, elegant Parlor Sets—look as though they cost $100.00. While they last our price to everyone is $45.00. Other sets at any price you say.

Arthur Guertin Slashes Ella Greenwood's Throat With a Razor.

Card Players Present Did Not Interfere.

Unfortunate Victim Not Likely to Recover From Her Injuries.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 11.—Shortly after 5 o'clock last evening GeneGifford, Sadie Bell, David Helm, colored, and a man whose name is unknown, were engaged in card playing in the house 245 Chancery street. In the room were Arthur Guertin, a Frenchman, and a woman who lived with him under the name of Ella Greenwood.

Without warning Guertin seized the Greenwood woman, carried her into a bedroom adjoining the kitchen, where the card playing was in progress, threw her across the bed and cut her in the neck with a razor, the wound extending from the back nearly to the front on the left side.

It was done so quickly that the people in the house did not realize what was going on, and only came to their senses when Guertin

Escaped by the Back Door.

As Guertin left the house the woman appeared in the doorway of the bedroom, a stream of blood flowing from the awful wound in her neck. The men of the party fled.

Sadie Bell notified Officer Williams, who at once notified Dr. Carter. The doctor took 17 stitches in the wound. The razor just grazed the jugular, and the woman is in such a critical condition that the services of a priest were called. He administered the rites of the Catholic church.

The unfortunate woman admitted that Guertin did the deed, and the only cause she could assign was jealousy. When he seized her she was talking with Helm.

Sadie Bell has been retained as a witness, but the others of the party have not yet been found. All the persons in the house had been drinking.

Three weeks ago Guertin was before the district court for assault on the woman.

WALTHAM AND HAVERHILL

Listen to Claims Put Forth by Candidates For the Governorship.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—The Republicans of Waltham held a rally last evening, at which Governor Greenhalge, General Champlain and R. C. Sarbridge were the speakers. Governor Greenhalge referred to the manner in which the Republican party had achieved a reputation for honesty and ability in both state and national affairs, and urged that nothing should be done to in any way detract from the honorable record. Concerning his administration, he said: "I have made several mistakes in my life, but I have done the best I know how. I know I have made mistakes, because at the last Republican convention all matters were not one-sided."

Candidate Williams and Josiah Quincy addressed a Democratic rally at Haverhill last night. Mr. Quincy spoke at length on national affairs, and said he believed the tariff policy of this country was settled for many years to come. Far from the predicted disaster, he said, prosperity has followed the passage of the tariff bill. Mr. Williams branded the Republican platform as shifty and evasive, and charged that the Republican candidate for governor was conducting a campaign on personal merits, declining to discuss his own platform. He concluded by making a fierce attack on the power of corporations in the legislature.

An Immigration Romance.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—When the steamer Cephalonia arrived on Sunday Immigration Commissioner Delehanty refused to allow a young widow named Maria Betlselkonger, a Finn, to land, on the ground that she had no way of providing for herself in this country. The woman sent for William Honkoner of Fitchburg, a native of Finland. He had never seen Maria, but the two had carried on a correspondence for several months. He said that he was willing to marry Maria if she were allowed to land. The commissioner agreed, and Rev. Mr. Woods performed the ceremony aboard the boat.

May Be Illegal.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Richard Sullivan was nominated for senator in the Eighth Suffolk district last night on a ballot which, it is claimed, may be declared illegal by the election commissioners. There was a sharp contest between Sullivan and D. E. Cochrane, and in the final ballot Sullivan received 29 votes to Cochrane's 23. A ballot was found marked on both sides, however, which, it is claimed, rendered the entire ballot illegal. The matter will be taken before the ballot commissioners for decision.

One Delegation Barred.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Oct. 11.—The 19th annual convention of the Father Mathew's societies of the Springfield Diocesan union was held here yesterday. The delegates from the society at Adams were refused admittance to the convention, because that society had no spiritual adviser. The secretary's report showed that there had been a gain of two societies and 276 members since last year, the total membership now being 3997.

A Late Discovery.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 11.—Trial Justice McManus of Cape Elizabeth yesterday began suit for an annulment of marriage and a legal separation from his wife. He claims that he married the woman in 1881 and lived with her until last month, when he discovered that her former husband, Henry Anderson, from whom she had been divorced, and whom she said was dead, was in reality alive.

Mrs. Chace Suits Them.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 11. — The annual meeting of the Rhode Island Women's Suffrage association yesterday was of particular interest, being the 25th anniversary of the election as president of Mrs. E. B. Chace, who was re-elected yesterday. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. Julia W. Howe, William L. Garrison, Mary F. Eastman and Henry B. Blackwell.

Women Feel Encouraged.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 11.—It was decided yesterday to raise $50,000 instead of $20,000 to build the new woman's college buildings at Brown university. The decision was reached at a meeting of the women interested, including 35 women who have already collected $20,000. Their labors met such a ready response that they determined to raise the $30,000 extra.

From Carroll to Fook.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Annie A. Carroll of Boston, divorced wife of James Carroll, was married yesterday in this city, by Rev. Charles W. Plummer, to Moy Fook, a Chinese laundryman, also of Boston. Mrs. Fook is the daughter of John Dunbar of Peterboro, N. H., and is only 21 years of age. Moy Fook appears to be about 35.

Bell Is Needed.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 11.—Steamer Cottage City reports that the bell has disappeared from the buoy marking the entrance of the slue of Pollock Rip, and the steamer Manhattan reported last week that the bell had ceased ringing. Sea captains declare that an effective bell at that point is essential for the safety of navigation.

In Need of Repairs.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 11. — Two schooners put in here yesterday for repairs, having been in collision off Thatcher's island. They were the Annie E. Lane of this port and the Maud B. Wetherell of Portland, Me. The crew of the Lane claim that the collision was due to the fact that the Wetherell showed no lights.

Temperance Folks Stoned.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 11.—During a parade of the Mathew's Temperance institute and the Reform club last night, in celebration of Father Mathew's birthday, the Reform club were stoned while passing through Cross street. Several paraders were slightly hurt. The stones were thrown by young hoodlums.

Doutney Under Arrest.

BEVERLY, Mass., Oct. 11.—Thomas N. Doutney, the temperance reformer, who has been given considerable notoriety by being denounced by Rev. W. A. Thurston of the Methodist church, was arrested for assault on Rev. Mr. Thurston by a blow under the eye. He gave bail and the case will be tried later.

Christian Students.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 11.—A largely attended meeting of the Harvard religious organizations, including the Harvard Religious society, the Y. M. C. A., the St. Paul's society and the Catholic club, was held in the Frost Art museum last evening. Speeches were made by President Eliot and many others.

Gibson Skipped.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 11.—A court-martial was convened here yesterday for the trial of William Gibson of the U. S. S. Fern, on charge of forgery. Word was received during the forenoon that he had escaped from the United States receiving ship Vermont at New York, where he was in custody.

Senator Gilbride Dead.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—State Senator M. B. Gilbride died at 1 o'clock yesterday. He had been down with typhoid fever at his home for two weeks, but it was generally expected that he would recover. He was but 29 years of age, and a young man of promise, not only in politics, but also in business.

Encountered Rough Weather.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Captain Mayne of the British iron bark Camphill, from Tocapilla, Chili, reports that he was 14 days off Cape Horn, during which time he experienced heavy gales, accompanied by blinding snowstorms. Many sails were blown away in another gale off Bermuda.

Bleeding Burglar.

KEENE, N. H., Oct. 11. — Dan McCaughery, the burglar wounded at Marlboro last week while entering a house, is in hiding near Hinsdale, and is badly wounded, suffering from internal bleeding. The officials are in ignorance of his exact whereabouts.

Tyler Outdone.

HARTFORD, Oct. 11.—P. J. Berlo yesterday made a new world's record for a bicycle mile, flying start, covering the distance in 1:46 4-5. The former record—1:47 3-5—was made by Harry Tyler.

Cut His Throat.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Walter F. Cobb, aged 85, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by cutting his throat. Mr. Cobb was known in society circles. No cause is assigned for the rash act.

The minimum initiation fee in jurisdictions of the order under the castle was changed from $5 to $3. The limit of age of those entitled to be admitted to the title of the death fund was changed so as to make it from 18 to 50.

ARMES IS DISCHARGED.

His Arrest "Unwarranted, Illegal, Unjust and Tyrannical."

General Schofield Scored by Judge Bradley.

A Decision of Highly Important Interest to All of the Army.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—War department officials are much disappointed and chagrined at the decision of Judge Bradley in the Armes case. Secretary Lamont refuses to say what his purpose is, but it is inferred, in view of the breadth of the decision, that no attempt will be made to try the captain by court-martial pending the action of the appellate court upon an appeal noted.

JUDGE BRADLEY.

The case has outgrown its original importance, in view of the court's action yesterday, and now becomes of absorbing interest to all of the army, involving, as it is said to do, the whole question of the amenability of retired officers to discipline.

Captain Armes was arrested for sending to General Schofield what he held was a threatening letter, and, as a matter of army discipline, he ordered the sender's confinement.

The Decision.

Judge Bradley yesterday ordered the discharge of Major Armes from the custody of the military authorities, by whom he was held under orders of General Schofield, as acting secretary of war.

Reviewing the facts of the case, the court said that Major Armes' arrest and confinement were in violation, not only of the spirit, but the letter of the army regulations, and that in whatever capacity General Schofield may have acted, be it either as lieutenant general of the army or secretary of war, his action was unwarranted, illegal, unjust and tyrannical. The prisoner was entitled to his discharge, and such an order was issued.

Judge Bradley expressly recognized the right to court-martial a retired army officer, saying: "By section 1256 of the revised statutes of the United States, he is subject to the rules and articles of war, and to trial by general court-martial for any breach thereof," and he declared that arrest was not essential to a court-martial.

Speaking of the letter written to General Schofield by Armes, he cited the articles of war relative to complaints by officers and men and said: "This was a personal and a private communication to that officer. It makes grave charges of persecution, injustice, wrong, and unjust and improper official action by General Schofield to the petitioner. If these charges were true, would their making public be conduct unbecoming an officer and agreement, or conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline? If the petitioner believed or thought that they were founded on fact, would it be such conduct?

"Is it possible that an officer in active service may lawfully seek redress from the commanding officer of his regiment, who, he thinks, has wronged him, and that a common soldier may lawfully complain of an officer if he thinks himself wronged by him, but a retired officer, out of active service, engaged in the pursuits of civil life, cannot complain to the general commanding the army of wrongs that he thinks or believes that general has inflicted upon him, without being subjected to summary arrest and incarceration and ultimate trial by court-martial? If so, then there is a rigid unwritten discrimination against such an officer that should receive early attention and righting from our national legislature."

The war department officials were naturally much disappointed and chagrined at the decision of Judge Bradley in the Armes case. Secretary Lamont refused to say what his purpose was, but it is inferred, in view of the breadth of the decision, that no attempt will be made to try the captain by court-martial pending the action of the appellate court upon the appeal noted.

For Courts to Untangle.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Charges of a serious nature are made against the officers of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life association of New York in a bill filed by policy holders yesterday afternoon for the purpose of enjoining the company from declaring their policies lapsed, owing to a dispute which has arisen and which the courts are called upon to settle.

Free From Cholera.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A dispatch from Captain Read of the United States steamer Olympia, dated Lohaina Marei, Hawaii, Sept. 17, states that the health of the officers and men on both the Olympia and Bennington is good, and that there is no cholera on the Bennington.

Fourteen Men Drowned.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Steamer Napier of North Shields has arrived here with 10 of the crew of the steamer Livonia of Leith, which was sunk by collision with the Napier off the island of Aaland. Fourteen of the Livonia's crew were drowned.

Visiting Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Mr. Kurino, the Japanese minister, in an interview, denied that Japan harbored designs looking to the control of the Hawaiian Islands, as asserted in recently published reports.

Messrs. A. E. Foster, C. M. Jenness and George McFarlane start today for a two weeks' hunting trip in the woods of Maine.

Work has been commenced moving the street railway tracks from the sides to the centre of Franklin street, between School and Water streets.

The O'Connell Hurling club held a social dance at Hancock hall on Thursday evening, which was quite largely attended and a good time enjoyed.

Prayer meeting of the Calvary Baptist church, Doble's hall, Franklin street, tonight at 7.30 o'clock. This meeting will be a blessing to those coming with that expectation.

Some changes in the Old Colony timetable will be made on Sunday. The 6.07 and 9 P. M. inward trains on Sundays will be discontinued, also the 9.15 A. M. out. On week days the 9.21 A. M. inward will be dropped, and there are minor changes in time.

Money Missing.

Michael McGovern reports to the police that he is from $300 to $400 out. It seems he collected the above amount in Boston Tuesday and when he returned to Quincy he made quite free in showing his roll. That night he entertained at his home and when he was put to bed by his friends they say they rolled up his vest containing the money and put it under his pillow. When he awoke in the morning the money was gone and Michael wants the police to find it.

Wollaston Sociable.

The winter's series of sociables at the Wollaston Congregational church was opened auspiciously on Thursday evening. The attendance was large. A substantial supper was served to a large number. The exhibition of the "Works of old Masters" attracted a goodly number of people. It a very clever idea. It consisted of old daguerrotypes and photographs of members of the society. Ice cream and cake were served at the conclusion of the evening's entertainment.

HISTORICAL ROOMS.

A Large Collection of Relics Now on Exhibition.

The Quincy Society Well Established in Adams Building.

An Address at the Opening by Mr. Edward H. Dewson.

There was a good attendance at the stated meeting of the Quincy Historical society held Thursday evening in the Probate Court room.

In the absence of the president, Mr. Samuel A. Bates, vice president of the society, presided and introduced Mr. E. H. Dewson who read an interesting paper on the "Tanning Industry of the South Shore," which was in fact a general paper which took in the shore towns of Massachusetts, which also included the old town of Braintree.

Previous to the meeting the new rooms in No. 7 Adams building were opened for the first time for the inspection of the members of the society and invited guests, and a very interesting and profitable hour was thus spent in examining the many things collected, of historical interest. A brief mention of what met the visitors eye will not be out of place.

First, there is the accession book of the society in which a complete record is kept of all donations received by the librarian, showing a total of 568 bound volumes and pamphlets, that are arranged on shelves that occupy nearly the whole of one side of the room, consisting principally of town histories, published town records of births, deaths and marriages, family genealogies, and publications of the historical societies in the United States; some of the above being now out of print and of great value. The oldest book in the collection is one entitled "The Psalms of David," bearing date of being printed in 1718.

The list also includes a large number of old school and singing books, of which a complete collection is being made. Complete files are also kept of all the old Braintree local publications, including newspapers, town reports, church manuals, sermons and discourses.

The back files are however, not complete and copies are desired from the towns of Braintree, Holbrook, Randolph or Quincy, which towns constituted the old town of Braintree.

On the walls are many frames containing engravings of John Adams, John Quincy Adams, John Hancock, George Washington, Edward Everett, Rev. William P. Lunt and photographs of the president and vice president of the society.

Also old manuscript containing the signatures of such noted characters as the Adamses, Josiah Quincy, Dr. Thomas Phipps and Thomas Phipps, Jr., Cotton Tufts, Abigail Adams and others.

Suspended from the centre of the room is a large banner inscribed, "Harrison and Tyler," containing Harrison's portrait in oil by Mr. Thomas Hinkley, once a celebrated artist of Quincy, which was carried by the enthusiastic supporters of these candidates in the campaign of 1840.

Prominently distributed about the room are relics of the revolutionary period, including guns, uniforms, colonial hats, etc.

On the mantel over the fire place are two samples of green junk bottles manufactured at the first glass works in America, in that part of Quincy now known as Germantown, which was fully 150 years ago.

Also a tinder box and steel of ancient age, accompanied by a home-made brimestone match, a fluid lamp, with glass pendants, used many years ago by a young Quincy bride, an Indian pestle stone, dug up in Water street, a certificate of four shares of stock of the Quincy Point and Germantown Ferry Co., with the company's seal, an old leather fire bucket bearing the date of 1800 which formerly hung in the Adams mansion; it being one of the donations of that amiable granddaughter of President John Adams, Miss Elizabeth C. Adams.

Below the mantle there is an old fashioned tin kitchen, in which many fowl have undoubtedly been cooked to a turn in the old Briesler house.

One of the first sewing machines that was used many years ago by Saville Bros. in their manufacturing business in this city occupies a prominent place in the room.

Many other articles are also to be seen, not the least of which is the old green silk umbrella with its elaborate brass tips of cumbersome manufacture.

The many people who took advantage of the opening to visit the rooms were loud in their praises, and were surprised at the extent of the collection which had been accumulated in the two year's time the society had been formed.

Every article is plainly marked with the name of donor and date of gift, which will in many cases be the only reminder left one hundred years from now of some of our old citizens. It is hoped that all who have in their possession articles of an antiquarian nature will not carelessly destroy them but will present them to the society for preservation.

In closing, attention should be called to a sign prominently displayed which read as follows:

STANDING ROOM ONLY.

No donation having been received of antique furniture, visitors are requested to make themselves comfortable by standing.

THE LIBRARIAN.

The writer can attest to the truth of the above as the librarian borrowed a chair from a neighboring office for our use while writing the above while others present remained standing.

Thayer Academy.

The football eleven played their second game this week Wednesday with the second eleven of the Brockton Y. M. C. A. The grounds were at Campello. The halves were twenty-five minutes in length with Yale rules in the first and Harvard in the second half. The Brockton team had the kick-off which gave the Thayer Academy the ball at the start. After the ball was pushed up and down the field for some time the Academy boys began to work the criss-cross for good gains. Gannon after a beautiful run landed the ball just behind the goal posts. Arnold kicked a goal easily making the score 6-0 in favor of Thayer. In the second half Brockton's much greater weight began to tell for toward the end they made a touchdown, but could not kick a goal. The line up was as follows:

Thayer.		Brockton.
Waite	le.	Chase
Rogers	lt.	Beaudry
Stevens	lg.	Witherill
Harriman	c.	Cobb
Clinton	rg.	Stevens
Sampson	rt.	McDonald
Heywood	re.	Leavitt
Orcutt	qb.	Leach
Gannon	lhb.	Packard
Hayden	rhb.	Jones
Arnold	fb.	Manley

Score—Thayer Academy, 6; Brockton, 4.
Referee—Fuller.
Linesman—Smith.
Umpire—L. Hayden.

On the way home in the train the football team had some fun jolling a bride and groom who got on board at Brockton amid a shower of rice.

Mr. F. A. Hill, Secretary of the State Board of Education was shown over the Academy and Glover building on Wednesday. He was accompanied by his wife and several friends.

Physical Training has begun in the girl's gymnasium. The boys will begin their class work as soon as they are all measured.

THE BICYCLE PARADE.

The Wollaston and Shawmut Clubs Make a Brilliant Spectacle.

About 60 wheelmen participated in the Wollaston Cycle club's parade on Thursday evening. It was a brilliant spectacle and reflected credit upon the committee of arrangements,—Messrs. George W. Brown, H. C. Seymour, Ed. H. Riley, Howard W. Haskins and James Thomas.

The Shawmut club of Dorchester under Capt. McRoberts were guests of the Wollaston club, and paraded with them.

At 8.30 bugler Rachie sounded the assemble and in a few minutes after that time the procession started, officered by Capt. Ed. H. Riley, 1st Lieut. Al. Stevenson, 2d Lieut. James Thomas and Ensign Harry Stevenson. It paraded through the principal streets of the ward and went to City Square, Quincy. A collation was served at its conclusion. The Quincy City band gave a concert at the hotel during the evening.

The machines were elaborately decorated. One of the prettiest ones was that of Herbert H. Thompson, which was made to represent a chariot; extended in front of the handle bars there was a large sea gull with outstretched wings, with a lantern in his mouth. George W. and Henry Brown rode there machines tandem, drawing a small wagon surmounted by a transparency.

Among the other riders were noticed: Charles E. Merrill, George S. Baker, Charles V. Lawlor, John Cullen, Joseph Jacobs, George Morris, Edmund F. McMasters, William Ball, Howard L. Haskins, A. T. Hirtle, William Whall, Joseph Bonner, William Cotter, Noris Buckler, Joseph A. Mitchell, John Tirrell, F. J. Aulback, Monte Winship, James Colligan, J. H. Whitehead.

—The Brockton Enterprise shows in its window a freak of nature brought in by Stephen H. Leonard. It is an ear of corn topped with a well defined human hand showing the four fingers and thumb.

A Mother's Report

"Hood's Sarsaparilla, is an excellent medicine. I have taken it for catarrh and impure blood and it has given me a good appetite and strength. My husband has also taken it and he is now in good health. When he feels a little run down he gets a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before it is gone he is all right and is able to work all the time. I give it to my baby occasionally, and we have never had to have a doctor attend her." MRS. E. K. WARREN, Greenfield, N. H., Box 34.

Democratic Caucuses Held in Each Ward of the City,

To Elect Delegates to a Representative Convention.

Again last evening the Democrats of the city met in caucus in their respective wards, and choose delegates to a Representative Convention.

WARD ONE.

Paul R. Blackmur was chairman, and Thomas J. McGrath, secretary. The following delegates were chosen:—Charles F. Adams, 2d, Fred F. Green, William G. A. Pattee and Thomas J. McGrath.

The Ward One delegation is to present the name of Dr. William Everett to the Representative convention, he having signified his willingness to the caucus, through Chairman Blackmur to accept the nomination.

WARD TWO.

James Collins was chosen chairman and James F. Foy, secretary.

W. H. Sampson, Jr., and James Logan were appointed committee on ballot. James F. Foy received a majority of the votes cast while James Collins, W. H. Sampson, Jr., and M. T. Sullivan were tied receiving the same number of votes each. The chairman ruled that according to the law the one delegate elected would have to fill vacancies on delegation by calling a meeting as required by the law. Patrick O'Neil objected strenuously, and had the law read several times. There was much excitement for a while but it was left to the single delegate to settle it.

The delegates elected are: James F. Foy, James Collins and W. H. Sampson, Jr.

WARD THREE.

These delegates were elected in Ward Three: Robert E. Foy, James Parker, Joseph J. Houston, D. J. Ford, William A. Kelley, Thomas Higgins, James F. Morrisey and Joseph A. Dasha.

WARD FOUR.

William T. Shea called the caucus to order and read the call. He was elected chairman and Thomas F. Hogan, secretary.

A committee of three, consisting of W. F. Powers, Michael B. Geary and Mr. Lyons, were appointed to retire and bring in a list of delegates for the representative convention.

This committee reported the names of William T. Shea, B. J. Kelley, John H. Rooney, Michael B. Geary and Thomas F. Hogan, who were upon ballot elected.

WARD FIVE.

At the Wollaston caucus Charles T. Baker and Martin F. Burns were elected delegates.

WARD SIX.

Edward J. McKeon presided and John Martin was secretary. These delegates were nominated and were elected by ballot:—Elijah G. Hall, Edward J. McKeon and Martin Cunniff.

MILTON.

Milton Democrats elected these delegates Thursday night to the Representative convention: F. Eliot Cabot, Edward Cunningham, Morris A. Duffy, J. Pierce.

The following town committee was also elected: F. Eliot Cabot, M. A. Duffy, William F. Welsh, Christopher Whalen, Hugh Freeman, Edward Cunningham, J. Pierce, J. R. Lawrence, E. S. Churchill, H. D. Apthorp, T. K. Cunningham, Jr., J. H. Watson, R. E. Tileston, F. Rackerman, P. K. Saltonstall. Honorary members—George R. R. Rivers and W. P. Beck.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Hon. George Fred Williams and Hon. Edward J. Flynn are the speakers for the Democratic rally at Hancock hall next week.

The People's Party held its representative convention in Quincy on Thursday evening and nominated these candidates: Joseph A. Bass of Quincy, John E. Inkley and James J. Hennessey of Weymouth.

The second Norfolk Senatorial district had a lively contest Thursday to nominate a candidate. It took eighteen ballots when Clarke P. Harding of Medway was the choice. Frank A. Fales of Brookline was his closest rival.

—The gramophone, a talking machine, much simpler and cheaper than the phonograph, invented by Dr. Berliner, the famous electrician, will soon be put upon the market. Its records of human speech and of music, it is said, are indestructible, and can be cheaply multiplied to an indefinite extent by simple mechanical means. What it has to say or sing can be heard all over an ordinary-sized house. So devoid of complexity is its construction that the complete apparatus will cost only $18, and a smaller edition intended for the use of children will be sold for $5.

PRESENCE OF OFFICERS

Made Country People Think Tragedy Had Occurred at Gray Gables.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A report obtained wide circulation throughout the country at an early hour this morning that President Cleveland had been assassinated at his home at Gray Gables, near Buzzard's Bay, Mass. Concerning this rumor, the following message has just been received from Boston:

"All telephone connection with Buzzard's Bay is through New Bedford, which can't raise Buzzard's Bay, nor has it been on wire since 9 o'clock. New Bedford operator says nothing could have gone out of Buzzard's Bay by telephone without him knowing it. He believes there is nothing in it. Western Union telegraph office closed long ago."

A woman was murdered in the suburbs of New Bedford last night. The police, while searching for the murderer, passed within sight of Gray Gables. They were observed by some of the country people, and by this incident the rumor is supposed to have originated.

Spain's Eyes Opened.

MADRID, Oct. 11.—There is great and quite unusual activity in the government dockyards at the different ports of Spain, and workmen are busily at work refitting cruisers and gunboats. In addition, it has become known that certain government officials have been discussing the question of arming the steamships belonging to the Spanish Transatlantic company, and it is believed that these preparations are due to the belief in government circles that there is a possibility that the United States may recognize the Cuban insurgents as belligerents.

Light on a Murder Case.

DENVER, Oct. 11.—Philip E. Gaffron, a jeweler, in Highlands, was murdered on the night of April 8 last. Mrs. Gaffron and her sister, Mrs. Robbins, who were in the house at the time of the murder, stated that Mr. Gaffron was shot by a burglar. Now comes Elisha W. Robbins, husband of Mrs. Gaffron's sister, who declares that at one time Mrs. Gaffron proposed to him to poison her husband, whose life was heavily insured. Mrs. Gaffron and Mrs. Robbins will be brought back from Pennsylvania and subjected to a rigid examination.

American Vessels the Best.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The large number of suicides of firemen and coal passers on German ocean steamships, committed probably in temporary insanity brought on by intense heat or overwork, has led the German government to examine the subject and to ask the views of other nations. During the past five years only three firemen on American steamers have jumped overboard. This is regarded as indicating the excellent provisions for the health of the engine force on American ocean steamships.

Troubles Not Yet Ended.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 11.—The situation is far from reassuring. While the Armenians and some sections of the Christian population show less alarm, the Moslem element is in a state of effervescence, which is causing the greatest anxiety at the palace. Revolutionary placards were posted yesterday at the mosques and in other public places, clamoring for a constitution and for a meeting of national assemblies.

Chatham's Big Fire.

CHATHAM, N. B., Oct. 11.—The most serious conflagration which has ever visited this town occurred yesterday afternoon. The fire is supposed to have originated in an ashheap. A high wind prevailed, and the fire got such headway before the steam fire engines got to work that it was impossible to check the flames. Sixty buildings were burned, and nearly 100 people were rendered homeless.

Keeping Close Watch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Advices from southern Florida and the off-shore keys show that the government officials are alert to prevent any filibustering expeditions leaving that section to assist the Cuban insurgents. So far as known, however, no overt acts have been committed recently.

Kurino's Denial.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Prince Yanghio Pak, who was formerly prime minister of Korea, and is now an exile from that country on a charge of conspiracy, is in Washington. He called upon Acting Secretary McAdoo yesterday and presented letters of introduction from mutual friends.

The La Paz Hurricane.

GUAYMAS, Mex., Oct. 11.—In the hurricane which swept over La Paz, 184 houses were destroyed, four lives lost and about 21 persons were wounded. Nineteen craft, including the American schoner Czar, partly loaded with dynamite, were beached and a government cutter was sunk.

Under the Ban.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—The postoffice department yesterday issued a fraud order against the Wonder Stone company of New York city. This company formerly did business in Boston, selling a shaving stone which was alleged to remove beards.

Export Bounty Demanded.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11.—The Missouri state grange adopted resolutions demanding the protection of agricultural products by an export bounty as a right to which farmers are entitled as long as protection is given to manufacturers.

Miss Haswell Is Free.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Oct. 11.—The grand jury failed to find an indictment against Miss A. E. Haswell of Troy, who was accused of aiding Oliver Curtis Perry, the train robber, to escape from the insane asylum at Matteawan.

Dallas Left Behind.

DALLAS, Oct. 11.—The Florida Athletic club has gone to Arkansas for its health. About all that are left are the office furniture and the porter. Business will open at Hot Springs Monday next.

Bridge Was Left Open.

PETERBORO, Ont., Oct. 11.—A passenger train plunged in the Ontonabee river, near this town, last evening, through a lock bridge being left open. Several persons were badly injured.

Lake Schooner Wrecked.

STURGEON BAY, Wis., Oct. 11.—The lifesaving crew last night rescued Captain Kaufmann and five men from the schooner Otter, which was completely wrecked.

Sixty-Five Deaths.

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Oct. 11.—Advices from Hawaii show that there have been 65 deaths in all from cholera in Hawaii up to Sept. 20.

OUR PRIMER DAYS.

Secretary Hills Interesting Address at Braintree.

Delivered on Evening of Institute to Teachers and Public.

The First Schoolhouses, Teachers, Salaries, Studies, Etc.

[From the Braintree Observer.]

A good sized audience assembled in the Town Hall, Braintree, Wednesday evening, to listen to this gentleman. We would be glad to reproduce the whole of it, with the sketches, but space will allow only a synopsis. He said:—I ask you, ladies and gentlemen, to accompany me tonight a little way into the past, to see with me some things our fathers did and why they did them, and to note how, out of these rude beginnings, has sprung up that great school system whose glory it has been to put intelligence for force, and make government possible without standing armies.

In 1636, there were 16 towns and hamlets on Massachusetts Bay. They numbered all told less than 4000 souls. Six years before there were scarcely as many hundred. Their houses were simple and rude, their chairs and tables were homemade and their trousers and gowns homespun. Six years now had they been at work. Food, shelter, clothing,—these demands they were now meeting. There was beginning to be a surplus, a commerce. In this year of our Lord 1636, these dwellers in cabins set apart £400 for a school or college. This was the beginning of Harvard University. Do you realize friends, the full import of that act? They did it in their poverty, an Indian war threatening them on the one side, the old country already scheming to clip their growing wings on the other. "Never," said James Russell Lowell, "had the bases of such a structure been laid under circumstances so unprecedented and under what seemed such sullen and averted stars."

It was the first instance in the world's history of the common people voting money for such a purpose. Do we incline to call this beginning at the wrong end? Not so. Our fathers knew the leavening and lifting power of higher education. In 1642 the chosen men of the towns were empowered to call parents to an account who did not properly train their children, nay, actually to enter the home of the improvident, take their neglected children, and put them out to service where hand, head and heart would be trained.

In 1647, the free school system was adopted by the Colony of Massachusetts Bay and made compulsory. There was a free school in Cambridge as early as 1635. It was under the supervision of that sturdy Puritan, John Bridge, whose bronze statue is on the Cambridge Common and whose mortal remains are in the ancient burial ground hard by.

There was a free school in Boston as early as 1635, probably two or three years earlier still. The first doubtless in New England. Strange to say the first free school in Ameriea was founded in Virginia in 1621,—a puny thing that in infancy. The Plymouth Colony did not require free schools until 1677.

The first schoolhouses were not schoolhouses at all, but farmers' kitchens, spare rooms, carpenter shops, barns even,—wherever a dozen pupils could sit at their work and be free from serious interruption.

In locating the first schoolhouses there was no end of trouble. The geographical centre was often selected by way of compromise, and so hill tops, woods or other wild and isolated sites were fixed upon; and it was deemed a happy union of conditions, if the centre fell near the crossroads, for then contending parties had grace enough to waive the claims of absolute geographical justice and place the schoolhouse exactly there. And a cheap, rude structure it was, as incapable of resisting New England weather as unpainted fence rails, but, poor as it was, it was not far behind the home, the office, the work shop of the common people. Some of the dwelling houses of this early period are still standing, but none of the schoolhouses. They were vacant months at a time, were seldom sharply looked after, suffered from heavy wear in term time, from vandalism at all times. If not beaten, blown or whittled down, they rolled down and that was the last of them.

When you pass down School street, Boston, the oldest New England schoolhouse of which I can find an illustration, was the institution that gave it name. It stood close to King's chapel,—the old wooden one, and was partly, if not wholly within the burying ground. A bronze tablet now marks its site. To enlarge the church, the schoolhouse had to give way. There was a heated controversy about the matter, traces of which may be seen in these couplets of the time:

"A fig for learning; I tell you the town
To make the church larger must pull the school down."

"Unluckily spoken," replied Master Birch,
"When learning, I fear, stops the growth of the church."

This was one of the several homes of the Boston Latin School. The new home of the Latin School at the South End cost nearly a million dollars, but palace as it is, the finest school edifice in the country and one of the finest in the world, it is a lighter burden to the opulent Boston of today than was this unpretentious structure of 1722. At that time the Latin School was known as the Boston Grammar School, but the old colonial grammar school which was required by law in every community of 100 families was always a college-fitting school. It was Latin grammar and not English that it taught. English grammar was then unknown. It is a significant fact that the golden age of English literature was a grammar-less age. The art flourished, the science slept.

The teachers of our earliest public schools were men exclusively. To be sure there were a few "Dame schools," so called, but they were private and for little children." The first woman taught in Newton in 1766; in Plymouth, in 1771; but the employment of women did not become general until the present century was well advanced. It had been previously urged that a woman could not govern, also that she was incompetent to teach the older pupils. The first objection had its origin, no doubt, in a certain rough, insubordinate spirit two common in schools; a spirit that it seemed hardly becoming for a woman to struggle against. The second objection, incompetency to teach older pupils, had some foundation also, and why? Simply because the girl was of no account in the educational schemes of our forefathers.

She did not attend the public schools. I cannot learn that she was forbidden to attend. I only know it was not the custom. She was well educated if she could read. To write, to cipher—these were accomplishments. That did not bear directly upon cooking food, scrubbing floors, spinning yarn, milking cows, wouldn't help a girl fill her station one whit more acceptably and was therefore restless.

In Medford, in 1776 it was voted to let the master instruct girls for two hours after the dismissal of the boys. Fourteen years later, Medford girls were allowed to attend summer schools, but not winter. And so girls hung about the outskirts of the system until far into the present century. It has been only nine or ten years since the last discrimination against girls in Boston ceased to exist. They can now fit for college in a city school. But conservative Boston could not be led to throw open those doors that had been closed for over two hundred years to the sex; and so a new school was founded,—the Girls' Latin school of that city. The general order of development seems to have been, first, no education for girls; second, separate education for girls; and third, co-education.

The first teachers then, were men, well educated and in matters of religion; orthodox to the core, for they were required to be approved by the ministers. It was the aim of the Massachusetts colony to found a Bible commonwealth, and to base all its institutions on Bible principles. In church the schoolmaster's wife was given a seat next to the magistrate's. Occasionally the old-world plan of providing the schoolmaster with house and land was adopted.

There was once such a pedagogue's "parsonage" on School street, Boston, on the sight of the present City hall. Here lived John Lovell, a master of the Boston Latin school. Tradition tells how he permitted his school boys to till his garden, bottle his cider, and saw his wood, as rewards of merit.

Salaries were low. Thirty pounds a year was a common sum. Money was often scarce, and so salaries were often paid in corn or pork, or staples.

The discipline of the early schools was generally harsh. Their methods of punishment they brought from England. The average school master was a relentless punisher; the average school boy in imminent danger of spoiling for lack of an adequate flogging, and the average community strongly inclined to flog at home the hapless youth that caught a flogging at school.

The sessions of old-time schools began many of them at 7 in the morning and closed at 5 in the afternoon with an intermission of one hour. The winter hours were 8 and 4.

Studies were few,—Latin and Greek in the grammar schools, reading and writing in the English schools. Books were scarce and precious. There was the Bible first, last and always, and the "Bay State Psalm Book." The first widely used books prepared expressly for the schools was the "New England Primer," for more than one hundred years almost the exclusive juvenile book of this country. It opens with two prayers, morning and evening. It gives the letters, great and small. Three pages were devoted to spelling. There were 203 words that our fathers must have had by heart and among them were musick, jobb, incence. In six pages the Primer bounds from the alphabet to the "Apostles Creed," the "Lord's Prayer" and the "Ten Commandments." But the feature that distinguished the Primer was the alphabetical illustrated, biblical, rhyming reading exercise beginning:

"In Adams fall,
We sinned all."

The great feature of the Primer was the "Shorter Catechism agreed upon by the Reverend Assembly of Divines at Westminster." The assembly sat five years. The catechism is the result of their profoundest study. The colonists brought it over and laid it with their Bible. The schools taught it Saturday forenoon. Everybody had to study it, down to the toddling infant.

Thus for 150 years the school and the church worked together. As the separation of the church and state went on, the catechizing spirit was transferred to other fields. So Noah Webster, whose spelling books with their vast editions drowned out the New England Primer, had his moral catechism, his federal catechism, and his farmer catechism.

In the old schools I find no blackboards, no globes, no maps, no apparatus of any kind. Philosophy, chemistry, botany, geology, astronomy,—such branches were unknown. In most schools the pupils brought such books as they chanced to own or could borrow, began to study where they choose, went as far as they could, stopped when they pleased.

The story of the end of the New England Primer days would be a story of growing knowledge and culture, of the great educatorial awakening sixty years ago, of the founding of American Institute, of the School Fund, of Normal Schools, of the war of the District System and ungraded schools, of better houses, better books, better methods, better superintendence, better teachers.

And the evangelist in this awaking was far-seeing, fearless statesman, Horace Mann. He was the first secretary of our Board of Education.

And now, that the primer days are ended are we any better off? How a man with any knowledge of the past can give other answer than an emphatic "yes," I cannot conceive. 'Tis the school of adversity vs. the school of prosperity. If we shun the hard, grinding, merciless ways of the former, how shall we strengthen the heroic and self-reliant spirit in the latter?

O that we might have attractive books, inviting schoolhouses, grand, lovable and helpful teachers; all the high ways of learning, thick with flowers and redolent of incense, without running the old and terrible risk of lulling to a stupid repose on beds of ease the sturdier and finer forces of the human soul.

Feed Main Tapped.

A successful attempt was made Thursday to tap the 20 inch water main extending from the pumping station to the stand pipe. It was necessary to draw the water out of this pipe and cut out a length of about 10 feet and insert a branch so that a connection could be made to the main. The pumps were run during the previous night and the stand pipe was filled by morning, workmen set at work at 8 o'clock and shut off this pipe and drew the water all out of it by one of the hydrants and made the connection and turned the water on again by 12 o'clock. This is the largest water pipe in the city and the one that supplies the whole city from the pumps and is the first time that it was ever cut out since it was laid some 12 years ago.

Historical.

The Massachusetts Historical Society met Thursday afternoon with Charles Francis Adams, the president, in the chair. A tribute was paid to the late W. W. Story, and letters and papers were contributed. At some future meeting Mr. Adams has promised to communicate a collection of letters written by John Quincy Adams, while minister to Russia, to his brother.

WOMAN'S SUFFERING.

RELIEVED BY MAIL. HOW IT IS DONE.

How a Woman Works for Her Sex.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Seated at her desk in the bureau of correspondence, this wonderful woman opens her letters from all parts of the world. A few extracts from their contents tell the story:—

FROM IOWA.

"I am in a very bad condition. My courses have stopped from catching cold, and the pain is fearful. I am all bloated up; and the pain in lower part of my body is terrible. My back and head ache all the time. What shall I do for it?" Miss L——, Des Moines.

FROM NEW JERSEY.

Mrs. Lizzie DeCline, 126 Grand Street, Jersey City, relates her miseries resulting from womb trouble, from which she was relieved and cured by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She ends her letter by saying, "I owe all to you."

FROM OHIO.

Mrs. Newton Cobb, of Manchester, O., writes: "I used eight bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I am happy to say it has cured me of painful menstruations and backache. My suffering every month was dreadful. The doctors gave me morphine to ease the pain; nothing to cure me. Oh, I want to tell every one what cured me! I wish every suffering woman would write and get your advice."

FROM ILLINOIS.

Miss Jennie ——, Chicago, states that she is twenty-two years of age; occupation, saleswoman in large dry goods store. Constant standing has brought on womb trouble, the symptoms of which she describes fully. She says: "Help me if you can. There are several girls I know who have written to Mrs. Pinkham, and been cured by her advice and medicine."

FROM PENN'LV'N'A.

Miss Mary Smylie, who resides at 2078 E. Susquehanna Avenue, Kensington, Phila., writes: "I am a working-girl, and must stand eleven hours every day. I have suffered terribly from painful menstruation and kidney trouble. At times my head was so dizzy I could hardly see. A friend recommended your Vegetable Compound. I am a different girl now: no more aches and pains. Oh, thank you, thank you!"

The above extracts from many hundred letters received daily by Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., go to show how easily ailing women can obtain advice and relief. Write to Mrs. Pinkham.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the most successful female medicine known to the world, can be obtained of any druggist in the land.

Inspiration.

There was wealth came to the poet,
But his pen was never thrilled;
Though it brought him rare possessions,
Yet his dreamy soul was stilled.
Wealth may turn the hand of justice
Till it countenances wrong,
But it has no inspiration
For a sonnet or a song.

There was praise came to the poet,
And a laurel wreath of fame,
While the world of art and letters
Grew enraptured at his name;
Though his path was strewn with flowers
By a rich, admiring throng,
His soul was far from heaven
And his heart was far from song.

There was love came to the poet,
And with deep inspired pen
He wrought a tender sonnet
That would reach the hearts of men,
And it breathed of hope and duty,
Of the right that conquers wrong,
And he left to countless millions
This sweet legacy of song.

Whimsical Father Schaubel.

Father Schaubel, who died a few years ago, was well past his eightieth year. He was another dead in earnest Christian. A good many years ago his workmen, while hauling earth from one of his lots, encroached on one of mine, and I spoke to him about it. He threw up his hands in a surprised way and exclaimed, "The whole earth is made of dirt, and shall we quarrel about a wheelbarrow load of it?" He had a strong German accent. A short time before he died I met him on the street and said, "Well, Father Schaubel, how do you find yourself?" "I find myself achty-four years alt," he replied. "And how do you like it?" "Ach, vell, ve must be satisfied." That was a favorite maxim with him, to be satisfied—that is, contented. He was a gardener. One year there was, for some reason, a great scarcity of tomatoes, and he had a large crop. In reply to a question what he was getting for them, he replied: "Two dollar und fifty cents a bushel here in de field. Ah, vell, ve must be satisfied."—Chicago Interior.

The Origin of "Stoughton Bottle."

Did it ever occur to you to wonder where the expression "Stoughton bottle" came from? Senator Palmer used it the last time I saw him and I asked him about it.

"Why," said he, "it comes from a certain Stoughton's bitters that used to be very popular when I was a boy. Stoughton's bitters was a sort of table sauce, very weak and tasteless, and really useless. So when anybody stood around as useless as a bottle of Stoughton's bitters on a dinner table people got to saying that he was a Stoughton bottle, until as an expression for general shiftlessness it came to be an accepted term."—Washington Post.

A FRENCH GOVERNOR

Will Hereafter Shape Public Affairs on the Island of Madagascar.

Queen Has Made Peace With Conquering Army.

Waller Case Had Much to Do With Bringing Matters to a Climax.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Minister of War Zurlinden yesterday received a dispatch from Mojanga confirming the news of the capture of Antananarivo, capital of the island of Madagascar, by the French expeditionary force under the command of General Duchesne.

QUEEN RANAVALONA AND HER HUSBAND.

The Queen of Madagascar has made peace with the French, and General Metzinger has been nominated as governor of Antananarivo.

President Faure has wired an enthusiastic message of congratulation and thanks to General Duchesne, commanding the French expeditionary army in Madagascar.

History of the Trouble.

France is now in complete control in Madagascar after a severe campaign of many months. French claims to some sort of authority over Madagascar date back to 1642, when factories and fortifications were built on the eastern coast, only to be shortly abandoned. Not so with French occupation of the island. From Louis XIV's time till now there have been a French settlement and some sort of a French protectorate over one or more of the tribes which have divided Madagascar between them.

But French claims—which have twice been at least partially admitted by Great Britain—have always included the right to dominate over the entire island. In 1817 Great Britain recognized and, to an extent, conceded these French pretensions in Madagascar, and in 1890 Lord Salisbury gave his approval to the treaty of 1885 between France and the Hovas government. This treaty was the end of a futile attempt by France to subjugate the Hovas, who had been for 50 years bringing the other tribes into subjection to them and had become the Ruling Power of the Island.

This compromise is the root of the present trouble. Under this treaty the foreign relations of Madagascar, according to France, were placed under French direction, while the domestic concerns of the island, including control of all the other tribes, remained in the hands of the Hovas government. There was to be a French resident, who was to have a military guard and live at the Hovas capital, and to have the privilege of private audience with Queen Ranavalona. French subjects were to be under French law, and to have numerous other privileges denied by implication to the subjects of other powers. In addition to this treaty a secret convention was made by which the queen bound herself to make no cession of a port or of territory to any other foreign power.

In 1890 Lord Salisbury's government was trying to establish a protectorate over Zanzibar, but was met by French objections, which were removed by conceding the rights which France had obtained in Madagascar by this Treaty of December, 1885.

The present troubles arise from differences in the interpretation of this treaty. The French at once set up the claim that the treaty means a protectorate, and makes France master over the foreign relations of Madagascar. The Hovas government denies all these claims of France, especially repudiating the protectorate.

The United States government permitted its consul at Tamatave to apply for his exequatur directly to the queen's government, ignoring the French resident. When Waller resigned it was to take possession of lands which had been granted him by the queen without consultation with the French government. Finally France sent troops into the country with the above result.

One of the first acts of the military was to arrest Mr. Waller on a trumped-up charge of treason. He was tried by court-martial and sentenced to imprisonment for 20 years. This summary and apparently unjustifiable proceeding is now a matter of diplomatic correspondence between the United States and France.

Unhappy Marriage Ties.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Judge Beach yesterday granted an order for the service by publication of the complaint in the action for an absolute divorce brought by Elizabeth W. Tyng against Stephen H. Tyng of Boston for undue intimacy with Hattie C. Peckham. The Tyngs were married on Sept. 8, 1880, and have two children.

Coming Home.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The state department has instructed Dispatch Agent Rosser at New York to meet Mrs. Waller and her family when they arrive there Europe. He will place them on the Washington train, and it is presumed that when they arrive here they will be taken care of by their friends.

Viceroy Defiant.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 11.—Admiral Buller, commanding the British fleet, will return to Foo-Choo on board the dispatch boat Alacrity, the viceroy having assumed an attitude of defiance.

IN CENTRAL CHINA.

Heathens Are Still Actively Engaged In Persecuting Christians.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—A dispatch from Paris says that the Catholic mission agency at Lyons has received letters reporting aggressions against the Europeans and Christians of the central provinces of China. The mission stations at Nan-Ching have been destroyed, and some of the converts killed and others wounded. The Russian consul, in the absence of the French consul, was appealed to. He insisted that a telegram be sent to the local authorities, urging stringent measures for the restoration of order. Nevertheless, the disturbances continue.

The Mohammedans of northern Shen-Si have revolted.

Advices from Shanghai say that Chouhan's infamous Hunan anti-foreign prints are being again distributed throughout the central provinces.

The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a letter from its correspondent in Ku-Cheng, detailing the difficulties attending communication with Foo-Choo and describing the trial of a prisoner implicated in the outrages upon missionaries.

When the court is ready, the writer says, the accused man is brought in handcuffed. He is filthy in appearance and has the wild and ghastly look of a starved man, which he really is. The prisoner opens the proceedings by swearing that he was nowhere near the scene of the massacre, and then the torture begins.

The man is first compelled to kneel with his bare knees upon a coil of chain. His head is dragged back and his pigtail is fastened to a rack high above his head. A pole is then thrust across his legs and two soldiers stand on each end of it, crushing the poor wretch's knees into the coil of chain.

The correspondent declares that the whole business lies at the door of corrupt officials.

Will Mystery Explained.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Post prints a story today clearing up the mystery of the disappearance and reappearance of the will of the late Judge Holt. Orlean Cullen of Warren, Va., a son of C. W. Cullen, says that he found the missing document among old papers entrusted by Judge Holt to the late Judge Mandeville, and which the latter subsequently placed in charge of the elder Cullen. Young Cullen says he found the will among papers in an old attic. He then mailed the will to the register of wills, for reasons personal to himself not making his identity known.

Key West's Holiday.

KEY WEST, Oct. 11.—Yesterday being the anniversary of the execution of seven students at Habana, it was celebrated here by ceremonies which began by the raising of the Cuban flag underneath the American flag at the city hall and courthouse amid cheers, music and the booming of cannon. A negro was accidentally killed by the explosion of a cannon used in the celebration.

Stolen Jewels Traced.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Part of the jewelry belonging to Mrs. Langtry, which was obtained by means of a forged order, has been discovered in the possession of a firm of merchants in this city, to whom they had been sold. The stolen jewels have been estimated to value from $100,000 to $200,000.

For Christian Endeavorers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The Christian Endeavor societies have decided to start a monthly in Chicago, to be known as The Christian Endeavorer. The projectors of the paper promise that 40 per cent of the subscriptions received from each state will be donated to that particular state union.

The Old Story.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Oct. 13. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How may our society do better work?—Gal. vi, 6-10. (A meeting to consider the work of each committee, led by the president.)

Eternal perseverance is the price of success. This is particularly true in Christian work. There can be no weariness in well doing, no standing still, or we will fail. Advancement is the only true Christian motto. Better work, not worse or even just as good, is constantly demanded of us. The success of Endeavor work depends upon the committees. The prosperity, the life of the society depend largely on them. They should realize their responsibility. Each committee should be well organized. It should be a little society in the larger society. Regular meetings should be held and written reports should be read at every business meeting, and that there may be something to report something should be done. How may we do this better work?

1. By guarding against the discouragements. There are many things to discourage us. We are inclined to become weary and disheartened in our work, and therefore Paul warns us against becoming weary and discouraged. This warning was first given to the Galatians because they were naturally disposed to discouragement. They lacked stability and constancy. In the first stages of the Christian life they were zealous and faithful, but their disposition was to be easily discouraged. We are all more or less like the Galatians. At first how eager we are to do our work faithfully and promptly and yet how easy it is soon to lag. Those for whom we work may be ungrateful and unworthy. The coldness of others may chill our ardor. Many may refuse to help. Our work may seem to produce no fruit. There may be opposition to all that we attempt to do. But we must guard against these discouragements and not become weary in well doing.

2. By considering only our encouragements. The Christian life and work have encouragements as well as discouragements. There are gardens of Gethsemane, but also Mounts of Transfiguration. There are crosses, but there are also crowns. There are burials, but also resurrections. "In due season we shall reap if we faint not." Perseverance has its reward. There may be much to discourage, much to produce weariness in well doing, but let us not become weary and discouraged, but let us always remember that in due season, in God's season, whether in this life or in the life to come, we shall reap if we faint not. "Therefore be steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, inasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

Bible Readings.—Ex. xiv, 13-15; Deut. v, 32, 33; x, 20; Neh. iv, 7-9; Math. vii, 7, 8; Luke ix, 57-62; John ix, 4; xv, 16; Rom. xii, 1, 2; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. v, 25, 26; I Thess. v, 15; II Thess, iii, 13; I Tim. vi, 18, 19; Titus iii, 8, 9; Heb. x, 23-25; xii, 1, 2; I Pet. v, 5-8; II Pet. iii, 18; I John v, 4, 5.

Burnbrae's Prayer.

"Almichty Father, we are a' Thy puir an sinfu' bairns, wha wearied o' hame and gaed awa' intae the far country. Forgive us, for we didna ken whait we were leavin or the sair heart we gied oor Father. It wes weary wark tae live wi' oor sins, but we wad never hev come back had it no been for oor Elder Brither. He cam' a long road tae find us, and a sore travail He had afore He set us free. He's been a gude Brither tae us, and we've been a heavy chairge tae Him. May He keep a firm hand o' us, and guide us in the richt road, and bring us back gin we wander, and tell us a' we need tae know till the gloamin come. Gether us in then, we pray Thee, an a' we luve, no a bairn missin, and may we sit doon for ever in oor ain Father's House. Amen."—"Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush."

Secretary Baer.

Secretary Baer possesses the rare ability to make the dry bones of statistics lively. Age cannot wither nor custom stale his infinite variety. When he began to spin his Christian Endeavor wheel, out came the consecrated hosts into view, not in single spies, but in battalions. He has toleration for the opinions of others in all matters not pertaining to mathematics. He is out of the clouds and down against the dead wall of fact. He is lucid, clear, sparkling; above all things, witty, and wit, which is the rarest of qualities, is the surest of appreciation.—Rev. James L. Hill, D. D.

Fellowship of Christianity.

Christianity is a fellowship in the largest and the best things of this world and of all the hopes we cheirsh for the next world. The triumph of the church, as it is the triumph of the kingdom, is the possibility of sinking personal preference into the greatest good to the greatest number—the fellowship of Christendom.—North and West.

Africa and Its Missions.

A United States commercial agent in the Kongo Free State declares that in that vast region are 20,000,000 cannibals.

The Muhlenberg mission in Liberia is said to raise coffee enough to pay its expenses.

Fourteen years ago the entire north coast of Africa had not a missionary to the Moslems. Now there are 120 in this region.

In few heathen lands have Christian missions won greater triumphs than in Madagascar, where there are 2,000 Protestant churches, with more than 800,000 adherents.

The French rulers at Gaboon forbade the American missionaries to open schools for the natives, using the native language. They wished them to use French alone. Very fortunately they have been persuaded to reverse this decree.—Golden Rule.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

RASCALITIES OF HALE

May Yet Make a Big Hole In Bank Account of Foxcroft, Me.

Victims to Sue the Town to Recover Their Money.

Supreme Court Will Be Called Upon to Settle Some Fine Points.

FOXCROFT, Me., Oct. 12.—Although the attorneys for the town of Foxcroft have announced that the most of the Judge Hale defalcation, the sum total of whose rascalities amount to something like $180,000, would not fall on the town, yet many creditors who have consulted counsel believe that the matter is not, after all, to be settled so easily as regards Foxcroft.

Of course, the suits will not go into the lower courts, but will be deliberated by the full bench, and lawyers say that for fine distinctions the Hale case will eclipse any legal controversy that has arisen for years in Maine. It is expected, too, that it will establish important precedents in regard to the limitations of the actions of town treasurers.

The plaintiffs will claim in the plea that they loaned money to a man who, year by year, was authorized to "hire money for town purposes and uses." They were therefore led to believe by the town that this money could be Safely Intrusted to Treasurer Hale.

If he was not using it for town purposes, say the plaintiffs, it was the duty of the town, not the lenders, to probe his actions and expose the nature of the man; that a money lender was in no position to follow his cash through the various channels it took after reaching Hale, or to prove what went for legitimate town uses and what not.

The notes of 1894, having been issued according to vote of the town and by order of the selectmen, are not disputed.

The town of Foxcroft's 5 per cent debt limit amounts to about $25,000, and hence the claim is made that the town cannot be liable for more under the state law, but examination of the treasurer's books has shown that the debt limit in 1878, when the statute in question was enacted.

Had Already Been Exceeded

Therefore, it is claimed that, as the present debt is simply an accretion of a legitimate debt (so far as state laws are concerned), the debt limit enactment does not affect it.

The plaintiffs will also assert that Hale, for the last score of years, borrowed right and left, not to enrich himself, but to pay interest. The town, on the contrary, stoutly denies that Hale could be acting as its agent in carrying on such amazing financial deals without the knowledge of the town officers.

It will be a year or two, probably, before the supreme court will express itself in regard to the case.

Steamer's Close Call.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The Wilson line steamer Colorado, from Hull, Sept. 27, came into port yesterday, after a very tempestuous passage. On the 7th, while crossing the Grand Banks, a heavy southwesterly gale, accompanied with a thick impenetrable fog, was encountered. At 3 o'clock that morning, a slight break in the fog revealed one of the fast Atlantic liners headed directly for the Colorado's stern. A collision seemed inevitable. The officers of the unknown steamer, by quickly manipulating the wheel, swerved her to starboard just enough to avert a collision. It was a narrow escape, for the two steamers passed near enough for a person to jump from one to the other.

Republican Argument.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Oct. 12.—Governor Greenhalge and Lieutenant Governor Wolcott spoke here last night to a large audience. The governor confined himself principally to the A. P. A. question and a defense of his veto of the Holyoke police bill, which latter point was enthusiastically received. Mr. Greenhalge scored the A. P. A. by inference, and said he would rather be defeated than receive 100,000 majority from votes of that order. Mr. Wolcott also came out strongly against race and religious proscription. The regulation of corporations and monopolies was favored, and the Democratic position on the currency question attacked.

Will Take Up the Reins of Government.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Oct. 12.—President Cleveland and Private Secretary Thurber left at 5:30 o'clock last night on board the steam yacht Oneida for Washington. With favorable weather the party should reach their destination on Monday. Mrs. Cleveland and the children will leave Gray Gables for the White House early next week. The president and his family have had one of the pleasantest, as well as one of the longest, seasons ever spent here, and all of them are in excellent health as the result of their long vacation. The last day of the president's stay here was spent in fishing, in company with Secretary Thurber.

Three Sisters Get the Prize.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The jury in the Niles will case returned a verdict yesterday afternoon, sustaining the will. The case has been on trial all the week and has been hotly contested. By the will of the late Thomas Niles the bulk of his property, amounting to $300,000, went to three cousins, maiden ladies, who had considerable wealth already. Mr. Niles had numerous half brothers and sisters and other relatives, who were either given a very meager part of the property, or were left out altogether, both in the will and codicil.

Williams' Big Day.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Oct. 12.—George F. Williams, Democratic candidate for governor, made a tour of this section yesterday. He proceeded to West Tisbury, where he spoke briefly, going later to Edgartown, where he addressed a second gathering of Democrats, and last evening made a third speech here on the issues of the campaign. In all three places he covered substantially the same ground, speaking of the duties of a solicitor general regarding the rights of corporations and the rights of the people.

Katahdin's Trial Trip Near at Hand.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—United States dispatch boat Dolphin arrived in port yesterday from Portland, Me. The Dolphin has just established the trial course for the Ammen ram Katahdin and the battleship Indiana. The Katahdin's course as marked out will be from Cape Porpoise to Boon Island light, a distance of 17 miles, while the course for the Indiana is from Boon island to Cape Ann, and is 31 miles long. It is expected that the Katahdin will leave the drydock in season for her trial trip Oct. 17.

Boy Accused of Murder.

ELLSWORTH, Me., Oct. 12.—John Jordan of Otis, a farmer, aged 25, died yesterday from the effects of a blow with a club inflicted Thursday noon by Harry Salisbury, aged 16. Jordan watered his horse at a pond near the school which Salisbury attended, and on Thursday he accused the boy of breaking a pail which he had left there. In an altercation that followed, Jordan struck at the boy, who, in self-defense, it is claimed, picked up a club and dealt Jordan a blow upon the side of the head. Salisbury was arrested.

Have Done Much Good.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 12.—The Maine Federation of Women's clubs yesterday elected the following officers: President, Mrs. H. F. Dowse, Bangor; vice president, Anna S. Hunt, Augusta; secretary, Mrs. H. M. Estabrook, Orono; treasurer, Miss B. L. Soule; auditor, Miss Helen Beedy. The federation has prospered beyond all expectation in the four years of its existence, teaching women to forget petty vanities, and labor for the general good and welfare.

Helped Her Husband Escape From Jail.

PARIS, Me., Oct. 12.—In the Oxford supreme court yesterday the grand jury presented an indictment against Arthur H. Bigelow for forgery and cheating under false pretense, and one against Harriet W. Bigelow for assisting the prisoner to escape. As they had lived as man and wife in New York the court decided they were married and quashed the indictment, as, under the statute, a wife is not liable for assisting her husband to escape from jail.

Services Closed by Secretary Baer.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 12.—The state Christian Endeavor convention was attended by over 1400 delegates. The services were of song and praise principally, although many minor meetings were held in the various churches about the city. A grand praise and prayer service was held in the evening. Secretary Baer closed the work of the convention by a consecration meeting, at which there was a large attendance.

A Worthy Project.

BARRINGTON, R. I., Oct. 12.—A meeting was held here last night for the purpose of raising money to build a monument in honor of the volunteers from the town in the war of '76. Barrington sent more than 100 men to fight against the British, and 42 graves of soldiers have been located. Besides the monument, each grave will have an individual mark.

Crime of George Crime.

AMESBURY, Mass., Oct. 12.—The police arrested yesterday George Crime for the larceny of three barrels of apples. The police searched the house and found a small cider mill, which Crime had been running and making cider with the apples that have been stolen.

Guertin Captured.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 12.—Arthur Guertin, who committed a murderous assault on his paramour, Ella Welch, alias Ella Greenwood, was caught last night in Fairhaven and brought to this city, where he is held to await the result of his victim's injuries.

Boom For Berlin.

BERLIN, N. H., Oct. 12.—Papers were signed yesterday by Chick Bros., shoe manufacturers of Haverhill, Mass., for the immediate erection of a new shoe factory in this town. The new factory will give employment to over 1000 hands.

Rumor Denied.

BRISTOL, R. I., Oct. 12.—The story that E. D. Morgan of the New York Yacht club had talked with the Herreshoffs for the purpose of ordering a boat to sail against the Distant Shore is said, upon good authority, to be untrue.

SYMPATHY FOR CUBANS

Should Not Be Expressed In Terms Discourteous to Spain.

Attitude of United States Is Clearly Defined.

Gossip Concerning a Groundless Rumor Circulated In Madrid.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Attorney General Harmon, within the last few weeks, has received a large number of letters making inquiry as to the rights of American citizens under international law with respect to expressing their sympathy with Cuba, either materially or otherwise, in her present struggle. The following is a reply to one of these letters, and is substantially the same as all of the replies sent.

JUDSON HARMON, ATTORNEY GENERAL.

I hasten to say, in reply to your letter, that the organization of a military force of any sort in the United States in aid of the insurrection in Cuba would be in direct violation of section 3286 of the revised statutes of the United States, which provides for a fine not exceeding $3000 and imprisonment for not more than three years for every person who in any way takes part in such expedition or enterprise to be carried on from thence against any prince, state, etc., with whom the United States are at peace.

As the United States are not only at peace with Spain, but have with her a treaty whereby the extradition of prisoners and many other benefits are secured, it behooves all American citizens who have respect for the laws and obligations of their country and regard for its honor to observe this law in spirit as well as in letter, to be neutral in word as well as in deed. While there is no law to prevent American citizens from speaking their sentiments on any subject, singly or together, taking such action as mentioned in your letter would, in my judgment, be discourteous in the highest degree to a friendly power and tend to embarrass and obstruct the government in carrying out its determination faithfully to execute the laws and fulfill its treaty obligations.

A Rumor Dissected.

A dispatch from Madrid says that it is stated there upon good authority that the United States government has pointed out to the Spanish minister at Washington the necessity that Spain should take prompt action to crush out the rebellion in Cuba. This statement created a sensation in Madrid political circles.

It is learned here that Minister de Lome had a short interview with Secretary Olney Thursday, and in the course of their conversation something might have been said by the minister, perhaps in answer to the secretary's inquiry, in the nature of a statement that operations in Cuba would be conducted with greater vigor hereafter. As the president must certainly make some reference to the insurrection in his annual message to congress when it meets in December, it would be but natural that Secretary Olney, upon whom he must rely for his information, should take steps to gather data upon which to base a judgment of probable future events.

It may be set down as beyond belief that Secretary Olney has made any statement to the Spanish minister in the nature of a threat to intervene between the combatants in Cuba at this stage, for this would amount to a reversal of the policy of this government in such matters.

While it is true that President Grant did—as indicated in his messages to congress—entertain a belief that intervention in the then progressing rebellion in Cuba would be justifiable, it is also true that this view never was acceptable to Secretary Fish, and it has not secured the adherence of international lawyers. The whole weight of authority is decidedly adverse to the assertion by a neutral nation of a right to say when war between two combatants had progressed to a point where it must be stopped.

The question is also separate from that of the recognition of the belligerency of the insurgents, which, according to our policy and practice, must be determined severely by the facts in each case. It is pointed out here also that the circumstances at present are different from those surrounding the last Cuban rebellion, when President Grant took his stand, in that that rebellion dragged along for nearly 10 years, while the present insurrection has been in progress less than a year, or not nearly as long as our own rebellion.

Sackville's Error.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Chronicle says this morning on the subject of the pamphlet history of his diplomatic experience in the United States, issued by Lord Sackville: The feeling existing with reference to the appearance of the Sackville pamphlet is one of unqualified regret. This finds its strongest expression, perhaps, in diplomatic circles.

Worse Than First Reported.

COLOGNE, Oct. 12.—Fourteen dead bodies were buried in the debris and ruins of the spinning factory at Bocholt, Westphalia, which collapsed and buried 40 worked in the ruins. The first report of the disaster placed the number of killed at 10.

ANOTHER CONTINUANCE.

A Law Point Raised in the Clan McGregor—Westland Case.

The case of Clan McGregor against William Westland came up on continuance in the District court this morning.

Counsel for the Clan introduced evidence that the order of Royal Scottish clan was incorporated in Missouri and proposed to introduce it to show that Clan McGregor was duly incorporated.

Mr. McAnarney objected on the ground that under that charter, the Royal Scotish clan had no right to incorporate Clan McGregor, and the complaint showed no connection between Clan McGregor and the Royal Scottish clan.

After a discussion of points of law between the counsel and court, the court suggested that the case stand continued for three weeks, and in the meantime the counsel and court should get together and settle the point raised.

James F. Stevens of Braintree was elected permanent chairman and 256 delegates were present.

An informal ballot was then taken resulting as follows:

Lovell,	95
Cushing,	91
Gray,	55
Savage,	11

A formal ballot was then taken resulting as follows:

Whole number of votes	253
Necessary for choice	127
Lovell,	108
Cushing,	95
Gray,	49
Savage,	1

The third ballot gave Lovell, 122; Cushing, 104; Gray, 27.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The Weymouth Democrats Nominate Representative Candidates.

The Democrats of Weymouth nominate their candidates for the Legislature at a mass caucus, without the intervention of a convention.

At a caucus held last evening there was no contest, James L. Lincoln and Minot Tirrell being the nominees.

The caucus was more interested in the postoffice at East Weymouth now presided over by a woman, different candidates for the position striving to elect a town committee favorable to themselves. Mr. Peter F. Hughes is said to be the preference of those chosen.

A few days ago the Herald elected as Representatives from the Quincy-Weymouth district, Messrs. Flint and Everett, and for the third man was in doubt between Messrs. Newcomb and Worthen. The latter was not nominated so the calculation needs revising. When Mr. Thompson run before he went out of Quincy with a handsome majority, but was cut in Weymouth for a Weymouth Democrat. It is not probable that Weymouth Republicans will treat their nominees that way again, and the district being more strongly Republican than ever, it seems only a question as to how large the majorities for Messrs. Flint, Newcomb and Thompson will be. The Republicans carried the district by over 800 last year.

The vote of 1895 was:

	Quincy.	Weymouth.	Total.
Hammond,	1,774	906	2,680
Flint,	1,524	1,046	2,573
Wentworth,	1,483	993	2,476
Federhen,	1,129	515	1,644
Orcutt,	1,095	495	1,590
Tirrell,	940	550	1,490

Congressman Atwood of this district has again asked for a warrant against Frederick W. Peabody who slandered him in the last campaign.

THE UNITY CLUB.

A Night With Mendelssohn and His Music at Wollaston.

The Unity club held its first meeting of the season in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Friday evening before a large audience. The subject was "Mendelssohn; the man and his music." Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith was the leader and also the pianist for the concert which followed.

The Rev. James E. Bagley and Mrs. Smith read papers upon Mendelssohn and his works. This was followed by illustrations of his works given by soloists and a chorus. The chorus, lead by Mr. E. Walter Arnold, was composed of Mrs. H. W. Lull, Mrs. Lucy Pendleton, Miss Mary Virginnia Hastings, Mrs. Frank A. Page, Mrs. E. A. King, Mrs. George Weston, Miss Lucy Hayes, Miss Stella M. Haynes, Mr. Chas. F. Wilde, Mr. Frederick H. Bishop, Mr. Chas. A. Tanner, Mr. A. R. Moulton, Mr. Edward E Bullock and Mr. W. C. Clark.

Preceding the concert a business meeting of the club was held which was presided over by the president, Mr. H. W. Lull. It was voted to reduce the annual dues from fifty to twenty-five cents; and to hold the regular meetings on the second and fourth Fridays of each month. Mrs. H. W. Lull was elected secretary and treasurer and Dr. Charles S. Adams was elected a member of the Executive Committee both to fill vacancies caused by resignation.

The program last evening:

Overture to Midsummer Night's Dream, Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith, and Mrs. A. R. Moulton.

From part songs, "Thou Forest broad and sweeping," "In the woods" Mrs. Lucy M. Pendleton, Miss Lucy Hayes, Mr. A. R. Moulton, Mr. F. H. Bishop.

Songs, Mrs. F. A. Page.

Piano solo, Mrs. Moulton.

Duets, Miss Hastings, and Miss Hayes.

Chorus and obligato solo, Mrs. Page.

Songs without words, Mrs. Smith.

Songs, Miss Hastings.

Cast thy burden upon the Lord,—Chorus.

Oh, rest in the Lord,—Miss Hayes.

He watching over Isreal,—Chorus.

If with all your hearts,—Mr. E. E Bullock.

Lift thine eyes,—Mrs. Page, Mrs. H. W. Lull, Mrs. E. A. King.

Blessed are the men,—Chorus.

It is enough,—Mr. E. Walter Arnold.

Be not afraid,—Chorus.

The programme of the club for future meetings follows:

Oct. 25.—"Questions of Citizenship." Director, Supt. H. W. Lull

Nov. 8.—"The Tragedy of King Lear." Director, Rev. J. E. Bagley.

Nov. 22.—"The Tragedy of King Lear." Director, Rev. J. E Bagley.

Dec. 13.—"Transportation: Discoverers and Inventors." Director, Charles S. Comins.

Dec. 27.—"Christmas: Stories, Plays and Associations." Director, Miss Clara Thayer.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The Men's Meeting Sunday at 3 30 will be addressed by Rev. Preston Gurney of the Wollaston Baptist church.

The Divine Indictment was the subject of Rev. Robert Westly Peach's talk to the young men last evening. Mr. Peach's illustration of the words, "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God," was one of the best we have ever heard.

Rev. C. A Parker, of the Calvary Baptist church, will speak this evening at 7 30 on "Singleness of Aim"

Opening Week.

Next week will witness the fall opening of the various departments of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association. On Monday evening the gymnastic classes under the new physical director, Mr. Merritt, will start. These classes will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings. This gives one additional class over last year. During the past two weeks Mr. Merritt has been kept busy taking measurements and making physical examinations. The boys' classes will be held Wednesday and Saturdays at 4 P. M. Other classes for Adams academy and High school boys are under consideration. The business men's class will not start until November. Tuesday evening two classes will start, the monumental drawing and the glee club or singing class. The former will be conducted by Mr. Herbert W. Beattie, and the latter by Mr. A. J. Sidelinger. Thursday evening the class in clay modeling will open and on Friday evening the freehand drawing. Both of these will be conducted by Mr. Herbert W. Beattie, and the latter by Mr. A. J. Sidelinger, Thursday evening the class in clay modeling will open and on Friday evening the free hand drawing. Both of these will be conducted by Mr. Beattie. Saturday evening at 6.30 a class in English for Swedes will begin and at 8 o'clock a similar class for Italians. Mr. Charles Sampson will be the instructor. The outlook for all of these classes is very good, new members are joining the association every day and many old members are registering for the classes.

A number have announced their desire to reorganize the Young Men's Congress, and Thursday evening October 24, there will be a meeting of those interested.

A Bible School.

A neat little circular has just been issued from the PATRIOT office, announcing the opening of the Quincy Bible school, Monday, Oct. 21, 1895. The school will be under the auspices of the Quincy Christian Endeavor Union and the Young Men's Christian Association. The school will be divided into two departments, one for women and the other for men. The women's class will meet in the Evangelical Congregational church every Monday evening and will be conducted by Mrs. W. Gray of Boston. Mrs. Gray is Bible instructor in the Gordon Missionary Training school and the Revere Fay college. Last year she conducted for some weeks a Bible class in Lowell, which was organized at the close of the Moody meetings, consisting of several hundred members. She also conducted a class in Waltham for the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Gray has a winning manner and great patience in her teaching and is thoroughly equipped in the sinthetic study of the Bible.

The system known as Synthetic Bible study was originated by Rev. James M. Gray, formerly pastor of the Reformed Episcopal church, Boston, and who is now pastor of the Franklin Street Congregational church, Somerville, the church home of Mr. H. M. Moore, New England's greatest lay evangelist. Last year Mr. Gray was one of the principal speakers at Mr. Moody's Northfield Conference. He is recognized as one of the leading Bible instructors of America, and has just been appointed Bible instructor of the International Y. M. C. A. Training school, Springfield, Mass.

The Synthetic study is the more thorough system of genuine Bible study, pure and simple that has yet been introduced. It gives the faithful student a thorough knowledge of every important book of the Bible, and the relationship of each book to the other. The class for men will be held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, on Monday evenings, and will follow the same course of study. It will be conducted by Secretary Colton, who has been a student under Rev. Mr. Gray for two years. The first term of ten weeks will open Oct. 21. Tickets for the terms will cost fifty cents, except to members of the Y. M. C. A. who can secure tickets without cost at the Association Rooms.

Eight Page Patriot.

The following was in type for the PATRIOT this week, but was crowded out at the last moment, although there were four extra pages:

Today's issue of the QUINCY PATRIOT is enlarged to eight pages. The old established weekly continues to be popular with all classes in the city and vicinity, and it will be the aim of the publishers to make it even more acceptable to its ten thousand readers at home and abroad. For some time our columns have been crowded with advertisements, and in order to maintain all the features it has been necessary to abridge the news. Quincy is growing fast in population and in importance and to properly record the happenings it is necessary to have more space.

The four extra pages today will probably be continued during the political and holiday season, and readers will not only obtain additional news but also a good variety of miscellaneous reading which will be improved from week to week.

Now is the time to become a regular reader. The yearly subscription when paid in advance has been reduced to $2 per year.

On the fifth page today will be found good reports of the Republican Representative convention with half tone engravings of the nominees of the district, the men's supper at Wollaston, the annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association. The sixth is a lady's page with gems in verse, a story, and "Woman's World." The children will be interested in page 7, for there is an illustrated humorous column, a young folks' column, a light and airy column and short stories. On the last pages are articles for and against woman's suffrage, an interesting report from the weather bureau, an architectural column, and a Christian Endeavor column.

Worthy Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease, but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on the body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor, strength and health restored to the body.

The Republican Club.

The fifth annual dinner of the club will be held at Music Hall, Boston, on Wednesday, Oct. 23. Distinguished speakers have been engaged, and the committee are making efforts to have this the most successful of any given by the club. Dinner at 6; speaking at 7 o'clock P. M.

Dinner tickets will be $2.00 each, and with each dinner ticket will be given, two tickets to the balconies, for friends of the members. The main floor and the platform will be for the exclusive use of those joining in the dinner.

—The Hebrews in Boston have organized and raised $5000 to oppose the closing of their places of business on Sundays.

Sabbath Protection.

The Rev. M. D. Kneeland, D. D., of Roxbury, will speak on the subject of Sabbath protection in the First Presbyterian church, Water street, South Quincy, Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock. Dr. Kneeland is secretary of the New England Sabbath Protective League, and desires to make this meeting somewhat representative. Accordingly the general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and several leading citizens have been invited to be present and testify to their interest in the work of safe guarding the day of rest. The pastor, who exchanges pulpit with Dr. Kneeland in the evening, will preach upon the same subject at the morning service. The evening meeting will be the first of a series to be held in the near future in different parts of Quincy, and everyone who is interested in the great work should attend. It may be mentioned that in New York this year the League succeeded in closing Sunday theatres, and in stopping the running of Sunday excursion trains.

BALLOT FOR WOMEN.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer's Statements Refuted by Alice Stone Blackwell.

Objections to Suffrage Lack a Sound Foundation.

Vote of Women Is Dreaded and Opposed by All the Vicious Elements.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer's six voluminous articles against woman suffrage contain only a few kernels of real argument in all their mass of verbiage. Her few definite points of objection seem to be these:

1. That suffrage is not a right of anybody, but a privilege to be bestowed by the state upon those persons who possess certain qualifications.

If so, why should it not be bestowed upon those women who possess the qualifications required of men?

2. That the matter is to be determined by expediency.

If so, why exclude the sex that constitutes two-thirds of our church members and less than one-fifth of our criminals—the sex whose vote is dreaded worse than poison by all the vicious elements of the community?

3. That women do not need to vote, because public opinion is all-powerful, and every woman has a part in molding public opinion.

But, as Mrs. Van Rensselaer herself says, "Every man has a part in molding public opinion." Does it follow that men should not vote? The editor of a large daily paper has more power of molding public opinion than any woman in the United States. Does it follow that he ought not to have a vote?

4. That women are represented by men, and that the interests of women collectively are protected by men collectively.

If this means that men in general mean well by women, and do not intend to be unjust or unkind to them, it is true. But if it means that a man is fully able to put himself in a woman's place, and to look at things from her point of view, it is not true. To say this is no more an aspersion upon men than it would be an aspersion upon a man's musical ability to say that he cannot sing soprano as well as bass. Women love their husbands and sons as much as men love their wives and daughters; yet no man would be willing to have laws made for him by a legislature composed wholly of women, and responsible for its official acts to a constituency composed of women alone. He would say that the result was sure to be one-sided, not because the women meant to be unfair or unkind to men, but because they were constitutionally incapable of putting themselves in a man's place and of looking at things from his point of view. The converse is equally true.

5. That men are as keenly interested as women in legislation which affects "the property rights of women, the moral safety of young girls, the welfare of the children of the poor."

If so, why are the property rights of women still unequal in most of our states, and even in Massachusetts? Why is the age of protection for girls in a number of states fixed at 10 years—in Delaware at seven? Why are there thousands of children in almost every large city unable to go to school, because there are not school-rooms enough to hold them?

There are many useful public measures in which men are more interested than women, but in those relating to women, children and the home, women are by nature more interested than men.

6. That women's lesser physical strength makes it unsuitable for them to vote.

The physical constitution of women is substantially the same all the world over; yet for many years hundreds of thousands of women have been exercising municipal suffrage in England, Scotland, Canada, Australia, and in our own western states, without visible damage to their health or to the efficiency of the laws.

7. That the man is the natural protector of the home, and that government and legislation are simply home protection.

The man is the natural protector of the home from external violence, from thieves, fire, etc. But in protecting the home from bad moral and social influences; from waste, dirt, disorder, etc., the mother is as much responsible as the father.

In America only a very small percentage of the work of legislation relates to the military, police and fire departments. This is especially true of municipal legislation. The great bulk of it deals with entirely peaceful matters—with the industrial, moral and social well-being of the community; schools, hospitals, clean streets, good gas and water supply, parks, public libraries, the management of the public charities, the care of the aged and infirm poor, the economical regulation of the city housekeeping in general. These are all within the scope of women's natural interests, and the municipal vote of women would help to take them out of party politics.

8. That women can and will take as much interest in promoting good government without votes as they would with them.

All experience proves the contrary. Non-electors, as a class, never take as much interest in public questions as electors. As a direct result of woman suffrage in Colorado, the women throughout the state organized themselves into good government clubs for the study of public questions. A Denver bookseller told a friend of mine that he sold more books on political economy during the first 18 months after suffrage was extended to women than he had sold during the 15 years before.

9. That women's vote would promote war rather than peace.

The municipal vote has nothing to do with questions of war.

10. That suffrage could not help the wages of working women.

The labor unions all over the country have come to the opposite conclusion. It is the judgment of experts against that of an outsider. In Wyoming the law ordains that in all work done for the state women shall receive equal wages for equal work.

11. That woman suffrage would involve "a political and social revolution of the most radical and far-reaching sort."

Municipal woman suffrage has already prevailed for years throughout a large part of the English-speaking world. It has nowhere been followed by a political or social revolution, or by any of the predicted disasters. If it should result in disaster here, it can be repealed at any time by the legislature, which will still be elected by men alone.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

Company K at Newton.

The field day of the Fifth Regiment at Newton Thursday was an unsurpassed success. Co. K of Braintree was on the field before 9 A. M and was part of the attacking force in the sham battle. Col. Bancroft allowed the commandery officers to exercise their own shrewdness, ingenuity and knowledge of strategy in choice of position and general movements and the new idea worked well.

The war was over about 2 P. M. Rations were served and then came a parade. At City Hall the regiment was reviewed by Mayor Bothfield and others. At West Newton the companies embarked for home.

Company C, of Newton entertained the officers and others in the evening at a banquet, Governor Greenhalge, the Mayor and others speaking.

Castle Square Theatre.

The high estimation in which the Castle Square productions of opera are held may be judged by the following brief extracts from Tuesday's Boston papers, criticising "The Bohemian Girl." "The piece was mounted with the conscientious care and the liberality that characterize the performances at this theatre. The company appeared to enjoy their work and put a vein into it that delighted their audience. The production was even more successful than the presentation earlier in the summer, when the opera scored a notable success in this theatre's operatic season. Miss Clara Lane was a great success as Arline. Musically and dramatically she made an instantaneous hit. Further acquaintance only adds to the impression that this lady makes upon her auditors. Added to an excellent stage presence she possesses a most intelligent conception of her roles and a magnetism that keeps her constantly in touch with those before her. She never for once relaxes her hold upon her character. Naturally her song in the second act, "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," carried the house completely and in the concerted music her voice was heard to most enjoyable advantage, and notably in the trio and quintet in the last act." The attendance during the past week has been at high water mark, and the first class character of the audiences was more evident that at any time since the beginning of the regular season at this perfectly appointed playhouse. The most critical music patrons of Boston find there an opportunity to hear light opera presented in a most attractive manner. As one widely read music critic has said, "One may be sure to find in these Castle Square audiences all his friends, and expect to derive from the performance the highest pleasure and satisfaction. "The Bohemian Girl" has jammed the theatre from floor to second balcony at every performance and the opera goes on record as a magnificent advertisement of the stock company's versatility and capability.

Firemen's Muster.

The largest old time Hand Fire Engine Muster this season, if not for several years, will be held on the Congress street base ball grounds, Boston, next Wednesday, Oct. 16, under the auspices of the New England Firemen's Union.

Some twenty-five of the most famous hand engines have already been entered, including the champion Quansigamog No. 1, Hopkinton, which took the championship at Waltham last August with 241 feet, 8⅝ inches. The Red Jacket of Cambridge, the league championship of last year and a many times prize winner. Its constant rival the White Angel of Salem, the newest and most modern hand engine built, which was constructed a year ago especially for sporting purpose and has since then taken $1,325 in prizes or within $400 of its cost; taking a prize in all of the eleven musters it has attended but one. The Hay Cart of Pawtucket, and others. Every one attending will have a seat, of which there over 15,000.

PARKHURST PROVOKED

At Alleged Manipulations by Conferees on the Fusion Ticket.

He Frees His Mind on the Political Situation.

Says That All Efforts Should Be Directed Toward Exterminating Tammany.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst has made up his mind on the local political situation. He has spent several days in inquiry and reflection, and has looked over the field carefully, and last night gave out the following statement of his position:

"In taking the measure of the present situation, nothing will be gained by slurring over its deplorable features, and also nothing will be gained, but a great deal sacrificed, by allowing such features to make us insensible to those opportunities and duties of the hour which are just as urgent as though no faults had been committed or mistakes made.

"Speaking now in the order of the two points as just presented, I want to say, first, that with the outcome of the efforts that have been made at fusion I am sadly disappointed. Excellent as the fusion ticket is in certain portions of its personnel, no one who has been for any considerable time resident in this city can examine the ticket without instantly discovering that the influences largely operative in its constructions were distinctly indifferent to—not to say antagonistic to—all that makes for the best interest of the city as generally interpreted.

"We are not satisfied to be told of a candidate that 'there is nothing in particular that can be said against him.' We want, on the contrary, men of whom a great deal more that is positive can be said in their favor. There are plenty of such in town, and they are the type of candidate that would be fixed upon by the slatemakers if it were men that were large enough to manage themselves, and not men that were small enough to be managed, that were Really the Thing Sought For.

"Now in this we are not criticising the committee of 50. Their function was understood to be to constrain the several organizations to combine in the composition of a ticket and not to compose a ticket of their own. All they could do was to prod the different organizations into making the ticket as reputable a contribution as was obtainable. They did in that direction all that the wisdom and patience of man could do under the deplorable circumstances by which they were handicapped.

"The issue is another proof of the fact, already numerously illustrated, that the whole effect of partisan politics in municipal matters is to lower the tone of administration, and in that way to strike at the root of all those interests—economic, educational, moral and religious—which it is the proper function of the municipality to foster and subserve. Personally, I prize the present situation as an eloquent object lesson of the debasing effect of having the city's interests safeguarded by men who, whether as Republicans or as Democrats, look upon positions of municipal trust only as legitimate game with which to stock the political larder.

"I venture to think that we should be in better plight today if, after having discovered the manipulating and dickering propensities of the partisan conferrees, the sub-committee of five had stood up in their dignity and self-respect and expressed a preference to deal with men who do not go around

Tagged With a Cost-Mark.

"The responsibility of failure would then be distinctly seen to rest squarely upon the shoulders of the politicians, and so would have been a stinging blow to that whole breed of small manipulators of which we shall have to get rid of before we can either be sure of victory, even after we have won it.

"While it is perfectly clear that nothing of the above can be justly omitted from a fair statement of the case, it is equally clear that whatever other enemies there may be that will require to be knocked down when their turn comes it is neither robust citizenship nor good strategy to concentrate this year upon any other enemy than the one we all combined to paralyze last year, viz., Tammany Hall.

"Interesting as it would be to get all the birds of prey on to one branch and aim at general effects, yet blunderbus fighting is a mode of musketry that is neither the most economical nor the most effective. One enemy killed is better than half a dozen enemies scorched.

"There is no abatement in either the cheerfulness or the heartiness with which I am still prepared to camp on the trail of the striped beast. We shall not be municipally safe until she is dead, for so long as she is able even to lash her tail, she will continue to be the nucleus around which the lawless and disgruntled will always crystallize in the hope of subordinating the God-fearing and the law-abiding to their behests.

After Tiger's Gore.

"On this point the intelligent conscience of the city of New York is agreed. It is, perhaps, the only point just now upon which it is agreed, and if we will stick to one another, and to this point of agreement, we can win. Though I repudiate a portion of the fusion platform, and though I shall not neglect to scratch one or more names on the fusion ticket, yet the fact is no scabbard into which I shall thrust my sword, that is already red with the tiger's blood.

"There are sterling names enough on that ticket to furnish all decent and intelligent citizens a rallying ground, and if we can stand shoulder to shoulder in the election of their names, the cause is maintained and the enemy is worsted, even though this tail of the ticket become the trophy of the wigwam.

"I say that I resent the process by which even the best of that ticket was put forward, but because I except to the machinery that brings about a man's candidacy is no rational ground for my resisting his candidacy, provided always the man is his own master and is pedestaled upon a transparently good record of his own producing.

"Whatever criticism may be passed upon my position as above stated, it is one, I think, upon which sincere citizens can strive for victory without being ashamed, and suffer defeat without being disconcerted."

Four Victims of Explosion.

SPRINGFIELD, Minn., Oct. 12.—A threshing engine, near Mt. Lake, blew up yesterday, killing Joseph Schumacher, Jasper Malatte and two other men, names unknown.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Markets Not New In a Condition Calculated to Inspire Confidence.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The price barometer gives indications that are not entirely favorable. Cotton goods go up with increasing evidence that the crop of cotton is short. Prices of other manufactured products, of wool, hides and leather, all show some decline—a general abatement in new orders being the principal cause.

With an immense volume of business, not much exceeded in the largest month of the exceptional year 1892, and with evidence that in several important branches the volume has surpassed that of any previous year, there is a growing uncertainty about the near future of industries. Money markets are neither strained nor threatening, foreign exchanges no longer raise apprehension, and all fears about the great northern crops are past. There have been few advances in wages of labor within the past month, and only a few works have been closed by strikes for an advance.

Boots and shoes have a very narrow demand, partly because consumers have not taken all the goods already distributed to the trade, and partly because few wish to buy after prices have risen so largely.

Failures of the week have included two banks and several concerns of some size, and have been 268 in the United States, against 231 last year, and 52 in Canada, against 43 last year.

Cause of Emperor's Anxiety.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—In the course of an interview upon European affairs with Prince Lobanoff, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, he said: "The thing which directly troubles Germany and which concerns all Europe is that Prince Bismarck has set up a parliament in which he has established universal suffrage. By this action he has permitted the entrance of the Social Democrats into parliament, and they are now justly the source of anxiety to Emperor William. It is difficult to foresee how he will succeed in warding off this peril. I can understand this being Emperor William's chief anxiety, and it shows his sagacity."

An Unnatural Wretch.

CATANIA, Sicily, Oct. 12. — Gaetana Stomoli has been arrested for the wholesale poisoning of children with phosphorus. She administered the poison by mixing it with wine and prevailing upon the children to drink the mixture. Her victims already number 23. It is stated that they all died in fearful agony. The woman has confessed to having committed the deed, and offered as an explanation that she wanted revenge for the death of two of her own children, who had been bewitched.

Especial Prey of Robbers.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Robbers seem to think that Calvin W. Thomson, who is worth $100,000, has been especially set apart for them to prey upon. Three times in six years they have entered his house and stolen fully $10,000. A few nights ago they made a big haul, securing $7000. Thomson lives in a dilapidated hut, 10 miles west of this city. He is afraid of banks, and the cash used in excessive loans on mortgages is kept at his lonely house. He is 87 years old.

Golden Eagles Adjourn.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The sixteenth annual session of the supreme castle of the Knights of the Golden Eagle ended yesterday. Reading, Pa., was chosen as the place for holding the next session. It was decided not to exact any per capita tax from grand temples of Ladies of the Golden Eagle. The degree of past supreme chief was conferred on Lyman P. Lewis of Massachusetts. The degree of past grand chief was conferred on E. D. Woodbury of Massachusetts.

Commodore Selfridge Honored.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. — Commodore Thomas O. Selfridge has been ordered to at once report in person at the navy department for examination for promotion to the grade of rear admiral. This action is taken because of the retirement of Rear Admiral C. C. Carpenter in February next. This retirement will create a vacancy in the list of admirals on the active list, which it is desired to fill promptly.

Age Against Him.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Colonel George H. Mendell, the second ranking officer of the engineer corps of the army, was placed on the retired list today by operation of law on account of age. He served throughout the civil war with great credit, and was twice breveted for meritorious service. He was regarded as one of the best officers in the army, and his retirement is a great loss to the engineer corps.

Heading Them Off.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Secretary Smith says that he has no knowledge that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize fight managers are intending to have the fight on the government reservation at Hot Springs, Ark., but that should any attempt be made to have the fight on the reservation he will see that the law is enforced. Agent Wisdom has been instructed to suppress all pugilistic encounters.

The Seals Again.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Representatives of the British, Canadian and United States governments will meet here next week to formulate a treaty for the settlement of the claims of British vessel owners whose sealing craft were seized by United States revenue cutters prior to the announcement of the Paris arbitration and antecedent to the modus vivendi.

A Search For Nothing.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 12.—The French cable ship Pouyer Quertier was searched here yesterday, it having been reported that she had a quantity of arms and ammunition for the Cuban rebels on board. Nothing whatever was found in the way of firearms.

A $40,000 Job.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 12.—Work was begun yesterday by the Portland and Westbrook Electric Railroad company on a five mile extension of its line from Westbrook to Pride's Bridge, which is to cost the company $40,000.

Everybody Attended.

DANBURY, Conn., Oct. 12.—Twenty-five thousand people observed Danbury day at the fair yesterday. Among the guests were Governor Coffin and staff, General Palmer and ex-Governor Waller.

Russell Declines.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 12.—Charles A. Russell of this city, recently nominated by the Democrats as a candidate for congress from the Sixth district, has declined to run.

NOTICE TO SLUGGERS

Bear State Will Not Permit Pugilistic Encounters Within Her Borders.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 12.—Governor Clark, who has been examining the laws closely touching the gubernatorial power to prevent prize fighting, last night outlined his intentions in communications addressed to the officers at Hot Springs and the principals in the proposed fight. Upon the mooted question of the proper mode of proceeding, the governor has counseled with other lawyers, and his pronunciamento, which is in favor of preventative measures, is regarded as final.

The governor will hold himself ready to co-operate with Judge Duffie of the Hot Springs district to prevent the fight, should it appear that the local authorities fail to impress upon the fighters and their backers with sufficient force the propriety of declaring the fight off. In his letter to Judge Duffie, Governor Clark says:

"The feature of this threatened prize fight, which has aroused and will continue to arouse the indignation of our people, is its character as an invasion of the state by a class of persons and for a purpose that will not be tolerated elsewhere. Under the circumstances, it is a practical assertion of a belief that our people do not possess tastes and sentiments that harmonize with standards which prevail in enlightened communities. Regarded as such an invasion, the proposed event assumes a magnitude that would not attach to a similar affair locally organized; it becomes more than an infraction of a statute, and its suppression calls for the exercise of more summary measures."

Parker's Position.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Dr. Joseph Parker has written a letter to the pope in answer to the pastoral letters advocating a reunion of Christendom, in which he says: "Were this a personal matter I could hardly forgive myself for seeking to approach a presence so august and venerable. But inasmuch as you have appealed to all sections upon the questions which affect the standing of the soul before God, I have emboldened myself to bear witness to the headship of the blessed Christ and to decline communion with any man or church that would officially or prescriptively come between me and my Saviour."

Nearing the End.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—After a three days' ordeal, Theodore Durrant yesterday left the witness stand. While testifying yesterday the prisoner became so mixed in his dates that he had to refer to a card that he carried to set himself right. He became noticeably confused and rather testy in replies. The defense fought vigorously against the admission of anything bearing on the case of Minnie Williams, and after a long argument Judge Murphy sustained the objections.

Bad For Fishermen.

HALIFAX, Oct. 12.—A heavy northeast gale has been blowing on the Nova Scotia coast, making it very rough for coasting and fishing vessels. There is a large fleet of American fishermen in provincial waters, and over 30 Nova Scotia schooners put into Cape Breton ports yesterday for shelter. Rough weather lately has greatly interfered with the fishery, otherwise the prospects for success are good.

Herr Koch's Duty.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—A deputation of merchants and bankers called upon Herr Koch, president of the reichstag, to congratulate him upon the completion of his 25th year in the service of the bank. Herr Koch, in reply to the address of the deputation, said he especially regarded it as his duty to protect the existing system of the German currency.

Considering Red Men's Needs.

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 12.—The Indian conference last night adopted resolutions reaffirming the utterances of past years. The reservation system was denounced in the strongest terms. It is also held that distribution of money per capita to the Indians should be made with increased caution.

Smugglers Captured.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 12.—Cruiser Fiona returned yesterday from the south coast with six prisoners charged with smuggling spirits from the French island of St. Pierre, Miq., into St. John's, and selling. The spirit dealers will be prosecuted with the utmost rigor of the law.

Sponsors Named.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The navy department has designated Miss Gray, daughter of Senator Gray of Delaware, to christen the new gunboat Wilmington, and Miss Guild, daughter of the mayor of Nashville, to christen the Nashville, at the launching of the two boats.

Maryland Suits Him.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 12.—Bishop Paret of Maryland announced in the house of bishops yesterday that he had decided not to accept the offer of the bishopric of Washington, but would remain in the Maryland see.

As Expected.

BRESLAU, Oct. 12.—It is reported that Herr Liebknecht will be charged with lese majeste on account of remarks contained in his inaugural address to the Socialist congress delivered last Monday.

In Americans' Behalf.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 12. — United States Minister Terrell has telegraphed to his government for a warship to be sent to Messina for the protection of American interests in that district.

Fleet In the Dardanelles.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 12.—The English fleet is anchored in the Dardanelles, ready to sail for Constantinople. A Russian fleet is anchored close to the Bosphorus.

STORM-SWEPT COAST.

Heavy Rain and High Wind From Cape Cod to Portland.

Was Particularly Severe In Boston and Vicinity.

Vessels Had a Hard Time but No Serious Casualties Are Reported.

BOSTON, Oct. 14. — The storm which struck Boston shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday, developing unexpected severity, seems to have been confined almost entirely to the New England coast north of Cape Cod. Boston, however, received the worst drenching, although it rained heavily all along the coast between this city and Portland.

When the storm began there were no indications that it would be anything more than an ordinary rainfall, but by midnight the wind, which had been blowing with increasing force from the southeast, backed to the northeast, and at 7 o'clock yesterday morning had reached a maximum velocity of 40 miles an hour, and was stationary south of Long Island.

Up to 8 o'clock last night 5.22 inches of rain had fallen since Saturday noon in this city, which is more than the total rainfall since July 1.

In 12 hours, from 8 o'clock yesterday morning till 8 o'clock last night, 3.22 inches fell, which is very near the record.

The rainfall at Block island and Nantucket, where it is usually twice as heavy as at any other point, has been very light, neither has it rained very hard along the Maine coast, although there has been a heavy northeast gale along shore for the past 24 hours.

In Boston Bay.

The storm struck the harbor and lower bay, with the wind blowing hard from the southeast, Saturday night. It backed into the northeast at about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, and gradually increased to a violent gale, kicking up a tremendous sea outside. No very serious casualties, however, have been reported.

The upper harbor is filled with shipping, and most of the vessels have out two anchors. Some of them have dragged during the day, and in one or two cases the assistance of a tug was necessary to bring them to a place of safety. Among these was the Bristol (Eng.) barkentine Florence B. Edgett, from Algoa bay, Cape of Good Hope, with a cargo of wool, which Captain Jones of the tug Katie Jones found anchored in a dangerous position near Toddy rocks, off Hull, where she was endeavoring to ride out the storm with 60 fathoms of cable strung out.

Schooner Sabine of Boston drifted across the harbor and was forced against the bulkhead of the New York and New England railroad dock, and sustained considerable damage.

Steamer City of Macon, hence for Savannah, left her berth yesterday, but did not venture beyond quarantine, where she anchored, waiting for the storm to abate.

The steamers Essex, Captain Bond, from Baltimore, and the H. F. Dimock, Captain Coleman, from New York, which were due to arrive yesterday forenoon, are hours behind. It is thought they are anchored under Cape Cod, waiting for the storm to subside.

A fleet of about a dozen fishermen arrived yesterday. Their skippers report the weather very severe outside.

Cars Stopped Running.

The storm in Lynn was very severe, flooding many basements in the business portion of the city, while a number of trees were blown down. Travel on three of the electric car lines was abandoned at 6 o'clock last night. The surf on the beach has been very high.

Tracks Washed Out.

The rainfall during the storm which struck Amesbury has been almost unprecedented, and the tracks of the Merrimac and Amesbury street railway were washed out in a number of places. The damage is also heavy along the entire length of the road.

At the Northern End.

At times yesterday the wind blew 25 miles an hour at Portland, Me., and the rain fell in torrents. The harbor is filled with coasting vessels, and a very heavy sea is running outside. Late last night a large three-masted schooner broke away from her moorings and went waltzing about the harbor. Crash after crash marked her movements among the vessels lying at anchor. The New York and Portland boat Cottage City is long overdue.

Welcomed at Bangor.

A Bangor (Me.) dispatch says that the heavy rain of the past 24 hours has been gratefully hailed in that city as a welcome relief from the protracted drought.

AN APPEAL TO WOMEN

Who Believe That the Right of Suffrage Belongs to Men Alone.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—The Massachusetts association opposed to the extension of suffrage to women has been formed by women who believe that a more systematic resistance should be made to the appeals and claims of woman suffragists, and at a meeting held in Boston in May a standing committee of 100 chose an executive committee for active work in that line. An appeal to the women of Massachusetts says:

"The association urges upon all women interested in the welfare of the state the clear and imperative duty of helping to form a sound public opinion on this important question. We do not believe, however, that it is necessary for women to vote merely to show that they do not desire to vote, and we accordingly advise women to abstain from voting on the question of municipal suffrage for women at the state election but to urge their fathers, husbands and brothers to vote 'No' at that time.

"Women of 21 years of age and over who desire to join the association are requested to send their names and addresses to the secretary, or to any of the undersigned members of the standing committee: Mrs. C. E. Guild, Brookline, secretary; Mrs. J. M. Codman, Brookline; Miss S. H. Crocker, 319 Commonwealth avenue, Boston; Mrs. J. C. Fisk, 33 Quincy street, Cambridge; Miss E. H. Houghton, 1000 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge; Miss Elise Johnson, Weymouth; Mrs. F. C. Lowell, 159 Beacon street, Boston; Mrs. O. W. Peabody, 25 Commonwealth avenue, Boston; Mrs. P. H. Sears, 85 Mt. Vernon street, Boston; Mrs. W. T. Sedgwick, 32 Chestnut street, Boston; Mrs. G. H. Shaw, 23 Commonwealth avenue, Boston; Miss E. P. Sohier, 79 Beacon street, Boston; Mrs. H. M. Whitney, Boylston street, Brookline; Mrs. C. T. Leonard, Springfield; Miss A. L. Dawes, Pittsfield; Mrs. Nathaniel Paine, 72 Elm street, Worcester; Mrs. C. T. Hubbard, Main street, Concord; Miss Julia Delano, 20 Hawthorne street, New Bedford; Mrs. J. F. Pearson, 7 Pond street, Newburyport."

Treasurer Arrested.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—The complications in which the affairs of the Globe Investment company, this city, are involved, were intensified Saturday night by the arrest of its treasurer, J. L. Moore, charged with the embezzlement of $3900, preferred by Judge E. H. Bennett. The affairs of the investment company have been brought into prominence in the courts here recently through the application of several banks in London and Manchester, Eng., and others, for an injunction preventing the company from doing further business until its affairs are settled. The application was granted, and H. A. Wyman was appointed receiver by the court. It is claimed that the receiver found the affairs of the company in a badly tangled condition.

Famous Electrician Killed.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., Oct. 14.—Franklin L. Pope, an electrician, whose skill has made him prominent throughout the electrical world, lost his life last evening by means of the same mysterious fluid that has made him famous. The accident happened in Mr. Pope's residence when it came time to turn on the electricity to light the house. For some reason the lights did not work to the satisfaction of Mr. Pope, and he went down cellar, where the transformer is located, to see if he could remedy the trouble. Soon after he descended the stairs Mr. Pope was found lying beside the transformer, lifeless. Physicians were summoned, but all to no purpose. Three thousand volts had passed through his body.

Bolles' Property Attached.

NEWTON, N. H., Oct. 14.—Another phase of the famous bogus bond case, and one which caused considerable excitement here, developed yesterday, when it became known that Deputy Sheriff Collins of Kingston had attached the residence of ex-Selectman Bolles of this town in a suit brought by the Squamscott National bank of Exeter to recover the face of a $300 note given by Bolles in 1885, on which, the bank declares, Bolles gave as security for a $500 bond of the town of Newton, which has been declared a forgery. Mr. Bolles was a selectman in 1875, during which year the alleged bogus bonds were issued.

McGuire and Russell Matched.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 14.—Articles of agreement were signed here last night for a contest with French foils, for a silver cup and the championship of the world, between the present champion, J. A. McGuire of New York, and William H. Russell of this city. The time and place of the contest have not been agreed upon.

For Honest Money.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle addressed the Massachusetts Reform club Saturday night on the currency question. He declared that he found a menace in the old United States and treasury notes, and their enforced redemption and reissue were strongly condemned.

Evidence of Suicide.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Charles H. Blaney, a crayon artist, is supposed to have committed suicide by drowning in the Charles river. His clothes were found at the river end of Berkeley street, and from letters found in the pockets it is supposed that he had been drinking heavily.

A Crippled Schooner.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—British schooner New Day, of Parrsboro, N. S., Captain Slocum, from Halifax for Demerara, limped into port in a crippled condition, with loss of sails, spars, etc., having been struck by a storm of unusual severity on the 7th. The vessel's hull is intact.

Ten Cars Wrecked.

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 14.—A serious wreck of a freight train occurred on the New England railroad, south of Porter street crossing, shortly after 7 p. m. Ten loaded freight cars were demolished, three men were injured, and a valuable trick horse was killed.

Broke His Neck.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 14. — John Watts, aged 65 years, a resident of Bellingham, Mass., was walking over a railroad bridge in that town when he lost his balance and fell 30 feet into the Charles river. He struck a post in his fall and broke his neck.

To Utilize Rapids.

LEWISTON, Me., Oct. 14.—A party of Lewiston capitalists have purchased the power at Crooked Rips, six miles above this city, and will improve it. There is a fall of 20 feet in a mile. It is probable that a pulp mill will be built there.

Captured In Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Crescenso Mirola, 25 years old, was arrested here yesterday for the murder of Emanuel Livo in Lackawanna Township, Pa., in June, 1894. Mirola was locked up to await requisition papers from Pennsylvania.

A Lucky Thief.

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 14.—The supreme court, in handing down its decision in the case of W. W. Taylor, the defaulting state treasurer, cut his sentence down to two years, to begin Aug. 14 last.

Cuba's Great Flood.

HABANA, Oct. 14. — Over 100 persons were drowned in the flood which followed the recent hurricane in the Vuelta Abajo district.

"THE SUNDAY SALOON"

Should Be Permitted to Exist Under Certain Restrictions.

Total Closing Cannot Be Permanently Achieved.

Dr. Newton Expresses Pronounced Opinions Upon an Important Topic.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Shall saloons remain open on Sundays? Rev. Dr. Heber Newton thinks they should, and expressed himself to that effect in a sermon at All Souls' church yesterday entitled "The Sunday Saloon." He reviewed the work of the present commissioners, and said:

"Mr. Roosevelt has set the standard to which we must hold all his successors. But the question as to what the law should be is wholly another matter. The first step is that the whole question should be submitted to the people of the city to determine. We can never educate a true public sense on this question, except as responsibility is laid upon us.

"Local option means far more than the right of a city to settle its own excise system; it means that civic freedom with which comes the education of a civic conscience.

Existing Laws Good Enough.

"The Christian Endeavor council which has just closed in Brooklyn called for the permanency of the existing laws Christian churches in council assembled echo this demand, and refuse to consider the question of modifying these laws. It seems to me that such a course is a serious mistake.

DR. HEBER NEWTON.

"Such a total closing of saloons through a whole Sunday has never been permanently achieved in any large city of western Christendom. London has the reputation of being the most stringent in its Sabbath observance of any city in Europe, but in London the saloons are open during the afternoon and evening.

"Heretofore, in all attempts to regulate the liquor traffic on Sunday, our community, in common with other communities, has been content with a partial enforcement of Sunday closing. Closing the saloons during the morning, they have been left open under proper restrictions during the latter portion of the day. This has been the course practically pursued in New York through all the time which I can recall, whatever may have been the laws upon the statute books. This presents a possibility of enforcement permanently, and to that extent lessens the evil of intemperance and pays due regard to Sunday.

"All sane attempts to regulate the liquor traffic on Sunday in great towns and cities seek to distinguish between the drinks which are offered, prohibiting the sale of ardent spirits and allowing the sale of beers and light wines. The present laws in New York make no such distinction. Such a total suppression through the whole Sunday is not now achieved, even on

Mr. Roosevelt's Own Testimony.

He claims that 90 per cent of the saloons are closed. Those who live in regions principally occupied by saloons would allow a much less percentage than this.

"The law cannot be enforced beyond the point where the conscience and the will of a community are behind it. Law is not the driving wheel of reform, it is the ratchet wheel. It holds the gains made by the public sense of the community.

"The temperance aspect of the question is, in reality, nothing less than the old prohibition doctrine applied to one day out of the seven. Prohibition on one day out of seven will share the fate of prohibition through the seven days.

"The law will break down in the future as it has broken down in the past. Private clubs will take the place of the saloons. The side doors will be opened when the front doors are closed. All manner of shifts to evade the law will obtain. The result will be morally worse than from the attempts to enforce a practical resistance of the Sunday traffic.

"We should have the old demoralization of the community through the failure to enforce the laws upon the statute books; we shall have worse liquors sold under worse conditions, resulting in worse drunkenness."

Both Were Good Shots.

GLOUCESTER, O., Oct. 14.—David C. Cooke, city marshal, was attacked on the street last night by ex-Night Marshal Donnelly, who, from an old grudge, began firing at Cooke. Five shots were fired, and both fell dead 10 feet apart, Cooke with four balls in his breast, and Donnelly with a bullet through his heart.

On Good Terms.

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—Emperor William yesterday received Prince Lobanoff, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, and Chancellor von Hohenlohe at Hubertustock. This visit must be regarded as a return visit of Chancellor von Hohenlohe to the czar and as a sign of improved relations.

Armenian Murders.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 14.—A report has reached the patriarchate that two Armenians were murdered on leaving the Koumkapou church during the evacuation of the churches by the Armenian refugees.

GOLF MATCH FOR MEN.

Messrs. Brock, Freeman, Fairbanks, Porter, Taylor and Grant the Six.

The members of the Wollaston Golf club showed pluck on Saturday in playing the first of the men's championship over the wet links in the face of a driving northeast gale. Good work under such conditions was impossible. The six players who made the best scores on Saturday, play on Oct. 19th for the championship of the club and the Corthell cup. Mr. Brock heads the list with a score of 99. And by-the-way, he and Mrs. Brock have been carrying off all of the honors recently. When playing was first started on these links the Quincy members scooped everything but as soon as the Wollaston contingent got a little practice they soon turned the tables.

The score, the first six being elegible for next Saturday's contest:

	First round	Second round	Total
Elbert H. Brock	48	51	99
R. R. Freeman	51	49	100
H. M. Fairbanks	52	49	101

Infant Health

SENT FREE

It is a matter of vast importance to mothers. The manufacturers of the GAIL BORDEN EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK issue a pamphlet, entitled "INFANT HEALTH," which should be in every home. Address, NEW YORK CONDENSED MILK CO., 71 Hudson Street, New York.

THE STORM LOCALLY.

It Rained and the Wind Blew for Forty Hours.

Yachts Suffer at Wollaston Beach, Houghs Neck and Quincy Point.

Summer Cottages, Bath Houses, Etc., Also Damaged by Storm.

Ten yachts foundered, stranded and dismasted, and five yacht tenders smashed is the record of Sunday's storm at the Wollaston beach.

The wind reached a velocity of 44 in Quincy and 64 miles on Blue Hill.

The autumnal gales have been backward this season. It has been an exceptionally pleasant fall. Rains have been few, so few in fact that reservoirs and rivers were running low. On Saturday the weather indications pointed to an easterly gale. At about noon on that day the storm commenced. It continued with increasing violence through the night and at high water on Sunday morning the wind had increased to a gale, kicking up a heavy cross sea, making the yachts labor hard at their moorings. It was thought that the storm, as is often the case, would go out with the tide, but instead it apparently increased. The wind veered incessantly from E. N. E. to N. N. E., thus sweeping directly in through the Nantasket roads to the Wollaston beach.

It was seen early in the day by the crowd of yachtsmen that had gathered at the Squantum Yacht club's house that a part of the large fleet of yachts which is moored off there would either founder or part their moorings before the gale blew itself out.

The most serious accident happened to the Naid Queen, Charles M. Smith, owner, which was cradled at the yacht club pier preparatory to being hauled out. A line had been run from her hounds to the pier the day before to keep her upright. This proved fatal to her mast as she listed to the port, snapping it off at the deck. She was finally hauled out of her dangerous position, escaping further injury.

The yachts which broke their moorings and beached were the sloop Elsa, Martin W. Frolund, owner; jib and mainsail yacht, Henry O. Rideout, owner; sloop Gertrude, J. E. Sanford, owner; sloop Little Lee, Wm. Fenton, Jr., owner; cat Ida E., J. E. Frisby, owner.

The yachts which foundered were the jib and mainsail, 1492, Arthur E. Linnell, owner; the fast cat boat None Such, owned by H. T. Whitman, and the clipper dory Trilby, C. G. Emerson, owner.

At Houghs Neck some of the cottages suffered from the wind, chimneys being blown over and blinds torn off. The high tide also floated off a bath house.

At Quincy Point a lumber vessel was blown upon the flats.

The lines of the telephone service were badly crossed and in many places the lines are down or have so heavy a ground upon them that it is impossible to use them.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

It took seven formal ballots at the second district Republican Councillor convention on Saturday to place a candidate in nomination, the final vote being:

Number of votes cast	229
Necessary for choice	115
Benjamin S. Lovell had	115
Sidney Cushing,	75
Robert S. Gray,	38
Cyrus A. Savage,	1

All and all it was a very disgraceful convention, and but for the strong majority in the district might be rebuked at the polls, although the nominee might have been in no way responsible. It was impossible to keep order, and one of the delegates called in the police. There were charges of repeating.

J. Merrille Brown of Milton was nominated at the 4th Norfolk Republican representative convention held in Milton Saturday.

The Quincy Democratic representative convention to nominate one candidate will probably be held Wednesday evening and Dr. William Everett will be the choice.

Saturday evening the Registrars added the names of 19 male voters to the list and restored 9. They also added the names of 6 female voters.

FOR SHERIFF. It appears as though there would be more excitment in the coming State election as to who shall be the Sheriff of Norfolk County, than for any other county officer. This fall for the first time for several years, the Republicans have nominated at their county convention a party man for that place. The delegates were urged to fill this honorable position by a good Republican and let the old and faithful servant, Sheriff Endicott, step down and out. This does not seem to please many of the voters. They do not see why a faithful officer should be removed without some just cause. Read what Mr. Monk of Stoughton has to say on this subject in another column.

—The city of Lynn has appealed from the award of the metropolitan park commission.

TWO LIVE TOPICS

Disposed of in a Succinct Manner by Don M. Dickinson.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Don M. Dickinson is in Washington on business. His name has been spoken of recently as the one referred to by Sackville-West in his pamphlet as the member of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet responsible for the minister's summary dismissal. Mr. Dickinson, being asked as to the facts of the case, said: "As the incident occurred when I was a member of the cabinet, I do not feel at liberty to discuss it. But as to Sir Lionel Sackville-West, I have no hesitation in saying that he is now and always has been an infernal ass."

DON DICKINSON.

Mr. Dickinson was asked for his views on Cuba, as it has been stated that he represented an advanced position on these questions among the leaders of his party. He said he did not care to go into the subject at length. The developments at no distant day would speak more eloquently than words. He referred to the fact that Daniel Webster had recognized the independence of Greece many years before that country had actually secured complete independence, and in those days even Webster had been accused of "jingoism."

Against Rebate System.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Representatives of life insurance companies met in the Fifth Avenue hotel on the call of Commissioner George S. Merrill of the Massachusetts insurance department, the object being to devise means for stopping rebates on life insurance premiums. Commissioner Merrill holds that the rebating of premiums in a mutual company is unjust to the membership and baneful in its effects upon the interest of business universally. He suggested that a reward be offered to any person through whose instrumentality the conviction of a rebater is brought about.

Lynching Likely to Follow.

GREENWOOD, S. C., Oct. 14. — J. J. Moseley, a liquor constable, early yesterday morning seized some liquor coming in on a train. He was accompanied by a trial justice's constable and had a warrant. While storing the whisky in the depot a negro seized a jug and ran. Moseley fired two shots at him, and just then was shot dead from behind. Four negroes have been arrested. There are threats of lynching, and the local militia has been ordered to hold itself in readiness to respond to the orders of the mayor.

Insurgents' Prize.

HABANA, Oct. 14.—The insurgents at Aserradero bay, near Santiago de Cuba, captured a pilot boat, commanded by a lieutenant in the Spanish navy and having marines on board, which was doing cruiser duty along the coast. The insurgents carried away the armament of the cruiser, consisting of a gatling gun and all the ammunition, stores, etc., which they found on board, together with the weapons of the Spanish marines.

Wilson's Strategy.

POCATELLO, Ida., Oct. 14.—Lieutenant J. K. Miller of the Eighth Infantry, stationed about two miles from Jackson's Hole, states that J. C. Wilson, who brought the false report of the killing of Captain Smith and companions in Jackson's Hole, is a deserter from the Seventh cavalry in camp in the Teton Pass, and that Wilson made these statements in order to obtain a relay of horses and to facilitate his escape.

Threat of the Pope.

ROME, Oct. 14.—There is a strong probability that the protest of the pope against the proposed visit of King Carlos of Portugal to King Humbert, and the threat of his holiness to refuse to receive King Carlos should he come to Rome, will be effective to prevent the coming to this city of the Portuguese king.

Old Composer Gone.

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 14. — Professor Thomas Coates, a musical composer of considerable note, died here of paralysis, aged 75 years. The deceased was the leader of the first circus band in America. He was one of the original French horn players in this country.

A General Shakeup.

LEAD CITY, S. D., Oct. 14.—The central and north central portions of the Black Hills felt an earthquake shock Saturday night. Windows rattled, doors slammed and houses rocked, but as far as heard there was no serious damage.

Sentenced to Death.

FREEPORT, Ills., Oct. 14.—Frank W. Harris, the professional baseball player, who murdered Charles W. Bengal, was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged. The condemned man fainted in court.

Opera House Burned.

DULUTH, Oct. 14.—The Temple Opera House was burned yesterday morning. The loss is $100,000. The Masonic hall extended across the theater on the sixth floor, and the loss to them is heavy.

Specie Movements.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The exports of specie from the port of New York last week amounted to $126,710 in gold and $824,835 in silver. The imports were: Gold, $143,648; silver, $19,341.

American Enterprise In Siberia.

VLADIVOSTOCK, Oct. 14.—An American scientific expedition has arrived here to inspect the Siberian railway. The government will grant them full facility for accomplishing their work.

To Instruct Revolutionists.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—Sylvester Scovel left yesterday for Cuba, where he goes under contract with the revolutionists to act as instructor in cavalry drill.

Fastest Unpaced Mile.

DENVER, Oct. 14.—W. W. Hamilton rode one mile unpaced in 2:00 2-5. The best previous record was 2:07 1-5. Hamilton's record is official.

QUINCY BREVITIES

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

No council meeting tonight.

Take F. J. Pierson's advice.

There will be a new moon Friday evening.

On Thursday the sun will rise at 6 and set at 5.

The watering carts can take a rest for a few days.

The barometer fell to 29.65 on Sunday afternoon.

The Old Farmer's almanac predicted Sunday's storm.

A grand morning after the storm. Everything bright and fresh.

Registration for the State election closes on Wednesday of this week.

Few people were about Sunday, outside of those who were obliged to be.

Only $2,500 of the tax of 1895 had been paid into the city treasury Sept. 30.

Sunday's storm gave the streets on First and Second hills at Wollaston a bad gullying.

The Wollaston lodge, Knights of Honor, has added $10 to the Quincy Hospital fund.

Auctioneer Johnson will sell the entire stock of J. J. Taylor's livery stable at Atlantic on Thursday.

But a few more days are left in which to get registered if you wish to vote at the November election.

Mr. J. H. Broughton of Wollaston has leased the Corthell house at the corner of Brook and Taylor streets.

The receipts from water service of 1895 up to Oct. 1, were $34,427.76, and $5,013.42 has been collected this year on service in past years.

The '96 model bicycles will be a little heavier than those this year, which were found in many cases to be too light for practical purposes.

Dr. William Everett will lecture this evening in the South Congregational church, Boston, on the occasion of the "commemoration of Col. William Prescott."

Superintendent Cavanagh reports that the water in the reservoir of the City Water supply has gained over a foot since Saturday and is steadily gaining. A water famine is thus averted.

Sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning parties unknown entered the sheds of S. Henry Earnicoat on Centre street and ruined a valuable monument by knocking pieces off.

Owing to the severity of the storm Sunday, Souther the newsdealer was unable to deliver any Sunday papers on several of his routes, something that has not happened before for years.

The Kittredge estate at Quincy Point just purchased by J. W. Wilbur will be known as "Quincy Park." It is being laid out into house lots and will be placed upon the market the last of the month.

Over five inches of rain fell in the storm of Saturday and Sunday. It was much needed and did lots of good as well as damage. The total rainfall in October last year was 6.63 inches, and it was the biggest month of the year.

On Edwards hill there lives a cat of the female gender that became inquisitive Sunday and undertook to ascertain the contents of a can that stood on a bench near by. It so happened that the can contained red paint and varnish, and the result of it is there is a Gay red shiny cat running about today and as the paint can not be removed her catship may soon occupy a prominent place in some dime museum as a curiosity.

An important change in the running time of electric cars on the Braintree line goes into effect Wednesday. On and after that date cars will leave Quincy for Braintree on the hour and half hour, and leave Braintree for Quincy 15 minutes before and 15 minutes past the hour. Leave Holbrook for North Braintree 15 minutes before and 15 minutes past the hour. Leave North Braintree for Holbrook 15 minutes before and 15 minutes past the hour. To The Ladies of Quincy.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The coming campaign promises to be interesting to those who believe that municipal suffrage should be granted to women.

It is surprising that in such a progressive city as Quincy, that her bright women seem to be all fast asleep on this important question. There are hundreds of intellectual woman in Quincy today, who are infinately better fitted by birth and education to vote than many of the foreigners within our gates, yet who stand idly by and do nothing. Some say that the ladies do not want to go to the polls to vote with men, but if the ladies once obtained the right to vote, and were expected at the polls upon election day, it would be quickly demonstrated that nothing of an objectionable character would be found at the polling booths. The presence of ladies in any public gathering tends to elevate the tone of the whole meeting, and the day is not far distant when the men and women will meet at the polls upon the morning of election day upon an equal footing, and cast their votes together upon the questions of the hour. Shall we be behind the women of England, whose presence at the polls has done so much to elevate the tone of politics in that country?

Do not be deceived by arguments against this great question. No one can compel you to vote, even if you register your name. This is a free country and no one can be compelled to vote against their will, but you can register your name, and then vote or not, as you choose.

Registration closes October 16th. Now is your chance ladies to identify yourselves with the question of the hour. Go to City Hall and register your names before the registration closes. It is surprising that our bright Quincy woman will not wake up to the possibilities that are before them, and take an active interest in the question of suffrage for women. It wants some one to lead. Who will be the next to register?

Sensible Furniture.

In building this furniture business we've had lots to contend with, and our one purpose has been from the start to give the citizens of Quincy and adjoining towns, the very best possible store service in existence.

It has not been our policy to advertise a few things at cost and ask a hundred per cent. profit on everything else, but sell everything at a uniformly low price, at as small a profit as possible. Goods right and prices right are what the people want today, and there isn't a better place on earth to find them just as you'd like than at this, The People's Store.

A Waste of Water.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The bountiful rain of Sunday has probably replenished the Quincy water supply so that there will be no further alarm this year, but the writer wonders if the water department is at all saving of water; whether there is not a cat in the meal who would like to get into the Metropolitan system. Last Friday, when the water in the reservoir was at its lowest point on record, I read in the LEDGER that all the water was drawn out of the large 20 inch main to insert a branch. Could not the branch have been inserted just as well when the reservoir was full?

A RAINY SUNDAY.

Many Braved the Storm to Attend Church Services.

Rev. Martin D. Kneeland, D. D., who spoke at the Presbyterian church, Water street, Sunday evening on the "Religious Observance of the Sabbath" said it was not the purpose of the league to attempt an enforcement of the "blue laws" but to have Sunday observed in a manner consistent with common sense. He pointed out where reforms were needed.

The subject of the Christadelphian lecture Sunday evening was: "Hell, as it is revealed in the Scriptures."

Rev. F. O. Hall was installed as pastor of the North Avenue Universalist church at Cambridge on Sunday evening.

The vestrymen of Christ's church have appointed a committee to consider the enlargement of the church.

There was a slim attendance at all of the Wollaston churches, Sunday, on account of the storm.

Rev. Oliver Huckell of Weymouth has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Congregational church at Attleboro, Mass.

At the Centre Congregational church Sunday morning the storm reduced the congregation to 60. About 40 attended Sunday School and only 20 were at the evening service.

The hard storm of Sunday did not prevent a large number from being present at the dedication of the Swedish Lutheran Church on Granite street.

The church was elaborately decorated with potted plants and flowers and looked very pretty.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. O Olsen, president of the Augustana college and theological seminary at Rock Island, Ill. Addresses were also made by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Johnson, and Rev. Mr. Brandane of Lynn.

Singing was furnished during the exercises by the choir and congregation.

Among the visiting clergymen present were Rev. C. F. Johansson of Boston and Rev. Mr. Thoreen of Campello.

Serious Railroad Danger.

By request of F. C. Field of this city we copy the following communication from the Boston Daily Standard:

The Old Colony railroad recently changed all inward bound trains from the left track to the right, and outward trains vice versa. This has placed all the stations on the wrong side of the track, and will render them useless to the patrons of the road during the winter months, when they are most needed. Passengers will be obliged to wait under open sheds for all inward bound trains, with the danger of contracting serious colds; or they will wait in the station till they see the train coming, when they will be obliged to cross two tracks, in front of the approaching train. This will be sure to cause loss of life, and damages will have to be paid by the company for not having provided suitable accomodations.

It is about time that a new station was built on Kneeland street. The present structure is a disgrace to the city of Boston and to the company that owns it. It is a dark, dirty, dreary structure, with a leaky roof, not one quarter large enough, incoming trains frequently having to leave their passengers within a short distance from the South Boston bridge, beyond the sheds and the depot. Many of the outward trains have to start from the sheds which are a long distance from the depot on Kneeland street. This is frequent cause of persons losing their trains.

It is now about 15 years since a prominent builder drew the attention of the officials to the fact that the roof was insecure and liable to come down at any time. Since then nothing has been done to improve the depot, except to strengthen the roof. At present it is the most dilapidated depot in Boston, if not in New England.

This grievance should be taken up by the various improvement societies on the line of the Old Colony, and the attention of the railroad commissioners drawn to the same—the only way in which a long suffering public can obtain any redress.

THOMPSON FOR SENATOR.

A Contest for Member of the State Central Committee.

The 1st Norfolk Democratic Senatorial convention was held Saturday afternoon at Democratic headquarters in Quincy.

Mr. John V. Scollard called the meeting to order after which James D. Grant of Hyde Park was elected chairman and W. H. Sampson, Jr., of Quincy, secretary.

Messrs. John V. Scollard of Braintree, W. T. Shea of Quincy, E. P. Millett of Hyde Park, John B. Whalen of Weymouth and J. H. Ward of Milton were appointed a committee on credentials.

This committee reported 33 out of the 68 delegates present. The temporary organization was then made permanent.

No names were presented to the convention and a committee consisting of T. R. Newell of Weymouth, J. V. Scollard of Braintree, William H. King of Holbrook, F. Eliot Cabot of Milton and W. B. Orcutt of Quincy, were appointed to retire and present a name to the convention as a candidate.

This committee reported the name of Caleb Thompson of Braintree, who was upon the motion of Mr. Scollard nominated by acclamation.

Upon motion of Mr. Orcutt of Quincy, the District Committee were empowered to fill the vacancy in case Mr. Thompson declined to be a candidate.

It was then voted to proceed to an informal ballot for a member of the State Central Committee and Messrs. W. T. Shea of Quincy, B. W. Murray of Hyde Park and J. B. Whalan of Weymouth were appointed to receive and count ballots.

Before the ballot was taken Maj John W. Hart of Weymouth who has served as State Central Committee for 15 years stated that he did not desire to be a candidate.

The result of the informal ballot was as follows:

Whole number of votes	32
Necessary for choice	17
John V. Hart had	14
William H. King had	8
John V. Scolland had	9
William Everett had	1

A motion to nominate Maj. Hart was lost and a motion to take a formal ballot prevailed.

The result of the formal ballot was as follows:

Whole number of votes,	32
Necessary for choice,	17
John V. Scollard had	18
John W. Hart had	13
William H. King had	1

Upon the motion of Maj. Hart the ballot for Mr. Scollard was made unanimous.

Upon motion of Mr. Grant of Hyde Park a vote of thanks was extended to Maj. Hart for his 15 years faithful service.

Mr. James D Grant of Hyde Park was elected chairman of the Senatorial District Committee and the convention adjourned.

WHY A CHANGE?

A Republican Who Will Vote for A. B. Endicott.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

The office of sheriff is semi-judicial and should not be dragged into the political arena. It has, to the credit of the intelligence of the voters of Norfolk County, been so regarded largely in the past. Mr. Endicott, receiving at first the nomination of both parties, Republican and Democratic, and when party ambition chose to make it otherwise the sound judgment of the people said No, and Mr. Endicott was retained by a phenominal majority. The lesson was appreciated and when again the time expired and a re-election was necessary, the Republicans made no nomination and Mr. Endicott received the votes of both parties, and now again ambition and selfish desire seeks to supercede an efficient, honest and faithful official because an aspirant seeks his place. We believe the innate sense of justice heretofore expressed by the intelligent voters of Norfolk County will again be repeated.

It is said we need a younger man, but no claim is made that Mr. Endicott is incapacitated by reason of his years. We know the grace and gentlemanly bearing of Mr. Endicott; his vigilance and judicial trust is as keen as in former years. Let us prove, then, that gratitude we owe to capability and honesty, as an evidence of the strength of Republican government, and not that other saying, "that Republics are ungrateful."

Age crowns some men with grander powers to serve the public, which our own history demonstrates. We see a Franklin crossing the ocean to serve the infant Republic in the courts of Europe when over three score years and ten, and eleven years later, when an octogenarian, a member of that august body of statesmen who formulated the constitution of the grandest nation on the globe—a John Q. Adams in the forum of the nation battling for freedom, more effective than in his youth. We do not, as Republicans, wish to relegate to the rear, Justice Morrill, the defender of American protection, because of age. Gladstone, the Premier of England, led his nation when a half-score of years older than Mr. Endicott. I say let not partisanship shame us in this regard.

AFTER A YEAR.

The slender lilies nod their heads
On either side the garden way,
And all along the flower beds
Tall foxgloves stand in fair array.
The throstle, in the pear tree near,
Still carols, as when first we came,
The same old song he sang last year,
And we, we are no more the same.

How strong the lilies smell! How neat
The ordered rosebuds, row on row!
It's still the scene that seemed so sweet
A year ago—a year ago.
We noticed how that apple bough
Stood out so green against the sky.
It's just as fair as ever now,
But we are altered, you and I.

The days have come between us two
And moved us ever more apart,
We cannot, as we used to do,
Tell to each other all our heart,
Only a year since last we met,
But in that year what things have been!
We walk, we talk together, yet
We cannot bridge the gulf between.

All looks unchanged save us alone,
We've drifted into other ways.
Time turns the page, the past is gone,
And naught restores the vanished days.
The flying hours new scenes reveal.
We never fancied, you and I,
They would come when we should feel
No longer sad to say goodby.

SEPARATION.

"It is usual, I believe," he said, "before dissolving partnership to take accounts. Let us see what we each brought into the firm."

"You begin," she answered.

"I brought fair ability, energy, ambition, a decent position, means of comfortable life, an unblemished name. Every one said I wasn't 'a bad sort,' and, more than all, I brought deep, true, passionate love."

Said the woman, "I brought beauty"—her statement was splendidly true—"youth, physical purity—to which you do not lay claim." He bowed. "Perhaps little else, for it was generous of you to marry the daughter of an undischarged bankrupt."

"What have we got out of our marriage?" continued the husband. "Let me speak. Of course the honeymoon was a failure. Poets and novelists"—he spoke bitterly—"tell wicked, ridiculous lies about honeymoons. They never are wholly happy, unless, perhaps, when it's the wife's second honeymoon. After that three months' exquisite, almost mad joy, then four months of happiness, followed by three of contentment, ending in a year of gradually increasing misery."

"Of course the honeymoon was a failure," she answered. "The next three months were happy, the following four not bad, the subsequent three indifferent, and the year was intolerable. You got more out of the business than I, for you put more in. Alas, I had not the beautiful mad love's capital, and yet"—

"And yet," interrupted the man, misunderstanding, "you have wasted that capital, and the beautiful mad love has gone, and I, who once would have died for you—more than that, would have lived disgracefully for you. I do not believe in the 'loved I not honor more'—am content to dissolve partnership, willing that we should part as friends."

"Content? Willing?" she asked. "Tell me, what do you regret most?"

"I regret my bankruptcy," he said. "I began our partnership with what I thought a splendid, inexhaustible fund of love. I look back to moments of happiness beyond description, and now I am insolvent in love. After all, I believe," he continued, with a pleasant, manly smile, "I believe that it is 'better to have loved and lost," even if it be the love and not the sweetheart that one has lost. Do you regret nothing? What clings in your mind?"

She shook her head.

"Come, you should tell me. There, on the table near you, is the deed of dissolution, the separation deed—it hasn't even been engrossed on parchment, but is printed on paper. At the end are two seals. We execute the dissolution deed by putting our fingers on the seals. The partnership was executed with our lips. In a quarter of an hour Mr. Hawkins, the lawyer, will be here to witness the execution. Tell me."

She shook her head again—her splendid head, regular in feature, delightful in complexion, crowned with gorgeous auburn hair, illumined by deep, large, violet eyes.

"You regret nothing?"

With a sigh she answered: "I regret that you have cast your pearls before me. I regret that I have misprized and lost your love; that I gave you little in return. I regret that my very inability to return your love truly has irritated me by making me feel your debtor; that feeling of irritation has helped to make you miserable and me miserable too."

"I did not use the word regret quite in that sense," he answered. "I meant, is there nothing that you look back to of happiness that yet lives in your memory?"

She put down the fan that had fluttered in her tender hands, and with half a smile, half a blush, answered, "there was one thing, one moment, that I regret."

He rose and walked up and down the room, the daintily furnished room, everything in which was a note in a dead love song.

"A year ago, almost to the day, certainly to tomorrow, we were at Etaples, you recollect?"

"It was for economy I went, because it was ridiculously cheap and very petty, and I hated Boulogne."

"I remember how we wandered about; how, alas, we quarreled in the lovely pine woods, or, to be true, I quarreled, and you suffered, and the splendid seashore, where I said bitter things because my friends were at Trouville and I at the quiet Paris Plage, and you were sad and silent."

"My dear," he interrupted, "I was greatly to blame."

"Hush! You must not interrupt. Then one day we took a boat—a clumsy boat—and sailed out, despite the warnings of the fishermen. I didn't care, you didn't care—what happened. We had quarreled, or, rather, I, at lunch, said harsh things."

"My dear," he interrupted, "there were faults on both sides. They rendered life intolerable and love impossible, but"—

"Hush! We rowed out. You had the sculls and I steered—at least I lay in the stern and splashed the waves with my hands—the hands you used to kiss so often."

She paused and looked at the hands—firm, plump and white and decked with lovely rings of curious workmanship. He, too, looked at them and sighed. She sighed.

"But out we went. Then the skies became dark, the water darkened, too, and grew rough, and you tried to turn. We were far, far away from shore. You must have been looking at me instead of the land, or you would have seen that we were floating fast in a current. With an effort you brought the boat round and pulled for safety. Oh, you looked splendid! Your thin jersey showed the lines of your strong, supple body, the muscles of your arms and chest rose superbly, and your manly face, flushed and firm, fascinated me."

The man smiled, half scornfully.

"You pulled hard, and I don't think I was frightened. I didn't care what happened. Then the rotten oar cracked, and you bound it round with our handkerchiefs, but it still was weak, so you tore off a long strip of my petticoat to bind it with, and we drifted, drifted out. When at last you tried again, it snapped, and the blade fell into the sea. Then you came to me, to the stern, and took the tiller from my hands. You put your arm round my waist and said, 'Don't be afraid, dear wife!' I knew we were drifting out to open sea, storm and death and was aware that you knew it. 'Don't be afraid, little wife,' you said, and suddenly put your arm round my neck."

"I remember."

"Yes, I know. Let me go on. You brought my face to yours and laid your lips on mine. Oh, that kiss—that kiss! It still stings on my lips. In it I felt the depth of your love. I felt that I loved you—felt that we were man and wife, and the only beings alive on land or sea. That kiss is what I regret—that kiss, the one moment of rapture in my life."

She paused.

"I remember."

"Why did that foolish steamer save us? I could have died there, happy in your arms—quite happy."

"Quite happy?"

"Yes, quite. To think that we quarreled within a week—at least I did—and things went worse than ever afterward! What are we women made of? The old song is wrong—we are made of gall and wormwood and marble. To think that we are here, and that paper lies there! You've acted very handsomely, allowing me more than half your income and letting me keep the flat."

"Do you think I could live in it after you have gone?" he answered, with a break in his voice. "There's nothing in it that does not speak of you. It's a graveyard of memories."

She looked at him over the fan and saw tears in his eyes. Then she rose and walked across the room.

"Herbert," she said in a timid voice, after a long pause, "it is 4 o'clock. He'll be here in five minutes to see the deed executed."

The man bowed his head and hid his face in his hands.

She took out her handkerchief, a ridiculous bit of lace and lawn, and touched her eyes.

"Herbert, tomorrow is just a year after that day. The night train starts at 8 o'clock. If we went to Etaples, we might find—might find—that kiss again."

He jumped up, tears in his eyes and a smile on his lips. "You mean to say"— He caught her in his arms and pressed his lips long and passionately on her mouth.

"I don't think we really need go to Etaples," she said, with a smile, after a long pause, "but it will be a pleasant little—little honeymoon."

He rang the bell, told the servant to tell Mr. Hawkins that no one was at home, and she bade the girl pack her things instantly. When the girl left the room, they both took hold of the deed and slowly, gravely tore it into two pieces.

"It is a new way," he observed, "of executing deeds of separation."—Sketch.

When Mars Was Inhabited.

There are many reasons in favor of the supposition that Mars is more likely to have been inhabited in past ages than at the present time in spite of its atmosphere or water or clouds. Mr. Proctor, for instance, has pointed out that a globe of the size of Mars would cool rather more than two and a half times as quickly as one of the size of the earth. If the earth and Mars were in a similar condition 18,000,000 years ago, Mars would have attained, according to that rate of cooling, to the earth's present condition 7,000,000 years—i. e., 11,000,000 years ago—and the earth would now require 28,000,000 future years in which to cool as much as Mars has cooled during the last 11,000,000 years. So far as regards that consideration, therefore, the probability of the present habitability of Mars must be compared with the probability of the earth's being inhabited when 28,000,000 more years will be past and gone.—Nineteenth Century.

Edison's Definition of Electricity.

Congressman O. M. Hall of this state tells this story of Edison: The latter appeared before the committee on patents to make an argument on some proposed bill. Mr. Hall, prefacing his question with an apology for the ignorance of the committee concerning electricity, asked Edison if he could tell the committee what electricity was. "Oh, yes," said the wizard. "It is a mysterious fluid about which nothing is known." The argument then proceeded.—St. Paul Globe.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

—At the Mechanics' Fair, opened recently, the art display alone contains $150,000 worth of paintings. The painting of all, that will attract the greatest amount of attention, is the largest in the entire exhibition, and likewise the finest of all, Verstchagin's "Eternal Abode of Snow," a magnificent painting of Mount Everest. This painting is not for sale, being loaned by the American Art Galleries, New York. "The Celestial Choir," by J. H. Witt, quoted at $6000, is another painting worthy of study.

Irony.

What would the world be if the good ceased striving,
Did no one stand for justice, no one say
I am for virtue, but the truth betray,
Raising no protest, silently conniving?
Who ever lived true life by such contriving?
Who has not longed, after some dreadful day,
For night to drop its curtain on the play,
With silent benediction all things shriving?
'Tis not by irony men live. We need
To know who are the mourners, who have tears,
Who would give life for country or for creed,
Not quench his own and others' fire in sneers.
Ah, God! From street to street we sometimes go
As men in masks and know not friend from foe.

CORRECTED BY OLNEY.

Spanish Prime Minister Misinterpreted Our Treaty Rights.

Question of Consul General's Diplomatic Power

Led to Emphatic Correspondence Being Transmitted to Spain.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A special Washington dispatch to The World reveals the true inwardness of the state department's correspondence with the Spanish government, which so stirred up diplomatic circles in Madrid last week.

What this government has done has been to formally notify the Spanish government that action recently taken by it in Habana is in violation of the treaty rights of this country, and that for any danger to American citizens and American dignity arising therefrom Spain will be held responsible.

The circumstances are as follows: Since Consul General Williams compelled Captain General Callegja, while governor general of Cuba, to recognize the treaty of 1877 in the case of Julio Sanguily, and by so doing prevented the trial of the latter by a military court in Habana last February, the Spanish government has been restive over the question of Mr. Williams' diplomatic authority.

Senor Canovas, the Spanish prime minister, after the subject was fully considered at a meeting of the Spanish ministry, at which he presided in person, decided to deprive Mr. Williams of all diplomatic authority and confine him strictly to the purely commercial or consular privileges of his office. It is known that General Campos sent for Mr. Williams recently and communicated to him that Instruction From Spain.

Secretary Olney straightway prepared a state paper in which he disagreed with the conclusion of the Spanish minister. As the treaty with the United States grants the American consuls all the rights and privileges of consuls of "the most favored nation," Secretary Olney informed Senor Canovas that the United States demands that his government concede the same privileges and functions to the United States consul general at Habana that are given to other consul generals in Cuba.

The language of Secretary Olney's dispatch is said to be peremptory. Should any American be arrested at Habana and subjected to court-martial, or should any case arise that calls for prompt action by the consul general, the refusal of the local government to recognize him might lead to disastrous results.

Houpt Is Hot.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 14.—Sheriff Houpt of Hot Springs was here last night and held a long interview with Governor Clark. Said he: "I intended to use my authority on the day of the fight, and I would have succeeded. That crowd would have dumped $500,000 in Hot Springs, and the law would not have been violated. I have made arrangements for 500 men had the number been necessary to uphold the law." He said that Judge Duffie's action in writing to Governor Clark for assistance was unwarranted.

Pleasure Seekers Drowned.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14.—Four men were drowned yesterday by the capsizing of a pleasure boat in the middle branch of the Patapsco river. They were Harry Stiner, Fred Valkman, W. A. Reynolds and James Huston. The men attempted to cross the river from Ferry bar to Meter's pavilion. When about half way across, the boat began to fill, the men became frightened and in a moment the frail craft went over, leaving the pleasure seekers struggling in the water.

Deserves Censure.

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—Premier Tallion of Quebec, at a bye-election meeting, was dilating on the evils of the Mercier regime when someone exclaimed: "Mercier's dog is dead!" Taillon immediately rejoined: "I hope that he has not left a bitch to bring forth another such a brood." Joseph Mercier, the dead premier's brother, states that the first time he meets Premier Taillon he will spit in the latter's face.

Disease-Stricken Schooner.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Norwegian bark Figaro, from Batavia and Padang, reports that on Oct. 11, 35 miles northeast of Cape Henry, she spoke the schooner Laura L. Sprague of Rockland, Me., from Brunswick, Ga., for Boston, with a cargo of lumber. The Sprague's chief mate reported that Captain Wixon had died of supposed malaria, and that four members of the crew were suffering from the disease.

McKeever Wants to Fight.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—Charles McKeeve, having declared that he would challenge the winner of the fight between Griffo and Lavigne, has, in consequence of the contest having been a draw, issued a challenge to fight either of them for the lightweight championship of the world, for a stake or a purse, at the limit.

Decker Decamped.

SING SING, Oct. 14.—Frank M. Decker, a convict, sentenced to Sing Sing prison Aug. 16, 1893, for four years and three months for grand larceny in New York city, escaped Saturday night. Decker, as an exemplary prisoner, was stationed in the warden's private apartments as a servant.

Many Hold Worthless Notes.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 14.—The government's refusal to accept the notes of the Union and Commercial banks is exciting indignation among the people of the outlying ports. Many persons here hold large quantities of these notes and are now unable to dispose of them.

Coming to Terms.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 14.—The porte has appointed a commission to inquire into the recent Armenian arrests, and has promised the powers to deal severely with anyone who is found to have tortured the Armenians in prison.

Poetess Alexander Dead.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Mrs. J. Alexander, the poetess, wife of the Rt. Rev. William A. Alexander, is dead. She was the author of "Moral Songs," "Hymns for Children" and "Poems on Old Testament Subjects."

Poor China!

PEKIN, Oct. 14.—Some of the Mohammedan rebels in the province of Kan-Su have captured the city of Lan-Chu, the capital of the province.

SACKVILLE WAS RIGHT

Concerning the Story That He Was "Looked After" by Sherman.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—On Saturday J. B. Davis, who was for a time assistant secretary of state under Secretary Frelinghuysen, received the following letter from Brevet Brigadier General Tibball (retired) of the United States army, detailing circumstances concerning the Sackville pamphlet heretofore not made public:

122 MONTAGUE STREET, BROOKLYN.

DEAR SIR—I have not seen Lord Sackville's pamphlet and do not know in what connection he brings forward the circumstance referred to (the cruise on the Chesapeake), but do know as a matter of fact that it did occur. It was in the first part of May, 1883. General Sherman took Lord Sackville-West and family on a navy vessel (the Tallapoosa, perhaps) down the Chesapeake on an ostensible junketing trip. They were gone a week or 10 days. Meanwhile, I, as aide-de-camp to General Sherman, took care of the British legation at Washington.

So far as I know, no one knew the reasons for this action except President Arthur, Secretary of War Lincoln, General Sherman and myself. But I presume there were those in the state department who were aware of it. Of course the British minister was in the secret, but I do not think it was known to his secretaries at the time. General Ayres, commanding the troops at Washington barracks, and the chief of police, Colonel Dye, were to a degree aware of what was going on. The secret was so well kept that it never got into the papers, but as Lord Sackville has now divulged it, I have no hesitation in mentioning what I know about it.

Very truly yours,
JOHN C. TIBBALL,
Brevet Brigadier General, U. S. A.

KING A PRISONER.

Affairs at Korea's Capital Are In a Decidedly Mixed State.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14.—A Seoul dispatch reports that the Japanese troops were at the gates of the palace during the butchery incident upon the uprising of the anti-foreigners headed by Tai-Ron-Kin, father of the King of Korea. There was nothing to show that the Japanese minister was aware of the plot.

The king is now a prisoner, and his father has been proclaimed dictator.

A new cabinet has been constituted of Japanese elements.

The queen's officials have fled.

The Japanese soshi has been arrested for the murder of the queen.

The British cruiser Edgar H. has been suddenly ordered to Chemulpo, where she will land a force of marines.

Three Killed.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 14.—Three persons were killed outright and nine others injured by a runaway trolley car on the West End electric line jumping the track and going over an embankment last night. The car wrecked was on the Carnegie branch of the West End electric line. Just before the city limit is reached there is a sharp curve and hill along the track for about a quarter of a mile. When the car reached this point the brake rod broke and the motorman lost control. The car dashed down the hill until it reached McCartney street, where there is a sharp curve. Here it jumped the track and turned completely over, landing in a ravine alongside of the road. The car was broken into splinters and the three persons killed were horribly mangled.

With Due Honors.

ROME, Oct. 14.—The remains of William Wetmore Story, the sculptor, arrived here from Florence yesterday, and were buried in the Protestant cemetery, after solemn obsequies at St. Paul's Episcopal church, in the presence of his family, of the English, American and Russian legation charges, and of many representatives of Italian, American and English society. He was buried next to the urn containing Shelley's heart. Numerous splendid wreaths were placed upon the coffin.

Not Betrothed to Montenegro Princess.

ROME, Oct. 14.—Sig. Lombardi, director royal of the royal establishment, denies the report that the Prince of Naples is betrothed to a princess of Montenegro. He admitted that the negotiations opened in 1894 for the marriage of the prince to a daughter of the Prince of Wales were suspended by mutual agreement, but he stated that these negotiations have now been resumed, and it is probable that the marriage will take place in the spring.

Twenty Rounds to a Draw.

MASPETH, L. I., Oct. 14.—The fight between Young Griffo of Australia and Kid Lavigne of Saginaw, Mich., was hard fought. Although Lavigne demonstrated his superiority clear through, the referee declared it a draw, probably because both men were on their feet at the finish of the 20th round.

Planning For New Cable.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—Directly parliament reopens, M. Le Bon, minister of commerce, will submit a bill ratifying the contract for a new cable to be laid from Brest to New York, with branches to the West Indies and Brazil.

At $40,000 a Year.

DETROIT, Oct. 14.—Charles M. Hayes, who has been general manager of the Wabash railroad since 1887, has been appointed general manager of the Grand Trunk railroad, at a salary of $40,000 a year.

Cholera's Awful Record.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 14.—Official returns for the last fortnight in September show that there were during that time 4249 new cases and 1701 deaths from cholera in the province of Volhynia.

Baracoa, Cuba, is reported to have been captured by insurgents and destroyed by dynamite.

HATS AND HEADGEAR.

Straw hats are believed to have been first invented in Manilla.

The size of the Turkish turban formerly indicated the rank of the wearer.

Many royal crowns are merely silk wadded caps ornamented with jewels and pendants.

The first hatmakers in France are mentioned during the reign of Charles VI, who ruled from 1380 to 1422.

The hat of Napoleon is as well known as his face. It was in the style of the artillery school at Brienne.

The cardinal's red hat is emblematic of his readiness to shed his blood in defense of the church and its doctrines.

The first hatters mentioned in history formed an association at Nuremberg in 1360. They called themselves filzkappenmacher (felt capmaker).

The early Saxons seldom wore hats and still more seldom caps. Their sole head covering was the long flaxen hair which they cultivated with sedulous care.

The petasus was a Roman hat, consisting of crown and brim and closely resembling the ordinary soft felt hats now much used in the rural districts of this country.

It is a curious fact that the best fur for felting purposes comes from English rabbits which are bred near the sea. No explanation has yet been made of this singular circumstance.

Rabbit fur, when used for hats, is first carefully "plucked"—that is, the long hairs are pulled out. Formerly this process was done by hand; now a machine accomplishes the same result.

The coins issued by Brutus and Cassius after the murder of Cæsar contained as an emblem a cap between two daggers, an intimation that Rome had regained its freedom, and a reminder of the means whereby liberty was regained.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS.

There is always an ill feeling between a doctor and his patient.—Philadelphia Call.

Friend—Were you successful with your first case? The Doctor—Yes; his widow paid the bill.—Town Topics.

CRACKS AT CHICAGO.

Chicago is to have a tower 1,100 feet high in one of her parks, but it won't stand for as much as the Bunker Hill monument.—Boston Globe.

"Why is Chicago the Mecca of the cranks?" inquires a newspaper of the Windy City. The answer is easy enough. The cranks like to go where they will feel at home.—Denver Times.

Chicago has a professional diner out who claims to have devoured 2,000 public dinners. It is hard for the average Chicagoan to get away from the pork question.—New York Press.

A Chicago paper advises its readers not to eat peach stones. They would also find it wise to avoid feeding on cobblestones, plate glass and the like. It is the business of a newspaper to look after the diet of its cash paying subscribers.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Chicago will have none of New York's plum colored dress suits. Chicago doesn't go to New York for any of its styles. It sticks its hogs and skins its steers and runs up its skyscrapers and plays with the wheat market in its own way and doesn't ape any place or anything. Chicago is sui generis.—Kansas City Star.

THE LARGEST PIECE OF GOOD TOBACCO EVER SOLD FOR THE MONEY

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

A SWELL YOUNG MAN

Will Reside at a Reformatory For an Indefinite Period.

Moved In Fast Set at Expense of His Employer.

Was Engaged to Be Married to Wealthy Society Lady at the Hub.

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—In the superior criminal court yesterday afternoon Francis J. Bradley, aged 24 years, was sentenced to an indefinite term of imprisonment in the Massachusetts state reformatory. Swift and unexpected came the intelligence of the downfall of this erstwhile fashionable young man to his many friends of the swell set and his influential connections in the Back Bay. It was another repetition of the same old story—a fast life and heavy expenses upon the salary of a clerk.

The story of Bradley's downfall is a short one. The crime of which he was accused was theft from his employers of goods, the total value of which is about $1000. He was arrested on Sept. 17. He was employed previous to his arrest by C. F. Avery, a wool merchant, and he was looked upon as a thoroughly trustworthy and capable person.

Mr. Avery missed certain quantities of wool, and there being no entries on the books, suspicion at once pointed to young Bradley. His arrest followed, and when confronted with the evidence he broke down and confessed. At the same time he is understood to have implicated others in the affair, although nobody else has been drawn into it.

At the time of his arrest the affair was kept very quiet, and

No Entry of It Was Made

upon the reporters' books at police headquarters. But the affair came out when the grand jury, at its recent session, indicted him upon three counts.

Young Bradley has been for a long time a very swell young man, and moved in the very best Back Bay society, among which he had many friends and relatives. He is a young man of exceptionably fine appearance, and very pleasant in manner.

He possessed very little money in his own right, but had rich relatives. Moreover, he was engaged to be married to a very well-known young Back Bay society lady, who is very wealthy. The engagement of the young couple had not been formally announced, but it was well known to be a settled thing.

Bradley has been leading a rather fast life, and he had a reputation for Spending His Money Very Freely.

He dressed well, smoked good cigars, knew well the qualities of different brands of champagne, and he associated with swell club men. His name cannot be found upon the membership rolls of any of the fashionable clubs, but it is stated that for several months Bradley had been a member of a certain up-to-date organization, with quarters on Beacon street.

As a clerk in C. F. Avery's wool house, Bradley made a good salary, but it probably was not great enough to pay all his expenses. His employer does not know of any other thefts than those which were discovered, and says he does not think there were any.

Was Vinal Poisoned?

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 15.—Although the coroner's jury has rendered a verdict that Robert A. Vinal of Winterport came to his death by natural causes, it has not set at rest all the suspicions of poisoning which have been engendered in that town or put a stop to the talk about the case. It is said that there is a movement in Winterport to have the body exhumed and an examination made, despite the action of the coroner's jury.

Maine Mills In the Fold.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 15.—The Paper trust has effected a consolidation with the following Maine paper plants: Otis Falls, daily output of 70 tons of news paper; Jay, 40 tons; Rumford, 65 tons. New Hampshire—Glen, 90 tons; Winnepesaukee, 40 tons. Vermont—Olcott, 60 tons; Fall Mountain, 50 tons. A member of the trust states that the effect of consolidation would be to simply improve the conditions of manufacture.

Two Floors Settled.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 15.—Workmen digging a trench in the basement of the Church Hill school building yesterday undermined a brick pier supporting the floor above and it fell. The building shook, and the floor, from beneath which the support was gone, settled about a foot, the second floor also sagging to a corresponding depth. There was considerable excitement, but the pupils were all sent out in safety.

Penobscot Indians Stirred Up.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 15.—There is trouble among the Penobscot Indians at Indian island, Oldtown, 12 miles from Bangor, the home of the largest and most important Indian tribe in Maine, over an order of the Maine Central railroad, just issued, that they must pay full fare when traveling on that road. For 60 years the Indians have been allowed to pay the same fare as children, the custom having its origin here.

Whirled Around Shafting.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 15.—Daniel McCabe, employed in the Arlington mills, was attempting to adjust a belt when he slipped, and his hand was caught in the pulley and his body carried over the shafting several times. His scalp was severely torn, the right side of his body badly lacerated and he sustained internal injuries. His condition is critical.

Time For a New One.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 15.—The city government last night passed an order instructing the city solicitor and two lawyers to draw up for the city a new charter to be presented to the next legislature for approval. The old charter, which was granted the city in 1836, has been amended and renewed so often that it is utterly unintelligible.

Fought a Duel With Knives.

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 15.—Frank Pterrill and Pasquatillo Casquablo, who were employed on the waterworks at Branch, fought a duel with knives there, and both are laid up with the injuries they received. One has seven cuts, the other five.

Gathered at Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 15.—Portland is filled with Odd Fellows and their ladies, who are here in attendance on the grand lodge of that body. The annual state convention of the Rebekah lodge was held yesterday. The secretary's report showed the total membership of this lodge in Maine to be 6865, a gain of 555 over 1894. The following officers were elected; President, Mary L. Carr; vice president, Gertrude W. Sargent; secretary, Grace E. Pierce; warden, Mrs. Samuel Henly; conductor, Annie Adams; inner guard, Mrs. Lizzie Ayer; outer guard, Sarah Pettengill; chaplain, Maggie Anderson.

A Plea From Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—The Chamber of Commerce will request the secretary of state and the secretary of agriculture to take immediate steps to open Richford, Vt., as a port of entry for Canadian cattle. Under the present system, cattle have to be changed before reaching Boston, which, it is claimed, is detrimental to the Boston markets.

Naval Experts at Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Several naval officers, who are to take part in the trial of the Indiana, are now in the city, among them being Naval Constructor Varney and Messrs. Swift, Winchell, McAlpine and Tillingham. Commodore Selfridge and the other members of the board are expected to arrive today.

Abbie Already Married.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Anna Abbie Carroll, whose marriage to Moy Fook, the Boston Chinaman, has been discussed by Boston papers, is from Bethel, where she has a husband, Frank Carroll. He has applied for a divorce, and it is now pending in the Windsor county court.

Cut His Throat.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 15.—Lemuel French, 65 years old, an inmate of the Tewksbury town poor farm, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by cutting his throat. Over 50 stitches were required to be taken to close the wound. His recovery is doubtful.

Hyatt's Body Found.

MELROSE, Mass., Oct. 15.—Charles Hyatt was found dead in the woods just outside this town yesterday. He had been subject to epilepsy, and it is supposed that while suffering from one of these attacks he wandered into the woods and died from exposure.

Peeper Uses Stilts.

ROWLEY, Mass., Oct. 15.—Residents of unfrequented streets in town have been considerably frightened and bothered of late by a man who peeps into windows at night. Some say that the fellow has a pair of tall stilts, and looks into chamber windows.

Direct to Washington.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Oct. 15.—All arrangements have been made for the departure of Mrs. Cleveland and children for Washington today. The trip will be made by rail on a special car, and the family will make no stops en route.

Baby Jumped Overboard.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 15.—A 4-year-old lad named Louis Marcoux was playing on the bank of the Shawsheen river when he suddenly ran to the edge and jumped into the swift current and was drowned.

Burned to Death.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 15.—Solomon Fisher's house, in a lonely spot in Northboro, was burned, and Fisher was burned to death. He was 81 years old, and lived alone.

New England Briefs.

Thomas McDonald, was drowned in Snech pond, Cumberland, R. I., while fishing.

The report that Dr. B. C. Senton of Rutland, Vt., had tried to kill himself was without foundation.

At Middletown, Conn., Richard Daley was convicted of violation of the Sunday law and fined $15 and costs.

The North Avenue Baptist church, Cambridge, Mass., voted to invite Rev. A. A. Vose of Utica, N. Y., to become pastor.

W. W. Spaulding, shoe manufacturer of Haverhill, Mass., has hired the shoe factory owned by C. H. Morris at Epping, N. H. One hundred hands will be employed.

Lake Schooner Sunk.

LORAIN, O., Oct. 15.—Schooner Nellie Duff, from Pelee island to Cleveland, loaded with gravel, sank, two miles off Lorain harbor, shortly after midnight. Three men were drowned. A heavy sea was running and the schooner sprung aleak, and went down while trying to make this port.

A Texas Entertainment.

DALLAS, Oct. 15.—Jack Crews was hanged yesterday afternoon at Denton for the murder of the Merrill family in April, 1893. He killed father, mother and children. The hanging was public, the crowd being estimated at 10,000. Crews protested that he was innocent.

French Bark Sunk.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The German steamer Emma collided with the French bark Pacifique off Spurnhead, and the Pacifique sunk in 15 minutes. Twelve persons were drowned, including Captain Cigarro of the Pacifique and the pilot. The Emma was badly damaged.

Alleged Misdemeanor.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 15.—Informations were made yesterday against W. C. Moreland, city attorney, and W. H. House, assistant, for misdemeanor in office. They were held in $10,000 bail each.

For Her Official Trial Trip.

LEWES, Del., Oct. 15.—The new battleship Indiana passed out of the capes yesterday, en route to the New England coast, where she will have her official trial trip.

FAVORABLE RESPONSE

To Challenge Submitted to New York Club by Yachtsman Rose.

Poor Prospect of a Fight at Hot Springs.

Dan Creedon Whips the Harlem Coffee Cooler at London.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Secretary Oddie of the New York Yacht club last night sent the following cablegram to Secretary Thellusson of the Royal Victoria Yacht club and Charles D. Rose, the challenger:

Thellusson, Secretary Royal Victoria Yacht Club, Ryde, England:

Challenge accepted. Committee appointed with full power to arrange conditions.

ODDIE, Secretary.

A cablegram was sent to Charles D. Rose, as follows:

Challenge accepted. Have notified Thellusson. ODDIE, Secretary.

The above cablegrams were the result of a protracted meeting of the New York Yacht club, which had been specially called to consider the challenge of Charles D. Rose for the America's cup. Commodore Brown presided. After a brief consideration of the terms of the challenge, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That whereas an unconditional challenge for the America cup, stating load-water line length of challenger has been received from the Royal Victoria Yacht club in the name of Charles D. Rose.

Resolved, That the challenge be accepted, and be it further

Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed by the commodore with full power to confer with the challenger and arrange the conditions of the match.

As soon as final arrangements will have been completed the committee shall report the same to the club. The committee appointed by the commodore is the committee of 1895, and is as follows: Ex-Commodore J. D. Smith, chairman; A. C. Canfield, J. F. Tams, A. L. Fish, Gouverneur Kortright, Archibald Rogers and J. R. Bush.

The committee went into session at 11:30 p. m., and Secretary Oddie said the result of their deliberations would not be made known for a day or two.

CLARK IS DETERMINED.

May Call on Military to Prevent a Mill at Hot Springs.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 15.—Governor Clark yesterday furnished fresh evidence of his determination to prevent the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight in Arkansas. A telegram was sent by the governor to Brigadier General Taylor of the Arkansas State Guard, summoning him to a conference at once. The meaning of the conference is that the governor desires to acquaint himself with the available strength of the state militia, so that he may act knowingly if the situation at Hot Springs reaches a crisis where the services of the militia may be required.

A vigorous determination to prevent the fight is discernible in the significant proceedings at the executive office. The governor says Corbett and Fitzsimmons have been warned, and if they now arrive at Hot Springs, bent on the mission of fighting, their presence in the city or county will be considered an overt act, and will be treated accordingly.

Governor Clark said he did not want to see any blood shed as a result of the pugilists' refusal to refrain from making preparations to fight. He sincerely hoped that it would be avoided. "I am neither seeking nor slighting any responsibility in this matter," he continued, "and will do my duty."

When questioned in reference to the proposition to change the affair into a glove contest, Governor Clark said that he could make no distinction between a glove contest and a prize fight; it was a prize fight, no matter what it was called.

Records Lowered.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 15.—At Fountain Ferry track yesterday afternoon William DeCardy of the Morgan & Wright team broke the two-mile record, making it in 3:52 2-5. The previous record of 3:54 4-5 was held by Johnson. A tandem manned by E. E. Anderson and Herman Van Herrick broke the world's mile tandem record, 1:51; established a two-mile record of 3:52 2-5; three miles, 6:01; four miles, 8:09, and five miles, 10:28. Gardiner-Wright team then broke the world's record for five miles in 9:58 2-5. Gardiner also broke the three-mile record in 5:55 2-5 and four-mile record in 7:58 2-5.

Sullivan's Reflections.

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 15.—The benefit boxing exhibition for John L. Sullivan, given here last night, filled the big Oakland rink. Sullivan and Paddy Ryan boxed three rounds. In response to calls for a speech, Sullivan thanked the audience and said: "I have never been defeated but once, and that was by the present champion. I wish him success, but I wish to say this now, I am not his friend." Paddy Ryan got almost as much applause as Sullivan. The ex-champion boxed lively, but struck no heavy blows. Sullivan was the more aggressive, but honors were about even.

Won by Creedon.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Frank Craig, the Harlem "Coffee Cooler," and Dan Creedon fought at the National Sporting club last night, and Creedon won in the 20th round. Thousands of the rough element crowded outside the National Sporting club, and the police had great difficulty in preserving order. The crowd of spectators included a plentiful array of bearers of titles.

Arena Lumber Attached.

DALLAS, Oct. 15.—The Hope Lumber company of Marshall yesterday levied an attachment for $4000 on the lumber used and that was to have been used in the arena which was to have been built for the fistic carnival billed to begin Oct. 31. The lumber was to have been moved to Hot Springs for the contest there.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

The Golden-Rod will be out next week.

Mr. Abar has moved his family from Atlantic to Charlestown.

E. W. Swears has moved from Arnold street to Newcomb place.

Mrs. Alonzo Priest of Atlantic has gone to Albany for two weeks.

Atlantic fishermen are having lots of fun now catching smelts [illegible] the mouth of [illegible] river.

Edward Colbeder[illegible], clerk at Gurney's store, is enjoying a brief vacation.

The new house of F. Munroe Perry on Arnold street is about completed.

Herbert Packard, motorman on the Neponset line, is enjoying his vacation.

A live wire near the Neponset bridge made things lively for a time Sunday evening.

The new foundation of the bell on the First church is being placed in position today.

We all love buckweat cakes and syrup, and L. M. Pratt & Co. quote the lowest prices.

The open cars which the street railway persist in running are a menace to public health.

Ten horses and a dozen or more carriages will be sold at the Taylor auction on Thursday.

Councilman Charles H. Johnson is building a stable near his residence on River street.

The estate of John Lavers on Water street will be sold by Auctioneer Crane on Saturday, Oct. 26.

The public hearing by the City Council on the petition for double track on Hancock street is advertised today.

A social dance will be given in Faxon hall, tomorrow evening, by the young people of the Universalist society.

The first meeting of the season of the Quincy Musical society was held in French's hall Monday evening and the start was very encouraging.

Some do not care to go fishing at this season, they say it is too cold, but it is never too cold to get a nice fish or a can of oysters at Prescott's Boston Branch.

Supt. Weeks of the Quincy & Boston street railway left Monday evening for Montreal, to attend the National convention of street railway companies. He will return Saturday.

Chief of Police Joseph W. Hayden, Thaddeus H. Newcomb and Thomas Magee are attending the twentieth annual reunion today at the United States Hotel, Boston, of the Union ex-prisoners of the War Association.

The strongest argument yet brought forward in favor of the city entering the Metropolitan water system is the water with which we are at present supplied. The chances are that it can be improved upon only at an enormous cost.

The Quincy C. E. Union will hold a social in the chapel of the Evangelical Congregational church, Wednesday evening the 16th, at 7.45. All Endeavors are earnestly requested to be present. Arrangements have been made by the committee so that a good lively time is anticipated. Do not fail to come.

Quincy Park.

Advertisements of the J. W. Wilbur Company, which has secured an office in the Faxon block, appear today. It is a pleasure to note that a live real estate firm has undertaken the development of Quincy Point, where some of the finest land of the city is situated. Quincy Park, as the old Kittredge estate is now called, is situated on the line of the electric cars, and upon the liberal terms offered will soon be built up.

THE FIRST RALLY.

Candidate Williams One of the Speakers.

He Objects to Government by Commissions as at Present.

Hon. E. J. Flynn Also Speaks—Music by Columbus Band.

The first political rally in Quincy in the present campaign was held in Hancock hall, Monday evening, under the auspices of the Democratic committee and from a Democratic standpoint was very enthusiastic.

Previous to the rally the Columbus band gave a concert outside the hall and shortly before 8 o'clock the speakers entered the hall escorted by the Democratic City Committee. Upon the platform were William B. Orcutt, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, Mayor Hodges, Albert P. Worthen, Councilman Charles F. Adams, 2d, ex-Councilman Charles T. Baker, John Whelan, Cornelius Moynihan, John Pattee, Horatio N[illegible], W. G. A. Bulfinch, [illegible] Holbrook, John Curtis, John T. Cavanagh and John O'Neil and Hon. George F. Williams and Edward J. Flynn, the two speakers.

William B. Orcutt presided and introduced the speakers.

Edward J. Flynn, candidate for Secretary of State, was the first speaker. He opened his remarks by contradicting statements made at Waltham and other places by Governor Greenhalge and Congressman Whiting. He then made a comparison of the two parties in the handling of National affairs.

Candidate Williams was then introduced and was received with a storm of applause. He said in part: Governor Greenhalge approves the existing government by commissions and denies that any practical or feasible suggestion has been made which will replace these commissions with something better.

The Democratic party demands that the power of appointment and removal be given to the Governor, in order that he may be answerable to the people for the performance of these numerous and important functions, and upon this issue the Democratic and Republican parties stand, from principle, upon radically different grounds.

The Democracy deems it vital to our Constitution that there should be no executive function exercised for which the people may not hold some of its elected officers directly accountable. Our party considers the Governor to be the proper person to be held accountable by the people for the administration of the business affairs of the State which are not delegated by the Constitution to other officers elected by the people. We hold that such accountability should be direct and individual, so that if the people wish to discipline their servants for breach of duty they may do it by voting against the officer who is responsible for the administration of affairs.

Under the Republican plan, which has been made so definite in numerous legislative acts that it cannot be disputed, the tendency has been to remove further and further from executive control, and thus from the control of the people, the enormous business which the Legislature has delegated to those boards and commissions. Up to the year 1885 the removal of the members of these boards was vested in the Governor, or the Governor and Council.

In and after the year 1885 a new feature was introduced, which is a gross violation of the principle of direct accountability, and which showed the tendency, since continued, of Republican legislation, to fix these boards as far as possible beyond the reach of the people and their executive. In the case of the Gas Commissioner it was provided in that year that the members of this commission should be removable by the Governor and Council for cause after notice and hearing. That a judicial hearing is necessary and a finding of fact upon distinct charges before a member of this board can be removed.

A much more dangerous tendency has been developed to withdraw from municipal governments the sacred right to control their own affairs. This encroachment has grown more manifest in recent years. It began in 1885, when for the first time the State invaded the right of local self government. In that year the Boston Board of Police was established, which took away from the city of Boston the power to control its own police, though its inhabitants were taxed for its support. In 1889 the Metropolitan Sewage Commission was established. In 1893 the Metropolitan Park Commission; in 1894 the Boston Transit Commission and Fall River Board of Police; in 1895 the Metropolitan Water Boards were granted the independent control of important municipal functions. It was a sad day when this policy began, and no one can prophesy the extent to which it will be carried if the Republican Party is still entrusted with the control of legislation.

During the course of Mr. William's remarks B. B. Jenness of Malden arose in his seat and desired to ask Mr. Williams a question. This was granted and his first question was: "Were you ever in Fall River?"

MR. WILLIAMS:—Yes.

MR. JENNESS:—So was I and three-fourths of the population of Fall River were French Canadian Catholics and were controlled by a foreign ecclesiastical power. Are they capable of governing themselves?

MR. WILLIAMS:—Yes.

MR JENNESS:—What right have such people to govern themselves?

Mr. WILLIAMS:—Their Massachusetts citizenship is a sufficient guarantee of their ability.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The Republicans Complete Their Nominations for Quincy Ticket.

The delegates of the Quincy and Weymouth Republican Representative conventions met at Republican headquarters, Quincy, Monday evening, to ratify the nominations of the city and town.

The committee organized with Maj F. A. Bicknell as chairman and Roger H. Wilde as secretary.

The nominations of Thaddeus H. Newcomb and James Thompson of Quincy and James H. Flint of Weymouth, were then ratified.

Speeches were in order and the good old Republican doctrine was expounded by the candidates for representatives, Col. B. S. Lovell, candidate for Councillor, Representative Charles L. Hammond, M. E. Hawes and others.

The Republicans of Ward Six will put forward the name of Stephen G. Maxon as candidate for Mayor.

Everett J. Eaton of Needham was renominated without opposition at the Norfolk County Republican convention for special commissioner, but nomination papers are in circulation for Curtis McIntosh also of Needham.

Register tonight. Tomorrow is the last day, but you should avoid the final rush and save time.

The Democratic county convention will be held tomorrow.

The Prohibition candidate for Representatives in the Quincy-Weymouth district are Henry Chubbuck of Quincy, Wilmot Cleverly and George W. Dyer of Weymouth.

The Democratic candidates for the City Council this year from Atlantic are said to be Peter W. Branscheid, Richard G. Barry and T. A. Whalen.

EXPRESSMAN DEAD.

Charles A. Winslow who Establish d Winslow's Express.

Mr. Charles A. Winslow, one of Quincy's veteran expressmen, died at his residence on Edwards street this morning, the result of a shock some ten days ago.

Mr. Winslow was born in Duxbury where he obtained his education. He went to Charlestown where he carried on the coal business which he eventually disposed of and removed to Quincy some 18 years ago and established Winslow's Quincy and Boston express. Later the firm name was changed to Austin & Winslow. Some few years since failing health compelled him to give up active business and his express route passed into the control of his son by whom it is still conducted.

Mr. Winslow was about 60 years of age and leaves a widow and three sons.

Married Fifty Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Junot are among the oldest residents of Quincy. They celebrated their golden wedding Monday at their home 123 Water street and were the recipients of presents both numerous and appropriate, among them being a purse of gold presented by their large number of friends. There were special services at St. John's church at 8 o'clock and the Rev. F. A. Frigulietti delivered a jubilee sermon which was very fitting to the occasion. There were friends and relatives at the reception from Quebec, Portland, Marlboro and many of the surrounding towns. They wished the venerable couple many years of happiness.

The Shooting Prizes.

The shoot off for those persons who were tied for the various prizes offered by Al. Williams at the Hospital fete has resulted as follows: First prize, bat, won by J. B. Keyes, score 30; second prize, gold headed cane, E. S. Litchfield, 21; third prize, box of cigars, Andrew Johnson, 30; fourth prize, pound of candy, H H. Huntington, 32.

A Business Opportunity.

A business opportunity doesn't always mean a chance to get work. SHERIFF ENDICOTT.

Another Republican Disappointed at Action of the Convention.

Mr. Alfred Hewins of Dedham writes as follows to the Hyde Park paper:

EDITOR OF GAZETTE.—The action of the Norfolk County Republican Convention in placing in nomination a candidate for sheriff, in opposition to Mr. Endicott—the present incumbent—who has filled the office for ten years, to the satisfaction of all parties, disappoints the expectations of large numbers of Republicans throughout the county. The opinion, freely expressed among experienced observers, that the convention has only repeated the blunder of 1889, when Mr. Bradlee was nominated, as well as the sentiment in Mr. Endicott's favor, already strongly manifested by leading Republicans, leave little doubt that this renewed attempt to drag a non-partison office into the arena of party politics, will receive at the hands of the people in November a rebuke not less emphatic than that most judiciously administered in 1889.

The Republican party can hope for continued supremacy in the county, as well as the state, only by deserving it; and to resolve in conventions that "we believe in civil service reform, not only as a promoter of efficient service, but also as an antidote to that demoralizing spirit which considers public office only a bribe or a reward,"—and then openly to violate this sound principal by a refusal to endorse a faithful incumbent of a non political office—who is unexceptionable in personal character—is not only bad politics, but the grossest hypocrisy.

Mr. Endicott was first called to his present office in July, 1885, by appointment from Governor Robinson to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Sheriff Wood, until an election could be held by the people. In October of the same year, having received the nomination by acclamation in both the Republican and Democratic conventions, he was unanimously elected for one year to fill out the unexpired term of Sheriff Wood. In 1886 the nomination of both parties for the full term of three years again fell upon Mr. Endicott; and in 1889, notwithstanding the nomination of Mr. Bradlee by the Republicans, an appeal to the people led to Sheriff Endicott's re election by an overwhelming majority. In 1892 he was again elected without opposition, the Republicans placing no candidate in the field against him.

In view of this most honorable and satisfactory record, large numbers of Norfolk County Republicans believe that practical civil service reform requires that the sheriff be protected in his position so long as he is competent to perform its duties. They propose once more to appeal from the ill-judged action of the convention to the honesty, intelligence and good sense of the people, in the fullest confidence that the voters, regardless of party ties and affiliations, will guard the public interests by continuing their time honored policy of re-electing faithful and competent county officials. ALFRED HEWINS.

A Busy Place.

The Young Men's Christian Association rooms were filled with young men last evening, and those in charge were kept busy answering inquiries in regard to the evening classes, the first of which, monumental drawing and vocal music, opens this evening. A large percentage of the old students are returning and many new ones.

The Glee Club promises to be quite a feature this year and will prove helpful, not only in the social life of the association, but also in training the voices of many of the members of the different congregations of the city, thereby improving the singing in the churches. Mr. A. J. Sidelinger, the music instructor, will be in the rooms this evening at 7:30, and all who desire to enter must register at once, as the class will not start unless twenty five names are secured.

A Free Sociable.

The first sociable of the season of the Wollaston Unitarian Society will be held in the vestry of the church on Thursday evening of this week at 8 o'clock. There will be an entertainment, and light refreshments will be served, but no admission fee will be charged. This is a new phase in church socials and it is hoped it will prove itself a success by bringing together in a social and friendly way all members and friends of the society new and old.

Harvest Concert.

Next Sunday the 20th at 3:30 P. M., a harvest concert and thanksgiving service will be held in the Wollaston Unitarian church in which both Sunday School and church will unite. Liberal contributions of fruit and flowers are solicited which must be brought to the church before 2 P. M. Sunday. These contributions will be sent later to the City Hospital.

No Objection to Religion.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

I attended the Democratic rally at Quincy last night, and I understood the speaker to say that the A. P. A.'s had objections to Roman Catholic religion. I would like for him to give his authority for such a statement. I take nearly every week the papers known as the American Citizen, the Boston Pilot, and the Boston Standard every day. I have attended the Music hall and People's Temple lectures for at least five years; and all the so called patriotic lectures that it was possible for me to attend, and I have not heard a remark or seen in any paper anything to show that the A. P. A. care what faith any person has in religious matters. If the honorable speaker will kindly give his authority and I find it good, I'll use my influence "though small it may be," to prevent the growth of such a party.

Further, the speaker said, if my memory is correct, that he could not get a discussion on these issues. Well I am ready at any time to meet the speaker or any other gentleman on the platform on these two questions—Local government or A. P. A. isms.

Respectfully,
L. B. JENNESS,
Malden Mass.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A NEW ORGANIZATION

Directing Its Efforts Against Granting Municipal Suffrage to Women.

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—The Massachusetts Man Suffrage association has opened headquarters at 7A Park street, this city, and are preparing to make an active campaign. They issued the following circular, signed by 100 prominent men of the state:

To the People of Massachusetts:

A law was passed by the last legislature providing that all persons qualified to vote for school committee at the approaching state election, whether male or female, shall have an opportunity at that election to express their opinion either in the affirmative or negative on the question:

"Is it expedient that municipal suffrage be granted to women?"

The question is of grave and far-reaching importance.

As has been declared by the supreme court of the United States, no man or woman has a natural or inherent right to vote. The question must be decided by considering what the welfare of the public as a whole demands. The preamble to the constitution of Massachusetts contains the following impressive statement: "The whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good."

The laws of nature plainly call for a division of labor and responsibility between the sexes. Equality does not require a similarity of function.

To create conditions which suggest that the power to make the laws may be in a body different from that which has the power to enforce the laws is objectionable. To more than double the total number of voters is, in itself, no advantage.

Women, as compared with men, have but little experience in private or trust or corporate business affairs. This is not due to our laws, but to other causes. Our city and town governments are great public business corporations. So long as the relative inexperience of women in business affairs continues, it is not to be expected that the combined vote of men and women will give as good results as the vote of men alone; and we submit, therefore, that the rights and property of our citizens, female as well as male, are now better protected and more intelligently cared for than they would be if the mass of voters should be doubled by establishing woman suffrage.

We submit that woman suffrage will not promote the happiness or physical welfare of woman, and that it will not tend to her social or moral elevation, and that it will not prove a benefit, but rather an injury to the family, which is the basis of growth and prosperity of the state.

For the welfare of the community as a whole, we urge those who vote, whether men or women, to vote "No." We do not feel justified in urging women to register simply for the purpose of voting on this question. The unwillingness of women to assume the duties of voters is so widespread and so well recognized, and has been so plainly indicated by the smallness of their registration to vote for members of the school committee, that the fact that a woman fails to register and vote cannot be justly construed, and will not be construed, either by the public or by our legislators, as an assent to or approval of the scheme of woman suffrage.

Lillian Drew Dead.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Lillian Drew, an actress, died at the New York Polyclinic hospital after an operation for cancer, from which she had been suffering for some years. She was about 30 years old, and was born in Franklin, Conn., where her mother now lives. Her name was Nannie M. Hastings. Her 10-year-old daughter is now in Franklin.

Strict Inquiry Ordered.

MADRID, Oct. 15.—Admiral Beranger has ordered that a strict inquiry be made into the capture, by the Cuban insurgents, near Santiago de Cuba, of the Spanish patrol boat and disarming of the guard of marines on board of her. The lieutenant who was in command of the boat is to be summarily punished, if the facts in the case are as reported.

Canadian Bank Closes.

CHATHAM, Ont., Oct. 15.—S. Barfoot's bank has closed, as the owner says he "deemed it wise to liquidate, owing to large withdrawals of deposits and an underlying feeling of distrust, causing further loss and no hope of gain." The failure is a great surprise.

The Flagler Shooting Case.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—It is stated with confidence that the grand jury who have been investigating the case of Miss Elizabeth Flagler, charged with killing a young colored boy last August, have voted to return an indictment charging Miss Flagler with manslaughter.

Wolverines' Request Granted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Postmaster General Wilson says that the request of the Michigan people for faster mail service will be granted. If a faster service cannot be secured over American lines, Canadian lines will be utilized.

Fouled the Cable.

HALIFAX, Oct. 15.—The Gloucester (Mass.) schooner Aroostook, which had dropped anchor on the banks near Sable Island, fouled the deep-sea cable. The schooner cut her hawser to save the cable from damage.

Horse Racing Is Legal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Judge Ingraham, in the court of oyer and terminer, decided that there was nothing in the constitution making horse racing a crime; that no racing or running of horses is a violation of the law.

THE SENSITIVE SULTAN

Doesn't Want the World to Think That He Acts Under Pressure.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 15.—The sultan accepts the reduced scheme of reforms in principle, but declines to promulgate it forthwith, because such acceptance would look like acting under pressure. If he persists in this policy, the storm will certainly gather again and will break with renewed violence.

Information has been received here that the town of Zabara, Arabia, in the Persian gulf, has been bombarded by two British warships and has been destroyed.

Foreign officials believe that it refers to the shelling of Arab dhows, off the town of Bahrein, in the middle of September.

M. Turpin, the inventor of the explosive melinite, has been summoned from Paris to Constantinople, his advice having been asked by the Turkish government in fortifying the Dardanelles. This announcement is confirmatory of a report that the porte had asked him to apply his new discovery to the defenses of the Dardanelles.

In the "Angel of Death," Inventor Turpin's terribly destructive war machine, the reported sale of which to the German government caused his fellow-Frenchmen to turn pale, the discoverer of piric acid has simply applied the principles of fireworks to deadly warfare. The hint came to him in watching the explosion of those giant sky-rockets which on bursting shoot out a host of smaller rockets, and which in turn become multiplied and scatter about with a deafening noise.

His machine solves the problem of the multiplication and subdivision of projectiles, and the solution consists in the employment of a particular explosive and in the creation of rockets which explode automatically.

"I have," said Turpin, speaking of his invention, "applied to the cannon the principle of the mitrailleuse, with absolutely automatic loading apparatus. The gunner is done away with, and the liquified gas or other explosive is at once my motor and my ammunition. It is only a question of machinery, but the trouble is with the supplies. To take my weapon into action I want an immense quantity of ammunition, and that is why I need a steamer or a train to carry all at once."

THE ALLISON BOOM.

Hawkeye Republicans Appear Confident of Their Favorite's Nomination.

DES MOINES, Oct. 15.—Chairman H. G. McMilan of the Republican central committee has given out the following interview on Senator Allison's presidential candidacy: "Mr. Allison is certain to go into the convention with a strong following from the northwest, and possibly with the entire west. He will have the delegation from Iowa, Minnesota, South and North Dakota, Nebraska and New Mexico. There is every reason to believe that he will secure the Wisconsin delegation. In the east he has a powerful combination at work in his interest, and there is every assurance that he will have splendid support from the New York and Pennsylvania delegations."

WILLIAM B. ALLISON.

"There is no favorite son business about the Allison boom this time. It is already full-fledged and able to stand by itself, is growing every day, and will be strictly in it when the convention is held."

Will Feed Employes at Cost.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A big Newark (N. J.) thread manufacturing company is to start a cost-price restaurant for its employes. It is a fight against pie and doughnuts for the midday meal, and these indigestibles will be replaced by stews, soups and roast meats at cost, with good bread and butter and vegetables, all prepared upon the most scientific theories of hygienic cookery.

American Vessel Burned.

VALPARAISO, Oct. 15.—An American vessel, the Parthia, Captain Carter, Bath Me., bound from Liverpool for San Francisco with a cargo of coal, was burned at sea, 400 miles off the south coast of Chili. The crew took refuge in the boats, one of which, that under the charge of the second mate, with seven on board, reached this port. The other boats have not yet been heard from.

Mexico's Great Storm.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Official news from Guaymas states that the Mexican schooner Comet is a total loss near Atamuro, 15 miles south of Altata. The steamer Diego lost her rudder and stern posts on the Altata bar. Sixteen coasting vessels in all were wrecked at La Paz. One hundred and eighty-four houses were destroyed in La Paz. Five lives were lost.

First Married In Boston.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 15.—William Atwood, who recently pleaded guilty to the charge of bigamy, was yesterday given two years at hard labor in state prison. Atwood was first married in Boston, and in 1894 he went to West Orange and was married to Annie V. Canniff, who, finding that he had another wife, caused his indictment.

Story Was a Fake.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—Vincent Meredith, manager of the Bank of Montreal, contradicts the dispatch to the effect that the Bank of Montreal had determined not to accept hereafter more than $10 in American silver from any one customer. No such measure had been taken or even talked of by the directors of the bank.

Would It Work Well?.

TACOMA, Oct. 15.—George Hazzard, a member of Custer post, Grand Army, has given notice that he will offer a resolution providing that Custer post memorialize congress for the passage of a law admitting disabled ex-Confederate soldiers to the national soldiers' homes on exactly the same basis as ex-Union soldiers.

Freedom.

In the hearts of human creatures
Lives the longing to be free,
Lives the wish to dwell as equals
In the courts of liberty.

Since the world was first created
Men have battled for their rights;
They have burned the thongs of thraldom
In the fires of freedom's lights.

Turn the leaves of history over,
Look on every blood marked page,
Note what victories of valor
Mark an era in each age.

Mid the deeds that are recorded
In the tomes of deathless fame
Those that blaze with brightest glory
Were inspired by freedom's name.

WANTED TO BORROW HIM.

The Queer Request Two Women Made and the Reason Therefor.

A genial Philadelphian, who for obvious reasons does not care to have his name printed on this occasion, secured a parlor car seat on an express train for Reading a few days ago, and as he was about to pass through the gates was surprised to hear himself accosted in feminine tones with the somewhat startling question, "Please, mister, could I borrow you for awhile?"

Looking around, he found two buxom women, who hastily and hesitatingly explained that they were riding on a pass made out in the name of a gentleman and his wife, and, as the gentleman was not present, they wanted the genial looking citizen to place his bought ticket at the disposal of one lady and take the other one under his wing, while he personated the absent owner of the pass.

"Which is my wife?" he inquired, with an inward qualm, lest his own absent better half should ever hear the story.

"You can take your choice, sir," said the lady in search of an escort, and he promptly did so by tucking the arm of the younger fair one under his own and leading her into the car. The couple proved to be right jolly traveling companions, and the citizen's only regret in the transaction was due to a fear that the story might leak out and get home ahead of him. But it didn't.—Philadelphia Record.

THE QUEEN "MISSING."

One Result of Her Opposition to Korea's Modernized Soldiery.

Marines of Foreign Nations In Evidence at Seoul.

Japanese Government Intends to Thoroughly Investigate the Matter.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The Japanese legation has received a dispatch from the foreign office stating that a portion of the Korean army, excited by the report that the queen proposed to disarm and disband them, marched upon the palace, headed by Tai Won Kun. The dispatch does not state whether the queen was among those killed in the assault upon the palace. The Korean legation has received no advices relative to the affair.

QUEEN OF KOREA AND HER SLAVE.

The latest dispatch to Minister Kurino states that a force of Russian marines, 40 in number, has been landed. Thus far they have confined themselves to guarding the Russian legation at Seoul. United States marines were landed from the Yorktown to the number of 16. It is believed also that British marines have been landed. Besides these, the Japanese have a considerable force of soldiers at Seoul who have been preserving order.

The dispatches come from Tokio, and communicate the substance of dispatches received from General Muira, the Japanese envoy at Seoul. They are dated from the 9th to the 12th insts. It appears in these dispatches that the trouble had its inception through the queen's dislike of the newly organized soldiery of Korea. The old soldiers had the primitive equipment of the far East, but with the progress of Japanese influence in Korea two battalions of Korean troops were organized on modern methods. Each battalion numbered 600 men, armed with modern weapons. They were Well-Drilled and Officered.

When the queen showed her disfavor toward these new troops, they appealed to Tai Won Kun, a powerful chief who has long been at enmity with the queen. He accepted the leadership of the new troops, and at the head of one battalion entered the queen's palace. The native soldiers fled from the palace.

The Tokio dispatches do not state specifically what became of the queen, further than that she has disappeared and cannot be located. The officials are inclined to believe, however, that the unofficial reports of the queen's death are true. The Japanese government, the dispatches further state, has acted quickly on the reports, and has appointed a commission to inquire into the facts.

In the meantime, it is emphatically denied that the queen's death, if it has occurred, was due to the Japanese. One report is that a Japanese soshi killed the queen. This is not yet confirmed in the dispatches received here. The officials say that the soshi are an irresponsible and lawless class, and that their acts cannot be laid to the Japanese people or government.

General Muria's reports also cover the work of Japanese troops in preserving order. These troops are stationed opposite the palace, having secured this point of vantage some time since through the Korean government.

They Took No Part

in the attack on the palace, but after it had occurred, when the native troops were fleeing and the new battalions were enforcing their success in capturing the palace, the Japanese troops aided in preventing bloodshed and disorder. It is probable that some deaths occurred during the melee. Following this came the landing of the United States and Russian marines, and, as is believed, the landing of the British.

The latest indications are that Tai Won Kun and the king are in control of affairs at the Korean capital. The king has been the nominal ruler, but the queen has heretofore been recognized as the real ruler. The influence of the king and Tai Won Kun is distinctly favorable to the Japanese.

At the Korean legation no word has been received from the disturbed capital. The officials are much exercised and do not doubt that the queen has met her death, although they are not ready to abandon hope. In case official confirmation is received, there will be such formal ceremony as is usual on the death of a sovereign. The legation will go into mourning, but there is not likely to be a funeral service, although this has been considered as a further mark of respect.

Viceroy Comes to Terms.

FOO-CHOO, Oct. 15.—As a result of the British consul's interview with him, the viceroy has agreed to execute 18 more accused of murdering missionaries immediately. The consuls and the taotai (magistrate) are empowered to pass sentence hereafter without reference to the viceroy. The concessions are due to the presence here of five British men-of-war.

For Social Reform.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 15.—The first National Purity congress, under the auspices of the American Purity alliance, convened in this city last night, and will continue in session for three days. Social reformers from all parts of the country are present as delegates.

No Yet Settled.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The court of appeals yesterday heard arguments on the appeal of Henry W. Howgate, who was convicted last June of forgery and embezzlement from the government. The court took the matter under advisement.

Considered Currency Question.

ATLANTA, Oct. 15.—The Farmers' National congress yesterday adopted a resolution to petition congress to enact laws preserving the parity of gold and silver, and asking for an international conference.

DREAMS OF DRESS.

Many of the new capes are finished with a large sailor collar of fur or velvet.

In all the endless category of fabrics there is none so universally becoming as velvet.

Wide handsome ribbons are again to fall from the nape of the neck a la watteau on evening dress bodices.

The fashionable furore for fancy waists will not abate this season and in all probability will continue all winter.

Among the dressy toilets for autumn are those of crisp taffeta in dresden or old chintz patterns, the skirts made up over moreen interlinings.

Immense empire bows with buckles of glittering Irish diamonds in the center are set upon round hats of fine French felt, trimmed with velvet.

Some of the new black lace medallion patterned insertions for panels, petticoat fronts and waist and sleeve decorations are a quarter of a yard wide.

French coats of smooth finished cloth, imported to wear with various dresses, come in dark shades of russet brown, green, blue and the always popular black.

Groups of women were trying on new fur garments the past week when the thermometer stood above 100 in the stifling showrooms of various city importing houses.

The new chameleon silks of the season make up very handsomely with plain surahs which show one shade of the changeable silk dotted with silk of the other tint.

Improved models of beautifully finished spun wool corsets are set forth for cold weather wear. These corsets are light, durable and elastic and formed of natural dyed wool matching the familiar undergarments of the same soft gray tint.—New York Post.

Four round opals set in corrugated circles of gold combine in an engaging pair of sleeve buttons.

The scythe is an appropriate emblem for the season. It is most attractive when inlaid with diamonds.

Bicycle chatelaine pins are the latest novelty. They consist of the wheel relieved against colored enamels and mercury wings proceeding from the hubs. These seem destined to become popular.

The most interesting of the fall show of watch chains for men are alternating groups of links of gold and platinum. This is not a new fashion, but at the moment seems conspicuous, and the links are rather prettier than ever.

The dragon flies are more skillfully simulated than ever. One was noticed in which the slenderest veinings were done in tiny olivines. It is a fine chance for enamel, when it has to copy the gleaming irridescence of the wings of the devil's darning needle.—Jewelers' Circular.

Mr. Solomon Solomon, the artist, is short, slim, straight, good looking, a little conceited and apt at times to be quick tempered. His success as an artist has been well deserved and quick, moreover, in coming, for Mr. Solomon is only just past his thirties. His home, at one time in Paris, is now in St. John's Wood.

SWEET SIMPLICITY.

PRETTY DRESSES FOR YOUNG LADIES IN THEIR TEENS.

New Raspberry Red Shades—A Handsome Walking Frock—Marked Change In Hairdressing—Parting In the Middle—A Pert and Cute Fancy.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—In these days of grace young girls have a special place assigned to them, and sweet simplicity is the watchword, and yet they were never so prettily or suitably dressed. The pretty and Frenchy shepherd's plaids seem particularly suitable to them, and many of their street and home dresses are made of that neat and always refined goods. The checks in them vary in size from "invisible" to quite large pattern, though the pinhead is rather more often seen. Black, blue, garnet, brown and olive are all seen on fawn or gray grounds. The skirts are seldom trimmed at all, but occasionally one will be seen with a row or two of braid or black velvet ribbon. But when neatly finished the material really shows up better without anything.

FOR GIRLS IN THEIR TEENS.

There was one very stylish little suit made for a young schoolgirl. This was of large broken lines, brown upon steel gray. The skirt was simply made and the waist was a pointed yoke. The yoke and belt were of seal brown velvet. To this a bit of color there was a double cape of coachman's drab cloth, with a stole collar of brick red tibet with thick chenille fringe of the same color along the edges. There is much of this brick dust red seen about now. In crepon it is really beautiful. There are comparatively few crepons new this season, but the Gismonda is one. There are wide irregular stripes with deeply crimped and crinkled effects.

The new raspberry red shades promise to become as popular as the Titian colored hair. This new red divides favor with cerise and a velvety geranium color. The grayish indigo blues are much liked for woolen goods, and all the bright metallic luster of peacock's plumes is reproduced for millinery purposes, and also for some gowns. There was a short taffeta dinner dress for a young girl where the skirt had all the "crimson that shines upon the burnished dove." The waist was a tidy little blouse of striped dove and pink taffeta. There were chameleon ribbons fastened on the shoulder like an epaulet and a straight belt of the same ribbon with a flat bow on the left side. A walking frock next attracted my attention. It was of novelty wool, brocaded with black on a dull green ground. The skirt was gathered all the way around, and the waist was a simple French one, with a quaintly shaped belt of green faille. The sleeves were puffed quite full to the elbow. The fore parts were of faille. I must mention the hat this enterprising young lady bought. The brim was of black velvet and the bell crown of white beaver. Between the brim and crown there was a wreath of pink roses all around and three more set under the brim at the right side. A little tuft of black tips made of this a delicious Marie Antoinette confection, as the French call it.

The styles in hairdressing are changing very rapidly, and it will not be long before no lady will wear her hair parted in the middle. There are very few to whom such a style is really becoming. The most of those who wear it so now do it more to show that they are not afraid to wear anything. The new styles are very quaint. One odd idea is to have one side brought down in a plain bandeau and the other side arranged in loose curls. Another fancy is to have the hair combed off the face, with a little fringe of curls along the edge. There is a jeweled band, and above this the hair is massed in little curls. A style for a young girl is to part the hair from front to the nape of the neck, comb each part forward and make a fluff of curls all around the head of the ends of the hair. One mode is to comb the hair all back over a roll and then mass it into a loose knot directly on the back of the head. A pert and cute fancy is to arrange the hair in five little braids and tie each with a smart bow of ribbon. Hairpins are used to weave the locks over, or crimping pins. They can be hidden. The rest of the hair is brought around to the back in a loose braid tied at the end with a ribbon to match. OLIVE HARPER.

SWITHIN BROS., Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

SCURRILOUS POSTALS

Have Led to the Arrest of Rev. Frank H. Smith of Cambridge.

Marked Cards Said to Figure In Detection.

Federal Authorities Followed Clews to Denver and Effected a Capture.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 16.—Rev. Frank Hyatt Smith of the North Cambridge Congregational church was arrested yesterday afternoon at Denver for the United States authorities in Boston on the charge of sending scurrilous and defamatory postal cards through the mails in this city.

He was intercepted by the United States marshal at Denver, and taken before the United States commissioner. Chief Inspector Boynton of the Boston force received a dispatch from the inspector at Denver to that effect.

For two weeks Mr. Smith had been shadowed, part of the time by private detectives and sometimes by postoffice inspectors. The newspapers have been telling of the work of detectives about the church and parochial residence of the North Avenue church.

The Charge Against Smith

is based on scurrilous and defamatory postal cards which certain members of the North Avenue church have been in receipt of some months. Chief Inspector Boynton suspected Smith, and is said to be able to connect him with the objectionable cards by means of a private mark which was placed upon the cards previous to their being sold to the clergyman by the superintendent of the Cambridge office.

It is reported that so vile is the language on the cards that it was deemed best to keep them out of the mails, and that they were removed from the box after being mailed by an inspector.

The warrant for Smith's arrest was sworn out several days ago and a copy sent to Denver.

Result of Church Row.

The arrest of Smith is the culmination of the internal dissensions which have shaken the church for some weeks past, and which led to the recent stormy meeting, which the presence of a police officer was insufficient to keep orderly, and which was marked by women fainting, men shouting and general disorder.

Mr. Smith came to the church from New York, of which state he is a native, five years ago. He is a brilliant speaker, has an excellent and almost unequalled command of the English language and is a historian of no little note. He was a thorough student of the Bible, and his sermons were listened to with great interest by an ever-increasing congregation.

In fact, his reputation as a speaker spread rapidly, and he was connected with the church but a short time when a perceptible increase in the membership of the church was noticed, until now it is one of the largest congregations in the city. He has many friends, and when it became known that there was dissension in the church they flocked to his standard.

A TRIPLE HOLIDAY

With Plenty of Amusement For Citizens of Waterbury and Visitors.

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 16.—Waterbury yesterday entertained more guests than ever before in its history, 5000 or more, in its triple celebration—the dedication of a new $100,000 Odd Fellows' building, the observance of the 50th anniversary of the order in the city and the initial recognition of the new Connecticut holiday, Lincoln's day, a creation of the last general assembly. The city, in gala attire, was given over to its guests. The factories were shut down, schools closed and business was entirely suspended at noon.

Luncheon was served at 11 o'clock at all the public halls. This and the subsequent dinner were tendered by the citizens of Waterbury. The forenoon was given over to the inspection of the new building and hall.

At 1:30 the big procession marched over a five-mile course. The parade was reviewed by the city government, as well as town and school officers and visiting grand officers.

At 3 o'clock dinner was served under tents on the large fence-enclosed lawn of the Waterbury Watch company. The waitresses were 200 women employes of the watch company, and 100 from other factories, all in uniform.

At 5 o'clock the grand officers and special guests gave a reception at the new hall.

The dedication took place at 7:30 p. m., and the dedication ball at city hall from 8:30 to 3 a. m.

Maine's I. O. O. F. Encampment.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 16.—The Maine grand encampment of Odd Fellows held its annual meeting last night. Grand Patriarch Kenworthy reviewed the work of the year, and reported the encampment of Maine to be in a flourishing condition. Grand Scribe Stone's report shows that there are 57 encampments in Maine, with a total membership of 5233. The total amount paid out in relief in the past year was $14,807 and the receipts were $23,483. The current expenses of the lodge were $8241 and the sum invested was $69,351. The following officers were elected and installed: Grand patriarch, J. T. Mason; grand high priest, J. F. Oliver; grand senior warden, H. K. Colesworthy; grand scribe, B. C. Stone; grand treasurer, A. E. Chase; grand junior warden, H. B. Thoms; grand representative, G. E. Kelworthy. The encampment voted to change the system of collecting of dues from annual collections to semi-annual.

Husband Arrested.

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Anna Pearson, 50 years of age, living at 16 Margaret street, was found dead in bed yesterday. Dr. Dunn pronounced her death to have been the result of natural causes, but several inmates of the house told the police such startling stories about the woman's husband having constantly beaten her, the authorities placed the husband under arrest, to await the result of an autopsy. The women in the house assert that the husband has beaten the wife on several occasions, and are positive that she died from violence at his hands.

Promises to Be a Good One.

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—The battleship Indiana, which left Cramps' shipyard Saturday for her official trip, dropped anchor last night off Boston light. The official course is 82 miles long, extending from Cape Ann to a point a little beyond Boon Island. A round trip over this course, consuming about 4¼ hours, constitutes the official test. On Friday the official trial will be made. The gratifying feature of the Indiana's run to this port was the surprising lack of roll. The ship surprised everybody on board by her admirable behavior. One of England's battleships is said to have rolled 40 degrees, whereas the Indiana does not record a roll of even one degree. This gives her an almost stationary gun platform, a condition very much to be desired when the guns are fired in action.

For Provincetown Odd Fellows.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Oct. 16.—The new Odd Fellows' hall was dedicated here yesterday with impressive ceremonies by the officers of the grand lodge. The exercises took place in the grand hall at 2 o'clock, and later in the afternoon there was a procession, and a ball in the evening. The new building is a two-story affair, of wood, heated throughout with hot water, and has all modern conveniences.

Died Abroad.

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Judge James W. Austin of Boston died yesterday at Southampton, Eng. He was born in Charlestown, Jan. 8, 1829. He graduated from Harvard in 1849. In 1851 he was admitted to the Suffolk bar. He was a member of the Hawaiian parliament for three sessions, and was speaker of the house for one session. He was appointed judge of the supreme court of the islands.

Heavily Punished.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 16.—Edward Victor was fined $500 yesterday for impersonating a police officer. Victor and a man named Carney held up a couple on the outskirts of the city for fast driving, and took the team after robbing the couple. Carney pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 20 years in state's prison. Victor was sentenced as an accessory to the crime.

Possibility of a Contest.

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—The will of the late Hon. Alexander H. Rice was filed in the Suffolk probate office on Aug. 6, but no attempt to have it allowed has been made, and it is understood that there may be a contest over the document, which is said to be unsatisfactory to his widow. The will was made in February, 1894.

Anxiety Relieved.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 16.—The over-due ship W. H. Connor arrived here yesterday from Japan, 160 days out. Captain Pendleton reported a most tempestuous passage, his crew having been constantly in oilskins for over 90 days. The vessel had not been heard from until yesterday for nearly two months.

Lynn Moulders May Strike.

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 16.—The iron moulders of the General Electric company voted unanimously last night to strike. Superintendent Fish is almost sure to refuse the demands of the men, which are that piece work shall be abolished and day work substituted. The strike will affect 2000 men.

Graves In Moosehead Lake.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 16.—R. M. King of Boston and Mike Collins of Oldtown, a guide, were drowned in Moosehead lake while coming down the lake in a canoe. The canoe, with a paddle marked with Collins' name, and a hat and note-book belonging to King, were found near Kineo.

Death's Sudden Call.

DOVER, N. H., Oct. 16.—Marshall B. Hammond of this city, aged 41, died of heart disease, on a railroad train, near Kennebunk, Me., yesterday. He was a 32d degree Mason, an Odd Fellow, a Red Man and a Knight of the Golden Eagle. He was a prominent Democrat.

Scuffle Resulted Fatally.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 16.—Joseph Clinton, a conductor on the Lowell and Suburban street railway, died last night as the result of an injury received, it is alleged, during a scuffle with Daniel O'Day, another conductor, last Saturday night. No arrest has been made.

"Not Needed."

CLINTON, Mass., Oct. 16.—In a letter to a friend here, Hon. Thomas B. Reed of Maine denies the newspaper stories that he is to appear in the Massachusetts campaign here this fall, saying: "I am very glad to see that the Republicans do not need me."

Two Rounds.

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 16.—The fight between Jimmy Kennard, the "St. Paul Kid," and Tom Flaherty of Lowell, last night, was awarded to Kennard in the second round, although the match was for 12 rounds. Flaherty appeared to be overtrained.

Valuable Bit of Property.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Oct. 16.—The entire plant of the Schuyler Electric Manufacturing company was sold by auction yesterday to the General Electric company. The price was $121,250.

Nearly Six Seconds Clipped Off.

SANFORD, Me., Oct. 16.—The state bicycle record for one mile, flying start, was lowered yesterday at Monson River park by Wilfred Senior, who went in 2:13¾. The previous record was 2:19.

Nothing New.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—There is still no official confirmation here of the reported assassination of the Queen of Korea, and although there may be political motives for a concealment for a time of such a tragedy, officials here think it possible the queen may be alive, as the dispatches are somewhat doubtful on this point.

At Work Again.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Secretary Carlisle and Assistant Secretary Hamlin returned from Boston yesterday.

STATEHOOD AT STAKE.

Democrats Resent Mormons' Interference In Politics of Utah.

Disruption of Church Among the Possibilities

Should Democrats Carry Out Plans Which Have Already Been Formulated.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 16.—Joseph F. Smith, the chief counselor of President Woodruff of the Mormon church, says: "My remarks made at the priesthood meeting are not susceptible of the meaning which individuals in both political parties have placed upon them. I was speaking upon church discipline, not upon politics at all."

President Woodruff himself says, concerning the recent priesthood meeting, that there was not, according to his recollection, one word said about Democrats, Republican or politics. He further says:

"I consider the right of every man, woman and child on earth to enjoy their religion, let that religion be what it may, for that is between themselves and their Creator. So I say with regard to politics. Every man has a right to enjoy his political belief unmolested. There is not a Democrat in Utah who can truthfully say that I ever asked him to vote a Republican ticket. Neither can any Republican say I ever asked him to vote a Democratic ticket. A part of my own family are Republicans and part are Democrats."

The Democratic state committee was in session all day Monday and Monday evening, and announced that but one feeling prevailed in regard to taking action on the alleged interference of the high officials of the Mormon church in political affairs, and that was that heroic measures must be taken and the question of political liberties of the people of Utah, irrespective of party, settled once and for all. It was decided to recall the state convention at an early date to consider the proposition of withdrawing the Democratic ticket and substituting therefor an anti-statehood ticket, or taking some other decisive step in regard to church interference in politics.

The feeling is more bitter than at any time since the discussion commenced. The opinion is general that if Thatcher and Roberts can hold out against the Mormon church that powerful body will be disrupted and Utah can then enter the Union free and untrammelled. On the other hand, should the church triumph, it is claimed that the Democratic ticket would be withdrawn, many of the prominent Mormon members of the party would secede and statehood would probably be defeated.

Old Question Revived.

The remarks which led up to this crisis were uttered, it is said, by Joseph F. Smith of the Mormon church, at the recent priesthood meeting. They were to the effect that numerous men high in the councils of the church, and particularly Messrs. Thatcher and Roberts, candidates on the Democratic ticket for the senate and congress, had accepted nominations for political offices without consulting with the president of the church, which was contrary to the rules of the church. George Q. Cannon was reported to have endorsed Mr. Smith's remarks.

The words of the church authorities are taken as a command that those who have gone into politics without the advice and consent of the church must retire from that field.

The declaration was reviewed with great alarm by Gentiles and the progressive young Mormons, who feared a return to the old conditions which prevailed when the Mormon church authorities ruled with a rod of iron.

Strong and bitter anti-statehood talk was immediately indulged in by those who hitherto have favored statehood the most strongly. Judge Powers, chairman of the Democratic state committee, called a meeting of the committee for Monday with the avowed purpose of dissolving the Democratic party and forming an anti-statehood party, which has been carried out. Powers is strongly supported, it is said, by the Gentile Republicans and the progressive element of the Mormons, irrespective of party.

It is believed that a fight is on with the church, and if the latter does not recede absolutely from the position, anti-statehood movement will be at once inaugurated.

At Logan, Sunday, at the close of the Mormon Sunday school, Bishop Carson called the teachers together, and referring to the criticism made by a church official on Thatcher and J. J. Rawlins, who secured the passage of the statehood bill, said that from this the people would know whom to vote against.

Sackville and Bayard.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Truth says that the statement that the Sackville pamphlet was intended to drive Ambassador Bayard from London is absolute nonsense, adding: It cannot be denied, however, that Mr. Bayard availed himself of Lord Sackville's injudicious act to excite an anti-English agitation to assist the candidacy of Mr. Cleveland, and, therefore, it reflects great honor upon England that our government has been so dignified and magnanimous to welcome, as it has, Mr. Bayard as an ambassador.

Knot Securely Tied.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—M. Jusserand, formerly secretary of the French embassy in London, was married yesterday to Miss Elise Richards, an American. The ceremony was first performed at the American church (Protestant Episcopal) and then at the Eglise Canilles (Roman Catholic). All the members of the diplomatic corps and many other notables were present.

On the Midway.

ATLANTA, Oct. 16.—Temporary excitement was created on the exposition grounds yesterday by a fire on the Midway. The explosion of a gasoline stove in the old plantation set the frame structure on fire, and there was a panic among the freaks on the Midway. The fire was soon under control, but the old plantation exhibit was destroyed.

TRAMPS ARE SUSPECTED

Of Having Possibly Robbed and Murdered a Pawtucket Man.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 16.—Archie Connelly started out Monday morning on his usual route delivering beer in kegs and bottles, driving a large two-horse team. He delivered goods at a roadhouse, where he had a large roll of bills. His next stop was about half a mile through thick woods, but he never arrived there, and it is supposed he was killed in the woods and robbed.

Connelly is 40 years old. He usually carried large sums of money, and some tramp or tramps, knowing this fully and having watched him come and go, lay in wait for him and murdered him for his money.

SWITHIN BROS.,
Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

THE QUE... ATE H. D. RICE.

One ...tendent of a Large Manufacturing Plant in New York.

Services over the remains of the late Harvey D. Rice of Brooklyn, N. Y., were held from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. E. S. Jewell, of Wollaston, on Monday afternoon at three o'clock. The services were conducted by the Rev. Preston Gurney, pastor of the First Baptist society. On Tuesday the remains were taken to Amesbury where the funeral was held in the Baptist church. The interment was in the Mt. Prospect cemetery.

Mr. Rice was born at Watertown, N. Y., where his youth was passed. Coming to New York he entered the employ of the Abendroth & Root manufactury. He was with that corporation thirty years, rising to the responsible position of superintendent, holding it up to the time of his death, which occured at Wollaston on Friday after an illness of about two months duration of sciatica rheumatisim. He was a member of the Tabernacle Baptist church of New York for many years and was loved by all who knew him. A widow and daughter survive him.

"Call not back the dear departed,
Anchored safe where storms are o'er,
On the border land we left him,
Soon to meet and part no more.
Far beyond this world of changes,
Far beyond this world of care;
We shall find our missing loved one,
In our Father's mansion fair."

TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

Miss Small of Quincy to Open One of the Discussions.

Friday will be a holiday for the pupils of our public schools, and the teachers will go to school in Boston, it being the date of the 49th convention of the Norfolk County Teachers' Association, which will be held in Union hall, 48 Boylston street.

The programme includes the following topics of discussion: "In the Child's World," Miss Kate L. Brown, West School, Milton.

"An Old-time Virtue," Miss Caroline E. Small, Principal Woodward Institute, Quincy.

"Economies in High School Education," John Holley Clarke, Dean of the College of Social Economies, New York city.

"Correlation of Language with Other Primary Work," Miss Sarah L. Arnold, Supervisor of Boston Schools.

"Philosophy to the Teachers' Rescue," Hon. Frank A. Hill, Litt. D., Secretary of the State Board of Education.

"The Unification of Our System of Education," E. H. Caper, D. D., President of Tufts College.

Ambitious Young Men.

Twenty-four young men registered last evening for the evening classes at the Young Men's Christian Association. The change this year, which requires all limited members to pay one dollar tuition for each class promises to be of great benefit, by keeping out those who do not mean business and by preventing the great overcrowding of classes, thereby enabling the instructor to give more personal attention to each student. The clay modeling class will open tomorrow evening and the free-hand drawing Friday evening. The instructor in singing will meet those who desire to join the Glee club on Saturday evening. This afternoon the boy's gymnasium class will open for the season. It promises to be the largest class ever organized for the boys.

Teamster at Hospital.

Patrick Keefe, a driver for Thomas Hayes, drove his team to Boston Tuesday, and on the way home he loaded himself with fire water which went to Pat's head, and the result was that when Wollaston was reached he fell off the team cutting a gash in his head and injuring the ligaments of his leg. He was taken to the Quincy Police station and the city physician summoned, who ordered his removal to the City Hospital.

Civil Service Reform.

The platform adopted at the republican convention in Boston recently, contained the following: "We believe in civil service reform, not only as a promoter of efficient service, but also as an antidote to that demoralizing spirit which considers public office only a bribe or a reward."

This is reason probably why so many prominent Republicans in Quincy and other towns in Norfolk County believe in the re-election of Mr. Endicott, who has for many years faithfully and creditably filled the office of Sheriff in this county.

Black Fox on Golf Ground.

Several members of the Wollaston Trap club, who were out after quail on Tuesday, unexpectedly started a black fox on the Wollaston Golf Club's grounds at Bellevue Park. There was some scurrying about for a few moments but Mr. Reynard showed them his brush and started for the Blue Hills. The party however shot a quail. Tuesday night the black fox was the topic of conversation at the Duck's Nest and among the gunners. It is unusual to start a fox in this vicinity, especially so near to Boston.

☞ If you're giving a card party this winter, it will cost but a trifle to hire the tables and chairs from us. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

—The Thayer Academy foot ball team had a walk over Tuesday afternoon at Braintree, not allowing the Tufts eleven to score a point while they themselves rolled up ten.

Jones—Zeigler.

At the church of the Good Shepherd in Boston today there was a pretty wedding at high noon, Mr. Clinton Jones and Miss Annie Tapley Zeigler both of Boston being united in marriage.

Miss Zeigler is well known in Quincy and Milton and is the sister of Mrs. Emery L. Crane of School street. Mr. Crane gave the bride away. She was married in a travelling dress, tailor-made, of brown broadcloth with black braid, and carried white chrysanthemums.

Rev. George J. Prescott, the rector, officiated. Miss Claire Jones of Boston was maid of honor, and the ushers were Mr. Walter B. Holden of Quincy, Mr. George A. Loring of Hingham, Mr. James Swan and Mr. George H. Collyer of Dorchester.

The church was prettily decorated with palms.

The wedding trip is to the South, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will be at home after Dec. 1.

The Mount Lebanon Shakers have recently perfected an ingenious cure for dyspepsia. Their Digestive Cordial consists of a food already digested and a digester of foods happily combined.

The importance of this invention will be appreciated when we realize what a proportion of the community are victims of some form of stomach trouble. Thousands of pale, thin people have little inclination to eat, and what they do eat causes them pain and distress.

This Digestive Cordial of the Shakers corrects any stomach derangement at once. It makes thin people plump. Every one will be greatly interested to read the little book which has been placed in the hands of druggists for free distribution.

For Impure Blood.

A strong point about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that people in our own vicinity have been cured by this medicine and are willing to testify to its merits.

"I have been troubled with phthisic, or asthma ever since I was a child. In the spring of 1894 I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I have used about three bottles. I was induced to take it by reading the wonderful cures it had effected in so many cases. After I had taken one bottle I could see a great improvement in my condition, and I have not been troubled with the asthma since. At first I could not believe that

It Was Helping Me

as the people around here had never heard of anything of the kind being cured. Three years ago last March I had the grip and the doctor did not think there was much help for me. For 18 years I raised blood and was all run down. My condition was very bad to say nothing of the asthma. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have not had a sick day, and I recommend this medicine as excellent." CHARLES BURRELL, Liberty Street, Randolph, Mass. Get only Hood's because

MASSACRES RENEWED.

Armenians In a Turkish Town Become Victims of Moslem Hatred.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 16. — Reliable news has been received here that 50 Armenians were killed and a number wounded at Akhissar, in the villayet of Adin, on the Anatolian railway, by a Moslem mob.

The slaughter occurred on Oct. 9, which was market day, when many Armenians had gathered from adjacent villages. Early in the morning a Turkish rough, finding that the Armenians were not armed, picked a quarrel and shot one of them. There was then raised on all sides the cry: "Why hesitate to massacre the infidels."

A mob of Turks, armed with revolvers and knives, then looted the market and massacred the helpless Armenians. Their bodies were thrown into the wells. It is stated that the mudir was responsible for the attack.

The panic is reviving in Constantinople on account of the continued isolated attacks, and the Armenians are again flocking into the churches. The police disregard the safe conduct cards given to the Armenians by the foreign embassies.

The French, Russian and British ambassadors yesterday presented to Said Pasha, the minister of foreign affairs, the final demands of the powers for Armenian reforms. If this is not accepted, an ultimatum will be presented. No further modifications will be permitted. The scheme drops the demand for a Christian high commissioner, but otherwise it is almost identical with the proposals of last May. It is believed, however, that Russia hesitates to force an acceptance, because she fears ultimate Armenian autonomy.

An Explanation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Naval officials here are very much concerned at reports from Norfolk that there has been prize fighting on board the flagship New York, but discredit the story. It has been the policy of the naval commanders to encourage the development of the men on ship board physically, and especially the qualities that go to make a good fighting man, for they have no use for milksops. When Captain Evans took command of the New York, athletic classes were organized on board that vessel, and every sailor has been taught boxing. The men were encouraged to resort to this sport at leisure moments, and were supplied with the big pillow gloves that were not intended to permit a dangerous blow. It is presumed that it has been some exhibition of this kind that has started the report that prize fighting has been going on.

Smooth Road Selected.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—At the request of President Hyde of the Bath Iron works, the navy department has ordered that the speed trial of the ram Katahdin be run over the New London course in Long Island sound. The original plan was to have the trial over part of the Cape Ann-Cape Porpoise course, over which the Indiana will be run, but, as the course is very much exposed, and is likely to be rough at this season, the department has consented to have her run over the smoother Sound course.

The Williams Incident.

MADRID, Oct. 16.—El Nacional says that the Spanish government has not received any threat from the government of the United States respecting the reception or treatment of United States Consul Williams, but that the government of Spain, in consequence of the friendly representations to the government of the United States, has recognized the American consul as a diplomatic agent.

At the White House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The presidential family were reunited in Washington last evening. President Cleveland reached the city by water in the afternoon and Mrs. Cleveland and the children arrived by train at 11:10 p. m. The president's summer outing at Gray Gables has had a very beneficial effect on him, and he returns in vigorous health for the winter's work.

Heart to Be Exhibited.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The deed making the gift of Kosciuszko's heart to Poland was signed by the four daughters of Count Morosini at Vezia yesterday, in the presence of Counts Morosini and Casati and Composer Arrigo Boito. The Polish patriot's heart is destined for the Polish museum in the Chateau Raperswijl, near Zurich.

Quiet at Cadiz.

CADIZ, Oct. 16.—There were no further disturbances here yesterday as a result of the stoning of a prelate Monday by a number of workmen out of employment, who insisted that they wanted work and not sermons. Seven persons were slightly injured by the stones thrown.

A General Windup.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—All the papers in the Distilling and Cattle Feeding settlement have been signed, and J. B. Greenhut has deposited with the reorganized company 1119 shares of the old Distilling and Cattle Feeding company's stock.

Without a Trial.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 16.—Eugene Vanoy, a negro, who lived near Manchester, was called out at 10 o'clock at night by a crowd of white men and killed. He was charged with keeping and abusing a half-witted white girl at his house.

Practical Imprisonment For Life.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The jury last evening returned a verdict of guilty of arson in the first degree, second offense, against Schoenfelz. The penalty will be imprisonment for not less than 40 years and not more than 80 years.

A CLASH OF OPINION.

CURIOUS DONATION TO THE INTERESTS OF CONTROVERSY.

Suit Growing Out of the Liquor Question. Phenomenal Increase of Game In Vermont Woodlands—An Old Law to Be Tested.

[Special Correspondence.]

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 15.—The ferment of problems often contributes as vivid object lessons in the small state as in the imperial commonwealth such as New York or Illinois. No recent issue has so startled public attention and imbittered the clash of opinion in New York as the excise question. Vermont, too, can furnish a curious donation to the interest of controversy, which in her case involves the reputation and dignity of its chief magistrate.

This state lives under one of the most strenuously drawn of possible sumptuary laws. No man may sell or give away spirits, wine, ale, beer or cider, nor is he permitted to import the same into the state. Violation of the law imposes a $500 fine for the first offense, and for the second a similar mulct, with 30 days at polishing marble in the workhouse. As public opinion has ebbed completely from underneath the law, it goes without saying that it is defiantly broken in all the villages and cities of the state. Its main support is in the primitive rural region, where the aboriginal drunkard may linger in perennal paradise at the cost of a few bushels of otherwise worthless apples and a journey to the cider mill.

Without discussing the concurrent conditions of the Vermont statute, which invokes a serpent's trail of blackmailing alike sordid and cynical and habitual contempt for the law in its consequences, let us "come to Hecuba" and sketch a complication somewhat unique.

Some months ago a prominent citizen of St. Johnsbury, also the proprietor of its principal hotel, noted as a man of worth and public spirit, was condemned to the workhouse for repeated infraction of the liquor law. A monster petition, signed by respectable persons of both parties, was laid before Governor Woodbury, imploring remission of sentence. The Vermont Brutus took an austere stand. The majesty of the law would be more splendidly vindicated in the case of a notable sufferer. So reasoned this highest official at the bar of justice.

The second act of the little comedy opens with a new character, the editor of one of the most prominent journals of the state, who had always been the sturdy advocate of high license. Mr. Woodbury, it seems, is the owner—possibly, indeed, interested in the management—of one, if not more, of the leading caravansaries at Burlington. It had been asserted that liquor was served here to the guests in their rooms. Monsieur the editor sent a reporter to test the matter bibulously. The result was a withering philippic in the Rutland Herald, which impaled the gubernatorial victim alive on a stake of his own sharpening.

Third act now on the boards: A libel suit has been entered by the governor against the editor, and the latter, it is asserted, is clapping his hands with fiendish joy over the fun he is going to have. The governor's defense against the editorial charge is that if liquor was sold in his hotel it was without his knowledge or consent. The dangerous and fallible character of such a plea it scarcely needs a chief justice to appreciate. However the libel suit ends, it will afford a curious spectacle, the governor of a state practically on trial for the violation of a law in the enforcement of which he has shown a pompous severity.

One of the significant facts in the existing status of the Vermont woodlands is the phenomenal increase of its wild game. In many places the deer herd with the kine on the meadows, browse in the cornfields, even stray into the large cities in their reckless meanderings. Law forbids hunting them till 1900. The bear, the panther and the lesser fauna have also increased greatly, while the mountain farm is gradually but surely in process of reclamation by the remorseless woods. A novel development promises along the whole chain of the beautiful Green mountains, the evolution of hunting and fishing preserves on an extensive scale through the ownership of clubs or private individuals.

Several of these fascinating enterprises are now operating with great success, and the air is full of negotiations in different parts of these picturesque forest wilds, which rise from 2,500 to 4,500 feet in height, for the purchase of lake and forest domain. Such clubs are becoming the vogue throughout the country, and the Vermont mountain region offers almost matchless advantages for the purpose. There are about 200 beautiful lakes surrounded by dense aboriginal forest lying along the very tops of the Green mountain range, the cold clean waters of which constitute an ideal home for trout and bass, while the brooks already swarm with the first named fish. Those who are alive to this unique and interesting movement claim that it contains a potentiality of a larger revenue to the state than that produced now by all agricultural resources, exclusive of maple sugar, which must be classed with the interests of the woods rather than with those of the fields.

The only drawback in the acquirement of desirable woodland properties for game preservers is an old law inherited from colonial times which prohibits the segregation for private use of "boatable" waters. The construction of the term "boatable" will greatly affect the matter. Does it mean the lake which may be used for the convenience of traffic, or one which will float a fishing boat? The vagueness of the law is now being construed in a test case, and it will be carried, if need be, to the highest court. The decision may easily become an important factor in the future of the state.

JOHN HAMILL.

TRAMPS ARE SUSPECTED

Of Having Possibly Robbed and Murdered a Pawtucket Man.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 16.—Archie Connelly started out Monday morning on his usual route delivering beer in kegs and bottles, driving a large two-horse team. He delivered goods at a roadhouse, where he showed a large roll of bills. His next stopping place was about half a mile down the road, through thick woods, but he never arrived there, and it is supposed that he was waylaid in the woods and murdered.

Connelly was about 27 years old. He was frequently intrusted with large sums of money. It is supposed that some tramp saw the money displayed by Connelly and laid for him in the woods, and after committing the crime drove the team still farther into the woods. Two tramps were seen about the roadhouse very near the time that Connelly was there.

Mrs. Howe's Logic.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 16.—The main feature of yesterday's session of the Social Purity congress was the address of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who wrote of "Moral Equality Between the Sexes." Mrs. Howe's address was as follows: "The relations of sexes are either the crown of society, or its ruin; they either build the state upon a sound and true foundation, or they set up fastastic structures upon the quicksand, which speedily become yawning chasms of loss and misery. Let the romance of our youths look forward to married life on a plane of mutual dignity and equality. In my view, the sense of equality is a most important condition in marriage and the surest guarantee of its soundness. Do what you will, inferiority of ability will involve as its sequence inferiority of moral responsibility. The interests committed to the keeping of women are too momentous to be entrusted by any man to his inferiors."

Fresh Outbreak of Cretans.

ATHENS, Oct. 16.—A band of 1000 armed Christians recently met at Klima, island of Crete, to petition the Sultan of Turkey to restore the charter abolished in 1889, and for a reform of taxation and of the gendarmerie. The governor of Crete sent troops against the petitioners, who withdrew to the mountain fastnesses, whither the troops did not dare to follow. They now threaten to foment a rebellion in favor of annexation to Greece. The situation is perilous.

Three Alleged Firebugs.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 16.—The grand jury yesterday presented an indictment against Rev. John M. Fitzgerald, rector of the Holy Cross church at Charlotte, on the crime of arson in the second degree, in setting fire to a barn owned by himself, which adjoined a dwelling house. John and Nora Cronin, two servants of Fitzgerald, are indicted on the charge of arson in the first degree in setting fire to the parochial schoolhouse.

Fate Already Sealed.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 16.—Jeff Ellis, the negro charged with criminal assault, and who was captured near Holly Springs, Miss., is on his way back to Braden, the scene of his crime, in custody of three officers. He has confessed the offense, and also says he outraged and murdered Mrs. Wilcox. In this case the woman's husband went crazy from the shock, and died. He will certainly be lynched on arrival at Braden.

How Story Died.

ROME, Oct. 16.—The granddaughter of William Wetmore Story states that her grandfather had been in better health and spirits than he had been for some time past and had been able to drive out. Her mother heard him moaning at 3 o'clock in the morning of Oct. 7, and while she was arranging his pillow he died in her arms suddenly and without suffering from paralysis of the heart.

A Short Postponement.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—The trial of Theodore Durrant was yesterday continued until Monday next on account of the sickness of Attorney Duprey, the leading counsel for the defense. Judge Murphy announced that the trial would be resumed next Monday, whether Mr. Duprey should have recovered in the meantime or not.

Wholesale Pardon.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Governor Altgeld yesterday pardoned 112 girls from the Evanston industrial school. The pardon is the result of the unfavorable report made by a committee which investigated the institution. The girls range in age from 6 to 21 years.

Corbett at Hot Springs.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 16.—Pugilist Corbett arrived last evening, as did Brigadier General Taylor, commanding the state troops. A conference between General Taylor, the state's attorney, and the citizens' committee is being held.

Died of Cancer.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Oct. 16.—Colonel T L. Wilson died here yesterday. He was the first president of the Tebo and Nasohc railroad, which was merged into the Missouri, Kansas and Texas. The cause of death was cancer of the face.

No Extra Charges.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Railroads centering in this city have no legal right to make switching or terminal charges for delivering live stock or other traffic at the Union stock yards, according to a final decision in a test case.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

—It is related of a well-known business man of Brockton how he took a vacation a short time ago and concluded he would spend it gunning about Monponsett lake in Halifax. One day he came in sight of the lake just at a critical time and saw some twenty ducks a short distance from the shore. With feverish haste he fired and killed all. But when he tried to get them with the aid of a boat, and found only some roots sticking up just above the surface of the water, which had been well filled with shot, he resolved never to tell of his adventure. It is said his dog was so mortified that it would not come home with him.

Three Kisses.

Childhood upon her brow dropp'd kisses sweet.
With crooning song, he lingered by her side,
And with bright hope her pulses wildly beat.
"Ah, this is life!" she cried.

Youth from her gentle lips drank kisses rare,
As warm as southern winds that faintly blow,
And with soft fingers stroked her golden hair.
"'Tis love!" she murmured low.

Age with chill kisses fann'd her furrowed face.
O'er her dim eyes she felt his icy breath.
Gently he clasped her in a close embrace.
She whispered, "This is death!"
—Lizzie E. Dyas.

Stupid Revenue Officers.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 16.—Wholesale smuggling has been practiced here for years, as proven by the confessions of the smugglers now in custody, almost in the very presence of the customs officials. One schooner owner during the past 12 months has brought from St. Pierre 4200 gallons of rum, depriving the colony of about $10,000 in duty, and he is only one of many engaged in the same business.

SHOTS AT DEMOCRATS

Launched Forth at Campaign Meeting of New York Republicans.

Warner Miller Talks on State and National Affairs.

Ex-Minister Smith Pays His Respects to the Cleveland Administration.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—In defiance of the request of certain leading politicians, Warner Miller last night leaped over the excise breastworks and the whole anti-Tammany army shivered while he took his plunge.

It was characteristic of Mr. Miller that he should refuse to be swerved from advocating his Saratoga plank, declaring in "favor of the Sunday laws in the interest of labor and morality." He went further than that. He rebuked the effort to open the saloons legally on Sunday and denounced the local option plank of both local parties as a cowardly subterfuge.

WARNER MILLER.

Warner Miller said that the issues of this campaign were threefold, namely: National, state and municipal. Three years ago, he said, the country was enjoying the greatest success in its history. The Republican party stood today where it always stood—for the protection of home industry and labor, and when it got back the reigns of government it would restore protection to its own industries.

The Republican party had a bright history, both in war and peace. Three years ago the people saw fit to make a change. The Democratic party's record was one of imbecility. Its Wilson bill had destroyed all the prosperity of the county—it was not a tariff for revenue, but a tariff for deficiency.

"Tammany Thieves."

The state issues of this campaign, the speaker said, were of the utmost importance, and if there were to be any reforms in this state or city the Republicans must be very careful in electing the proper man to say and the proper assembly to make it impossible for the band of thieves known as Tammany to regain control.

Some years ago, he said, he ran for governor of this state on a high license platform and was elected, but counted out. He declared himself in favor of high license. He said this, because of a continued misrepresentation of the opposition.

Soon after the police department began a strict enforcement of the Sunday law, the cry was raised that it was an infringement of the unwritten law of personal rights and liberty. This was not so. This claim was found untenable by its father, Senator Hill, and then a shift was made to home rule. He asserted that instead of being opposed to home rule, the Republican party had done more for it than the Democratic party ever did.

The personal liberty war-cry of Hill, when brought to hard facts, was to enable Tammany Hall to levy infamous taxes. If it would be an infringement of personal liberty for a saloon to be closed by the vote of the locality, it would be no more of an infringement for it to be closed by the vote of the state.

In reference to the excise law and the forbidding of the sale of liquor on Sundays, the speaker said that last summer Senator Hill had written two letters to a gentleman in this city, in one of which he said that in all probability the children in school would soon be instructed as to the evil effects of the use of wine, corsets and bicycles. "Just what Governor Hill knows about the evil effects of wearing corsets, I leave to yourselves to judge," said Mr. Miller.

The speaker then advocated a quiet and orderly Sunday, and said that if saloons were to be open, the same privileges should be extended to every other trade.

Smith's Argument.

Charles Emory Smith was the next speaker. Mr. Smith said: "The good people of New York have united this year, as they did last, for redemption from the thraldom of Tammany Hall. Above and beyond all party considerations, you have abundant reason to draw the fangs and cut the claws and starve the maw of the odious Tammany tiger."

Mr. Smith compared the condition of the country for 15 years prior to Republican supremacy in 1861 under Democratic rule and the condition under Republican rule, saying that the balance of trade against us under the Democratic tariff of 1846 was $431,000,000, and for 15 years prior to the present administration, under Republican rule and a Republican tariff, the balance of trade in our favor was $1,660,000,000.

In conclusion, he said: "The American people have already risen with a might and majesty never before equalled. In the elections of last year they rolled up the colossal majority of 1,250,000 in protest and condemnation. They broke the solid south. They redeemed the house and well-nigh rescued the senate. They gave the author of the Wilson bill plenty of leisure to go back to the Belshazzar feast of the London Chamber of Commerce or to seek the refuge of the cabinet. They lopped off Springer and Holman and Bynum and Bland and every Democratic head that appeared above the surface. You in New York stormed and carried the bastile of Tammany Hall.

"You and your countrymen gave the most imposing demonstration of American reason and conscience which we have ever witnessed, and it remains for you and them to repeat and emphasize that moral and patriotic uprising in such a way as to inspire fresh confidence in the integrity and perpetuity of American institutions."

THE BIVALVE SEASON.

If Properly Cultivated, Oysters Would Be Within the Reach of the Poorest.

[Special Correspondence.]

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—The oyster is not in its prime until October, and epicures wait until they have picked up, after the spawning season, before indulging in their daily meal of this favorite shellfish. But, widespread as is the use of oysters as food, it is remarkable how few persons know anything about their culture or cultivation, except that they are found on the oyster beds of the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard.

It will be much more interesting to tell my readers of some of the curious devices that are used for raising oysters, and it will be news to them that some of the best oysters in the world are really grown upon trees. I do not mean that those trees grow on the land, in woods and forests. They consist of small trees or branches placed in the water, upon which the oyster spat affixes itself after it has been fertilized on the surface of the water. In many of the estuaries of the Connecticut rivers—where the bottoms are muddy and unfit for oyster culture—this plan is adopted for collecting spat, and a good many of the young oysters thus collected find their way, as yearlings, to the Pacific coast, where they are sown in the beds of San Francisco bay. And it is not inapropos to explain here that it is very easy to discover whether an oyster has been transplanted or grew where it is found, for oysters have not the power of attaching or fixing themselves a second time.

But to return to the subject of growing oysters upon trees. I shall best explain this economic plan by telling of the great oyster farms of Fusaro and Taranto, in Italy, where, because of the muddy and unwholesome conditions of the bottoms of the lakes, it was necessary to adopt some other method than that of making a bed, as is the case in all the oyster grounds, natural or artificial, in our waters. This Italian plan consists roughly of four corner posts, a web of ropes, branches of trees and various suspended devices for collecting oysters and growing, fattening and storing them. The corner posts are about 20 feet long, and the ropes forming a network between them must be strong enough to support the weight of the collecting devices, etc. The collectors consist of loose bundles of hazel and gorse branches. These are called facines, and when covered with young oysters are broken into twigs and tied together in a long string, which, when again suspended in the water, utilize the water volume and give the young oyster full liberty to obtain the best nourishment.

In addition to the facines, or branches, several wire baskets are also suspended from the ropes, and any oysters that become detached and fall to the bottom, together with the grown oysters on the facines, are placed in these baskets for storage and final growth. This plan has given incredibly excellent results in Italy, and in addition to the tree spat collectors of Connecticut there is no reason why the same method should not be adopted along our coast, where the bottoms are found to be unsuitable.

The popular belief that oysters can only be grown or matured on the sea bottom is here finally refuted. They do not need to be at the bottom to secure their food. As a mattter of fact, the amount of food that is actually brought to an oyster colony seems to be in direct proportion to the volume of water passing over it.

In South Carolina there are millions of tons—over 20 miles—of oysters, or more properly, oyster shells. The reason that this is not a greater oyster producing field than either the Chesapeake or Connecticut grounds is simply because of the asphyxiating condition of the inshore bottoms. No trouble has been taken to macadamize the bottom of this naturally prolific oyster region, and, as a consequence, the young oysters are found in pyramids 10 and 12 feet high, or growing on the piles and stakes along shore. Because of their natural instinct—and it cannot be other than instinct that causes them to cling to the wood piles or crowd on top of each other—the Carolina oyster is exposed to the sun and atmosphere for at least eight hours out of the 24 and cannot thrive. Their shells are almost transparent, their shape is long and narrow, and for this reason they have received the name "raccoons." Considering the enormous home consumption and exportation of American oysters, it seems to me that the great resources of those great oyster fields of South Carolina should be judiciously developed.

To give an idea of how prolific the oyster is I shall state that the average number of eggs in one female oyster is 135,000,000. And Professor Brooks of Maryland once made a calculation that, taking eight matured oysters and assuming that every egg matured from them and their progeny for five years, the result would be a mountain of oysters and oyster shells more than twice the bulk of the earth. So that were it not that enemies destroy about 90 to 95 per cent of the oyster eggs and young oysters, and that man does not take proper steps to conserve a greater proportion of them, we would have this delicious and nutritious fish food at a price within the reach of the poorest and in ample abundance.

AN IMPORTANT POINT

Under Maine's Prohibitory Law Sustained by Portland Judge.

Seized Liquors Ordered to Be Restored to Owners.

Numerous Suits For Damages Are Now Among the Possibilities.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 17.—An entirely new and an important point under the prohibitory law was raised in the municipal court yesterday. It paves the way for numerous suits for damages and trespass against officers who have seized liquors in the past.

On Sept. 28 Deputy Marshals Sterling and Hartnett made a wholesale seizure of beer and whisky at the establishment of the Rienzi Bottling company. Four days later the officers filed their libel.

On Sept. 30 Deputy Sheriffs Plummer and Frith made a seizure of $200 worth of liquors from the steamer Salacia. The libel was filed four days later.

Both libels were returnable in the municipal court yesterday.

Attorney Meaher appeared in court with a motion that the libel in each case be squashed, on the ground that it had not been filed in strict compliance with the revised statutes. The point he raised was that the revised statutes specifies that the officer who makes a seizure of liquors shall with his return indorsed thereon, with the magistrate by whom the precept was issued.

Immediately File the Libel,

Attorney Meaher claimed that the word "immediately" in the statute could not be construed as meaning four days, and that in failing to make their return within a reasonable time the officers had rendered the libel void.

Judge Robinson said the attorney for the claimants must file with the court, in accordance with the provisions of the statutes, a statement that the claimants have a right to the liquors seized, and the claimants must make a declaration under oath that the liquors so kept or deposited

Were Not For Unlawful Sale.

In the afternoon Judge Robinson quashed both libels. In consequence, the barrels, casks and cases of whisky and beer included in the two seizures were taken out of the liquor storeroom in the city building, loaded on drays and carted back to the places from whence they came. The work of reloading was watched with amazement by a crowd.

The liquor was shipped to Boston on last night's boat. It was watched carefully by officers until it was seen safely on the boat and started on its way to Boston.

Tried to Kill Whole Crowd.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Carmino Bartolto, an Italian, was held under $3000 bonds yesterday on the charge of attempted murder. A gang of laborers on Commonwealth avenue extension had struck work on the discharge of their foreman by the contractor. New men were hired, and work was renewed in a short time. The strikers hung around the work, and in the afternoon, when the new gang were preparing a blast, Bartolto crept up to one of the heavy blasts and touched it off. A foreman saw the danger, and called the men away before the blast exploded.

What Insurgents Need.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—President Fuentas of the Boston Cuban club says: "We have plenty of soldiers in Cuba. The only thing we need is munition of war. If 50,000 rifles with ammunition should be sent to Cuba at once, there would be a man ready to take up each rifle. This is all we ask for. This is why we know that if the United States should recognize the belligerence of Cuba the war would not last six months, for then we should be able to provide sufficient ammunition."

Two Thousand In Parade.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Oct. 17.—Two thousand members of the United Order of American Mechanics participated in the annual state parade in this city yesterday. The American flag was everywhere in evidence. The following officers were elected: State councilor, L. D. Leonard, Litchfield; vice councilor, F. B. Gregory, Norwalk; secretary, C. H. Adams, South Norwalk; treasurer, F. T. Atwood, Wethersfield.

Freights Bumped Together.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Oct. 17.—A freight train was wrecked at Mount Tom station last evening. Seven cars were derailed and some of them were smashed. A freight train had been side-tracked to allow a passenger train to pass, and was just pulling out from the side track when another freight came along and struck it about middle way. Fortunately no one was injured badly.

A Successful Gathering.

WINTHROP, Me., Oct. 17.—The 27th annual convention of the Maine State Sunday School association closed yesterday. The convention has been largely attended and is pronounced the most successful meeting ever held by the delegates. The following officers were elected: President, B. C. Jordan, Portland; secretary, B. B. Snow, Yarmouth; treasurer, E. S. Everett, Portland.

A Warming-Up Spin.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 17.—The warship Indiana returned from her preliminary trial at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon, having covered the course of 62 miles in about 4 hours and 25 minutes, and made an average speed of over 14 knots. She proceeded directly to Boston, where her tubes will be cleaned preparatory to the official trial tomorrow.

Vimeira's Maiden Trip.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—The largest cargo of Mexican hemp or sisal grass ever brought to this port arrived here last night in the British steamship Vimeira from Progreso, Mex. The Vimeira is a new steamer, having been completed on the Clyde only last month. She sailed from Glasgow direct for Progreso, where she loaded her present cargo.

Machine Broke Down.

SANFORD, Me., Oct. 17.—The attempt of Wilfred Senior to break state bicycle records yesterday resulted in a catastrophe to the pacing quad. At the first turn the front wheel of the quad and the fork caught the track, causing the machine and its riders to turn a complete somersault. Senior escaped unhurt.

DRIVEN TO THE BAD.

Fallen Women Advise Reformers to Turn Attention to Factories.

Pointed Arguments at the Social Purity Congress.

Persons Wishing to Secure Divorce Must Live Outside of Canada.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Charlton Edholm, a missionary in the Florence Crittenden missions for the rescue of fallen women, headed a party of 15 delegates to the Purity congress to visit the houses on Josephine street last night after the purity meeting was over.

A policeman and a number of newspaper men accompanied the party. It was near midnight when Josephine street was reached. The "slumming party" then divided itself into two sections, one for each side of the thoroughfare, and entered each house as they went along.

The policemen in most cases led the way into the parlors, which the members of the expedition took possession of, singing and praying with such of the inmates as did not seek refuge in flight to other rooms. In one case a girl said: "I know you mean well in coming here, but I don't know how much good it will do. Instead of coming here you better go around to some of these factories and shops that grind a poor girl down to $2 a week, and get them to pay better wages. It's no use; a girl can't live on what she gets. You had better put in your efforts there."

At another place Mrs. Edholm urged one of the inmates to leave the place. "I would like to," she said, "but I cannot. I have two children that I have to support and pay for their schooling. One is 11 years old and the other 13. They are not in this city. My children are the purest, sweetest things on earth. I would not have them now about me for the world. I want to leave this life, but I can't. You don't know how it is."

The Closing Session.

President Powell opened the congress yesterday by reading a paper on "Purity Work: Derived from English Experience," by Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell of London. She declares the divorce laws of England to be the cause of moral deterioration. Rev. S. S. Seward of New York followed with a paper on "Purity: How Preserved Among the Young." Mrs. J. H. Kellogg of Battle Creek, Mich., read a paper on "Purity and Parental Responsibility," and Mrs. M. W. Allen of Ann Arbor, Mich., delivered an address on "Moral Training of the Young," holding that the young women "taught too much of sex, consciousness." Dr. J. H. Kellogg of Battle Creek, Mich., read a paper on "Chastity and Health," in which he treated of the physical deterioration in both the individual and the race, resulting from impurity and the hygienic advantages of chastity and continence.

Miss Hannah Hollowell Clothier of Philadelphia read a paper on "The Pure In Heart," and Miss Mary Travila of West Chester, Pa., delivered an address on the same subject.

The last things done before the close of the morning session were the reading and answering of a number of questions sent to the congress by the Chicago Civic federation. The questions were read by the president, and answers were made by prominent workers. One of the questions was as to whether it was wise to limit immorality to certain districts. President Powell said "No," and the other workers said "Amen" to his answer.

Another question was as to whether it was practicable to stamp out the social evil altogether. One of the answers was: "It is practicable to do anything that is everlastingly right." Mrs. Webb of Ohio said it had been done in a city in Ohio. The men were sent to jail and the women were sent home.

Other Papers of Interest.

"Some Cases of Present Day Immorality and Suggestions as to Practical Remedies" was the subject of a paper written by B. O. Flower of Boston. Mr. Flower classified as "well-springs of death," "prostitution within the marriage bond, or a disregard of the sacred right of the wife and child; prostitution without the marriage relation; the influence of the liquor traffic; unjust social conditions; lack of knowledge and the absence of high ideals in the mind; the popular acceptation of the pernicious idea of the 'double standard of morals,' which, in effect, pollutes youth, leads to legislation fostering lust, and in other ways proves a positive barrier to moral progress."

The Rev. C. W. Walch, of Brighton, Ont., who was introduced as "the only foreign delegate to the congress," spoke of "Purity Work in Canada." He said in part: "We have no struggle over uncertain divorce laws, for we have neither a divorce court nor a divorce law, except in one of the smaller provinces. To procure a divorce with us requires a special act of the Dominion parliament. The result is that for the past 10 years there have been but 48 applications for divorce, 40 of which were granted."

Miss Jessie Ackermann, who has just returned from Iceland, then made an address, giving the congress the benefit of her personal observation and experiences while engaged in mission work.

Mrs. Mariana W. Chapman made an appeal for woman suffrage in an address on "Equal Suffrage as Related to the Purity Movement."

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore dwelt upon the baneful effects of the regulation of vice in Europe, and a letter was read from Mrs. Ormiston Chant, who wrote that the ballot for woman is the best way to secure social purity.

Resolutions were then passed favoring social purity and condemning state and municipal regulations of prostitution, also denouncing the "double standard" in morals. The congress then adjourned sine die.

Sensible Furniture.

In building this furniture business we've had lots to contend with, and our one purpose has been from the start to give the citizens of Quincy and adjoining towns, the very best possible store service in existence.

It has not been our policy to advertise a few things at cost and ask a hundred per cent. profit on everything else, but sell everything at a uniformly low price, at as small a profit as possible. Goods right and prices right are what the people want today, and there isn't a better place on earth to find them just as you'd like than at this, The People's Store.

A DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL.

The Quincy Christian Endeavor Union Holds its First Informal Meeting.

Notwithstanding the exceptionally small attendance at the churches on Sunday—owing to the severe storm—and the resultant smallness of the number of those who heard the announcements, about one hundred of the Endeavorers of Quincy, gathered at the Centre Congregational chapel, last evening, for the first social of the union.

After a song service and prayer by the President, Rev. Robert Westly Peach, the Rev. E. N. Hardy, pastor of the Centre church, gave an address of welcome, in which he made a stirring appeal for the church, and especially its Young People's societies, to take possession of the social side of life and control it along spiritual lines.

Mr. A. Raleigh of South Quincy gave a clarinet solo of great beauty.

Then for an hour the young people copied conundrums from cards tied to chairs, brackets and books in different parts of the rooms and wrote answers to such as they could solve. The tablets with which they were provided for this purpose also had a type-written catalogue of the works of art and names of artists represented in the most ingenious of art galleries, into which every one was admitted upon the suspended payment of fifty laughs. Refreshments were also served at this time. Then answers to the conundrums were read, and many of them copied upon the convenient tablets, amid much mirth.

A vote of thanks by rising and clapping of hands was extended to Mrs. Alfred R. Baxter, who had prepared programmes and conundrums and arranged the art gallery; to Messrs. Weeks and Southworth, who had loaned two large musical boxes; and to the social committee, of which Mr. Alex. Clark is chairman.

As each person present was provided with a tag on which his name and society was written, and the happy arrangement caused a constant intermingling, it is certain that acquaintanceship and fellowship were increased, and that the work of the union will be strengthened through this evening of playing.

ARBITRATION VS. WAR.

The High School Society Debate the Subject Pro and Con.

At the meeting of the Quincy High School Debating Society on Wednesday, Miss Pratt '97, vice president, occupied the chair. Miss Briggs '96, secretary, offered her report which was accepted.

The election of secretary and of treasurer followed and resulted as follows: Secretary, Miss Thompson; Treasurer, Miss Joss.

The entertainment included these selections:

1. Recitation, Miss Cook, '97.
2. Essay, "The Miseries of Essay Writing," Miss Hayes, '97. An entertaining account of an attempt to write an essay.
3. Recitation, "A Dash for the Colors," Miss Briggs, '97.

The debate was on this subject: "Arbitration versus War."

Affirmative,—Miss Marion Pitts, Miss Ramsay, Miss Roche, Miss Rothwell, Miss Sweeney.

Negative,—Mr. Anderson, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Coe, Mr. Northcott.

The debate was postponed for lack of time.

It is expected that the exercises will be opened by His Honor, Mayor Hodges, and followed by other gentlemen connected wit the city government.

Firemen's Muster.

The first parade and muster of the New England Union took place in Boston yesterday, and a grand old time the firemen had.

The display consisted of two parts, a street parade in the forenoon and a play-out contest on the Congress street base ball grounds in the afternoon. Thirty-three companies entered the lists, representing five States—Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and New York.

But two of these, the Niaraga Veterans of Topsham, Me., and the J. J. Grays of Cambridge, New York, dropped out, thus leaving 31 companies to compete.

The play-out contest was open to all bona fide active and veteran hand-engine organizations that were properly and completely organized prior to Sept. 16, 1895.

The cash prizes offered amounted to $925, divided as follows: First class engines, first prize, $300; second prize, $200; third prize, $100; fourth prize, $50. Second class, first prize, $150; and second prize, $75.

Never was there such a fine collection of engines to a muster as on this occasion. Many of the machines had a big record behind them. But on this occasion some of the smartest tubs did not do as well as usual.

There were two engines present from Braintree. The famous old Butcher Boy, built in 1852, which has had a good record in the past; having taken numerous prizes; and the Union, one of the smartest tubs in this vicinity.

The Union is a 5½-inch, latest style, squirrel-tail suction, Hunneman tub. She was from East Braintree with a fine company of men, under command of George Maybury, a veteran fireman. The company was assisted by Chief Engineer Williams and other noted Quincy firemen. The company did nobly, and took the second prize in the second class, of $75.

The following is the order of the playing and the official score. The letter following the name of the engine indicating the name of the maker, and the figures following the letters the diameter in inches of the cylinders:

Amateur Photographers.

Of the many strong features given among the photographic pictures of the Boston Sunday Journal one of the most interesting has been the series of vacation pictures taken by New England amateurs. The Journal's photographic pictures are specially admired by all readers of that paper, and the original subjects of New England life shown in the new series will be prized by all who have an eye for the beautiful. There are many things that are lost in the ordinary newspaper illustration, but the Journal's reproduction of photographs by the half-tone process is exact, and the amateur sees in that paper his picture just as he caught it by the camera. Each number of the Sunday Journal is a veritable art gallery, for it contains a great variety of pictures to please all tastes.

What

You want of a medicine is that it shall do you good—purify and enrich your blood, throw off that tired feeling, and give you health, strength, courage and ambition.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sarsaparilla is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye today, and it meets these requirements perfectly. This is proved by the testimony of thousands of people. Hood's

Sarsaparilla

Builds up the nerves by feeding them on pure blood, creates an appetite by toning the digestive organs, overcomes That Tired Feeling by giving vitality to the blood, and gives sweet refreshing sleep. You may realize that Hood's Sarsaparilla

GOVERNOR WAVERS.

Corbett-Fitzsimmons Fight May Come Off at Hot Springs, After All.

HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 17. — Whether the meeting of Corbett and Fitzsimmons shall occur at Hot Springs, Oct. 31, is not decided, but from all indications the chances are now exceedingly favorable.

An eager crowd awaited the decision at the conference of state and municipal officials. Members of the conference said that it had been agreed in the meeting that nothing that occurred there was to be made public. From the best information that could be wormed out of the reluctant conferrees, it is understood that the matter is to be left by the governor in the hands of the local authorities, in whom he has confidence, to properly interpret the law and carry it out.

Attorney General Kinsworthy's opinion on the legality of the course adopted by Governor Clark, in connection with the prize fight question, will probably never be known, unless the governor calls upon him for a written opinion in the regular way.

A press representative sought to interview Mr. Kinsworthy yesterday. "I decline to answer," replied the attorney general, bluntly, in response to an interrogation. "I will not give an opinion on any subject to any private citizen or to the press. I shall say nothing absolutely unless called upon by the governor in his official capacity for a written opinion. If that is called for, it will remain for the governor to make it public if he desires."

"Is the executive of this state," was asked, "competent under the law to say that an audience of people assembled for the purpose of witnessing a boxing match is an unlawful assemblage or a body of rioters?"

"I must decline to answer that question," said the attorney general.

Further questioning proved fruitless, as the attorney general was firm in his resolution not to be interviewed. "Were I to submit to an interview," he said, "I might say something that would not agree with Governor Clark's view of the matter. Should I do this, he would come here and jump on me, and I am not going to take any chances on that."

Whites and Blacks.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 17.—The South Carolina constitutional convention reassembled yesterday. The negro cohabitation question came up. The provision under consideration declares that it shall be unlawful for any white person to marry with any person having negro blood in his or her veins, and providing for the punishment of cohabitation. An amendment was introduced excepting from the provisions of the law those people in the state who, although they have a slight intermixture of negro blood, have the status of white people. There is much difference of opinion as to what is best to be done about this class.

As Viewed In England.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Times declares that no change has occurred in the Venezuelan question sufficient to bring it within the scope of the Monroe doctrine, saying: It is begging the question to assume that the British claim is for fresh territory. The British case rests wholly upon the vindication of our original right. The British contention is that as British Guiana became British by right of conquest from the Dutch, the British territory extends over the whole area possessed by Holland.

Second to None.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The annual report of the quartermaster general of the army shows that during the year the army was liberally and promptly supplied with all necessary articles of clothing and equipage of satisfactory quality. The cavalry mount of today excels that of any previous time, and is superior to that of foreign armies.

Sackville on His Pamphlet.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Daily Telegraph prints a letter from Lord Sackville in which he says that only a few copies of the pamphlet relative to Mr. Bayard were printed. These were meant for distribution privately among friends, and the writer never intended the pamphlet to be published.

Getting Scared.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 17.—The smuggling offenders are terrified at the exposures of their whole plan. Michael Parroll, the so-called secretary of the smuggling syndicate, has fled to escape arrest, a warrant having been issued for him.

Safe Robber Sentenced.

3,759 VOTERS.

Registration for the State Election Closed Last Night.

The Registrars of Voters were in session from 12 M. to 10 o'clock, P. M., Wednesday, and at times were very busy, especially so during the evening, as well as in the afternoon when at one time they were almost swamped with women who desired to register.

During the session 83 new male voters were added and 28 restored, making the total number of males added and restored since the posting of the preliminary lists in September 247, which swells the total number of males on the lists to 3759; an increase of 49 over the November election in 1894.

QUINCY MAN FOR COUNCILLOR.

Hon. William N. Eaton, Our Commissioner of Public Works, Nominated.

The city of Quincy and 18 towns were represented by 44 delegates at the second district councillor convention of the Democrats at Dedham on Wednesday. Bushrod Morse of Sharon was chairman, and H. C. Witt of Stoughton secretary.

Hon. William N. Eaton of Quincy was nominated by acclamation as the candidate for councillor.

This district committee was chosen: Bushrod Morse, Sharon; George O. Wentworth, Stoughton; James F. Burke, West Quincy; George R. Chase, Medfield; A. P. Worthen, Weymouth; W. H. White, Brookline; C. F. Jenney, Hyde Park; Richard J. Cronin, ward 23, Boston; W. N. Swan, ward 24, Boston; W. L. Mooney, ward 22, Boston; William Moore, Walpole; J. J. Barker, Taunton; John C. Lane, Norwood; W. W. Slight Fire at Atlantic.

The alarm from Box 62 at 6.38 Wednesday evening was rung in for a slight fire in a shed off Hancock street owned by Jeremiah Donovan. The party who rang the alarm, for some reason best known to himself, did not open the box by the ordinary method but with a rock, which not only smashed the outside door but the inside door as well.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Democrats of Quincy and the District Nominate Representatives.

The Quincy Democrats met in Representative convention, Wednesday evening, at Democratic headquarters, Adams building. The call was read by Mr. William B. Orcutt, and upon motion of Mr. Adams, Mr. Orcutt was chosen permanent chairman and George D. Cahill, secretary. William G. A. Pattee placed the name of Dr. William Everett in nomination and the convention acquiesced by acclamation. The convention then adjourned.

The joint convention of the Quincy and Weymouth delegates was called to order by Mr. Orcutt and the officers of the last convention were chosen to serve for the joint convention. Mr. Whalen of Weymouth presented the names of the Weymouth candidates, Minot J. Tirrell and James L. Lincoln, and the convention ratified the nominations for the fifth Norfolk district—Dr. William Everett, Minot J. Tirrell and James L. Lincoln. The convention then adjourned.

A committee of two; Charles F. Adams, 2d, and William F. Shea were appointed to find Dr. Everett and request his presence in the convention. The gentlemen reported that after a thorough canvas of the city they were unable to locate him.

This city will be well represented at the annual dinner of the Republican club of Massachusetts at Music hall, Boston, next Wednesday evening.

Twelve thousand women are registered to vote in Boston on the Suffrage act.

Quincy has 689 more voters than Woburn, and 429 more than Marlboro.

Mr. Williams at Quincy said that the Republicans stand for the creation of more offices and the removal of control from the people. Meanwhile the Republican standard-bearer, Gov. Greenhalge, at Fitchburg spoke manfully in favor of consolidating and simplifying our executive forces and putting them more closely in touch with the people. Which man really speaks for the dominant party?—Boston Journal.

Quincy Point regardless of party will support T. H. Newcomb for representative.

Charles W. Warren of Dedham is the Democrat nominee for senator in the second Norfolk district. The Democratic county committee are: Bushrod Morse, Sharon; Charles S. Bird, Walpole; James F. Burke, Quincy; Charles Stewart, Franklin; A. P. Worthen, Weymouth; W. H. White, Brookline; C. F. Jenney, Hyde Park; Ira C. Hersey, Foxboro; M. J. Daily, Randolph; T. J. Quinn, Sharon.

Postmaster James F. Burke will be looked upon as an "offensive partisan" if he does not withdraw from the county and councillor committees.

The Sheriff Fight.

Most sincerely ought it to be regretted that Norfolk County is to witness again a contest which means not only bad politics but entire forgetfulness of those high ideals of Civil Service Reform to which the Republican Conventions have repeatedly pledged themselves. Do the party platforms mean anything? Do high moral professions stand for anything more than glittering generalities! If so, the proper course of every Republican voter who desires to lift the Civil Service out of the mire of the spoils system is to cast his vote for the re-election of Sheriff Endicott. Can anybody charge him with offensive partisanship in the conduct of his office? He might have made a clean sweep. He might have sought to make the whole business partisan, and appointed men to office on party lines, but that is a policy he has studiously ignored. He can triumphantly point to his record and challenge contradiction of this statement. No Republican in Norfolk County can refute this.

The facts show that the Sheriff has never been swayed by party bias. He has simply shown that the Republican Gov Robinson knew what he was about when he appointed this man to his place. He has simply demonstrated faith in and loyalty to those ideas of the Civil Service which the Republicans of Norfolk County have been earnest in season and out of season in demanding. The opportunity presents itself to all who believe in pure politics to give the stamp of their approval to one who for ten years has been singularly free from any taint of violation of his high trust. Above all the opportunity is at hand for every Republican to aid his party to not go back on its record regarding an official against whom not one word of complaint has been raised. Sheriff Endicott has justified his appointment by Gov. Robinson, he has justified his nomination by the Republicans in Oct. '[illegible] he has justified his election in '86; he has justified his triumphant re-election in '89 he has justified the Republicans omission to put up any candidate against him in '92 If faithful, unpartisan, loyal service is worth anything as an example in Norfolk County, the friends of good government, the believers of the Civil Service Reform, the admirers of high ideals in politics have now a chance to show fealty to their ideas. Until some fault can be shown in the administration of the Sheriff's office all such can loyally promise to vote for Sheriff Endicott.—Norwood Advertiser.

Clay Modeling.

Nearly all lines of industry today, both in iron and stone, requires the use of clay models. As a result few art professions offer better opportunities for young men who want to find lucurative positions. This is especially so in Quincy, where any workman can, by a good knowledge of clay modeling and free hand drawing secure advancement. In view of this fact the Young Men's Christian Association has opened a regular art school fully equipped with all that will go to make such a school a success. The work last year won the award of merit for North America, and this year, with the many additions made in the way of casts and models, a great improvement is probable. Few cities can provide such opportunities for young men, especially such teachers as Mr. Herbert W. Beattie, who has a national reputation. The clay modeling class opens tonight and the free-hand drawing tomorrow evening.

The Crystal Maze.

The newest thing in Boston is the Crystal Maze. It is a wonderful conceit, and there is no doubt but that Boston will be crazy over it within a week. It is the brightest optical illusion ever seen. It is a surprise at every step. Pass beyond the curtains hanging at the entrance and you give up all hope of ever intelligently finding your way through the inextricable maze of vestibules. Compared with this the ordinary maze that has been seen around Boston is as easy as simple arithmetic is to algebra.

Perry-Jilbert.

F. Munroe Perry and Miss May Jilbert were united in marriage at high noon today by Rev. Walter Russell Breed. The wedding was a quiet one and Mr. and Mrs. Perry left immediately for a brief wedding trip, returning from which they will take up their residence at their pretty, new home on Arnold street.

Verdict for Doble.

In the Superior court at Dedham this morning a verdict for A. T. Aldrich of Boston and H. F. Doble of Quincy was rendered in the case brought against them by H. F. Richardson of Boston for $5000 for damages by fraud and deceit in selling a lot of land at Revere.

DREAMS OF DRESS.

Many of the new capes are finished with a large sailor collar of fur or velvet.

In all the endless category of fabrics there is none so universally becoming as velvet.

Wide handsome ribbons are again to fall from the nape of the neck a la watteau on evening dress bodices.

The fashionable furore for fancy waists will not abate this season and in all probability will continue all winter.

Among the dressy toilets for autumn are those of crisp taffeta in dresden or old chintz patterns, the skirts made up over moreen interlinings.

Immense empire bows with buckles of glittering Irish diamonds in the center are set upon round hats of fine French felt, trimmed with velvet.

Some of the new black lace medallion patterned insertions for panels, petticoat fronts and waist and sleeve decorations are a quarter of a yard wide.

French coats of smooth finished cloth, imported to wear with various dresses, come in dark shades of russet brown, green, blue and the always popular black.

Four round opals set in corrugated circles of gold combine in an engaging pair of sleeve buttons.

The scythe is an appropriate emblem for the season. It is most attractive when inlaid with diamonds.

Bicycle chatelaine pins are the latest novelty. They consist of the wheel relieved against colored enamels and mercury wings proceeding from the hubs. These seem destined to become popular.

The most interesting of the fall show of watch chains for men are alternating groups of links of gold and platinum. This is not a new fashion, but at the moment seems conspicuous, and the links are rather prettier than ever.

The dragon flies are more skillfully simulated than ever. One was noticed in which the slenderest veinings were done in tiny olivines. It is a fine chance for enamel, when it has to copy the gleaming irridescence of the wings of the devil's darning needle.—Jewelers' Circular.

AN ARTISTIC QUARTET.

Sir Frederick Leighton, president of the Royal academy, says that it was with great reluctance his father permitted him to take art as his profession.

Alma Tadema has defined modern impressionism as "a world of mist—a regular bubble and squeak, which does not satisfy"—and enters a plea for fidelity and accuracy of detail in painting.

J. MacNeill Whistler took the seventh prize of $500 at the recent international exhibition at Venice, the only prize awarded to an English speaking artist. The first prize of $2,000 went to Paolo Michetti.

Mr. Solomon Solomon, the artist, is short, slim, straight, good looking, a little conceited and apt at times to be quick tempered. His success as an artist has been well deserved and quick, moreover, in coming, for Mr. Solomon is only just past his thirties. His home, at one time in Paris, is now in St. John's Wood.

PRINTERS' INK.

An advertiser should possess business wit along with literary ability.—Trade Magazine.

Good soldiers don't cease firing as soon as an advantage is gained. Good advertisers keep "everlastingly at it" so long as there are customers to procure or new goods or special values to announce.—Printers' Ink.

Bucyrus, O., reports a clergyman who sold advertising space on a church programme—a prayer response and an ad. alternating. Even with such preferred position the programme can't compare with the newspaper as a medium.—Boston Post.

I'm Growing Old.

My days pass pleasantly away;
My nights are blessed with sweetest sleep,
I feel no symptoms of decay;
I have no cause to mourn or weep;
My foes are impotent and shy;
My friends are neither false nor cold,
And yet, of late, I often sigh—
I'm growing old!

My growing talk of olden times,
My growing thirst for early news,
My growing apathy to rhymes,
My growing love of easy shoes,
My growing hate of crowds and noise,
My growing fear of taking cold,
My growing ear to the plainest voice—
All whisper it plainly old!
I'm growing old!

I'm growing fonder of my staff;
I'm growing dimmer in the eyes;
I'm growing fainter in my laugh;
I'm growing deeper in my sighs;
I'm growing careless in my dress;
I'm growing frugal of my gold;
I'm growing wise; I'm growing—yes—
I'm growing old!

I see it in my changing taste;
I see it in my changing hair;
I see it in my growing waist;
I see it in my growing heir;
A thousand signs proclaim the truth,
As plain as truth was ever told,
That, even in my vaunted youth,
I'm growing old!

—John G. Saxe.

An Afterthought.

"So, sir, you went to that disgusting ballet!"

"Yes, darling, I"—

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself. But did you see anything that would be a good design for a bathing suit?"—Life.

THE STORY OF A JOKE.

Two Men Made It, but Another Fellow Got Paid For It.

The managing editor of a now dead and forgotten newspaper was an admirer of humor. Without a spark of it in his own composition, he had learned in his long newspaper experience that a judicious injection of wit and fancy made a paper popular. He learned the lesson earlier than the other editors in the town, and his was the first paper to enliven its pages with bits of humor. The "old man" recognized his own incapacity in the matter of jokes. He knew that thousands laughed at things that seemed foolish and flat to him. When he started using humorous matter, he hired a young man to supervise the preparation and publication of the stuff. Knowing absolutely nothing about jokes and jokers, he employed a man who had made a reputation among other people by his work on an eastern funny paper.

The young man had a brilliant idea. He offered a reward of $2.50 for every original joke brought in by members of the staff. The "old man" backed him up—nothing was too expensive if it sold papers. The result of the prize offer was a remarkable outpouring of alleged wit. One man caught the fever the first day. Timidly he went to the professional humorist.

"Do you buy jokes here?" he asked.

The humorist took the proffered paper from the new man's hand and read it. "Yes," he said, and handed back the paper.

The newcomer retired crestfallen.

Immediately following this passage at arms Frank Walsh, the best hearted fellow in the office, scribbled a few lines on a sheet of paper and handed it to the professional humorist. Without a word the latter wrote out an order on the casher for $2.50. The other members of the staff wondered at the occurrence, and watched the paper for the appearance of the joke. It was not published, and after a few days the boys began to ask about the witticism the editor had paid for and did not use. Finally Walsh told them what it was. Here it is:

"Young Man (handing paper to editor)—Do you buy jokes here?

"Editor (returning paper)—We do."—Chicago Chronicle.

PORTE'S BITTER PILL.

Christians Will Carry Out the Armenian Reform Schemes.

Said Pasha Bows to the Ultimatum of the Powers.

Relief For Oppressed People Is Now Almost an Accomplished Fact.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Sir Philip Currie, British ambassador to Turkey, telegraphs to Lord Salisbury that the scheme relative to reforming the administration in Armenia, which was submitted to the porte on May 11 last by Great Britain, France and Russia, had been accepted by the Turkish foreign office, and that it only awaited the sultan's signature preparatory to being put into effect.

An unofficial but reliable dispatch received last evening announces that the long-pending and menacing question is now virtually settled.

The ambassadors of the powers expect that the whole question will be finally settled in the course of the week by the promulgation of an imperial decree. Contrary to general expectation, the high commissioner, who will be charged with the execution of this scheme of reform, will be a Christian. This was the hardest pill for the porte to swallow and for a long time it threatened to bring about the most serious complications.

The Ultimate Result.

The scheme is almost identical with the proposals of last May, which were that the governors of Van, Erzroom, Sivis, Bitlis, Khartut and Trebizond be Christian or Mussulman, according to the inclination of the population; but either the governor or the vice governor is to be a Christian, and the appointments are to be confirmed by the powers.

Local and not state officials are to collect the taxes, and enough money is to be retained before it is forwarded to Constantinople to pay the expenses of local administration. Complete changes will be made in the judicial system, torture will be abolished, the prisons will be under surveillance, the police will be composed of Christians and Turks equally and the laws against compulsory conversions to Islamism will be strictly enforced.

Big Gun Under Arrest.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—One of the managers of Elkington & Co., silversmiths of this city and of Calcutta, who claim the distinction of being silversmiths "by special appointment to her majesty, the queen; H. R. H., the Prince of Wales; H. M., the Emperor of Austria, and H. M., the King of Belgians," has been arrested in connection with the robbery of 31 ingots of silver, valued at about $25,000, in transit over the Midland Railway company. The silver was stolen in broad daylight, on Sept. 25, with a horse and the wagon in which the bullion was being conveyed from the Midland railway station to Messrs. Sharps & Wilkins of this city.

Almost Worn Out.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The Minnesota will be turned over to the state of Massachusetts at New York tomorrow, and will be received by Captain Weeks. The deckhouse and fittings of the old boat have been repaired, but the hull is unseaworthy, the planking above the copper astern being rotten. To replace this would cost a large sum of money, and the state of Massachusetts must take her as she is.

Satolli Not Invited.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Recent reports of Mgr. Satolli's purpose to go to Rome to attend the pope's jubilee in January next are untrue. Secretary Rooker says Mgr. Satolli has received no request from the Vatican to be present, and he has asked for no leave of absence, such as would be necessary.

Opposition Badly Left.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 17.—The provincial elections resulted in great triumph for Premier Blair. Among the defeated Opposition men is Hon. W. E. Perley, who has had a seat in local legislature for half a century. In a house of 46 members, the Opposition will have nine men.

Want Cities Back.

LIMA, Oct. 17.—The Budget for next year has been presented to congress, and it proposes a loan of 10,000,000 sols for the ransom of Tacna and Arica, which are in the territory involved in the conquest by Chili, and in the treaty between Chili and Bolivia which was recently made.

Spain's War Loss.

MADRID, Oct. 17.—Since the beginning of the campaign against the insurgents of Cuba the Spanish forces have lost one brigadier general, 26 superior officers, 160 other officers and 1810 soldiers, who have either died of disease or have been killed by the enemy.

A Poor Beginning.

GLASGOW, Oct. 17.—While a new oil motor street car, crowded with city officials, was making its trial run here yesterday, the oil tank caught fire, and the car was burned in the middle of the street. All the passengers escaped.

France's Invitation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The state department has received from Ambassador Patenotre the invitation of the French republic to take part in the French exposition of 1900, which is to usher in the 20th century.

Shot Wife and Killed Himself.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—Early this morning, John W. Boyd, aged 38, a clerk in the United States treasury office, shot and fatally wounded his wife, Annie, and then committed suicide.

Little Bennie Is Sick.

SARATOGA, Oct. 17.—Master Benjamin McKee has a mild attack of scarlet fever. Mrs. McKee and ex-President Harrison are quarantined in one portion of the family cottage.

All Well.

BERGEN, Oct. 17.—Steam yacht Windward, which conveyed the Jackson-Harmsworth polar expedition to Franz-Josef land, has arrived here with all well on board.

Out of Work.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 17.—Seven hundred men returned from the railway line yesterday, owing to the stoppage of work for the winter.

Home Again.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Steamer Amsterdam, with Mrs. Waller on board, arrived at quarantine late last night.

MRS. FLEMING'S CLAIM.

Says She Is Entitled to $25,059, but Her Nephew Raises Objections.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Mary Alice Almont Fleming, who is a prisoner pending her trial for the murder of her mother, Mrs. Evelina M. Bliss, by poisoning her, has obtained from Judge Beekman in the supreme court an order appointing Lawrence Godkin as referee, to pass upon her claim to $25,059, now in the hands of the city chamberlain, which she claims as her portion of funds derived from the proceeds of the sale of property of her father, Robert Swift Livingston.

MARY LIVINGSTON FLEMING.

A partition suit to distribute Livingston's estate was brought over 20 years ago, of which the amount claimed by Mrs. Fleming forms a part. She says she is entitled to this amount under the will of her father, and applied to the court for an order that it be paid to her.

Her application was opposed by Robert Swift Livingston, a grandson of the testator, who states that if Mrs. Fleming is convicted of her mother's murder she will not be entitled to any portion of her father's estate, and that his father's interest in the eldest Livingston's estate will then fall to him. He asked that the consideration of Mrs. Fleming's application be postponed until after her trial shall have taken place.

A Timely Suggestion.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—Archbishop Walsh, who recently returned from Ireland, has addressed to Hon. Edward Blake a letter on the question of Irish home rule, in which he asks: "How is the success of the Irish cause to be obtained? My suggestion is this: Let a great national convention be held in Dublin, composed of chosen representatives of clergy and people of Ireland, and of an advisory representation of the Irish race abroad. In the convention let Ireland speak out her mind." To this letter Mr. Blake made a favorable reply.

Figures Run High.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Vice Admiral Besnard, minister of marine, says that the China-Japanese war has shown the necessity of possessing numerous swift, well-armed and armored cruisers. The naval program for the period between 1894 and 1899, inclusive, involved an annual expenditure of £3,000,000, exclusive of torpedoes and guns. The new program for building additional ironclads, cruisers and dispatch vessels would increase the expenditure £400,000 pounds annually, representing a total outlay for the next 12 years of £40,000,000.

Vets' Annual Encampment.

BUFFALO, Oct. 17.—The 10th annual encampment of the Union Veteran legion convened here yesterday. After the organization of the encampment the parade took place, in which fully 5000 men participated. The streets through which the veterans marched were lined with thousands of spectators, who cheered them lustily. It is estimated that there are 10,000 strangers in town.

No Dividend.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17.—The directors of the Baltimore and Ohio railway have decided not to pay dividends on common stock for the six months ending June 30 last, saying that the earnings for that period exceeded 2½ per cent, but that they deem it advisable to hold the money for other purposes.

Checks Were Valueless.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Max Hirsch was convicted here yesterday of grand larceny. Hirsch bought clocks and jewelry to the amount of $150 and gave checks on a bank in Bridgeport, Conn., in which he had an account of 6 cents. Then he went to Allentown, Pa., with the goods, where he was arrested.

Served In Two Wars.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Colonel George S. Fisher, who was consul general to Japan by appointment of President Lincoln, and to Syria by President Grant's appointment, died here suddenly of heart disease. He was born in Boston in 1824. He served in the Mexican and civil wars.

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

VI.

Men have made our laws wholly of their own motion, as some declare, or largely influenced by women's expressed or implied wishes, as I and many others believe. What solid ground have we for saying that, given political responsibilities, our women would bear them more conscientiously than men? A very large proportion of our political questions today are financial or economic questions. Is it probable that women would be more generally stirred than men to think seriously and vigorously about these? Did my friend really show cause why the suffrage should be given to women when she said that only direct personal political activity could awaken their real interest in political things? Do good women thus disassociate themselves from the duties and responsibilities of their husbands and sons in other directions? Do they not feel a personal concern in the progress of their sons' college education, even though they may have had none themselves? Or in their athletic education? Or in the professional success, the business rectitude and diligence of their husbands? Or in the councils and affairs of their churches? Is it true that we feel we cannot take an active interest in public affairs unless we take an active personal part in them? And, if so, is this indeed a proof that we are well fitted to serve the public good? Or is it a proof that we are vain and proud and selfish—that we must audibly "have our say" in the same manner as men, or else will sulk in our corners and declare that we wash our hands of the nation's interests, of our men's interests, of our own interests? I have already said that I cannot believe it is so. I cannot believe so badly of the women of America. They are not generally interested in public affairs today because their true education has only just begun. But they will gradually grow interested without the bribe or the lure of votes, and then we shall see what woman's influence may mean for good.

If it is indeed true that the work of the world must be divided, and that nature, experience and a sane philosophy unite in showing that the labor of government is part of man's proper share, it is hardly needful to consider any such minor arguments as that if women could vote "there would be no more wars." But I may say that most of them are on a par with this one as regards any basis of demonstrated or probable truth.

Does the history of the female sovereigns of Europe or of India show that women hate war more than men, or does it show that when their emotions are excited they are apt to be more recklessly bellicose than men? How was it with the women of France in the days of the great revolution? And do recent instances differ from those of earlier date? Was not the terrible Franco-German war of 1870 called by the French empress "my war?" Was it not recognized as such by the French people? Do not the investigations of historians and memoir writers show it to have been such? And which were recognized as the most bitter opponents of the Union in our southern states during the war of the rebellion and long after its close—the women or the men?

But the worst of all the fallacies now being used as persuasive arguments is the declaration that if American working women could vote their wages would be equalized with men's. Those who promise this do not give their reasons, and they could not base them upon past facts with regard to rises in the value of men's labor. Even today women are paid much more nearly the same as men for really equal work than the makers of this promise would have us believe. But often what is called equal work shows some inequality, if not in the perfection of its performance, then in the probability that the worker will continue permanently at her task. Although certain agitators have declared that the "law of supply and demand" is a foolish fetich, it nevertheless affects the pay of every laboring individual in the world. Amid social and commercial conditions like ours, the slightest inequality in working power, the slightest difference in the relations of a supply to a demand, tell in financial results; and no laws can possibly obviate this fact. Not legislation, but organization, has raised the wages of men during the past two generations. And the most successful result of labor organization—the famous strike of the dock laborers in London a few years ago—was accomplished by men, a very small proportion of whom had votes. Thus there are many things to think about, many serious questions to decide, before we can conscientiously say that we believe woman suffrage should be established. And, be it noted, the burden of proof lies with those who advocate the innovation. We are not obliged to prove that woman suffrage is undesirable. They are obliged to prove that it is so clearly desirable that, for its sake, the country should run the enormous risk involved in a political and social revolution of the most radical and far-reaching sort. This is law and justice all the world over: The status quo, like the human individual, must be considered in the right until we have good evidence that it is in the wrong. Otherwise there would never be any security for individuals, never any peace or safety for the state.

Therefore all I desire to do is to bid you pause—pause, and think, and consider the arguments of the advocates of the "movement," without passion, without prepossession, and especially without that foolish vanity of would be imitation of men which means a great lack of true feminine pride. But above all do not be tempted to say, "We women must look out for ourselves and our own interests." It is a slander upon the men of America to say this—upon those men who have so cordially helped us to become the freest and most highly considered women in the world. And it is a defiance of the laws of nature and of common sense to declare that the best interests of the sexes are separable. To declare this is to give men an excuse, a temptation—nay, a veritable right—to say, "Then we also must look out for ourselves and our own special interests." Do you think that the country would fare better if our men said this or that its women would fare better? Do you not think rather that the best way to serve our country and to serve ourselves is to do our own work as well as we can—which means a great deal better than in the past? And do you really believe that part of this work should consist in a half share in the actual immediate power to make those laws which deal chiefly with matters that men's daily occupations fit them to understand better than we do, and in the execution of which, strive as we might, we could take but a very small share?

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

TRUE BILL RETURNED.

Rev. F. H. Smith Indicted by United States Court Grand Jury.

Cambridge Folks Stirred Up Over the Affair.

Some Think Government Officials Acted Hastily While Others Think Differently.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The United States circuit court grand jury yesterday returned a true bill against Rev. Frank Hyatt Smith, pastor of the North Avenue Congregational church in Cambridge, for the alleged sending of scurrilous and defamatory postal cards through the mail. The indictment was forthwith placed upon the secret file in the clerk's office.

It is stated that the United States authorities in Denver have been most lenient in dealing with Mr. Smith. As he had an engagement on Tuesday evening to dine with Chancellor McDowell of the University of Denver, he was simply notified on Tuesday afternoon that a warrant was out for his arrest, and that he must consider himself in the hands of the government.

The formal arrest was not made until Wednesday, when he appeared before the United States commissioner in Denver and was held in $1000 bail, which was furnished. The accused minister denounces the charges against him as "false and malicious," and declares that his enemies are responsible for them.

It is understood that a special meeting of the North Avenue church will be held at once to take action in the matter. A postoffice inspector from Boston has gone on to take charge of Mr. Smith and to bring him back to this city. He will probably be here the first of next week.

The Feeling In Cambridge.

Some comment has been made in Cambridge, especially by the friends of Mr. Smith, on the way in which the arrest was brought about. It was known, they say, that he would return to Cambridge next week and resume his place in the North Avenue church, where he was to preach again a week from next Sunday. They were inclined to criticise the hasty action of the authorities, as they termed it.

United States District Attorney Hoar simply says that he is employed to do the work of the government, and that the manner in which it has been conducted in this case does not warrant any criticism. The warrant for the arrest was applied for and granted while the authorities still believed that the minister was in Cambridge. They did not know that he had gone to Denver with the expectation of receiving a call to a church there when they placed the warrant in the hands of a United States marshal. Having taken the initiatory steps then, the district attorney's office decided to send the warrant on to the officers in Denver, with the result which has followed.

What Conviction Means.

The grand jury began to hear the evidence in the case Wednesday, and several witnesses were examined. The penalty on conviction of the crime of sending scurrilous postal cards through the mails is a fine not exceeding $5000, or imprisonment at hard labor for not more than five years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

There is naturally considerable excitement in the North Avenue church over this outcome of the troubles there, and a good deal of interest is also taken in the matter outside of the circle of church members. The accused pastor has many friends, and they are outspoken in their belief in his complete innocence of the charge.

Those who were not so completely on the pastor's side in the former troubles feel that the United States district attorney and the postoffice inspectors know their business, and that they would not have ordered the arrest unless the evidence secured seemed strong enough to them to warrant it.

Wants Pay For Praying.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Oct. 18.—The suit of Jacob Krebanor vs. Bernard Goldstein, to recover $159, came up yesterday. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant owes him $125 for praying with him for his deceased father from Oct. 1, 1893, to April 1, 1894. The plaintiff further says the defendant owes him $108 more for services in praying for the defendant. The plaintiff charges 12½ cents an hour for 216 hours for the services of his servants, and 25 cents an hour for himself. A witness testified that Talmud laid down the rules for prayers for the dead. At least 10 persons must pray, or the prayers do not count. The plaintiff fitted up a room for these prayers, and they were held according to a verbal agreement. The case is unfinished.

Reed For President.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The Lincoln Republican club held its second annual banquet last night in the United States hotel. John S. Richardson presided. Lieutenant Governor Wolcott spoke first. He eulogized Lincoln and his example to the present generation. Hon. John M. Selders of Maine made a speech in favor of Thomas B. Reed as the next candidate for president. He urged all the New England delegates to stand as a unit for an eastern man. Curtis Guild, Jr., spoke in behalf of the harbor of Boston and the necessity for its immediate improvement.

Mortal Wound Inflicted.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Judas Cohen, 18 years old, is lying at the point of death, suffering from a knife wound in the left breast, inflicted by Lewis Green. Green is now under lock and key, charged with assault and battery with a knife, but it is probable that before he is put into court he will be complained of either on the charge of manslaughter or murder. Cohen was interviewed in regard to the trouble, but all he would say in regard to it was that he received the cut while fooling with Green.

In Favor of the City.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The supreme court yesterday handed down a decision in the Worcester city hall case. The question involved was whether the city had a right to build a new city hall on the Common, by virtue of its own ordinance authorizing the act, the erection being forbidden by the public statutes, without leave of the legislature. By the decision rendered yesterday, the new building can be built in accordance with the vote of the city council.

Ready For Her Trial Trip.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The work of getting the Indiana in trim for her trial was completed last evening. All the boilers and boiler tubes were overhauled and thoroughly cleaned, and clear, fresh water pumped in before starting the fires. Every thing was carefully stowed, so as to offer no impediment to the men in their work today. The trial board left this city on a tender at 7 o'clock this morning.

Coffren Goes Free.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Lydia Hadley was shot at Otter Creek last July by Royce Coffren, who was arraigned at the time and held on the charge of manslaughter for the action of the grand jury at the present term of court in Ellsworth. He claimed the shooting was accidental. The grand jury reported yesterday, but no indictment was returned against Coffren and he was discharged.

Determined to Die.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Oct. 18.—Professor Ernest K. Christ, for 15 years instructor of German at the high school, died of paralysis of the heart yesterday. It is believed that the paralysis was caused by poison taken on Wednesday night. He later tried to hang himself Despondency, because he was discharged by the school board, is the cause of the act

Mrs. Bent Leaves.

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 18.—The revocation of the lying-in hospital license held by Mrs. Lizzie F. Bent has disclosed that Mrs. Bent has left the city, leaving numerous unpaid bills and four unclaimed children at her institution. She is under indictment on two counts, one on a charge of polygamy and another on a charge of baby farming.

Six Fires Set by Foster.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 18.—A verdict of guilty was rendered by the jury, without leaving their seats, against Newell Foster of this city, charged on six counts with setting fires. Captain Murphy of the night police testified that Foster confessed to setting the fires. Foster, who was unrepresented by counsel, did not testify.

Gets $6023.21 Damages.

DEDHAM, Mass., Oct. 18.—In the supreme court in the case of Jennie C. Wall vs. receivers of the New York and New England Railroad company, to recover for damages by reason of a fire alleged to have had its origin in sparks from a locomotive, the court directed a verdict for the plaintiff for $6023.21.

Greeted by Old Friends.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Rev. Brooke Herford of London, formerly pastor of the Arlington street church, this city, was tendered a reception yesterday at the home of Rev. John Cuckson, the present pastor of the church. Many of the distinguished clergyman's former parishioners were present to greet him.

Rev. Mr. Vose Will Accept.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—The North Avenue Baptist church has received notice from Rev. R. A. Vose, pastor of the First Baptist church, Utica, N. Y., who was tendered a call by the Cambridge church, to the effect that he would accept and would arrive in Cambridge about Nov. 15.

Too Much Married.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 18.—Mary Dalton of Bridgeport was arrested in that city yesterday and brought here on a charge of bigamy. She is said to have married Joseph Donovan near Portland, Me., and later deserted him, coming to this place, where she married Charles W. Van Lew.

Generous Bequests.

GREENFIELD, Mass., Oct. 18.—The will of the late Oliver Davenport of Leyden has just been probated, and its public bequests are: American Bible society, $10,000; Missionary Society of the Methodist church, $10,000; trustees of the School for Indigent Girls at Bath, N. Y., $3000.

Fifth In the Country.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 18.—The supreme commandery, Knights of Malta, yesterday instituted a grand commandery of Massachusetts. J. W. Hicks is the grand commander and G. S. Jones the recorder. This is the fifth grand commandery in the United States.

Bones of a Woman Dug Up.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 18.—Workmen engaged in road improvements near "Federal Gate," on the road leading to Millstone point, came upon the skeleton of a woman, not over a foot below the surface. Coroner Brown of Norwich will investigate.

Due to Bad Water.

ANSONIA, Conn., Oct. 18.—A typhoid fever epidemic threatens this place. The sickness is supposed to be the result of drought, the use of wells in several instances having had to be abandoned on account of the impurity of the water.

Netting Gave Way.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 18.—George Delmore, an acrobat, while performing at the Westminster theater yesterday fell through a netting onto a brass rod, where he remained empaled until removed, injuring him, it is feared, fatally.

Alleged Crookedness.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 18.—Ossian W. Gilbert, postmaster of Kingfield, is under arrest here on the charge of appropriating the funds of the postoffice for his own use.

Ticket Complete.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Sherman W. Evarts, son of William M. Evarts, ex-secretary of state, will fill James W. Hawes' place on the fusion ticket as candidate for judge of the city court.

Russia Ready to Fight.

ODESSA, Oct. 18.—The Black sea Russian fleet has been hastily ordered to cruise near the mouth of the Bosphorus.

RATIFIED BY SULTAN.

With Reluctance He Agrees to the Armenian Reform Scheme.

Terms, However, Are Not Up to the Standard

But Best Possible Without Creating Breach Between England and Russia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—An Irade was promulgated yesterday announcing that the sultan signed the Armenian reform scheme demanded by the powers.

The newspapers here publish the following official communication:

"His majesty, the sultan, whose constant desire has always been to carry out reforms adapted to circumstances and calculated to secure the well-being of his subjects, decided that reforms shall be introduced in all the provinces of the empire, and, first of all, in the province of Anatolia. These reforms will meet the wants of the population and the exigencies of the situation.

"All will be within the limits of existing laws and regulations based on the Hatte Humayoun of Gulkhanch. They will comprise the increase and reorganization of the gendarmerie and police, and amelioration of administrative and judicial branches of the service."

All the papers emphasize the principle of the equality of all subjects, and appeal to the sultan to see that no distinctions are made.

Sultan's Troubles Not Ended.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—An editorial in The Times this morning says: It will probably be too much to expect the extension of the Armenian reforms to other portions of the Turkish empire, yet nothing would more powerfully consolidate the sultan's real authority.

The Chronicle's Constantinople correspondent says: The sultan has so feared exasperating Mussulmans by consenting to the reforms that the minister was obliged to implore him to sign the document. I fear that English opinion will be greatly disappointed when the terms of the reform scheme become known. But nothing better could be obtained without the appearance of the British fleet in the Dardanelles, which would have involved the instant disruption of the triple entente (between England, Russia and France), and probably a Russian occupation of Armenia.

Sir Philip Currie, therefore, has done the best possible without causing a serious breach between England and Russia. This temporary solution, however, will not save the sultan from an outbreak of dangerous anti-dynastic feeling, of which the sultan will probably be the victim.

The Chronicle believes that the British fleet will remain at Lemnos, in the Ægean sea, which is about 50 miles from the mouth of the Dardanelles, until adequate guarantees for the execution of the Armenian reforms have been given.

The Daily News (Liberal organ), commenting on the same subject, presumes that the powers have accepted a Mussulman, instead of a Christian, high commissioner. If so, says the Daily News, it will be a severe disappointment to Armenia's best friends. It is evident that the concert of the powers has been more apparent than real.

Nebraska Politics.

OMAHA, Oct. 18.—According to a decision of the supreme court there are two Democratic parties in Nebraska. For judge of the supreme court, C. J. Phelps was nominated by the free silver wing of the party, which acknowledges ex-Congressman W. J. Bryan as its chief. T. J. Mahoney was nominated at another convention by the administration Democrats, who are controlled in this state by Secretary of Agriculture Morton. Both candidates will be placed on the official ballot and designated as "Democrats."

Chicago Running Behind.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—The city of Chicago is obliged to adopt a policy of retrenchment. It is now proposed to cut the fire and police departments from one-third to one-half and scale down other branches of the public service to an extent that will practically amount to their temporary abolition. The city is running behind at the rate of $1,000,000 a year, and has a floating debt of $6,000,000, accumulated during six years.

Amnesty For Rebels.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 18.—The senate has adopted the bill granting amnesty to the participants in the revolt of Admiral de Mello, and in the Rio Grande do Sul rebellion. The deputies adopted an amendment excluding the rebel officers from the army for two years. It is expected that the senate will accept the amendment.

Terms Forwarded to England.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The conditions under which the race next year for the America's cup will be sailed have been formulated, and copies were mailed yesterday to the secretary of the Royal Yacht squadron and C. D. Rose.

Impressive Indeed.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The heart of Kosciuszko, the polish patriot, enveloped in Polish flags, was deposited in the Rapperswyl chateau by the wives and daughters of the Polish exiles. It was an impressive ceremony.

Tarred and Feathered.

DENVER, Oct. 18.—A negro named Bob Marshall was taken from a jail at Greeley by a mob, tarred and feathered and driven out of town for having insulted Governor McIntyre at the Potato fair. He was not seriously injured.

Cremated Herself.

SACO, Me., Oct. 18.—Mrs. C. F. Connor was arrested Wednesday night for drunkenness. Yesterday morning she was found dead in her cell, having set the bedding on fire and roasted alive during the night.

Fatal Explosion of Dynamite.

SHARPSBURG, Ky., Oct. 18.—While a party of workmen were engaged in building a turnpike near Flat creek, a charge of dynamite prematurely exploded, killing three men and wounding several others.

LARGE WAREHOUSE.

Hammond & Co. to Have a Cold Storage in This City.

It is not perhaps generally known that Hammond & Co. are to erect immediately a large cold storage warehouse in Quincy along the line of the N. Y., N. H. and H. railroad.

The location of the building is the Dr. Underwood estate, which faces on Hancock and Dimmock streets and runs back to the railroad. The railroad has acquired by lease a strip about 10 feet wide bordering on their property to make room for another track, and Hammond & Co. have leased a piece of the property between that of the railroad and the homestead.

The building is to be 40 by 70 feet, and two stories high. It is to be of wood and the outer walls about twenty inches thick, to be constructed of studding and boards.

The contractor who is to build the warehouse is in town and will commence operations immediately. It is understood that he is to employ local carpenters to do the work and that employment will be given to not less than twenty-five.

Odd Fellows Funeral.

The funeral of Charles A. Winslow was held Thursday afternoon from his late residence on Edwards street, and was largely attended by many of his business associates as well as a delegation from Bunker Hill lodge, I. O. O. F., of Charlestown, and Mt. Wollaston lodge of Quincy. Services at the house were conducted by Rev. A. E. White, after which the remains were escorted to Mt. Wollaston cemetery by the Odd Fellows, the bearers being Past Grands Jacobs, Stetson and Cobb of Mt. Wollaston lodge, and three brothers from Bunker Hill lodge.

The services at the grave were conducted by Noble Grand, T. Walter Good and Chaplain, A. F. McLeod.

Greenleaf Park.

Quincy will soon be a city of parks. It has as public reservations the Merry Mount park, Faxon park, five large playgrounds, and the State park at Blue Hills. Close beside the beautiful Merry Mount park of 70 acres is the new residential section, "Greenleaf Park." It is among the most desirable land in the city, and under the management of Messrs. C. P. Anderson and William F. Macy is bound to boom. Mr. Macy has opened rooms in the Durgin & Merrill block.

ST. JOHN'S BAZAAR.

Formally Opened Last Evening by His Honor Mayor Hodges.

A large number were present at the opening of the St. John's bazaar in Hancock hall Thursday evening. The bazaar was formally declared opened by Mayor Hodges, who was introduced by President Cole, and he was followed on behalf of the society by Rev. F. A. Cunningham.

The tables are seven in number and are in charge of the following:

Knights of Columbus—Mary Ellen Walsh, Annie McGinty, Kittie Walsh, Margaret Walsh, Elizabeth Walsh, Annie Walsh, Margaret O'Hara, Jennie Welch, Mrs. George Ferguson, Bertha Trepanier, Annie Nagle, Thomas J. McGrath.

Charitable Society—Alice G. Gavin, Nellie O'Brien, Catherine Ballentine, Mary Moen, Margaret Mundy, Ellen Greany, Ellen Sweeney, John Walsh.

St. Mary's C. T. A. and M. R.,—Katie Meaney, Lizzie Smith, Lucy F. Feeley, Emily Smith, Annie Feeley, Kitty McGinty Annie Connor, Richard Cole, Michael Sullivan, Thomas Dunn.

Refreshments—Annie Sullivan, Margaret Sullivan, Mary Sullivan, Mary Brennan, Sadie Smith, John P. Mundy.

Hibernian,—Katie Powers, Mary Bruce, Margaret Foy, Nora Monarty, Julia O'Brien Julia Murphy, Sadie Callahan, Minnie O'Brien, Timothy J. Carey.

Foresters,—Miss Flynn, Ellen Connelly Miss Sheahan, Julia Duffy, Mr. Andrew Mischler.

Sales table — Mary Doran, Catherine Roche, Nellie Griffin, Jennie Roust, Margaret Desmond, Annie Roche, Lizzie Savoy, Helen Smith, John Sullivan, John Gill.

Down stairs William Kingston had charge of the shooting gallery and doll rack.

Mr. William Short and Mr. James F. Woods, appeared for the first time before a Quincy audience, and both were encored.

The first night can truly be said to be very successful and augurs well for the remaining nights. The bazaar will continue one week.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

A Young Quincy Man Arrested and He Admits His Guilt.

Perley B. Faunce was arrested this noon by Officer Ferguson for embezzlement. Faunce has been employed for a year or more by F. H. Crane & Sons, and drove a team from the South Quincy store, and often collected bills for grain delivered.

Messrs. Crane have of late received several complaints by customers to whom bills were sent that they had paid the bill.

When confronted with the matter Faunce acknowledged that he had taken money but does not, and probably can not state how much he has taken.

The firm can not state the exact amount until an examination of the books is made but as far as they know now the amount is in the neighborhood of $50.

The young man will endeavor to make the amount good, in which case the firm will probably not push the case.

Faunce is 21 years of age, married and lives on Washington street.

Unitarian Sociable.

The opening sociable of the season of the Wollaston Unitarian society was a remarkably successful affair, both in the large number of people present and in the quality of the entertainment. The vestry was prettily decorated with autumn leaves.

The entertainment consisted of vocal solos and readings. Miss Lucy Hayes sang three of Chadwick's song; Mr. Edward E. Bullock sang "Our good ship sails tonight," and in response to an encore "Stars of the Summer night;" Mr. E. Walter Arnold sang Rodney's grand piece "The Old Guard," and in responding to the encore rendered Holden's "Resurrection;" Miss Flanders and Mr. W. E. Simmons, Jr., gave readings.

The committee consisted of Mrs. James E. Bagley, Mrs. W. E. Simmons, Mrs. E. G. Thayer, Mrs. Chas. S. Adams, and Mrs. Henry Smith.

The Red Men.

Hodenosaunee tribe of Red Men of Wollaston received a visit from Massapoag tribe of Brockton last night, who came as the bearers of the peace and fraternity tomahawk, which was presented to the Wollaston tribe. This tomahawk is a record of fraternal visits between tribes in this reservation, an account of each visit being talked into it as the aboriginees talked their history into their wampum belts. Sachem Leshong led his tribe, accompanied by Past Sachem J. F. Gardner, who is Deputy Great Sachem for Hodenosaunee tribe, and several other members of Massapoag and Piquot tribes. The warrior's degree was exemplified, five hunters being raised to the degree. Two applications for membership in the tribe were received.

☞ Taylor's Anti-Headache Powders are just as harmless as water. Yet, look how powerful water is in putting out fire. Our powders cure Headache and Neuralgia in the same manner exactly. It is safe to say that these powders will cure all cases, because they never failed yet. Why not buy Taylor's and be sure about it? Get them of Leonard J. Pastor, Ph. G., 27 School street.

—Charles McGrath, who resides on the Old Speare road at Brookville, Holbrook, was drugged, tied in bed and robbed Monday night. The hired man who went with him Monday collecting is missing.

☞ Furniture upholstered and repaired by competent men in our own work rooms. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

Married in Maine.

Mr. Frederick B. Quimby who resided at Wollaston about ten years ago was married on Wednesday, Oct. 2, at Cape Neddick, Maine, to Miss Cora Lena Donnell, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Donnel of that place. Rev. Mr. Allen of York officiated, Mr. Ralph Quimby was best man, and Miss Maude Ford of Boston bridesmaid. There were two little maids of honor, Misses Grace and Edith Quincy.

The bride was attired in white lansdowne trimmed with chiffon, and she carried bride roses tied with white ribbon. The bridesmaid wore white muslin trimmed with blue ribbon and carried white carnation pinks, and the maid of honor white with bouquets of sweet peas.

Mr. Quimby's residence is about two miles from Cape Neddick village, the locality being known as Ground Nut Hill and his residence as "The Homestead." His studio is visited by many tourists and his collection includes water colors, photographs, and bromide enlargements of rural scenes.

Mr. and Mrs. Quimby were generously remembered with gifts, and have the good wishes of a host of friends.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Democrats Looking to Vote of 1891 for Hope This Year.

A reader asks for the Representative vote of 1891. That was one of the closest contest ever held in the district and two Democrats were elected, one by a margin of but 4 votes. Last year the three Republicans had a plurality of 800 to 1,000. Democrats hope to elect one this year, Dr. Everett, but Republicans are preparing "to deposit him in a cavity." In 1891 the vote was:

	Quincy.	Weymouth.	Total.
Burke,	1315	950	2265
Graham,	1291	902	2193
Bicknell,	1102	1076	2178
Flint,	1135	1039	2174
Thompson,	1269	831	2100
Worthen,	1048	1029	2072

All the nominations in the State for the coming election have been filed.

The Norfolk club will be addressed Saturday by Gov. Greenhalge, Lieut. Gov. Wolcott, Congressmen McCall and Hon. William H. Moody.

The Quincy-Weymouth district is the only Norfolk county Representative district to place Prohibition candidates in the field.

Thomas H. Buttimer is the Democratic candidate in Hingham for the House.

There will be a big Republican rally in Boston this evening, with addresses by the candidates.

The executive committee of the Republican City committee hold a meeting tonight.

GREENLEAF PARK.

The Finest Residential Section in Quincy,

And the home of many of Quincy's most prominent citizens.

This property—a part of the old Butler estate—is in close proximity to the new High School, the Adams Academy, the Woodward Academy for girls, a few steps from the electric cars on Hancock street, and within a few minutes' walk of the depot and Quincy Centre.

It embraces the land lying between Greenleaf street, one of the best streets in Quincy, and the new Merry Mount Park. The improvements are nearly all made, and some of the finest residences in the city are located here.

PRICES are very reasonable, ranging from 10 to 15 cents per foot and some good small lots at even lower prices.

TERMS can be made satisfactory if desired.

REASONABLE RESTRICTIONS as to the character and location of buildings have been established, and with the prospect in the near future of a new R. R. station at President's Bridge, close to the property, lots are sure to advance rapidly in value during the next few years.

REMEMBER there is no other land in Quincy so well located at such reasonable prices. Call at our office in Quincy for plans, prices and particulars, and take a look at some of the lots on Merry Mount and Butler Roads, Greenleaf, Hudson and Putnam streets. They are certain to please you if you are prospecting for a home site.

BRAINTREE.

There is to be a Democratic rally in the Town Hall, Saturday night. John E Russell and Josiah Quincy will speak.

Just "over the line" in Weymouth Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cunningham have been entertaining a new daughter since last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Thayer were also presented with a daughter Oct. 11th.

Our old townsman, Mr. Lewis Richards, now in his 84th year, left town Tuesday morning, on his annual visit to Sharon, Mass., his birthplace, and scenes of his childhood.

Mrs. Hayward and her daughter, Mrs. Matthews of Tremont street, who both have been quite sick, it is thought are now slowly improving. Dr. H. L. Dearing is attending them.

At the Democratic representative convention last Tuesday night Mr. William H. Harrison of Hollis avenue was nominated as the candidate who will be Mr. Mayhews' opponent in this district.

The old Iron Works schoolhouse that is being transformed into four tenements, is nearly ready for plaster.

Dr. Brett has been elected to fill the vacancy on the school board caused by the resignation of Dr. Bridgham.

Seventeen names were added to the voting list at the last meeting of the registrars, making forty-two new ones.

The Norfolk and Pilgrim Branch, W. B. M., will hold its quarterly meeting in the First church Chapel, Saturday, Oct. 20.

A lighthouse will be erected at the Sunday School concert in the First church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. All are invited.

Those in Braintree in days gone by, who used to know Miss Rosabella F. Holbrook, will be sorry to learn of her death. Her remains will be brought to South Braintree tomorrow for burial.

Rev. Samuel Morrison was a delegate to the Council at South Weymouth Tuesday, called to act upon the resignation of Rev. Mr. Clancy. The Council voted to accept his resignation, but he will supply the pulpit until December 1st.

MILTON.

It is expected that Granite avenue which has been closed for repairs for sometime, will be opened to public travel again this week.

The marriage of Rev. H. C. Vrooman to Mrs. Louise Staples will take place at the Congregational church, Sunday evening.

William Gallagher who was severely injured in Boston by being thrown from his team is able to be about again.

Registration in Milton closes Saturday night.

The Sunday School of the Congregational church will give a concert Sunday evening.

The benefit for James Mullen takes place in Ellsworth hall tonight.

Chief of Police Maurice Pierce is taking a well earned vacation this week.

A large force of men are at work on the Dustin estates making the new streets.

WEYMOUTH.

Officers Bailey and Pratt raided the premises of Catherine Sullivan of East Weymouth, Tuesday, and seized a gill of rum and a lot of empty jugs, etc.

—"You say that horse isn't afraid of anything. Can my wife drive him?" "I don't know, sir. I have never seen your wife."—Life.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Oct. 20. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Christian patriotism—what does it require of us?—Isa. lxii, 1-12.

Christian patriotism is the patriotism of the Christian. There is no reason why a Christian should not be patriotic, and every reason why he should. Christian people have always loved their country and have been interested in its welfare. The Jews loved Jerusalem. It stood both for church and for country to them, and their patriotism was only the more intense for that fact. In the fervent desires of the prophet expressed in the chapter before us we may see some of the things that patriotism demands or requires of Christians.

1. Christian patriotism requires us to be interested in our country. This entire chapter shows that the prophet had the most intense interest in Jerusalem. All Christians should be interested in their country, in its prosperity and its welfare. It is a false idea of religion that declares that followers of Christ should have nothing to do with human governments. Piety and patriotism should go hand in hand. We cannot be loyal to God and disloyal to our country, for loyalty to God includes loyalty in every other relation of life. Nations belong to God as well as individuals. Nations are also responsible to God. Instead, then, of holding themselves aloof from civic affairs on the ground that they are corrupt and evil, Christian people should be intensely interested in them that they might make them such as God should desire.

2. Christian patriotism requires us to desire the exaltation of righteousness in the nation. This was the prophet's desire. "For Jerusalem's sake," he says, "I will not rest until the righteousness thereof go forth as brightness." "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." The Christian should therefore desire and demand righteousness in the city, state and nation. Good men and good principles should be exalted above bad men and bad principles. One exalts the nation; the other debases it. Corruptness will destroy a nation as certainly as it will destroy an individual. Any nation that is founded upon iniquity is doomed to destruction. It is only a question of time. Righteousness—right dealing with God, right dealing with all men—is the only guarantee of national happiness and prosperity.

3. Christian patriotism requires us to pray for our country. The prophet had his watchmen upon the walls who were to cry day and night unto God. The nation needs God's guidance and blessing. Prayer is the nearest avenue to the heart of God. Therefore we should pray constantly for God's blessing upon our land.

Bible Readings.—Gen. xxx, 25; Ex. xxxii, 31, 32; Num. xiv, 11-21; I Kings xi, 21, 22; Neh. ii, 2-5; Ps. xxxiii, 12; cxxii, 6-9; cxxxvii, 1-6; cxlvii, 20; Prov. xiv, 34; Isa. i, 10-20; xxvi, 1-4; Jer. xxix, 4-7; Zech. viii, 20-23; Math. xxii, 15-21; xxiii, 37; Rom. ix, 1-4; xiii, 1-7; I Tim. ii, 1, 2.

The Christian Endeavor Movement.

What does it all mean? For one thing it means that Christians are becoming really Christian and are working shoulder to shoulder with the single and earnest desire to do good. It also means that theological differences are no longer a bar to that unity of action which the best minds and largest hearts have long prayed for. The creed, which has heretofore occupied a prominent position in the front, has been sent to the rear, not dispensed with altogether, but not allowed to interfere with that practical work which is at the foundation of all true religion—the religion of Christ, who healed the sick and opened the eyes of the blind.—New York Herald.

A Woman's Rights Champion.

Rev. W. Knight Chaplin told this story at the English national Christian Endeavor convention: "A bright little girl, 8 or 9 years old, who had heard much talk on the subject of woman's rights, came home from meeting one day and asked in a somewhat indignant tone: 'Mamma, what makes the minister say A men? Why doesn't he ever say A woman?' In Endeavor societies," commented Mr. Chaplin, "it isn't all A men."

The Altar of Private Prayer.

Keep the altar of private prayer burning. This is the very life of all piety. The sanctuary and family altars borrow their fires here; therefore let this burn well. Secret devotion is the very essence and barometer of vital and experimental religion.—Spurgeon.

Endeavor Briefs.

The Christian Endeavor society that is living to itself will not live long.

A Wesleyan society in New Zealand has had the joy of seeing nearly all of its associate members confess Christ, as a result of a series of evangelistic services.

The prayer meeting speaker who speaks just to make a speech never makes an impression.

The Christian Endeavorers of Chicago, through their good literature exchange, have distributed nearly 500,000 pieces of pure reading matter in the hospitals, almshouses, jails of the city and throughout the needy portions of the west.

The Philadelphia Christian Endeavor union has been especially earnest in its work for the sailors, and it has provided for their use 3,000 comfort bags, canvas receptacles filled with articles needful to Jack Tar in his bachelor life.

In company with many other societies and unions the York (Pa.) Christian Endeavorers regularly visit the jail, almshouse and hospitals, conducting services and distributing literature.

A notable work has been undertaken by some Endeavorers of Blackville, S. C., who are supporting three orphans—one in a Presbyterian home, one in a Baptist home and one in a Methodist home.

HEROIC RESCUE.

The Station Agent at Wollaston Praised for Prompt Work.

Station Agent Burrill of Wollaston performed a heroic act Thursday morning. The inward 8 04 A. M. and the outward 8 05 trains often meet or one hauls up just outside of the station while the other leaves its passengers. On Thursday morning just as the 8 04 inward had pulled out a woman, who had evidently come from the Park, started to cross the tracks directly in front of the outward South Shore train, which she had not noticed. Mr. Burrell, who was at the time in the ticket office, which it will be remembered has a bay window giving one an unobstructed view of the tracks, happened to look up as the locomotive was rushing towards her. As quick as a flash he was out of the station and leaping directly in front of the train seized the woman in his arms and with a mighty bound landed her safely on the opposite platform as the locomotive grazed his coattails.

QUICK IS THE WORD. The house-lots at the Quincy Park, Quincy Point, are being sold very low. There is a live real estate agent at the head of the company, and he is bound to make quick sales if the profit on each lot is small. He offers the best chance to get good building lots cheap that we have ever seen.

—Saturday, the 19th of October, says the Washington Star, is the date for the appearance of the system of meteors known as the Orionides, their radiant, the point in the heavens from which they will appear to proceed being in the constellation of Orion. This constellation will rise on Saturday about 10 P. M. exactly in the East. The streaks or tracks of meteors belonging to this group seen before that hour will all diverge from a point below the horizon in the east.

SIX O'CLOCK.

WEARY WOMEN WATCH FOR THAT BLESSED HOUR.

Help for our Working-Girls and Women Near at Hand.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

IN the stroke of six ends the day's work at stores, offices, factories, mills, where women are employed. But their necessary work at home, sewing, mending, etc., must be done after that time, and "their work is never done."

All women work; some for ambition, some for economy in the household, but the great mass of women work for their daily bread. All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbances, and the nature of their duties often quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, leucorrhœa, and perhaps irregular or suppressed "monthly periods," causing severe backache, loss of appetite, nervousness, irritability and weakness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and cures displacement.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing-down, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society—all symptoms of the one cause—will be quickly dispelled. Write Mrs. Pinkham about your trouble.

You can tell the story of your pain to a woman, and get the help that only woman can give. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

MRS. WALLER'S STORY

Of the Misfortunes to Her Husband, Ex-Consul to Madagascar.

Formal Demand For Release of the Prisoner

May Be Based Upon Two Important Points but Recently Discovered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Waller, her three daughters and son arrived here today to endeavor to persuade the government to take action toward securing her husband's release.

Mrs. Waller has said she had several interviews at Marseilles with the representative of the United States government, but obtained little satisfaction. She left Madagascar Sept. 22, and since Oct. 2 has been in ignorance of her husband's fate until pilots boarded the ship Wednesday. Mrs. Waller talked freely in New York of her husband's case. She said:

"First of all, I am told that Minister Eustis has been criticised by those who sympathize with my husband, and I want to correct any false impression that may have obtained. Mr. Eustis treated us and is treating my husband with the utmost consideration and tenderness. He exerted every possible influence for our assistance and benefit.

"I do not think my husband will live a year in the French prisons, for he was sick a whole year before his arrest on March 25 last. He had fever, contracted at Iamatare, and is now quite feeble in health, though only 47 years old. He has only an hour or so of exercise each day, in charge of a keeper of the prison, which is seven hours by rail from Paris, in the north of France.

"My husband was charged with treason; with aiding to arm the Hovas, and it was set up that the grant of concession of 225 square miles of land in the southwest part of the island of Madagascar was the price he received for aiding the Malagassy.

"Now, in fact, the deed of gift was given months prior to the alleged acts of the treason, and I have forwarded to Secretary Olney documentary evidence sufficient to completely prove the innocence of Mr. Waller."

Two Important Points.

It has been understood all along that the fate of ex-Consul Waller hinged on the proceedings of the court-martial which sentenced him, and, therefore, the state department has directed its efforts mainly to securing a copy of the record of the court. Now, that the record is in Paris, a careful examination of the document has been made, and already there have been developed some points that in the end may form the basis of a demand for the release of the prisoner.

In at least two points it has been found that the proceedings of the court-martial were in violation of the French law, and if such a case arose in the United States this would be sufficient ground for the setting aside of the proceedings and the sentence and the release of Waller. In the first place the court was composed of five officers, whereas the French military regulations are said to require at least seven persons to sit on the court.

But more important than this, it has been discovered that Waller was not really tried as charged, but that as the trial progressed evidence was taken on another charge not included in the original matter, and that it was upon what might be called a supplementary but irregular charge that Waller was convicted.

Aside from the other points in the case, this matter of irregularity of the proceedings may in the end go far to make up the cause of our government as presented through Ambassador Eustis.

Lays Blame on Indians.

HERMOSILLO, Mex., Oct. 18.—George T. Harrison and J. F. Baker, two American mining men, left here 10 days ago for the Yaqui Indian country. A Mexican guide accompanied them. The guide returned here yesterday, and reports that they met a party of Yaqui Indian braves, and that the Indians killed both Americans. The guide is being held here, as he is suspected of having murdered and robbed the Americans.

Collision and Wreck.

CHATHAM, Mass., Oct. 18.—The two-masted schooner Frank A. Magee, Captain Keefe, from New York for Bar Harbor, Me., with coal, was sunk in a collision by the three-masted Gypsum Queen, of Windsor, N. S., Captain Bentley, in Vineyard sound, off Pollock Rip, yesterday, and one of the Magee's crew, William Dennison, was drowned.

Sadly Needed.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 18.—An important section was introduced at the constitutional convention last night relative to lynchings. It is a proviso in the constitution making a misdemeanor for any county, state or municipal officers to allow a mob to take a prisoner from him and subject him to bodily violence or death.

TO FIGHT OR NOT TO FIGHT?

Question Which Is Bothering Arkansas Officials and the Pugilistic World.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Oct. 18.—Martin Julian left here yesterday for Hot Springs. Fitzsimmons continues his work of training. He says he is disgusted at Brady for signing the new articles of agreement, and emphatically declares that Julian will not sign them.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 18.—The chances for a meeting at Hot Springs on Oct. 31 between Corbett and Fitzsimmons appear to be much brighter now than at any time during the past few days. Indeed, it would now seem that the only obstacle in the way of the men meeting in a glove contest is Fitzsimmons' expressed determination not to agree to the revised articles.

The fact that Corbett is under arrest on a warrant sworn out by State Attorney League so soon after Governor Clarke's visit to the Springs leads many people to believe that the governor settled the whole matter. Should Corbett be released on a writ of habeas corpus, of which there seems to be little doubt, it is believed there will be no further interference on the part of the governor, since the granting of the writ would in effect be a judicial declaration that boxing in Arkansas is not a violation of the law.

Denver's Big Celebration.

DENVER, Oct. 18.—Never has such a crowd been seen in Denver as that in attendance at the first annual festival of mountain and plain. The railroads estimate that they have brought 45,000 possengers to the city the past two days. A grand military parade was given yesterday. The parade was followed by drills by both federal and state troops. Bands of Santa Clara or Pueblo Indians and Utes, old-time foes, now occupy adjoining camps in the city park. The Pueblos gave the Arco or bow and arrow dance, and the Utes a social dance. Last night there was an illuminated wheelmen's parade.

A Mob's "Mercy."

HAMPTON, S. C., Oct. 18.—William Blake, Jason Blake, Prince Graves and William Frazier were convicted last evening of the murder of Raymond Meader on Aug. 9 last. William Blake was recommended to the mercy of the court, and his sentence was life imprisonment. The other three were sentenced to be hanged on the 6th of December next. There was dissatisfaction at the jury's recommendation to mercy of William Blake. He was accordingly taken from the sheriff by a mob and lynched.

Heroism Rewarded.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The president has awarded a silver vase with onyx base to Captain Jouanjean of the French bark Psyche for effecting the rescue of 11 men from the American schooner W. W. Crapo, burned in Chili, July 2, 1895. He has awarded a similar vase to Captain Soderlund of the Russian bark Saari, for rescuing the captain and crew of the American schooner Mary E. Amsden, Feb. 26, 1895.

Fighting In Syria.

BEYROOT, Syria, Oct. 18.—Conflicts in the Lebanon district have taken place between the Druses and Mutualls, in which men have been killed on both sides. Finally, the Mutualls assembled 4000 armed men near Sidon with the intention of attacking the Druses. The latter thereupon appealed to their co-religionists in Hauran, who are preparing to send 8000 men to the assistance of the Druses.

Great Men Involved.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 18.—The revenue board is appalled at the extent of the smuggling revelations, and it is believed would willingly abandon the prosecution now, owing to the class of persons involved. Government politicians are badly frightened by the threats of many supporters of the accused, who threaten to divulge damaging party secrets.

The Army's Health.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The annual report of the surgeon general of the army for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1895, shows a gratifying record as regards the health of the army for the calendar year of 1894. The rate of non-efficient or constant sickness was only 34.49, contrasting favorably with 40.15 in the previous year.

Heated Dynamite.

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 18.—A terrific explosion of dynamite occurred on the gorge railroad excavation here yesterday. A laborer was thawing out some dynamite in a pail of hot water, when it became overheated and exploded, demolishing a boiler house and throwing several men quite a distance.

The Opening Gun.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18.—The customary consecration service of the National W. C. T. U. was held last night in Mt. Vernon M. E. church. Miss E. W. Greenwood of Brooklyn presided. Addresses were made by Mrs. J. E. Thompson of Hillsboro, O., the original temperance crusader, and others.

A STAMPEDE EXPECTED

But It Failed to Materialize at a Republican Ratification.

Calls For Hoar and Morse Created an Uproar.

Big Crowd Finally Calmed Down and Listened to Speeches.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The Republican ratification meeting held in Music hall last night was interrupted by an episode which, while it lasted, was one of the most exciting ever known at a political meeting in this city. It is claimed that the interruption was part of a deliberate plan, of which intimation was given before hand, to stampede the audience by calling for Senator George F. Hoar and Congressman Elijah A. Morse, neither of whom, it was alleged, would be permitted by the management to speak.

The meeting was about half through when, as Lieutenant Governor Wolcott finished speaking, some one in the gallery called for Senator Hoar. A hundred voices replied in a shout for Congressman Morse. For the next five minutes the hall was filled with a babel of voices, intermingled with the strains of the band—which was requested to play—the vigorous pounding of the presiding officer's gavel and the vociferous efforts of many of the spectators to quiet the turbulent ones.

A length the presiding officer made himself heard, and after some minutes order was restored. The excitement throughout the hall while the opposing cries swelled to the very roof was intense, and Congressman Barrett, the presiding officer, vigorously condemned the action, after the disturbance had subsided. The meeting then settled down, and the proceedings were not again interrupted.

It was claimed by several in the audience that although Senator Hoar had been announced as a speaker he had subsequently been requested by the management not to appear, and, also, that Congressman Elijah A. Morse had asked permission to speak, but had been refused. Senator Hoar and Congressman Morse represent opposite sides of the A. P. A. question in the Republican party, Mr. Morse championing the cause and Senator Hoar opposing the organization.

The hall was crowded to the very doors, while the platform held a large number of prominent members of the party, including T. C. Evans, the author of the famous A. P. A. letters to Senator Hoar. Mr. Evans led in three cheers for Lieutenant Governor Wolcott at the conclusion of the lieutenant governor's speech.

The Speeches.

The governor said: "The campaign has been in progress two weeks, and we know something of what our opponents claim. There is something familiar about the words lobby, corporations and the governor's council, all of which issues they have again brought out. I have been about the state considerably during the past month, and the thinking, reasonable men believe in what they think is an honest attempt at a fair administration. They believe if there are any flagrant evils that the administration will make an honest attempt to remove those evils. I welcome any suggestion of good that will benefit the commonwealth. We want all the improvement we can get in all branches of the government.

"Parties are judged more frequently not by what they do when in a minority, but what they do in their hour of triumph. The people desire the strong hand of the Republican party in making the flag respected at home and abroad. They believe in a sturdy attorney general rather than in a visionary solicitor general. They believe in business methods, and if wrongs exist the courts are open and the legislative doors are wide to receive any complaints.

"Speeches are of little consequence where the action is lined out in all its sincerity. Let the spirit of the Republican party be broad, and let not the principles of our forefathers, founded on Plymouth Rock, be weakened. We must remember that duty means diligence."

Lieutenant Governor Wolcott

was the next speaker, and dwelt on the great benefit which Massachusetts derived from her many commissions, which looked after the corporations in a most vigorous manner. The speaker said that he had always maintained that after a reasonable return for the capital invested the corporations should hand back to the community the proceeds of its thrift, either by reduced car fares, more frequent trains on railroads, lower rates for gas and electric light and other benefits to the public. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the integrity of the railroad commission as well as other commissions of the state, and when he said that Massachusetts was proud of her public schools the cheering lasted fully two minutes.

The interruption already mentioned occurred at the conclusion of Lieutenant Governor Wolcott's speech. When quiet was restored, Attorney General Knowlton was introduced. He sketched the history of the now famous solicitor general, and said that it was one of the royal offices established in this country under British rule, previous to the revolution. Only one officer ever held this position under colonial rule, and after he resigned nothing more was heard of the office till the present time. The attorney general touched upon national issues, and his mention of Thomas B. Reed as the next candidate for president created unbounded enthusiasm. The last speaker was Curtis Guild, Jr.

Mr. Guild said: "We meet to endorse the action of the Republican convention. Our antagonists frankly concede the high character, the impartial administration and the manly courage of our chief executive. The Democratic endorsement of the Republican candidate before the convention practically removes state issues from the campaign. Greenhalge and Wolcott stand for more than their own honorable records. They stand as the representative of that great party that is about again to assume the guidance, not of Massachusetts alone, but of the nation.

"We support them because we believe that a tariff that is bringing the national treasury to the verge of bankruptcy should be revised; because we believe that the man who coins the seignorage in defiance of the veto of his own president is unfit to be secretary of the treasury of the United States; because we believe that civil service reform is safe with the party of Theodore Roosevelt.

"We support them finally because the patriotism of all Americans has been outraged by the lack of protection of American missionaries in China, as well as in Turkey; because our foreign commerce has been curtailed by the fanatical destruction of our reciprocity treaties; because our honor has been outraged."

The Mora Money.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Assistant Secretary Uhl yesterday handed to Crammond Kennedy, counsel for Antonio Maximo Mora, a draft for $594,809.76 in full settlement of Mr. Mora's claim against the government of Spain. The remainder of the claims under assignments will soon be adjusted and paid.

Judge Wardwell Dead.

BUFFALO, Oct. 19.—Judge George S. Wardwell died here yesterday from congestion of the brain. He was 66 years of age, a native of Rhode Island, graduate of Harvard and the first judge of the municipal court of Buffalo when that tribunal was created.

Waller Changes Prisons.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—John L. Waller has been removed from Clairvaux prison to the prison at Nimes, the climate of the latter place being better suited to the prisoner, who is far from enjoying good health.

England Should Investigate.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 19.—It is reported that anti-foreign riots have occurred at Chang-Pu and at Fu-Kien, where the chapels of the English mission were destroyed, the mandarins openly refusing to interfere.

SPEED OF 15.61 KNOTS

Attained by the Battleship Indiana in Her Official Trial Trip.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The battleship Indiana made her official speed trial yesterday over the government ocean course, 31 knots eastward from Cape Ann and return, and showed an average speed of 15.61 knots an hour, which, if not decreased by the tide allowance, will entitle the Cramps, her builders, to a bonus of $50,000. The ship was required to show a speed of only 15 knots, while for every quarter knot above that requisite the firm is entitled to $25,000. At the end of the run the Indiana had shown herself to be the finest vessel of her class afloat.

Notwithstanding the fact that she had her trial practically in fighting trim, the battleship did not roll even in the slightest degree, which is deemed wonderful by the naval experts who were on board. It has even been necessary in the cases of several foreign battleships to add to their bilge keels in order to prevent them from rolling to the danger point during their trials. Another remarkable incident attending yesterday's run was the fact that the Indiana made her fastest time on the last leg of the course, doing the 6.2 knots in 22m. 49s., or at an average speed of 16.34 knots, developing over 11,000 horse power, and winding up her splendid performance by making a complete turn inside of 400 yards.

Police Think It Murder.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Oct. 19.—Regarding the death of J. Bradley, Nelson and West, the prisoners, have been examined, and the police are of the opinion that it is a case of murder. The story of the affair, as obtained from the prisoners, is to the effect that Nelson fell asleep and was robbed. Discovering his loss upon waking, the police believe, he became involved in a fight and struck Bradley with a coupling pin.

Babies on Parade.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 19.—The chief feature of the closing day of Merchants' week was the parade of the babies. The babies were trundled in gayly decorated carriages. The procession was headed by a boys' drum corps and boys mounted on ponies. The chief marshal was Koma Taka Zawa, a Japanese lad of 7 years. After a short march, the babies were wheeled to Mechanics' hall, where prizes were awarded.

Hayden Heard From.

SPRINGVALE, Me., Oct. 19.—B. F. Hayden, a Springvale dry goods dealer, who forsook a family and good business here six years ago, and was supposed to have eloped with a woman from this town, has been heard from. He is in Japan, and has a good position as clerk, but is said to be repentant over his attitude toward his family.

Valuable Relic Stolen.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 19.—There is considerable excitement at Harvard because some one stole the Louisburg cross from over the entrance of the library in Gove hall. The cross was a highly valued relic, having been captured by Massachusetts soldiers at the seige of Louisburg in 1745.

To Cost $10,000.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 19.—Frederick C. Sayles has commenced work upon a $10,000 trotting track, to be used for training purposes. The track is to be a combination of both oval and kite shape.

Further Delay.

TO INSTALL NEW PASTOR.

Hope to Have Rev. Edward Norton Remain Pastor Emeritus.

Thursday, Oct. 31, is the date set for the installation of Rev. Edwin N. Hardy as pastor of the Evangelical Congregational church of this city and the following churches will be invited: First of Abington, First of Braintree, Centre of Bridgewater, First of Brockton, First of Milton, First of North Weymouth, Randolph, Rockland, Union of Weymouth, East Bridgewater, Cohasset, Old South of South Weymouth, South Braintree, Campello, North Abington, Whitman, East Milton, Hingham, Union of South Weymouth, Porter of Brockton, Holbrook, Pilgrim of North Weymouth, East Weymouth, Quincy Point, Swedish of Quincy, Phillips of South Boston, First of Holliston, Central of Dorchester, Memorial of Atlantic, Wollaston, Neponset, also Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D. D., of Boston; Rev. Albert H. Plumb, D. D., of Boston; Rev. Albert Bryant, Cambridge; Rev. D. W. Waldron, Boston; Rev. Frank W. Merrick, West Roxbury.

The invitation extended by the pastor and committee of the church and society is given in part below:

Our pastor, Rev. Edward Norton, after twenty-two years of labor among us, has resigned his pastoral office, and we have accepted the same with the request that he remain pastor emeritus.

We have been graciously led and the congregation worshipping with us, in the choice of Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, as our pastor and teacher, and he has accepted our invitation to the office.

We therefore affectionately request your attendance by Pastor and delegate at our house of worship on Thursday, Oct. 31, at 2.30 P. M.

First, to advise us and act in reference to the dismissal of Rev. Edward Norton from the active pastorate, that he may remain, if agreeable to him, Pastor emeritus.

Second, to examine the Pastor elect, to review our proceedings, counsel us in regard to the same, and if judged expedient to assist in the Installation services in the evening.

Appeal Sustained.

In the judicial appeal case of the Rev. W. Steele against the decision of Boston Presbytery for suspending him from the ministerial office four months, on 11th September last, for refusing to obey the mandates of Presbytery, the synod of New York in session in Binghamton, N. Y., on 19th October sustained the appeal against said sentence, and revoked it reinstating Mr. Steele into the full rights of the Presbyterian ministry. All ecclesiastical and civil matters connected therewith are accordingly withdrawn. It is hoped the Presbyterian cause will prosper henceforth in Quincy in peace and great prosperity.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

AN OLD TIME VIRTUE.

Miss Small's Admirable Paper on "Courtesy."

At the Norfolk County Teachers Convention Friday.

Mr. C. A. Merrick of the Willard Elected President.

Most of the teachers of Quincy attended yesterday the annual convention of the Norfolk County Teachers association in Boston. Quincy was honored, too, by the election of one of its most successful principals as president, Mr. C. F. Merrick of the Willard school being elected to that office. Mr. T. B. Pollard of the Washington-school was elected on the board of councillors.

Papers were contributed by Miss Kate L. Brown of Milton, John Holley Clarke of New York, Miss Sarah L. Arnold of Boston, Secretary Hill of the State board and President Capen of Tufts college. That of Mr. Hill was particularly interesting, but local interest centered in that by Miss Small of the Woodward Institute, Quincy, on "An Oldt-ime Virtue."

The "Old-Time Virtue" proved to be "courtesy." After speaking of manners as they exist among us today, she contrasted the manners of the present with those of "ye olden time," and showed the importance of good manners. We quote a few passages:

"Nowadays, not only in athletics and yacht-racing, but in affairs personal, national, and international we find marked "courtesy." That we, as a civilized people, are any less kindly than others, we are loth to admit, but that we seem to have less time for 'manners,' is lamentably true."

"In this age of degeneracy, so-called, many old-time virtues are thrust aside by the rushing activities of modern, money-making existence. The call of the times in our own country is for young men. With characteristic independence, we reject the long-tried customs of Europe, and place upon the shelf, carefully labelled 'old,' men who are just beginning to live in such a way as most to benefit others."

"In daily living, in business affairs, in professional life, in church and state, the young show a disregard for their elders that is the reverse of courtesy. The ethics of good manners should be taught from the pulpit, in the home, and by the school."

"The knowledge of facts, and those ofttimes isolated, does not educate. The teacher's work is to fit a boy or girl to live. Whatsoever tends to make a boy's manhood mightier day by day training him for true manhood and good citizenship,—which leads the girl through gentle and gracious girlhood into beautiful womanhood,—that is our duty to teach. Many factors make up the education of the whole boy or girl, but one of the prime factors is Manners."

The teacher's manner in school was treated chiefly by illustrations, leaving the hearers to draw their own conclusions. "Dealing as we do with immature minds do we not need to guard against overbearing manners, and Ichabod-Crane-like pedantry?"

"Mark the influence of the magnetic teacher, especially upon a loving, sensitive pupil! Manners, dress, gait, tone, even, are copied. If it be true that the outward semblence but betrays the inner self, how conscientiously courteous should we become."

The teacher's manners out of school was the next topic treated.

"Many a man does not 'wipe his feet' or keep his 'hands off' or 'keep off the grass' as requested. He considers all out-of-doors his waste-basket. He cuts a bit as a relic from valuable tapestries and furniture, and even pilfers a bone from the catacombs, he writes his name in bold letters so that the travelling world knows that John Jones of Jonesville, Massachusetts, U. S. A., has visited Saint Peter's dome and Saint Paul's whispering gallery; has beheld natural wonders, and defaced their beauty. When coming in contact with these 'well educated people,' one can only marvel at the intensity of their ignorance."

Courtesy to parents, and professional courtesy were next discussed.

"It would seem as if teachers should be from the nature of their work, free from professional jealousy. They should gladly welcome excellence in others' work. They should rejoice at success whenever and wherever obtained by rightful means."

"Who can wonder that the public loses its confidence in school methods, when learned pedagogical doctors uncourteously disagree?"

In conclusion of the subject we quote,—We ought to feel deeply grateful to the Earl of Chesterfield for the assurance that "the profoundest learning and the politest manners are by no means incompatible;" but he adds, "tho' so seldom found united in the same person."

We read in the Dunciad of a Scientist who crushed a flower to obtain a beautiful specimen of a butterfly, feeling utter contempt for aught else than his specialty. Whatever each teaches, manners should not be despised, but be added unto it; for without the tone of courteous interest in the class-room, our La'in is but 'sounding brass,' and our Greek 'a tinkling cymbol.'

"Manners" said Edmund Burke, "are of more importance than laws. The laws can touch us here and there, and now and then. Manners are what vex or soothe, corrupt or purify, exalt or debase, barbarize or refine by a constant, steady uniform, insensible operation like that of the air we breath in. They give their whole form and color to our lives."

The forms of etiquette are good, but heart manners are better:—manners the final and perfect flower of a noble character.

Who more sensibly than the teacher can realize that

"Manners are not idle, but the fruit
Of loyal nature, and of noble mind."

SHED AND QUARRY.

New Officers, New Work, and Granite News Generally.

The Quincy Quarry Co. have elected these officers: President, Thomas H. McDonnell; vice president, William A. Hodges; treasurer, Barnabus Clark; clerk, Andrew Milue; directors, the above with Edwin Hawkridge, Clarence Burgin, John Swithin, Luther S. Anderson and James Thompson.

The Mitchell Granite Co., are getting out fifteen granite slabs, to be used as coping on a cemetery lot.

F. Barnicoat has recently received an order to cut a granite figure representing "Liberty" which stands 12 feet 9 inches high. The rough block from which it is to be cut weighs twenty-five tons and the statue when completed will weigh over four tons.

The shipments of granite from Quincy Adams during the month of September was 5,747,000 pounds.

Craig & Richards have the contract for a memorial for Frank A. Munsey, of Munsey's Magazine, to be erected at Lisbon Falls.

The base steps of the George Washington monument to be erected in Wilkesbarre, Pa., will be of Quincy granite.

The committee on the Warren statue to be erected to the memory of Gen. Joseph Warren, in St. James park, Boston, recommend a special appropriation by the city government of $15,000.

James F. Desmond has several large orders about ready for shipment.

Tool thieves have again begun to make their presence known among the stone sheds and many a poor workman has found himself minus some of his bush hammers recently.

The dividing line between Massachusetts and New Hampshire is to be marked by blocks of granite weighing about one ton each.

Mr. George McDonald, formerly of Quincy, is manager for the new Westerly Granite Co.

The pedestal of the soldiers' monument to be erected in South Hadley will be of Quincy granite.

The use of marble for monuments and head stones has almost gone out of existence, having been superseded by granite, which is much handsomer and desirable.

Christ Church.

The Guilds of the Parish will hold their annual sale and entertainment in Faxon hall, on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, Nov. 13. Thursday evening, Nov. 14, a choice dramatic entertainment will be offered. The proceeds are to be devoted to the fund for the enlargement and repair of the church.

The vestry have appointed a committee consisting of wardens Hayward and Bemis and vestrymen Zenas Arnold, Frank F. Crane, and F. L. Jones, to consider the enlargement of the parish church. There are frequent calls for low priced sittings which are now all taken. Many members of the church believe that the time for enlargement has come.

At the evening service the Rector is giving a series of lectures on "The Social Law of God"—addressed chiefly to young men. At the evening service all seats are free.

The Sunday School is to begin the study of the "Life of Christ" and will use the "Blakeslee" graded lessons edited for the Episcopal church by the Rev. Dr. Greer of New York.

Reduced in Strength
And very low in health was my condition after a siege with the grip. Being over 70 years of age my recovery was slow. I resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and began to gain in strength at once. In a few months I was about my work as usual.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

L. M. Pratt & Co. are not to be undersold.

Fred Goss has gone to Prince Edwards Island on a visit.

Everybody should go to church tomorrow to make up for last Sunday.

Lots of people went smelting this morning but caught but few fish.

Mr. Jack Bainbridge of Wollaston has bought Walter Burrell's fast cat-boat "Estella."

Many Quincy admirers of foot ball will witness the game at South Braintree this afternoon.

The man on stilts, advertising the land sale at Quincy Park, attracts considerable attention.

Hazen Chapman of Holmes street, recently purchased a horse and is now building a stable.

The Guild of the Great Teacher will meet in the chapel of the First church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Charles E. Bugbee has made an extensive addition to his greenhouse, and is doing a large Boston business.

It is a pretty sight on the water now nearly every evening. The fishermen are out in boats and they all carry lanterns.

If you owe your out of town friend a letter send him an eight page PATRIOT today. In wrappers at the office for five cents.

Fred W. Chamberlain who claims Quincy as his residence was arrested in Boston yesterday for breaking and entering a house in Watertown.

Ex-Councilman John Shaw was on the platform at the Music hall Republican rally last evening, and many Quincy gentlemen were in the large gathering.

A change has been made, and Rev. A. A. Brown is the student who will supply the pulpit of the West Quincy M. E church. He will occupy the parsonage.

The championship of the Wollaston Golf Club is to be settled this afternoon. Playing will commence at 2 30 o'clock. Some fine playing is expected.

Coal has advanced but J. F. Sheppard & Son continue to sell at Boston prices. As the tendency is upward there should be no delay in putting in a winter's supply.

Owing to repeated attacks of malaria, our young and popular veterinary surgeon, Francis Abele, has been obliged to take a short vacation, but is in hopes to be able to return next week.

It was reported yesterday that Perley B. Faunce when arrested, acknowledged his guilt. This the younug man denies saying, and further protests his entire innocence. He will contest the charge.

A shed or shelter is much needed on the inward side of the tracks at the Norfolk Downs depot. Now passengers for Boston must cross and recross the track or wait in the cold. At best they have to wait some moments in all kinds of weather.

The expense assessment is causing considerable comment in Knights of Honor circles. The subject will be discussed at the meeting of Wollatson lodge, Monday evening, and the causes for it explained.

The sacred concert and lecture to take place in Hancock hall, Sunday evening promises to be one of the best ever given in this city. Hon. John F. Fitzgerald has been engaged for the lecture and the affair is bound to be successful.

The men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday will be in charge of Mr. Arthur W. Bailey of Williams College. Invitations have been extended to Mr. Ernest J. Steer of Waterbury, Conn., and Mr. Wm. Oliver of New York City, to assist in the service. The class for Synthetic Bible study will begin Monday evening.

The number who entered the Free-hand Drawing class at the Y. M. C. A., last evening was very large, and not over half a dozen more can comfortably be accommodated. This evening the classes in Swedish-English opens at 6 30; and at 8 o'clock the Italian-English class. The instructor of the Glee club will also meet all new candidates at from 7.30 to 8 30.

Mr. John Phelan, Quincy's well-known comedian, has prepared a topical song to be rendered at the St. John's bazaar next Monday or Tuesday evening. The idiosyncrasies of many well-known people and members of the society are to be served in verse for the pleasure of his auditors. Mr. Field's production at the Quincy Club minstrels stimulated Mr. Phelan, and many who have heard parts of it, declare that it is very catchy.

Of course Dr. Everett in his address Monday had no thought of the humble editor who is a direct descendant, but most of the Prescotts in America can trace their genealogy back to two brothers who came to this country the middle of the 17th century. The doctor said: "The English magazines have lately contained several interesting articles on some of the great houses of England and Scotland. I commend the Prescotts to our best writers as affording a most noble and interesting theme for their pens."

FIRST GAME A VICTORY.

The Academy and High Boys Win at Milton Yesterday.

The combined Adams Academy High School foot ball team played its first game yesterday at Milton, defeating Milton High 34 to 0.

Not once during the game was Quincy's goal in danger. Chapman and Kent made long and steady gains round the ends and Manning bucked the centre with telling effect. Milton was unable to advance the ball, and it went to Quincy every time on four downs.

During a scrimmage in the first half, Donovan, one of Milton's tackles, got his nose broken. Quincy was well represented on the side lines.

Referee, Mr. Richards; Umpire, Mr. Walsh; Timer, Mr. Gavin.

Next Friday the team plays with the Dorchester High on Town Field, Dorchester.

AT THE BAZAAR.

A One-Act Farce, and Other Attractions Last Night.

The crowd at the St. John's bazaar was larger even than that of the first night, and at one time it was impossible to move about the hall. The table displays are the finest ever seen in Quincy and the young ladies in charge do their utmost to make the table to which they are attached more attractive than the rest.

The entertainment last evening was very good and consisted of a one-act farce and single numbers. The "Sewing Circle," in which five young ladies whiled away fifteen minutes in a cursory diagnosis of the faults of their neighbors, was participated in by Misses Mary Powers, Mary Doran, Jennie Griffin, Mary Haggerty and Kitty McGinty.

Miss Frances Tate gave a very pleasing recitation, and Miss Garland Mischler displayed her ability as a danseuse. Miss Maud Welsh gave a solo with piano accompaniment by Miss Eva Mischler. The McConarty children, Master Willie, violinist; Master Eddie, cornetist, and Miss Lena, pianist, were heard in a very pretty trio.

Mr. John Deasy was awarded a handsome bouquet on the Forester's table, and Miss Jennie Welsh the boiled dinner on the same table.

Among the features this evening will be a cake walk, to be directed by the young ladies of the sales table, and possibly Mr. Phelan in his good-natured banter.

TODAY'S COURT.

Perley B. Faunce was arraigned for embezzlement at Quincy. Case continued until next Friday.

John J. Phealan was brought in on a default warrant for drunkenness at Quincy and fined $10. Committed in default of payment.

David Kelly was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued two weeks.

Ebenezer Moulton, Jr., was arraigned for drunkenness at Randolph. Case continued two weeks.

Antonio Fortenarto was fined $70 for keeping a common nuisance at Quincy. Appealed.

Adelaide F. Hunt of Atlantic was arraigned for assault on May M. Alley.

Mrs. Alley testified that Monday morning Mrs. Hunt came to her house and screeched out that she wanted her husband. Defendant accused her of keeping a bad house She then chased her, pulled a handful of hair out of her head and tore her husband's jacket and finally fell down in the yard and said her husband knocked her down. Officer Golden took her away.

Mabel Hume heard the screeching but did not see the assault.

John T. Hunt said he was husband of defendant. Children were with him on Monday, she came there and undertook to get into the house. The door was locked. She sat on step and said she would stay there as long as he did. Officer Golden took her off, but she came back and got in the back door and pulled a handful of hair out of Mrs. Alley's head.

Mrs. Hunt testified she had been married 17 years. She went to the house to see her children. Her husband grabbed the little girl and rushed into the house. Mrs. Alley pushed her back into his arms and he pushed her on to the ground and held her there. Witness denied pulling any hair from Mrs. Alley's head. Witness arm was discolored where her husband had grabbed her.

Mrs. Gardner testified she had seen the marks on Mrs. Hunt's arm.

The court continued the case two weeks for judgment with the understanding that the defendant should in the mean time keep away from the children.

☞ Hon. Geo. Fred Williams spoke to some of our people last Monday night upon the issues of the day, but he never said a word about Guy's Coliseum. He probably felt that everybody in Quincy and vicinity already knew that this is the place to go when house furnishings are wanted.

At the Bon Marche there are 60 clerks employed in selling gloves. There average sale each year is 1,500,000 pairs, for which 5,400,000 francs are received. The glove counter is a constant joke in Paris.

Castle Square Theatre.

"The Mikado" at the Castle Square theatre has taken Boston by storm. On the opening night, at 7.50 o'clock, there was a line of ticket purchasers that stretched from the north box office window around the corner and as far as the stage door on Chandler street. Many have been turned away this week, the house being unable to accommodate all who wanted to see this presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's masterpiece. A better production of "The Mikado" was never given in Boston. The Boston papers could hardly say enough in praise of it. A few opinions are appended:

"Attendants at the Castle Square Theatre were treated to one of the completest productions of Gilbert and Sullivan's most delightful opera, "The Mikado," that has been seen in this city since the original performance in Boston. Chorus, costumes and stage settings were well nigh perfect."

"Of the 22 operas produced by the Castle Square company, none has been more merry and entertaining than "The Mikado.'"

"Mr. Wooley in the title role took every one by storm as seven recalls to his first song testified."

"Miss Davis scored the biggest kind of a hit. Her make-up was a study and her acting was a treat."

"The opera was beautifully mounted and there was a very pretty Japanese lantern illumination in the second act. The costumes were rich and beautiful."

"The whole entertainment is the best ever given at the Castle Square."

"The Chimes of Normandy" will be the next opera, introducing the versatile actor, William Wolff, in his great impersonation of Gaspard, the miser. A special effort is made to close the performances at 10.30 each evening, so that patrons may connect with suburban trains. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees are of immense popularity.

...ARRATIVE

...Forty Years' Ex-
...National Politics.

...s and Bickerings Are ...hown In True Light.

...ome Highly Interesting Extracts From the Statesman's New Book.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—"John Sherman's Recollections of Forty Years in the House, Senate and Cabinet," just published in this city, reveals the intrigues, the jealousies and the traitorous knife-thrusts of the last half century of American statecraft.

The fear that the venerable senator would reveal secrets long kept from the public in his forthcoming work has been to an extent realized. Grant, Garfield, Blaine, Arthur, Harrison and other Republican leaders are spoken of with unstinted praise for their high personal worth or statesmanship, but each is in guarded and covert language shown in the less commendable light of scheming politicians. The criticism is almost invariably implied rather than direct, but it stands out clearly in the work as a whole.

Owing to the expectation that the work would be in a measure sensational, and the anxiety felt in diplomatic circles over its forthcoming, frequent effort has been to gain information regarding its contents, but today, for the first time, a resume of Mr. Sherman's autobiography is presented. As anticipated, the feature of the book is its extreme frankness, the style in which Mr. Sherman has expressed himself showing the statesman rather than the professional bookmaker.

The work is marked by clear-cut sentences and blunt expressions of opinion, and but little attempt at literary grace is made. The book is very evidently intended by the author as an exposition of the financial policy of the Republican party, which to a great extent is his own.

Owing to the close association of Mr. Sherman and James A. Garfield, the criticism of the nomination of the latter for President of the United States is perhaps one of the most striking features of the book. The author very significantly makes it plain that Mr. Garfield was nominated at a convention to which he had gone as trusted leader of the Sherman forces. After showing that Mr. Garfield was in reality his political protege, Mr. Sherman gives in detail the history of the national convention of 1880. Following the account of his own struggle for the nomination, he says:

His Feelings Hurt.

In time I became thoroughly advised of what occurred at the Chicago convention and had become entirely reconciled to the result, though frequently afterward I heard incidents and details which occasioned me great pain and which seemed to establish the want of sincerity on the part of some of the delegates, and tended to show that for some time before the meeting of the convention the nomination of General Garfield had been agreed upon.

The sting felt by Garfield's defection in 1880 is inadvertently shown by a sentiment expressed during the discussion of the national convention of 1892, where the senator remarks:

From later developments I became satisfied that Harrison could not be elected, that Platt and a powerful New York influence would defeat him if nominated. I therefore preferred the nomination of a new man, such as William McKinley, but he had committed himself to Harrison, and, according to my code of honor, could not accept a nomination even if tendered him.

When it was remembered that Blaine was also a candidate for the presidency before the convention that nominated Garfield, the significance of the following explanation on the part of Senator Sherman of why he was not reappointed by President Garfield as secretary of the treasury is readily understood:

In the latter part of November, 1880, General Garfield came to Washington and called upon Mr. Blaine, who, it was understood, was to be secretary of state. Garfield came to my house directly from Blaine's and informed me that he had tendered that office to Blaine and that it was accepted. He said Blaine thought it would not be politics to continue as secretary of the treasury, as it would be regarded as an unfriendly discrimination by other members of Hayes' cabinet. I promptly replied that I agreed with the opinion of Blaine, and was a candidate for the senate.

Again the author reverts to the Chicago convention in discussing the character of President Garfield. Of his personality and eloquence, he speaks in the highest terms. His will power, he says, was not up to his personal magnetism. He adds that his opinion changed easily.

Political Corruption.

Speaking of the political scheming that again resulted in the defeat of the Ohio statesman in the national convention of 1888, Mr. Sherman says that he became satisfied that one delegate from New York controlled the entire delegation from that state, and between Saturday night, when the nomination seemed certain to go to Sherman, and Monday morning, when the tide turned in favor of Harrison, a corrupt bargain was made in the interests of the latter, which secured him the support of New York and gave him the nomination. Continuing, the author states: "It is to the credit of General Harrison to say that if the reputed bargain was made, it was without his consent at the time."

On the eve of another national campaign, in which ex-President Harrison is expected to figure prominently, Mr. Sherman does not hesitate to state that in 1892 he did not consider Harrison a strong candidate. To his cold and abrupt manner he attributes his unpopularity at that time.

Space is devoted by the author to an account of the important events of each administration. In this connection Mr. Sherman lays bare many of the jealousies, political bickerings and clash of ambitions that disturb the harmony of the party in power. Of Grant's administration, he says it was a period of scandal and slander. Perhaps the severest criticism of General Grant's statesmanship is found in the following extract from Mr. Sherman's work:

During the entire period of Grant's administration I was chairman of the committee of finance of the senate, and had to act upon all questions of taxation, debt, banking or finance, and had occasion to talk with the president upon such measures, but he rarely expressed any opinion or took any interest in them.

At the age of 72 years, Senator Sherman recalls the affair over the attempt to remove Chester A. Arthur from the collectorship of the port of New York with much feeling. Arthur is shown up in an unenviable light, and the attitude of Roscoe Conkling toward the president is caustically commented upon. The former's nomination as vice president, the Ohio statesman says, was the whim of Conkling to annoy President Hayes.

Throughout that part of the work relating to President Hayes, Mr. Sherman speaks in the highest praise of the chief executive of the nation.

There is less of a personal narrative in the book than might be expected. Mr. Sherman speaks modestly of his boyhood days, of his family and of his first appearance in public life. Many of his important public addresses during the slavery agitation and during the political campaigns in which he took part are embodied in the book. His accounts of the civil war and of his association with Abraham Lincoln are full of interest as narrative and of a historical record of the stirring events of that period.

Why He Abstains From Drink.

In writing about himself, Mr. Sherman is candid to the point of self-criticism. For instance, he states that at the age of 19 years he got into bad company and was on several occasions conscious of being intoxicated. In relating the incident which influenced his whole life in this respect, he says:

On one occasion, the fall of 1830, I went home very sick from drinking. My mother received me with much surprise and sorrow, but neither complained nor scolded, and with the utmost kindness put me to bed and watched over and cared for me. I was not enough stupefied to be unconscious of my degradation and her affection, and then and there resolved never to be in such condition again.

Rich in ripe conclusions, full of interest as a personal narrative, instructive as a political record, and complete as a financial history of the country, the work adds to recent books of American history one of general interest and of value to students of politics and finance.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Indications of a General Improvement All Along the Line.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The events of the week are promising in nature, though in speculative markets not entirely encouraging. The great advances in cotton had arrested exports and so deranged exchange that shipments of gold were for a time apprehended, but the break in the market indicates that the natural movement of the product may soon be restored.

The halting of demand and moderate yielding of prices in the great industrial markets show that a season of reasonable attention to natural conditions has arrived and give hope that the future demand will be more nearly proportioned to actual consumption.

The cotton market has been partly cornered for early delivery by a New Orleans operator and his followers, as it has been twice in not distant years by Liverpool speculators, which ended in failure.

Failures for the week have been 263 in the United States, against 253 last year, and 46 in Canada, against 43 last year.

The End Not Yet.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 19.—The reforms are not, properly speaking, the granting of fresh privileges so much as recapitulating and providing for the regular administration of already existing codes, affecting the well-being of Moslems as well as Christians. The Armenians consider that the concessions are illusory, and Turkish officials admit that they were wrung from the porte under violent pressure. The Turks are most furious, and many competent observers do not hesitate to predict a crisis leading to revolt and bloodshed, compared with which the Armenian troubles would be insignificant.

Fun at a Cake Walk.

MOORESTOWN, N. J., Oct. 19.—Five persons were shot yesterday, one probably fatally, during the progress of a colored cake walk at Fellowship. A man named Richards was playing a mouth organ and James Hargett demanded the instrument. Richards refused to give it up, and Hargett struck him in the face. A general row and promiscuous shooting followed.

His Accounts Were Mixed.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 19.—J. C. Schafer, Jr., a well-known carriage manufacturer, shot and killed himself yesterday. He was president of a building and loan association, and a shortage in his accounts discovered Thursday was the cause of the suicide. He had promised to make restitution yesterday.

Sunk In Collision.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 19.—The steel steamer America, bound up, coal laden, was sunk in collision with the steamer W. H. Gilbert in the Soo river yesterday. The America was valued at $130,000. The Gilbert was apparently uninjured. All of the crew of the America escaped injury.

Rupture Anticipated.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 19.—It is the general belief that the board of revenue are arranging to withdraw the smuggling prosecutions from before the court and to adjudicate upon them themselves. There is serious dissension in the government ranks, and a rupture is shortly expected.

Complaint From England.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—England demands a court-martial for Captain Lothaire, the Belgian officer who executed the English trader Stokes in the Congo State and an indemnity of 1,000,000 francs to Stokes' family.

Scheme Defeated.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 19.—In the convention yesterday a bill to compel banks to pay a municipal tax on their capital stock was defeated, as the stock is supposed to be returned by the shareholders.

For Alleged Stabbing.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—W. H. Sherwood and J. A. Wilson, both actors in the "Old Kentucky" company, were remanded at Blackburn yesterday, on the charge of having stabbed a laborer.

Horses Bolted.

QUEBEC, Oct. 19.—Governor Chapleau's horses ran away with him yesterday and was thrown violently to the ground. He was picked up unconscious, but is not dangerously hurt.

Will Probably Be Needed.

MADRID, Oct. 19.—The government is preparing to send a strong fleet to Cuba directly any American government recognizes the Cubans as belligerents.

Japs Recalled.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 19.—The Japanese minister, Miura, and the other members of the legation and Japanese military officers at Seoul have been recalled.

First Official Call.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—General Miles paid his first official call upon President Cleveland yesterday since he assumed command of the army.

POPULISTIC VIEWS

Expressed in the Platform of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19.—Delegates from 38 states and territories, representing nearly 300,000 members of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, congregated at Music hall yesterday to attend the 22d annual convention of that society.

A union of reform forces is contemplated, and the leaders have agreed to the following basis, which is commended to the good will of all White Ribbon women:

1. Direct legislation, the initiative and the referendum in all national, state and local matters; the imperative mandate and proportional representation. 2. When any branch of legitimate business becomes a monopoly in the hands of a few against the interests of the many, that industry should be taken possession of, on just terms, by the municipality, the state or the nation, and administered by the people. 3. The election of president and vice president and of United States senators by direct vote of the people, and also of all civil officers so far as practicable. 4. Equal suffrage without distinction of sex. 5. As the land is the rightful heritage of the people, no tenure should be held without use and occupancy. 6. Prohibition of the liquor traffic for beverage purposes and governmental control of the sale for medicinal, scientific and mechanical uses. 7. All money—paper, gold and silver—should be issued by the national government only, and made legal tender for all payments, public or private on future contracts, and in amounts adequate to the demands of business. 8. The free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1.

"I Am the Duke."

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The blotter of a sub-police station in Central Park bears the official record of the arrest of the Duke of Marlborough for coasting at the rate of 15 miles an hour. Officer Sweeney, who arrested him, says: "I told the young man he had violated a park ordinance, and that I would have to put him under arrest. 'This is an outrage. I am the Duke of Marlborough. How dare you insult me in this unwarranted manner?' he said." "It matters nothing to me who you may be," said Sweeney. "I shall have to take you into custody." Turning to several bystanders, the duke is said to have pleaded for their intervention. The duke was escorted to the police station, where he was reprimanded and released.

Pastor Noss' Objections.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 19.—At the session of the eastern synod of the Reformed Church of the United States a strong temperance resolution was unanimously adopted, although Rev. J. G. Noss of New Holland took exception to what he called the intemperate zeal displayed by the Women's Christain Temperance union and similar organizations in their attitude toward the liquor evil.

Hansen's Nerve.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Thomas St. Claire and Hans Hansen, the murderers of Maurice Fitzgerald, mate of the bark Hesper, were hanged at San Quentin prison yesterday. Death in each case ensued speedily. Hansen seemed reconciled to his fate, and assisted the deputies to adjust the straps on his ankles as he stood on the trap.

Nabbed In Brussels.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—A dispatch from Brussels announces that the three post-office robbers, Russell, Killoran and Anderson, are under arrest in that city. No direct proof has been produced that these are the men who escaped from Ludlow street jail, but the officials here believe that they are the men wanted in New York city.

Says They Can't Fight.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 19.—Governor Clarke was asked what he thought of Corbett's habeas corpus case, and replied: "Oh, that amounts to nothing. I don't pay any attention to these side issues. I have said that Corbett and Fitzsimmons should not fight at Hot Springs, and I shall see that the fight does not take place."

Heirs Claim Forgery.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Heirs at law of the late Joseph Holt yesterday filed a caveat in the probate court to contest the alleged will filed by Luke Devlin, asserting that the paper is not the last will and testament of Joseph Holt, is a forgery and never was signed by Holt or the witnesses.

Rights of the Press.

BUFFALO, Oct. 19.—The suit of Bronner Bros. against The Courier to recover $30,000 damages for alleged libel in printing an advertisement by a rival clothing firm, which held the Bronners up to ridicule, was decided in favor of the defendant.

One Killed Outright.

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y., Oct. 19.—While workmen were employed on the frame work of the new Catholic church, the timbers fell upon three of them. One is dead and the others were fatally injured.

Asphyxiated.

—Under the recent law passed by the Legislature no flags can be hung over the streets of Boston, consequently the State Republican and Democratic committees cannot throw their colors to the breeze as formerly.

—Vice President J. R. Kendrick of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad says: As soon as the four-tracking of the Old Colony road is completed to Brockton, which will take about a year, the suburban branches of the company will be electrically equipped, including the Shawmut branch.

—Fourteen dollars was all that could be gotten for Gen. Grant's park pheasant that he used when he was in the White House, which conveyed him to the capitol on his second inauguration, and in which he rode with Mr. Hayes when the latter was inaugurated, when it was sold recently.

—It is estimated that 30,000,000 roses and 15,000,000 carnations are sold by the New York florists every year, and that the wholesale men get profit of $1,500,000 out of their business. Violets rank third in popularity, and the lily of the valley runs a good fourth.

Sensible Furniture.

In building this furniture business we've had lots to contend with, and our one purpose has been from the start to give the citizens of Quincy and adjoining towns, the very best possible store service in existence.

It has not been our policy to advertise a few things at cost and ask a hundred per cent. profit on everything else, but sell everything at a uniformly low price, at as small a profit as possible. Goods right and prices right are what the people want today, and there isn't a better place on earth to find them just as you'd like than at this, The People's Store.

MILO GRAY RUN DOWN

Suspected of Having Murdered His Wife Four Years Ago.

Mrs. Gray No. 2 Will Not Forsake Him.

Story of His Wanderings Since the Mystery at Landaff, N. H.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 21.—Milo Gray, around whom the suspicion hourly increases that he is the murderer of his wife, Julia Gray, at Landaff, in June, 1891, has been run down and placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Manson S. Brown of this place, after a tireless search in northern New Hampshire and Vermont.

Deputy Brown, who has been accompanied in the search by County Solicitor Adams, went to Bellows Falls, Vt., where they were joined by the chief of police at that place, and proceeded to Westminster, where they had heard of Gray's whereabouts, but this much-wanted man had decamped. The officers again wended their way into New Hampshire and located their man at Westmoreland.

Here Gray was living upon a farm with Mrs. Gray No. 2, to whom, according to Gray's story, he had been married about two years. Gray was not at home when the officials first arrived, so the highway was followed for about a mile, and Gray and his wife were seen approaching. Gray was arrested. He made no objection to be taken to Woodsville.

Mrs. Gray sobbed bitterly and told her husband she was willing to follow him to the end of the world.

A train was taken, and Sheriff Brown arrived at Woodsville early yesterday with his prisoner, who was turned over to Sheriff Arthur Davis of that place.

When first placed under arrest Gray was apparently much affected, but

Soon Regained His Composure

and took the journey in a seemingly pleasant mood. He had but little to say to his captors, although he made an attempt to explain about the mysterious disappearance of his first wife.

A greater part of the journey he remained by the side of Deputy Brown, speechless and in apparent thought, at times shielding his face with his hands.

During the search for Gray, an incomplete history of his wanderings since he left Landaff in 1891, shows that after leaving Colebrook, in the same year that Mrs. Gray disappeared, Gray went to Canaan, Vt., and took a logging contract. He remained there during the winter months, and was joined by the present Mrs. Gray in April. After her arrival they remained only a few days, when they decamped in the night, leaving all personal property, unpaid bills and logging utensils.

The next known of Gray he appeared at Westminster and then at Westmoreland, where his capture was effected.

Gray has three brothers residing in Colebrook, two at Holland, Vt., one at Lunenburg, Vt., and a sister at Concord, Vt. Marion, his daughter, is married and resides at Chester Depot, Vt. Elmer, his son, is unmarried and is at work as a farm hand in Poultney Meadows, Vt.

Gray is a medium-sized man, has light eyes and a brown mustache, dark hair, and, on the whole, is good looking. He is about 47 years of age, weighs in the vicinity of 140 pounds and is about 5ft. 10in. tall.

The present Mrs. Gray is the same woman who returned to East Haverhill with Gray the day after the disappearance of Mrs. Gray No. 1.

In Prohibition Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 21.—Jennie Bernstein was arrested yesterday for violating a quarantine placed on her house by the board of health on account of diphtheria. The woman kept a kitchen barroom and hundreds of men have visited the infected house during the past few days. The police are placing in quarantine the houses of Mrs. Bernstein's customers as fast as they can be found.

Fight With a Crook.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Inspector Morrisey had a severe experience in arresting Jeremiah Brown on a default warrant. Brown, who is powerfully built, is charged with breaking and entering a bottling establishment and the larceny of $300 in money and papers valued at $700 last June. Morrisey was terribly used up; his hands and throat are badly scratched and swollen.

Housatonic's Loss.

HOUSATONIC, Mass., Oct. 21.—This village suffered a $40,000 loss last night in the destruction by fire of the Central block, a three-story wooden structure in the center of the village. The origin of the fire is not known.

Bridgeport Priest Honored.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 21. — Three thousand residents of this city and Catholic clergy from all over New England listened to Mendelssohn's Landa Sion at Park City theater last night. The oratorio was part of an elaborate program arranged for the celebration of the golden jubilee of Rev. Father Ariens, pastor St. Joseph's church, this city. There were 200 voices and orchestral accompaniment. The celebration will continue for two more days.

Attachment on Playhouse.

BOSTON, Oct. 21. — The Grand Opera House has been attached, and the theater closed. The attachment was placed by John W. Hamilton, who, up to within two weeks, has been the representative of Manager Mansfield.

Suicide by Drowning.

LENOX, Mass., Oct. 21.—Miss Lillian Butler, 18, committed suicide by drowning herself in the Housatonic river. She was a schoolteacher, and it is thought that overwork in the schoolroom deranged her mind.

Reduced to Ashes.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 21.—The shoe factory of Hodson Bros. & Co. of Yarmouthville was burned to the ground yesterday. The loss is $20,000, and over 100 men are thrown out of employment.

Warren to Webster.

WARREN, R. I., Oct. 21.—Forty families of this town, formerly dependent on the mills here, which were burned not long ago, have been engaged to go to the Slater mills at Webster, Mass.

Brought $130,000.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 21.—The Jacob Dunnell homestead estate, comprising about 2,000,000 square feet, has been sold by the trustees to Henry W. Cooke of Providence for $130,000.

Ground to Pieces.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 21.—Thomas Partlaw of Woodlawn attempted to jump on a switching engine yesterday, and was thrown under the wheels and completely cut in pieces.

He Jumped Into a Well.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Oct. 21. — John S. Rogers, aged 76, a farmer of Lyman, committed suicide by jumping into a well. The cause was despondency, induced by sickness.

Got Considerable Booty.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 21.—The postoffice at Norway Lake was robbed Saturday night and several hundred dollars stolen. No clew to the robbers.

Mexican Ignorance.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 21.—Raca Latina, organ of the resident Spaniards, declares that when Spain has completed the subjugation of Cuba, she will send the sixth division of the Spanish navy to bombard New York, thus inaugurating a war with a nation of barbarians, although numerically superior to the Spaniards, are really contemptible, blustering dwarfs. Spain must rely on her Spanish pride to teach the Yankees a lesson. The organs of the Spanish colony here are exceedingly bitter against the American people, and war is a common threat.

Bavarians Snubbed.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—Emperor William and Empress Augusta have returned to Potsdam from their trip to Woerth and to Strasburg. The fact that not a single member of the Bavarian royal house was invited to the fetes at Woerth had caused some comment in Germany, especially in view of the fact that the late Emperor Frederick had commanded the Bavarian troops during the war.

Rain Badly Needed.

KEWANEE, Wis., Oct. 21.—Forest fires are raging throughout the country. Several farmers have already lost their barns and dwellings. The wind would carry the fire across 80-acre clearings and set fire to the woods on the opposite side. If no rains come soon, there will be a still greater loss of property.

Peruvian Progress.

LIMA, Oct. 21.—Vice President Billinghurst advocates the immediate building of a railroad from Oroya to Perene, a distance of 100 miles, the road to be a narrow gauge. The route is without any particular natural obstacle, and the production of the region is increasing rapidly.

A Shaky Feeling.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 21.—Several arrests of smugglers are promised. The magistrates refuse to be parties to any attempt to drop proceedings. There is consternation in business circles, for the men involved represent every class and profession.

PORTER, CHAMPION.

He Wins the Corthell Cup at the Wollaston Links.

The completion of the match for the Corthell cup for the championship of the Wollaston Golf club took place on the Bellevue park links on Saturday afternoon before a large number of spectators. The high wind materially affected the scores. The playing began at 2 30 o'clock and was finished at about five o'clock. The interest in the result was intense.

At the preliminary play, which was held on the 12th, Mr. Brock made the 18 holes in 99 strikes. This was in a driving rain storm. It was expected that under more favorable conditions this record would be lowered. It probably would have been if a high wind had not prevailed, which is as bad a condition if not worse to play under than a rain storm. The interest centered mainly in Mr. Brock's and Mr. R. B. Porter's work, each being considered a crack player.

On the first round Mr. Brock went around in 51 strikes and Mr. Porter in 49. Those were the two best first round scores. But on the second round Mr. Porter still maintained a slight lead finishing with a total of 99 against Mr. Brock's 104, thus winning the Corthell championship cup for this season. But Mr. Porter will have to win it three successive years to retain it.

The score:—

	First round.	Second round.	Total.
R. B. Porter,	49	50	99
E. H. Brock,	51	53	104
R. R. Freeman,	52	57	109
H. M. Fairbanks,	52	60	112
E. S. Taylor,	56	56	112
J. F. Harlow,	59	58	117
J. A. Grant,	66	58	124

On next Saturday afternoon there will be a Ladies' Championship of nine holes, no handicap, played on the Wollaston Golf Club's links. The prize will be given by the club and is to be retained by the winner.

Saturday's Fire.

The alarm from Box 46 at 3.18 Saturday afternoon called the department to a lively blaze in the kitchen of the residence of Napoleon Grignon on Rustic place, off Cross street. The family were away at the time and the fire was discovered by Mrs. Moynihan, who gave the alarm.

The first to respond to the alarm were ex-chief engineer Walter H. Ripley and Charles Jones ex-driver of the steamer. The former was armed with an Edison fire extinguisher and the latter with a water bucket. They forced an entrance into the house and succeeded in quenching the flames before the department arrived.

The fire was evidently caused by children playing with matches as a few minutes before the fire was discovered the family had taken some matches away from the boy and then went out. When they went out the fire had doubtless been started.

Dishonest Peddler.

Friday a travelling vegetable peddler called at the house of Mrs. B. M. Seelye on Baxter street and succeeded in selling her some potatoes and onions. She tendered him a $5 bill in payment, but he was all out of change but said he would go down to the store and change the bill and return. She let him have the bill and he started for the store, and is evidently looking for it yet, as he has not returned with the change. A warrant was got out for the peddler and he was arrested in Boston Sunday and turned over to the Quincy police and was arraigned in court this morning.

Pastor Remembered.

Rev. J. Herbert Yeoman was very agreeably surprised by the members of the Memorial Congregational church on Friday evening last when a score of them called and presented him with a set of silver teaspoons as a token of their appreciation. The presentation was made by Mrs. Theodore Parker with a short speech to which Mr. Yeoman modestly responded. The pastor's wife served refreshments and the festivities lasted until about ten o'clock.

Vrooman—Staples.

Rev. Harry C. Vrooman, pastor of the East Milton Congregational church, was united in marriage Sunday to Mrs. Louise Josephine Staples. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride, only immediate relatives being present, and was performed by Rev. A. K. Teele, D. D., of Milton. After a three weeks' trip to St. Louis, Rev. and Mrs. Vrooman will take up their residence at East Milton, and will be at home after Nov. 11.

CONCERT AND LECTURE.

James S. Ryan Talks on "Citizenship" at Hancock Hall.

A fair audience was present at the concert and lecture in Hancock hall Sunday evening. Hon. John F. Fitzgerald disappointed the managers of the affair by announcing at the last moment that he was unable through sickness to be present. In order to fulfil in part the expectations of the audience, Mr. James S. Ryan of Boston was engaged for the lecture and chose for his subject, "Citizenship." The musical part of the entertainment was excellent, and Messrs. Woods and Short, artists little known in Quincy, made a very favorable impression. The programme was as follows:

Opening chorus,—"The Heavens are Telling." Misses Mary F. White, Emily Garrity, Frances Sullivan, Ellenore Roche, Messrs. Padula, Woods, Mahan and Short.

Tenor solo,—"Marguerite," Mr. James F. Woods.

Duet,—"I Pescatori," Messrs. Mahan and Padula.

Soprano solo,—Miss Mary Frances White.

Quartette, — Messrs. Woods, Mahan, Short and Padula.

Baritone solo,—Mr. William Short.

Terzetto,—"Ave Maris Stella," Carl Gurnst, Miss White and Messrs. Mahan and Padula.

Solo,—"Mona," Mr. Daniel F. Padula.

Double quartette,—"Unfold ye Portals," Misses Mary F. White, Emily Garrity, Frances Sullivan, Ellenore Roche, Messrs. Padula, Woods, Mahan and Short.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Harvester was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Jacob Kosge was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

William R. Lynch of Randolph was arraigned for drunkenness and was put on probation for one month.

Timothy Sheahan and Bernard Shields were arraigned for drunkenness at Milton and were put on probation for six months.

John A. Emery, John H. Austin and John Bracken were fined $5 each for drunkenness at Holbrook.

Michael Hayes of Quincy was arraigned for assault on Charles Shields and was fined $5.

Henry Wilson was arraigned for the larceny of $5 from Emma Seeley at Quincy and was fined $15.

John Sullivan of Weymouth was to come into court this morning and pay a fine of $20 for cruelty to a horse, but did not and was defaulted.

Quincy Park Booming.

From 100 to 200 people perhaps more visited "Quincy Park" Sunday, and witnessed quite a transformation in a few days. Broadway, Madison avenue and Beacon street have been laid out at right angles to Washington street, and Commonwealth avenue, Fifth and Sixth avenues at right angles to North Street. The lots are laid out small but one can purchase as many as he desires, and as the price of each is the same, the first to come gets the best location: Note the inducements advertised today.

On a Lark.

John Harvester and Jacob Kosge of West Quincy sent their wives to the old country last Saturday and after bidding them an affectionate goodby they celebrated the event by getting full, in which condition they came to Quincy and tried to draw some money from the Savings Bank. The bank officials seeing their condition refused to pay them any money. They continued to demand it, however, and as they would not leave Officer Ferguson was called in and arrested them.

It is Known By Its Cures

It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit.

The thousands of people whom it has raised from disease and despair to happiness and health, are the strongest and best advertisements Hood's Sarsaparilla has. No other preparation in existence has such a record of wonderful cures.

This is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sale, and requires for its production the largest laboratory in the world.

Now if you need a good medicine, why not try that which has done others so much good. Remember

OUTCOME IN DOUBT.

Striking Coal Miners Do Not Appear to Feel Confident of Success.

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Oct. 21. — The indications are that the miners' strike will not amount to much in the Clearfield and Beech Creek coal regions, whatever it amounts to in the adjoining regions. At Osceola a mass meeting was held and was attended by miners from all the mines in that district, some 8 or 10. The vote was almost solid against going out. It is believed the Houtzdale miners will take the same action as the Osceola miners.

Beech Tree and Coal Green men decided to suspend, but the whole affair hangs upon the decision of the Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron company's miners at Punxsutawny and the Berwind white miners in the Houtzdale region. At a meeting yesterday the former decided to work pending the action of the latter. Patton (Cambria county) miners held a meeting yesterday afternoon and decided to continue work, while at Hastings, Barnesboro and Spangler the miners decided to strike.

If the Berwind white miners quit work, the strike will be general throughout the Beech Creek, Houtzdale, Punxsutawney and Dubois fields; if they continue work, it is the opinion that the strike that has been called will be a failure at the beginning.

The Waller Case.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—John G. Jones called at the White House yesterday, in company with Senator Cullom, and presented to President Cleveland a petition, signed by nearly all of the judges of the circuit and district courts of Illinois and by many other prominent men, urging the government to prompt and adequate action looking to the release and compensation of ex-United States Consul Waller. The president promised to called the petition to the attention of Secretary Olney. Mr. Jones and Senator Cullom afterward talked to Secretary Olney, who explained to them the situation of affairs in the Waller case, and stated to them that this government was doing whatever it could in the matter to protect his rights as an American citizen.

Indiana Is Speedy.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The battleship Indiana arrived at Cramps' shipyard yesterday afternoon. Edwin S. Cramp, who had charge of the trip, said that the Indiana averaged 13 knots an hour from Boston to Delaware Breakwater, a distance of 414 knots. This is almost equal to the time made by cruisers under ordinary draught, and is remarkably fast traveling, when the fact is considered that the Indiana is build for fighting, not for speed.

Went It Heavy.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 21.—The amount of the operations of A. K. Ward, the absconding treasurer and manager of the Memphis Barrel and Heading company, will probably reach $300,000. Some of the paper is his own, but by far the greater part bears the name of the company. Only a small amount of it is genuine and secured. It is definitely known that Ward and his wife sailed from New Orleans for Honduras last Wednesday.

Talmage's Goodby.

NEW YORK, Oct, 21.—Dr. Talmage preached his farewell sermon in this city last night, before leaving to take up his work in the new pastorate in Washington. It was at the Madison avenue Presbyterian church that this sermon was delivered. The subject was "Testimony for Christ."

She Didn't Love Him.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 21. — Because Mary Short, a white woman, of whom he had become enamored, refused to reciprocate his passion, James T. Smith, a negro, shot her and then blew out his own brains. The woman whom he shot is still alive, and there is hope that she will recover.

Dickey Bird Lost.

PORT JEFFERSON, L. I., Oct. 21.—The schooner Adele Ball, from Charleston, rescued Captain Cleveland and crew from the schooner Dickey Bird, of Bath, Me. The Dickey Bird had her masts carried away and became water-logged. The crew lost everything belonging to them.

Bankers Alone Worry.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 21.—Bankers complain of dull discount business, as merchants are so well provided with money that there is no need of borrowing to make remittances to the United States and Europe in payment of their goods. The country was never more prosperous.

Encouraging Signs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—For the first time since Sept. 1 last the last week's statement of the associated banks of New York city shows an increase in the reserve, the expansion for the week ending Oct. 19 being $1,203,275.

Consecration Ceremonies.

HALIFAX, Oct. 21.—The consecration took place yesterday at Antigonish of Rev. Father McNeil as bishop of Newfoundland. A large number of Roman Catholic prelates took part in the ceremonies.

Knocked Out the Jailer.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Oct. 21. — Three prisoners assaulted Jailer Al Cree Saturday night and escaped. The men took guns, ammunition and a change of clothing. Jailer Cree is reported to be dying.

One Year In Prison.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Edmond Magnier, who has been found guilty of corruption in connection with the administration of the South of France Railroad company, was sentenced to a year's imprisonment.

Winter Weather.

HALIFAX, Oct. 21.—A heavy wind and snow storm rages on the Cape Breton coast, and the brig Sarah Alice is ashore near Sidney, while several other vessels have been damaged.

Death of General Pitcher.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A telegram from Fort Bayard, N. M., announces the death of General Thomas J. Pitcher, U.S.A., retired. His remains will be brought to this city for interment.

Shipwrecked Seamen Saved.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 21.—Steamer Sachem from Boston for Liverpool, brought to this port seven of the crew of the brig Gertrude, from Halifax, wrecked off the coast of Newfoundland.

A Remarkable Record.

GREENLEAF PARK.

The Finest Residential Section in Quincy,

And the home of many of Quincy's most prominent citizens.

This property—a part of the old Butler estate—is in close proximity to the new High School, the Adams Academy, the Woodward Academy for girls, a few steps from the electric cars on Hancock street, and within a few minutes' walk of the depot and Quincy Centre.

It embraces the land lying between Greenleaf street, one of the best streets in Quincy, and the new Merry Mount Park. The improvements are nearly all made, and some of the finest residences in the city are located here.

PRICES are very reasonable, ranging from 10 to 15 cents per foot and some good small lots at even lower prices.

TERMS can be made satisfactory if desired.

REASONABLE RESTRICTIONS as to the character and location of buildings have been established, and with the prospect in the near future of a new R. R. station at President's Bridge, close to the property, lots are sure to advance rapidly in value during the next few years.

REMEMBER there is no other land in Quincy so well located at such reasonable prices. Call at our office in Quincy for plans, prices and particulars, and take a look at some of the lots on Merry Mount and Butler Roads, Greenleaf, Hudson and Putnam streets. They are certain to please you if you are prospecting for a home site.

VOTE "YES" NOV. 5.

Why Suffrage Should be Extended to the Women.

The Women's Association Replies Its Opponents.

Eight Points to be Considered by the Voters.

The Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association issues the following:

The Massachusetts Man Suffrage Association has published an appeal against woman suffrage, signed by 100 prominent men. The names of these gentlemen would have carried more weight if they had not attempted to give their reasons. We suggest the following points:

1. If suffrage is not a right of anybody, but a privilege to be conferred upon those persons who possess certain qualifications, why should it not be conferred upon those women who possess the qualifications required of men?

2. If the matter is to be determined by expediency, why exclude the sex that constitutes more than two-thirds of our church members and less than one-fifth of our criminals.

3. The division of labor between men and women is not an argument against woman suffrage, but an argument for it. Every large division of laborers needs the ballot to represent its business interests. As the farmers need it to represent the agricultural interests and the manufacturers to represent the manufacturing interests, so the mothers and the homemakers need it to represent the interests of the home.

4. The Man Suffrage Association claims that the power to make laws and the power to enforce them ought to go together. Our present system of suffrage recognizes no connection between the two. Thousands of able bodied men in Massachusetts are excluded from suffrage because they cannot read. Tens of thousands who are not able bodied are freely admitted to the ballot box. There is no certainty at any election that the majority of legal voters represents the majority of fighting force. Either the ability to bear arms is a necessary qualification for suffrage or it is not. If it is, a large portion of the signers of the man suffrage appeal ought to be excluded. If it is not, the lack of it is no reason for excluding women.

5. The Man Suffrage Association says that our city and town governments are "business corporations," and that, therefore, women ought not to have a vote in choosing the officers. In every other business corporation the women who are stockholders have a vote in choosing the directors. George William Curtis said: "A woman may vote as a stockholder upon a railroad from one end of the country to the other. But if she sells her stock and buys a house with the money, she has no voice in the laying out of the road before her door, which her house is taxed to keep and pay for." In any of the great corporations so largely represented by the signers of the man suffrage appeal, what would be thought of a male stockholder who would say: "Women are relatively inexperienced in business matters; therefore, it is evidently for the interest of all the stockholders, both men and women, that the male stockholders alone should have a vote in choosing the directors?"

6. What is needed in a municipal voter is not personal familiarity with business details, but the capacity to choose honest and upright men to attend to the city business. The chief requisites are common sense enough to tell a good candidate from a bad one, and moral principle enough to prefer the former. Where women vote they have proved themselves able to distinguish between good and bad candidates, and have shown a marked tendency to prefer the good.

7. Thousands of women have had municipal suffrage for many years—single women and widows in England, Scotland, Australia and Canada; women both married and single in several of our western states. There is no evidence that it has anywhere injured "the happiness or physical welfare of women," or has impaired her "social or moral elevation." Mr. Gladstone, whose general views on the woman question are conservative, acknowledges that the 200,000 women householders of England have exercised the municipal franchise "without detriment, and with great advantage." From our own western states, where suffrage is not restricted to single women and widows, the testimony to its good results is still more emphatic.

8. The Man Suffrage Association prepicts "injury to the family." Full suffrage was granted to the women of Wyoming in 1869. From 1870 to 1890 the divorce rate in the United States at large increased about there times as fast as the population. In the group of western states, omitting Wyoming, it increased nearly four times as fast as the population. In Wyoming it is increased only about half as fast as the population. "An ounce of fact is worth a ton of theory."

Since these are apparently the strongest arguments that can be brought against woman suffrage, even by its ablest opponents, we again urge both men and women to vote "yes" on the so-called referendum.

Boston, Oct. 18, 1895.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Ward Four May Lose Distinction of Being Largest Ward.

At the State election the South Quincy ward will have only six less voters than the West Quincy ward. Ward Three has been growing very rapidly, and although the smallest of the six in territory promises soon to have the largest number of voters. During the recent season of registration now closed Ward Three made the largest gain, as will be seen in the summary below. The Wollaston ward was second and probably first in percentage of gain. Atlantic gained a few more than the Centre ward. Quincy Point was the only ward to add less than West Quincy. The summary:

	Sept. 1.	Increase.	Nov 1.
Ward One,	691	46	637
Ward Two,	545	23	568
Ward Three,	698	82	780
Ward Four,	747	39	786
Ward Five,	450	71	521
Ward Six,	387	50	437
The City,	3,480	279	3,759

Woburn has less men voters than Quincy, but 849 women voters to our 110.

Representative James H. Flint of Weymouth is very much interested in the prophesies that are being made that Hon. William Everett of Quincy is to be elected to the next House. Mr. Flint was elected by a handsome majority last year, but he realizes that if Mr. Everett is successful it will be because Republican votes in Quincy are cast for him, and that it will not be the two Republicans on the ticket from Quincy that will be cut, but the lone republican from Weymouth. However, he has too much confidence in the people of his district to think they will be so unfair as to send three men from Quincy and none from Weymouth. If it were positively known such a scheme was on foot, the result would very likely be that Weymouth Democrats would be found supporting the Republican ticket, to preserve a proper balance, for a town that has had two such representatives as Wentworth and Flint ought not to be left with none at all.—Standard.

Representative Flint need have no alarm this year for the Republicans generally will support their ticket. At the last election Mr. Flint led the Quincy Democrats 395 and 429 votes in this city, and he is sure to have a good majority this year. Naturally Dr. Everett will run ahead of his Democratic colleagues in Quincy, but Mr. Flint's popularity in Weymouth will elect him, and if Weymouth is as loyal as Quincy the district will again be represented by three Republicans.

The Globe in discussing the new apportionment of the Representative districts to be made next year, says: As nearly as may be estimated before the actual figures are presented, Barnstable, Berkshire, Hampshire, Suffolk and Worcester will each lose one, Essex will lose two, while Bristol, Hampden and Norfolk will each gain one and Middlesex will gain four. This will make Middlesex's representation forty-seven while Suffolk county will have fifty-one, or only four more. It is possible that Essex or Norfolk will have one more than this, and that Franklin and Middlesex will lose one, but these figures are pretty nearly what may be expected.

H. C. Rodgers Fails.

A petition in insolvency has been filed by Henry C. Rodgers, who for a short time has been manufacturing boots and shoes on Baxter street.

His assets are real estate and factory buildings, Baxter street, Quincy, mortgaged for $4,600: tools, machinery, engine, lasts, shafting, etc., in factory building, held under trust agreement, office furniture, and book accounts of uncertain value. His liabilities amount to $14,458.37.

IN THE CHURCHES.

A Pleasant Sunday and Large Congregations Generally.

The Sunday School of the Wollaston Unitarian Society gave its annual harvest concert before the usual large audience on Sunday afternoon. The decorations of autumn foliage were in good taste. The programme included:

Organ voluntary,
Invocation, Pastor
Hymn 192, Sunday School book
Responsive service, Superintendent
Prayer, Pastor
Response, Mrs. Page
Chorus, Primary Department
Recitations.
Helen Sprague, Evelyn Cummings
Chorus, girls "Our Heavenly Father"
Recitations,
Marion Hatch, Mildred Huston
Address, Rev. F. B. Mott
Solo, Mrs. Page
Recitations,
Margaret Sibly, Helen Barnes
Chorus, boys "The Ever, Changing [Seasons"
Hymn,
Benediction, Pastor

At the Wollaston Baptist church on Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Gurney took his text from Esther 3:2; taking as his subject "Brave adherence against fashionable right."

The altar at the Unitarian church was very tastefully decorated Sunday with branches of autumn leaves. Rev. E. C. Butler's sermon was listened to with close attention and was very interesting. The solo by Mr. Arnold of Wollaston was well rendered and the singing throughout the service was much enjoyed. Vesper services have been resumed and the next one will be held at four o'clock Sunday afternoon to which every one is cordially invited.

Phil. 2: 5,8 was the text of the morning sermon at the Washington St. church. The evening service was a social and testimony meeting.

At the Calvary Baptist church, Rev. C. A. Parker preached from Luke 15: 4 6. Speaking of a parable it was once defined as being an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. His text was divided into three parts. I. God's compassion toward the lost. II. How God feels toward the lost. III. Influence of divine grace. In the first we find God seeking the sinner. In the last the sinner seeking the Saviour. In the heart of God there is bitter cutting pain because of the one lost, and compassionate search until he is found. We find how Jesus broke away from the so-called elite in the world, and going after the lost degraded ones to rescue them bleeding and torn, from their sinful life. It is the grace of God that goes out, finds and restores the sinner. Then comes the rejoicing as given in these three parables.

Rev. and Mrs. E. N. Hardy were propounded for membership by letter Sunday at the Evangelical Congregational church.

The electric lights in the Unitarian church are a great improvement over the gas they have always used until this fall, but we would suggest another improvement, and that is a large chandelier in the centre of the ceiling. The ceiling of this old church is beautiful and a handsome chandelier would certainly be a great addition.

The Wollaston Baptist Society neighborhood prayer meetings have commenced again and the meeting on Tuesday evening will be held at the residence of Mr. Josiah Sparrow.

The young people at Quincy Point are planning a fine lecture and entertainment course for the fall and winter. Such attractions as Hon. Elijah Morse, Mrs. Livermore and the Highland quartette are on the list. It will be publicly advertised in a few days. The Christian Endeavor society held an especially good meeting Sunday evening.

There was a large congregation Sunday at the Centre Congregational church. Rev. E. N. Hardy reviewed briefly the first of his series of sermons on the Lord's Prayer, and then spoke on the text "Hallowed be Thy Name." The evening subject was "Withered Souls."

Next Sunday evening at seven o'clock will occur the Wollaston Baptist Sunday School concert.

At Christ church holy communion was celebrated at 9 30. Regular morning service with the Litany at 10 30. Mr. Breed preached a fine sermon. The music was very good especially the anthem in which Mr. Fred Gore sang the bass solo. In the evening Mr. Breed preached on the fourth Commandment. During this week the several guilds will hold their regular meetings in the parish house.

A WORD FROM CHANDLER

Regarding a Great Railway Trust Said to Be In Contemplation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Senator Chandler of New Hampshire has written additional letters to the president and to the interstate commerce commission urging immediate action to prevent the execution of the newly formed railroad trunk line agreement signed by the presidents of nine roads running from the seaboard to the west. He asserts that the agreement is a gigantic trust and plainly contrary to law.

He vigorously attacks Interstate Commissioner Knapp for a statement that the matter was none of which the commission could take cognizance, and says he should be removed. His letter to the president closes by saying that a word from him to Pierpont Morgan would cause the whole conspiracy to stop.

In his letter to the president, the senator closes as follows:

These stupendous crimes can, by virtue of express statutes of the United States, be suppressed in advance by national officials. A single word from you to J. Pierpont Morgan will cause these confederates to desist. Will you act or will you take the responsibility of consenting, as you will by inaction, to a conspiracy against law, which, within a few weeks, or as soon as the elections are over, will raise the prices of food and fuel to all your beloved people? "He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed." Thou art the man.

Not Complimentary.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—The prosecution in the case of Theodore Durrant has found a new witness. A colored bootblack named Bond Wilson, last night, when served with a subpœna, told this story: "At first I was surprised that such religious young men as King and Durrant should be carrying on in such a fashion, but after a while I concluded they were about the same as other young men. I learned from those two boys themselves that they were taking girls to Emanuel church every night. I often heard them tell of the fun they had there, and of the different girls who accompanied them. I know of five girls who used to go to the church at night with these boys. They all belong to respectable families, and the worst of it all is that their parents never dreamed that such things were going on."

The Standard's Conclusions.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Standard (Conservative) has an editorial this morning on the Venezuelan question, in which it says: The Venezuelan ultimatum is unlikely to lead to prolonged or doubtful complications. The convention of 1850 has been repeatedly infringed by the Venezuelans in encroaching upon soil indisputably British. These galling and high-handed acts might have been overlooked had not the outrages by the Venezuelan authorities reached lengths no longer endurable. If such an aggression as the Uruan affair is to be ignored, we might as well abandon British Guiana. We shall be surprised if the responsible diplomats of the United States persist in maintaining that the Monroe doctrine has any bearing on the proposed case.

Ground Is Parched.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Reports received at the weather bureau indicate that the present drought is one of the severest and most prolonged ever known in the United States since the bureau's organization. In some parts of the country the drought began in the latter part of July, but in most of the sections it did not become markedly pronounced until August.

Big Drawing Card.

ATLANTA, Oct. 21.—The vanguard of the multitude advancing on Atlanta, in anticipation of the visit of President Cleveland and his cabinet to the exposition this week, have begun to arrive, indicating that the crowd of visitors which will gather here next Wednesday will be the largest ever assembled in any southern city.

A Double Murderer.

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., Oct. 21.—Reed Smith, colored, became insane from jealousy, and with a club beat his wife to death. The sheriff tried to arrest the murderer, when Smith opened fire on him. The bullet took off the sheriff's ear, and passing on struck a woman, who died from her injuries. Smith escaped.

Unitarian Conference Begun.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The 16th meeting of the National conference of the Unitarian and other Christian churches begun here today. The meeting will continue until Thursday night. Several sessions are to be held each day, at which subjects of vital importance to Unitarians will be discussed.

Loss of $100,000.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The extensive plant of the Northwest Fertilizer company, in the Stock Yards, was threatened with destruction yesterday. The main building was burned. Loss, $100,000.

Fatal Mine Explosion.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 21.—By an explosion of gas at the Knickerbocker colliery three persons were fatally and six others seriously injured. Just what caused the explosion is not known.

Sugar Trust Abroad.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—A sugar trust, comprising all but two of the Austro-Hungarian refiners, has been formed, to limit the yearly output of sugar for two years to 250,000 tons.

No Compromise.

MADRID, Oct. 21.—Senor Castillo, minister of foreign affairs, is quoted as saying that it is impossible that Spain should come to terms with the Cuban insurgents.

Written for the Daily Ledger.

Beyond the city's thicket, and
The barges of South Bay,
The Heights smile down the Harbor view
Where sails on sapphire play.

Pine sentinels in heavy green
New clad for winter's sting,
Are posted on your left, with front
To charm a warrior king.

And here Neponset clasps the sea,
Fresh from her winding way
Among the hazy western hills,
Where braves of old held sway.

A plushy lawn, a circlet, bound
With band of silver sea;
I'm told that fairest fays at moon
Here hold gay revelry.

Here furrowed, red-brown meadow swamps,
By crimson furze offset;
Here, bits of virgin grove, their flames
In hoary cressets set.

The Downs—among its dales and dells
And coy retreats. I see
Some sprite has sprigged his lady's paints,
And marked his saucy glee.

You know how aster, sumac, rod
Can magic wonders cast
O'er sun gilt lands, where fleeces puff
Above the forest's crest.

What rosaries of varied gems
October, regnant, cites
About her shrines of holocaust,
The year's last glorious rites!

O beauty prodigal! No price
The hand that lavished lays
Sweet holiness of God! that still Spends heaven o'er sullied ways.

MARIA H. MAYNE,—Boston, Mass.

—Henry H. Faxon's idea of A. C. Paul as expressed in the County Convention that he is "too small a man for the place" seems to be about what people generally think. Because a man is a Republican is no reason why a competent man should be displaced who is a Democrat to make room for one who is not his equal and who relies upon his party politics and party pull for support. Mr. Endicott has served the county well. He has kept the office of Sheriff out of politics entirely, and Norfolk County would have done well had she pursued the same policy as Suffolk County, and renominate him. We anticipate the voters will endorse Mr. Endicott at the election and approve the policy pursued by him during his term of service. —Needham Recorder.

—The Thayer Academy foot ball eleven won its game Saturday with the John Hancock eleven of Boston 28 to 0. The Weymouth High defeated the Wessagussetts 24 to 0.

Bicyclist Killed.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—James J. Powers of Salem, while riding on a tandem bicycle with J. F. O'Donnell in Jamaica parkway yesterday, collided with another bicycle and was thrown to the ground, fracturing his skull. He died before reaching the hospital.

A Close Call.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 21.—A New York freight came through the freight yard here at a speed of 80 miles an hour, and being unable to stop at a signal, it just cleared the end of an "owl" freight, and was finally brought to a stop 200 yards beyond the signal.

Boat Overturned.

SOUTH HARWICH, Mass., Oct. 21.—Captain Watson N. Small went out fishing Saturday, and his boat was afterward picked up bottom upwards. It is thought that during a heavy squall the boat was capsized and Captain Small drowned.

A Good Capture.

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 21.—Fred D. Rockwell was arrested here yesterday for the alleged theft of a quantity of jewelry in June, 1894. Rockwell is wanted also in Maine and New Hampshire, where he has escaped twice from state prisons.

Drink and Death.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 21.—Joseph Denault, 24 years old, was found dead in a back yard yesterday morning. He and a companion were intoxicated Saturday, and it is supposed Denault fell down on his face and was suffocated.

The Lowell (Mass.) police were busy preventing an intended prize fight. The intended participants and spectators were finally found in Pelham, N. H., and the intended contest had to be postponed.

The latest scare is that Spain is to demand $500,000,000 damages of the United States for violating the neutrality laws by permitting Cuban sympathizers to arm and organize in the United States for fighting the Spaniards in Cuba, and that she is to be backed in this demand by Mexico, Italy and England. All right. The United States can lick the whole caboodle. Then we will capture and annex Cuba, Mexico and Canada. We've been itching for an excuse for some time.—Fort Payne (Ala.) Journal.

—It is estimated that the Plymouth cranberry crop, which is now being picked, will aggregate from 25,000 to 30,000 barrels. Most of the berries are in excellent condition. The prices for the best berries rule from $5.00 to $6.00 per barrel, and from those figures according to quality.

POLICE HELD AT BAY.

Madman Had Everything His Own Way For Seventeen Hours.

Fired 140 Shots From Rifle and Revolver.

Chloroform Failed to Subdue Him but Sulphur Finally Did the Work.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Barricaded and blocked in a second-story room commanding a complete view of Woodland park, a lunatic yesterday splintered doors, shattered window panes and tore holes in the plaster of the room with bullets from his rifle, while he shouted defiance to police and others attracted to the scene. The insane man was G. S. Merwin of the firm of Rogers, Brown & Co., pig iron dealers.

After 17 hours of effort, the police, by strategy, surprised and overcame the madman. Although he had fired 140 shots from his rifle and revolver, Merwin injured no one, but a number of people had narrow escapes.

After every attempt to capture the insane man before he should kill some one or injure himself had failed, sulphur was burned in the furnace. All the registers were closed excepting the one in the room occupied by Merwin. In an hour after the sulphur fire was started Merwin, partly overcome by the fumes, laid down on his bed and was captured.

In the middle of the night Merwin suddenly sprang from bed and, seizing his rifle,

Chased His Wife to the Kitchen.

Throwing up a window, the terrified woman leaped to the ground, 10 feet below, and ran to the residence of Abram Baldwin, where she was cared for. The police were notified and three men were sent to the Merwin residence. As they tried to enter through a rear window several shots were fired at them, while the insane man yelled at them, calling them burglars and saying he would kill the first man coming up the stairs.

Friends of Merwin were sent for and tried to reason with him, but it was useless. He fired shots at the neighboring houses, breaking windows and causing the inmates to take refuge in the rear rooms. One or two bicyclists passing by were fired at, but Merwin's aim was bad and they escaped with a bad scare.

The police obtained chloroform and squirted it into the room with a syringe through the keyhole, but Merwin was shrewd and threw up the windows, thereby neutralizing it. Finally, at about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, sulphur was procured, and in this manner the excitement was ended. The unfortunate man was dressed and taken to the detention hospital.

Merwin is 85 years old. He came to Chicago five years ago from New Haven, where he was reared. Three years ago, while in the iron range in the Tennessee mountains, Merwin was kicked in the head by a horse, and to the consequent brain injury his present condition is ascribed. He was married 1½ years ago to a prominent young lady of New Haven, and is a member of several prominent clubs.

A Dual Launching.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 21.—Some 6000 people witnessed the launching of the gunboats Saturday. The Nashville went off the ways at 9:47 o'clock, Miss Emma Thompson of Nashville breaking the bottle of champagne over it. The Wilmington was launched at 11:08, Miss Annie B. Gray, daughter of Senator Gray, christening it. There was not the slightest hitch, everything going off according to program.

Foreigners Stood Poor Show.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The correspondent of The Times at Antananarivo says: As the French advanced upon the capital the anti-European feeling became intense. A mob murdered and mutilated French prisoners, and it was only the appearance of the French troops on the heights that prevented the massacre of the English in the mission hospital.

Wasting No Time.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21.—Many delegates to the W. C. T. U. convention occupied pulpits in various parts of the city yesterday. Mrs. K. L. Stevenson of Chicago delivered the annual convention sermon in Music hall yesterday afternoon. At the conclusion of the meeting a purity mass meeting was held.

Maud Lewis Sentenced.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—The jury in the trial of Maud Lewis, for the murder of State Senator Morrisey in her house of illrepute last May, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree, and fixed her punishment at 15 years in the penitentiary.

Bad Weather at Sea.

HALIFAX, Oct. 21.—Steamer Corean, from St. John's, N. F., was 35 hours overdue. She made but 94 miles in 24 hours, so severe was the hurricane, notwithstanding she was running under full steam all the time.

Wall Collapsed.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 21.—Five men were seriously injured by the falling of the iron roof of the casting house of No. 3 furnace of the Pennsylvania Steel company. The collapse of a wall caused the accident.

Many Buildings Laid Low.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.—Fire in Algiers destroyed about 100 small buildings and about 20 more pretentious structures, including the courthouse and a number of handsome residences. Loss, $150,000.

Specie Movements.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The exports of specie from the port of New York for the week amounted to $984,476 in gold and $774,140 in silver. The imports were: Gold, $1,164,580; silver, $5660.

Went Over to Enemy.

LISBON, Oct. 21.—The governor of Goa, Portuguese India, has cabled that the Portuguese troops have joined the insurgents, and were pillaging the town and country.

Foster's Fire.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 21.—Fire at Foster originated from the explosion of a lamp in a store, and consumed three stores, two dwellings, two barns and the Methodist church.

Oppressive Silence.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 21.—Anxiety is felt about Erzroom, from which place no news has been received for four days.

AMBITIOUS WOMEN

MAKE HEROES OF MEN.

She Will Brave Anything for the Man She Loves.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

When an ambitious woman loves a man she will spur him to heroic efforts. She will dare with him the rigors of the frozen North, and encourage him in daring dangers almost unsurmountable.

Women are by nature ambitious according to their physical and mental strength. Hope and ambition come with perfect health, but vanish before sickness and despair.

American women are, unfortunately, particularly subject to those painful female diseases that are the cause of so much hopelessness and misery.

Could all women realize the undeniable fact that they suffer unnecessarily, how much brighter life would be!

Lydia E. Pinkham devoted her life to the study of female diseases and their cause; and she discovered in the Vegetable Compound an absolute remedy. It succeeds in removing the cause of the trouble.

Women who rely more upon their own natural common-sense, rather than on the theories of their physicians, write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and are soon restored to health.

Here is a living example: "Four months ago I was unable to stand on my feet. I had falling of the womb, kidney trouble, and inflammation of the bladder; the backache and bearing-down pains were dreadful. My physician could give me no relief. A friend said, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Well, I did. Oh, if every suffering woman would do the same, they would be cured, cured absolutely and entirely, as I am!" MRS. WM. M. NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO MOSES HUBURT, formerly of Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, now of parts unknown:

Whereas Aurilie Hubert of Quincy has presented to said Court her petition praying that Lester M. Pratt of Quincy may be appointed receiver for all your property and authorized to apply the same to the support of said petitioner and her minor child and for such other purposes as the Court may allow under the provisions of Chapter 303 of the Acts of 1894.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the sixth day of November, A. D., 1895, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to you fourteen days at least before said Court; or by publishing the same once in each week for three successive weeks, in the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, George White, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

MUST ANSWER FOR IT.

Japanese Concerned In Seoul Troubles Will Be Called to Account.

No Doubt That the Queen Was Murdered.

Russia Puts In a Protest Against the Tai-Won-Kun Government.

TOKIO, Oct. 21.—The Japanese government now admits that Japanese subjects now in Korea have been guilty of serious irregularities.

The government was misled by the first reports of its official agents. It was not the Sochi alone who were actually concerned in the disturbances at Seoul. Japanese soldiers escorted Tai-Won-Kun to the palace, and failed to preserve order during the tumult.

General Miura, Japanese minister to Korea, is chargeable with gross negligence, if nothing worse. The conduct of the entire Japanese legation at Seoul during the disturbances, and also of the guards and the police, will be subjected to the strictest inquiry.

Several arrests have been made already and others are to follow. The government of Japan announces that it will conceal nothing. It desires that the fullest publicity be given to the circumstances attending the riot, no matter who is implicated.

The indemnity Japan is to receive for restoring the Leaotong peninsula to China is fixed at 30,000,000 taels. Japan exacts a pledge that China shall never cede the Leaotong territory to either Russia, France or Germany.

Newspaper advices from Seoul say that the Korean government confirms the news of the queen's death.

Russia Heard From.

It is reported that the Russian minister has protested against the maladministration of state affairs in Korea by Tai-Won-Kun, the father of the king, and has demanded that the king should administer affairs. It is believed that if the protest is ignored an ultimatum will follow.

The Nichishimbun (newspaper) says that the Japanese minister Miura and other officials of the Japanese legation are indicated as the principal fomenters of the disturbance, the Japanese soldiers having acted on Minister Miura's orders against the views of the Japanese advisers to the Korean government, who declared that Minister Miura's action would lead to serious international complications. Orders have been given that over 40 Japanese residents of Seoul should be deported.

A Tokio journal, The Asaki, says that Minister Miura and the Japanese officials are returning to Japan under an escort of gens d'armes. The foreign representatives at Seoul are stated to have demanded protection for their respective legations. All of them agree in denouncing the Japanese as the murderers of the queen.

En Route to Boston.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The old Minnesota was towed out of the navy yard yesterday on her way to Boston. Considering the size of the craft, her rotten planking and general unseaworthiness, the trip around the coast will be watched with no little anxiety. Captain Weeks of the naval militia of Massachusetts, with a detail of 40 men from that organization, took charge of the ship. Two large ocean tugs from Boston have her in tow. The Minnesota will be used as a training ship by the 450 men composing the naval militia of Massachusetts.

No Open Saloons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The police in no wise relaxed their vigilance in the matter of enforcing the excise law yesterday. Uniformed patrolmen were stationed in front of all the suspected places, and all the members of the department who were not doing regular patrol duty were engaged in trying to effect an entrance to those saloons which were open to suspicion.

Incentive to Success.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The government will pay an annual subsidy of £32,000 to the cable company which is to lay a new direct cable from Brest to New York to maintain the existing cable, and to extend it to the Antilles. The subsidy will be reduced when the receipts from the cable amount to £66,000, and will cease altogether when the receipts exceed £114,000.

What Silverites Want.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Senator Teller says that the silver Republicans in the senate will not agree to the reorganization of the senate by the Republicans when congress reconvenes, except upon conditions that they be allowed to fill the vacancy on the finance committee caused by the retirement of Senator McPherson.

Murdered For Money.

HANCOCK, Mich., Oct. 21.—The bodies of Chris Kramer and wife, aged people, were found in the cellar of their house with their throats cut from ear to ear. It is quite certain that the double murder was committed for the purpose of robbery.

Novel Race Scheduled.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The motocycle or horseless carriage race, from Chicago to Waukegan and return, a distance of about 100 miles, will be contested Nov. 2. From present indications there will be no less than 40 starters in the great race.

What the Indiana Did.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The record of the speed made by the battleship Indiana on her trial trip last Friday, as reported to Secretary Herbert, shows the corrected speed of the vessel to have been 15.0574 knots an hour.

Anson's Bad Fall.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Captain Adrian C. Anson of the Chicago baseball club was thrown from his bicycle last evening and narrowly escaped being killed. He was unconscious for 1½ hours.

Guests Got a Scare.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Fire broke out on the fourth floor of the Grand Union hotel yesterday morning and created a panic among the 85 guests. No one was fatally hurt.

Lucky Duke.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The Duke of Aosta had refused to buy the pony which John W. Mackay, Jr., rode on Friday, and which threw him, with fatal results.

A Step Backward.

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 21.—The state legislature in session at Jakapata has approved a bill authorizing bull fighting.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

AT A SUMMER RESORT

The Troubles of the Colt Family Appear to Have Begun.

Wife's Suit Charges Colonel Colt With Infidelity.

The Latter Goes to Law and Drags Van Alen Into the Case.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Elizabeth M. Colt yesterday morning filed a libel for divorce from her husband, Colonel Samuel Pomeroy Colt. She alleges infidelity, but names no corespondent. She asks for a temporary injunction restraining her husband from disposing of his property until the libel is disposed of, for the custody of their two children, for a separate maintenance, for counsel fees and for separate support until final action in the case.

JAMES J. VAN ALEN.

For a very long period the Colt homestead at Bristol has been the scene of splendid social functions. The social connections of the family included many of the best known men and women in the land, and the Vanderbilts and others equally prominent in New York and Newport society have enjoyed the hospitality of the Colts. Among others James J. Van Alen, who was nominated for the Italian mission by President Cleveland, was included among the friends of the couple.

Beginning of the Trouble.

In August of this year a party of well-known Providence people left here to spend the remainder of the summer at Jackson Falls, N. H. Colonel Colt was one of the party, as was a young New York woman, who is a distant connection of the Colt family. Nearly all of the party registered at Gray's Inn. Colonel Colt was at another hotel at the resort.

It was remarked very promptly that Colonel Colt was extremely attentive to the young woman in question. People at summer resorts are very prone to mind each other's affairs, and the result of a number of them looking after Colonel Colt's business was that the place rang with gossip. Three young men from this city were at Gray's Inn, and they heard all the talk. It wound up in a scene at the place.

The three young men came back from Jackson Falls in advance of the others and in a very short space of time a number of people on the East Side knew what the young men knew. Eventually the talk reached the ears of Mrs. Colt, and she began an investigation. At its conclusion she consulted her attorneys and instructed them to begin proceedings looking to a Separation From Colonel Colt.

While the condition of their domestic affairs was being discussed in the circles of their own society, there was no desire for general publicity. Colonel Colt's attorney is Francis Colwell, and according to him these proceedings have been in progress for the past two weeks or more. Mrs. Colt desired a separate maintenance and the custody of the children.

The negotiations were not satisfactorily completed, and yesterday it was said that Colonel Colt had caused his attorney to prepare a petition for divorce, in which James J. Van Alen was named as corespondent.

The standing of the parties concerned, as well as that of the persons who are now and will later be involved as the result of the gossip about the trial of the case, will give to the affair a decidedly sensational character.

A dispatch from Newport says: S. P. Colt of Providence has brought suit against J. J. Van Alen for alienating the affections of Mrs. Colt, claiming $200,000 damages, and it is stated that a writ of arrest for Van Alen has been issued. Van Alen left here Saturday for Boston, and the people at his house refuse to tell where he is, but it is said he went to Shelburne, Vt.

Shocking Case of Depravity.

MARLBORO, Mass., Oct. 22.—The report of Medical Examiner Adams on the death of a 2-year-old son of Patrick Connolly shows that the child died from drinking whisky. It seems that Connolly came home Sunday intoxicated, with an eight-ounce flask of whisky in his pocket. The whisky he gave to his wife, who, after drinking, passed it to the children. The elder boy gave it to his baby brother, who drained the bottle. The little fellow sank into a drunken stupor and died in the afternoon.

The Milo Gray Case.

WOODSVILLE, N. H., Oct. 23. — Milo Gray, who was arrested at Westmoreland, charged with the murder of his wife at Landaff in 1891, was arraigned here yesterday. He pleaded not guilty, and the hearing was adjourned until Oct. 29. Gray insists that his wife is alive, but the authorities claim that his 17-year-old daughter is a strong witness against him.

Farmers and Cattle Owners Harmonize.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 22.—About 100 farmers and cattle owners met here yesterday and reorganized the convention of farmers and cattle owners of the state. Charles G. Gleason of New Braintree was elected president. A resolution calling for the abolition of the state cattle commission was referred. A committee will be formed to solicit subscriptions to fight the cattle commissioners.

Big Fight on Hand.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Theodore Roosevelt spoke in Music hall last night on the enforcement of municipal laws. He said that no other effort had been made in New York but the honest enforcement of existing laws. Referring to the present campaign in his city, he said: "We shall win, ultimately. We must overcome not only the corruption of Tammany, but we must allow for those who want a ticket of a little better than the best. There is a danger in New York this fall that the conscience vote will be cast into the air. The fusion ticket is the best for which I have had the privilege of voting in a long time, and if the conscientious voters will only realize this is the best they can get we shall win."

Atomizer Caught Fire.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 22. — Three employes of the Merrimac mills were terribly burned yesterday while at work in the finishing room. Their names are Joseph Maxwell, Thomas Salmon and Robert Montgomery. They will all probably recover. The accident was caused by an atomizer taking fire from some unknown cause.

Turned Up Too Late.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—The missing Republican nomination paper for the Third Worcester representative district turned up yesterday at the secretary of state's office just three days too late for filing. This district is now without a candidate for the lower branch of the general court, but voters can write in their choice.

Aldermen's Terms.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 22.—The board of aldermen last night granted permission to the Globe Street railway to cross Slade's ferry bridge over Taunton river on condition that the company would sell six tickets for 25 cents and assume responsibility for all claims for damages.

Lizzie F. Bent Arrested.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Lizzie F. Bent of Lynn, who was indicted for polygamy and baby farming, was arrested at Concord, N. H., yesterday, and brought here for trial. She was committed.

Small Bail.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 22.—James Freeman, who is charged with robbing the postoffice at East Sumner, was arraigned here yesterday, and was held in the sum of $100 for the grand jury.

On a Southern Trip.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Two hundred members of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' association left here last night on a 10 days' trip to the Atlanta exposition and the south.

Canoe Capsized.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 22.—Frank Carey, a prominent business man of Calais, was drowned in Musquash lake, near Calais. The canoe in which he was paddling capsized.

Dime Novels Explain Absence.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 22.—George Long and Charles Taylor, two boys of this city, are missing from their homes. Both boys were readers of dime novels.

New England Briefs.

Simeon Corbett, an old citizen of Bennington, Vt., was seriously injured by a train.

John C. Spraker and his son were arrested at Malden, Mass., on charge of arson.

An Italian who set off a charge of dynamite among Boston laborers was held for the grand jury.

Fred Tenney of the Boston Baseball club was married at Georgetown, Mass., to Miss Bessie F. Berry.

Mrs. Amelia T. Burlingame of Woonsocket, R. I., aged 57, was stricken with a paralytic shock, while hanging out clothes, and died.

Prosper B. Slack, a life-long resident of Norwich, Vt., died after a protracted sickness arising from a stroke of apoplexy received last spring. He was 78 years old.

W. O. Hoyt of Danbury, Conn., was arrested on the charge of having sent an indecent postal card through the mails to his wife, from whom he had been separated.

Horace Glidden and Ernest Chamberlin were arrested at Alton, N. H., on the charge of entering the railroad station there and blowing the safe. They were bound over in $300 bonds.

Foreign Countries Want It.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The best authorities on silver look for a steadily improving demand for the metal for some time to come. The willingness of Japan to accept the indemnity from China in silver contributed largely to the improvement in its price. The silver smelters are said to be sold ahead for two months.

Further Rise In Coal.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company will, on Thursday next, advance the tidewater price of coal 25 to 40 cents a ton, and the company will make a corresponding increase in line prices Nov. 1. This will make the fourth advance since Sept. 23.

Death of King Menelek.

ROME, Oct. 22. — The Don Chisciotte Della Mancipa (newspaper) announces that the report that King Menelek of Abyssinia had been killed by a stroke of lightning is officially confirmed.

Coming East.

DENVER, Oct. 22.—Rev. Frank Hyatt Smith departed for Cambridge, Mass., yesterday, to meet the charges preferred against him. He is accompanied by his wife.

The new house on Billings street owned by George V. Bryant is nearing completion and will be a very pretty addition to the street.

The young ladies of the First Presbyterian church give a concert, Wednesday evening, Oct. 23, at 7.30 o'clock. Admission 15 cents.

Mrs. Micheal Meany of Centre street accidentally fell down stairs at her home Sunday, fracturing her skull. She was taken to the City Hospital.

Copeland street between Brewer's corner and Crescent street is sadly in need of repairs, as the street is full of deep holes and rocks, so much so as to make it dangerous for light carriages.

The auction sale of real estate, horses and household goods of Mrs. C. E. Feltis was largely attended Monday. The house and land was sold to Daniel Desmond of Quincy, at $3,700.

One of the coaches attached to the Plymouth train leaving Braintree at 7.45 jumped the track near the bridge north of that station this morning, and all inbound trains were delayed for an hour.

Rev. J. H. Yeoman will close his labors at the Memorial Congregational church on Sunday. Many regrets are expressed in Atlantic over the loss of their pastor and his wife who have been here seven years.

Mr. Morrison, the English Golf player, who came over early in the summer to give instructions to members of the Bar Harbor club, will be at the Wollaston Golf Club grounds today and on Wednesday afternoons to give pointers to the members on playing.

The sale by Auctioneer Crane tomorrow at 3 P. M., of the Otis Allen estate on Willard street, West Quincy, offers an opportunity to secure a homestead or an investment. The lot has a frontage of 100 feet. Fifty dollars cash at sale; other terms made known at sale.

George H. Wilson has had a wonderful garden on Bigelow street the past season, containing many novelties. His latest crop was a half bushel of peanuts probably the first ever raised in Quincy. In addition to a full line of staple vegetables, he had some delicious banana melons.

Rev. J. H. Whitaker of Boston occupied the pulpit at the Memorial Congregational church Sunday morning and gave a very interesting sermon on "Courage" choosing as his text Joshua 1:9. The congregation was quite large as many people who have been away for the summer have returned.

WATER DISCUSSION.

Reopened by the City Council Last Evening.

The Order to Enter Metropolitan System Advanced a Stage.

Two More Schoolhouse Orders Defeated by Committee Reports.

Rather a lengthy session of the City Council was held Monday evening, considerable time being taken in discussing the proposition to enter the Metropolitan Water District.

Communications.

The Mayor forwarded a petition from the residents of Squantum that night police be continued at that place. To Committee on Police.

The Mayor in a communication recommended the transfer of $250 from the unexpended balance from sale of Hose 4 house, to the appropriation for fire alarm. To Committee on Finance.

A communication was received from the Board of Health with the approval of the Mayor, that it would require $100 additional to continue the collection of garbage and asked for authority to expend $100 from unexpended balances of their department. To Committee on Finance.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing John H. Rooney, deputy inspector at Ward Four, Precinct 1, to fill vacancy.

The Commissioner of Public Works in reply to the request of the Council that he furnish a list of employes in his department who had taken the civil service examination, stated that he had one foreman, and he was exempt by reason of being a veteran. Placed on file.

City Solicitor Blackmur in reply to a request from the Council that he furnish his opinion if it was in accordance with the City Charter that a member of the Water Board should serve and draw salary as superintendent, stated that there was nothing in the City Charter to prohibit such action. Placed on file.

The City Auditor asked for instructions in relation to payment of the following bills: Fire department for water supply, July 1. to Dec. 31, 1893, $10; Sept. 1, to Dec. 31, 1892, $19.19; July 1, to Dec. 31, 1894, $10; R. J. Barry, 1893, $9.57; Boynton & Rusell, 1894, $8.91. To Committee on Finance.

Petitions.

Several applications were received for minor licenses which were referred to the Committee on Licenses.

Councilman Bigelow presented a petition for an electric light on the corner of Franklin street and Franklin place. To executive department.

Report of Committees.

The Committee on License reported leave to withdraw on the petition of Chamberlain and Mason for a license for a merry-go-round. Adopted.

The Committee on Finance reported ought not to pass on the order appropriating $200 for repairs on Washington and Coddington school buildings and that the matter be referred to the executive.

Councilman Adams stated that the committee thought this a small matter and should first come from the School board.

Councilman Shackley stated that the School Committee called the attention of the Council to these buildings and the Committee on Public Buildings who investigated reported this order. He hoped the work would be done.

Councilman Nickerson hoped the work would be done. It is a matter of health of the children and teachers that this should be attended to.

Councilman Adams said the Committee on Finance thought we ought to follow the best business like course.

Councilman Johnson hoped order would pass. It was a polite way to kill the order by sending it to the executive for it will stay there.

Councilman Sprague hoped order would pass.

Councilman Bryant said the Council appropriated every year a sum of money for repairs of buildings. The School Board have the money to do this work with. All they have got to do is to bring the matter before the Commissioners of Public Works. He did not see why $200 should be appropriated for something the city already has money for.

Councilman Sprague said these improvement had been needed for 15 years.

Councilman Pinkham said the Commissioner of Public Works may have this money but he does not hold it at the call of the School Board. He thought Council should pass this order.

Councilman Shackley said when repairs are made on school buildings the Commissioner had charge of them and approves the bills; when on furniture the superintendent of schools approves.

Councilman Bryant thought it would be a good idea to have the chairman of the School Board here that Council might find out what was needed. He moved that the matter be laid on the table and the chairman of the School Board be requested to be present at the next meeting.

AT THE BAZAAR.

The Knights of Columbus Provide the Best Entertainment Yet.

Last night was the banner night of the St. John's bazaar, and the large number present were augmented by a delegation from Quincy Council, No. 96, Knights of Columbus, who were under the espionage of John W. McAnarney, Esq. The entertainment was the best yet provided and pleased the guests immensely.

The first number was a solo by Miss Ella McKenna of Somerville, with piano accompaniment by Miss Eva Mischler. On an encore the young lady gave a comic recitation.

The "Confidential Clerk," a one-act comedy, was presented with Messrs. John Phelan, Richard Gray, George Cahill, William Donovan and John Gill in the cast. Squire Hobson Dobbs (Mr. John Phelan) is in quest of an amanuensis, and experiences the hardships and annoyances incidental to a selection from the crude rustics, chapples and "lost opportunities" who seek the place.

His valet, Mr. Richard Gray, is ever alert to the interests of his master, and the order to show a persistent applicant the door is answered with a rich "yis, sur"; and a forcible taking hold of the obdurate objectionable, sometimes with no small harm to himself.

Admiring friends presented Richard with a handsome bouquet during the performance.

The last number was a piano duet by Misses Annie and Lizzie Walsh.

The roast dinner with fixin's, given by L. M. Pratt & Co., was awarded to Mrs. John A. Avery.

Tonight is Hibernian night and Division 5 will have full sway. "My Neighbor's Wife" will be played this evening.

Tomorrow evening Prof. Clare will entertain the audience with his sleight-of-hand tricks.

Appeal Not Sustained.

MR. EDITOR: I think it is in very bad taste to ventilate church troubles in newspapers, and I certainly would not write this communication except to correct a misrepresentation that appeared in your issue of Saturday. Some one through ignorance of what was done at the recent meeting of the Synod of New York, or, which is more likely, for the purpose of misleading the public, furnished you with an item on Rev. William Steele's appeal, which gives a very incorrect view of what took place. The facts are these:

The action of the Presbytery against Mr. Steele was unanimously sustained. His appeal was unanimously rejected except as to one item—the extent of the punishment. In view of his withdrawal of his Complaint against Presbytery and his petition for investigation and his positive promise to withdraw his suit in the civil court for five or six months' salary, after he had ceased to be pastor of the Quincy church, the Synod removed his suspension for the balance of the time it was to hold. If any one disputes the correctness of this statement I will procure a certified copy of the decision of the Synod and its publication will show that I have given the exact result. E. M. MCPHERSON, of the Prosecuting Com.

Y. M. C. A. Glee Club.

One of the new attractions at the Young Men's Christian Association this year will be a Glee club. The managers have secured the services of Mr A. J. Sidelinger, instructor of music in the Weymouth public schools, to train the voices. The club will not only be profitable to the members, but also a source of enjoyment to all who join. If sufficient progress is made the club will be able to assist in many entertainments in the city. It is hoped that a double quartette may result from the Glee club. Candidates for the club are invited to meet the instructor this evening from 7 to 7.30 in the Association rooms.

Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

The large shade trees around the two ponds in the Mount Wollaston cemetery have been cut down, making quite a change in the general appearance. The lots which the city receive pay for keeping in good order have been strewn with compost, which will make the grass look bright and green another season. The flowers in this beautiful cemetery have nearly all succumbed to the cold weatheror have been removed.

BAY STATE'S LOSS.

Ex-Governor Ames Dies Suddenly at His North Easton Home.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—A dispatch from North Easton announces the death at his summer home of ex-Governor Ames. Heart disease was the immediate cause of death.

Oliver Ames was born in Easton, Feb. 4, 1831. He passed the usual public school course of his native town, and prepared for college in the academies at North Attleboro and Leicester. His college course—a special one—was taken at Brown university, Providence.

OLIVER AMES.

He began business life as an employe in the shovel works of Oliver Ames & Sons. He afterward went on the road as traveling agent for the firm, of which he soon became an active partner.

While engaged in the never ceasing round of cares that are incident to the carrying on of immense manufacturing establishments, Oliver Ames always found time in which to serve his fellow citizens, in public matters, whether state, county, municipal or social.

He was 12 years a member of the Easton school board; two years in the state senate (1880 and 1881); four years lieutenant governor (1883 to 1886), and governor of the commonwealth three years, 1887, 1888 and 1889.

Governor Ames served in the Massachusetts volunteer militia as second lieutenant, adjutant, major and lieutenant colonel. He was for many years president and director of various railroad, manufacturing and mining corporations and banking institutions. He was actively connected with a number of benevolent societies and had a membership in many social and political clubs.

Ex-Governor Ames was married in Nantucket, March 14, 1860, to Anna Coffin, daughter of Obed and Anna W. Ray, and adopted daughter of William Hadwen of Nantucket. Of this union were six children: William Hadwen, Evelyn, Anna Lee, Susan Evelyn, Lillian and Oakes Ames.

Ex-Governor Ames' summer residence was at North Easton. In winter he resided in Boston, dispensing royal hospitality at his palatial residence on Commonwealth avenue.

Strike Not General.

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Oct. 22.—So far as can be learned, there was not a mine idle in either the Clearfield or Beech Creek regions yesterday, except those at Glen Richey and three or four in this vicinity, at which the men suspended work in order to attend the mass meeting at this place. The men voted against suspension at this time, but resolved to make another effort for an advance at an early date.

Street Murder at Dallas.

DALLAS, Oct. 22.—Dr. J. J. Ray was shot and almost instantly killed last evening by Marion Hardcastle. The tragedy took place on Main street in the presence of a crowd of people. Hardcastle was arrested and lodged in jail. The only statement he would make was: "Ray has been my family physician for six years, and domestic affairs was the cause of the killing."

A Naval Promotion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Secretary Herbert has issued an order detaching Rear Admiral Kirkland from the command of the European station and assigning to that command Rear Admiral Selfridge. Admiral Kirkland is at present on the San Francisco, en route from Gibraltar to Algiers.

Split Is Complete.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The efforts of the harmony committee to bring about an understanding have failed completely, and it is given out that both the Tammany Hall followers and the State Democracy adherents will go it alone so far as the municipal ticket is concerned this year.

Off For Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—A special train bearing the presidental party left Washington for Atlanta at 11:10 o'clock last night. There was a large crowd at the station to witness the departure, and it required the services of a number of special officers to preserve order.

As Spencer Sees It.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Herbert Spencer has a long letter in The Times today on the Canadian copyright queston, in the course of which he indicates that the multiplication of the center of production prevents the writing of many books which would otherwise be written.

End Drawing Near.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The defense in the Durrant trial practically closed yesterday. Although much important evidence for the prosecution is yet to be submitted, the case will probably go to the jury at the close of next week.

Figuring Rather Early.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Active preparations are in progress to care for one or more of the national political conventions in case Chicago is selected. A large force of men are at work on the big structure to be known as the Coliseum.

Flurry In Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—Cotton futures dropped 42 points yesterday, and great excitement prevailed. Emmett & Puech, cotton brokers, gave notice of their inability to meet their obligations.

Steam Pipe Burst.

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 22.—A large steam pipe burst in the American Wire Nail company's works here yesterday, and eight men were seriously injured. One will probably die.

Moraes Has His Way.

BUENOS AYRES, Oct. 22.—The Brazilian senate has approved the first reading of the restricted amnesty bill of the house.

TOOL THIEVES.

Their Depredations Causing Alarm Among the Stone Cutters.

From all appearances an organized gang of stone tool thieves are now at work in Quincy and have been for some weeks past, and thus far they have been successful in eluding all efforts of the police to apprehend them.

Scarcely a day passes but some workman finds that during the preceding night some of his bush hammers have been taken. These breaks have been reported from time to time in the LEDGER and has served in many cases to put the men on their guard.

Saturday night, with one exception, all of the men at Johnson's yards on Penn street, placed their tools in the office for safe keeping, Monday morning the one who did not do so, found to his sorrow that his box had been broken open and six hammers taken. As a result he has been unable to do any work since for want of tools.

The sheds of Cavanagh Bros. near by were also entered and four bush hammers taken.

Other places that have suffered in this manner of late are, Fegan & Ballou, McGilvary & Jones, Manet Granite Co., Spargo & Co. and Quincy Quarry Co. The total number of hammers stolen from these places being in the vicinity of 43 and aggregate in value over $250.

In every case the loss of hammers falls upon the workmen who can ill afford the loss.

What makes the matter still more burdensome is that if the police are successful in finding any of the stolen hammers in the shops of Boston pawnbrokers the poor workman is obliged to reimburse the pawnbroker the amount that has been advanced on them before he can recover his property, unless he wants to go into court about it, which in the end would make an additional cost.

The Quincy police are at work upon these burglaries and are in hopes of soon bringing the guilty parties to justice.

Opening of the Bible School.

The school for synthetic Bible study opened very auspiciously Monday evening, nearly one hundred persons already being enrolled. The ladies' class, which met in the Congregational chapel, was much larger than the men's class, which met in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Nearly every part of the city was represented, and the prospects for a great revival of Bible study in the city is very good.

Both classes begin with Genesis. The synthetic study not only includes the study of the Bible as a whole, but also each individual book as a whole and as seen on its relation to the others. The plan of study is so simple that any faithful student can, in a few months' time, master the facts of the English Bible from Genesis to Revelations.

The Bible is the only text book used. Five rules are laid down: First, read the book, or as much of it as is given for the lesson. Second, read it continuously, i. e. at one sitting. Third, read it repeatedly. Fourth, read it independently, i. e. not referring to any helps, but reading the Bible only. Fifth, read prayerfully. By thus repeatedly reading a book the mind unconsciously takes in the facts and when the student comes into the class and places an outline upon the board the mind is able to at once grasp it and carry the facts.

Mrs. Grey, the instructor of the Women's class is not only a very thorough Bible student but has a very winning personality which enables her to hold her pupils.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

200 GAIN PER YEAR.

Quincy Must Build a Schoolhouse Every Other Year.

The first monthly report of the public school since the summer vacation is made today, and with it is a comparison of totals for the preceding months of 1895 and with September of 1893 and 1894. Whether we compare the whole number or the daily attendance the increase per year seems to be about 200. As four or five rooms are needed to accommodate this increase it will be seen that after the present pressure is removed, the city must build an eight or ten room schoolhouse every other year. The school department is anxiously waiting for the pressure to be removed.

The average daily attendance is over 800 at the Willard and considerably over 400 at the Lincoln. At the others with one exception it is over 300.

—The Norfolk County Republicans are to force a contest this year in the election of Sheriff, having put in nomination Deputy Sheriff Abram C. Paul. The principle governing this action does not appear to be a very lofty one—a Republican wants the office, and a Republican ought to have it, whether the service is benefited or not. The conditions of three years ago, when the convention refrained from making any nomination in opposition to Sheriff Endicott, have not materially changed. The only objection raised against Sheriff Endicott is that although he takes no active part in politics, he votes the Democratic ticket. Had the office of Sheriff any political significance whatever, or were there any reasonable ground for criticising the present incumbent, there might be some sense in making this shrievalty contest; but Sheriff Endicott has performed his duties faithfully and well. He enjoys the confidence of law-abiding citizens, and he ought to be retained in office.—Brookline Chronicle.

WATER DISCUSSION.

The motion was declared lost.
Councilman Bryant doubted the vote.
The motion prevailed by a vote of 15 to 7.

New Streets.

The Council went through the formality of a public hearing at eight o'clock on the acceptance of Butler road and Bennington street. No one appeared however, and the matter was recommitted to the Committee on Streets.

Licenses.

Upon reports of Committee on Licenses, Henry L. Kincaide was granted an auctioneer's license, and George W. Rhines a license for job wagon.

Metropolitan Water.

The Committee on Water Supply reported that the order ought to pass requesting the Mayor to petition to have Quincy included in the Metropolitan Water district.

Councilman Rice of the committee said it was a question, whether we should enlarge our present source of supply or enter the Metropolitan district. It was pretty clear that supply should be increased immediately. Committee believed the Metropolitan plan the only feasible one.

Councilman Bigelow thought a matter of this kind should emanate from a petition of the people. He was willing the Mayor should be requested to appear before the Metropolitan commissioners and ascertain on what terms Quincy could enter. Already the commission had contracted for work to cost 50 to 60 million dollars. We have heard nothing officially from the Water Commissioners as to shortage of water. Water would go to waste this winter as last winter by flowing over dam unless something was done. When the Mayor reported, the matter of entering should be referred to the voters.

Councilman Adams said the Metropolitan system included a reservoir on Third hill to cost $80,000, and this would be connected with Chestnut Hill reservoir by a large conduit. From 1888 to 1902 our payments would amount to $58,700 and thereafter about $23,000 annually. The estimate was pretty definite and all that was needed. We had reports on the cost of the Blue Hill river supply and when interest was included it would cost $400,000 more than the Metropolitan supply. We had no plans for enlargement of present source. Further, the water now furnished is unfit to drink. The conduit to Quincy would cost $150,000 to $180,000 and if this comes as an addition later instead of a part of the original system, it will cost Quincy more. Now is the time to go in.

Councilman Pinkham said it would not be necessary to wait three years for a supply if we vote now to go in, as Boston would have a surplus for three years. It would take some time to obtain Blue Hill supply, and it would require special act of Legislature.

Councilman Rice said if Quincy does not enter it would cost a large sum to get a supply for next year.

Commissioner Pattee had the assurance of Mr. Stearns of Metropolitan board that Quincy if in that district, could obtain water from Boston next year.

Councilman Bryant thought the advocates of Metropolitan water were over anxious and that they withheld facts. It has been said there is no feasible plan for enlargement, but experts tell us a second dam, which would increase our supply one-third, would cost but $75,000. It was not reasonable to say that Quincy would have to pay all the cost of the conduit from Chestnut hill, the Third hill reservoir, etc. It would cost no more to enter later than now, It was strange those who were strenuous for the purchase of Quincy water were now condemning it. We haven't had to buy any water and he didn't believe we should have to next year. We had had the driest season on record and water enough. It would cost Quincy over a million dollars to enter Metropolitan system and it would be a burden. Nothing gained by entering now. We would not be overtaxed if we entered later. He wanted facts.

Councilman Adams said the approval of the State board would be necessary before we could increase supply. To enlarge we must have more of a pumping plant, etc. Quincy must have more water within two years.

Councilman Johnson agreed that we wanted facts. There was undue haste on sewerage. Should take time on water. The recent visit to the reservoir was a mere farce. Did not think we would suffer for water if there was no Metropolitan district.

Councilman Rice thought people had been well enlightened on sewer act.

Councilman Adams thought it reasonable to argue that a larger number of gallons of water would be needed each year. The act had been before us months, and there had been time enough to get informed.

Councilman Nickerson argued in favor of entering. He did not want to patch up things any longer.

Councilman Geary also advocated entering.

Councilman Pinkham said Committee on Finance and Water Supply had favored another standpipe and it was needed. He was thankful we bought works when we did and had them partly paid for.

Councilman Bryant said he had voted for standpipe and Houghs Neck extension upon the representation of one of the Water Commissioners that there was an abundant supply, but within five weeks another commissioner appeared and said an additional supply was needed. There was a gross waste of water in Quincy, hose running all night, etc. The Commissioners should give us facts.

Councilman Nickerson wanted to hear from Commissioner Pattee.

Mr. Pattee said it was not the duty of the Water Board to pass upon the adequacy, sufficiency or amount of the water supply. That was the duty of the Council. The Commissioners had made certain suggestions; they could go no further. The City Book gave the facts concerning supply. There was absolute need of increase in water supply. When nine feet below overflow was not fit for domestic purposes. Would become poorer and poorer each year.

Councilman Bigelow asked if the Council had been notified in writing of the condition.

Commissioner Pattee said attention had been called in spring that supply would run low.

Councilman Bigelow would not oppose Metropolitan system, but we had no facts. He asked if we could get water from Weymouth.

Commissioner Pattee—Didn't know.

Councilman Bigelow—From Boston.

Commissioner Pattee—Didn't believe we could as Metropolitan board controlled.

Councilman Bigelow said Metropolitan board had already let contracts for fifty-five million dollars.

Commissioner Pattee, in reply to Councilman Bryant, said the Water Commissioners, not being under salary, could not be expected to spend much time compiling figures.

Whereupon Councilman Bryant asked Mayor Hodges if he would use the contingent fund and employ someone. The Mayor said if there was money enough it could probably be done, but did not understand just what was wanted.

After further tilts between Messrs. Nickerson, Adams, Bryant and Pattee, the order took its second reading and was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Quincy School Heating.

The Committee on Finance reported ought not to pass upon order appropriating $2,900 for heating and ventilating apparatus for the Quincy school.

Councilman Rinn asked if any of the committee had visited the school.

Councilman Adams replied no. The committee considered the matter in its broadest sense. This matter should originate with the School Board and it is not for us to act until they come to us, and as they had called our attention to other buildings that needed attention, the matter should be considered in its broadest sense.

Councilman Rinn hoped the Council would give the children a chance to exist while they were studying their lessons.

Councilman Nickerson said the Committee on Public Buildings had reported favorably on the order. We must make a beginning somewhere and why not make it at Atlantic. He hoped order would pass.

Councilman Rice asked who was to decide what system should be adopted. We should adopt one general scheme for all the buildings and he did not think it should be left with the Commissioner of Public Works to decide.

Councilman Bryant asked if the School Board had approved the plans.

Councilman Rinn replied that the School Board would approve of any plans approved by the State board.

The report of the committee was accepted by a vote of 11 to 10, and the order killed.

Councilman Bigelow moved when the Council adjourn it be until next Monday evening.

Calendar.

The order granting a location to the Electric Light & Power Co. to erect poles on Bigelow street, Warren and Grand View avenues was under suspension of the rules passed to be ordained.

Councilman Bigelow, who had evidently been dreaming asked Councilman Bryant how it was that his committee reported an order for lights in one case and that the matter be referred to the executive in another. The difference between the two orders was explained to him.

Adams Street Order Killed.

Councilman Rice had the Adams street order taken from the table.

Councilman Jonhson would like a little information. When the amount was reduced from $4000 to $2000 it was stated that the balance would be supplied by the Commissioner. But now he has no money, and the $2000 is not enough. The citizens have seen all they want of money expended on the streets just before election.

The order was then killed by the following vote.

YEAS—Adams, Bryant, Dixon, Geary, Lamb, Nickerson, O'Brien, Phillips, Rice, Russell, Sprague,—11.

NAYS—Barker, Bigelow, Grindell, Hayden, Johnson, Parker, Pinkham, Rinn, Sidelinger, Spear—10.

Adjourned at 10.20.

Councilman Bigelow gets light and says: I accept the gentleman's apology.

CONVENTION OF 1880

And the Active Parts Played by Garfield, Blaine and Sherman.

Latter Was Practically Sure of the Nomination.

Blaine Could Have Had It but For Shortcomings of Ohio Delegates.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—So much newspaper discussion has arisen during the past few days over the portion of the text of Senator Sherman's reference, in his memoirs, to the Republican national convention of 1880, which nominated James A. Garfield for the presidency, that the following detailed extract concerning the event is given out:

During the month of April, delegates were selected from the different congressional districts of the state of Ohio to attend the state convention, to meet on the 28th of that month. Prior to the convention, the question of the nomination was the subject of discussion in every district. The sentiment in my favor was clearly expressed in nearly every county or district of the state. On April 8, I wrote the following letter to a friend:

McKinley is still in Ohio, and I presume will be there for some days. I have today written to him at Canton, covering the points you name. You had better write to him yourself, giving the list of appointments desired. There is a strong feeling that Garfield, in order to save his district, should go to the Chicago convention as a delegate. He is placed in a very awkward position now. If this district should be against my nomination, it would be attributed to either want of influence on his part, or, what is worse, a want of sincerity in my support. In view of the past, this would be a very unfortunate thing for him. This is a delicate matter for me to take any part in, and I leave it entirely to your good judgment and kind friendship.

Laying Their Plans.

While in Ohio I had a consultation at Columbus with Governor Foster, ex-Governor Dennison and a number of other personal friends, all of whom expressed great confidence that by the time the state convention met, the friendly feeling in favor of Blaine in some of the districts of Ohio would be waived in deference to the apparent wishes of the great majority. In that event, in case my nomination should prove impracticable, the whole delegation could be very easily changed to Mr. Blaine.

Prior to the state convention, I had an interview with General Garfield, and he expressed his earnest desire to secure my nomination and his wish to be a delegate-at-large, so that he might aid me effectively. He had been chosen United States senator to fill the place of Thurman, whose term expired March 4, 1881. I had not a doubt of the support of Governor Foster. I was permitted practically to name the four delegates-at-large, and had implicit confidence that these delegates would take the lead in my behalf.

The state Republican convention of Ohio, which met on April 28, proceeded at once to the business before them. The persons named by the convention as delegates-at-large to the national convention, to assemble in Chicago, June 2, were William Dennison, James A. Garfield, Charles Foster and Warner M. Bateman, who were instructed for me.

The trend of public sentiment indicated that Grant and Blaine would each have a very strong following in the national convention, but that the contest between them might lead to my nomination. After the state convention, it was generally assumed that I would receive the united vote of the delegation, in conformity with the expression of opinion by the convention. During this period a few leading men, whose names I do not care to mention, made a combination of those unfriendly to me, and agreed to disregard the preference

Declared by the State Convention.

During the month of May the feeling in my favor increased. At this time I was in constant communication with General Garfield, as we were both in Washington. On May 10 he wrote me:

I think it will be a mistake for us to assume a division in the Ohio delegation. We should meet and act as though we were of one mind until those delegates who are hostile to you refuse to act with us, and if we fail to win them over, the separation will be their act, not ours.

The national convention met at Chicago June 2, 1880. It was called to order by Senator Cameron, and a temporary organization, with Senator Hoar as president, was soon perfected. Four days were occupied in perfecting the permanent organization and the nomination of candidates for president. During this time a minority of nine of the delegation from Ohio announced their decision to vote for Blaine. This was a fatal move for Blaine, and undoubtedly led to his defeat.

Nearly four-fifths of the delegation were in favor of my nomination, in pursuance of the expressed wishes of the Ohio state convention, but they were all friendly to Blaine, and whenever it should have become apparent that my nomination was impracticable, the whole delegation could easily have been carried for him without a division, and thus have secured the nomination. The action of these nine delegates, who refused to carry out the wishes of the state convention, prevented the possibility of the vote of Ohio being cast for Mr. Blaine.

Long before the convention I had declared in a published interview that "Blaine is a splendid man, able and eminently fit for president. If nominated, he will find no one giving him a heartier support than myself."

Were Close Friends.

We were connected by early ties of association and kinship, and had been and were then warm friends. Blaine, when confident of the nomination, said:

To no living man does the American people owe a deeper debt of gratitude than to John Sherman for giving them resumption with all its blessings. As secretary of the treasury he has been the success of the age. He is as eminently fit for president as any man in America, and should he be nominated all I am capable of doing will be done to aid in his election. Should it be my fortune to become president, or should it fall to the lot of any Republican, no one elected could afford to do less than invite Secretary Sherman to remain where he is.

The folly of a few men made co-operation impracticable. I received opposition in Ohio from his pretended friends, and he, therefore, lost the Ohio delegation, which, but for this defection, would have made his nomination sure had I failed to receive it.

Mr. Sherman publishes in his book correspondence with ex-Governor Charles Foster, Garfield and other Ohio men. This correspondence, he seems to think, indicates that Garfield was not exactly fair and honorable in things political at the time of the Chicago convention.

CONSIDERED A FAILURE.

Pennsylvania Miners' Strike Promises to Be of Short Duration.

DUBOIS, Pa., Oct. 22.—The threatened strike in this part of the coal region has been a complete failure. Less than one-third of the miners called out quit work yesterday, and those who struck are in consequence ready to return as speedily as possible. The indications are that every mine will be working before the end of the week. Great destitution prevails here. A carload of potatoes was received from Williamsport Saturday and distributed among the sufferers.

What Turkey Will Do.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 22.—An official communication, embodying the Armenian reforms, is carefully worded, to show that the reforms are in perfect harmony with the existing laws, so as to avoid exciting the Turks. In addition to the reforms already approved by the sultan, the inhabitants will be protected by troops when they visit the mountain pastures, and they will thus be able to obey the law, which provides that they are not to carry arms. The nomadic tribes will be settled upon lands which will be granted to them by the government, the Hamidieh cavalry will be subjected to special regulations and four officials will be sent yearly from Constantinople to inquire into abuses of the new administration.

Clipper Ship Missing.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Captain Clague and crew of 32 sailed from New York on the ship Barcraig, 180 days ago, with 1,200,000 gallons of oil for Shanghai, and the owners, agents, insurance people and relatives of the seamen are in doubt and anxiety as to her safety. The Barcraig was a steel ship, built in 1890, and was in all respects a seaworthy and an up-to-date full-rigged ship. She has not been sighted or spoken since she passed Sandy Hook April 25 ....st.

High Masons Meet.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Every member of the mother supreme council of the world, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Free Masonry, 27 in number, was in attendance at the biennial session which commenced here at noon yesterday to continue through the week. The right of deputies to communicate degrees and the collection of fees for the supreme council are the principal subjects of discussion.

And the Presents Go Back.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A package containing jewelry, intended as a wedding present to the Duke of Marlborough and his bride-elect, was received by steamer on Saturday and held for duty. The value of the presents was about $250. Mr. Fraser, the British consul, yesterday secured permission to return the glittering baubles to the senders in Europe, as the duke did not care to pay the duty thereon.

Both Afraid ?

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 22.—The fight was declared off by the Florida Athletic club at a conference yesterday between the managers of Corbett and Fitzsimmons. The club asked that the contest be postponed until Nov. 11. Brady acquiesced, but Julian would not. The contest was then declared off.

Madden Outclassed.

MASPETH, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The long-looked-for Barry-Madden 20-round bout came off here last night. Barry, holder of the bantamweight championship of America, was the favorite in the betting. In the fourth round Barry was given the decision, having things all his own way.

The D'Aulbys In America.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Among the passengers on the steamer Mohawk, from London, were Count and Countess D'Aulby, returning from their honeymoon trip to the former's home in France. The Countess D'Aulby was Miss Francesca Lunt of Boston and was married in March last.

Dunraven Will Explain.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Lord Dunraven yesterday accepted an invitation to attend a banquet at Cardiff. He promised on that occasion to make a statement of the America cup races which would throw an entirely new light upon the event.

Another Postponement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The trial of Dr. Orlando Bradford, which was postponed last week until yesterday on the plea that the defendant was sick, was again deferred upon the same representation. Dr. Bradford is accused of counterfeiting.

Tit For Tat.

ROME, Oct. 22.—As an outcome of the King of Portugal's postponing his promised visit to Rome, on account of the pope's opposition, it is reported that Italy has suspended diplomatic relations with Portugal.

A Disciple of Blackstone.

—A subject that is just now occupying the public thought, is the reduction of the legal rate of interest in this state. There is nothing which more affects the welfare of the laboring man struggling for a home than this, and when it is seen that money is easily obtained by municipal corporations as low as 2 1-2 to 3 per cent. and even less, and that others must pay from 5 to 12 per cent., especially on personal loans, it would seem that the disproportion was much too large. We note that the attention of legislators is being drawn to the matter, and undoubtedly action will be taken by the Legislature the coming winter.—Worcester West Chronicle.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

PREACHER'S DAUGHTER

Named as Corespondent In the Colt Divorce Scandal.

Van Alen Fears Mortification of Public Arrest.

Second Time His Name Has Been Prominently Before the Public.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Theodora Colt, mother of Colonel Colt, says that the corespondent in Mrs. Colt's libel for divorce is Mrs. L. B. Becker, the divorced wife of a prominent banker of New York. But although she admitted that Mrs. Becker was the corespondent, Mrs. Colt said:

"I have known Mrs. Becker very well, and we were in New York together not long ago, and I know her too intimately to believe any such stories as have been circulated regarding her relations with Colonel Colt."

Mrs. Becker is 26 years old, and the daughter of a minister. Up to a month ago she was registered at a hotel in Warren, and is at the present time in Vermont. A year ago this summer she boarded at Bristol, and it was at this time that her name was connected with that of Colonel Colt.

It was stated here that Mr. Van Alen went to Shelburne to obtain the advice of Dr. Seward Webb, who is connected by marriage with Mr. Van Alen, whose wife was one of the Astor family. Colonel Colt is on terms of intimacy with both the Vanderbilts and the Astors, and it is believed here that these two families will endeavor to bring about a settlement.

VAN ALEN LAYS LOW.

Incidents In His Past Life Recalled by His Present Troubles.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 23.—J. J. Van Alen did not arrive here last night by any of the transportation lines. It is reported that he fears he will be taken unawares upon arrival by the law officers at the depot and thus be put to the disadvantage and mortification of a public arrest, hence he desires to steal quietly to his villa and have the papers served there. The fact that the writ is one of arrest instead of summons is the alleged ground for this.

For 47 years of his life James J. Van Alen was as little known to the world at large as any man could be who had $10,000,000 or $12,000,000 and was a society man. It was when President Cleveland named him as ambassador to Italy, on Sept. 20, 1893, that attention was turned toward him, and everyone wondered why he should be given so important a post. It transpired that Mr. Van Alen had contributed $50,000 to the Democratic campaign fund, and that he was ambitious to be American minister to Italy.

Violent opposition to Van Alen's appointment followed revelations which the New York World published. Horace White and Richard W. Gilder, friends of Van Alen and President Cleveland, then started a subscription to pay back to Van Alen his $50,000 contribution.

A close scrutiny into Van Alen's life showed no fitness for the office. He is a son of the late General Van Alen of New York city, who made a large fortune in real estate and who left $4,000,000 to James J. Van Alen. The young man was educated at Oxford and he spent many years of his life abroad. He had a home there, and was more or less prominent in hunting.

He built a magnificent Tudor house on Ochre Point, Newport, which he called Wakehurst. For 15 years he never spent a winter in this country. Until 1892 his name never appeared upon the voting lists at Newport. Twenty years ago he married the eldest daughter of the late William Astor. She died six years afterward. He has three children, who are being educated abroad.

The senate confirmed his appointment Oct. 20, 1893, but so earnest and universal had the popular resentment become that on Nov. 20 Mr. Van Alen sent his declination to the president.

Mr. Van Alen bears a very strong resemblance to the Prince of Wales. By many he has been styled the American Prince of Wales. He is rather tall, has a stout figure, has light brown hair, beard and mustache. He follows English fashions in everything.

Patriotism the Keynote.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—"Patriotism," "Fraternity" and "Good Citizenship" were the themes which aroused enthusiasm in Music hall last night on the occasion of the banquet of the state council of the Knights of Columbus. Over 600 members of the order sat down to the banquet. Dr. H. H. Lyons presided, and presented as toastmaster J. E. Burke. The toasts of the evening were responded to by Thomas H. Cummings, Joseph H. O'Neil, Thomas J. Gargan, Colonel H. A. Thomas, representing Governor Greenhalge; Mayor E. U. Curtis, Rev. W. H. O'Connell, D D., J. E. Hayes and John R. Murphy. All the speeches were of a patriotic character, and during the evening "America," "The Star Spangled Banner" and other songs were sung by the audience. Most of the speakers denounced race and religious prejudices.

A Peaceful End.

NORTH EASTON, Mass., Oct. 23.—When the news of the death of ex-Governor Oliver Ames became known here, flags were placed at half-mast. Dr. Coggswell said that from the time ex-Governor Ames came here from Boston, June 12, he continued to improve, until Oct. 2, when his daughter was thrown from her carriage. This gave Mr. Ames a severe shock, and he began to fail. On the evening of Oct. 10 he had an attack of angina pectoris, which lasted for two hours. Soon after that he developed symptoms of uraemic poisoning, and since then grew worse. Last Saturday it became apparent that the end was not far off. Mr. Ames was conscious until within a short time of his death. The funeral will be held at the Church of the Unity on Friday. The services will be of a very simple character.

Two Riders Injured.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 23.—Two serious accidents occurred in the running race at the Riding park yesterday. The horses were coming down the stretch when Razzle Dazzle fell. In regaining his feet he was struck by Billy Crane, both horses going to the ground. Billy Crane's neck was broken, and Razzle Dazzle had his hip and several ribs broken. George W. Nash, a 13-year-old, who rode Billy Crane, was badly bruised. His injuries will not prove fatal. Frank McQuillan, rider of Razzle Dazzle, was not seriously hurt. In the third heat Spite crowded Sir James to the fence and the latter fell, as did also Spite. Sir James' foreleg was broken and he was shot. His rider, James Carey, was badly shaken up. The other horse and rider escaped injury.

Inspecting Trolley Systems.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—The city of Boston had as guests yesterday William M. Murphy, William Carte, John R. Wigham and William Anderson, directors of the Dublin United Tramway company of Ireland, who are here for the purpose of inspecting workings of the West End Electric railway. The party has already visited several large cities, and they have gathered considerable information.

Gubernatorial Plums.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 23.—At a meeting of the governor and council yesterday the following nominations were made: T. J. Walker, to be bank commissioner; H. E. Lovering, police commissioner, and board at Manchester; I. A. Watson and C. L. Collins, Nashua, members of the board of health; E. A. Hibbard of Laconia, J. A. Spalding of Nashua, trustees of the insane asylum.

Dastardly Work.

ROYALSTON, Mass., Oct. 23.—There was a husking at Charles Harrington's home Monday evening, and while he was in the barn some one shot at him from the outside. The ball passed through his hat and lodged in a beam. That night he slept with a friend, and at midnight some one hurled an iron bar through the window. The bar struck on his bed, but he was not injured.

Will Try the Hub.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 23.—Hiram O. Mansur, 60 years old, a farmer, living just outside of Nashua, N. H., was in this city yesterday looking for his young wife who deserted him over a month ago, after selling some of his property and collecting $50 in money. He claims he has searched for her all over New England. He left for Boston last night.

Ship Officers Arrested.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 23.—Captain Pendleton and Chief Mate Parse of the ship W. H. Conners were arrested last night on charges brought by the steward of the Conners. Captain Pendleton hints about an attempted mutiny, and says that he made no assault on the steward beyond what was necessary to preserve discipline on his ship.

An Uneventful Trip.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—The old United States frigate Minnesota, to be used by the Massachusetts naval reserves as a training ship, anchored in the upper harbor last evening. During the passage around from New York, 40 men from the brigade performed the duties of the crew. No incident of note occurred during the trip.

Abortionist Punished.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—"Dr." Jacob W. Brown was sentenced to seven years in state prison yesterday. Brown was convicted on a charge of criminal malpractice in performing an operation on Maud L. Farrell in the South End, Aug. 3, from the effect of which, and chloral taken in consequence, she died.

Nobody Hurt.

PALMER, Mass., Oct. 23.—A "modoc" passenger train on the Boston and Albany railroad met a freight in the Blanchardville cut. A large piece of machinery on the freight fell between the two trains, damaging four passenger cars. The train was not derailed, and no one was injured.

Growing In Strength.

John Atkins of Clive street has returned from his vacation.

Badger Bros. sheds were entered Tuesday night and five bush hammers taken.

W. G. Cook & Co., will have a car load of potatoes at the Quincy depot on Friday.

Mr. George Newcomb of Springfield has moved his family back to Quincy, his old home.

The steamer Pilgrim which is hauled up at Quincy Point has been housed over for the winter.

William Phipps, whose parents were Quincy people, died in Roxbury Monday, aged 62 years.

The summer cottagers of Squantum have in large numbers returned to their city homes for the winter.

Fred Peirce of Norfolk Downs has moved to Boston temporarily, in order to devote more time to his studies.

Quincy Bay has almost lost its summer activity now, as many of the larger yachts have been hauled out for the winter.

One of our reporters counted eighty-two persons fishing for smelts off the railroad bridge in Neponset river on Tuesday.

Just at this season of the year the coal men are busy and a line of teams is constantly passing along Washington street.

The young ladies of the First Presbyterian church give a concert, Wednesday evening, Oct. 23, at 7.30 o'clock. Admission 15 cents.

Arthur W. Stetson, D. G. S., attended the 25th anniversary of King David encampment I. O. O. F., of Fitchburg, Tuesday evening.

The Edmund R. Pope estate in Squantum was sold at auction Saturday by Joseph T. French, by order of the Probate Court. The first 11 acres brought $1930 and the two marsh lots $440.

W. L. Ripley is to move his cycle manufactory to Quincy Point, where he is to occupy the lower floor of Graham's shop on Washington street. He will manufacture bicycles and bicycle fittings.

St. Francis Court 25, M. C. O. F., held a rousing meeting Tuesday evening. After the business of the evening had been transacted a collation was served, being followed by a smoke talk. Addresses were made by Dr. John H. Ash and others.

Among those who are in Washington attending the 16th Unitarian conference are Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Butler, Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Porter, Mrs. J. W. Sanborn, Mrs. C. A. Spear, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Hall, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. G. H. Field and Mrs. Keys.

Nicholas Glidden of Holyoke, employed at Brown's night lunch, was seized with an epiliptic fit in front of the Court room building Tuesday afternoon, and in falling he struck his head on the curbing. He was taken into the City Square auction rooms where he was attended by Dr. J. H. Gilbert. He recovered in about two hours.

—Work has begun on the extension of the Norfolk Suburban street railway from Mattapan to Milton Lower Mills. When extended to Neponset there will be a good connection between Quincy and Dedham.

CALICO PARTY.

The Loyal Ladies Initiate a Candidate and Then Entertain.

One of the most successful parties that the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor, No. 1, has yet had, was held in Doble's hall on Tuesday evening. It took the form of a calico party, a form that allowed ample scope for that ingenuity in costume and variety in taste for which ladies' societies are particularly adapted.

Previous to the admission of the gentlemen, a business meeting of the society was held and one candidate initiated to membership, bringing the total number in the order up to nearly 140 members, a most creditable showing for the comparatively short time it has been in existence.

The public proceedings commenced with a grand march led by Mr. and Mrs. Pratt, in which about fifty couples took part, the hall not being uncomfortably crowded.

The dresses worn by the ladies were specially tasteful and pleasing to the eye, and corresponded very harmoniously with the semi-public nature of the occasion.

At intervals during the evening songs were rendered by Mr. John Daley and Mr. Allie Hall, whilst the ever mirth-provoking reading of "Watty and Meg" was well given by Mr. Robert Findlay.

Towards midnight these exercises were momentarily suspended, and a bountiful collation served by the committee to guests and members, after which dancing was resumed and kept up with spirit until two o'clock in the morning.

The whole proceedings were under the most efficient direction of the president of the order, Mrs. Maggie Smith, who was ably assisted by a corps of aids.

The only gentleman whose services were required was Mr. John Wood, who upheld the dignity of his sex with becoming modesty as door keeper, amidst the otherwise exclusively female workers.

The music was furnished by the Merry Mount orchestra, Mr. William Wilson being pianist and prompter.

A Crowd at Bazar.

Each succeeding night at the bazar seems to bring a larger number of patrons, and Tuesday night the hall was crowded to suffocation. The society had as special guests Rev. F. A. Friguglietti, Rev. John P. Cuffe, Mr. Charles F. Adams, 2d, Mr. Frederic A. Tupper, head master of the High school, and Dr. Joseph M. Sheahan.

The following took part in "My Neighbors Wife:" Miss Jennie Walsh, Miss Nellie Connelly, Miss Julia Duffy, Thomas F. Hogan, James Cantfill, Edward McGinty, Messrs. Mahoney and Murphy gave a good Irish gig.

The announcement that Galen V. Bowditch was to sing probably drew a large number, who were most liberal in their applause on his appearance. He rendered "The Star Spangled Banner" finely, and demonstrated that he still retains some of his former power.

Several awards were made during the evening, and a list has been furnished the LEDGER but there is a law against publishing such lists.

Bowling at Wollaston.

Teams C and D of the Wollaston Bowling club bowled on the Duck's Nest alleys on Tuesday evening. C did up D in approved style—1,791 to 1,566. Emery was high bowler on single and total strings. Messrs. Edmund F. Taylor and Harry M. Fairbanks were umpires. The score :

$40,000 for Eight Rooms.

Brockton believes in brick schoolhouses. An order was introduced in the aldermen Monday evening for an appropriation of $40,000 for the erection of an eight-room brick schoolhouse on the corner of Highland and Lexington streets, and the order was passed, all the aldermen voting for it except Alderman Greeley, who thought $35,000 enough.

A $20,000 Monument.

The city government of New London, Conn., accepted Tuesday the offer of Sebastian D. Lawrence to erect, at a cost of $20,000 and without expense to the city, a soldiers' and sailors' monument on State street, between Bank and Bradley and the railroad station. The work will be completed early in the spring.

What use is there in eating when food does you no good—in fact, when it does you more harm than good, for such is the case if it is not digested.

If you have a loathing for food there is no use in forcing it down, for it will not be digested. You must restore the digestive organs to their natural strength and cause the food to be digested, when an appetite will come and with it a relish for food.

The tired, languid feeling will give place to vigor and energy, then you will put flesh on your bones and become strong. The Shaker Digestive Cordial, as made by the Mount Lebanon Shakers, contains food already digested and is a digester of food as well. Its action is prompt and its effects permanent.

Sheriff Endicott.

The communications to the county press recently, from leading Republicans like Hon. E. C. Monk of Stoughton, and Mr. Alfred Hewins of Dedham advocating the re-election of Sheriff Endicott have caused considerable comment, and awakened a desire on the part of some of our readers to learn more of the particulars regarding the movement being made to displace the present sheriff.

Mr. Endicott, although a Democrat, was appointed to the office by Gov. Robinson and since that time has been endorsed by both political parties, with the exception of six years ago, when the Republicans nominated Mr. J. Walter Bradlee of Milton who was badly defeated at the polls. This year the Republicans have nominated Mr. Abram C. Paul of Stoughton. As we understand it, Mr. Paul makes a contest for the office on the grounds of the advanced age of Mr. Endicott, and that the county so strongly Republican should no longer be represented by a Democrat.

No charge is made that the present occupant of the position, has not honestly, ably and impartially filled the office.

Mr. Endicott is seventy-seven years of age, and unquestionably as able to fill the office as he ever was, both mentally and physically.

Many of the leading county papers claim that the shrievalty should not be allowed to mix with politics, and that so long as a man ably fills the position, he should not be displaced. The question is one that should receive serious thought from every voter.—Sharon Enterprise.

Girls Fight Over Coal.

People who live on Sumner street were treated Tuesday afternoon to a minature Corbett-Fitzsimmon prize fight the participants being Mary Ellen Flynn and Lizzie Sullivan. The trouble is said to have arisen over some coal which had fallen into the street from a passing coal wagon. The Sullivan girl was armed with a bread pan, while the Flynn girl depended upon her fists. Hard words were used first and then the two came to blows. One round only was necessary to settle the fight, the Sullivan girl being driven to the fence, from which she made her escape and ran home. The affair was aired in court this morning.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas E. Bramley of Holbrook was arraigned for breaking and entering the house of Martin Bramley. Case continued two weeks.

The liquors seized from John J. Gagon of Weymouth were forfeited.

Mary Ellen Flynn was arraigned for assault on Lizzie Sullivan at Quincy. Case continued until Nov. 6.

New Magazines.

The opening article in the October number of the New England Magazine is on "Boston Light and the Brewsters," by R. C. F. Candage, a most interesting history and description of the famous light and group of islands at the entrance of Boston harbor. The article is beautifully illustrated, and will be read with eagerness, not only by Boston people, but by all those who go down to the sea in ships. Another Boston article of importance to everybody in this day of rapid transit problems is that by Mr. Frank Foxcroft on "The Boston Subway and Others.

PRESIDENT'S DAY.

Nation's Chief Executive Receives a Warm Welcome From Southerners.

ATLANTA, Oct. 23.—For the present at least the seat of the government of the United States may be said to have been transferred to Atlanta, for the city harbors the president, the vice president and six members of his cabinet, not to mention Governors Coffin of Connecticut, O'Ferrall of Virginia, Stone of Mississippi, and a long list of other dignitaries of officialdom.

At 4:15 yesterday afternoon the president's special rolled into the Union depot. Ten thousand people had assembled in the vicinity of the station. The roofs, windows, awnings, telegraph poles and every point of vantage in the neighborhood had been utilized by eager onlookers. The special was stopped outside the depot, however, the party disembarked and the drive to the Hotel Aragon begun before the expectant thousands realized that the visitors had reached the city.

Nevertheless, as the president's carriage, drawn by four white horses, dashed around the corner of the station, the crowd recognized the president, and a mighty cheer went up, which grew and developed into a roar as the line of carriages sped rapidly through the mass of enthusiastic humanity. Mr. Cleveland bowed in response to the continuous ovation he received all the way to his hotel. Secretary Carlisle, who, with Mrs. Carlisle, rode in the second carriage, was cheered frequently, and Secretary of the Interior Smith was given a hearty reception.

At the Aragon the party was made comfortable until 8:30 p. m. At that hour the ladies were escorted to the Grand Opera house, where they were the guests of Mrs. Hoke Smith at a box party to see Rice's "1492."

At 9 p. m. the president and his cabinet officers sat down to a banquet given by Mayor King. Covers were laid for 80.

The city is crowded with visitors. This morning at 11 o'clock the president was driven to the exposition grounds, where he reviewed the military, delivered a brief address, held a public reception and made a tour of the buildings.

Utah's Political Wrangle.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 23. — At the Democratic state convention last night the committee on address presented a very lengthy report, the larger part of which was a review of the religion and politics of the people of Utah. It notes that for many years there complete union of church and state, and gives an account of the struggle between the Mormon and Liberal parties. The history of the parties during the past three years, with the relation of the church to the state, is brought up to the time of recent priesthood meeting. While no charge is made against the church itself, an open charge is made that some individuals in the Mormon church are using church influence to further their cause of the Republican party, and that such influence resulted in the election of a Republican ticket at the last election.

The Unitarians.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The feature of yesterday afternoon's session of the Unitarian council was an address by Rev John Cuckson of Boston. He discussed the position of the church in general, as related to the vast multitudes of men and women dwelling in the great centers of population. He pictures the outlook as not encouraging, and held that there is growing up in every social grade a disregard and indifference to church ordinances. He discussed at length the growing religious discontent, and said it was due largely to arrested spiritual development in the home, where religion had ceased to be a subject of domestic culture.

Work Among the Lowly.

DETROIT, Oct. 23. — The 29th annual meeting of the American Missionary association, which is devoted primarily to mission work among the negroes, Indians and Chinese in America, opened its four days session here yesterday in the First Congregational church. The proceedings included the report of the treasurer and of the executive committee, the appointment of committees and a concert of prayer.

After Fitz's Money.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Judge Beach yesterday signed an order directing Philip J Dwyer to turn over to the sheriff of Kings county $3500 stake money belonging to Robert Fitzsimmons. The stake was attached some time ago by Joseph H Tooker on a bill for printing incurred by Fitzsimmons.

Outlaws In Conflict.

WHITESBURG, Ky., Oct. 23.—Andy Jack, a young mountain outlaw, was shot in the head and mortally wounded by James Hale, another outlaw, as the result of a drunken brawl. Another man was shot in the melee from ambush by unknown parties. Neither of the men can survive

Oil Works Burned.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The works of the Crescent Linseed Oil company on Goose Island were wholly destroyed by fire last night. Loss, $175,000. Falling walls crushed a cottage. None of the inmates was hurt.

GREENLEAF PARK.

The Finest Residential Section in Quincy,

And the home of many of Quincy's most prominent citizens.

This property—a part of the old Butler estate—is in close proximity to the new High School, the Adams Academy, the Woodward Academy for girls, a few steps from the electric cars on Hancock street, and within a few minutes' walk of the depot and Quincy Centre.

It embraces the land lying between Greenleaf street, one of the best streets in Quincy, and the new Merry Mount Park. The improvements are nearly all made, and some of the finest residences in the city are located here.

PRICES are very reasonable, ranging from 10 to 15 cents per foot and some good small lots at even lower prices.

TERMS can be made satisfactory if desired.

REASONABLE RESTRICTIONS as to the character and location of buildings have been established, and with the prospect in the near future of a new R. R. station at President's Bridge, close to the property, lots are sure to advance rapidly in value during the next few years.

REMEMBER there is no other land in Quincy so well located at such reasonable prices. Call at our office in Quincy for plans, prices and particulars, and take a look at some of the lots on Merry Mount and Butler Roads, Greenleaf, Hudson and Putnam streets. They are certain to please you if you are prospecting for a home site.

Rev. Mr. Steele Again.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Permit me an explanation of E. M. McPherson's letter in your issue of yesterday. My counsel and myself understand this matter differently from your correspondent. The undeniable facts are: Last Thursday evening at 7 o'clock my appeal came before a commission of 18 representative men of the synod of New York. Parties on both sides were heard E. M. McPherson was reproved by two members of the commission for using abusive language instead of fair argument. Court adjourned at 11 P. M. to meet at 9 A. M. Friday morning. Members voluntarily came to me and said they had sustained the appeal against the sentence and appointed a committee to modify the same.

After meeting for a time Friday morning, the parties were called in. We were told that the above was their decision, but before they finally closed the case they deemed it best to call us in. One member spoke as desiring the matter forever settled, and to obtain this, wished all papers withdrawn, also civil suit. One of my counsel said suit might be withdrawn if expenses were paid. This was offset, because if such agreement were made a big bill might be presented. My counsel and myself were then allowed to retire to consult on this matter. We did so, returned, and gave answer.

Afterwards as our main point was gained I withdrew a complaint and petition at the suggestion of members of the court. All papers withdrawn were withdrawn at the request of the court, and no offer to do so was hinted at by myself or counsel. What did we appeal against? The decision of Boston presbytery suspending me for four months on 11th September last. What did the synod remove? The decision of Boston presbytery.

This plain logic might not suit, however, people who don't know when they are beaten. E. M. McPherson has been opposing me all through this business because very much involved in it. His son is attorney for the Presbyterian church trustees in the civil suit. It is apparently a McPherson & Co. business.

In spite of the supposed honorable agreement I received a letter yesterday morning from his son saying, "the defendant will require its costs." We sincerely sympathize with this concern since its vision of glory has been dimmed and its prospects of money are far removed.

Thanking you for your space.

REV. W. STEELE.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The City Campaign Follows Close Upon the State Election.

The State election will take place Nov. 5, a week from next Tuesday, and the same week, probably, it will be necessary to place in nomination, particularly in Ward One where the Australian ballot will again be used by the Republicans, candidates for Ward Councilmen, delegates to Mayoralty convention, and ward committees. All certificates of nominations must be filed November 20, the second Wednesday preceding election.

But two names are mentioned among Democrats, Hon. William A. Hodges, the present Mayor, and Councilman C. F. Adams. It is generally thought that the former can have the nomination if he wants it, but it is possible that there may be a contest if he does not withdraw.

Among Republicans the same names are mentioned as last year, with the addition of Representative Chas. L. Hammond who completes this year a three years' service in the House and is not a candidate for reelection. It is the first time for many years that a Quincy man has served for three years, and this fact together with his well-known ability to get votes leads his friends to urge strenuously his nomination for the Mayoralty. At the last State election he had but five less votes than Governor Greenhalge. As a candidate for Councilman at large and Representative he has always been handsomely elected.

But there seems no good reason to many why Stephen O. Moxon should not be renominated. He made an excellent run last year, reducing the Democratic majority of 361 in 1893 to 28. The little ward of Atlantic, which is often Democratic, gave Mr. Moxon a majority of 117 and promises to change enough votes to elect their man this year if the other wards will stand by. Mr. Moxon's executive ability has been demonstrated the past year in the successful management of the Atlantic Fourth of July celebration and the Quincy Hospital festival, and his experience in city affairs makes him an available candidate. In favor of his renomination his friends point to the fact that Mr. Hodges was defeated several times before he was elected.

City Auditor Hall and President Bass of the City Council complete the list of prominent candidates, but ex-Senator Merrill, ex-Representative Graham, and Charles A. Howland are suggested.

When John O. Hall seconded so heartily at the last Mayoralty convention, the nomination of Mr. Moxon, many said he ought to be the next candidate. No more able a gentleman could be elected as executive of our city. The finances are the most important matter in our government, and no one in the city is better posted on the needs in this department than City Auditor Hall, who has filled the position since the inauguration of our city government. Mr. Hall is sound on all questions of good government, a taxpayer and representative citizen, and would honor the position.

Genial Mr. Bass is as popular as ever. In fact it is said he never makes enemies, and his reelections as Councilman and to the office of President seem to prove it. His record is all right, and he would poll a big vote.

Now some say Representative Flint is an A. P. A. because his name was mentioned in the Standard. Mr. Flint's record in the House for two years speaks better than rumors.

In complimenting District-Attorney Harris with a double nomination and a clear field the citizens of Norfolk and Plymouth county of both political parties, Democrats and Republicans alike, show to the State that in this section real merit is appreciated and rewarded. Mr. Harris feels justly pleased, but he won the esteem of the people by conscientious work and has a right to feel proud at the way they have shown their appreciation. His action in the railroad riot case won him supporters in both parties.—Brockton Enterprise.

Speaking on woman's suffrage at Greenfield Tuesday evening Dr. Everett said: "Woman has always occupied here in Massachusetts an honorable position. We are all glad that it is so. She controls us at birth, through life and even more at our funerals. Let me ask the voters here, before voting on this question of women suffrage, consult the woman you respect most in the world on this question. If she advises you to vote 'Yes,' do so, but I believe 99 out of every 100 self-respecting women will tell you to vote 'No.'"

The Republican club held their dinner and grand rally tonight at Music hall.

Michael J. Murray who was prominent in the last Congressional campaign, is the Republican candidate for senator in the sixth Suffolk district.

The Independent association of Ward Two organized Tuesday evening with 31 members. James Moran called the meeting to order and William Keenan was elected chairman. The meeting which was a very harmonious one elected these officers: President, William Keenan, Secretary, M. J. Ford, Treasurer, H. J. McGillicuddy.

The total consumption of cotton in the world is 12,000,000 bales a year. Of this amount 9,000,000 are produced in the United States and 3,000,000 bales, one-fourth of the worlds consumption—is produced in Texas.

A TRIFLING SUBJECT

Gave England the Opportunity to Start the Venezuelan Row.

It Has No Resemblance to the Corinto Affair.

Question as to Jurisdiction Over Yuruan the Main Point at Issue.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Some of the latest reports from London cause comment and criticism among diplomatic circles here. One of these statements attributes to Ambassador Bayard the declaration that the Yuruan incident is independent of the boundary question, and that the United States can take no part in the former incident. It is pointed out here that the two questions are inseparably connected. The Yuruan incident is based on a claim that the Venezuelans arrested Sergeant Beherns of the British constabulary on British soil, and that this indignity must be repaired. The Venezuelans claim that it occurred on Venezuelan soil.

The gravity of the case depends on ownership of the territory where the trouble took place. It is, therefore, considered to involve the entire territorial question, although it is a specific incident arising in the disputed territory. In Venezuela's answer to the first demand for reparation on this incident, Minister Rojas said that the reparation was refused because it would be a surrender of all the claims Venezuela ever had made.

As it becomes more and more evident that the British government is disposed to make it appear that the Yuruan incident is parallel to the Corinto affair, and may, therefore, be without leading to the intervention of the United States, officials here are pointing out essential points of difference in the two incidents, and Mr. Bayard will doubtless be instructed to emphasize these in his further representations on the subject to the British foreign office.

Treated In the Same Fashion

In the first case Great Britain demanded and obtained an indemnity from Nicaragua on the ground that her national honor had been outraged by the summary expulsion of her representative, although the latter was only a humble consular agent. The United States consented to stand aloof on this occasion on the theory that a nation had a right to redress an insult.

But in the Yuruan affair it cannot be maintained for an instant that the British government has a right to demand redress for the arrest of its officials, unless it shall be first established that they were within British territory, and thus the whole issue is raised as a preliminary.

If these British officers were in British territory, then Venezuela must apologize and make any other reasonable reparation, but before she can rightfully be expected to do this, that fact must be shown, and nothing but an agreement, amicable or enforced, upon the exact location of the boundary line can settle this point.

Therefore, the attempt to shift the issue, involving as it does a prejudgment of the rights of Great Britain to territory claimed by Venezuela, is not likely to secure the countenance of our state department.

DAMAGING TESTIMONY.

Dr. Graham Tells of Conversation Between Himself and Durrant.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—At the opening of court yesterday, the defense in the trial of Theodore Durrant announced that it had finished its case, and the taking of testimony in rebuttal was at one begun by the prosecution. The testimony was the most important given during the trial, as it conflicted with several vital statements made by Durrant while he was on the stand.

The testimony of Dr. G. F. Graham, for instance, is considered by many to sweep away Durrant's entire defense. Graham, who is a medical student and an intimate friend of Durrant, told of a sensational interview that took place between himself and the prisoner at the county jail on April 20. Dr. Graham said that Durrant asked him if he would let him see his notes of Dr. Cheney's lecture, in order that he might compare them with his own.

Graham demurred at first, after which he said Durrant stated frankly to him that he had no notes of the lecture. He said Durrant told him if he had the notes of the lecture he could easily establish a strong alibi for himself, and urged him to leave the notes with Mrs. Durrant in order that she might bring them to him at the prison. Dr. Graham said he refused the request, and never afterward visited Durrant at the prison.

Dr. Graham's story was not shaken in any particular on cross-examination. While he was testifying, Durrant gave no sign to indicate that he considered the testimony of any importance. Dr. Graham will be recalled for further cross-examination.

Windward In Port.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Steam yacht Windward, which conveyed the Jackson-Harmsworth polar expedition to Franz Josef Land, and which arrived at Bergen on Oct. 16, arrived here yesterday. The documents she brought from Explorer Jackson, who was left at Franz Josef Land, are still sealed up in one of the cabins. After repairing and embarking coal, provisions, etc., the Windward will return to Franz Josef Land in order to bring the explorers home. The Windward had a perilous voyage home, battling with the ice for 65 days, and being reduced to such an extremity for fuel that she was compelled to burn all the woodwork on board of her which could be spared, and portions of her masts, spars and bulwarks, as well as the between decks, were consumed in the furnaces.

For the Seventeenth Term.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23.—Miss Frances E. Willard was elected president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union for the 17th consecutive time. Miss Willard was visibly affected and thanked the convention for the great honor it had shown her. Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens of Maine was elected vice president-at-large. Katherine Lent Stevenson of Massachusetts was declared the choice of the convention for corresponding secretary. Miss Clara C. Hoffman of Missouri was elected recording secretary. Mrs. Helen M. Barker was elected treasurer.

Second Stroke.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Ex-Senator Van Wyck of Nebraska, who is temporarily in the city, accompanied by his wife and daughter, suffered a stroke of paralysis Monday. Since then he has been unable to speak or recognize those about him. As this is the second stroke suffered by the ex-senator, and owing to his advanced age, 70 years, his physicians hold out but little hope for his recovery.

Big Audiences.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The followers of Tammany Hall held a grand ratification meeting in the wigwam last night. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the platform adopted at the Syracuse convention and the principles of Tammany Hall. Overflow meetings were held in the basement of the wigwam and in the open street in front of the building.

Weak Revenue Laws.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 23.—In the case of the prosecution of a smuggler yesterday, his lawyer made out such an exhibition of weakness in the law that it is expected the case will be dismissed. The government is withholding other warrants until this case is settled, because the failure to convict in this instance will upset all calculations.

Preacher Turns Murderer.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 23.—Last Sunday Charles Clemens accompanied the daughter of Rev. George Mills to church. Mills took his daughter away from Clemens. When he met the latter on the highway yesterday he shot and killed Clemens. Mills was arrested.

Mrs. Bent's Case.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Lizzie Bent of Lynn was arraigned yesterday on an indictment alleging baby farming, nine counts, also for polygamy. She pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $5000 on the baby farming charge and $300 in the other case.

Looking Toward Formosa.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 23.—It is learned that Japan has decided to evacuate Korea in order to avoid complications and in order to enable the government to concentrate its energies upon the subjugation of Formosa.

IN DESPAIR.

A PEN PICTURE.

Many Women Will Recognize It.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

"Oh, I am so nervous! No one ever suffered as I do! There isn't a well inch in my whole body! I honestly think my lungs are diseased, my chest pains me so; but I've no cough. I'm so weak at my stomach, and have indigestion horribly. Then I have palpitation, and my heart hurts me. How I am losing flesh! and this headache nearly kills me; and the backache—Heavens! I had hysterics yesterday. There is a weight in the lower part of my bowels, bearing down all the time; and there are pains in my groins and thighs. I can't sleep, walk, or sit. I'm diseased all over. The doctor? Oh! he tells me to keep quiet. Such mockery!

Inflammatory and ulcerative conditions at the neck of the womb can produce all the above symptoms in the same person. In fact, there is hardly a part of the body that can escape those sympathetic pains and aches.

No woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is positively no need of it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound acts promptly and thoroughly in such cases; strengthens the muscles of the womb, heals all inflammation, and restores that unruly organ to its normal condition. Druggists are selling carloads of it. Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., will gladly and freely answer all letters asking for advice.

Mrs. E. Bishop, 787 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, N.Y., suffered all the above described horrors. Now she is well. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured her. Write her about it.

SUNDAYS AND HOLIDAYS.

☞ On Sundays on the Weymouth route cars will leave East Weymouth at quarter past and quarter of the hour.

☞ Special trips can be arranged on application to the Superintendent.

☞ At Quincy Centre close connection is made with Electric Cars on all the routes.

☞ At Neponset close connection is made with West End Street Cars to and from Boston.

☞ Cars are due at Beale street, Wollaston, ten minutes after leaving Neponset and seven minutes after leaving Quincy

BENJ. J. WEEKS, Superintendent.

☞ Observant people say that a selfish mother makes unselfish children. If a mother puts her own wants and needs in the background the children will grow up to believe that they must always be first and they will become the exacting wives and husbands who will not remember the bears and forbears that are essential to family happiness.

THE ROSE CHALLENGE.

Provisions Governing the Contest Given Out by Cup Committee.

Time Is Cut Down by Half an Hour.

Postponements of Visiting Vessels Persist in Crowding the Course.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The proposed conditions for the international races next summer between the yacht Distant Shore and the American boat for the America's cup, which were mailed to Percy Thellusson, through whom Charles D. Rose, the owner of the Distant Shore, has challenged, read as follows:

"We have the honor to inform you of the acceptance by the New York Yacht club of the challenge from the Royal Victoria Yacht club sent by you, in the name of Charles D. Rose. In compliance with your request, we submit the following proposals for the conditions of the match, and at the same time we hope you will feel quite at liberty to make any suggestions, which we will be very glad to consider."

The letter states that the match is to be decided by the best three out of five races; the starting line and compass bearings to be announced as early as possible; in every case the course from the starting to be laid to windward, if possible from Sandy Hook lightship. The courses shall be 30 nautical miles in length. The rules regarding signals are then given.

Unless changed by agreement, one day shall intervene between each racing day, not counting Sundays. An unfinished race of one kind shall be repeated until finished. In case a serious accident occurs to either vessel prior to the preparatory signal, she shall have sufficient time to effect repairs before being required to start, or if such accident occurs during a race, before being required to start in the next race.

Half an Hour Clipped Off.

If in any race neither yacht goes over the course within 5½ hours, inclusive of the time allowances, such race shall not count, and must be resailed. The challenger shall be informed at least one week before the first race what vessel is to defend the cup. The system of measurement, time of allowance and racing rules of the New York Yacht club to govern the races, except as hereinafter modified.

Each vessel shall have on board during races a representative named by her competitor. Manual power only shall be used for working the competing vessels.

The competing yachts shall be measured with all of the weights, dead and alive, on board, which they intend to carry during a race, but shall not have on board more persons, all told, during any race, than one for every two feet of racing length or fraction thereof.

There is also a provision for postponement, if, in the opinion of the regatta committee, the space around the starting line is not sufficiently clear.

The conditions are practically the same as those laid out for the Defender-Valkyrie race, and are, of course, subject to the approval and suggestions of Mr. Rose and the Royal Victoria Yacht club.

Contest to Begin In July.

The letter says, in conclusion:

"We would suggest for the date of the first race July 23, which will be 10 months from the receipt of the challenge by cable. In case, however, you desire, we will fix upon a later date.

"As you are probably aware, 90 feet is the limit of L. W. L. length for single masted vessels, and as the length named by you is so near this, we would suggest that the only restriction be that neither vessel exceed this length.

"You will observe that we have made the time limit 5½ hours, instead of 6, as in the last two contests; we have for some time past considered that the speed of modern racing yachts rendered such a thing imperative.

"We take this opportunity to express our appreciation of the spirit of the challenge and of the confidence which Mr. Rose has so courteously shown in our committee. We shall look forward to a most interesting contest, and, meanwhile, we hope that Mr. Rose will consider that any services we can render him will be a great pleasure to us."

The letter stating the conditions is signed by ex-Commodore James D. Smith, chairman, and A. Cass Canfield, secretary, on behalf of the America's cup committee.

New York Agents Deny It.

NEW YORK, Oct 23.—A report to the effect that a radical change was to be made by the express companies in the carrying charges between New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago, and between Chicago and points in the west, is absolutely denied by the agents of the leading companies in this city.

General Campos' Movements.

HABANA, Oct. 23.—General Campos arrived on Oct. 16 at Jucaro and left immediately for Ciego Avila. He remained there two days, leaving with 100 cavalry for an unknown destination. Some persons suppose that he has gone to Sancti Spiritus.

Sale Postponed.

TOPEKA, Oct. 23.—Judge Johnson, master in chancery of the Santa Fe, has received notice that it will be necessary to postpone the sale of the Santa Fe until December, as the necessary arrangements will not be completed before that time.

Scranton Will Return to State League.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 23.—The Scranton Baseball association last night decided to sell the Western league franchise to Fall River (Mass.) parties for $2850. Newark made a bid of $2500. Scranton will return to the State league.

Took In Capital Sights.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The New England manufacturers, on their way to the Atlanta cotton exposition, stopped over here yesterday. There were about 175 persons in the party, and they spent the time in sightseeing.

"Having been troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion, I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. After I had used three bottles I could rest well at night, and can do more work than ever before."—Mrs. H. A. Rounds, Walpole, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills.

Democratic Dissension.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 23.—Cassius M. Clay, who made the race for the nomination for governor of Kentucky with P. W. Hardin, and who was defeated in the convention by a small majority, is out in a letter, refusing to speak in behalf of Hardin. He charges Hardin with repudiating the Democratic convention's platform, and says he will not vote for him.

"Lanky" Bob's Defi.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Oct. 23.—Fitzsimmons made this statement to a reporter yesterday: "You can say for me that I now challenge the world for a $10,000 side bet and the championship in this country or any other country. Furthermore, I will meet Corbett for the $10,000 side bet, and will let the gate receipts be given to charitable institutions of New York city."

Criticism Galore.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The methods of the Women's Christian Temperance union, the church as an institution, the clergy as representing the church, and all political parties as they exist at the present time, were roundly criticised at the national conference of Christians which opened here yesterday in the Christian Federation church.

Morton For President.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The Republicans held a mass meeting last night and endorsed the platform of the Republican county committee. The principal speakers were Messrs. Lauterbach, Depew and Quigg. The latter proposed Governor Morton as the next president, which remark was greeted with great applause.

Governor Clough Fails.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 23.—Clough Bros., a lumber firm, and David M. Clough, governor of the state, filed assignments yesterday to John F. Byers. This action is a result of the assignment of N. P. Clark & Co., of which firm Clough Bros. were creditors for $82,000.

Rhode Island Capital Down East.

HALIFAX, Oct. 23.—A Rhode Island company, already interested in several Nova Scotia gold mines, is understood to have a representative in Halifax who is negotiating for the purchase of all the Nova Scotia company's mines at Montague.

Left Ohio Behind.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—Rev. C. W. Heoffer of Greenville, Republican nominee for the legislature, who was accused of soliciting $1500, in case of his election, to vote for Calvin S. Brice for United States senator, is said to have left the state.

American Goods the Best.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 23.—The Russian government has just closed a contract with the Carnegie Steel company for a large amount of their patent armor. The order is for immediate delivery.

New Steamship Line.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A new first-class steamship line between Palm Beach, Fla., and Nassau, N. P., will be put in operation in January next by the Florida East Coast railway.

An Iowa Town's Loss.

ALTA, Ia., Oct. 23.—Fourteen business blocks were destroyed by fire here yesterday. Loss, $70,000.

SAFE AT WAKEHURST.

Van Alen Evaded Those Who Were Most Anxious to See Him.

Colonel Colt Intends to Stick to His Fight.

Says His Relations With Mrs. Becker Were Absolutely Above Reproach.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 24.—James J. Van Alen returned to this city yesterday, and is now at Wakehurst. He got off at one of the suburban stations, thereby evading those looking for him. Van Alen is secure from arrest until Friday, as there is a statute prohibiting arrest in civil suits on election day, they day before or the day after, and yesterday was election day in this city.

COLONEL COLT.

Mr. Van Alen will in all probability be arrested tomorrow. That is, a certain form of the law will be gone through. The millionaire will not himself be taken into custody, but at the same time the significance of the proceeding will be the same, and Van Alen will be compelled to furnish bonds in the enormous sum of $400,000.

A Talk With Colonel Colt.

Up to date the principals in the case have been perfectly inaccessible, and reporters have tried in vain to even gain an instant's interview with them or to extort any expression of opinion.

Yesterday, however, the newspaper man succeeded in having a few moments' conversation with Colonel Colt himself, and with the wife who is now suing for a separation. But neither party was willing to say anything which would enlighten the public to any great extent in regard to their respective cases.

But Colonel Colt said enough to show that it is his intention to stick to his fight until the end. "It does not become me," he said, "to make any statements whatever in regard to this case. I have been bothered and troubled by reporters and correspondents, and would like to put the matter at rest for a time, and to that end I am willing to make

A Brief Statement.

"I am absolutely innocent of the charges which have been preferred against me, but there is no need of talking about that now; the whole thing will come out in time, I suppose, although I hate to think of it.

"My relations with Mrs. Becker were absolutely above reproach. I regret exceedingly that that lady's name has been brought into the affair. We were friends, and, of course, had a right to be such. But there was never anything more to it than an ordinary friendship. It is absolute nonsense to attach any significance to the fact that I went to theaters with her a couple of times. It was simply a matter of courtesy. I am averse to being quoted at all, and henceforth shall say nothing whatever."

Mrs. Colt was called upon. "I will say nothing whatever about the affair," she said to the reporter. "I do not desire any more publicity than has already been given to the case. I am sorry that my children should have their names mentioned."

REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES

Expounded at the Banquet of the Republican Club of Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The fifth annual dinner of the Republican club of Massachusetts in Music hall last night brought out 2000 members of the party. Over 1200 members sat down to the banquet table. Francis H. Appleton presided. In opening the exercises President Appleton congratulated the party for having renominated the old ticket, and urged the members of the party to give serious consideration to the question of woman's suffrage. He requested the party to send delegates to the national convention who would vote unitedly for the nomination of Thomas B. Reed for president.

Theodore Roosevelt declared he came to Boston to draw inspiration from the Massachusetts Republicans, and in speaking of his work in New York said: "Tammany had a meeting last night, and is reported as saying, through Perry Belmont, that 'we believe in the enforcement of the law, with discretion and intelligence,' which virtually means that they believe in enforcing law dishonestly." He gave a resume of the Fifty-first and Fifty-second congresses, with Thomas B. Reed as the principal figure, and gave a brilliant eulogy of the ability of the Maine man and his actions in congress.

Governor Greenhalge criticised his opponents for raising the cry that his administration had taken local autonomy from the cities and towns, and he explained how the various boards of commissioners he had appointed had been of benefit to the whole state.

Lieutenant Governor Wolcott reviewed the work of the Republican party in this state during the past four years, and urged the members of the club to see that the best citizens were put into office.

Congressman Smith of Michigan said the Republican party was born on the quickened conscience of the American people and had struck the shackles from 4,000,000 slaves. The Democratic party, he said, should be branded for disloyalty to the noble men who stood in the breach when this republic needed them most. "Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, are loved and revered, and I would rather have followed the leadership of the great Blaine to disaster than the greatest leader the Democratic party ever had to victory."

Gamblers "Dusted."

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 24.—Excitement at the race track was caused here yesterday by the appearance of two policemen in citizens' dress at the gate. The alarm bell was rung in the betting ring, and the bookies and other custodians of money, together with the talent, proceeded to make their exit in anything but a dignified manner. One of the proprietors of the tub-dice game was in such a hurry that he left a stack of silver behind him. A small panic prevailed for a time, but after a while the games commenced anew.

Australian Law Stands.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The Australian ballot law of 1893 was declared to be constitutional in a decision of a full bench of the superior court returned yesterday. The court says that the so-called Australian ballot act provides that the voter may vote for such persons as he pleases by leaving blank spaces on the official ballot, in which he may write or insert in any other proper manner the names of such persons.

Funeral Preparations.

NORTH EASTON, Mass., Oct. 24.—An air of mourning pervades this town as the preparations for the funeral of Oliver Ames are being made. The honorary pallbearers will be ex-Governor Robinson, Colonel N. A. Tower, Hon. G. M. Johnson, S. E. Peabody, G. O. Shattuck, Judge E. J. Sherman, Samuel Carr and Gilmer Clapp. The acting pallbearers will be men from the Ames shovel works.

The Connecticut Endeavorers.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Oct. 24.—The feature of the closing session of the state Christian Endeavor convention yesterday was the address of Rev. Dr. Clark, founder of the society, on "God's Design in Christian Endeavor." Chaplain McCabe spoke on the "Missionary Aspect of the Endeavor Work," and Rev. E. M. Poteat spoke on "The Convention and Opportunity—How to Use Them."

Dentists In Session.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 24.—The annual conventions of the New England Dental society and the Connecticut Valley Dental society were opened here yesterday. The conference committee appointed at the last meetings of the two societies reported a resolution in favor of the consolidation of the two societies into a new organization to be known as the North Eastern Dental association.

Two Men Were Killed.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Oct. 24.—At a few minutes before 10 o'clock yesterday the people of Newburyport and surrounding country were shocked by a tremendous explosion. The Fiberloid works had again burst asunder, and two lives, those of James P. H. Reed and Charles McManus, were the sacrifices. Four other men were horribly burned.

Two Long Terms.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Charles Mitchell, who was found guilty of manslaughter in causing the death of Charles Dahlberg Sept. 27, was yesterday committed to 20 years at hard labor in state prison. Frank S. McEachran was sentenced to 15 years at hard labor in the state prison for assault with intent to kill his wife, Lizzie.

Quarrel Ended Fatally.

WALDOBORO, Me., Oct. 24.—William J. Grafton died yesterday from lockjaw, the result of a wound from a pruning knife, received in a quarrel with his son William. On his deathbed he made a statement, taking the blame in the affair to himself.

Dropped Dead.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 24.—Rev. William Gordon, 87 years old, of Michigan City, Ind., who was visiting his daughter in this city, dropped dead last night while attending a prayer meeting at Grace Methodist Episcopal church.

A Vigorous Old Man.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 24.—Hon. James W. Bradbury, ex-United States senator, and who is over 93 years of age, will be the orator at the dedication of the new Lithgow library building at Augusta in December.

Mayor Boyle Re-elected.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 24.—At the municipal election, yesterday, Mayor P. J. Boyle (Dem.) was re-elected by a plurality of 344. The city council will be composed of 20 Republicans and 5 Democrats.

Woman's Progress.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 24.—A state federation of women's clubs was formed here yesterday. Last evening Mrs. Henrotin and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe spoke before 1000 interested women.

The Elliott Club, of Wollaston met with Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Corthel on Wednesday evening. The meeting was very interesting, Mr. Corthell giving a talk on "Golf" and Mr. Herbert B. Bailey on "Yachting." A general discussion on the A. P. A. movement then took place.

The young ladies of the First Presbyterian church gave a very interesting concert Wednesday evening. There was a large number present. The concert was opened by prayer by the pastor, after which the choir rendered a chorus, followed by solos, duets and quartettes by the young ladies. Miss Flora McDonald and Miss Gladys Mudgett gave readings and Mr. Peach greatly pleased the audience with horn solos. The concert was in every way a success.

Rev. A. A. Brown of Ohio has been secured to take Rev. E. W. Virgin's place at the M. E. church, West Quincy. He preached his first sermon last Sunday, from 11 Cor. 5-7: "For we walk by faith not by sight." He made a very favorable impression both morning and evening. He is about thirty-five years old, has a wife and one child. He came East to take a course of study in the Methodist University at Boston; his family will be here in a week or ten days. We are looking for brighter days for the M. E. church. Mr. Brown appears to be a live man.

PRETTY AND NOVEL.

Church Wedding and a Church Reception Last Night.

Mr. William Ray Spear and Miss Hattie Maude Fay Married.

Rev. Edward Norton Assisted by Two Other Ministers.

Quincy has had many church weddings this fall, but the Spear-Fay nuptials on Wednesday evening, at the Evangelical Congregational church, was among the prettiest, with some pleasing variations. It was a brilliant assemblage, including upwards of two hundred friends from Randolph, and several from Boston, Cambridge, Newton and Hyde Park, as well as from this city. White gowns and light silks predominated, and the church was prettily festooned with evergreen, while massive palms and bouquets of roses transformed the altar into a verdant bower.

The contracting couple were Miss Hattie Maude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Fay, of Greenleaf street, and Mr. William Ray Spear of Randolph, who holds a prominent position with F. O. Squire & Co., of Boston.

Promptly at the appointed hour the eager glances of expectant eyes were turned toward the entrance to the broad aisle, to be satisfied that the cousin of the bride, who had for a half hour made the organ to fill up the time with sweetest melody from the masters' compositions, was giving no uncertain signal, as he exquisitely rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march for the bridal procession approaching the altar to be met by the waiting clergy, Rev. E. N. Hardy, pastor of the church, Rev. Wm. N. Daland, of Westerly, R. I., and Rev. Edward Norton, pastor emeritus, and the groom accompanied by the best man, Mr. Archer W. Pratt of Randolph.

The bridal party was led by the ushers, Mr. Delcevare King of Quincy, Mr. Augustus S. Nye of Randolph, Mr. Allan White of Newton, Mr. Carrol A. Capen and Mr. Charles Alden of Randolph, and Mr. Charles H. Hardwick of Quincy. Next came the bridemaids, Miss Marie Reynolds of Boston and Miss Hattie Perkins of Quincy, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Lillian G. White of Newton Center. Then came the bride, leaning on her father's arm. She was gowned in white ivory satin, cut en train, trimmed with orange blossoms, wearing a necklace of pearls, and the conventional bridal veil, and carrying a bunch of seven bride's roses.

The maid of honor was dressed in pink satin and carried pink roses, while the bridemaids were gowned in white organdie over blue silk, trimmed with forget-me-nots, and carried bouquets of white roses.

At the approach to the altar, the groom, leaving his attendant, advanced to meet his bride, when her father, taking their hands, placed them in one anothers, saying, "Take--Keep according to God's Holy Word," when they advanced to the altar—he thus "leading his bride to the altar."

Rev. Mr. Hardy quoted appropriate scripture, following which Rev. Mr. Daland (cousin of the bride), in well chosen language and sentiment of a didactic or hortatory character, led the service up to the point where by legal proscription (because of residence out of the state) he could go no further, offered a prayer and was followed by Rev. Mr. Norton in his usual happy vein with the marriage ceremony, and the two were made one.

After the benediction by Rev. Mr. Daland, a reception was given, the happy couple being assisted by their parents and the maid of honor, lasting until half past nine o'clock, when the procession passed out, led by the young couple in happiest pride and beauty.

After a brief bridal trip, Mr. and Mrs. Spear will reside on North Main street, Randolph. The young people are happy in the high esteem of a numerous acquaintance—a fact amply evidenced by the numerous attendance and beautiful wedding gifts.

The long illness of the bride's mother prevented a home wedding, notwithstanding she has been able within the past four or five years to open her hospitable doors for the weddings of three of their nieces or nephews, and in this case entertained only the bridal party and a few of their immediate friends who were to aid in the "rice collation," as the couple started on their journey. The "Wedding Day Book" given by the bride's father, will contain beside autographs of guests, an added feature, unusual to such books of a type written copy of the stenographic report of the full marriage service.

The following music was rendered prior to the ceremony:

Overture.—"William Tell,"	Rossini
"Cantilene Nuptiale,"	Dubois
"Wedding March No. 1,"	Gounod
"Caprice,"	Guilmant
Prelude in D,	The Rev. W. C. Daland
"Reverie,"	Vieux Temps
"Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin,	Wagner

During the ceremony music from the operas of Lohengrin and Parsifal by Wagner were played softly, the organist being relieved by his reverend brother while he extended his own congratulations to the wedded pair. After which he marshaled the procession by playing Mendelssohn's wedding march.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Republicans May Adopt Australian Caucuses for the City.

As the time approaches for the holding of the city election caucuses, there is considerable talk among the Republicans as to whether it is not advisable to follow the example of Ward One and adopt the Australian system in all the wards of the city. This certainly is by far the best method, especially so this year when there seems likely to be a contest over delegates to the Mayoralty convention. The matter of adopting the Australian system all over the city has been brought to the attention of the Republican executive committee, and will be considered by them at the next meeting.

People are not surprised that the Mugwump Herald should support Dr. Everett. They admit that "one more Democrat certainly cannot injure the Republican party in the House of Representatives," but many object to throwing down such successful business men as Messrs. Flint, Newcomb and Thompson. The prosperity of the State is safer in their hands than in those of a theorist. It is honest business men that we want in our legislative halls. The Republican candidates this year are stalwart Republicans, but they are not politicians and if elected will be a credit to the district and the State.

The terms of four members of the School Committee will expire this year: Joseph M. Sheahan and Frank A. Page at large, James F. Harlow in Ward Two and Emery L. Crane in Ward Three. Mr. Page was elected to fill a vacancy.

It promises to be a triangular fight in Boston for the Democratic nomination for Mayor. Mr. Quincy having Messrs. Flood and Galvin for rivals.

The following gentlemen from Quincy attended the grand banquet of the Republican club of Massachusetts at Music hall Boston, last evening: John Shaw, Stephen O Moxon, Roger H. Wilde, Louis Rinn, George W. Prescott, Eugene H. Sprague, W. W. Sprague, Henry H. Faxon, Frank F. Prescott.

New Insurance Association.

A charter has been granted to the employes of the Tubular Rivet & Stud Co., of Wollaston, to do insurance business. It will do no business outside of the employes of the above company. It has started in with a membership of 240 and hopes soon to have the entire 400. The charter is dated Oct. 22, 1895, and gives the name of the association as "Mellen Bray's Employes' Relief Association." It will pay a sick benefit of $5 per week, not exceeding ten weeks' benefit in any one sickness, and a death benefit of 25 cents from each surviving member.

The association is officered as follows: President, A. T. Barstow; vice president, C. M. Taylor; secretary, G. C. Ela; treasurer, A. H. Taber; board of directors, E. J. Gay, T. Raiche, H. C. Corbett, J. Hey, E. M. Dunn, G. Palmer and F. P. Hill.

Death of Mrs. Mary Carey.

Mrs. Mary Carey of South street died late Wednesday afternoon at her home. Mrs. Carey had been a sufferer for years from consumption and the end had been momentarily expected for the past few days. She had a host of friends and acquaintances, whose poignant grief cannot be described at the sad news, of the taking of a good loving mother from her large family. Her husband Mr. Jeremiah Carey and ten children, eight boys and two girls, survive her. The messages of sympathy to the afflicted family testify to the sorrow of the whole community. The funeral will be held Saturday morning from St. John's church and the interment will be at West Quincy.

Epworth League.

The Epworth League of Atlantic held its semi-annual election of officers on Monday evening. The reports from the different departments for the past six months show that considerable progress has been made. The membership now numbers fifty members. The following were the officers elected for the new term:

President,—Rev. George A. Shanor.
1st Vice Pres.,—Mr. John Ramsdell.
2d " " Miss Dora Brown.
3d " " Miss Nettie Cassidy.
4th " " Mr. N. C. Pember.
Secretary,—Miss Flora E Brown.
Treasury,—Mr. Elliott L. Greene.

What Shall I Do?

Is the earnest, almost agonizing cry of weak, tired, nervous women, and crowded, overworked, struggling men. Slight difficulties, ordinary cares, household work or daily labor, magnify themselves into seemingly impassable mountains.

This is simply because the nerves are weak, the bodily organs debilitated, and they do not KEPT HIM BUSY.

Everybody in Atlanta Seemed to Want to Grasp Cleveland's Hand.

ATLANTA, Oct. 24.—Yesterday was President's day at the exposition, and the grounds were crowded. The ceremonies in connection with the occasion were held in the afternoon.

The president was greeted by an ovation which lasted for several minutes. Hats were thrown in the air and boundless enthusiasm was manifested. His speech, though short, consumed considerable time in delivery, because of the frequent interruptions of applause.

At its conclusion Mr. Cleveland held an informal reception. For five minutes he grasped the hands of American citizens at the rate of 103 a minute. In 15 minutes the president's face was covered with perspiration, and he was evidently tiring. For 33 minutes he continued to shake hands with the throng, and he then said he was fatigued, and the line was closed.

After luncheon the president began a tour of the grounds, visiting the government buildings, the main building, the negro building and inspected the exposition throughout.

The series of courtesies extended to the presidential party were concluded last night with a reception at the Capital City club, which put itself on record as the most elaborate social function ever undertaken in the south. The chief executive spent an hour or more receiving the 1500 people present. After the reception, the president and his party left for Washington.

Took His Own Life.

LONDON, Oct. 24. — The Marquis of Waterford has committed suicide with a revolver at Curraghmore. He had been in failing health, owing to an accident to his spine, while hunting years ago. Lord William Beresford says that his brother had suffered greatly from despondency. John Henry De-La-Poer Beresford, fifth Marquis of Waterford, was born in 1844, and succeeded to the title in 1866. He had been twice married, his present wife being the only daughter of the Duke of Beaufort. He was lord lieutenant of county Waterford, a knight of St. John of Jerusalem and was a member of parliament in 1865 and 1866. In 1885 and 1886 he was master of the buckhounds.

Imprisonment and Torture.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A Constantinople dispatch to The Standard says: Sinister stories are afloat regarding the vengeance wreaked on members of the young Turkish party. A leading Mussulman lawyer named Izzet (whose arrest was reported some time since) was tortured and died in Yilking prison on proof of corresponding with the party. There is another unconfirmed rumor that 50 leaders of this party were arrested on Saturday, and were summarily tried and executed on a charge of excesses during the riots.

Tillman Again.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 24.—The constitutional convention was enlivened last night by a hot war of words between Senator Tillman and Frank B. Gary, during which the lie was passed, and it was expected that the two men would come to blows immediately after adjournment, at midnight. Senator Tillman is an advocate of new counties forming, while Gary is not. The matter was finally explained to the satisfaction of all concerned, and the trouble was finally averted.

Carter's Call.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Senator Carter of Montana, chairman of the Republican national committee, last night issued the following call: "The Republican national committee is hereby called to meet at the Arlington hotel, Washington, at 2 o'clock p. m., Dec. 10, 1895, to designate a time and place for the meeting of the national convention in 1896, and to transact such other business as may demand consideration."

Burned at Sea.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Steamer Orizaba, from Habana, passed the steamer City of St. Augustine, all in flames and burned to the water's edge, at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, 18 miles from Hatteras. As the night was clear and the sea calm, it is thought the crew were picked up by some passing craft. The City of St. Augustine was bound from this port for Jacksonville.

The Miners' Strike.

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Oct. 25. — At the mass meeting of miners at Houtzdale, a majority declined to commit the meeting to a suspension, and an adjournment was taken to assemble in mass meeting at Ramey. At Altoona there is no change in the situation in the mountain mining districts, but it is announced that the Portage and Trout Run miners are to go out.

Alleged Outrages on Orphans.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 24.—The grand jury yesterday returned three indictments against Charles Oberlander for alleged crimes against the persons of inmates of the Tabor orphanage in this city, of which Oberlander's father is the superintendent. The jury recommended a thorough investigation of the management of the orphanage.

Pope Leo's End Near.

LAUSANNE, Oct. 24.—The Gazette de Lausanne says that although it is not true that the pope is dying, it is learned that his strength has rapidly declined during the last few months. His entourage is of the opinion that he will not survive the winter, and it is added that all his vitality seems to be centered in his brain.

In Behalf of the Weak.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24.—A resolution was adopted by the W. C. T. U. convention deploring the numerous outrages upon defenseless women and children, and urging that steps be taken to mould public opinion or to secure such legislation as would secure to the victim a greater degree of protection.

Wanted In England.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—United States Commissioner Shields yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of Herbert Krann for extradition to England for the alleged larceny of Canadian Pacific stock, worth £3000, from Mrs. Winifrede Gordon of London.

New Walking Record.

WABASH, Ind., Oct. 24.—A new record for 100 yards square heel and toe walk was made here by "Cowboy" Smith lowering the record from 14¾s. to 14¼s.

Rich but Uphappy.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Francis Hinton, the Milwaukee iron king, committed suicide in a hotel in this city.

Gustav Droz Dead.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Gustav Droz, the painter and author, is dead.

TWO DEBATES.

The High School Society Close One and Open Another.

Miss Lillian Pratt '97, presided Wednesday at the meeting of Q. H. S. debating society. Miss Thompson, '97, secretary offered her report.

The debate of last week on "Arbitration Versus War" was concluded: Mr. Warshaw, '96, and Mr. Wilder, '96 speaking in the affirmative and Miss Willett in the negative.

When the debate was opened to the society, Mr. Coe and Miss Rothwell continued the discussion. Mr. William Walsh, the critic, reported that he found difficulty in hearing the speakers.

The entertainment followed:

1. Recitation, Mary Joss, '97. This selection dealt with the subject of recitations in general.
2. "A Wood Fire," Miss Perry, '97.
3. Instrumental duet, Miss Burrill '97 and Miss Hayes, '97. This duet was received with applause.
4. Recitation, "My Playmate." Miss Sampson, '97.
5. Essay, Miss McGuan, '97. The subject of this composition was "The Pyramids."

The board of decision decided in favor of arbitration.

The debate for this week was on this subject:—"Resolved, That Education in the United States Ought to be More Thorough."

Affirmative: Miss Barnes, '97; Miss Barry, '97.

Negative: Miss Burrill, '97; Miss Cook, '97.

The conclusion of the debate was postponed.

TODAY'S COURT.

THE
OF FURNITURE

And its usefulness depends on how it's put together, made up and finished. There's more difference in furniture and its wearing quality than with any other class of merchandise, and people are beginning to find it out.

What the intelligent buyers want today, is something that's built for service, low in price and attractive to look at, and we make it our business to see that our patrons get it every time.

Remember there isn't a better place on earth to find goods and prices just as you'd like than at this, THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mrs. H. O. Studley and sister have gone to Middleboro, for a few days to visit their brother.

At the close of the meeting of Granite Commandery, Golden Cross, Wednesday evening, refreshments were served by the ladies and a social time was the result. They propose to keep up these surprises and the attendance will doubtless increase.

Mr. Nelson C. Hersey, who has had long experience in moving furniture, etc., wishes our readers to know that he has the necessary articles needed for moving pianos in a safe and careful manner, notwithstanding what some selfish persons may say to the contrary.

The meeting of Merrymount lodge of Good Templars this evening will be one of special interest to all present and former members of the society. After the regular meeting which will close at 8.15, a reunion meeting of present and former members will be held, the meeting taking the form of an open good of the order, which will be of first-class quality and exceptional interest.

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Charles H. Sayward were held from her late residence on Winthrop avenue, Wollaston, Wednesday noon. They were very simple. The Rev. Preston Gurney, pastor of the First Baptist society, of which the deceased was a member, conducted them, and the music was by a quartette composed of Mrs. Frank A. Page, Mrs. Edgar A. King, Mr. Charles F. Wilde and Mr. I. M. Bartlett. The floral tributes were beautiful. The body was interred at the Walnut Hill cemetery, Brookline.

SHERIFF ENDICOTT. The readers will find in our columns today a long list of distinguished lawyers who know the worth of Sheriff Endicott; and a letter from Mr. Feely showing that it was entirely unsolicited. F. W. White, a Wollaston Republican has a good word for Mr. Endicott. There is also an extract from the Weymouth Gazette, etc.

Sheriff Endicott is well liked and appreciated at home by his townspeople; who have elected him to the honorable position of President of the Dedham National Bank and also President of the Dedham Institution for Savings.

Unknown Arrested.

While R. C. Clark at work on a partially finished house at Norfolk Downs Wednesday afternoon a travelling peddler, whose nationality is unknown, stole an axe belonging to Mr. Clark from a bench in the house. Mr. Clark who is a constable promptly arrested the man and brought him to Quincy and locked him up. He was brought into court this morning and arraigned as an unknown as he could not, or would not speak a word of English or understand it. The case was continued until Saturday.

Moral—Don't Drink.

A citizen of South Quincy went to Boston Tuesday evening with $65 in his inside pocket. Arriving at "the Hub" he invested something like $30 in goods of various kinds and then headed for the Kneeland street station. Arriving in the vicinity of the depot he became thirsty and entering a neighboring bar-room he quenched his thirst in a glass of foaming lager. This was followed by others with new found friends and it was not long before he came to and found himself on Utica street minus $35 in money and a watch. The matter was reported to the police and they succeeded in recovering the watch in a pawnshop but the money never came back.

Nearly One Hundred Descendants.

Mrs. Ann Shirley, one of the oldest ladies in Quincy, died at her residence at West Quincy Wednesday evening, aged 86 years.

Mrs. Shirely was the wife of Mr. Valentine Shirley the second oldest citizen of Quincy and Mr. and Mrs. Shirley were the oldest couple in the city. She leaves beside her husband, nine children six daughters and three sons, two of the latter residing in Quincy. She also has 69 grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

An Honorable Endorsement.

HON. AUGUSTUS B. ENDICOTT, Dedham, Mass.: I have the honor and pleasure of herewith transmitting to you the endorsement of the members of the bar practicing before the Courts of Norfolk County.

Such an expression of the profound esteem in which you are held by the distinguished members of that honorable profession who have subscribed their names is a tribute of which any man may well feel proud, more especially as it comes to you as their spontaneous act without suggestion or solicitation from outside source.

May it add a bright and pleasant tint to the autumnal years of a distinguished and honorable life. Very respectfully yours

JOSEPH J. FEELY.

Boston, Mass. Oct. 23, 1895.

We the undersigned, members of the bar, and practicing before the Courts of Norfolk County, recognizing the faithful, able and impartial manner in which the Honorable Augustus B. Endicott has for many years performed the duties of Sheriff of said County, with never-failing courtesy, and fully realizing how important is such an office in the administration of the law, hereby endorse his candidacy for re-election to the high and responsible position which he now occupies. For the Ledger:

Sheriff Endicott.

Mr. Editor: The reelection of Mr. Augustus B. Endicott to his office for the ensuing term, would seem to be one, in which all good citizens in the county would gladly unite. If Civil Service Reform mean anything, it is a thoroughly business like and economic management of a public trust, and this, the present incumbent has faithfully performed beyond any criticism; no breath of suspicion or distrust has ever lodged here. Attending to his various duties with an entire freedom from political methods, his appointments of subordinates in every instance being those who have made the most competent and useful officers irrespective of party politics.

Now the continuance in office of one so thoroughly reliable and trustworthy, concerns every voter in the county in that it means a continuance of good Government and right methods of management, thereby reducing to a minimum the county expenses, and this directly appeals to the individual voter and tax payer, who is largely responsible for the expenses incurred; and so it behooves us every one to see that the county administration remains under its present good management and put aside all thought of politics and the many accompanying evils.

From a life long Republican,

FRANK W. WHITE.

—Few farmers make fruit growing pay, because they do not make it anything of a specialty. Half a dozen pear trees, each of a different kind, and none of the best kinds, set out in the field and left to take care of themselves, may produce fruit that is better than nothing at all for home use, but such a plan is very much like trying to make gilt edge butter by treating the cattle like a herd of Texas scrubs. It simply doesn't pay.

The Bazaar Closed.

Last evening was a fitting finale to the bazaar at Hancock hall, and though every one connected with the affair had been working zealously for the past week, last night the final efforts were put forth. Many handsome articles on all tables were put up at auction, and Mr. John H. Dinegan and Mr. John W. Walsh officiated as auctioneers, with Mr. Maurice Cantfill as clerk. The managers of the bazaar and Rev. F. A. Cunningham, to whose foresight the success is in a large part due, are thankful to all who did so much for the society, especially to the merchants and newspapers of the city. The bazaar has been the most successful of any held in Quincy of late years, and while no returns have been made, it is thought that a good sum will be realized.

The entertainment was more varied than usual and consisted of club swinging by Master Howard, sailors' hornpipe and Highland fling by little Miss Garland Mischler, topical song by Mr. John Phelan, and a fine exhibition by Prof. James P. Clare of sleight-of-hand tricks. Mr. John J. Keenan sang a solo with Mr. Phelan as accompanist.

The reception committee during the bazaar have been Rev. F. A. Cunningham, Miss Eliza Sheahan, Mr. Richard J. Cole, Mr. Andrew Mischler, Miss Mary Ellen Walsh, Miss Lizzie Flynn, Miss Alice G. Gavin, Miss Sadie Smith, Miss Katie Powers, Miss Annie McGinty, Miss Mary Doran.

The crowd on every evening was a very orderly one and Officer O'Brien found plenty of time in which to assist the members in other duties.

Rev. F. A. Cunningham, Andrew Mischler, Richard Cole and Miss Eliza Sheahan had full charge of the hall, and they are to be congratulated on the perfect system inaugurated and maintained.

Mr. George H. Osborne, the obliging janitor, has been very attentive and patient.

Messrs. Michael O'Hara, John J. Keenan and Murdock Morrison had charge of the ticket office.

Mr. John P. Mundy had charge of the entertainments.

THEY MAKE AN INTERESTING SHOWING AT THE ATLANTA FAIR.

The Southern Exposition Scoring a Brilliant Success—A View of the Mexicans. Colored Genius—An Inglorious Architect. Education of the Negro.

[Special Correspondence.]

ATLANTA, Oct. 21.—It is high time to give some sort of a forecast for the future of the great southern exposition, seeing that the confusion of the first weeks is done away, so that intending visitors can now rely upon the programme being strictly observed for the future and time their visit for the occasion which suits them best. Programmes, directories and the like are but dry reading, as a rule, but there is so much novelty promised for the set days of the fair that I may hope to make this one as fascinating as a patent office report. Saturday, Oct. 5, may be set as the first day on which the managers scored a really brilliant success. Almost every department was complete at last, there were 20,000 visitors in the grounds, and all delighted; the lights worked as per programme, Gilmore's band set the southerners wild with its patriotic medley, "Dixie" of course receiving the loudest applause, and the Midway was in a roar till midnight.

The national irrigation congress and the farmers' congress followed with continued daily sessions for a week, and all the women's programme was carried out to the letter. Then came the American Publishers' association, the King's Daughters, the Bankers' association, Baltimore day and the road parliament, each adding greatly to the attendance and making Atlanta for the time the liveliest city of its size on the continent. Chicago absorbed all the crowds of 1893 and showed but little change. Atlanta is now absorbed by her visitors and the aspect of her streets completely transformed. Chinamen, Mexicans, Indians, men of southern Asia and men of all the European nations crowd the streets in a delightfully interesting mixture, and everywhere among them are thousands of native colored of every shade from delicate brunette to ebony. Travelers tell me the scene is wonderfully like that on the most crowded wharves of Marseilles or Venice. And, oddly enough, many of these shaded peoples are more averse to each other than the white man is to any of them. The Chinaman looks with contempt upon the negro, and the negro is half afraid of the Mexican.

"I tell you dey don't gee," said an old colored man. "Dem Mexicans an onah folks don't gee, and my ohil'un jest run when dey see a Mexican comin down de street. Look how dey done sarved dem cul'd folks what went to Mexico. Mighty nigh starved 'em to deff, and give 'em de smallpox a purpose!" It is too true that the negroes just back from the unfortunate colony in Mexico are a distressed lot, lean, ashy looking and pockmarked, but as to who is to blame for it there is great room for difference. One little mistake has been made. Georgia and the south in general have carefully avoided making a display of unique native products, such as the "cracker" team of ox and mule, the queer old plows and hoes, rope lines and "shuck collars," and those are the very things visitors from the north want to see. The plantation "quarters" on the Midway, with its black old "mammies," its cake walks, songs, dances and banjo music, is a big show in itself; a plain old Georgia "razorback" hog in the Georgia building—"no breed at all, sah, just plain hog"—has excited no end of discussion, and a common Florida "cooter" in that state's building is always surrounded by a crowd. To the rural Georgian the Mexican village is the great attraction, as it shows him a people far more backward in common things than his own class, and when one of these lanky mountaineers gazes on the burro with its big pannier baskets I can see in his eye a glow of pride that he lives in a Christian country where transportation is done in mud wagons.

A Creole Kitchen.

One distinctively southern institution, however, calls for the highest praise, and that is the creole kitchen, which is a part of the woman's exhibit. It is the finest and best that Louisiana can furnish, and in it one feels as if in the nicest section of French New Orleans. The building is of logs daubed with clay to represent the best class of negro homes, but inside the style is creole, Moorish and Acadian all in one. The drapery is from the women of the Acadian colony in Louisiana, a colony whose history has been the theme of so much poetry and romance, and the material has lately been much sought for adornments. The waitresses are colored girls of the quadroon class, and the dishes served include the famous creole gumbo, crab omelet, hoecake, corn pone and other creole edibles. It is here that Mrs. Cleveland is to be entertained on the 23d, president's day, the day to which all are now looking forward as the climax of the fair. Governor O'Ferrall and staff of Virginia will be here during the week, with headquarters at the Kimball House; two regiments of the state militia will march in the procession, and we are assured that at least 5,000 of the F. F. V.'s will be on the grounds. So that this will probably be the big week of the exposition, and other big occasions thereof will be women inventors' day at their building, with several eminent woman speakers and the reception by the lady managers, Mrs. William H. Felton, chairman of the day.

Atlanta is a queer sort of city anyhow. It isn't southern and it isn't Yankee; it isn't even American in the old business way, and it certainly isn't English. It has the nervous enthusiasm of Paris, the old southern local pride, the push of the western Yankee and the strict Sabbath and police regulations of the Puritans, and beyond all these a marked character of its own. The worst failures of Atlanta have come from her overweening ambition, as she too often promises and attempts what is beyond her power.

The negroes were obliged to delay the formal opening of their building, though they had it complete and well stocked long ago. And it's a beauty. The first feature to strike the visitor is the array of portraits of every size and style of art, done by colored artists, amateurs, photographers and even by school children, ranging all the way from oil paintings worthy of the Fine Arts hall down to rude crayon sketches, amusing from their crude simplicity, and intentional "comics" by schoolboys. And to make it complete there is a great array of images and carvings by the natives of Africa. But of all the ingenious things in this building decidedly the most interesting is an elaborate "house"—a regular Georgia palace indeed—about two feet in cube, made entirely of dried cornstalks, the handiwork of a negro boy 17 years old whose only tool was a pocketknife. He carved merely for his own amusement in the intervals of farmwork and was surprised on learning that he had done anything extraordinary, yet architects say the structure proves the most complete natural sense of harmony and general fitness.

The boy isn't at all smart in other things and is said to be a regular "dummy" in school.

Colored Genius and Talent.

The portraits show that considerable pride of race has developed among the colored people. Their eminent orators, preachers and soldiers are pictured in the order of the popular estimation, while Sumner and Osawatomie Brown are admitted by brevet, as it were; Toussaint L'Ouverture shines in the gorgeous uniform of Haiti, the eminent bishops are pictured in all styles, and over all in every collection appear the leonine features of Frederick Douglass. Next to the portraits the fine needlework attracts attention. In the West Indies generally the daughters of wealthy colored men are educated in convents, and in New Orleans in select schools of a very high order.

It should be noted, too, for the honor of Atlanta, that there are here five splendid institutions for the higher education of the negroes. From one of these, Gammon Theological seminary, Rev. J. W. E. Bowen, Ph. D., professor of theology, was selected as orator of the 21st. He received his degree at the Boston university and has won great applause on many public occasions, especially at the international Epworth league conference at Chattanooga in July. This will be followed by a series of colored congresses dealing with all the interests of the race. J. H. BEADLE.

PROUD OF DEMOCRACY

Senator Hill Says It Represents All That Is Good In Politics.

Defends His Party's Work at the Nation's Capital.

Explains to New York Audience What Is Meant by Personal Liberty.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—David B. Hill addressed 8000 people last evening at Cooper Union. The occasion was the first mass meeting of the campaign held under the auspices of the Democratic state committee.

Senator Hill, among other things, said that Warner Miller, who opened the campaign in this city last week, felt constrained to declare that he alone, and not his party, was responsible for the sentiments which he should express. This was a most remarkable statement. The Republican situation this fall must be most peculiar and complicated to warrant so unprecedented a declaration.

"Had the gentleman confined his speech to the excise question," said Mr. Hill, "I could then appreciate the motive and purpose of his disclaimer. The truth is that Mr. Miller's disinclination to represent his party's principles can be accounted for upon the theory that in many respects his party is absolutely without fixed principles. Of late years it has drifted from one position to another, resorting first to one expedient and then to a different one, bowing to every passing breeze of public opinion, making 'combines' with every 'ism' that presents itself.

Democratic Principles.

"The principles of the Democratic party are so plain and explicit that they do not need to be avoided. My party's principles are my own, and in their presentation on this occasion I shall assume that I speak by its authority as well as in its behalf. I have no apologies to make for them—I defend those principles because I believe in them. I should be ashamed to belong to a party whose evasive or complicated principles mean one thing in Herkimer county and another thing in New York—one thing in Maine and another thing in Texas."

Mr. Hill than took up the tariff question, and argued at length in favor of the bill which went into effect on Aug. 28, 1894. He claimed that sufficient time had not elapsed to determine accurately whether its reductions were all wise or justifiable, but he believed that in the end it will be proved that they were not unreasonable. No new tariff law, he said, can demonstrate its capacity within a single year's trial.

"The difficulty is," continued Mr. Hill, "that the country has not yet recovered from the effects of the terrible panic of 1893, caused by the Republican Sherman silver act of 1890, passed by Republicans over the vote of every Democrat in congress. This fact, however, cannot escape observation, and that is that the moment the McKinley law was repealed, and the new tariff law enacted—to wit, on Aug. 28, 1894—the times began to improve, and have continued improving ever since—slowly, it may be, but surely, safely and satisfactorily.

Repealed Obnoxious Laws.

"The national Democratic administration, when it came into power, found a statute which had been enacted by its opponents, known as the Sherman silver law, which was fast dragging the country into financial ruin. That law was Republican in its inception, in its enactment, and in its enforcement. The president called an extra session of congress to secure its repeal, and, after a long and weary struggle, a Democratic congress wiped it out, and it no longer exists. The law ceased, but its mischief remains, because there has been issued under its provisions $150,000,000 of legal tender paper money, with substantially no available assets with which to redeem it, and which today is disturbing the treasury and embarrassing its operations.

"The national Democratic administration is giving to the country a well-administered government. The various departments are being honestly, economically and wisely conducted. No scandals have disgraced them; no irregularities have occurred; no abuses of power have been tolerated; no extreme partisanship has characterized them. With honor, dignity and diligence they are discharging their duties as public trusts for the welfare of the whole people.

"We promised the people that we would repeal the then existing federal election law which had been enacted by our opponents. With commendable promptness the Democratic congress repealed that odious law.

The Excise Question.

"I come now to one of the principal issues involved in this campaign, and that is 'personal liberty.' Our opponents do not like the term. It annoys them, it worries them, it maddens them, it frightens them. Without assuming to answer the arguments which I have in other places presented in its behalf, they have only resorted to vilification and personal abuse.

"Some of the most zealous and indiscreet opponents have gone so far as to say that by the advocacy of 'personal liberty' I mean the privilege of officials to impose blackmail, the right to steal and the right to commit crime. I have made no such argument, and urge no such contention.

"Personal liberty means liberty regulated by law—reasonable law. As popularly interpreted, it stands for opposition to unnecessary restraint and vexatious interference with private affairs and to all species of obnoxious governmental supervision of individual concerns. The principle which is implied in the term 'personal liberty' is the bulwark of a free state.

"The Democratic party has always been the consistent champion of personal liberty. It will not change its attitude by reason of misrepresentations or the threats or the boasts of puritanism. The issue of personal liberty is one which has been made by our opponents—one which has been forced upon us in this campaign, and one which we cannot honorably avoid.

"It was created by the efforts of a few fanatics in this city who sought to arbitrarily, offensively and ignorantly enforce the existing excise law according to the most strict, technical and unfair conditions possible. Their proceedings have aroused a public sentiment in favor of a revision of the existing excise laws, so far as some of its provisions are concerned, which seems to be overwhelming and irresistible. It was necessary that political parties should define their attitude upon this important question. It would have been cowardly to have evaded it."

INTERESTING INFORMATION

Gathered by Explorer Jackson During His Travels in Arctic Regions.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The documents from Explorer Jackson, which were brought back by the Windward, after leaving the explorer on Franz-Josef Land, and which were kept sealed up in one of the cabins of the Windward during her return trip, were opened yesterday.

Upon being opened, the papers were found to record that the expedition landed at Cape Flora on Sept. 7, where they erected log houses. All the members were given certain duties to insure regular exercise. Bears soon appeared, to the number of 30, and, together with eight walruses, were killed and added to the winter's provisions. The only man who died of scurvy refused to eat bear's meat. The winter was very tempestuous, and the Arctic bears prowled around the log cabins, and even looked in at the windows.

The winter darkness ended on Feb. 28. Jackson and two others started north on March 10 with two ponies and two sledges. The temperature was sometimes 45° below zero. The ponies proved to be invaluable for clambering over hummocks in the ice. The country generally was at a height of 2500 feet, and was covered with ice sheets, which were interrupted along the coast by high basaltic cliffs, on which were found mosses and Arctic flowers.

The journey revealed many inaccuracies in the charts. The land was found on the Austria Sound coastline to be very different than is shown by the maps of the Austrian expedition. Sea islands were found where the mainland was supposed to exist. The farthest point which was reached was lat. 81.20° N., where two boats were left for use later in the summer. Three depots were also established en route.

Many geological specimens were taken which show that the formation of the land is mainly basaltic.

A second journey began in April and ended in the middle of May. It was attended with stormy weather, and frequently the temperature was 30° below zero. Progress was difficult on account of the deep crevasses and the morasses of mud.

The Armenian Reforms.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 24.—The grand vizier, Kiamil Pasha, has communicated to Shakir Pasha the scheme for reform to be introduced in the villayets of Erzroom, Bitlis, Van, Sivas, Mamuretulaziz and Diarbekir. The high commissioner has been instructed to maintain a scrupulous watch over the execution of the reforms and to report the results by letter to Constantinople. Disturbances of a serious nature are reported from Kerasun. The Turks attacked the Armenians inhabiting the village of Senlus, in the district of Mudania. Twenty-four persons were killed on both sides.

Cleveland and Olney.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The intimation that Secretary Olney intends to resign is wholly discredited here, the relations between him and the president being of the most cordial and intimate nature. Mr. Olney was enabled to plead an excuse for his absence from the Atlanta party on the ground that he would be expected to accompany a number of diplomats from Washington to Atlanta later on, to be present there on diplomatic day.

The Hand of Fate.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—News has been received of the death in Chicago of Frank Muhr, a young nephew of the late Simon Muhr of this city. Simon Muhr bequeathed $100,000 to the nephew, Frank, and it is said that he also was bequeathed $150,000 by his mother. Neither of these bequests had yet become operative. The death of the young man will cause large sums to be reverted to charities.

At West Point.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The report of the superintendent of the United States Military academy for the year ending Sept. 30, 1895, shows that during the year 29 cadets were discharged for deficiency in studies, 1 for deficiency in discipline, 2 for physical disability, 19 resigned and 52 were graduated, while there were admitted in all at the examinations held in March, June and August, 105.

Crookedness Suspected.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Oct. 24.—Resolutions have been adopted by the city council ordering an investigation of the conditions of the Superior National, the Douglas County and the Bank of South Superior, with a view of starting prosecutions. It is said the city lost a large amount by the failure of the banks.

Lax Laws.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 24.—A deathblow was given to the smuggling cases yesterday by the defense claiming that the law does not cover the cases as arraigned, and procuring a writ of prohibition from the supreme court restraining the magistrate from continuing the cases until the issue is argued before that body.

A Lengthy Document.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The appeal of the famous Southern Pacific railroad case reached the United States supreme court yesterday, and was docketed. The transcript covers 1280 pages.

Nine Persons Hurt.

DELTA, Ia., Oct. 24.—The high school building was burned yesterday, and nine people were injured.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

Rose Concludes That He Will Not Try For America's Cup.

Yachtsmen Chagrined at the Turn of Affairs.

Not Willing, However, to Discuss the Merits of the Case.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Charles D. Rose has cabled to the New York Yacht club withdrawing his challenge for the America's cup. Secretary Oddie of the New York Yacht club gave out the following cable correspondence:

NEWMARKET, Oct. 23.

Oddie, Secretary New York Yacht Club:

Owing to the general impression that my challenge might be construed as an expression of opinion on the result of the last race, I much regret having to ask you to withdraw the same. CHARLES D. ROSE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.

Charles D. Rose, 39 Hill street, Berkeley square, London:

Cable announcing withdrawal of your challenge received. ODDIE, Secretary.

RYDE, Oct. 23.

Secretary of the New York Yacht Club:

Have received letter from Rose withdrawing challenge for America's cup. Have called committee. Will mail you officially. THELLUSSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.

Thellusson, Secretary Royal Victoria Yacht Club, Ryde:

Your cable this date received. ODDIE, Secretary.

Unwilling to Comment.

The members of the America's cup committee are much chagrined at Mr. Rose's withdrawal, but declare that it would be improper for them to talk concerning it until they received full particulars concerning Mr. Rose's reasons for withdrawing. Ex-Commodore Smith said:

"This is, of course, a great disappointment to us, for I suppose it means we will have no race next year with the Englishman. Being, as I am, a member of the cup committee, I cannot express any opinion at present. After the reasons for Mr. Rose's withdrawal are known, I may have a little to say. I expect to receive at any moment the cable which he notified Mr. Oddie that he had sent to me. I do not think he could have been dissatisfied with the conditions which we offered him, because they were not final, and we asked him to make any suggestions as to changes that he might have deemed desirable."

"Do you think that Lord Dunraven induced Mr. Rose to withdraw the challenge because he felt that it was a reflection on him?" was asked.

"I must decline to express any opinion at present," replied the ex-commodore.

Masonic Officers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—At yesterday's session of the supreme council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Masons these officers were elected: Grand commander, W. A. Hersister, Columbus, O.; lieutenant grand commander, W. Bayliss, Washington; grand minister of state, G. A. Frombut, Grand Rapids; grand treasurer, D. W. Thompson, New York; grand secretary, J. G. Braker, Brooklyn; grand keeper of archives, W. C. Vanderlip, Boston; grand master of the ceremonies, C. J. W. Edwards, Minneapolis; grand marshal, C. W. Edwards, New York; grand standard bearer, Alex Atkinson, Omaha; grand captain of guard, John J. Stoddard, Columbus, O.; grand prior, Marcus W. Morton, Providence; grand marshals of the camps, Peter O. Anderson, Brooklyn; W. W. Carpenter, Waltham, Mass.; Franklin Saunders, Columbus, O.

Died With Boots On.

HENNESSEY, O. T., Oct. 24.—Two more members of Seth Wyatt's band of desperadoes have answered for their many deeds of lawlessness. Jim Umbra and Mexican John, two Mexicans, had stolen 50 head of cattle belonging to B. J. Chapman, and his cowboys gave chase. They closed in on the desperadoes, and after a fusilade of bullets the bandits surrendered. The cowboys strung the two men up to the first tree.

Red Men's Needs.

DETROIT, Oct. 24.—At yesterday's session of the American Missionary association's convention, Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Boynton of Massachusetts said the Indians needed land, love, liberty and learning. Rev. Sherrod Soule of Connecticut said the condition of the association's treasury showed something lacking. It cost $1000 to educate an Indian and $1,000,000 to kill one.

Hard Pressed For Troops.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A letter received from the commander of the U. S. S. Yantic, at Montevideo, states that on Sept. 16 last the steamship San Francisco carried from that port over 1200 Spaniards, who had volunteered to join the Spanish army in Cuba. They were taken in charge on the San Francisco by a guard of Spanish soldiers and not allowed to leave.

Right to the Point.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The navy department has addressed a letter to Governor Altgeld of Illinois, asking the point-blank question as to whether the state has sold the brick ship Illinois donated for the use of the naval militia. This probably is precedent to a representation of the demands of the navy department for a return of the ship and its equipments.

To Relieve Armenians.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Armenian relief fund committee met yesterday for the purpose of raising £8 00 further, to preserve the Armenians from starvation during the winter. Most hearty thanks were given for the handsome donations by the citizens of New York.

Revenue Figures.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The collections of internal revenue during the first three months of the present fiscal year were $37,744,478, as against $58,054,103 for the same period last year.

Irwin at the Head.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Arthur Irwin will manage the New York baseball team next season, it having been decided at a conference with President Freedman.

Fitz's Latest.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Oct. 24.—Fitzsimmons says he is still anxious to be locked in a room with Corbett, to go at it rough and tumble.

A Little Better.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Ex-Senator Van Wyck's condition is reported as improving.

GREENLEAF PARK.

The Finest Residential Section in Quincy,

And the home of many of Quincy's most prominent citizens.

This property—a part of the old Butler estate—is in close proximity to the new High School, the Adams Academy, the Woodward Academy for girls, a few steps from the electric cars on Hancock street, and within a few minutes' walk of the depot and Quincy Centre.

It embraces the land lying between Greenleaf street, one of the best streets in Quincy, and the new Merry Mount Park. The improvements are nearly all made, and some of the finest residences in the city are located here.

PRICES are very reasonable, ranging from 10 to 15 cents per foot and some good small lots at even lower prices.

TERMS can be made satisfactory if desired.

REASONABLE RESTRICTIONS as to the character and location of buildings have been established, and with the prospect in the near future of a new R. R station at President's Bridge, close to the property, lots are sure to advance rapidly in value during the next few years.

REMEMBER there is no other land in Quincy so well located at such reasonable prices. Call at our office in Quincy for plans, prices and particulars, and take a look at some of the lots on Merry Mount and Butler Roads, Greenleaf, Hudson and Putnam streets. They are certain to please you if you are prospecting for a home site.

ONE KILLED--A SCORE INJURED.

Rear End Collision on N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. at Hyde Park.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—The worst railroad accident that ever occurred in Hyde Park took place directly in front of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad depot about 5:28 last evening, when an express train from New London crashed into the rear end of a local train from Mansfield, which was standing at the depot taking passengers.

The engine of the express train struck the rear passenger coach of the local train, and the forward end of this car was telescoped several feet into the car in front of it, while the baggage car was driven into the tank of the tender of the engine.

The brakeman on the rear car of the local, G. M. Austin, was caught between the telescoped cars and so badly injured that he died in the depot at 8:15 o'clock.

Seven passengers were so badly injured that they were taken to the Massachusetts general hospital, and about 20 other passengers were more or less injured.

The regular Mansfield accommodation train, due in Boston at 5:47, was just leaving the station, 10 minutes late, when the New London and Providence express, due in Boston at 6:10, came running down from Canton Junction, on a perfectly straight track, and cracked into the rear of the Mansfield train.

The engine of the Providence train plowed into the rear car for a distance of five or six feet, and caused this car to telescope the one ahead. Between these cars was Brakeman Austin, who was caught, and remained jammed in the wreck for Nearly an Hour.

As soon as the dazed people about the station realized what had occurred, a rush was made for the train, and the work of taking out the wounded began. A wrecking train, with General Superintendent Allen, was at the scene within half an hour. All the physicians in Hyde Park, Dedham and Milton were summoned by telephone, and the police department of Boston notified. Ambulances were sent out and others dispatched to the Park square station, Boston, to remove those of the wounded who were sent in to that city by special train.

All the seriously injured were sent to the Massachusetts general hospital in Boston. It was nearly 6:30 before the unfortunate brakeman could be extricated from the mass of debris between the telescoped cars, and he died shortly afterward in the station waiting room. Both his legs were broken and he was jammed frightfully about the body.

In speaking of the wreck, General Superintendent Allen said: "Engineer Burnham must have deliberately run by two electric block signals showing red lights, one of which is just north of the Readville station and the other south of the Hyde Park station. Besides this the rear lights on the Mansfield train were burning, so that there can be no excuse for Burnham's negligence."

The track was cleared within an hour after the accident, and the loss to the road is estimated at not over $2000.

Signals Not Working.

Both the engineer and fireman of the express stood to their posts. They were both injured, the fireman getting the worst of it with a cut head and a broken rib. The engineer got a lame back and was deafened. He is John H. Burnham of Boston, and he says the signals gave a clear track. The fireman's name was William Hoyt of Boston.

Mr. Burnham was found at his home late last night. He was sitting up in the midst of his family, and, but for his lame back, seemed fairly comfortable. "The signals said 'go ahead,'" he said, "and I never thought of anything being wrong. We were on time at Readville, and slowed down at the signal tower at that place, according to the orders that have been standing ever since we changed to the right-hand track.

"As the signals are not yet working, the man at the tower gave us the signals by hand and said: 'All right, go ahead.' The smoke blew down and hid the track ahead, and to our own smoke was added, just before we got to Hyde Park station, the smoke from another engine, outbound, which had just pulled out.

"I didn't see anything of the other train until we were close to it—just at the bridge, in fact. Then I saw the lights on it. I never was in a tighter place in my life.

"I turned on the air immediately, jumping down from my seat as I did so. Then I reversed her and threw her wide open. I didn't have time to open the sand-box. The fireman jumped down from his seat, too, and just then we struck.

"Both of us were thrown against the boiler butt, and Hoyt fell on his head on the running board. The tender telescoped in and struck my back. If we had been in our seats we should have both been killed.

"I have been driving an engine for 23 years and this is my first serious accident."

On Christmas day, 1889, the side rod of Mr. Burnham's machine broke and came pounding up directly under him, breaking the cab into kindling. For standing at his post in this time of peril the Massachusetts Humane society gave him a medal, which he now has. It is said to be the only one ever given to a railroad man.

The Injured.

Those badly injured were:

Mrs. William Ross, Cambridge, fatally injured; Congressman Elijah A. Morse, Canton, both hands and arms badly cut; A. W. Bragg, Roxbury, injured head and face; Miss Ella Donovan, Boston, injured about the chest and nose; J. F. Maguire, Roxbury, injured about the head and face; Mrs. J. F. Maguire, injured about the head and face; Mrs. Mary Barnes, Malden, injured internally; Mrs. J. Burnes, Hyde Park, injured about the head and face; Mrs. Gannon, Cambridge, internal injuries; Thomas J. Burke, Norfolk station, injured about the head and face; William Esler, Charlestown, injured about the head and face; William B. Hoyt, Roxbury, internal injuries; Roscoe Rines, Roxbury, internally injured.

Switch Left Open.

NEWTON, Mass., Oct. 24.—A bad wreck occurred on the Boston and Albany railroad here about 5:30 o'clock last night. An accommodation train which left Boston with 300 passengers at 5:20 crashed into the rear of the Milford freight, which was moving on to a siding. Five cars in the rear of the freight were demolished and the passenger engine smashed to pieces, the engineer and fireman barely escaping by jumping. Although the passengers were badly shaken up, no one was seriously injured. Traffic was delayed for five hours. The collision was caused by a switch left open on the main line.

Chilion Went Down.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 25.—Schooner William H. Cross of this port, Captain Lawson, arrived yesterday in a badly damaged condition, having been in collision with the schooner Chilion of Portsmouth, N. H. The accident occured just outside Boston harbor. Just how the collision happened is not explained, but the Cross struck the Chilion on the port side, and she sank almost immediately. Her captain and crew of three men escaped. They refused to be taken off by a sailing vessel and rowed up Boston harbor in their own boat.

The Glover Case Revived.

AMESBURY, Mass., Oct. 25. — County Solicitor Hoyt of Kingston, N. H., has taken up the Glover poisoning case at Epping, N. H. Professor Angell has reported that he has found morphine in the stomach of Susie Glover. It is probable that the remains of the Glover boy, who died a year ago, will now be exhumed, as the symptoms at his death were the same as that of the girl who died last month. Startling developments are expected.

Run into by a Gravel Train.

HARTFORD, Oct. 25.—A freight train on the Collinsville branch of the Northampton division was run into at noon yesterday by a gravel train, smashing the engine of the freight and demolishing six or eight cars. The accident was caused by delay in sending out a flagman from the freight train, which was at a standstill. Engineer Crowley of the gravel train was cut about the face. Other train hands jumped and were uninjured.

Reception to Mrs. Turner.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Lizabeth Turner, national president of the Woman's Relief corps, was given a reception last night in Faneuil hall by the members of the Grand Army and the Woman's Relief corps of Massachusetts. Commander Thayer presided, and after a number of speeches by prominent members of both organizations, Mrs. Turner closed the evening with a brief address on the work of the Relief corps.

Switch Failed to Work.

SACO, Me., Oct. 25.—A freight train from Portland ran into the engine of an east-bound freight train at Saco on the Boston and Maine road yesterday afternoon. The regular train was on the main track, and the special attempted to run on a side track, but the switch failed to work. Both engines were somewhat damaged and one left the irons. Nobody was injured.

Receiver Appointed.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 25.—A petition was presented to Judge Walton yesterday praying for the appointment of a receiver for the Provident Aid society of Maine, which was recently bought out by the Bay State Insurance company. The court appointed Joseph E. Moore of Rockland as receiver, and Robert T. Whitehouse as master in chancery.

Died in Solitary.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—George Dambrouski, who was committed to the state prison on Aug. 13 for assault and robbery, hanged himself while in solitary confinement on Oct. 16. It is alleged that he was placed in solitary after being clubbed for asking for more meat. Up to yesterday the fact of his death was concealed from the press and the public.

Eight Hours Granted.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—The steamfitters' strike was brought to an end yesterday by compromise through the instrumentality of the state board of arbitration, the master steamfitters agreeing to concede the eight hours' workday as soon as present contracts have terminated, next May. The strike was inaugurated Sept. 3 last.

Adrift Two Days.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 25.—Schooner Hattie E. Worcester arrived yesterday from the banks, bringing William Lebae and Daniel Simpson, before reported as missing from the Helen E. Wells. Both men were in an exhausted condition when rescued by the Worcester, having been adrift in mildocean two days.

Dorgan Guilty.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 25.—Jeremiah Dorgan, indicted for manslaughter, in causing the death of Maurice Lane, was yesterday sentenced to 12 years in state prison. Dorgan stabbed Maurice Lane through the heart at the latter's home in this city on May 11.

Employers Yielded.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 25.—The trouble between the iron and brass moulders and their employers in this city was satisfactorily settled yesterday. The employers agreed to all the requests of the strikers, and made the minimum pay $2.50 a day.

Number Fourteen.

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 25.—Albion Ott, bound over for larceny, escaped from the custody of the jail authorities yesterday while working on the sheriff's farm. This is the 14th escape since Knox county's new jail was built.

Diphtheria Raging.

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 25.—A violent epidemic of diphtheria is raging here. The public schools and all places of amusement have been closed by the local board of health, and the infected district has been quarantined.

Cuban War Story Comes by Way of Minneapolis.

Insurgents Are Said to Control Three-Fourths of the Island.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 25.—While refusing his name to be mentioned, on the ground that the success of the junta's operations depended upon the secrecy of his movements, a member of that body, who reached this city yesterday, gave out late news received by the junta from Cuba. He has been concerned in every effort of the American junta to help the Cuban cause.

Following is a dispatch he received last night from Cuba, describing the recent revolutionist victory which gave the control of the province of Puerto Principe to the insurgents:

"General Maceo, acting under orders from the war minister, started to march from Santiago de Cuba to join General Sanchio in Las Billas, in the province of Santa Clara, where they were to unite their forces and ravage the sugar plantations. The Spanish got wind of General Maceo's intentions and immediately dispatched a formidable column of 2800 men under General Echague to prevent the junction of the Cuban armies.

"This column found General Maceo as far advanced on his way as the San Juan valley, in the south of Cuba, between Polguin and Barajugua. Maceo had 3000 men, of which 500 were cavalry and 2500 infantry. The Spanish had 200 men less, but this difference was more than compensated for by the possession of three excellent pieces of artillery. The battle began at once, and was fought by the Cubans with great fury. After four hours of terrific fighting, General Echague was driven from the field in disorderly retreat, leaving 800 killed and wounded men and all his artillery behind him. Since the battle, the insurgents and have effected a junction with General Sanchiez at Las Billas."

Have Overrun Puerto Principe,

The colonel said: "We are bound to win. We control three-fourths of the island now. Our men are armed now not only with masurs captured from the Spaniards, but also with winchesters and remingtons sent from the United States. There are over 300 American officers in our army, and more are going every day. Only a few of the relief expeditions we are sending out get into the papers. We are now planning a couple that will put a final quietus on Spain.

"The Spaniards are fighting barbarously. They give no quarter, and kill the wounded. We are going to ask the United States for recognition when congress meets. Our president, Salvador Cisnores, has sent Dr. Joaquin Castillo, well remembered in connection with the Jeannette expedition to this country, to treat with President Cleveland. He has not arrived yet, and is probably having trouble in getting through the lines."

Fight For Durrant's Conviction.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Assistant District Attorney Plexotto yesterday made the opening argument for the prosecution in the trial of Durrant. He discussed the evidence in the case from the time Durrant accompanied Miss Lamont to school on the morning of April 3 until he appeared before Organist King in Emanuel church at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, pale, trembling and excited. He closed by asking the jury to uphold the laws of the state by rendering a verdict of guilty and fixing the penalty at death.

Famine In Russian Districts.

RIGA, Oct. 25.—Famine prevails in the Smolensk and Pskow districts of Russia, owing to the failure of the crops. The minister of the interior recently set apart 1,500,000 roubles for the relief of the inhabitants of these districts, but ragged and hungry peasants are inquiring what has become of the money.

Honored the Duke.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Henry L. Horton, a banker, gave a dinner last evening to the Duke of Marlborough, which was attended by about 50 business men. It was Mr. Horton's idea that the duke should see some of the representatives of New York's business interests, as well as the society people.

Two Were Saved.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 25.—Captain Griffin, of the schooner Lizzie Griffin, who reported four of the crew lost while tending trawls at the Grand Banks fishing grounds, has received word that Ed. Carrigan and Isaac Little, two of the missing men, have been picked up by the schooner Puritan.

Laborers' Revenge.

KINGSTON, Jam., Oct. 25.—A gang of railway laborers at Port Antonio, who had become dissatisfied with the manner in which they had been treated, attacked and wrecked the residence of Contractor Shea, for whom they were working.

Out of Dry Dock.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—The Ammen ram Katahdin was taken from the dry dock at the Charlestown navy yard yesterday and moored off the pier. General Hyde said he thought the ram would make the requisite 17 knots.

Smash-Up on the Vandalia.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25.—The fast mail passenger train on the Vandalia, due here at 1:30, was wrecked east of Indianapolis last night. The cars caught fire, but no further particulars were obtainable this morning.

The Second One.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—The United States grand jury reported yesterday, and brought in another indictment against Rev. Hyatt Smith. It is placed on the secret files of the office.

—The bicycle craze does not stop with young and middle aged men, but ex-President Bartlett of Dartmouth college, about 80 years of age, has tackled a wheel and rides gracefully, and is gaining physical strength by the exercise.

THE VALUE OF FURNITURE

And its usefulness depends on how it's put together, made up and finished. There's more difference in furniture and its wearing quality than with any other class of merchandise, and people are beginning to find it out.

What the intelligent buyers want today, is something that's built for service, low in price and attractive to look at, and we make it our business to see that our patrons get it every time.

Remember there isn't a better place on earth to find goods and prices just as you'd like than at this, THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

FIREMEN CELEBRATE.

The Veterans of Braintree Entertain Quincy Fire Laddies.

The Veteran Fire Association held a banquet in East Braintree, Thursday night complimentary to the Quincy and Braintree boys who helped them win the prize at the recent muster.

Mr. Robert Loring, steward, prepared an excellent supper and a large number enjoyed it. At 9.30 the tables were cleared and speeches were called for. The remainder of the evening until twelve o'clock was devoted to remarks and song. Among those who made speeches were Chief Williams of Quincy, Editor Kane spoke of the early days of the Butcher Boy and the Union. He also spoke of the late Editor M'Ewan and his work as a veteran. Other speeches were made by Capt. Morrissey of Quincy, Mr. Galvin of Braintree, Benjamin Loring, J. V. Scollard, John Dyer, Post Master Mason, Mr. Huston and Mr. Coffey, of Weymouth, Mr. Barry of Quincy, Charles O. Miller and Mr. Mahoney.

Selections were sung by Luke Mulligan, Chief Whitmarsh Thomas Croak and George Williams.

L. Mulligan, Jr., danced a clog, and George Gurney, who was called upon to tell the truth, did it in good shape.

The occasion was one of the pleasantest in the history of the association.

YACHT RACING.

The Congress Becomes a Yacht Racing Association—Officers Elected.

The "Congress of Yacht Clubs," so-called, was organized Thursday evening at the winter quarters of the Massachusetts club in Boston, as the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts, the Monatiquot, Quincy, Hull, Dorchester, Savin Hill, South Boston, Beverly, Old Colony, Plymouth, Mosquito, Commonwealth, Wellfleet, Corinthian, Massachusetts, Winthrop, American, Manchester and Lynn clubs being represented.

Lengthy rules have been adopted, and clubs will be requested to join the association.

These officers were elected: President, L. M. Clarke, Massachusetts; vice president, A. H. Higginson, Manchester; secretary, A. T. Bliss, Winthrop; assistant secretary, W. F. Scott, Old Colony; treasurer, J. J. Soutter, Hull; executive committee, H. M. Faxon, Quincy, N. B. Stone, South Boston, and C. E. Bockus, Dorchester.

Must Wait for Water.

At the meeting of the Board of Water Commissioners held Thursday evening, petitions were received to have water mains laid in Park, Wilson and Dimmock streets, Larry place and Merry Mount road. These are all short lines, but Superintendent Cavanagh says the Commissioners have no money for extensions, and therefore can not grant the petitions.

Postmaster Dunham.

A. H. Dunham will enter the service of Uncle Sam. He was on Thursday appointed postmaster at Houghs Neck, vice William Boyd resigned. Capt. Boyd has held the office since it was established at this summer resort, and people would have been pleased to have had him remain, but his health made a change desirable. Mr. Dunham is a young man, and is connected with the street railway.

Vesper Music.

At the first vesper service to be held at four o'clock on Sunday in the Unitarian church the music will be:

"I am Alpha and Omega"	Stainer
"Remember Me O Lord"	Macparren
"Jubilate Deo"	Schubert
"Hark Hark My Soul"	Shelley
"Sweet is Thy Mercy, Lord"	Barnby
"I Waited for the Lord" duet from "Hymn of Praise"	Mendelssohn

TODAY'S COURT.

John Doherty, Joseph F. Fitzgerald, John F. Connell, and John J. Higgins, were arraigned for violating the city ordinances by shouting in the public streets. They entered a plea of nolo contendere and were fined $3 each.

Frank Mroff of Weymouth was fined $9 for drunkenness.

TOOL THIEF CAUGHT.

An Italian From Boston Captured With Hammers in Possession.

The stone cutters of Quincy can breathe easy once more for the man who has been creating an excitement in their ranks during the past few weeks by the almost nightly larceny of bush hammers is now in the hands of justice which will shortly be meted out to him.

The fellow is an Italian and answers to the name of Antonio Powello, his place of residence doubtless being Boston, although he has been in this country but a short time.

When the robberies were reported to Chief Hayden, Inspector McKay was detailed upon the case and last Tuesday Officer McKay found five of the stolen bush hammers at a pawnshop at 65 Pleasant street, Boston.

When the Italian pawned these hammers he promised to come with more Friday night. The officers were not to be caught napping however and were present at the pawnshop every night waiting for their victim. Thursday night they were rewarded for in walked Antonio having in his possession four hammers.

Before he had an opportunity to pawn them he was placed under arrest and taken to headquarters, where he weakened and told the officers where he had pawned twelve more of the stolen hammers.

He was locked up in Boston all night and this morning was taken by the officers to where the other hammers were pawned, and Saturday morning he will be arraigned in court.

This morning it was reported that the sheds of Fred Nourse at Wollaston had been entered Thursday night and four hammers stolen, and as turned out later that the four hammers found in the possession of Antonio were those stolen a few hours before from Nourse's sheds.

Entertainment and Dance.

About three hundred young people assembled in Hancock hall Thursday evening for the dance held by the St. John's C. L. and A. A. Prior to the dance an entertainment was furnished by the following: Overture by Lyon's orchestra; reading by Miss Sully, piano solo by J. H. Gilbertti, humorous selections by Edward Frye, reading by Mr. Dowling. The entertainment was enjoyed by all, especially the part furnished by Mr. Frye.

The grand march started at 10 o'clock and was led by Mr. Richard J. Cole and Miss Eliza M. Sheahan, followed by fifty couples. The dancing continued until 2 o'clock, with intermission from 12 to 1. Lyon's orchestra furnished the music and Mr. William W. Wilson acted as prompter.

Good Templars' Reunion.

The members of Merrymount lodge, No. 55, I. O. G. T., entertained the former members of the lodge Thursday evening. The entertainment was one of the most enjoyable that the lodge has ever given and was largely attended. The programme included a collation, a social hour and an eloquent address by James Alexander, manager of the improved gold cure. Mr. Alexander's address was on "The Work of the Good Templars." Remarks were also made by John H. Bent, Alex M. Craig and M. C. Holmes, reading by Mrs. F. Somes, recitation by Miss M. Cleverly and song by Miss Ella Chubbuck. Hobart & Lawlor's orchestra gave selections at intervals during the evening which were well received, responses being invariably given. The entertainment closed at 10.45 P. M., both guests and members being united in their expressions of enjoyment, all hoping they soon again should meet on another such occasion.

DR. WILLIAM EVERETT will be likely to find that his particular style of political brilliancy was more appreciated down in the Lynn congressional district than it will be in the Quincy-Weymouth representative district. We think that the doctor's time is too valuable to be spent at the State House. Dr. Everett is a brilliant scholar and a talented man, but in our opinion it is better for him and better for the people to send some good sound Republicans to the General Court and men whom the people can readily approach and talk matters over with. No, we admire Dr. Everett, but do not think he is the man to represent the district.—Weymouth Gazette.

CORPORATIONS' ENEMY.

Ex-Senator Van Wyck, a Notable Character, Dies at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. — Ex-United States Senator Charles H. Van Wyck of Nebraska died at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his apartments at the Portland flats. He was stricken with apoplexy Monday afternoon. Wednesday night he grew steadily worse, and since then his death has been momentarily expected. At his bedside were Mrs. Van Wyck; a daughter, Miss Fannie, and his wife's brother Mark Broadhead.

Charles Henry Van Wyck was born at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 10, 1824. He graduated at Rutgers in 1843, and soon afterward entered upon the profession of law. From 1850 to 1858 he was district attorney of Sullivan county, N. Y. He served in the lower house of congress two terms, from 1859 to 1863, as a Republican.

Before the close of his last term in the house, he was chosen colonel of the Tenth legion, or Fifty-sixth regiment, of New York volunteers. He went to the front and served with General McClellan in the peninsula campaign. In 1865 he was breveted brigadier general.

After the war he returned to the practice of his profession, was again elected to congress in 1867 and again served two terms. In 1874 he removed from New York to Nebraska and engaged in farming. But he soon drifted back into politics, and in 1876 was a member of the constitutional convention. He was then elected to the state senate, where he served until 1880, when he was elected to the United States senate. He retired from the senate in 1887 and returned to Nebraska, where he was subsequently twice a candidate for re-election, without success.

Mr. Van Wyck, although a very rich man, was an implacable foe of corporations. He was a great lover of antiques, and during his residence here he haunted the auction rooms. In many things he was regarded as eccentric.

Mr. Van Wyck married a daughter of General Broadhead of Pennsylvania. Mr. Van Wyck had been in poor health for several years. About two years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis. His widow and a daughter survive him.

Platt Is the Judas.

MANSFIELD, O., Oct. 25.—Senator Sherman was asked if he was a candidate for the presidency and answered emphatically no. He said McKinley would be the man. The senator continued: "The Republican party has erred in the past, it may do so again. But, mark you, it will never listen to the voice of Tom Platt in its council chamber again. Platt is the Judas Iscariot of the Republican party. He is a traitor. He is dangerous to any civilized organization."

Fast Traveling.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The record breaking train between New York and Chicago reached this city last night at 10:15 p. m. The time between New York and Chicago is given out as 17h. 45m. 23s., the distance being 980 miles. A representative of the Chicago Tribune brought a paper published in Chicago yesterday morning. This is the first time a Chicago paper has ever been seen in New York on the day of publication.

Waller Papers Arrive.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Waller has not yet had an interview with the secretary of state because of the absence of her papers. These arrived yesterday, and she will go before the secretary of state with them in company with her attorney, as soon as he can classify the documents. The presentation which she will make is intended to establish the presumption of innocence on the part of her husband.

Travesty Upon Justice.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 25.—The promised arrests of smugglers hang fire. Smugglers and their friends threaten shocking disclosures if the prosecutions go ahead. The board of revenue insist that the cases should be tried before them, and the rupture in the government ranks shows no signs of healing.

Trainman Killed.

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 25.—Peter Barcy, a trainman, was at work on some coal cars when a freight was shunted down against them, throwing him off the rear car, and several cars passed over his head and arms.

Augustine's Crew Safe.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Captain Gaskill and the crew of the burned City of Augustine arrived from Boston today. Captain Gaskill will make a full report to the owners and underwriters.

Below the Average.

HALIFAX, Oct. 25.—Statistics of the coal shipments of Nova Scotia for the nine months ending September, 1896, compared with the same period in 1894, show a large falling off.

Schooner Wrecked.

HALIFAX, Oct. 25.—Schooner E. Walsh, from Boston, for Sidney, C. B., in ballast, was totally wrecked at St. Johns island, near Yarmouth.

MILTON.

The people of East Milton are highly indignant because the old Babcock building is being fixed up as a shanty for the Italians who are at work on the Dustin estate. The old, partially burnt building has been an eyesore to the people of East Milton for a long time, and now that it is to contain an Italian settlement the people are almost beside themselves.

Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy will occupy the pulpit of the Congregational church Sunday morning. Sunday evening the Sunday School will hold a harvest concert.

"In Gathering" Sunday.

Sunday will be observed at the Methodist church, Atlantic as "In-Gathering Sunday." Rev. Merritt C. Beale of Roslindale will assist the pastor, preaching morning and evening. A junior chorus will lead the singing at the morning service. In the evening there will be a praise service for half an hour, assisted by a chorus and cornetist, at the close of the sermon there will be a public installation of the league and junior league officers. Mr. Beale will speak to the Sunday School at noon, and also to the cabinet of the Epworth league at half past three, and will conduct a consecration service at 6 15.

Quincy Park Opening.

Next Monday will be opening day at "Quincy Park," but many have taken advantage of the fact that "you can buy lots now," and the J. W. Wilbur company are very much pleased with their success in Quincy. We were told when they came to town that if any one could sell land it was this company and people are realizing it. On Monday many attractions are offered, including a free dinner. Mr. A. E. Nash will serve one of his famous clambakes, and there will be a band concert and jubilee singer, etc. It will be a holiday for Quincy Point.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

A Petition Requesting Republicans to Have Australian Caucuses.

Mr. Henry H. Faxon was much opposed to the Australian system at the recent Republican caucus in Ward One, but after witnessing its success and mature deliberation, he has drawn up a petition asking the Republican City Committee to call a general caucus for the acceptance of the Australian caucus act. The trouble is, however, that it comes too late, for there is hardly time to legally adopt the act and then give the proper legal notice required to be given of the caucuses, nominations, etc.

The recent caucus in Ward One was not held under the Australian caucus act, but at the same time was under its provisions without all the red tape and expense. With less delegates to be elected, and more tellers to count the ballots, it will be even more satisfactory at the coming caucus and it is not surprising that Mr. Faxon and other wards want it hereafter.

The ballots to be used in Quincy by the women voters in the coming November election have been received at City Hall. The number of ballots furnished by the State for use of women voters is the same as those for men voters, no consideration being made as to the number of females registered. For instance in Ward Three the name of but one female appears upon the list and for her use City Clerk Keith has received two lots of ballots of 1000 each.

The Republican executive committee hold a meeting tonight.

Surprise Party.

About 150 of the friends of Miss Eva Miller surprised her Wednesday evening, at her home 19 Glencoe place, and presented her with a metronome as an appreciation of their esteem.

—The land near the Holbrook station, containing the gravel hill recently bought by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company of George H. Chapin, was assessed up to within a year or two at $10 an acre. This year it was assessed at $20 an acre, and the company paid Mr. Chapin about $7,000 for the 43 acres, or, in exact figures, $162.50 per acre.

—The preliminary work of the Metropolitan water system has commenced. The magnitude of the basin may be gathered from the following facts: Area of water surface in acres, 4194; in square miles, 6.56; length, 8.41 miles; maximum with, 2 05 miles; length of shore line, not including islands, 35.4 miles. Six and a half miles of railroad are to be flooded, and four cotton mills, one grist mill, and one saw mill distroyed. Nineteen and a quarter miles of highways are to be submerged. The character of the flooded land is thus designated: Cleared land, 2000 acres; wooded land, 1081 acres, stump land, 81 acres, water surfaces, 313 acres.

—There were lost from the Gloucester port during the last fishing year 13 vessels and 92 men. The majority of the men lost were young and unmarried. Ten were married and left widows and 23 children. The total valuation of the vessel property was $86,000 and the insurance $65,000.

ELI PERKINS.

A Clever Observer Who Does Not Allow Even the Truth to Escape Him.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Coming west the other day on a through train, I ran across Eli Perkins (Melville D. Landon). Eli was on his way to Peru or some other Hoosier hamlet to lecture. He was in the observation car, as was I, and was testing the capabilities of a new fangled cheroot. He had been inveigled into purchasing a carload of them by a volatile and talkative drummer. Eli handed me one before settling down to a conversation. Incidentally I will say that he took my address in his notebook and muttered something about seeing "that I was properly buried in case the torch proved too sweet for me."

MELVILLE D. LANDON.

About medium height, with a light colored, heavy mustache, a mixed Scotch suit and white Fedora hat, there is nothing about this remarkable man to attract attention. Yet there is no closer observer on this planet than Perkins. Absolutely nothing escapes him, not even the truth! He is familiar with everything that is going on in the civilized world, and he even has an inkling of affairs at the arctic pole.

"One reason why I think that hard times are passing away," he said, "is that the hotels throughout the country are raising their prices. This shows that they have more guests than a year ago, and that trade is livelier. I have to pay $2.50 or $3 a day now in many towns where $2 a twelvemonth since would have secured the best room in the best hotel. People are 'getting on' to me. I meet fewer beggars and needy looking men on the streets now than at any time within the last three years. This is a good sign. Speaking of Mormonism"—of which we were not speaking at all—"do you know what was the real cause of the dying out of polygamy? Nothing else but the fashion plates published in magazines and the big daily papers!

"The Mormon women became impressed with the idea that what was all right for their eastern sisters was good enough for them. They began to demand expensive silks and satins in place of homespun, and then the game was up. One husband couldn't afford to keep a dozen or so of wives fitted out with Parisian lingerie and gowns, and so they stopped marrying more than one better half.

"I met ex-Senator Evarts on the cars the other day. I asked him if it were better to lie on the right side or the left side when going to bed. He replied that if I were on the right side all the time I would have no occasion to lie at all!"

One by one those in the car got up and filed out. When I saw Eli unbutton his collar so that he could talk with more freedom and settle down to business, I followed the others. I was afraid Eli was getting ready to tell something that was not true! ADD VANCE.

The Estate of the Great Naturalist Now Being Cut Into Building Lots.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—That great naturalist whose studies of the birds of North America immortalized his name is not forgotten in the neighborhood where he lived and died, even though it was a corner of New York city that is growing busier and more thickly settled year by year, and even though it was as long ago as 1851 that he died.

It was at the foot of what is now One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street, on the shore of the Hudson river, that the old Audubon mansion was built in 1843. Audubon was a man of wealth and owned a fine estate, running from Tenth avenue to the river and from One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street to One Hundred and Fifty-eighth. It was a beautiful part of Washington Heights, and the house that adorned it, though it seems plain enough now, was an elegant one for its time. It stands on low ground some 300 feet back from the river, with the hills behind it, and is surrounded by a grove of noble forest trees. A well kept lawn stretches almost to the river bank, though a railroad cuts off its edge, and the place is kept in beautiful order, being the residence now of ex-Mayor Tiemann. His grounds, however, form only a small part of what is still known in a general way as Audubon park, though it is no park, but has been cut up into building plots and sold, piecemeal, while several streets have also been cut through it. On the river side the trees have been mostly spared, so the word "park" seems applicable enough.

Of the Audubon family there are a number of descendants living, two of whom are teaching school in the city, while the others are scattered in various parts of the world. Of the estate, however, nothing remains to them excepting a narrow strip which was curiously overlooked in the partition sale. The fact was discovered by accident recently, and there is a possibility that the enhanced value of the land may some day make the discovery valuable. D. A. C

WILL POWERS INTERFERE?

Russia Makes a Bold Move to Secure Prestige In China.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The correspondent of The Times at Hong Kong learns that by the recently concluded Russo-China treaty Russia obtains rights to anchor her fleet at Port Arthur, and to construct and work under Russian administration railroads from Nertchinsk and Tsitika and Vladivistock, and from Totsihart to Port Arthur, together with other commercial advantage to which the most favored nation clause is not applicable.

In an editorial, commenting upon its dispatch from Hong Kong, The Times this morning says: Our correspondent has close relations with men who are able to penetrate beneath the surface of things. His startling news, therefore, cannot be disregarded, even, as is too probable, though it be followed by an official denial. Russia cannot possibly imagine that the great powers will view with indifference such a destruction of the balance of power, which is almost unparalleled in its audacity. China's option to purchase the railroad is a jest almost too cynical to find a place in any serious diplomatic transaction. Under the indicated conditions, Manchuria would practically become a Russian province.

Manitoba's School War.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—Archbishop Langevin, the head of the Roman Catholic chuch in this province, has submitted a proposition to Premier Greenway and the Manitoba government, it is reported, for a compromise in the parochial school warfare, and the compromise is to be accepted. The terms are understood to be these: Catholic separate schools may be established, but will receive no financial aid from the government. The Catholics, however, are not to be taxed for the support of the Protestant public schools. The Catholic school board will be supplied with machinery to impose taxes on all Catholics for parochial schools, except where a Catholic parent prefers to send his children to the public schools.

A Reply to Chandler.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner Knapp has written an open letter to Senator Chandler in reply to the latter's criticism of the new trunk line agreement. Mr. Knapp reiterates his assertion that the detection and punishment of crimes created by the interstate commerce statute is only an incident to the schems and aim of "regulation," a feature with which the commission has no power to deal. He adds that the courts seem to have reached a conclusion different from the view taken by Senator Chandler that the alleged agreement that the trunk lines are able to enter into is illegal and criminal under either the anti-pooling or anti-trust laws.

Executed by Drowning.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 25.—Further details regarding the execution of the 50 young Turks who were arrested on Saturday on a charge of excesses during the recent Armenian riots show that the 50 culprits, after a trial, were conveyed by night aboard a Turkish man-of-war, whose boats took them into the swiftest current and dropped them overboard. These measures have entirely broken the spirit of the revolutionists. Hassan Pasha, minister of marine, is also suspected and is closely watched.

Senator Hoar Re-elected.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—At yesterday's proceedings of the conference of the Unitarian and other liberal Christian churches, the annual election of officers resulted in the re-election of Senator Hoar of Massachusetts as president; Rev. D. W. Morehouse of New York, secretary, and William H. Reed of Boston, treasurer; Carroll D. Wright, Massachusetts; T. J. Morris, Baltimore; Dorman B. Eaton, New York; Roger Wolcott, Milton, Mass.; Horace Davis, San Francisco, and Daniel L. Shorey, Chicago, vice presidents.

Cholera Eradicated.

HONOLULU, Oct. 17.—The board of health has lifted the quarantine, and Honolulu is once more a clean port. Now that the cholera trouble is over, the government will take up the claims of the British, arising out of the January rebellion. Minister Hatch is preparing the government's defense. The taking of testimony in the Cranstoun suit against the Vancouver steamer Warrimo will commence tomorrow. Cranstoun wants $50,000 for being forcibly taken from this country.

Yankees In Dixie's Land.

ATLANTA, Oct. 25.—Two hundred and fifty members of the New England Manufacturers' association met at the Auditorium at the exposition yesterday. This is the organization's 51st session, and it was the first that had ever been held outside the New England states. President Goodale presided at the business meeting. Mayor King and President Collier of the exposition welcomed the visitors to Atlanta. The association will spend several days here.

Contract Labor Laws Broken.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Khaylly Gorgharian and half a dozen other Armenians from Carpentha admitted yesterday to the board of special inquiry at Ellis island that they had come to America under contract to work in the shoe factories of Lynn, Mass. They had been furnished with free tickets and about $10 each. They were under contract to work for $5 a week. The men arrived on La Champagne, and they will be sent back on her.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Oct. 27. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Obedience to God—what does it involve?—Deut. viii, 1-20.

"All the commandments which I command thee this day shall ye observe to do, that ye may live and multiply and go in and possess the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers." This is the command that the Lord gave to the children of Israel before they entered the promised land. They were to obey all the laws He had given them. Perfect and entire obedience to God was the standard placed before them. In it were involved life, prosperity and the possession of the land promised centuries ago to their fathers. This obedience being so important to them, God graciously mentions a number of things involved in entire obedience, or necessary to it, which still hold good today.

1. Obedience to God involves the remembrance of God's dealings with us. "Thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee these 40 years in the wilderness." If they remembered all God's gracious dealings with them, they would not likely forget to keep His commandments. The same is true of us. Remembrance of God's guidance and direction and of His mercies will fill our hearts with gratitude to Him, and will prove a vigorous incentive to obedience. It will beget within us a sense of obligation for the mercies in the past, and this will inevitably seek to express itself in acts of hearty obedience. When we fully realize that our every step has been under God's guidance and that every good thing has come from His hand, then and then only will we be constrained to do all the will of God.

2. Obedience to God involves an understanding of adversity. God had afflicted His children, He had humbled them and tried them, but that this might not have an evil effect upon them He reminds them that, as a Father, He had chastened them. It had been done for their good and should lead to obedience of His commands. Adversity will have one of two effects upon us. It will make us more obedient or less obedient, just as we understand it. If looked upon as for our good, if properly understood, it will make us more obedient. This is the spirit in which it comes and in which it should be received.

3. Obedience to God involves watchfulness in prosperity. They were to become prosperous, but in their prosperity they were not to forget that it came from God lest they should be unduly exalted and led to forget God and should cease to keep His commandments. Prosperity is often more dangerous than adversity, and we should carefully guard ourselves against its dangers.

Bible Readings.—Gen. vi, 22; xxii, 16, 17; Ex. xxiii, 22, 23; Deut. viii, 7-11; xxviii, 1-6; Lev. xxvi, 3, 4; Num. xiv, 24; Joshua i, 5-7; xi, 15; Jer. xxxv, 18, 19; Math. vii, 24-29; Mark ii, 14; Luke v, 5, 6; John iv, 32-34; vii, 17; Acts iv, 18-21; v, 28, 29; I John v, 2, 3.

The Oldest Society In New Jersey.

Rev. A. L. Shear, pastor of the Congregational church at Chester, has the oldest Endeavor society in New Jersey. It was organized in April, 1881, one year after Dr. Clark organized the first society in Williston. The society has 100 members and a Junior organization of 75. Twenty-five members have been received into the church from the society since the beginning of the year; 80 have been received since last fall. The church is soon to celebrate its one hundred and fifty-fifth anniversary.

Requires Courage.

It takes faith and courage to hold fast to our principles and our old fashioned modes of worship according to the divine plan. But it takes courage in all kinds of business to hold fast integrity. Religious principle is no less important than business integrity. Idolatrous worship is stealing from God. Robbery of gold is stealing from man. Which is the worst?—Christian Instructor.

Auditing the Accounts.

The accounts of those who have preceded us to the other world are audited and filed. Remember that you are adding to yours. Shall it be for you or against you?—Philadelphia Methodist.

Sometimes the Trial.

Extraordinary afflictions are not always the punishment of extraordinary sins, but sometimes the trial of extraordinary graces.—Matthew Henry.

Endeavor Jottings.

At a cost of $100 a Christian Endeavor ward has been furnished in the new hospital at Woodstock, Ont. Papers are sent regularly to the House of Refuge by the local union.

One Christian Endeavor society at Colorado Springs furnished the money and another society at Del Norte, a mining camp, furnished the workers to establish a mission school in the latter place.

The Tide Water Christian Endeavor union of Norfolk has appointed a floating committee of 12 members to carry on work at the Norfolk navy yard.

There are 150 Endeavorers in Santiago, Chile.

The official programme of the Cleveland convention announced 167 meetings. The attendance at these meetings was estimated at 275,000. The Boston official programme announced 349 meetings. The estimated attendance at these meetings was 470,000. This comparison shows the relative sizes of the two conventions.

A "British Isles Mutual Improvement society" was organized by the mate of a British ship, but it lacked the cohesive power of Christian Endeavor and soon disintegrated. This mate now finds floating Christian Endeavor the true mutual improvement society.

Philadelphia union has a total of 450 societies. This makes it the largest in the world.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

"Nearly all last winter I was sick in bed, and was attended by different physicians; none cured me, none helped me very much. When I attempted to get up, it was always the same story; my back would ache, I was dizzy and faint, the bearing-down pains were terrible. I also had kidney trouble badly. "I knew I must have help right away. I resolved to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The results were marvellous. I have gained in every way, and am entirely cured." — MRS. 265 HOUSE LOTS, ONLY $66.00 LOT.

OPENING DAY OCTOBER 28, BUT YOU CAN BUY LOTS NOW.

DESCRIPTION:

QUINCY PARK, The new tract of land to be opened by the J. W. Wilbur Co., on Monday, Oct. 28, 1895, is situated near the corner of Washington and North streets, in the City of Quincy, 8 miles from Boston, is known as the Kittredge Estate, and contains about 1,000,000 square feet of level or gently rolling land; the finest land to be found in Massachusetts. Nearly every foot is under a high state of cultivation. It is without question the finest tract of land that we have ever placed upon the market in house lots. This property has nearly 1,000 feet frontage on Washington street, with electric cars passing every half hour from early morning to late at night; and it has about the same amount of frontage on North street. The sale opens Monday, Oct. 28, BUT YOU CAN BUY NOW. 1 3-8 miles from City Hall, Quincy; 8 miles to Boston, 9 cent fare; 21,000 population; best spot in Massachusetts; old neighborhood; all high and dry; streets 40 feet wide; in the best location; a place for comfortable and elegant homes; good class of citizens sought for.

Prominent real estate men say this land is cheap at from 10 to 20 cents per foot. Our price about 2 1-2 cents per foot for the Next Ten Days Only.

Ten per cent. Discount for Cash. No Mortgages. No. Notes. Free Stone for Cellar. Free Life Insurance.

$2,000 IN CASH PRIZES.

In order to encourage the building up of this property and thus enhancing the value of each purchaser's interest, we will give the persons who build the first twenty houses on this property, costing not less than $1200, and completed before April 1, 1896, $100 each.

OPENING DAY, OCT. 28th,

This will be a great day for Quincy. Free Band Concert; also a Concert by the great South Carolina Jubilee Singer.

FREE DINNER. Clambake furnished by A. E. Nash. Everybody invited to try it.

Spot cash has again enabled us to put upon the market house lots at about one-quarter what other dealers are asking for similar property. This is our 18th land sale. Our last sale was at Oakdale Park, Brockton, on Sept. 30, where we sold our entire tract of 236 lots within 30 hours from the opening, and some purchasers refused to sell at an advance of 40 per cent. on the purchase price before they had owned the property twenty hours. Buying these lots at our prices is like buying gold dollars for fifty cents.

REASONS NOT GIVEN.

Americans Barred From Royal School of Naval Architecture.

Much Speculation as to What Prompted the Action.

Probability That Britishers Are Jealous at the Success of Yankees.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The British authorities have notified the navy department that hereafter no naval officers will be permitted to take the course at the Greenwich Royal School of Naval Architecture, a privilege which has been enjoyed with such signal benefit that Americans have usually graduated at or near the head of the classes. The Glasgow school and Paris school, however, are still open to our young constructors, and with the opening of the Cornell course on naval architecture, the navy department feels that it can get along very well.

No reason for this action by the British authorities is assigned. At the navy department several reasons are ascribed for the action of the Greenwich establishment, which Is a Government Affair.

It is believed by some officials that the real cause is the desire of the British government to prevent the United States from obtaining knowledge of English shipbuilding plans.

Another suppositious reason is that Great Britain believes that the United States government has advanced so far in construction of warships that there is no necessity for a further extension of the courtesy extended our young constructors when they can receive equally good training at home.

But a far more interesting suggestion is that the British naval authorities have become nettled over the success of the American constructors at Greenwich in taking prizes over the heads of the British students.

Nearly every year a member of the naval construction corps of the United States has taken either first or second prize, and sometimes both these prizes have been secured by the young Americans.

The Famous Peralta Claim.

SANTA FE, Oct. 25.—The court of private land claims adjourned yesterday till March. A formal decision, finally rejecting the Peralta land grant in southern New Mexico and Arizona, claiming 12,500,000 acres, worth at least $25,000,000, was handed down. The court holds that no alleged claimant, Miguel de Peralto, baron of the Colorados, existed, and that the grant papers are forgeries. Reavis, who is now in jail here, on a charge of presenting a fraudulent claim against the government, says he will appeal the case to the United States supreme court.

A Secret Conference.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 25.—James M. Ripley, Rathbone Gardner and Richard Comstock, counsel for Mrs. Samuel P. Colt, met in conference at Mr. Comstock's office yesterday, together with Mrs. Colt. Immediately after it ended the entire party started for New York. It is stated that Colonel Colt, accompanied by friends, is also in that city. The writ, calling for Van Alen's arrest, was yesterday given to High Sheriff De Blois of Newport county, and was taken to Newport. It will be served today.

Never Loved Americans.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 25.—Colonel Francisco Aneveraez, who, nearly 10 years ago, was sentenced to death by court-martial for invading with an armed force in an American territory, and whose sentence was confirmed by the supreme court, is dead. His sentence, at the instance of the United States government, was commuted to 20 years' imprisonment. He was 53 years old, and of late was allowed the freedom of the city. He died an enemy of Americans.

A Fierce Duel.

HOUSTON, Oct. 25.—Sidney Lane, a Southern Pacific brakeman, and Conductor Neville had a desperate duel yesterday. Neville was struck three times, and died in an hour. Lanne was hit twice and died this morning. After firing five shots each, the men clinched and beat each other over the head and face with their pistols in a horrible manner. Neville refused to let Lane run on his train because he disobeyed orders.

Cromwell's Head.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 25.—The Liverpool Post claims to have discovered the head of Oliver Cromwell in the possession of the Wilkeson family of Sealchart, Eng. Samuel H. Church, author of the "Life of Cromwell," says the existence of this head has been known for fully 100 years, and competent judges believe it to be genuine.

Heavy Fire Losses.

HALIFAX, Oct. 25.—A statement of losses sustained in Nova Scotia by the insurance companies, made up to Oct. 10, indicates $142,000, as against $112,000 last year, an increase of nearly 30 per cent. Over $1,500,000 worth of government property was destroyed, on which there was no insurance.

Considered In Serious Light.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The cable report that a Russian fleet of 15 vessels was on its way to Korea attracted much attention yesterday among the diplomatic representatives of the far East to whom it was shown. It is regarded as presenting grave conditions, if the facts are as represented.

Czarewitch Much Worse.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The condition of the czarewitch has become very much worse, and he is not now able to proceed to Nice, where a villa had been prepared for his occupancy during the winter. The czarewitch has had several violent attacks and has become very much weakened.

In Old Office.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 25.—Count Inouye, who was formerly Japanese minister to Korea, has started again for Korea as the special ambassador.

Life's Labor Ended.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The war department announces the death at Eureka, Cal., yesterday, of Captain S. G. Whipple, U. S. A., retired.

Closed by Comptroller.

TACOMA, Oct. 25.—The Columbia National bank of this city closed yesterday by order of Comptroller Eckels.

Life In Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 25.—Dibbrell Walker of Cooksville was shot and killed here yesterday by young Terry, also of Cooksville. Terry's brother had killed Walker's brother in the mountains, and since then there has been bad blood between the families.

Prefers Pittsburg.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—David Martin says that at the meeting of the Republican national committee in Washington on Dec. 10 he will vote for Pittsburg as the place for holding the meeting of the national convention next year.

At Death's Door.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—Lieutenant Governor Millard is unconscious. He remained in a comatose state for half an hour last night and then became delirious. It is thought the end is very near.

Next Year In Boston.

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—The American Missionary association decided to hold its jubilee anniversary in celebration of its 60th year in Boston next October.

In Washington Again.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—President Cleveland and cabinet officials arrived from Atlanta at 8:10 o'clock last evening.

Led a Fast Life.

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 25.—E. G. Marshall of Boston, who has figured largely in building operations here within the past six months, has fled to Canada. His liabilities exceed his assets by over $80,000. While here Marshall lived a fast life.

American Fisherman Seized.

HALIFAX, Oct. 25.—The American fishing schooner John L. Nicholson, Captain Rudolph, was seized yesterday by the collector of customs at Canso for violation of the fishery laws.

Fire Loss of $100,000.

DALLAS, Oct. 25.—Fire destroyed more than $100,000 worth of property in the business part of McKinney yesterday.

A Winter Arrangement.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 25.—The collector of this port was officially informed yesterday that the Allan line of steamers will run between Portland and Liverpool this winter, and that the first steamer will arrive here Nov. 17.

Old Hotel Keeper Dead.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 25.—Thomas Davenport, a prominent hotel keeper in this state and Massachusetts for the past 35 years, died here yesterday from bright's disease.

And Still Another.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 25.—William Perkins, 9 years of age, was killed by an electric car yesterday afternoon. He rushed in front of the car while playing.

QUINCY PARK, The new tract of land to be opened by the J. W. Wilbur Co., on Monday, Oct. 28, 1895, is situated near the corner of Washington and North streets, in the City of Quincy, 8 miles from Boston, is known as the Kittredge Estate, and contains about 1,000,000 square feet of level or gently rolling land; the finest land to be found in Massachusetts. Nearly every foot is under a high state of cultivation. It is without question the finest tract of land that we have ever placed upon the market in house lots. This property has nearly 1,000 feet frontage on Washington street, with electric cars passing every half hour from early morning to late at night; and it has about the same amount of frontage on North street. The sale opens Monday, Oct. 28, BUT YOU CAN BUY NOW. 1 3-8 miles from City Hall, Quincy; 8 miles to Boston, 9 cent fare; 21,000 population; best spot in Massachusetts; old neighborhood; all high and dry; streets 40 feet wide; in the best location; a place for comfortable and elegant homes; good class of citizens sought for.

Prominent real estate men say this land is cheap at from 10 to 20 cents per foot. Our price about 2 1-2 cents per foot for the Next Ten Days Only.

Ten per cent. Discount for Cash. No Mortgages. No. Notes. Free Stone for Cellar. Free Life Insurance.

$2,000 IN CASH PRIZES.

In order to encourage the building up of this property and thus enhancing the value of each purchaser's interest, we will give the persons who build the first twenty houses on this property, costing not less than $1200, and completed before April 1, 1896, $100 each.

OPENING DAY, OCT. 28th,

This will be a great day for Quincy. Free Band Concert; also a Concert by the great South Carolina Jubilee Singer.

FREE DINNER. Clambake furnished by A. E. Nash. Everybody invited to try it.

Spot cash has again enabled us to put upon the market house lots at about one-quarter what other dealers are asking for similar property. This is our 18th land sale. Our last sale was at Oakdale Park, Brockton, on Sept. 30, where we sold our entire tract of 236 lots within 30 hours from the opening, and some purchasers refused to sell at an advance of 40 per cent. on the purchase price before they had owned the property twenty hours. Buying these lots at our prices is like buying gold dollars for fifty cents.

WHERE IS VAN ALEN?

It Now Appears That He Did Not Return to Newport Residence.

Is Said to Have Been Seen In New York.

Colonel Colt Has Made No Overtures Looking Toward a Settlement.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 26.—The fact that the writ of arrest for J. J. Van Alen of Newport was not served in that city yesterday caused a vast amount of discussion among those interested in the Colt sensation, and the interest was increased to excitement when one of Mrs. Colt's attorneys said that, according to the statement of one of his friends, Mr. Van Alen was seen at the Knickerbocker club in New York Thursday.

A rumor soon became current that Van Alen for some reason had left Newport before the writ could be legally served, but this was soon contradicted by people who came from Newport in the afternoon, and said Van Alen had probably not left Newport, for the very good reason that, as far as could be learned, Van Alen had not been there since he went to Shelburne, Vt.

Inquiry at the sheriff's office brought forth the information that word had been received from the officials at Newport that as far as they had been able to learn yesterday, since the law allowed them to attempt to serve the now famous writ, no one could be found in the city who would say that they had actually seen Van Alen, and their own efforts to find him had been without result.

Several persons interested in the case communicated with friends in Newport and received the information that Newport people were of the unanimous opinion that Van Alen had for some reason of his allowed the members of his household to let his acquaintances and the public in general believe he was at his surburban residence, when in reality he had not returned to Newport at all.

Will Push the Case.

A reporter visited Rathbone Gardner, one of Mr. Colt's attorneys, last evening, and brought these stories to his attention. Mr. Gardner, who had just returned from New York, refused to make any comments on the situation, rather than to reiterate his statement of a day or two ago that if Mr. Van Alen went to any other state, he would be followed, and the case would be pushed against him there.

The report that Mrs. Colt and her attorneys had made their sudden departure from New York in connection with a settlement was mentioned to Mr. Gardner, and he said that the visit to the metropolis had no relation to any settlement, and that such a thing had never even been suggested to Mrs. Colt and had not been discussed by any of the parties interested. He also said that the statement printed in some New England papers yesterday morning that Colonel Colt had either paid or had agreed to pay a certain sum of money to Mrs. Colt was false.

The talk of a possible counter suit by Colonel Colt was also revived, and one of his attorneys admitted that Colonel Colt had been urged by many of his friends to make such a move, but the lawyer said the colonel had up to the present time refused to do so, and that he expressed himself as being perfectly satisfied with pushing Van Alen's case.

Mr. Gardner is the only member of the party that made such a hurried departure for New York Thursday who has returned.

Universalists' Doings.

MERIDEN, Conn., Oct. 26.—At the closing session of the Universalist convention, the convention was enlarged to include the president, vice president and secretaries of the state conventions and all ordained clergymen in fellowship and also one delegate from each parish. The next convention will be held at Chicago in 1897. A resolution favoring union with the Unitarians was defeated. Resolutions favoring true reform, national purity, peace and the suppression of the liquor traffic were passed.

Went Overboard.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Steamer Fairfax, from Baltimore, reports that a passenger, W. W. Wehrhane, of Baltimore, representing himself to be an employe of the Fidelity Loan and Trust company of that city, is missing. Yesterday morning he did not appear at breakfast. A thorough search for the missing man was made through the ship, but no trace of him could be found. Captain March came to the conclusion that either some accident had occurred or that he had committed suicide.

Rape Fiend at Pawtucket.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 26.—Mary, the 12-year-old daughter of John F. Brennan, is in a critical condition, from the effects of an assault by an unknown man. Yesterday afternoon a man 30 years old called at her house and wanted to engage the girl to attend the wants of his sick mother. Mrs. Brennan finally consented to allow the girl to go. Into the woods off East avenue the brute took the child. He left her unconscious and made his escape.

Burglar Shot Coachman.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 26.—Joseph Trepannia, a coachman in the employ of Sherman D. Porter, was shot by a burglar at Mr. Porter's residence at about 7 o'clock last night. Mr. Porter discovered the burglar, and called his coachman, and together they attempted to capture the fellow. On their approach he shot Trepannia through the arm, and then turned and ran away.

Fisherman Sunk.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Fishing schooner F. S. Nickerson, Captain Simon West of Provincetown, was run into and sunk last night in the main ship channel, between Fort Independence and Fort Winthrop, by the tug A. W. Chesterton. Her crew of 15 men were taken off by the tug Resolute. The Nickerson is a dangerous obstruction to the navigation of the upper harbor.

No Good Could Result.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 26.—Judge Elmer yesterday announced that he would not reopen the famous case of Millionaire Porter of Stamford, who was restrained for some time by his relatives from remarrying. Judge Elmer said no good could result from receiving more pleadings.

Alleged Abuse of Seamen.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 26.—In the case of Captain F. I. Pendleton and Mate James Parse of the ship W. H. Conner, the mate denied the charge of abusing Cook McNamara, and Albert Colley, the colored steward, testified that the cook threatened to kill him, and did attempt to knife him once, but was prevented by Carpenter Christian, who corroborated the testimony of the steward. The case was continued by the commissioner until Monday, and the captain and mate were held in the sum of $1000.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—The Massachusetts Woman Suffrage association invites all persons who are willing to co-operate in the effort to get out a large "Yes" vote in November, or who are in sympathy with the movement, to send their names and addresses to the office of the association, 3 Park street, Boston. Woman suffrage literature can be obtained at the same office.

Student's Bad Joke.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 26.—The larceny of the Louisburg cross from Harvard library building was the result of a student's playing upon the cupidity of a laborer employed on the building. The student told him the cross was solid gold. When the laborer had secured it and discovered the hoax, he is supposed to have destroyed it to protect himself from arrest.

Copied German Style.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 26.—The Eighth regiment, M. V. M., held its annual field day in the towns of Essex and Ipswich yesterday. The day's program followed the idea of the German "kriegspeil," or a play at war. Eight companies under Major Bailey attacked four companies commanded by Major Dow. Honors were evenly divided.

With Simple Ceremonies.

NORTH EASTON, Mass., Oct. 26.—The funeral of the late ex-Governor Oliver Ames was held in Unity church here. The services were simple. Rev. William L. Chaffin officiated, and many friends of the late ex-governor were present, as well as representatives from both the executive and legislative branches of the commonwealth.

All in One Body.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 26.—The last step toward the consolidation of the New England and the Connecticut Valley Dental societies was taken yesterday in the adoption of a new constitution. The new organization is known as the Northeastern Dental association. James McManus of Hartford was elected president.

Work of Firebug.

SURREY, Me., Oct. 26.—Early yesterday morning fire broke out in a shed in the rear of George W. Allen's store here. Mr. Allen's store, the Baptist church and a dwelling were burned to the ground, and two other dwellings were badly damaged. At one time it looked as though the village would go. The fire was incendiary.

Was Cleaning a Revolver.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Oct. 26.—While cleaning a revolver Freeman Foster, 14 years old, accidentally shot Frank Dunn, about the same age, the cartridge entering the right breast and lodging beyond the reach of a probe. Dunn will recover. The injury was purely accidental.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

AS MIGHT be expected the list of injured in the Hyde Park accident has increased, but fortunately the deaths will probably not exceed one, possibly two.

THE CITY of Springfield has just issued an interesting summary of the valuation and indebtedness of Massachusetts cities. It appears that all the larger cities except Taunton have a larger debt, also four of the nine smaller cities,—the water debt being excluded. Quincy also makes an excellent showing in percentage of indebtedness to valuation, but five of the thirty-one cities having a smaller percentage. With this standing our tax rate should be among the very lowest, but it is a lamentable fact that only ten are higher. As the LEDGER has frequently pointed out, we are attempting to pay our debt too quickly.

Mrs. Ann Orr Shirley.

The funeral of Mrs. Ann Orr Shirley and held from the residence of her son, Alexander Shirley, Filbert street, West Quincy, Friday, the services being conducted by the pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Shirley's was a remarkable life. Born near Londonderry, Ireland, Sept. 19, 1809, was was married in December, 1829, to Mr. Valentine Shirley—who, at the remarkable age of ninety-one, survives her—and lived in the vicinity of her birthplace until their emigration to this country in the early seventies. The Presbyterian church of which they were members had for its pastor for sixty-two years the noted Dr. Brown; but that pastoral union was not so long as the married life of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley, whose sixty-sixth wedding anniversary would have been attained had Mrs. Shirley lived less than two months longer. They were the oldest couple in Quincy. Until within a few weeks Mrs. Shirley was quite active, doing her own housekeeping, making her own clothes, visiting her relatives; in July going for a visit to Whiton's, Massachusetts, a journey of fifty miles. She made handsome rugs, and had a quilt neatly pieced and ready for the quilting-frame at the time when her last illness stopped her skilful fingers.

Mr. and Mrs. Shirley had ten children; one died in infancy, nine are yet living. They had seventy grandchildren, and about a year ago there were eighteen great-grandchildren, so that the number of their descendants was about one hundred.

Castle Square Theatre.

The production of "The Chimes of Normandy" by the Castle Square Opera Co., this week, is fully up to the high standard of this admirable lyric stock company. Mr. Philip Hale writes in the Journal: "Mr. Murray was admirable as ever, and Mr. Persse sang with taste and voice unimpaired by the strain to which it has been subjected. Mr. Wolff's Gaspard is well known here, and it must be said that it gives pleasure to the audience. In some respects it is the best piece of work he has done at the Castle Square. His performance has evidently been carefully considered, and it is consistent throughout." Next week the attraction will be "Billee Taylor." This is a great favorite and the management will give it a stunning production.

ANOTHER BREAK.

And Promptly Followed by Another Arrest—Hammers Recovered.

The granite sheds owned by one Patterson at New State were entered sometime Friday night and four bush hammers stolen. A short time after the break had been reported to the police this morning, a telephone message was received from Boston notifying the police that a man having in his possession four bush hammers had been arrested by officers of station three while in the act of pawning them. This doubtless is the party who broke into Patterson's sheds Friday night and is responsible for some of the other thefts.

Inspector McKay was immediately sent to Boston to bring the man to Quincy.

Chief of Police Hayden has recovered 34 of the bush hammers that have been stolen recently from the stone sheds. These hammers were all recovered in Boston pawnshops where they had been pawned for small amounts, few being for more than a dollar.

ANOTHER VICTORY.

A Touch Down That Was Scored Just in Time.

The joint Adams-High foot ball team went to Dorchester yesterday and defeated Dorchester High School on Town field by a score of 4 to 0.

Quincy's touch-down was scored by Chapman thirty-two seconds before the end of the first half.

The second half which was a slugging match, ended with Dorchester's ball on Quincy's three yard line. During the last half the crowd closed in on the players and greatly interferred with the game.

The principal features of the game were the tackling of Hinds, Worcester and Bradlee, and the playing of Chapman, Kent and Walsh.

In the Quincy eleven were Badger, Barry, Litchfield, Duffield, Fowler, Saunders, Taylor, Eldredge, Chapman, Kent and Walsh.

Score,—Adams-High, 4. Dorchester, 0. Touchdown, Chapman. Time, two 20-minute halves.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

It is more than probable that Mr. Charles Francis Adams, 2d., will be the next Democratic nominee for mayor of this city.

Within a few days the Hon. John F. Merrill's name has been prominently mentioned as the Republican mayoralty nominee. Both Mr. Merrill and Mr. Adams would make very strong candidates, so strong in fact that it would be hazardous to attempt to predict who would be the successful one.

The Democratic ward committee is rather broken up over the appointment of Postmaster Dunham at Houghs Neck. The department at Washington notified them that there would be no change but nevertheless an appointment follows shortly.

The Republicans of the ninth Norfolk district are a little premature in apportioning the district, as Needham, Millis, and Wellesley, Medfield and Dover may not be in one district after this year.

The Shrievalty.

Among the minor issues of the pending November election, says the Dedham Transcript, none is attracting more general attention in our own county than the contest for the Shrievalty. The only reason we have been able to discover for the attempt to displace an official of the unimpeachable character and proved administrative ability of Sheriff Endicott—who enjoys in the highest degree the respect and confidence of his fellow citizens, irrespective of party—is, that the County is strongly Republican, and therefore should not longer tolerate a Democrat in one of its most important offices. A purely partisan reason like this, we are warranted in believing, long since ceased to be operative with the voters of Norfolk in their treatment of County officials of recognized ability and fidelity. The Republican party presents a united front upon the great political issues of the campaign, but the politicians reckon ill who make no account of the large independent vote within its ranks that can be relied on in support of local good government. In view of the overwhelming defeat that for nearly forty years has followed every similar partisan attempt to displace competent officials of the County, it is to be regretted that the convention did not follow the example of its predecessor in 1892, and adjourn without making a nomination for the Shrievalty. The blunder of the convention becomes daily more apparent as news is received from different parts of the County, which points unmistakably to the re-election of Mr. Endicott by an old-time majority.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

The water department is making another house to house canvass.

Jennie S. Skinner of East Milton has been granted a pension.

You will do well to watch the Saturday prices of L. M. Pratt & Co.

The frame of the new Baptist chapel at South Quincy was raised this morning.

The L of one of W. S. Williams' houses on Pleasant street is being raised a story.

An examination for clerks and carriers for the post office department will be held Dec. 7.

The Wollaston W. C. T. Union will meet in the Baptist church on Friday, Nov. 1st, at three P. M.

The Fragment Society will meet in the Unitarian chapel, Wednesday, Oct. 30th, at two o'clock.

Hereafter a weather bulletin will be posted every morning in the postoffice which will be found very convenient.

A large bonfire at Quincy Park last evening covered Quincy Neck with smoke, and many in the city thought a large fire was raging.

The first dance of the West Quincy ball club at St. Mary's hall, Friday night, was largely attended and a grand good time enjoyed.

The white signs on the dashers of the street cars are a good thing in the right place, but should include all the villages on the route.

Several Atlantic ladies have shown their christian spirits by giving the Memorial Congregational church a thorough renovating last week.

Ex-Councilman John E. Drake is so seriously ill that a consultation was held Friday and but slight hopes are entertained for his recovery.

The last event in the Wollaston Golf club tournament is being held this afternoon. The match is for ladies, and nine holes will be played with no handicap.

The next meeting of the Hospital Aid Association will be held in the Probate Court room, Adams building, Thursday Oct. 31, at 3 o'clock. Directors' meeting at 2.30 o'clock.

It is reported that an attempt was recently made to burn the sheds of the Manet Granite Co. on Centre street, but the fire was fortunately discovered before much damage was done.

The Ladies' society of the Methodist Episcopal church, Wollaston, will hold a sewing meeting at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 30, with Mrs. Hastings, Central avenue, between Farrington and Fayette streets.

There was a large attendance at the Unity Club's regular meeting on Friday evening at the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church. "Questions of Citizenship" was the topic discussed. Mr. H. W. Lull was the director. Several very able papers were read.

The old central fire station on School street is a disgrace. Many of the windows are smashed in and those on the street floor are covered with old boards which look as though they were thrown on, and these boards are covered with all sorts of advertising bills.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Carey was held from St. John's church this morning. Rev. John P. Cuffe celebrated the requiem mass. The interment was in the family lot at West Quincy. Her four sons, Timothy J., Michael, John and Thomas acted as pall bearers.

Prof. Harriette J. Cooke of the Epworth settlement at the North End of Boston, is to speak at the Methodist Episcopal church, Wollaston, Sunday morning. An interesting account of the missions among the Portuguese, Italians, Jews and other nationalities of the North End may be expected.

Secretary Colton, Dr. C. T. Sherman and Mr. Fred Scammell left Thursday noon for Pawtucket, R. I., to attend the Y. M. C. A. State convention held at that place. Messrs. J. Merritt, Peter McLeod, Thomas Parsons and Theodore Hermanson left this morning to spend two days at the convention. We trust that the delegates may be able to bring home some of the enthusiasm and divine power that is always present at such conventions.

The Woods are Full of Them.

A stranger giving the name of Cassidy has been calling on several Atlantic ladies within the past few days, stating that he formerly sold newspapers in Atlantic, and expects to re-establish himself in the business with a stand near the depot. He also asserts that the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. are going to back him. Before leaving he requests a loan of money on account of subscriptions he expects to receive. He has called on some of the old residents and as they never knew such a person in Atlantic the long time they have lived there, he is supposed to be a swindle.

SUDDEN DEATH.

A Well-Known Gentleman Who Was Upon the Street This Morning.

Mr. Hugh McPhail, one of Quincy's well-known citizens, dropped dead of heart failure at his residence on Hancock street this morning.

Mr. McPhail has been ill for some weeks past, being threatened with pneumonia, and it has only been within a day or two that he has been able to be out of doors. This morning he went out for a short time and over exerted himself. He returned to his home and was seated in a chair from which he arose with the intention of laying down, when he fell over and expired almost immediately.

Mr. McPhail was born in Prince Edward's Island and came to Quincy some fourteen years ago. He has resided in this city ever since. His trade was that of a shoemaker, and he was employed for a number of years by N. Curtis & Co. at their manufactory on Granite street.

He was a member of Merry Mount lodge, K. of H., and was also prominently identified with the local branch of the Iron Hall.

He was always greatly interested in church work and during the time of the mission of Fr. Kelly in Quincy he was one of his firmest supporters. Of late he has been affiliated with Rev. C. W. Wilder's church at Wollaston.

He was 57 years of age and leaves a widow and three daughters. Of the latter one resides in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, and is the wife of the editor of the Yarmouth Times. The others reside in Quincy, one being the wife of Mr. Fred F. Green, and the other, Miss May, is a clerk in the National Granite bank.

TODAY'S COURT.

Edward Loring, of Braintree, was arraigned for the larceny of 10 eggs, valued at 27 cents, from Albert A. Drollett. As Loring had returned seven of the eggs, the court placed him on three months' probation.

Antonio Powello was arraigned for breaking and entering the sheds of Badger Bros. and the larceny of four bush hammers, valuedat $26. Case continued until Monday, Powello being held in $500 bonds.

Patrick McAloon, a carrier, was arraigned for stealing certain goods of Hannah Moynihan to the value of $57, while in transit to Roxbury. Case continued until Monday.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The Sloyd school for boys in Wollaston will open next Saturday Nov. 2. The boys under fourteen will meet at 3 o'clock next Saturday and those of fifteen and upwards will meet at 7 o'clock.

The association's educational exhibit at the Mechanics Fair is attracting universal attention and many favorable comments are made concerning it.

New Granite Church.

At a meeting of the First Congregational parish, of Brockton, held last evening, the building committee was authorized to place the contract for a new granite church, to cost $61,734, exclusive of the architect's commission of $3000.

—A lawyer in a court room may call a man a liar, scoundrel, villain and no one makes a complaint. If a newspaper prints such a reflection on a man's character there is a libel suit or a dead editor. This must be owing to the fact the people believe what an editor says and what the lawyer says cuts no figure.—Richmond, (Que.) Times.

—In a secret circular sent out by the liquor dealers is the following mandate: "Set your heel upon the woman suffrage movement every time, for the ballot in the hands of women means the downfall of our trade." This confession, if none other, is a cogent reason why women should be permitted to vote.

Reduced in Strength

And very low in health was my condition after a siege with the grip. Being over 70 years of age my recovery was slow. I resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and began to gain in strength at once. In a few months I was about my work as usual.

GREENLEAF PARK.

The Finest Residential Section in Quincy,

And the home of many of Quincy's most prominent citizens.

This property—a part of the old Butler estate—is in close proximity to the new High School, the Adams Academy, the Woodward Academy for girls, a few steps from the electric cars on Hancock street, and within a few minutes' walk of the depot and Quincy Centre.

It embraces the land lying between Greenleaf street, one of the best streets in Quincy, and the new Merry Mount Park. The improvements are nearly all made, and some of the finest residences in the city are located here.

PRICES are very reasonable, ranging from 10 to 15 cents per foot and some good small lots at even lower prices.

TERMS can be made satisfactory if desired.

REASONABLE RESTRICTIONS as to the character and location of buildings have been established, and with the prospect in the near future of a new R. R. station at President's Bridge, close to the property, lots are sure to advance rapidly in value during the next few years.

REMEMBER there is no other land in Quincy so well located at such reasonable prices. Call at our office in Quincy for plans, prices and particulars, and take a look at some of the lots on Merry Mount and Butler Roads, Greenleaf, Hudson and Putnam streets. They are certain to please you if you are prospecting for a home site.

THE VALUE OF FURNITURE

And its usefulness depends on how it's put together, made up and finished. There's more difference in furniture and its wearing quality than with any other class of merchandise, and people are beginning to find it out.

What the intelligent buyers want today, is something that's built for service, low in price and attractive to look at, and we make it our business to see that our patrons get it every time.

Remember there isn't a better place on earth to find goods and prices just as you'd like than at this, THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

A rare and unusual opportunity is to be given to the people of Wollaston and vicinity, within a few days, when Miss Anna Seaton Schmidt, of Washington, D. C., delivers a course of illustrated lectures, on Italian Art, in the Unitarian church. Miss Schmidt is a lady of culture and refinement, who has lived years in Italy and thoroughly understands her subject. There is an entire absence of the stilted phraseology of the ordinary lecturer, who has collected a few pictures and presents them with a memorized story from an encyclopedia. She dwells lovingly and tenderly upon that which are dreams to most of us, yet charming realities to her, and all will be entertained and instructed who listen to her, while the student cannot afford to miss the opportunity. Miss Schmidt has delighted audiences in Washington, yet has spoken but once in the North, and that was before the New England Women's Press Association at the Parker House, Boston, last week, when the most critical audience rendered a unanimous verdict as to the merit and charm of the lecture, pronouncing it a genuine treat.

* * *

Mrs. Wade, whose practical cooking lectures were so successful in Quincy last spring, is to give during November a course of four lectures in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church under the patronage of Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, Mrs. Eugene Sprague, Mrs. H. W. Lull, Mrs. Charles R. Sherman and Mrs. Frank A. Page.

* * *

Mr. E. G. Hall and Misses Annie Gertrude Hall and Mr. D. E. Wadsworth attended the Glover-Southworth wedding, at Ashmont, Wednesday evening.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shackley and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Goucher attended the wedding of Miss Mary E. Ripley and Mr. Frederic Milton Smith at Campello, Thursday evening.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sibley of Grand View avenue, Wollaston, entertain their friends next Friday afternoon, Nov. 1.

Mr. Isaac Hull Adams and sister Miss Elizabeth Adams have left their summer home on Elm street and gone to Jamaica Plains for the winter.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Holbrook of Wollaston were the guests of his father, Mr. Abram C. Hobrook of Holbrook, over Sunday.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Royal Abbott of Randolph, have issued cards for the marriage of their daughter, Minnie R., and Mr. Julius E. Mann of Stoughton, on Wednesday evening Nov. 18th at their residence on Warren street.

* * *

—The Fall River Line is looking forward to a season of unusual prosperity the coming winter, because the increase in each winter's business over the last preceding is nowadays exceedingly marked, owing to the fact that the public is now thoroughly acquainted with the truth that this transportation agency is even more beneficient in winter than in summer, so safe, comfortable and inviting are its great steamboats, and so well provided are they in all appliances and accommodations that can "soften the asperities" of even the coldest weather. So great is the contrast between the comfort prevailing upon these boats and the severities of Winter outside, that passengers are fairly charmed with their experiences at this season.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Great Britain Said to Be In Cahoot With the Spanish Government.

Cleveland Has Made No Promises to De Lome.

Latter Suspects Misunderstanding of a Story From Madrid.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 26.—The member of the Cuban junta now in the northwest yesterday declared that there was a secret compact between Spain and England, which accounted for the seizures of filibustering expeditions in the Bahama islands, by which Spain is to turn over the Isla de Pines, at the southwestern end of Cuba, to England, in return for England's promise to prevent the fitting out of expeditions from her West Indian dependencies. The Isla de Pines would give England an immensely valuable naval station, commanding the only channel to the Nicaraguan canal not now controlled by England. It is also asserted that Cuba will soon have a modern navy of five vessels, under command of Admiral de Mello, the Brazilian sailor. Two ships are to come from Brazil, and one from Chili. He admits that an effort is soon to be made to float an issue of $20,000,000 of Cuban bonds.

A YARN FROM MADRID

Which Appears to Have Been Without a Shadow of Foundation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Some attention was attracted in Washington yesterday by Madrid dispatches coming via Habana alleging that the president had promised the Spanish minister to veto any action by congress favorable to the Cubans. It can be stated positively that no such promise has been made, and that such a promise would be so irregular and unprecedented as to be beyond the range of probabilities. The story can be set down as one intended to encourage the loyal element in Cuba.

Minister de Lome says he has made no report to the government to the effect that he had assurances that President Cleveland would veto any congressional resolution granting belligerent rights to the Cuban insurgents. "I have made no such report, or anything akin to it," said the minister.

He added that it must be evident to those having an intelligent understanding of the course of public affairs that no such assurances of a president's veto could be given him before legislation had been inaugurated by congress or had reached the executive branch of the government.

The minister pointed out that there is some apprehension as to his reports to his government on the question of the policy of the United States as to restoring seized arms to those suspected of being insurgents.

A cable dispatch reports the Spanish minister of foreign affairs as saying that the United States had given assurances that seized arms would not be restored to filibuster suspects until they had sued for them and had thus established their ownership.

There is evidently, Minister de Lome said, some misunderstanding of what the minister of foreign affairs said. The United States has held seized arms until proofs were offered of their ownership, but no suits were instituted. In the case of the arms taken at Wilmington, Del., they remained for nearly two months, then a shipmaster presented papers showing on their face that they were his. Senor de Lome was satisfied of the irregularity of the claim, yet as the papers made out a prima facie case of ownership the United States released the arms. Senor de Lome says he does not question the regularity of this course, although he has information convincing him that the arms ultimately got back to the filibusters.

In the case of arms taken from Cedar Keys, Fla., the marshal has published a notice that the owners must establish their rights to the arms by a given day, or else they will be forfeited to the United States. These facts indicate the policy pursued by the United States in the restoration of arms, and it is this matter which Senor de Lome has made known to the Madrid authorities.

The minister declares that the battle reported by one of the Cuban junta in Minneapolis is a mistaken version of a small skirmish which occurred a month ago, in which Maceo was reported wounded.

From Florida.

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 26.—Spanish papers received here from Habana say that Minister de Lome reports that the United States will soon recognize the Cuban insurgents.

Stock Is Now $15,000,000.

DOVER, Del., Oct. 26.—A certificate of the capital stock of the Bay State Gas company was filed yesterday in the office of Secretary of State Whiteman. The stock is now $15,000,000, which includes the increase of $5,000,000 granted by the last legislature.

Three Children Cremated.

LIVINGSTON, Ala., Oct. 26.—Three small children of Granville Lancaster, a farmer, were locked in the house by their mother while she called on a neighbor. The house burned down and the children were roasted to death.

Judge Lewis.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The president yesterday appointed Yancey Lewis of Ardmore, I. T., United States judge for the central district of Indian Territory, to succeed Judge Stuart, resigned.

Waiting For Fitz.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 26.—Corbett announces that he will remain at Spring Lake until Nov. 1, to preclude any possibility of Fitzsimmons claiming a fluke in case he comes here Oct. 31.

Let Robbers Beware.

GRAND RAPIDS, Oct. 26.—All the messengers in the employ of the American Express company have been furnished an outfit of winchesters and revolvers, to resist any train robbers.

Hundreds Are Homeless.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 26.—Fire in the lumber and planing mill of Jesse Thompson & Co. consumed the plant. Forty-four houses were destroyed. Several hundred people are homeless.

Murderer Hanged.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Oct. 26.—William Young, an Alastian, aged 23, was hanged here yesterday for the murder of Pierre Lastestro.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Business Once More Getting Back to Its Normal Condition.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Ten days ago gold exports seemed very near, but the break in cotton which then began ripened on Monday into a collapse sufficient to justify hope of a free movement. Hides have also dropped sharply at Chicago. Leather is weaker, and the adjustment of prices to real instead of imaginary conditions progresses rapidly. Already lower prices in iron have brought out some important contracts.

Labor difficulties, though including a strike of many Pennsylvania coal miners, who do not seem to be succeeding, are on the whole of no serious importance. Money markets cause remarkably little trouble, considering the heavy movement of products. Cooler weather has generally helped retail trade, and with increased consumption by the millions, the way will be clear for better business. Already payments through clearing houses approach for October those of the best year in history, though reflecting in part past transactions, and new orders are still much needed by the great industries.

Wheat has risen 3 cents this week, although western receipts, 7,997,061 bushels for the week, against 5,059,787 last year, continue unusually large, and Atlantic exports, including flour, 1,176,117 bushels for the week, against 1,856,934 last year, and for four weeks 5,734,572 bushels, against 9,195,046 last year, show plainly a slack demand from abroad. Russia and Argentina are both moving freely. Nobody can give a reason for higher corn, and pork declined 25 cents, lard 1-16th and hogs 10 cents per 100 pounds.

Textile manufactures have been for the moment disturbed, rather than helped, by the decline in cotton, as it checks buying of some fabrics, with lower prices for print cloths, and prospects of lower prices for other goods. The demand for worsteds and dress goods is encouraging, while in woolen goods the situation does not improve. Renewed orders are moderate, and men's goods are easy to buy at previous quotations.

Although hides have fallen fully ½ cent at Chicago and some kinds of leather are lower, quotations of boots and shoes do not change, and many factories have stopped for a time, but shipments given by The Shoe and Leather Reporter for October are 23 per cent less than last year.

Timely Editorials.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The Chronicle says: We think that thus menaced by Russia, Japan will refuse to evacuate Port Arthur. It is not inconceivable that if Russia attempts such a step England and Japan will form an offensive and defensive alliance. If Lord Salisbury will only be able to make up his mind what to do, and how to do, he has a chance to gain credit for himself. The Standard considers that The Times' Hong Kong dispatch, reporting important concession to Russia by China, is ballon d'essai on Russia's part. Even if the mandarins sanctioned such a treaty, The Standard continues, it would only be with the comforting assurance that they would face the opposition of Japan and the powers. The covenant would be mere waste paper.

In Durrant's Behalf.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—General Dickinson made the opening argument for the defense in the trial of Theodore Durrant yesterday. He spoke from morning until night, and then announced that he would conclude his argument next Tuesday. Dickinson did not attack the integrity of the prosecution's witnesses or denounce the methods of the police, as Attorney Duprey intimated would be done in his opening address to the jury. He based his whole defense upon the reliability of the rollcall, which shows that Durrant attended Dr. Cheney's lecture on the afternoon of April 3, and challenged the prosecution to prove that the call was incorrect.

Relations Are Cordial.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Attorney General Harmon says: "There is not an atom of truth in the story that Secretary Olney is about to leave the cabinet. I am willing to be quoted as saying that the president and the secretary have not had even a difference of opinion out of which a story of a quarrel could be built, and the tale of a serious disagreement is a lie out of the whole cloth, without a shadow of foundation."

El Paso's Bid.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 27.—J. J. Taylor yesterday wired Stuart that El Paso would put up a cash guarantee of $10,000 that Corbett and Fitzsimmons could fight here without interference. Stuart replied that he was at work trying to sign the men for a fight at El Paso. Corbett telegraphed that he had no objection to El Paso as a battleground.

—A skunk got into the cellar of the Baptist church in Hyannis, Cape Cod, one Saturday night, and the only way the janitor could devise to get it out was to shoot it, which he did, and as a consequence the odorizing effect of his excellency's visit was everywhere apparent. It was so far reaching as to permeate the houses of all who attended the morning service.

DEFENSE OF TERRELL.

Stories of Neglect of Missionaries Are Pronounced False.

Has Done All He Could In Their Behalf.

Has Pity For "Misguided" Armenians and Deplores Slanderous Journalism.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. — Mr. Terrell, United States minister at Constantinople, yesterday sent the following cablegram to Senator Mills and Congressman Sayers:

The New York World publishes the charge that I have neglected missionary interests. Every American missionary in the city will state this to be false. Not one American missionary in Asia Minor has been injured during this terrible strife, though more numerous than those of all Europe.

To protect them against a two-fold danger I have remained for months, with leave of absence granted. The attack on my personal relations with the sultan deserves only contempt. They have not endangered the security of missionaries. Such attacks are inspired by secret societies of Armenians, whose method of assassination Rev. Dr. Hamlin exposed in The Independent of December, 1893.

A Specimen Case.

I have for months kept a Turkish guard to protect an American professor in a missionary college against threatened assassination by emissaries of the secret societies. They cannot understand and resent my observance of our established policy of non-intervention here.

I have never failed to rescue from prison every Armenian when arrested who bore an American passport. Among them were known revolutionists. To expose the assassins of reputation has become a duty.

For the misguided Armenian I have only pity, but the American journal that publishes a slander to impair the influence of its country's minister at a distant court will be rebuked by American patriotism and the American press, regardless of party.

At General Pike's Grave.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The supreme council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Masons made a pilgrimage to Oak Hill cemetery yesterday, and at the grave of the late General Albert Pike inaugurated services which are to be observed in each triennial session of the order hereafter. Grand Commander Caswell explained the object of the custom. L. A. Parvin referred at length to the eminent services of General Pike, through whose influence Masonry became a power in the world. The ritual was then read. The mourning battery salute was given, and singing concluded the exercises.

Many Claims Settled.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The interstate commerce commission yesterday announced its decision in a number of claims involving reparation to shippers for discriminating charges on petroleum oil. Various claimants are awarded amounts aggregating $84,984, and the defendant carriers participating in the shipment are held severally liable.

Plunging Into Debt.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 26.—The government press admits the seriousness of the financial condition of the colony, and apprehends that there is danger of being unable to liquidate obligations unless the strictest economy is practiced. It condemns the infractions of the retrenchment policy by the creation of new and useless offices.

British Line Gets It.

LONDON, Oct. 26. — The White Star steamship line has obtained the American contract for carrying the mails for a decade through the Majestic of their line beating the St. Louis in placing the New York mails in London. It is stated that the rate for the contract is 16 shillings a mile.

Going to Ireland.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Oct. 26. — Mrs. Della T. S. Parnell, who has sold at public auction her personal effects at Ironsides, left here today for New York, where she will remain until she has so far regained her health as to enable her to sail for Ireland.

Backbone of Strike Broken.

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Oct. 26.—The resumption ordered by W. B. Wilson, who has been directing the mine strike in his region, pending the negotiations being made for a joint conference, had the effect of starting up nearly all the mines that were idle.

The 128th Victim.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 26.—The 128th victim of Brooklyn's trolley system, Ferdinand Goldnecht, 5 years old, while crossing Myrtle avenue, was struck by a car and almost instantly killed. The motorman of the car, William McMahoney, was arrested.

Hurt by Cattle Imports.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The minister of husbandry yesterday received a deputation which presented a petition to the government protesting against the importation of cattle into France from the Argentine Republic and Canada.

THE VENEZUELAN ROW.

Text of the First Demand Which Was Promulgated by Great Britain.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—So far as can be learned, there are no fresh developments in the Venezuelan affair, and apparently none is expected for a few days. It is said that the present unpublished British demands on Venezuela is a reiteration of a former demand, but couched in considerably stronger language. In view of the assertion that the question involved is one of reparation for wrongs done a British official, and does not involve the territorial question, publication is authorized of the first demand made by Great Britain. Its text is:

IMPERIAL GERMAN LEGATION,
CARACAS, Nov. 12, 1894.

Senor P. Esquiel Rojas, Minister of Foreign Relations:

In pursuance of a telegraphic communication from my government, I have had the honor, in the capacity of charge of British interests in Venezuela, to protest, in the name of the cabinet of Great Britain, against a violation of the frontier of British Guiana, perpetrated by Venezuelan soldiers on the Cuyuni river, and to ask that an order of prohibition be issued to the Venezuelan soldiers against crossing that river, also against their cutting timber on the right bank of the river. I have the honor to request your excellency to bring this communication before a council of ministers at your earliest possible convenience, and, as a solution of the vexatious question is desired by the parties interested, I hope to receive the reply of your excellency at an early moment. BODMAN.

The protest was sent through the German minister, Baron Bodman, as the British have discontinued diplomatic relations with Venezuela.

The text of the Venezuelan answer, also made public, shows that the demand was rejected on the express ground that instructions to Venezuelan soldiers not to cross the Cuyuni river would be a surrender of the entire territorial question continually urged by Venezuela.

Heavy Damage to Property.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 26.—A hurricane swept over the island. Many serious accidents occurred, but so far no loss of life is reported. Houses were unroofed and started from their foundations, verandas and outbuildings bodily blown away, and trees were uprooted. Early crops will be damaged and considerable will be ruined. Telephone and telegraph posts were razed in every direction and communication is completely demoralized.

Time Is Up.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26. — Cecil Stuart, the newspaper man who is going around the world on a wager, will lose it. He started from New Zealand and was to be in Boston Oct. 25. In his effort he was not to beg, borrow or steal. Yesterday he reached the stockyards in search for the transportation by a cattle train to Boston. He secured it, but will not be able to reach Boston in time.

Couldn't Go Through.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 26.—In the constitutional convention, Delegate Wigg, colored, proposed a suffrage plan based on a property and educational qualification, but taking it out of the power of the managers of elections to decide these things for the voter. The substitute was voted down.

Counterfeiter Convicted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Dr. Orlando E. Bradford, who was accused of having in his possession plates for the printing of $100 bills, was yesterday found guilty. John Nixon, who was jointly tried with him, was acquitted.

LIQUOR LAWS DEFIED.

Brockton Pastor Arraigns Authorities For Alleged Indifference.

Certain Dealers Said to Pay Cash For Protection.

Clubrooms Get a Timely Tip When Raids Are Contemplated.

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 28.—Rev. F. A. Warfield delivered an address at the City theater last evening, at the invitation of prominent citizens, upon the non-enforcement of the liquor law. The speaker claimed that Brockton was no longer a dry town. Last January and February 20 search warrants were sworn out, one against a well-known clubroom, while during the two months eight clubrooms were raided and some of the managers convicted. He came to the conclusion that the law was not enforced because of the indifference of the authorities.

He showed that the police were charged to enforce the law, and quoted from the records to show that in the earlier months of the present year places in the Bush were repeatedly raided, while other sections of the town received comparative immunity. He declared that the illegal liquor dealers made a statement that they had paid $50 a month for protection. The speaker said that dealers expected protection.

He said he was amazed that orders were issued simply telling the managers of the clubs that they must stop business. He said that it was known when the liquor squad were sent to tell the managers of certain clubs that they must close. He wanted to know why clubrooms were notified, while poor widows were not.

Going into details, Mr. Warfield reviewed the development of the no-license sentiment in this city. He cited the declaration of Mayor Whipple in his last inaugural, to the effect that the liquor law would be Fearlessly and Impartially Enforced.

The existing state of non-enforcement of the law he attributed to the indifference of the authorities.

Rev. Mr. Warfield said that during the first three months of this year 32 search warrants were issued, only three of which were for parties on Main street. Twenty-eight of the warrants were for dwellings, and the others were for a stable and storerooms. The fact that the houses raided were in the section called the "Bush" was cited in argument that there had been one law for that section and another for Main street.

Rev. Mr. Warfield said that a former notorious liquor dealer made the statement not long ago that he had paid during this year $50 a month for protection. He had not been disturbed until recently, and then an official used his position from a sentence which was imposed upon his conviction.

To Secure His Release

When an expressman on one occasion was delivering goods to this man, a public officer was passing and the expressman noticed the fact. The man said that it was all right, for he was paying $50 a month for protection. These instances, said the speaker, were but samples of many which might be cited and can be proved.

Another significant fact alleged by Rev. Mr. Warfield is that the keepers of certain clubrooms have been unmolested until public sentiment was aroused, and then police officers were sent to notify them that they must stop selling liquor.

He said that the names of clubs which had been notified to stop their traffic are known, and also the names of the persons by whom the notices were sent. No officers were sent to notify the kitchen barrooms on Grove street. No courage was required to arrest the Irish women who kept them, and that might be the fearless enforcement spoken of by the mayor.

May Be a Murder.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 28.—At Madawaska, a man named Langdon had a quarrel with William Hammond. Hammond picked up a club and struck Langdon a terrible blow on the head. Blood gushed from the injured man's nose and ears, and he lay insensible for a long time. Hammond was arrested and bound over for his appearance at the next term of the supreme judicial court to be held in Caribou. Langdon is likely to die from his injuries.

A Crazy Man's End.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 28.—Daniel Wiley of Gorham was found wandering about the streets of this city in an insane condition. The man, who is 55 years old and unmarried, was sent to the almshouse and confined in a cell. Yesterday morning the attendants found Wiley hanging in his cell by his drawers. He had over $1600 on his person at the time of his death.

Faithful Dog Guarded Body.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 28.—Leroy Nelligan, of Ludlow, aged 15, went hunting Friday with a gun and dog. As he did not return, searching parties were organized, and on Saturday the boy was found half a mile from his home dead. One side of his head was blown off and the face scorched with powder. His dog had remained by him all night.

Receiver Asked For.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 28.—A bill in equity against the Maine Mutual Life Insurance company of Biddeford has been filed in the supreme court of York county, asking for an injunction against the company and the appointment of a receiver. The Maine Mutual is an assessment company. Its outstanding liabilities are said to be far in excess of its assets.

To Start an Agitation.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 28.—A great mass meeting was held in city hall yesterday to start an agitation to protest against the lynching outrages at the south. Mayor Jewett presided. District Attorney Moody presented a set of resolutions denouncing the outrages and calling for the agitation for a protest and action on the part of congress.

Bought at a Bargain.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 28. — The majestic royal Vienna vase, by Wagner, which took the grand diploma at the Paris exposition in 1867, where it was purchased for $10,000, was sold Saturday, at auction, to Mrs. Stephen H. Briggs for $1000.

Mill Workers' Grievances.

AMESBURY, Mass., Oct. 28. — General Secretary Cahill of the National Textile union addressed the local Weavers' union, yesterday, called to discuss grievances against the Hamilton mills. Cahill claims that the company has not kept its agreement made at the close of the strike last June that there should be no blacklisting and that wages should be raised when the market warranted. He hopes to settle the trouble without a strike.

The Crimson's Victory.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 28.—Fighting desperately to the last, Cornell went down before the heavier and stronger Harvard football eleven Saturday afternoon, by a score of 25 to 0. It was a clean, splendid game, without a semblance of slugging or brutality, and the new rules, on their first real trial of the year, worked like a charm.

Fourth Witness Gone.

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 28.—Anlouis Pugliese, who was expected to be an important witness against Joseph Calo, has disappeared. Calo is charged with the murder of Marciand Pugliese. Anlouis was a cousin of the murdered man, and is the fourth witness for the state that has been spirited away.

St. Onge's Great Feat.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Oct. 28.—Fred St. Onge broke the record for climbing Corey hill by doing it in 2m. flat, beating the previous record, held by A. P. Benson since 1891, by 53s. Corey hill is 2100 feet long. The contest was from a standing start.

Maine Man Missing.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 28.—On Friday afternoon John Archibald, an employe of the Maine Central, was paid off by the company and started for his home in Knightville. He has not been seen since, and the police are confident that the man was murdered for his money.

Death of an Old Underwriter.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Oct. 28.—D. W. Russell, one of the oldest insurance underwriters in the country, died yesterday after a long sickness. He was born in Boston in 1835 and entered the insurance business when 23 years old.

McCloskey's Expensive Nap.

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 28. — James McCloskey was robbed of $300 which he placed in the pocket of his trousers and deposited beneath the pillow on which he slept. Three men have been arrested on suspicion.

Lost His Mind.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 28.—Dr. V. St. Germain, a popular French physician, also city physician for several years, became violently insane Saturday, and was committed to the Taunton asylum.

Confident of Success.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 28.—The Ammen ram Katahdin arrived here yesterday. General Hyde is confident that the stipulated 17 knots will be exceeded by the Katahdin.

Iron King May Attend.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 28.—It is expected that Andrew Carnegie will be present at the dedication of the Lithgow library here. Mr. Carnegie aided in building the structure.

An Old Man's Fate.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 28. — Milton Follansbee, aged 82 years, was struck by an electric car at West Newbury yesterday and injured so that he died in a few hours.

Hon. Joseph S. Wheelwright, one of the most prominent business men of Bangor, Me., died from an attack of influenza. Mr. Wheelwright was 75 years old.

Overdue Vessels.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28. — The Merchants' Exchange announces that, while there is still hope of hearing from the Lord Spencer, which left here 200 days ago for Queenstown, it is not believed that the Star of Austria, bound to Queenstown, and the Earl of Hopetown, for Adelaide, will ever be heard from again. Although the Lord Brassey has been out 82 days from Hong Kong to Port Blakeley, her absence is accounted for by the fact that she is a light ship with a foul bottom.

Detroit Company Can't Have It.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Secretary Herbert has decided against awarding to the Detroit Towboat company the contract for the building of two of the new gunboats for the navy, notwithstanding it was the lowest bidder. Presumably our agreement with Great Britain, binding each nation against building or putting war vessels on the great lakes, caused this decision to be reached.

Candidate For Insane Asylum.

THE PITZEL MURDERS

Furnish the Basis For the Trial of H. H. Holmes at Philadelphia.

Case Will Be Pushed as Speedily as Possible.

Witnesses From Various Parts of the Country Will Give Testimony.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—Herman Mudget, better known by one of his numerous aliases, H. H. Holmes, was placed on trial at 10.30 o'clock this morning in the new city hall.

The specific charge to which he is called upon to answer is the murder of Benjamin E. Pitzel, and he has already officially declared himself not guilty. The revolting details of the many crimes with which Holmes' name has been directly or indirectly connected have been given such publicity, and the cold, implacable demeanor which has characterized the man throughout has been so frequently commented upon, that the trial will probably pass into history as the most celebrated case known to the criminal annals of the western hemisphere. The commonwealth has already expended thousands of dollars in its efforts to bring the prisoner to summary justice, and there is an indication that, should a conviction for murder in the first degree be obtained, he will be "railroaded" to the gallows.

Witnesses have been brought to this city from Boston, Chicago, Indianapolis, Irvington, Ind., and almost every city where Holmes is known to have lived at various times. What revelations these witnesses will make have been kept a profound secret by the prosecuting officers, but there are expectations of sensational developments. Detective Geyer, who has been for months traveling extensively throughout the country in search of evidence of Holmes' guilt, will be one of the principal witnesses for the commonwealth. The skull and portions of the body of Pitzel, as well as the remains of the boy, Howard Pitzel, who is thought to have been murdered by Holmes in Minneapolis, will be exhibited during the course of the trial.

Hurrying the Case Along.

Judge Arnold is upon the bench, and he has already signified his intention of holding three sessions a day—morning, afternoon and night—so long as the persons interested can stand the strain. The prosecution is in the hands of District Attorney Graham and a corps of assistants, while the interests of the prisoner are guarded by Messrs. Shoemaker and Rolan, young members of the local bar.

Consequent upon the widespread publicity given the case, it is feared that several days will be occupied in securing a jury of men who have not already formed decided opinions concerning the guilt or innocence of Holmes.

It is impossible to learn, even approximately, the number of witnesses to be called on either side, but that there will be a goodly number is apparent from the precautions that will be taken to insure their entrance to the courtroom. Announcement has been made that only those who have business there will be admitted, and an increased corps of court officers, augmented by a detail of reserve policemen, will enforce this order at the doors.

May Quit the Brice Faction.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 28. — Ex-Governor Campbell may announce that he is no longer a candidate for governor on the Brice Democratic ticket. If he does this he will say that he will continue in the campaign on his own merits, with the endorsement of the real Democracy of Ohio. The threatened break results from Senator Brice's alleged failure to abide by an agreement said to have been made by him with Campbell and others to furnish $100,000 to the campaign fund.

Glass Works Will Start Up.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—At the conclusion of an animated debate in the chamber of deputies, in which M. Carmaux attempted to strike M. Jures, who had attacked the government for declining to intervene and arbitrate the labor dispute with the socialists at the Carmaux Glass works, the minister of the interior prevailed upon the manager of the Carmaux Glass works to rekindle his furnaces and to provide work for several hundred men.

Crops Abiaze.

PERRY, O. T., Oct. 28.—A destructive prairie fire raged east of here yesterday. Many thousands of bushels of corn and many tons of hay and vast fields of kaffir corn were destroyed. A number of farmhouses are reported consumed, and it is also reported that two Indian children were fatally burned.

A New Whisky Trust.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—The charter of the American Spirits Manufacturing company has been filed with the county recorder. The concern is identical with that which was incorporated in New York as the successor to the old Whisky trust. The capital stock of the company is $35,000,000.

Sultan Feels Easier.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 28.—A threatening letter was found in the palace, addressed to the sultan. An inquiry incriminated 14 members of the imperial household. All of them were executed on the same day. Thus the sultan's mind was relieved of a very great weight.

Spindles Resting.

MANCHESTER, Oct. 28.—There has been little doing pending the settlement in the cotton market. It is estimated that about 2,000,000 Lancashire spindles are now standing idle.

Liabilities of Over $1,000,000.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 28. — The wholesale dry goods firm of Bamberger, Bloom & Co. of this city have made an assignment. Liabilities, $1,200,000; assets about the same.

Cazenovia's Conflagration.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 28.—Fire at Cazenovia destroyed the opera house, a hotel barn, a law office and valuable law library, besides damaging several other buildings.

Pierola Is Better.

LIMA, Oct. 28.—President Pierola, who has been confined to his bed with an attack of influenza, is recovering.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Springlike today.

City Council meeting tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redman, of Dedham, spent Sunday in Atlantic.

State election a week from tomorrow, and City election four weeks later.

W. L. Ripley has commenced moving his bicycle manufactory to Graham's shop.

The Craig & Richards Granite Co. have an exhibit at the Mechanics fair, Boston.

The New England Telephone Co. will furnish election returns to its subscribers.

The roof of the Sacred Heart church has been repaired in many places where it leaked.

The funeral of Hugh McPhail will be held from his late residence Tuesday at 2 o'clock.

Miss Nellie Nightingale, bookkeeper at F. F. Crane's is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

The Quincy & Boston street railway have commenced to put their snow ploughs in readiness for winter use.

Joseph W. McGrath and William Clare enter the Massachusetts Nautical Training school at Charlestown today.

Mr. James H. Churchill has set out several trees and shrubs around his house, corner of Walker and Clive streets.

Dr. C. T. Sherman received a telegram today that his brother was critically low and he left immediately for his bedside.

Mr. L. A. Bassett of Walker street has had a porch built at his front door and expects to keep warm the coming winter.

The city teams ought to go the rounds very soon and gather up the large quantities of leaves which are littering the streets.

Herbert Dudley is one of our latest wheelmen and has acquired considerable fame by his various difficult tricks and his fast riding.

The Junior Endeavorers of the Washington Street church are planing an entertainment soon, for the sailors at the Snug Harbor home.

George W. Penniman has resigned his office of grand instructor of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and the same has been accepted.

The Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. have connected the works of the Tubular Rivet Co., at Wollaston, with 300 incandescent lights.

Now that the bush hammer thieves have been apprehended, stone cutters may rest easy. The police are to be complimented on their good work.

Mrs. Albert E. Rhoads of Wollaston, who has been quite ill the past four weeks, is convalescing. On Sunday she was able to take a short drive.

Mrs. John H. Roberts of Wollaston, who is at the Adams Nervine Hospital, is improving rapidly. She is now able to go out of doors and take slight exercise.

Rt. Wor. Ernest W. Calkins, District Deputy Grand Master of the 24th Masonic district, will make an official visit to Rural lodge at its communication this week.

With thirty picked voices in the chorus, three rehearsals a week, and Prof. Wrigley as coach, the Quincy Club minstrel show early in December will undoubtedly excel anything heretofore attempted in the burnt-cork line.

It is stated upon excellent authority that the N. Y., N. H. & Hartford is to move the Wollaston depot from the west to the east side of the track. The building movers claim that after the structure is jacked up and set on rollers that it can be run across inside of four hours. As the job will be done on a Sunday it will obstruct the traffic but little.

Burglars at Atlantic.

Burglars entered the house of E. A. Couch at Atlantic Saturday night but were frightened away before they secured anything.

Merry Mount Lodge,
KNIGHTS OF HONOR

MEMBERS are requested to meet at G. A. R. Hall, TUESDAY, OCT. 29, at 1.30 P. M., to attend the funeral of our late brother, HUGH MCPHAIL.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.

The Quincy Union Hold Afternoon and Evening Meetings.

The annual convention of the Quincy Union of King's Daughters was held Saturday afternoon and evening at the Quincy Congregational church, both sessions being largely attended, delegations from all the circles being present.

The afternoon session commenced at 3.15 and was presided over by the president, Miss Emma Saville.

The opening exercises consisted of devotional exercises, silent prayer, and scripture reading, which was followed by prayer by Rev. E. N. Hardy.

Miss Saville made a brief address of welcome which was followed by a solo by Miss Miller.

Reports of circles were heard, the secretary of each stating the work done.

The balance of the afternoon was taken up with addresses by Rev. D. W. Waldron, on "city missionary work," and Rev. H. A. Youtz, on "Earnestness," a poem by Miss Saunders, and a solo by Miss Hastings. There was also singing by the audience.

Before the business session, which closed the afternoon session, a collection of $23.73 was taken, which amount was swelled to $25 and given to Rev. Mr. Waldron for missionary work.

At the business meeting these officers were elected :

President,—Miss Emma Saville.

Secretary and Treasurer,—Miss Florence Olney.

Executive Committee, — Miss Emma Saville, Miss Addie Tupper, Mrs. J. G. Witham and Mrs. J. Henry Emery.

Between the afternoon and evening sessions a collation was served in the lower room of the chapel.

The evening session opened with devotional exercises, scripture reading and prayer, followed by addresses by Rev. E. N. Hardy, Miss Frances Lance and Rev. Walter Russell Breed, solos by Miss Burrows and Miss Spear, poem by Miss Sargent and singing by the audience.

A Missing Five.

That all people in this world are not honest was aptly illustrated at the Wollaston station on Saturday afternoon. A young lady, who is not over well off in worldly goods, went to the ticket office window with her purse in her hand and bought a ticket for Boston. As she dropped the ticket and change into her purse after starting for the door she noticed that a five dollar bill which she had in it a moment before was missing. Turning quickly around to search under the window for it, she noticed that a woman, who had been sitting near by watching her, was just stooping to pick up the bill. Miss Blank anxiously asked her if that was a five dollar bill which she had found.

"No," was the cool rejoinder, "it is a one dollar bill."

Miss Blank was so taken aback with the brazenness of the whole proceedings, that before she could recover her composure the woman had walked out of the station, and instead of going to Boston on the train with her husband as she intended to, she walked to Hancock street and took an electric.

The case will be turned over to the police unless the money is handed over to Station Agent Burrell or the young lady, as the woman had no right to retain it under those circumstances, regardless of what the amount was of whom it belonged to.

The Ladies' Match.

There was not as large an attendance as was looked for at the Ladies' Championship,—one round,—of the Wollaston Golf club, which was played on Saturday afternoon on the Bellevue Park links. There were five entries and but four scores recorded. The afternoon was an ideal one for golf playing. It was thought that out of the five contestants Miss Sherman, judging from her previous scores, would be the winner. She led until the "Slough of Despond" was reached, but in rescuing the ball from that dreaded place her score was materially increased. Miss Whitcher, who, up to this point had a higher score, passed in safety and won the ladies' championship.

The score: Miss Whitcher, 75; Miss Sherman, 78; Mrs. John A. Barlow, 80; Miss Holbrook, 84.

Put on a Screen.

A Wollaston family, who occupy an apartment in the Old Colony terrace, met with a serious accident to their furnace on Saturday. A large skunk, attracted by the warm air coming out of the cold air box, thought what a cosey house it would make for him this winter. The idea no sooner entered Mr. Skunk's head than he proceeded to move into his new quarters. He moved in so far that he lost his footing and slid down the box into the furnace. The result was disasterous for the occupants of the house as well as for his skunkship. The aid of a well known family of gunners was invoked and the animal was killed. It will be some time before the house will be inhabitable.

THE MAYORALTY.

Hon. John F. Merrill Says He Is Not a Candidate.

Ex-Councilman S. O. Moxon Likely to be Renominated.

Vote by Wards at the Last State and City Elections.

Many would be pleased to support Hon. John F. Merrill for the mayoralty and were pleased at the suggestion that he might be the Republican candidate, but Mr. Merrill informs the LEDGER that he is not a candidate. That at the present time the office holds out no inducements for him. When a candidate for office he does not hesitate to let his position be known, and were he a candidate now there would be no doubt as to where he stood.

Mr. Merrill inclines to the renomination of Stephen O. Moxon, although he thinks a Ward One man would be stronger in some sections. He recognizes, however, the grand fight made last year and the support which Mr. Moxon received in Ward Six. Mr. Merrill has a good word for the Ward One men mentioned : Messrs. Bass and Hall.

It seems as if it would be suicidal for the Republican party to again change its candidate this year. It is bad policy particularly when a candidate comes as near election as did Stephen O. Moxon. He put up a good fight and reduced Mayor Hodges majority of 361 in 1893 to but 28, making large gains in four of the six wards. The figures and the pluralities are given below:

	Hodges, Vote.	Plu.	Moxon, Vote.	Plu.
Ward One,	307	42	265	—
Ward Two,	281	75	206	—
Ward Three,	359	78	281	—
Ward Four,	398	125	273	—
Ward Five,	110	—	285	175
Ward Six,	121	—	238	117
	1,576		1,548

The vote of the last State election should be studied in connection with the above, and is given below:

	Greenhalge, Vote.	Plu.	Russell, Vote.	Plu.
Ward One,	388	221	167	—
Ward Two,	246	69	177	—
Ward Three,	372	144	218	—
Ward Four,	270	—	355	85
Ward Five,	328	244	84	—
Ward Six,	175	15	160	—
	1,779		1,161

At the State election the Republicans had a majority of 618, yet at the city election a month later the Democrats elected their Mayor by a plurality of 28. This was not an uncommon occurrence for the city usually reverses matters this way. For from 1889 to 1893, inclusive, the city was Democratic at State elections and yet elected Republican Mayors. In 1893 and 1894 the city was Republican at State election and elected Democratic Mayors. As the city is sure to go Republican at the State eletion next week it looks as if the Republicans had no chance at the city election, but as Republican votes have elected Mayor Hodges, it would seem to rest with the Republicans now.

Quincy Park Opening.

A street band this morning informed people of the opening of Quincy park, and the clambake and entertainment drew many to Quincy Point. It was a veritable Western land boom.

The company expect to sell the balance of the entire 265 lots today. They also report the sale of houses on the estate as follows: To George F. Nott house of six rooms and 3000 square feet of land, situated at 14 North street, on private terms; also house of six rooms and 4000 square feet of land, situated at 22 North street, to Julia M. Dennis, on private terms; the old Kittredge homestead, which consists of a large house of 10 rooms, large stable and 21,794 square feet of land, situated on Washington street, on private terms. The purchaser was Philomena A. Gallagher of Quincy.

Father of an Alderman.

Jonas Hallstram, who was born in Quincy in 1815, died at his home in Boston on Saturday. He became a pilot at the age of 18, and a few years later captain of one of the schooners of a fishing fleet from Hingham. For some years he was baggage master on the Stonington line, and for several years was in the fish trade. Ex-Alderman Charles W. Hallstram is his son.

MILTON MAN HEADMASTER.

Mr. Granville Webster Now at Head of Eliot School, Boston.

The School Committee of Boston, has appointed Mr. Granville Webster, of East Milton, a former principal of the Willard school, Quincy, to the vacancy caused by the death of Col. Harrington. The Herald says:

Mr. Granville S. Webster, after 25 years of continuous service in the school, now becomes its head master. When he first went there his pupils were, nearly all, of Irish birth or of Irish decent. Today the classes are about equally divided between Irish, Hebrew and Italian, and the outlook is that the Hebrew and Italian elements will soon be dominant.

Mr. Webster was not on the preferred list of 10 sub-masters eligible for promotion to masterships—necessarily an arbitrary list at best—but it would have been almost a crime to have gone out into some other district to find the school its head, when Mr. Webster was especially equipped for this particular service, having had years of experience in the pecular field and having labored so long and so harmoniously with Col. Harrington.

It is, perhaps, not a very important, but it is an interesting fact that during his quarter century of service Mr. Webster was not once tardy, and he was absent from his post of duty but two days, one occasion being the burial of his father and the other the burial of his mother. His record of constancy differs from records made nowadays, when 10 per cent. of the whole teaching staff of the city is granted leave of absence. It is noteworthy that he never took advantage of what is known in the school department as the "nine year rule," under which any teacher who has served nine years in the city schools may be given one whole year leave of absence at half pay. Mr. Webster has for many years been a highly esteemed resident of Milton, of the board of registrars of voters, of which town he has been chairman ever since the board was organized.

Two Smashups.

Baker wagons were unfortunate Saturday, two of them being smashed up and their contents of bread, cake and pastry scattered promiscuously about the street.

The first smashup was on Water street, and was caused by the 3 o'clock car from Quincy running into the rear end of C. F. Farnsworth's baker wagon. The wagon was tipped over on its side. The team was not damaged much, but the contents was quite badly mixed.

The second smashup occurred to a team of N. W. Cronk. The horse was feeding, minus his bridle, in one of the sheds at the Monatiquot house, North Weymouth. The horse backed out and started across the bridge on his own hook at a breakneck speed. Reaching the Quincy side the horse turned in between Patch's coal office and Kilpatrick's store. The team struck the building and smashed one shaft and threw the contents into the street.

HEADS LOPPED OFF.

Due to Poor System of Bookkeeping in Bureau of Accounts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—In addition to the resignation of Francis J. Kieckhoefer, the chief of the bureau of accounts at the state department, at the request of Secretary Olney, the secretary has also requested and received the resignation of Edward Haywood, the chief bookkeeper of the bureau.

These changes are the results of the discovery of alleged irregularities in the accounts of the bureau, which have been under investigation for some time. It is understood that a report from the expert accountants conducting the investigation to the department showed some thousands of dollars unaccounted for, the principal shortage being $9000. This sum, it is alleged, has been deposited by South American republics in support of the bureau of American republics.

In semi-official circles it is said the chief trouble with the bureau of accounts, according to the treasury accountants, has been the system of bookkeeping. This system has been in vogue for many years and had been inherited by Mr. Kieckhoefer from his predecessor. Another error is charged to the issue of the revised statutes, hundreds of which it is said have been disposed of and the money not accounted for.

Another feature of the accountant's report is said to be in regard to the passport fees, but the clerks of the accounts bureau say that they do not issue passports. They only receive the money for them after the payment has been made in another bureau.

Chicago Heiress Elopes.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—North Side gossips are talking of a genuine heiress-coachman elopement. Edna Schmidt, youngest child of a wealthy brewer, knelt by her mother's grave in Graceland cemetery last Tuesday morning, celebrated her 18th birthday that afternoon and next day eloped with the coachman her father had discharged three weeks before. Ernest Wahl is the name of the young man. He is of medium size, well built, fairly good looking, blonde, about 25 years old and only slightly Americanized after a year in this country.

It Comes High.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The Times this morning has a three-column article on the Nicaragua canal from a correspondent lately there, who says that it is clear that the project cannot be carried through as a private undertaking, but that it must be under the auspices of some strong government, which, without doubt, must be the United States. He is convinced that the cost would be nearer $150,000,000 than $100,000,000. The true source of labor, he thinks, will undoubtedly be the West Indies, negro labor being far superior to Chinese.

Hot Politics From a Clergyman.

DENVER, Oct. 28.—Rev. Myron W. Reed, at a Populist campaign meeting Saturday night, advised heroic methods for handling election frauds. In an impassioned speech, he urged that 200 men be armed on election day to watch the polls, and whenever anyone was detected fraudulently voting that he be shot down on the spot. He scored the people of today as lacking the spirit which the early settlers displayed in dealing with offenders of the law. After detailing his plan, he closed with the remark: "That's the kind of a saint I am."

California's Bid.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—The League of Republican Newspapers of California have adopted an appeal to the party management to hold the next national convention in San Francisco. The appeal closes: "Let the Republican party be first to recognize that there is a Pacific coast, and the people in this great country will remember their obligations to that party."

Praised Victor at Metz.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—A banquet was given last night to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the capitulation of Metz. Emperor William made a speech, in which he extolled the memory of Prince Frederick, who, he said, had been permitted to see the fruits of the seed he had sown. For what the cavalry could achieve today, thanks were due to his influence.

To Wed a Count.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—New York's happiest man today is undoubtedly the Count Bela Zichy, who in a week or so, or possibly less, will marry Mrs. Mabel Yznaga, who obtained a Dakota divorce from Fernando Yznaga a few days ago. Mr. Yznaga is a brother of the Duchess of Manchester and Lady Lister-Kaye.

Dwyer Turns Over Cash.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—"Phil" Dwyer has turned over the $2500 which was part of the Fitzsimmons-Corbett stake money put up for the fight by Fitzsimmons. The return of the money was on an order by Judge Beach to satisfy a judgment of the Metropolitan Printing company.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—A suit brought by Lily Langtry against Helene Modjeska has been discontinued by consent. The nature of the suit is not disclosed in the papers.

Murdered by Burglars.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 28.—George Stadt of Hawley was shot and instantly killed by burglars. Two men have been arrested charged with the crime.

A Cosy Parlor.

There's no reason on earth why everyone shouldn't have an attractive, well furnished, comfortable parlor. It adds much to your happiness and enjoyment, and just why people don't make themselves comfortable, and enjoy life as they live, is a mystery hard to solve.

The reason we are selling for $45.00 an elegant Wilton Rug, Silk Brocatelle or Silk Tapestry Parlor Set worth $65.00 in any other store on earth, is because we bought these sets at a third less than regular price from a retiring manufacturer, and we are giving to those who take advantage of this opportunity a bargain in Parlor Sets long to be remembered. Only the seeing of these sets will convince you of the magnitude of this offer. Other sets at any price you say.

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Glenwood Ranges.

We say a great deal about Glenwood Ranges, but by no means all, hints only are possible. It's better so, otherwise you would lose much of the pleasure of discovery. It's surprising how some people expect old fashioned ranges to cook for new fashioned people. If you haven't owned a Glenwood Range, you don't know what it is to have a range that knows all about cooking, and costs but a trifle. $20.00 to $33.00.

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. A reasonable allowance for your old range.

THE CHURCH NEWS.

Rev. J. H. Yeoman Closes His Pastorate at Atlantic.

A Bible School Rally at the Quincy Congregational.

The Presbyterians Secure Pledges for Payment of Debt.

For the week past, the trustees of the First Presbyterian church, have been making a special effort to clear of all current indebtedness. They privately solicited subscriptions to a goodly amount; then the young ladies earned about $25 for the fund in their concert; and Sunday the balance required was pledged in the church at the two services, to the amount of $100. This church is making a strong effort to surmount the obstacles which have hindered its progress. Among the announcements was that of a meeting for singing and instruction next Wednesday evening, free to everybody.

The Wollaston Baptist Sunday School held its annual harvest concert before a large congregation on Sunday evening. The pulpit was tastefully decorated with chrysanthemums and other flowers. The subject of the concert was "Feeding the Multitude." The music was by the choir and school, the soloists being Mrs. F. A. Page, Mrs. Edgar A. King, Mr. Charles F. Wilde and Mr. Samuel M. King. Mr. W. G. Corthell, the superintendent gave a very interesting account of a Sunday School concert which he attended in Rome about a year ago, and also of the beautiful interior of the church of St. Stefano.

The Bible school rally held Sunday evening in Centre Congregational church was largely attended. The music was by a children's choir. Mr. Edward Southworth spoke on the relation of the Sunday School to the church. Mr. O. C. Colton on the methods of Bible study, Mr. Charles Sampson on the teaching of the Bible lesson. Rev. E. N. Hardy, the pastor, summed up the whole.

Rev. C. W. Wilder preached Sunday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church, Wollaston, a sermon on "Knowing and Doing" from John 13:17. "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." At the close of the evening service the Epworth League held a brief meeting and appointed a committee to draw up resolutions on the death of Hugh McPhail, who was an honorary member of the league. They also appointed a committee of six members to represent the league at his funeral Tuesday afternoon, and another committee to provide flowers for the services.

At the Wollaston Congregational church communion will be held next Sunday at the close of the morning service.

The Suffolk South Conference will meet on Wednesday afternoon and evening with the South Evangelical church, West Roxbury. Addresses will be made in the afternoon by Rev. Charles F. Weeden and Rev. William H. Bolster on the subject: "The Church Member's Responsibility for the Spiritual Condition of His Church." In the evening "The Christian as a Citizen" will be the subject of Rev. Nehemiah Boynton's address.

Sunday morning at the Methodist Episcopal church, Wollaston, Miss Harriette J. Cooke of the Epworth Settlement, Boston, gave an interesting account of the work that is being accomplished among the poor of the North End of Boston by the residents of the settlement. She also addressed the Sunday School, and at 4 P. M. spoke to the Junior League. Her several addresses aroused much interest and enthusiasm for the cause which she represented.

The attendance at the Memorial Congregational church Sunday School has increased so much that it was necessary to establish a new class Sunday and Miss Gray was given charge of it.

The congregation at the Calvary Baptist church Sunday listened to an able, well delivered, searching sermon by the pastor, from Luke 15:2. From this text we find it reveals the spirit of the one who criticises. These Pharasises were a people who cared nothing about the poor out cast sinner, and such, Jesus came to save, to be a daily companion to by mingling with and helping them bear the burdens of life and lifting them up to a higher and purer life. Jesus came to sympathize not to criticise. Religion fails in its mission when it separates itself from the needy ones. The soul who claims to be redeemed and cannot mingle with the sinner without being pulled down instead of lifting them up to God is falling short of his mission in life. Jesus was bound to do right even amid the jeers of the world, they said He receiveth sinners and eateth with them. He came to be a willing sacrifice for others and by His holy life and kind heart drew men and women to Him the only Saviour of the world. Which character is to be admired? Former or latter. Christ is loved today although severely criticised.

Rev. Ellery C. Butler who has been attending the Unitarian convention in Washington, returned in time to occupy his pulpit Sunday at the First church, where he preached an interesting sermon to a large audience. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock, vesper services were held for the first time since the summer vacation. Rev. Mr. Butler addressed those present and as he spoke without notes his address was greatly enjoyed. The music was a feature.

Both morning and evening services were well attended at the Quincy Point Congregational church. "Deep joy characteristic of the Christian life," was the theme of the morning.

Master Avery Bennet was the leader of the Guild meeting at the Wollaston Unitarian society on Sunday evening.

On Wednesday, October 30, the Annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Association will be held in Union church, Boston, at 10.20 A. M. Adresses by Supt. Eversy, Secretary Hood. President Penrose and Mrs. Valtses. Lunch will be served at noon.

There were 136 persons present at the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School on Sunday, the largest number which has ever attended with one exception.

At Christ church regular morning service was observed. The rector, Rev. Walter Russell Breed, preached from Thessalonians I, 4:13. "But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep." In the evening the rector spoke briefly on the "Law of the Household," taking as his text the fifth commandment.

The Wollaston Baptist, Unitarian, Congregational, Methodist and Episcopal societies will unite on Wednesday evening and hold a "Goodwill reception" at the Baptist church.

The Guild of the Good Shepard will hold a "Chestnut party," at the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening.

The topic at the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at the Wollaston Congregational vestry was taken from Dieut. 8: 1-20; Obedience to God—what does it involve?

Rev. J. Herbert Yeoman preached the last sermon of his pastorate at the Memorial Congregational church, on Sunday morning to a large and interested congregation. Mrs. Coe presided at the organ, and a large choir discoursed some excellent selections. The Y. P. S. C. E. held its regular monthly consecration meeting in the evening, at the close of which the pastor gave them a short address.

Prominent clergymen will take part in the installation of Rev. E. N. Hardy on Thursday.

Rev. Preston Gurney gave a very helpful and interesting talk at the men's meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday. Next Sunday there will be reports from the State convention.

The Christian Endeavor meeting in the evening at Quincy Point was an unusually good one. Some very earnest young Christians are developing in the society. The theme of special interest just now is the recently announced lecture and entertainment course. A fine series of six entertainments is presented as follows: Lecturers, Hon. Elijah Morse, Smith Baker, D. D., and Mrs. Livermore; Entertainers, Highland Male quartette, Miss Bergland, reader, and a musical concert as a final attraction. Advertisement of this course will be given in these columns soon.

Sunday was "In Gathering Sunday" at the Methodist Episcopal church, Atlantic. Rev. Merritt C. Beale of Roslindale preached morning and evening to a large and appreciative gathering. The singing was led by a chorus composed of young people and was exceedingly good. The Sunday School at noon was well attended and instead of the several classes studying their lessons separately, as is the custom, the entire school was massed together and addressed by Rev. M. C. Beale. A special collection amounting to $11.39 was taken up for the purpose of enlarging the library fund, and the school voted to purchase 100 new library books. At the meeting of the Epworth league in the afternoon it was voted to buy 200 song books. All the services of the day were interesting and the pastor of the church has arranged for similar services to be held throughout November.

WEYMOUTH.

Everett Sears, employed as hostler by Dr. Hathaway of Weymouth, took the doctor's horse from the stable about 9 30 Sunday night and has not been seen since.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Hon. John E. Russell and Dr. William Everett will address the Democratic rally.

Sample ballots for the State election will be posted this week.

The fact that the Democrats are trying strenuously to increase the representation in the Legislature is regarded by Republicans as a very good reason why they should not vote for Dr. Everett or any other Democrat.

The several Republican Ward Committees hold meetings Tuesday evening. The executive committee will meet Friday evening to be followed by a meeting of the general committee at which time the caucuses will be called, the date of the mayoralty convention fixed, and incidentally the mayoralty question will be considered, and the several candidates for Mayor will be talked over.

It is reported that many Catholics in Quincy will vote for Greenhalge.

TODAY'S COURT.

A Busy Morning—Trial of Tool Thief—Sunday Drunks.

The usual number of Saturday night and Sunday drunks were arraigned before Judge Humphrey and were obliged to contribute the following sums before they were allowed to depart. Joseph Hunger, $5; Patrick Griffin, $5; Charles Smith, $2; Charles L. Atwood, $5; Benjamin D. Young, $5; John F. Smith, $5; Joseph Politina, $5.

Thomas Ward was sent to the House of Correction for 6 months for being a vagrant at Weymouth.

The continued case of Patrick McAloon, for larceny of goods of Mrs. Hannah Moynihan, while acting as a common carrier came up. The story of Mrs. Moynihan was that she bargained with McAloon to carry some furniture from West Quincy to Roxbury for $1, to be paid when he returned to West Quincy. When he got to Roxbury he demanded $1.50, and it not being forthcoming he drove away and when he returned to West Quincy he dumped the goods in his stable and his price had gone up to $4. The court gave McAloon 24 hours to return the goods to Mrs. Moynihan without cost.

The continued case of Antonio Powello for breaking and entering the sheds of Badger Bros. and the larceny of bush hammers came up this morning. Powello was also arraigned for the larceny of four hammers from the sheds of Nourse & McCue, 3 hammers from the sheds of Manet Granite Co., and for breaking and entering the sheds of Fagan & Ballou and the larceny of 4 bush hammers.

The court found probable cause to believe Powello guilty and held him in $1,000 for the grand jury, the bonds being divided as follows: $400 for breaking and entering and larceny from Badger Bros.; $400 for breaking and entering and larceny from Fagan & Ballou; $100 for larceny from Manet Granite Co., and $100 for larceny from Nourse & McCue.

William Shields was arraigned for breaking and entering and larceny from the sheds of the Scandinavian Granite Co. Case continued until Wednesday.

Here in Quincy.

Our readers are given in another column the statements of leading local druggists in regard to a matter which is of great importance to this community. These gentlemen, who are all shrewd and experienced business men, publicly testify from their own personal knowledge that the sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla are larger than those of any other blood purifier. Druggists all over the country say the same thing. This testimony goes hand in hand with the voluntary statements of men and women everywhere that they have been absolutely, permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The great sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla are the results of its great cures. The people have found it to be an honest medicine and hundreds have been taught by their own experience that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all other preparations fail, and that it will keep the system in good health by its great power to make rich, pure and healthy blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla sells because Hood's Sarsaparilla cures. It is gratifying to notice the growing popularity of an article of genuine merit.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The clay modeling class has been changed from Thursday to Wednesday evening.

The Wednesday gymnasium class will be changed from Wednesday to Thursday evening.

The Glee club promises to be a great success. Already about fifteen persons are enrolled. The first regular meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 7 30 o'clock. There is room for more members.

KNOCK-OUT DROPS?

Queer Experience of a Clergyman Who Is Under a Cloud.

GREENVILLE, O., Oct. 28.—Rev. C. W. Hoeffer, the Republican candidate for the legislature, charged with offering the Democratic executive committee to vote for a Democrat for senator if they would give him $1500 for election expenses, appeared in the pulpit here yesterday. Stenographers were there to take down the clergyman's words. He gave out the hymn, and, after it had been sung, arose, trembling all over.

He said: "Last night a boy waked me up at my house and brought me a powder, which I took. I thought it was from my family physician at that time, but now I am morally certain it was not. I hoped it would give me strength, but it had the opposite effect. It will be impossible for me to say anything. This powder has deranged my mind."

With that he fell into a chair, his head leaning over the back, his arms hanging limp. Women screamed, and great excitement and confusion followed. By some means he partially revived. He said he did not know the boy that brought the medicine. To all cross questions he answered: "My lips are glued." He repeated this answer to all questions.

Finally the preacher was carried home, where admission is denied to all callers, though it is reported that Rev. Mr. Hoeffer is recovering. Inquiry seems to reveal the fact that the clergyman stayed at a neighbor's house Saturday night.

Bad Man Out of the Way.

PHŒNIX, A. T., Oct. 28.—Sheriff Orme yesterday shot Dr. Rose at Mesa, killing him instantly. Rose, with two confederates, had attempted to murder the Williams family, consisting of the doctor, his young wife and daughter. The latter was formerly the wife of Dr. Rose in Kansas. The confederates, Burt and Cooley, were captured and placed in jail. Burt previously gave the plot away to the sheriff, but was afraid to refuse to help execute the plans of the murder for fear Rose would kill him. Sheriff Orme was in Dr. Williams' bedroom awaiting the assassins. Two dummies had been placed in Dr. Williams' bed. Rose struck one with a heavy hammer. Sheriff Orme then called upon Rose to surrender. Rose failed to do so and the sheriff killed him. Rose was wanted by the government for holding up mails and also in Kansas for bank robbery.

War Clouds Blowing Over.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The Graphic states that it has high official authority for saying that the report received from Hong Kong to the effect that China accords Russia the privilege of anchoring her fleet at Port Arthur and of building railroads connecting Vladivostock and Port Arthur bears no resemblance whatever to the actual facts of the negotiations between China and Russia. Moreover, The Graphic continues, Russia has not approached the crisis in an anti-English spirit.

Insurgents' Work.

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 28.—Among the passengers from Cuba last night was Senor Corbrero, an influential Cuban Lawyer. A suppressed supplement of La Discussion gives details of the sacking of Hotonuevo on the 22nd inst. The insurgents burned 27 houses the depot, the mayor's residence, Catholic church and fort. One civilian, one guard and one woman were killed. The insurgents, numbering 80, then proceeded to Guamatas, which they burned.

The Bitlis Riots.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 28.—The governor of Bitlis has telegraphed to the porte that armed Armenians attacked the mosques when the Mussulmans assembled for Friday's prayers. The latter were unarmed and were obliged to defend themselves with stones and sticks. The troops and the gens d'armes were ordered out to restore order. Many were killed and wounded on both sides.

Miners' Riots Feared.

BOISE CITY, Oct. 28.—Governor McConnell has received an appeal from the mine managers at Wallace stating that the Miners' union have ordered the miners out of the Hunter mine in Mullens and threaten to take them out if they do not join the union. The governor is asked to proclaim martial law and order out the militia.

Jumped to His Death.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Patrick King Callahan, 26 years old, jumped from the top of the Poughkeepsie bridge into the river yesterday. The distance is 212 feet. At least 30 people saw Callahan's exhibition of nerve. The bridge jumper was seriously injured, and later paid for the dare-devil experiment with his life.

Convention Dates Named.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The committee in charge of the arrangements for the 15th international convention of the Societies of Christian Endeavor have received a letter from General Secretary Baer stating that the committee appointed to name the dates for the convention have decided upon July 8-13, 1896.

Doesn't Worry Campos.

MADRID, Oct. 28. — General Campos opines that the United States will recognize the insurgents as belligerents when it suits her internal policy. The prospect has not alarmed him, he says, for Spain would then know exactly how matters stood.

A Disastrous Explosion.

FAIRHAVEN, Wash., Oct. 28.—By an explosion in the mill of the Pacific Lumber and Milling company, two men were killed, another fatally injured and three more severely hurt and the mill property wrecked. Two boilers exploded.

Newfoundland's Farce.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 28.—Another smuggler was convicted Saturday, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment without hard labor. He appealed to the supreme court. It is thought likely that the sentence will be annulled.

Must Close Up Shop.

LIMA, Oct. 28.—The senate has approved the new rule for the regulation of the insurance business, whereby 28 agencies of foreign insurance companies are obliged to retire from business.

Specie Movements.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The exports of specie from the port of New York last week amounted to $20,000 in gold and $658,000 in silver. Imports: Gold, $211,774; silver, $11,504.

A $100,000 Fire.

MERITED REWARD.

SALES OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Unequalled in the History of Medicine. Honesty, Excellence, Faithfulness Fitly Rewarded.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never in the history of Mrs. Pinkham's wonderful Compound has the demand for it been so great as it is today. From Maine to California, from the Gulf to the St. Lawrence, come the glad tidings of woman's suffering relieved by it; and thousands upon thousands of letters are pouring in from grateful women, saying that it WILL and does positively cure those painful

Ailments of Women.

It will cure the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, and consequent spinal weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the change of life.

Every time it will cure

Backache.

It has cured more cases of leucorrhœa by removing the cause, than any remedy the world has ever known; it is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in unison with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constipation and sick-headache. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is frequently found of great value for local application. Correspondence is freely solicited by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., and the strictest confidence assured. All druggists sell the Pinkham's remedies. The Vegetable Compound in three forms, — Liquid, Pills, and Lozenges.

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO MOSES HUBURT, formerly of Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, now of parts unknown:

Whereas Aurilie Huburt of Quincy has presented to said Court her petition praying that Lester M. Pratt of Quincy may be appointed receiver for all your property and authorized to apply the same to the support of said petitioner and her minor child and for such other purposes as the Court may allow under the provisions of Chapter 305 of the Acts of 1894.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the sixth day of November, A. D., 1895, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to you fourteen days at least before said Court; or by publishing the same once in each week for three successive weeks, in the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

A Love Song to a Wife.

We have been lovers for forty years.
O dear cheeks, faded and worn with tears,
What an eloquent story of love ye tell!
Your roses are dead, yet I love ye well!

O pale brow, shrined in soft, silvery hair,
Crowned with life's sorrow and lined with care,
Let me read by the light of the stars above
Those dear, dear records of faithful love.

Ah, fond, fond eyes of my own true wife!
Ye have shone so clear through my checkered life,
Ye have shed such joy on its thorny way,
That I cannot think ye are dim today.

Worn little hands that have toiled so long,
Patient and loving and brave and strong,
Ye will never tire, ye will never rest,
Until you are crossed on my darling's breast.

O warm heart, throbbing so close to mine!
Time only strengthens such love as thine
And proves that the holiest love doth last
When summer and beauty and youth are past.

—Quiver.

STEVENSON'S WIDOW.

INTERVIEW WITH THE WIFE OF THE LAMENTED STORY TELLER.

She Complains of the Writing World, Exalts Her Late Husband and Expresses Her Views on a Wide Variety of Subjects to Edith Sessions Tupper.

[Special Correspondence.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—In the drowsy, gray old Spanish quarter of San Francisco, crowded in among the Mexican restaurants, stands a time stained, weather beaten, rambling stone building, with quaint square windows jutting into the street, winding, sunken stairways and obscure passages. Here, shut away from prying eyes, living quietly with her son and daughter, is Mrs. Stevenson, the widow of "Tusitala," the "story teller," as his native Samoan friends loved to call him.

Mrs. Stevenson has been so misquoted and misrepresented since her arrival in San Francisco that it is with difficulty one sees her. On my first call she was ill in her room. Her daughter, Mrs. Rose Osborne Strong, received me.

MRS. ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

Mrs. Strong is a picturesque little woman with a foreign face, eyes like sloes and the most wonderful black hair, 42 inches in length, growing very low on the forehead, parted and curling about the temples and ears in tantalizing tendrils. She dresses in æsthetic fashion, wearing loose flowing robes, unconfined at the waist. From the small ears swing great golden loops. The glittering teeth flash a kindly smile of welcome; the great dark eyes speak volumes of cheery hospitality. It is the face of a gypsy—a sibyl—and only requires a scarlet handkerchief bound about the dusky locks to make the illusion perfect.

"My mother has been so tortured," she said, "by the false and ridiculous stories which have been published about her both in magazines and papers that I very much doubt if she sees you. However, I will do all I can for you."

Four days later I knocked again at their door, and it was opened by Mrs. Stevenson herself.

A Close Scrutiny.

As Mrs. Strong was not in, I introduced myself and made known the object of my visit. Never before did I undergo such scrutiny. Mrs. Stevenson looked me through and through with deeply contemplative eyes. Suddenly a smile broke over her face and she gave me her hand. "Come in," she said. "I had shut myself up, resolved to see no one, but I will talk to you."

The portraits of Mrs. Stevenson do not and cannot give any idea of the wonderful charm and attraction of her face, which is an older and more serious edition of her daughter's. The gypsy—the sibyl—has grown a sphinx now. The deep, glowing, burning eyes are veiled and inscrutable. Unspeakable sorrow looks out those windows, but cries not aloud. Not a woman to lay bare her soul to the public scalpel. One wonders incessantly what lies behind those eyes and one realizes that only those very near and dear could ever discover just the nature of this woman. The same hair as the daughter's, only short in the neck and silvery—that fine touch of frost mingled with the hue of the raven's plumage—the straight, Egyptian nose, the curved lips, the ghost of a dimple lingering in the pale cheeks, combine to render this face alluring and fascinating. And when Mrs. Stevenson speaks, the soft rich, liquid voice, the perfect English—above all, the steady, penetrating glance of the marvelous eyes—hold you in absolute thraldom.

Like Mrs. Strong, she wears a loose flowing gown—it is of richly brocaded black satin this morning—slightly open at the throat. There are no ornaments save the rings of rare gems and fantastic designs with which the small brown hands are loaded. On one finger are three very curious tortoise shell rings given Mrs. Stevenson by Amaleiza, a very dear native woman friend. Mrs. Stevenson uses no gestures while talking. She sits in her large chair, her hands resting on the arms, grave, inscrutable, repressing, her very posture always suggesting the sphinx.

"I came here simply for the change of climate," she said. "My health was very poor. I have been greatly benefited by the change. I shall go back to Samoa some time. How soon I cannot say. I have no plans. I make none."

Mrs. Stevenson Annoyed.

"Is is true that you will publish a volume of memoirs of Mr. Stevenson?"

"No, I never write."

"Did you not assist Mr. Stevenson in his work—do a great deal of copying for him?"

"No. Rose, my daughter, did that. My eyes are too weak. I know it has been repeatedly stated that I helped my husband in that way, but it is not true. A magazine article published just after Mr. Stevenson's death had as one of its illustrations a picture of Rose copying for my husband. This picture was caught by a friend's kodak. When we heard that the article was to appear and that this picture was to be used as one of the illustrations, Rose said, 'Well, at all events, I shall go down to fame in the role of Milton's daughter.' But when the article was published, underneath the picture appeared the words, 'Mrs. Stevenson, copying for her husband.' This, however, was nothing to other annoyances we have had. Private letters have been sold by people whom we deemed our friends.

"It has seemed," with a long drawn sigh and a tightening of the hands on the arms of the chair, "as if the whole writing world had tried to make money out of the death of my husband."

"What do you consider Mr. Stevenson's greatest work?"

"I think the story he was writing when he died, 'Weir of Hermistoun,' the strongest thing he ever wrote. It is a great loss to the world of romance. He read me a chapter that last day—just before he died"— Mrs. Stevenson paused abruptly.

"Is it true that some one—Mr. Osborne perhaps—will finish it?"

"Oh, no!" very mournfully. "No one could finish it."

"I have repeatedly seen it stated that your son would finish the works Mr. Stevenson left uncompleted."

"That is not true, and you will oblige me by contradicting such statements. I repeat that the whole writing world has appeared to league together to make material out of Mr. Stevenson's death.

"Perhaps," said the lady, rising, "you might like to see one of the mats which the natives brought to cover my husband as he lay on his bed after he died. They came in and knelt down and tenderly spread these mats over their 'Tusitala,' as they named him."

Mrs. Stevenson brought forward one of these rugs. It was as large as a bed cover, made of the bark of a tree and decorated with fringes and borders of tiny scarlet feathers.

"How did these people know that Mr. Stevenson wrote stories?"

"Oh, they find out everything! They are very quick, very clever, very dignified and haughty. But they loved my husband and mourned him sincerely. Nor did one of them find any fault with the manner of his death."

"What do you mean by that, Mrs. Stevenson?"

"I understand," she said, with suppressed emotion, but with an ominous glitter in her eyes, "that Mrs. Oliphant has written an article in which she says that she particularly objects to the dramatic manner in which Mr. Stevenson died. I consider that"—very slowly and coldly—"very brutal of Mrs. Oliphant. You can see how I have been tortured. As if my husband could choose the manner of his death.

The Great Romancer's Simplicity.

"Mr. Stevenson," she went on, "was as simple and childlike as possible. The least thing amused and interested him. He was like a boy. He was tender, sympathetic and charitable to a degree, never speaking an unkind word of any one. And he enjoyed life so much—loved it. He taught me how to live."

For one instant the brave voice falters, the marvelous eyes suffuse with tears, but there is only a quick upward glance, as if seeking help; then the woman becomes the sphinx again.

"Mrs. Stevenson, do you believe"—

"I believe nothing," she quickly interrupts me. "Do not ask me what I believe, for I do not know. I only know that everything, that everybody, is a miracle. It is a miracle that you should sit there, a living, breathing creature, and look at me, talk to me. We think and wonder and dream, but we know nothing."

"I was only going to ask you if you believed in the modern, the advanced, the 'new woman.'"

"Tell me first," Mrs. Stevenson said, fixing her dark eyes more gravely upon me, "what do you mean by the modern, the advanced, the 'new woman?'"

"The person who wears bloomers, rolls a cigarette on the piazza of a hotel, swears, wishes to vote and writes smart, brackish novels."

A View of the New Woman.

"My father used to say," Mrs. Stevenson thoughtfully replies, "that no one has a right to make himself hideous. But women may make themselves hideous, unwomanly and coarse, if they wish, so long as they do not make themselves hideous, coarse and unwomanly in literature. What they may do in the streets, or, in fact, anywhere in public, I do not care. But when they offend me in literature, then I protest. Literature is food. It should be cleanly and wholesome. I am horrified at many of the novels written by the modern woman. My son has brought in from time to time an armful of these novels. I have taken them up and glanced over them, and I assure you I have been ashamed to think that I have read the little I have, caught here and there at random, in the room with my children. And I am not overparticular either. But when I eat I want food, nutritious and wholesome. I do not want garbage. Take that novel," mentioning one of the most famous of the recently established school of stupidity and smut, "what purpose does it serve? It is not a romance. It teaches no philosophy. If it was intended as a textbook for the hospital, it is a failure. So it is neither fish, flesh nor fowl. It is purposeless. It makes no one happier or wiser or better. To what end then? But understand, I make no complaint against the new woman, save in the field of literature. She should be driven out from that unless she can furnish pure romance, sound philosophy, healthful mental food."

The small figure in the armchair appeared to dilate with indignation. And as she gave me her hand and bade me a kindly and gracious farewell I wondered if there were not another presence in that room; if through the woman he had loved and taught "how to live" the master of romance, "Tusitala," the "story teller," had not spoken.

EDITH SESSIONS TUPPER.

One of the superstitions perpetuated from age to age among the common people is that the human body weighs no more after a meal than before. If there were any foundation of fact in this idea, no human being could ever get fat.

KILLED CITY MARSHAL.

A Farmer's Rash Act Leads to Stirring Scenes In an Ohio Town.

Mob Stormed a Jail For the Purpose of Lynching.

Two Men Killed Outright in a Desperate Battle Which Followed.

TIFFIN, O., Oct. 28.—Lee Martin, a farmer, living a short distance from here, threatened to kill Ezra Smith, a neighbor. City Marshal Shultz and Policeman Sweeney went to his house to arrest him late Wednesday afternoon. Martin swore that he would never be taken alive. The officers tried to reason with him, but to no purpose. When Martin's attention was attracted for an instant by a noise outside, the marshal sprang upon him and grasped the rifle. Martin, growing desperate, disengaged one hand and pulled his revolver, and fired three times, all the shots taking effect in the marshal's body, killing him. Martin was subsequently arrested.

This city is shocked over the attempt to lynch Martin early yesterday morning. Whisky had been indulged in until the mob were more like blood-thirsty wolves than human beings.

The report was current that a crowd of farmers from Hopewell township were congregating and organizing on the outskirts of the town, and the attack was expected to be made by them. But instead it was done by fellows who had been circulating in the vicinity of the jail all Saturday evening, and the police made no effort to quiet them.

Thus matters went on until about 1:15 a. m. Six men gathered on the lawn about 50 feet from the jail, and in a moment about 30 others joined them. Then a sharp whistle was heard, and out of an alley on the opposite side of the street rushed about 300 more, the leaders carrying a rope and several sledge hammers, with which to accomplish their work.

The Attack on the Jail.

As the mob made the rush toward the jail, they emitted yells that were bloodcurdling. A squad of policemen who had stationed themselves on the steps were whisked to one side. Officer Keiffer was struck on the head with a sledge and kicked brutally. He was carried home unconscious, and is hovering between life and death. Officer Fisher was thrown against a brick wall and partially stunned, and Officer Hennessey was tumbled over in the grass and kept there by a ruffian who held a murderous looking club over him and threatened death if he did not lie still. The other officers were treated in the same way.

The mob went direct to the side entrance and commenced the onslaught on the door with their sledges. They made no demand for the keys. Michael Schmidutz then wielded the sledge. He was one of the drunken agitators who appeared early in the morning. The door was broken into splinters in a short time. With each blow the fury of the crowd increased.

When the entrance was gained, there was a wild rush and the hall was filled with excited men. Sheriff Vannest and three men stood in the opposite end. He appealed to them to disperse, but the men only grew fiercer. The entrance to the corridor is first protected by a heavy sheet iron door. The lock was broken off with a few blows.

Bullets Played Havoc.

Then it was that the guards who were in that portion began to fire. At first they shot over the rioters' heads. The guards say no shot was fired by them until the attacking party had fired through the grating first. Henry Mutschler, the first man killed, was the one who carried the rope. He was shot through the left temple, the ball coming out on the right side, and he died instantly. Then Chris Matz received a bullet through the heart. He was also picked up dead.

This awful determination of the guards awed the would-be lynchers, and they left the place, cursing, and wilder than ever. Vic Vindone, a young Italian laborer, left with the intention of getting dynamite to blow up the building, but he did not again put in an appearance. While in the midst of the attack, Vindone rushed upon the daughter of the sheriff and threatened to kill her. Another fellow held a revolver close to the heart of Andrew Greer, a one-armed son-in-law of the sheriff, and pulled the trigger, but it missed fire, and the next instant the fist of Greer felled the would-be assassin to the floor.

The sheriff's family were upstairs, and one of the mob seeing them at the head of the stairs, rushed viciously at them, but some one threw him headlong to the bottom. Between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning, after the mob had moved farther down the street, Martin was handcuffed, taken through a side door and then to a side alley, where a carriage was in waiting. Police Captain Falkner and Officer Sweeney took him to Sandusky county.

Sunday Scenes.

Citizens viewed the scene of the tragedy yesterday by hundreds. Many people who called did not know the prisoner had been taken away, and at 10 o'clock a crowd numbering hundreds started to make another attack, but wiser counsel prevailed. Finally, to pacify them, one of their number who knew the murderer was allowed to search the building. He did not find the prisoner and so informed the crowd, but they refused to believe him. Then company E of the Second regiment of militia of this city was called out to guard the building.

Yesterday afternoon the crowd again surrounded the place. They became so determined that a committee of six citizens again searched the building from cellar to garret. Among the party was Mayor Rex, and when they had finished the search he appeared on the front steps of the building, and, in behalf of the committee, said the man could not be found. Captain Falkner, who had just returned from Sandusky county, spoke to the crowd also. They could not help but be satisfied, and the greater part dispersed.

In response to the governor's orders, company I of the Sixteenth regiment, O. N. G., of 35 men; company D, Sixteenth regiment, with 45 men, and companies G and I of Kenton arrived early last evening and a strict guard will be kept for several days. Many wild threats to lynch the sheriff and to kill the guards were heard, but it is believed there will be no serious trouble when the excitement has cooled down.

Adjutant General Howe and Colonel J. A. Kurt came with the Kenton special. Over 200 guardsmen are here.

TRYING HIS OWN CASE

Holmes' Lawyers Withdraw and He Refuses to Accept New Ones.

Opening Day of Trial Replete With Sensations.

Jury Quickly Made Up and the Prisoner Pleads Not Guilty.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—Herman W. Mudgett, better known as H. H. Holmes, the self-confessed life insurance swindler and alleged multi-murderer, whose crimes have become a topic for general discussion during the past several months, was placed on trial in the court of oyer and terminer on the charge of having murdered Benjamin F. Pitzel.

From the nature of the case, and the startling stories concerning it which have gained currency during the past year, sensational revelations were naturally to be expected when he who has come to be regarded as the most skillful and audacious criminal of modern times was placed on trial for his life. Yet what did occur in court so far surpassed all expectations that the most vivid flights of imagination could scarcely have conceived the day's events.

Protestations and entreaties for a continuance of the trial summarily overruled; the sudden withdrawal of the lawyers who had hitherto represented the prisoner, in the face of threats of disbarment; the appointment by the court of new counsel and the refusal by the prisoner to accept them as his defenders; the declination of another lawyer to serve after being selected by Holmes, and, finally, the prisoner trying his own case, this, not to speak of sundry dramatic passages at arms between Holmes and the commonwealth's prosecuting officer, is a summary of what occurred.

Details of Day's Proceedings.

After the formalities in connection with the opening of the court had been concluded, Attorney Shoemaker, of counsel for the prisoner, in an address of some length, asked for a postponement of the case for 60 days. District Attorney Graham strenuously opposed the motion, declaring that if a continuance should be granted it would mean "the absolute destruction of the commonwealth's case."

Lawyer S. P. Rotan, for the defense, pleaded for time in which he and his colleague could realize on Holmes' assets and thus bring witnesses to Philadelphia who will not come unless their expenses are paid. The discovery of new testimony within the past four or five days which he wanted to investigate was a further plea of the attorney for a continuance.

Judge Arnold overruled the motions for postponement in a very few words, and ordered the trial to go on.

Just at this juncture a startling climax was reached, which resulted in the withdrawal of Lawyers Shoemaker and Rotan from the case, notwithstanding an injunction from the court that they would be open to disbarment by taking such a step "on the eve of a murder trial." A still further sensation was created when Holmes refused to accept the services of Attorneys E. A. Schofield and J. R. Fahy, whom the court was about to appoint to defend him, and who, in fact, had taken seats in the chairs vacated by Shoemaker and Rotan. Schofield and Fahy also withdrew. Holmes himself pleaded to the court for a postponement, but the judge declared that the case must go on. The trial was resumed, Holmes conducting his own defense.

The work of securing a jury was then taken up, and Holmes examined the talesmen himself. The jury was completed at 1:45 o'clock, and then a recess was taken until 3 o'clock. When the talesmen were being examined, Lawyer R. O. Moon appeared in court and had a whispered conference with the prisoner. At its conclusion Mr. Moon stated to the court that he declined to enter into the case on short notice, and Judge Arnold excused him. Holmes made another appeal to the court for a postponement until today, but the judge decided against him, and said that as he (Holmes) had discharged his lawyers

He Must Defend Himself.

When Holmes pleaded not guilty to the indictment he did so in a firm voice, which was in keeping with his calm demeanor throughout.

After the recess District Attorney Graham spoke for one hour and twenty-five minutes, concluding at 4:40 o'clock. He then held a brief talk with the judge, and it was therefore decided to adjourn court until today. When this became known to Holmes, he arose in the dock and the last sensation of the day occurred.

"May it please your honor," he began, his weak voice vibrating with the emotion which his wonderful self-control prevented from betraying in his face, "I am forced to ask that certain privileges be accorded me in prison. They are not very extensive privileges. I must ask the district attorney to allow me to have in my cell light, paper and writing materials, that I may be enabled to prepare my case. I shall also ask the privilege of sending or having some one connected with the court sent to Fort Worth, Tex., for certain papers essential to me—how essential I did not know until I heard Mr. Graham's address this afternoon. Again, I ask that I be furnished with a list of the witnesses to be called by the commonwealth."

"I decline to give that," said the district attorney, emphatically. "I will furnish that to nobody."

Holmes then repeated his request for an interview with his wife.

"Which wife?" retorted the district attorney, sharply.

There was a suspicion of tears in the voice of the friendless man, as he responded with a bitterness that was real: "You well know which I mean, Mr. Graham. The person you have seen fit to designate Miss Yoeke, thereby casting a slur on both her and myself."

The district attorney declared that he would have her in court today.

"Mr. Holmes," said Judge Arnold, "I will see that you get light and writing materials."

"I thank you, sir, for the privilege," replied Holmes, politely drooping his head.

The court was then adjourned, the jurors locked in their rooms under careful guard, and the man who is accused of being the greatest criminals of modern times was conveyed back to prison to prepare the story which he hopes will save him from the hangman's noose.

Van Alen at Home.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 29.—James J. Van Alen returned from New York at 7 o'clock last evening. He was driven to "Wakehurst," his residence here. The deputy sheriff who holds the writ for Van Alen's arrest did not expect him on the boat, but received information that he would probably arrive on a late train.

Suits Galore.

FAIRHAVEN, Vt., Oct. 29.—The receiver of the land company which has been doing an extensive business in lots at Cardiff, Tenn., is to bring suit against all persons who purchased lots and defaulted payment of the balances on the mortgages. Suits will be brought in all the New England states.

Stolen Property Recovered.

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—The police yesterday discovered stolen property to the amount of over $2.00 in a pawnbroker's office at 117 Dover street. The proprietor, Solomon Sugarman, was placed under arrest. It is believed large amounts of stolen goods have been disposed of by Sugarman.

Rudder Broke.

EDGARTOWN, Mass., Oct. 29.—While the passenger steamer Nantucket, from New Bedford, was being docked here last evening, her bell cord broke, and before the engineer could be signalled the vessel backed against a buffer pile, breaking her rudder.

Many Trains Blocked.

DANIELS, Conn., Oct. 29.—A misplaced switch threw a freight train on the Norwich and Worcester road from the track last evening. Three cars were piled up over the tracks, blocking them. Freight trains were lined up numerously.

Long Life Ended.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Etta J. McGarrahan died here yesterday, aged 103 years. She was born in Ireland and had been a resident of this city for 25 years. She was in good health up to within a short time before her death.

Brookline's Pride.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Oct. 29.—The new Brookline high school, erected at a cost of $225,000, was opened yesterday. The building is one of the most magnificent of its kind in the state, and is equipped with all the latest improvements.

Diphtheria Still Rages.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Oct. 29.—The diphtheria epidemic is still raging here, and the Winthrop school has been closed. The infested district is subjected to daily medical inspection, and free treatment is furnished poor families.

Fourth Big Fire.

LAKEPORT, N. H., Oct. 29.—The fourth disastrous fire at the Laconia car shops occurred last night, when the iron foundry, the "setting up" shop, several freight cars and other property were destroyed, entailing a loss of $25,000.

A Hartford Mystery.

HARTFORD, Oct. 29.—The body of an unknown man, about 45 years old, was found floating in the river here yesterday. One eye bulging from its socket gave possible evidence of an assault. The police suspect foul play.

A Newspaper Man Dead.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 29.—Parsons B. Cogswell died yesterday at his home here. He established the Concord Daily Monitor in 1864. He was a member of the state legislature from 1872-4. He was born at Henniker.

Parke Outplayed.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 29.—George L. Wrenn retains the title of tennis champion of Harvard university, having defeated R. T. Parke, the winner of the fall tournament. Wrenn won with ease.

Tired of Married Life.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Carrie J. Carver has filed a suit for divorce from her husband, Dr. William J. Carver, the champion shot. It is on statutory grounds. They were married in 1878.

New England Briefs.

Two Boston policemen suspended on account of charges of intoxication.

Rev. W. A. Dwight of Boston and Miss Edith Roberts were married in London.

The remodelled Universalist church at Nashua, N. H., improved at a cost of $13,000, was dedicated.

Investigation into the recent rear-end collision at Hyde Park, Mass., has begun by the railroad commissioners.

Mayor Cook of Gloucester, Mass., refused to pay $1,500,000 for the Gloucester Water Supply company's plant.

The planing mill and cider mill of Charles H. Smith, at Pittsfield, Mass., were destroyed by fire. Loss, about $10,000.

Ten Rounds.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The gymnasium of the New Manhattan Athletic club was crowded at the second of the series of subscription boxing bouts given by the club. The event of the evening was the 10-round bout at catchweights between George Dixon and "Young Griffo." Griffo was the heavier by about 15 pounds. The referee declared the bout a draw.

Callahan's Friends Were Few.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Oct. 29.—No one came to claim the remains of Callahan, and the friendless bridge jumper's body remains at Cliftondale, where he was taken by order of Coroner Hasbrouck. It is understood that a fund will be raised among the sporting fraternity of Poughkeepsie to bury Callahan.

"Stand In" With Officials.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 29.—The Vladivostock correspondent of The Novoe Vremya telegraphs that the Chinese secret societies are showing marked activity, and that they are enjoying the secret support of many high officials who are themselves members of these organizations. The situation is regarded as being very critical.

"WILD MAN" MYSTERY

Solved by the Lad Who Confesses That He Invented It.

Made Up Stories of Outrages Upon Himself.

Charitably Inclined People Think He is Not All Right Mentally.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 29.—The explanation of the sensational "wild man" stories that have been sent out from Royalston relative to outrages committed on Charles Richardson is the old and simple one, "the little boy lied."

Only that Richardson is not a little boy. He is a robust looking country lad about 19 years of age. He is tall and stalwart, has tanned skin, ruddy cheeks and toil-hardened hands. He looks simple and honest.

He arrived in town yesterday to tell his story to District Attorney Parker. He was accompanied by State Detective Murray, Deputy Sheriff Doane, and a friend, J. H. Woodbury.

The officers who have been working on the case were suspicious of the truth of the young man's stories, and they brought him before the district attorney for cross-examination.

Richardson stood the test for a time, repeating the stories about the pistol shot fired at him, and the other

Attempts to Do Him Deadly Injury

that he has told his neighbors and friends at Royalston.

District Attorney Parker left the young man for a time to go into the superior court to try a case. After he had gone, leaving Richardson in company of the officers, the boy weakened and confessed that he had made up his stories out of whole cloth.

He fired the pistol shot at the huskings himself and kindled the fires, took the bolts and nuts off the carriages and committed all the other depredations whose narration created so much excitement in Royalston. He afterward repeated his confession to Mr. Parker.

The young man has gone back to Royalston, where the news of the solution of the mystery has preceded him, in charge of Deputy Sheriff Doane.

This is absolutely the end of the incident. There will be no arrest, as the young man's stories have done nobody any harm.

The officers believe he is not quite right mentally, and certainly this is a charitable view to take of the case.

Hanley Gets Twenty-Five Years.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 29.—The case of Patrick J. Hanley, better known as "Corkey," of Salem, who is charged with being a habitual criminal, was called in the superior court yesterday. Hanley has been shamming insanity for the past three months at the Salem jail, as Dr. Page and two other physicians testified. The court thought the defendant was in condition to be tried, and the trial was begun. After short deliberation, the jury returned a verdict of guilty against Hanley on three counts of breaking and entering. Judge Sherman sentenced him to 25 years in the state prison.

Bright Prospects.

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—The New England Chautauqua Sunday School association chose these officers: Rev. W. R. Clark, D.D., Cambridge, president; Rev. F. E. Emerich, D.D., South Framingham, vice president; Rev. William Full, Lynn, secretary; H. F. Twombly, South Framingham, treasurer; George L. Small, Boston, auditor. It was stated that the prospects for the Framingham assembly next season are unusually bright.

Quincy for Mayor.

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—The Democratic candidate for mayor in the coming city election will be Josiah Quincy. Yesterday was the last day for the filing of the list of delegations to be submitted to the Democratic voters in the coming city caucuses, and in nearly all the wards only one set of delegates were entered, and these invariably were pledged to Mr. Quincy's candidacy, so that the outlook is almost a unit for Mr. Quincy.

Waked Up by Preacher.

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 29.—Mayor Whipple announced last night at the meeting of the board of aldermen that a certain matter which had been brought to the attention of the police department would be considered by the police committee. It is understood that the mayor referred to the charges made against the police regarding the alleged non-enforcement of the no-license law by Rev. F. A. Warfield.

Salvationists' Convention.

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—The Salvation Army opened the fall campaign and the six days' New England convention with a big mass meeting at the Boston headquarters last night. Brigadier and Mrs. Brewer conducted the meeting, and speeches were made by Captain Bringle of Worcester, Staff Captain Marshall of Portland, Secretary Baer of the United Society of Christian Endeavor and others.

Assessors Sustained.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 29.—In a suit brought by taxpayers of East Providence against the tax assessors there for an alleged unauthorized increase in valuation and for exempting a piece of mill property from taxation the verdict of the supreme court was in favor of the assessors. The plaintiffs claim that taxes had been increased by $2,000,000, and that gross discrimination was made for political reasons.

Smith Case Adjourned.

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Rev. Frank H. Smith, rector of the North Avenue Congregational church of Cambridge, was arraigned in the United States district court yesterday, and the case was adjourned to Nov. 5, when he will plead to an indictment charging him with sending defamatory postal cards through the mails.

The Finest Residential Section in Quincy,

And the home of many of Quincy's most prominent citizens.

This property—a part of the old Butler estate—is in close proximity to the new High School, the Adams Academy, the Woodward Academy for girls, a few steps from the electric cars on Hancock street, and within a few minutes' walk of the depot and Quincy Centre.

It embraces the land lying between Greenleaf street, one of the best streets in Quincy, and the new Merry Mount Park. The improvements are nearly all made, and some of the finest residences in the city are located here.

PRICES are very reasonable, ranging from 10 to 15 cents per foot and some good small lots at even lower prices.

TERMS can be made satisfactory if desired.

REASONABLE RESTRICTIONS as to the character and location of buildings have been established, and with the prospect in the near future of a new R. R. station at President's Bridge, close to the property, lots are sure to advance rapidly in value during the next few years.

REMEMBER there is no other land in Quincy so well located at such reasonable prices. Call at our office in Quincy for plans, prices and particulars, and take a look at some of the lots on Merry Mount and Butler Roads, Greenleaf, Hudson and Putnam streets. They are certain to please you if you are prospecting for a home site.

J. W. Wilbur & Co. are talking of putting up some houses on their Quincy Park property.

Officer Thomas F. Ferguson is under the weather and Officer Murray has taken his beat.

Yachts Agilis and Ocean Spray are hauled up for the winter at the foot of Appleton street.

The three-horse hitch of the hook and ladder truck has gone into commission. There was a trial spin Monday.

The hook and ladder truck was placed on the scales Monday and found to weigh without the horses 5,330 pounds.

Through the efforts of the ladies, new curtains have been placed on the windows of the vestry of the Universalist church.

Frank Johnson of Appleton street has accepted a position with B. French & Co., dealer in photographic supplies, Boston.

Miss Anna Seaton Schmidt of Washington, D. C., gives an illustrated lecture tonight on Italian art, at the Wollaston Unitarian church.

The fence between the Willard school building and the Hose house is a good thing as it keeps the school children from running into danger.

The item in Saturday's LEDGER in regard to the unoccupied central fire station has resulted in a man being put to work setting some of the glass.

Mr. Carr, the faithful and obliging clerk of James McConnell, returned Monday from a few days vacation at Hudson, Mass., with his sister.

Mr. George E. May of Atlantic street expects to move his family to South Braintree early next month where he will engage in the poultry business.

John E. Drake is reported as being more comfortable. Typhoid fever has now developed, and the physicians state that this increases his chances of recovery.

Smelting is quite a recreation for Atlantic people at present. Dr. W. G. Kendall recently entertained a party of Boston gentlemen in that manner.

The Epworth league of the Atlantic Methodist church will hold a hallow-een party at the home of Miss Mabel Burr, Atlantic street, on Thursday evening next.

Mrs. Barclay of Colorado, a daughter of Mr. Alfred Furnald a former resident of Quincy, is in town with her daughter visiting relatives. They have been among eastern friends a few months.

Chief of Police Hayden has opened a "Rogues gallery at the police station and the first two faces to be put in the gallery were Antonio Powello and William Shields, the two stone tool thieves, who were photographed by Bussell.

The West End are re-painting some of the signs on the Neponset cars which connect with the Quincy & Boston R. R., so that they read "Neponset Bridge" instead of "Neponset" as formerly. This will be very handy to persons who do not fully understand the route.

A family residence on Hall place has recently had a too friendly visit from a skunk, and the results were much the same as those experienced last week at Wollaston. It is unfortunate that these little white and black animals will carry such strong perfumery with them.

An attempt was made Sunday night to break into the office of J. F. Sheppard & Son on Granite street. The fellow attempted to force an entrance through the back window of the office by prying it open with a stone cutter's chisel. He evidently became frightened before he accomplished his object and in his hasty departure left his chisel behind.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Election Orders Came Thick and Fast Last Night.

Order for Schoolhouse Improvements Again Laid on Table.

The Liberty Square Park Referred to Park Commissioners.

The absent members were Councilman Lamb and O'Brien.

Communications.

A communication was received from the Mayor forwarding a claim of Mary F. Dexter for damages caused by change of grade on Cross street. To Committee on Claims.

A communication was received from the School Board asking for the transfer of $150 from evening school to transportation; $100 from evening school to miscellaneous expenses; also for additional appropriations of $400 for salaries, $72 for janitors and $100 for miscellaneous expenses caused by the overcrowded condition of the Willard, Washington and Quincy schools. To Committee on Finance.

The appointment of J. H. Rooney as deputy inspector for Ward Four, was confirmed.

Petitions.

A petition was received from Stephen E. Wilson for an auctioneer's license. To Committee on Licenses.

Councilman Barker presented petitions for the acceptance of Billings road, West Elm avenue, East Elm avenue and Elm avenue as public ways. To Committee on Streets.

Reports of Committee.

The Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds in relation to the acceptance and laying out of Liberty square, reported that matter properly belonged to the Park Commissioners. Report accepted and the order upon motion of Councilman Russell was referred to the Park Commissioners.

New Business.

Councilman Adams offered the following order.

"That the Mayor be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to execute in behalf of the city in its capacity as trustee of the Adams Temple and School Fund, and in conjunction with the supervisors of that fund, any leases or other instruments, which, in the opinion of the said supervisors are proper and requisite for the administration of that fund."

Adopted.

Councilman Bigelow offered an order which was adopted authorizing the City Clerk to post notices of the State election.

The same Councilman also offered an order for the Committee on Elections to meet next Tuesday evening to receive the returns of the election, also an order, designating the polling places for the election of Dec. 3, both of which were adopted.

Schoolhouse Alterations.

Councilman Bryant had the report of the Committee on Finances relative to alterations in Coddington and Washington schoolhouses taken from table, and then asked if the School Committee had previous to this time suggested the change.

Chairman Crane replied that the board had not.

Councilman Bryant then opposed borrowing the money. There was a balance for the repairs of public buildings and upon request the Commissioner of Public Works would probably do the work.

Councilman Sprague championed the cause of the teachers who suggested the alterations, and asked Mr. Crane if he did not think the city would be justified in spending $75.

Councilman Sprague: Is it right, gentlemen?

Chairman Crane thought it really necessary that the windows should be put into the Coddington annex. The building had been moved there and probably faced different, and it should have windows on south for light as well as ventilation.

Councilman Pinkham, Nickerson, and Rinn favored the order.

Councilman Adams wanted School Committee to try and get the improvements of the Commissioner.

Councilman Russell moved to lay on the table that we might hear from the Commissioner, and the motion prevailed.

Adjourned at 8.15.

FOUNDER'S DAY.

An Interesting Series of Sports, and an Alumni Dinner.

The annual games of the Adams Academy Athletic Association will be held at the schoolhouse grounds, on Wednesday October 30, at 10 o'clock. These games are always interesting and they generally draw a large crowd of friends of the school. October 30 is Founder's day and the day is made a school festival. In the afternoon there will probably be a football game, with the combined Adams-High team opposed to the Graduates. In the evening occurs the dinner of the alumni.

An interesting list of sports will be offered in the morning, and there are over a hundred entries. Considerable interest centres in the quarter mile run for the challenge cup offered by Dr. Everett when he was master of the school. It will become the property of any contestant holding it for three successive years. J. D. Kent, the present possessor, has held it for two years, and if he wins it this year he will keep it. The bicycle race has called out a good list of entries also. One or two new events have been added to the programme. The tug-of-war, which always proves the feature of the day, will not be behind hand this year.

No invitations have been sent out because the officers of the association want everybody to come. All friends of the school are requested to be present to make the day a success and to encourage the contestants in their efforts.

The games will begin promptly at 10 o'clock and will last about two hours. See tomorrow's LEDGER for result of sports, also an engraving of the founder.

Rev. Mr. Steele's Case.

To the Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

In my communication of 21st, giving the facts in the case of Rev. William Steele and the New York Synod, I stated that if any one should dispute the correctness of my statement I would procure a copy of the decision of the Synod and publish it.

Mr. Steele, in a letter to you dated Oct. 22, has seen fit to reiterate his false statement that his appeal was "sustained"—besides adding some remarks about myself that are as untrue as his main statement.

Here is a copy of the verdict:

"The commission constituted for the trial of the appeal of Rev. William Steele from a decision of the Presbytery of Boston having duly considered and issued the case in accordance with the book of discipline, finds the proceedings of the Presbytery in the case have been regular; and its votes, unanimously, not to sustain the appeal, except as to specification 10 under the seventh ground of appeal in which the appellant complains of excessive penalty. The commission modifies the sentence of the lower court to the effect that the term of suspension shall expire with the adjournment of this meeting of the Synod, in consideration of the fact that Mr. Steele has withdrawn his complaint against the Presbytery of Boston and has promised to drop, forthwith, the civil suit against the church in Quincy for alleged services."

From the Minutes of the Synod of New York, Oct. 18, 1895. A true contract.

(Signed) T. RALSTON SMITH.
Stated Clerk.

That this case may be made very clear I will add that Mr. Steele presented seven grounds of appeal, viz:

1—Irregularity of procedure.

2—Refusal of reasonable indulgence to party on trial.

3—Receiving improper testimony.

4—Declining to receive important testimony.

5—Hastening to a decision before testimony is fully taken.

6—Manifestation of prejudice in the conduct of the case.

7—Mistake or injustice in the decision.

To sustain these grounds of appeal, Mr. Steele presented thirty-one specifications, and the commission finds the proceedings of the Presbytery in the case have been regular and it votes unanimously not to sustain the appeal, except as to specification 10.

Now what were the grounds for the commission modifying the sentence? It is not claimed that the serious charge against him were not proved. No fault is found with the Presbytery for the severity of the sentence, but on the other hand the reason is distinctly given as follow: "In consideration of the fact that Mr. Steele has withdrawn his complaint against the Presbytery of Boston and has promised to drop forthwith the civil suit against the church."

None of us who represented the Presbytery made any objection to this action. Similar action would have been taken by the Presbytery for a like consideration and Mr. Steele would have saved the expense of his appeal to synod and of wide advertising of his unfortunate church relations.

AN OFFICER SHOT.

Night Watchman at Braintree Attempts to Hold Up Four.

It is reported this morning that Officer Duggan of East Braintree met with a warm reception early this morning at the hands of four unknown men. It was in the vicinity of 2 o'clock when the officer overhauled four men walking in the street and acting in a suspicious manner. He demanded to know what their business was out at that hour of the night and the only reply was a shot from a revolver which was followed by several other shots.

Fortunately for Officer Duggan their aim was poor but it is reported that one of the bullets passed through his shoe and another through his hat. The men then made their escape.

UNION MEETING.

At the Universalist Church in Quincy Tomorrow.

The annual meeting of the Old Colony Association and a meeting of the Norfolk Sunday School Union will take place at the Universalists church in this city tomorrow morning at 10.30 o'clock.

The exercises will commence by a praise service, Rev. A. Hammatt; followed by an address by Rev. H. W. Rugg, on the subject: "Pressing Needs." Next in order will be an occasional sermon by Rev. J. S. Gledhill, which will close the exercises of the forenoon.

At 1.30, the annual business of Old Colony Association will be opened, followed by the business of the Norfolk Union.

Next in order will be addresses by Rev. W. F. Potter, Rev. J. Harry Holden and others.

The question box will be in charge of Rev. O. G. Petrie.

A NEW SENSATION

Contributed to the Durrant Murder Case by a Letter to the Coroner.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—The coroner yesterday received a letter, signed George Reynolds, saying the writer's body would be found in the bay, and added that he had been employed by the attorneys of Theodore Durrant to manufacture testimony in the murder cases of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams. The letter says five other men were also employed by the defense to make false statements. The object was to convict Rev. J. G. Gibson of the murder of both girls. Each of the five was to swear to a part of a story which in its entirety would probably convict Gibson. The letter is accompanied by a typewritten statement which the letter says Reynolds was instructed by the defendant's attorneys to swear to. The police are investigating the matter.

Colored Folks Objected.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—There came near being lynching affair about four miles from this city yesterday, on the way toward Falls Church, Va. Sadie Sherrier, the 12-year-old daughter of a wealthy German farmer, was surprised in a woods by Albert Hawkins, a Washington colored boy, 16 years of age. The girl's cries attracted the attention of several of her schoolmates, and the negro escaped. He was subsequently captured and identified as the girl's assailant, and a mob of white people threatened to lynch him. The colored people, arming themselves with shotguns, promised for a time to make things lively. Without any actual clash, however, the negro was taken into the woods, and is presumably on his way to the jail at Alexandria.

Attributed to Armenians.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 29.—It is officially declared here that the Armenians provoked the Balburt disturbances by firing upon the Mussulmans, and that many persons were killed and wounded on both sides before the gens d'armes suppressed the rioting. It is also officially stated that the Armenians unwarrantably attacked the Massulmans at Marash and Zeitoun. At the Turkish embassy here it is believed that all the recent disturbances in Armenia are the direct result of an organized conspiracy covering various parts of the country.

No Need of Militia.

TIFFIN, O., Oct. 29.—The indications point to a speedy termination of the trouble caused by the riot Sunday morning. It has been decided to withdraw the militia today. One of the largest crowds Tiffin has ever witnessed was here last night, being drawn here partially by the Campbell meeting and partially by a desire to see the scenes of the recent mob violence and the militia on guard about the public buildings.

Prompted by Despondency.

GOUVERNEUR, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Dr. Carpenter, brother-in-law of ex-Governor Flower, and one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of this place, committed suicide yesterday. Dr. Carpenter had been very despondent on account of sickness, and his killing of himself was believed to have resulted entirely from this.

A Family Affair.

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 29.—A bloody riot occurred among a crowd of negroes in Bossier parish, in which two were killed and several injured. A negro implicated in the killing stated that he shot one of the negroes in defense. The cause of the trouble was a family row, which ended in a general riot, in which shotguns and pistols were freely used.

Invited to Boston.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Merchants' association of Boston have invited Secretary Herbert to attend a banquet at Boston on Nov. 15, and to deliver an address upon the subject of the enlargement of the Boston navy yard and the improvement of the harbor. The secretary took the invitation under consideration.

Quarreled Over Lady Douglas.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—An injunction to restrain Lady Sholto Douglas from appearing on the stage of the Burbank theater with the Frawley company was issued yesterday. The injunction is the result of a quarrel between rival theatrical managers as to which should have Lady Douglas' services.

Sensational Divorce Suit.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—An affidavit was filed in a divorce case yesterday, the suit of Woolston v. Woolston, in which it was stated that Mrs. Woolston, the defendant, lived for a time under the protection of the Duke of Orleans, the pretender to the throne of France, on his house-boat and at the Savoy hotel.

Suicide In Public.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Hundreds of shoppers and clerks witnessed a strange suicide last evening. Mrs. Richard Walsh, weight 200 pounds, jumped from the third story balcony of one of the big department stores and was dashed to death on the floor and rotunda.

Royal Betrothal.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 29. — It is officially announced that Princess Maud of Wales, youngest daughter of the Prince and Princess of Wales, is betrothed to Prince Charles of Denmark. The princess was born Nov. 26, 1869, and the prince was born Aug. 3, 1872.

A Lack of Faith.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Daily News says that it hears that Lord Salisbury is dissatisfied with the sultan's verbal guarantee of Armenian reforms, and that the four great powers favor an early European conference on the Turkish question.

Sympathy From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary Olney has cabled United States Ambassador Eustis conveying to him an expression of condolence on behalf of President Cleveland and himself upon the death of Mrs. Eustis.

Presidential Clemency.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The president has commuted the five years' sentence of Henry B. Palmer, convicted in Massachusetts of embezzlement, to three years' actual imprisonment.

Testimonial to Dunraven.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The committee on the Dunraven testimonial fund met at Cardiff last evening and decided to present a silver model of Valkyrie III, 22 inches high, to her owner.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

Over Half Sold.

Monday was a great day for the opening of the Quincy Park property by J. W. Wilbur & Co., and as the day was unusually pleasant there was a large crowd present. Besides the natural beauties of the estate to attract, A. E. Nash was present and served one of his enjoyable clam bakes and besides this there was a band and a South Carolina jubilee singer which held the crowd in attendance during the entire day.

The owners of the property were on hand with a large corps of salesmen who showed the property to purchasers. At the close of the day it was found that nearly 200 of the lots had been sold.

STATE ELECTION.

CITY OF QUINCY

City Clerk's Office, Oct. 29, 1895.

In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 417 of the Acts of 1893, notice is hereby given that meetings of the citizens of Quincy qualified to vote will be held on TUESDAY, Nov. 5, 1895, in the following places, namely:

Ward 1. Ward Room, City Hall.
Ward 2. Hose House, Washington Street.
Ward 3, Precinct 1. Baxter's Store, Franklin street.
Ward 3, Precinct 2. Old Hose House, School Street.
Ward 4, Precinct 1. St. Mary's Hall, Willard Street.
Ward 4, Precinct 2. New Hose House, Copeland Street.
Ward 5. Hewitson's Block, Newport Avenue and Beale Street.
Ward 6. Engine House, Newbury Avenue.

The polls will be opened at 6 o'clock in the morning and will be closed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and all such citizens will, in the several precincts in which they are entitled to vote, between said hours, give in their votes for a Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary, Treasurer, Auditor, and Attorney-General of the Commonwealth. Councillor from Second District, Senator from First Norfolk District, three Representatives in the General Court from the Fifth Norfolk District, District Attorney for the Southeastern District, a County Commissioner two Special Commissioners, and Sheriff for Norfolk County.

Also to vote "Yes" or "No" in answer to the question, "Is it expedient that municipal suffrage be granted to women?"

Attest:

HARRISON A. KEITH, City Clerk.

THE APPORTIONMENT.

Will Republicans Take the City or State Vote.

It Will Make Considerable Difference to the Candidates.

The Democrats Holding All the Rallies This Year.

The city election of December seems to over shadow the State election of next week, but this is because the Republicans feel confident of the success of their whole ticket, Representatives and all. The Democrats concede all this except the sheriff and the representatives. The Democrats announce a second rally, but the Republicans will hold none this year. The majority in Quincy for Governor Greenhalge last year was 618 and Republicans see no cause for alarm.

It is admitted by Republicans that Dr. Everett will receive some independent votes, but Messrs. Newcomb and Thompson are so much more popular among the wage earners that their gains will offset any the doctor makes, and with the large majority in their favor little or no anxiety is felt.

Quincy Democrats are much provoked over the action of the State Central committee, or rather the action of one of the vice presidents thereof, in sending Mr. McEttrick to speak here Wednesday night. Mr. Quincy's method of conciliation does not commend itself to the majority of the voters, who also disapprove of bringing Boston municipal politics into a State campaign. Mr. Quincy's mayoralty aspirations should not be helped by bringing men and methods to the fore that are undeniably repugnant to the better element in the party. Then again the action is discourteous to Mr. McNary, the regular nominee in the Congressional campaign, and if any gentleman should be invited to speak here, the choice should fall on him. On the whole, it is a very aggravating circumstance, and if the notice had not been given to the city committee at such a late hour, Mr. McEttrick would not be among the speakers Wednesday evening; and even now it is hoped he will be withdrawn.

The warrants are out for the State election and City Clerk Keith publishes the call in today's paper. The polling places are the usual ones, and the polls will be open from 6 A. M. to 4 P. M.

It is now announced that Mayor Hodges is not a candidate for renomination, but it has not been verified by His Honor. It is a fact however that many Democrats are clamoring for the nomination of Councilman Adams.

Messrs. Bass, Hall and Hammond are not inclined to give Mr. Moxon a walk-over for the Republican nomination, and it promises to be an interesting contest. With the sewer to built, the Metropolitan water agitation, new schoolhouses, etc., it needs an active progressive mayor next year, and the party wants something more than a vote getter. It will make considerable difference to the aspirants whether the apportionment is based on the mayoralty vote of last year or the vote for Governor last year, as will be seen by these figures:

	Moxon.	Greenhalge.
Ward One,	265	388
Ward Two,	206	246
Ward Three,	281	372
Ward Four,	273	270
Ward Five,	285	328
Ward Six,	238	175

On a basis of one for every 25 or majority faction the representation by the two votes would be as follows:

	City.	State.
Ward One,	11	16
Ward Two,	8	10
Ward Three,	11	15
Ward Four,	11	11
Ward Five,	11	13
Ward Six,	10	7
Total,	62	72
Majority,	32	37

The vote of the city election would be the most favorable to Candidate Moxon as it would be a smaller convention and Ward Six would have a larger representation. Ward Four would have the same representation by each apportionment. Wards One, Two, Three and Five would have more by the State apportionment than the city.

For the good of the city there should be less changes this year in the Council. Most of the board this year were without experience and they have failed in many particulars. Some say there are many there that should never be there, but if these same men are reelected they may give better service than new men would.

All wards of Boston have filed nominations for Josiah Quincy delegates, and the time has expired. Messrs. Flood and Galvin are reported tohave withdrawn.

HOOD'S PILLS Cure Indigestion

A Right Man in a Right Place.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

There is no particular reason why I, a private in the ranks of the Republican party, should address your readers at this time, excepting this, that I wish to endorse most heartily the views so ably expressed by my friends Hon. E. C. Monk of Stoughton, Mr. Alfred Hewins of Sharon and Mr. F. W. White of Wollaston, and by many of our Republican papers on the question of the re-election of Hon. Augustus B. Endicott of Dedham as High Sheriff of Norfolk County, and also in the hope that my words many have influence in the same direction with Republicans of the old school, although I can add no new argument to what has already been so forcibly expressed.

If ever there was the right man in the right place, that man is Mr. Endicott in his position as Sheriff, and if ever Republican delegates thoughtlessly blundered, it was when they failed in their allegionce to one prominent political principle, heretofore recognized, of retaining a faithful public official in a non-political office, it was when they were led to place a new man in nomination for that office solely on party grounds and without the poor excuse that their party demanded a change, for in fact the failure to renominate Mr. Endicott came as a most unpleasant surprise. It would seem that one experiment of that kind for the same office, so recent as to be easily remembered and so politically fatal, as to serve as a warning against its repetition, should have been sufficient.

As has been truly said, no charge is made that Mr Endicott is incompetent or unfaithful or in any way unsatisfactory to the public, on the contrary he is now as ever, the kindly, courteous honorable, firm, true and faithful official. Not in any sense a partisan in his appointments or in the performance of any of his official duties, and I hope he will be elected by a large majority.

New Magazines.

The Boston Post very truly says of The Black Cat, the new Boston short-story magazine which has just made its appearance on the news-stands, that it is the most fascinating five cents' worth on earth. Its artistic, exquisitely lithographed cover, clear type, and captivating initial cuts and tail-pieces, present an outward attractiveness whose promise is more than fulfilled by the unique interest of the original, complete, and stirring tales that make up the contents of each issue.

There are forty pictures in the opening chapters of the New Life of Lincoln in McClure's Magazine for November. There are five very interesting and little known portraits of Lincoln, including the early portrait, now first published and showing Lincoln before his face lost its youthful aspect. These chapters deal very fully with the fourteen years Lincoln lived in Southern Indiana—from his seventh till his twenty-first year—and contain recollections of people now living there. There are many pictures of the scenes of Lincoln's early life published here for the first time.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

"THE GRAND OLD MAN"

Writes of the Risk In Granting Suffrage to Women.

Would Take No Step Unless Assured of Its Safety.

Extracts From Other Noted Writers Touching the Same Subject.

I think it impossible to deny that there have been and are women individually fit for any public office however masculine its character, just as there are persons under the age of 21 better fitted than many of those beyond it for the discharge of the duties of full citizenship. In neither case does the argument derived from exceptional instances seem to justify the abolition of the general rule. But the risks involved in the two suppositions are immeasurably different. In the one, individual judgment and authority plainly would have to distinguish between childhood and manhood, and to specify a criterion of competency in each case, which is now more conveniently fixed by the uniformity of law. In the other, a permanent and vast difference of type has been impressed upon women and men respectively by the Maker of both. Their differences of social office rest mainly upon causes, not flexible and elastic like most mental qualities, but physical, and in their nature unchangeable. I for one am not prepared to say which of the two sexes has the higher and which has the lower province. But I recognize the subtle and profound character of the differences between them, and I must again, and again, and again, deliberate before aiding in the issue of what seems an invitation by public authority to the one to renounce, as far as possible, its own office, in order to assume that of the other. I am not without the fear, lest beginning with the state we should eventually be found to have intruded into what is yet more fundamental and more sacred, the precinct of the family, and should dislocate or injuriously modify, the relations of domestic life.

As this is not a party question, or a class question, so neither is it a sex question. I have no fear lest the woman should encroach upon the power of the man. The fear I have is lest we should invite her unwittingly to trespass upon the delicacy, the purity, the refinement, the elevation of her own nature, which are the present sources of its power. I admit that we have often, as legislators, been most unfaithful guardians of her rights to moral and social equality. And I do not say that full justice has in all things yet been done; but such great progress has been made in most things, that in regard to what may still remain the necessity for violent remedies has not yet been shown. I admit that in the universities, in the professions, in the secondary circles of public action, we have already gone so far as to give a shadow of plausibility to the present proposals to go farther; but it is a shadow only, for we have done nothing that plunges the woman, as such, into the turmoil of masculine life. My disposition is to do all for her which is free from that danger and reproach, but to take no step in advance until I am convinced of its safety. The stake is enormous. The affirmation pleas are, to my mind, not clear, and, even if I thought them clearer, I should deny that they were pressing.—W. E. Gladstone.

A Blank Cartridge Ballot.

The most civilized portions of mankind have not yet outgrown the measurement of force for the ultimate settlement of every great question, and the unit of force is the man capable of bearing arms. As the financial world has invented banknotes, checks, and letters of credit, which pass current for the things they represent, while the savage is still trading only with his actual cowrie-shells, wampum and hoopiron, so various devices have been brought into use by which available force can be measured and the result of a conflict be foretold, so that the destined losers submit without a conflict and thus save life and treasure. This is the philosophy of a popular election. . . . Thirty years ago we had an experience in which the metallic power behind the paper ballot had to be actually brought into play. Nobody denied that the election of 1860 was fairly conducted and the result correctly declared. But it turned on an important question, and feeling ran high. Those who found themselves in a minority believed that they were still so numerous and so united, and had so many circumstances in their favor, that they need not submit; and accordingly they refused to do so. Thereupon the majority proceeded to compel them, and though it was an enormous and bloody task, it was carried through to completion, and the minority were convinced—not that they were in the wrong, but simply that they were a minority of the military power as well as of the ballot-casters. If half of Grant's army had fired nothing but blank cartridges, Lee never would have surrendered, . . These considerations lead directly to the conclusion that woman suffrage would be a serious mistake. A ballot put into the box by a woman would be simply a blank cartridge. . . . In our elections as now held there is no security for the verdict unless the majority is sufficient to assure those who are in the minority that if they refuse to submit they will be coerced. With the proposed extension of the suffrage, if the votes of the women are so divided as not to affect the result, then the women might as well not have voted, and their presence at the polls will be a useless and costly addition to the electoral machinery. On the other hand, if an election is carried by a preponderance of the votes of women, who is to enforce the verdict? When a few such verdicts have been overturned, we shall find ourselves in a state of anarchy.—Rossiter Johnson.

What if it Fails?

A recent correspondent who is opposed to female suffrage declares that he is "willing to see the experiment tried." If it fails, what then? He must remember that a suffrage once enlarged can never be contracted. As long as the great majority of thoughtful and conscientious women do not desire to be voters, jurymen or officeholders, why force the burden upon them?—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, D.D.

The Greatest Difficulty.

"What is the greatest difficulty you encounter in a journey to the arctic regions?" asked the inquisitive man.

"Getting back home," was the prompt reply of the professional explorer.—Washington Star.

CHANDLER SCENTS WAR.

American Eagle, Russian Bear and British Lion Will Be Participants.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 29.—The Evening Monitor, Senator Chandler's paper, contained a leader from his pen last night in which war with England is predicted. It had for its caption, "Our Coming War With England—A Prediction," and is summarized thus:

War between the United States and England is inevitable. It will arise on account of British disregard for our direct interests. It will also be forced by British encroachments upon other nations all over the world. It will be fought by us, having Russia as our European ally.

As a war offensive on our part it may not happen within 20 years. As a defensive war, it may come sooner and should be welcomed.

One sure result will be the capture and permanent acquisition of Canada by the United States.

Proctor's Aspiration.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Vermont has produced many statesmen, and but few politicians. Senator Proctor is a man who possesses traits of both, while in his make-up preponderates a never-sleeping capacity for looking out for personal interests, according to The Sun's Rutland correspondent. It is broadly hinted in Vermont, says the correspondent, that Mr. Proctor has aspirations to the presidential chair, and it will not greatly surprise those who know him if in 1900 his name is prominent in the Republican convention. He will then be somewhat over the three score and ten limit, but his health is still good.

Formal Notification.

RYDE, Isle of Wight, Oct. 29.—The sailing committee of the Royal Victoria Yacht club met here yesterday and formulated a letter to Secretary Oddie of the New York Yacht club, confirming the letter of Charles D. Rose, withdrawing his challenge, through the Royal Victoria Yacht club, for the America's cup. The committee refused to say anything in regard to the reasons Mr. Rose had given for withdrawing his challenge or regarding the future plans of the club in relation to the cup.

Hauled Up Short.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Charles M. Comstock, about 26 years old, who is said to be connected with the best families of San Francisco, was arrested here yesterday, charged with stealing $6500 worth of diamonds from Mrs. Caroline Colton Martin of Berkeley, Cal. The police understand that he is wanted in Providence for defrauding by means of a worthless check, and that he has victimized other people, some of them in this city.

To Fight In Private.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Private telegrams were received in this city last evening from both Brady and Julian, saying that the fight will positively come off on Thursday. Brady says it will be in private for a side bet of $5000 or $10,000, and that Fitzsimmons will put up his money as soon as he reaches Hot Springs. Julian says: "The fight will positively come off privately in Hot Springs on Thursday."

For Killing His Stepson.

BOURGES, Oct. 29.—The trial of the Marquis de Nayve, who is charged with the murder of his stepson in 1885, began here yesterday. The case is a sensational one. The Marquis de Nayve, who has been in prison for 10 months awaiting trial, was wild in his young days, dissipated a large fortune, and married a rich heiress, Mlle. Marie de Bautreuil, whose illegitimate son he is charged with murdering.

More About Smugglers.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 29.—Nine smugglers have been arrested at Burin, St. Lawrence and Mortier Bay, and large stocks of rum and tobacco confiscated. The government claim that by vigorous enforcement of the revenue laws it will be possible to collect $200,000 more duties yearly.

All the Rebels Killed.

KINGSTON, Jam., Oct. 29.—Official advices received here report a small uprising in San Domingo, near the town of Barnica, on the frontier of Hayti. President Heureaux promptly dispatched troops to the scene, and the rebels were all killed.

Deficit of Nearly $3,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—George A. Howard, auditor for the postoffice department, in his annual report, shows that the postal deficiency over the revenue and congressional appropriation for the past fiscal year is $2,807,044.

The October Deficit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The gold reserve of the treasury stands at $93,227,586. The excess of receipts yesterday was $634,531, which reduced the deficit for October to $7,954,968, and for the fiscal year to $17,839,626.

A Missing Bark.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The Nova Scotian bark Nellie Troop, which left Manila 198 days ago, is nearly 100 days overdue. Old sailors say that the Nellie Troop will probably never "enter" at this port again.

Much Less Than Last Year.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The registration figures are now complete, and show a grand total for the city of 281,008. The grand total for 1894 was 308,545, and in 1893 265,949.

One Kidney

may be diseased while the other may be healthy and doing the work of both—nature rebels, and the trouble is indicated by a pain in one side of the back and frequent inclination to pass urine. Kidney trouble may exist and not be indicated by the state of the urine, which remains clear. Constipation generally exists and the Backache may extend down the thigh. The diseased Kidney becomes inflamed and the waste matter which is retained promotes the growth of stones and gravel. If taken in the early stage, Buker's Kidney Pills will remove the stoppage, allay inflammation and help the Kidneys to perform their proper functions. Send for book on Kidney troubles—it's free. Pills cost 50 cents at the druggists.

True Love.

Love's gifts? Love has no gifts, for if love give
Then must we stand apart a space that one
May give and one may take. But thou and I,
Who, loving, live so close, where have we room
To give? Close in thy heart am I, and thou
In mine, and never gift doth pass from me
To thee, or thee to me, for, lo! we love,
And, loving, know no want but of more love,
And more and more. And aye it shall be more,
For as we move together through the days,
And joy of work we know and joy of rest,
New measures make we for our love, and, making,
Fill full, and so the old o'erflow. Aye, we Have love itself! What reck we of love's gifts?

Home Thrust.

It is said that the saying, "Much may be done with a Scotchman if he be caught young," which has passed into a historical witticism, was first spoken by Dr. Johnson in reference to Lord Mansfield. An amusing little incident is said to have given rise to the remark.

Lord Mansfield, having received his education entirely in England, always considered himself an Englishman, but the fact that he was born in Scotland was once referred to with great effect.

General Sabine, governor of Gibraltar at the time, having failed in his attempts to extort money from a Jew, sent him back by force to Tetuan, in Marocco, from whence he had come to Gibraltar. The Jew afterward went to England and sued the governor for damages.

Lord Mansfield, who was then known as Mr. Murray, was counsel for the governor. In the course of his defense before the jury he said:

"True, the Jew was banished. But where? Why, to the place of his nativity! Where is the cruelty, where the hardship, where the injustice of banishing a man to his own country?"

Mr. Nowell, counsel for the Jew, retorted: "Since my learned friend thinks so lightly of the matter, I ask him to suppose the case his own. Would he like to be banished to his native land?"

The court rang with peals of laughter, in which Murray himself joined with a right good will.—Youth's Companion.

A Useful Dog.

"You say that I'm not altogether objectionable to your parents," he said ruefully.

"No," she replied, "father and mother both speak very highly of you."

"Then why does that big dog assault me every time I come near and chew a piece out of my clothes?"

"Oh, you mustn't mind Brutus. He's trained to do that. Aunty has gotten almost enough samples from him to make a lovely patchwork quilt."—Washington Star.

NEW GORED SKIRTS.

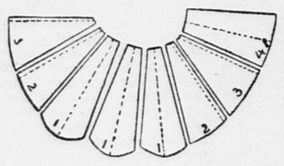
OLIVE HARPER GIVES DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING THEM.

Valuable Information For Amateur Dressmakers—How to Cut the Breadths and Lining—Directions For Sewing—The Ten Gored Design—Figured Goods.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The new and handsome skirt adopted for this fall and winter is, in spite of its appearance, quite easily achieved by the amatuer dressmaker, and all she will have to do will be to read this letter and follow directions given in it and on the diagrams given here.

The first one is the eight gored walking skirt. This skirt never goes out of shape, sags or flattens. It will retain its shape as long as it lasts. If the material is silk or medium weight wool, it will require a full lining of cambric, or silk if the dressmaker wishes. The linings are to be cut exactly the same size as the outside and seamed up with the outside. The facing, whatever it is, is then added, and the velutina binding and the under ruffle, if one is desired. As to facings, the fiber chamois is a sort of wood pulp paper, quite soft and pliable, but my own experience with it rather tends to cause me to prefer something else for a gown that may be exposed to weather. A few of the best dressmakers are now using blue denim for the heavy, stiff facing, this to be covered, if so desired, with silk or mohair. The denim should be washed and ironed. It becomes very firm and stiff and never loses its qualities, while all other facings do, except haircloth, and everybody hates that prickly, unwieldy stuff.

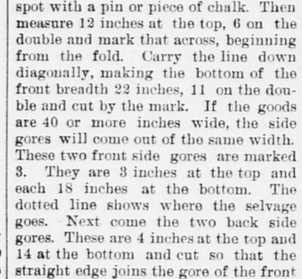


THE NEW EIGHT GORED SKIRT.

To begin, the lady must lay her folded goods on a flat surface, with the double fold in the exact center of the front breadth, which is numbered 4 in the diagram. Measuring the length of the skirt and allowing 2 inches for "take up" in the lengths, she marks the spot with a pin or piece of chalk. Then measure 12 inches at the top, 6 on the double and mark that across, beginning from the fold. Carry the line down diagonally, making the bottom of the front breadth 22 inches, 11 on the double and cut by the mark. If the goods are 40 or more inches wide, the side gores will come out of the same width. These two front side gores are marked 3. They are 3 inches at the top and each 18 inches at the bottom. The dotted line shows where the selvage goes. Next come the two back side gores. These are 4 inches at the top and 14 at the bottom and cut so that the straight edge joins the gore of the front side breadths. The three back breadths are cut on the straight center fold of the material and are gored on both sides. Each is 8 inches across the top and 22 at the bottom. Each of the three back breadths has a scalloped dip of 1½ inches in the center.

When these breadths and the lining are all cut, they should be carefully basted together around all seams. Then the breadths and lining should be sewed up, beginning the seams at the top invariably. The facing should have been cut exactly like the lower part of the skirt, and when the seams in the skirt have been sewed and pressed flat, the facing, previously sewed and pressed, is to be tacked to the inside, holding the skirt next to the person. Leave the edges raw. Then baste the velutina binding on the outside and stitch it down, after which turn it back and fell it up onto the facing. This facing, of stiff material, should have been faced nearly to the top with silk or mohair and this hemmed down—preferably by machine, as it is firmer. When this is all done, press the facing, always on the wrong side of the skirt, rubbing the iron upward from the edge of the skirt. The facing will be thus made to conform entirely and perfectly to the outside. After this is done the upper edge of the stiff facing may be notched and cat stitched down to the lining, or it may be bound with lustring ribbon and this slip stitched to the lining. The facing to the back breadths should be rounded down exactly like the outside and finished off in the same way.

If silken ruffles are added, they should be sewed to the facing after the rest is finished. The belt may be put on. The front breadth should be hollowed out at the top one inch and held full along the belt. No. 3 needs no fulling in. No. 2 is held a little loose on the belt. The three back breadths are laid in box plaits, each when done to be just one-third as wide as it was before plaiting. That will give a perfect hang to the skirt. One or two elastics may be set under the three back plaits if so desired, but as a general rule they are now left to hang naturally. The skirt may open anywhere, and the pocket may be put where the wearer prefers. This is a perfect skirt.



TEN GORED SKIRT WITH TRAIN.

The ten gored skirt can be made of woolen fabrics and walking length by cutting it straight around, only allowing for the dip of the three back breadths, but it is a design more calculated for evening wear where narrow goods are used, such as silk or velvet. The dark portion on the diagram shows the shape below the walking length for the train, also the depth of the silken facing required. In all other respects the skirt is cut and finished in the same way, with the exception of the slant of the gores. In this the front breadth is 8 inches at the top and 14 at the foot. The first and second side breadths are 4 inches top and 10 inches at the bottom. The third side breadths measure 2 inches at the top and 10 at the bottom. The three back breadths are 8 inches at the top, 24 at the walking line and 30 at the train length. The waist line will fit closely yet comfortably over the hips and the skirt hang perfectly if the same directions are carried out as those for the eight gored skirt. Blue denim or blue jeans is better for the stiff facing than anything, as it has firmness and body without stiffness and great weight A thin wadding may be used in silk or satin gowns between lining and silk to give it body and richness.

Care must be taken to see that all the side breadths are sewed rightly—i. e., that the selvage edge always comes next the front bias one. There are four long seams in the ten gored skirt, where both edges are bias. A tape must be sewed in with these seams to prevent stretching, and if there is a figure in the goods care must be taken that it all runs one way. Figured goods are not economical. Some dressmakers pipe the waist instead of putting on a band. If these simple directions are followed, and the skirt given a final pressing with hot irons when finished, the happy dressmaker will have achieved a triumph.

MAKING CORN A KING.

Odd Cereal Festivals In the Prairie Corn Regions.

[Special Correspondence.]

ATCHISON, Kan., Oct. 21.—What cotton is to the south corn is becoming to the west. The great fields of Indian maize which cover the prairies are the source of much of the wealth of the Missouri valley, and the manner of recognition of its importance is worthy the originality of the people. Cornhusking bees cannot be held, as the grain is shucked in the fields, while corn festivals are not only feasible, but unique, and attract much attention.

The originator of the corn festival aimed to make it different from all others on earth and succeeded. The one held here attracted thousands of visitors who came by the carload to see what could be done to crown King Corn in a becoming manner. There are no speeches, no programme, no procession. A dozen bands play when and where they will. The carriages and people are decorated with cornhusks, and the store fronts are built up with such lavish decorations as to make the streets seem like a field. At dusk handsome floats appear and display the oddities of fiction and poetry, with corn as the central feature. A prize is offered to the man who can drive with a load of watermelons through the street and not have them stolen. Several try, but none succeeds.

Maskers come out, and then begins the fun. Corn is the weapon of the enemy—shelled corn, dry, yellow kernels, hard as bullets and dried to ripe perfection in the glorious prairie autumn. Every one carries a sack of it and pelts his neighbor. The drivers of floats and the street car conductors are subjected to a rattling rain of corn. Thousands of feet tramp over the fallen grain, and as the supply grows less the store decorations are torn away to contribute to the hilarity. Midnight scarcely sees an end to the sport, and the next morning presents a street surface which needs only a generous rain and a fierce sun heat to be converted into a kind of huge loaf of corn bread.

It is remarkable what unique effects can be produced by means of the corn decorations. Dresses, capes and hats of husks, with cob and kernel trimmings, do not look so bad, and all sorts of pictures can be made of the particolored grains.

The corn of the rich Missouri bottoms is not the spindling growth of uplands or the six row variety of the eastern hills. It is a rank, luxurious, towering plant, often 10 and 12 feet in height, with huge ears, which test the strength of farmhands' wrists in breaking them from the stalk. The fields are like forests in summer and are rich in the best product of the farm in autumn.

Iowa recognizes the corn ascendency by erecting corn palaces, where the various uses of the plant are set forth, but the Kansas idea of a corn carnival has both the merits of enjoyment and impressiveness. Not alone are the visitors enabled to see the possibilities for odd features, but they are served at the hotels and restaurants on the occasion with corn in all the styles that good cooks and vivid imaginations can concoct.

The prairie farmer puts his faith in corn; he speculates in wheat. The former feeds his horses, his family and fattens his stock. It is little wonder that he enjoys putting an extra wreath on King Corn's brow and does it with thorough enthusiasm.

EXPOSED BY ROUANET.

French Statesmen Have "Compromised Honor and Dignity."

Ministry Compelled to Step Out of Office.

Government's Defeat Not Surprising In View of Sweeping Charges.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The ministry which was formed on Jan. 26 by M. Ribot after the fall of the Dupuy ministry resigned yesterday, as a result of a government defeat during the debate on the Southern railway scandal. It was composed of the following members:

M. Ribot, prime minister and minister of finance; M Hanotaux, minister of foreign affairs; General Zurlingder, minister of war; Admiral Besnard, minister of marine; M. Trarieux, minister of justice; M. Leygues, minister of interior; M. Poincarre, minister of public instruction and worship; M. Dupuy-Dutemps, minister of public works; M. Lobon, minister of commerce; M. Gadaud, minister of agriculture; M. Chautemps, minister of the colonies.

How It Was Brought About.

M. Rouanet, who has been prominent in exposing those who were connected with the Panama canal and Southern railroad syndicates yesterday, questioned the government regarding the South of France railroad scandal, it being alleged that a number of senators, deputies and others have made large profits out of the company by fair or unfair means.

He declared that the good repute of parliament was involved and asked for explanations as to the partiality which had been shown toward those involved in the scandals, claiming that the authorities had been afraid to prosecute them because the deputies and senators involved with the late Baron Reinach of Panama canal fame had disposed of 8,850,000 francs in devious ways, and on behalf of the southern railways he demanded that the minister of justice, M. Trarieux, publish the documents in the case, which were in his possession, and which would throw light on the subject.

M. Binder then charged the minister of justice with culpable leniency, and demanded that the guilty parties be punished.

M. Trarieux replied, denying that he had long had in his possession documents which required the arrest of Edmond Magnier, ex-senator and recently editor-in-chief of The Evenement, who was recently sentenced to a term of imprisonment for having received part of the profits of the syndicate. Continuing, the minister of justice said that whenever the government believed it had incriminating evidence it had prosecuted the parties involved. No deputy, he added, was included among the guilty parties.

Amid continual Radical interruptions, M. Trarieux managed to say, in addition, that several names were known to the government as having figured in the report of the expert, M. Flory, the official accountant, who made an inquiry into the finances of the South of France railroad. He was interrupted by

Excited Cries of "Names."

In reply, M. Trarieux said: "Rouvier, Jules Roche, Etienne, Deloncle, Bardoux and others." When he was able to make himself heard, the minister of justice added that the majority of those whose names had been mentioned had explained their position, and he concluded with the remark: "The chamber now knows the truth, and if parliament considers its dignity and honor compromised, the government will join the chamber in voting for repressive measures, and in the face of these explanations asks the chamber for a vote of confidence."

The order of the day, pure and simple, was submitted to the chamber, and rejected by a vote of 406 to 105.

M. Haborts then moved that the chamber agree to prohibit members of parliament from joining in financial syndicates. The motion was accepted by Premier Ribot, and was adopted unanimously.

Later M. Rouanet submitted a motion demanding that full light be thrown upon the South of France railroad scandals, asking the government to prosecute all those who have been found to be implicated in them, and submit to the chamber the report of the expert who inquired into the finances of the company.

M. Ribot thereupon said it was useless to submit the expert's report, and as to the prosecutions, he added, the work of justice had been accomplished and could not be reopened.

M. Rounet's motion, asking for an explanation as to the partiality which had been shown toward those involved in the scandals, claiming that the authorities had been afraid to prosecute them, and demanding that the minister of justice publish the documents in the case which were in his possession, was then adopted by a vote of 275 to 196.

After the adoption of this motion the ministers left the chamber of deputies in a body, amid ironical Radical cheers, and went to the Elysee palace, where they handed in their resignations to President Faure, who accepted them. The chamber of deputies was adjourned for a week.

Not Unexpected.

The defeat of the government is not surprising in view of the sweeping charges made against senators, deputies, and even ministers, involved, first of all in the Panama syndicate, and, more recently, in the South of France railway management scandals, which became public, as the result of an investigation made by M. Flory, the official accountant of that company, brought about by accusations against various prominent men, made in the chamber of deputies by M. Rouanet, which culminated recently in the arrest, trial and imprisonment of Edmond Magnier, formerly senator of the var, and editor-in-chief of The Evenement, who is said to have received the sum of 87,500 francs as part of the profits of the syndicate referred to.

The Figaro, recently, said that the following named members of the chamber of deputies, who were members of the South of France railway syndicate, made the profits set against their names: Jules Roche, 28,000 francs; M. Rouvier, 6750 francs; M. Etienne, 3000 francs; M. Deloncle, 5000 francs; M. Passy, 12,500 francs; M. Le Mercier, 4500 francs.

The Figaro added that these deputies were not prosecuted because Accountant Flory was of the opinion that the formation of the syndicate was perfectly regular, and, therefore, its members were not guilty of corruption.

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Officers Arrange Matters to Suit the "Prisoner."

Details of the Arrangements Are Not a Matter of Record.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 30.—Deputy Sheriff Kaull was summoned to "Wakehurst," and together with Samuel R. Honey, who is managing the local end of the difficulty under the direction of Mr. Van Alen's New York lawyers, were closeted with Van Alen. Van Alen was later placed under arrest. C. H. Koehne, Jr., was accepted as bail, and for surety Van Alen's whole estate was mortgaged to Sheriff Anthony and Deputy Sheriff Kaull.

As a matter of form, the writ of arrest was presented, but the reading of it was waived, and Charles H. Koehne, Jr., Colonel Honey's assistant, was accepted as bail, while for surety the whole of Mr. Van Alen's extensive and elaborate estate, "Wakehurst," was mortgaged to James Anthony, sheriff, and Pardon S. Kaull, deputy sheriff.

This property is taxed for $217,900, and the mortgage specifically sets forth that it is only given as a bond for the payment of all losses, costs, damages, expenses, suits, actions, claims and demands which the sheriffs may sustain or be subjected to by the Acceptance of Koehne as Bail,

he being a young man working for his daily bread.

It also provides for Van Alen's paying the final judgment in the suit for which the writ is issued, or in case of failure to do this, to surrender his body; and, finally, in case of failure to do this, the deed shall be in full force as a transfer to the sheriffs or their heirs. There is no time named for the mortgage to run, except that it covers the time the case is to be before the courts.

As no moneys are exchanged there is no interest, and other details are not a matter of record. Those interested in the case are all sworn to secrecy, even to the extent of withholding knowledge of the arrest. The sheriff arranged everything to Van Alen's convenience.

War Against Sin.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—The war against sin in this city was continued in People's Temple yesterday by the Salvation Army. The exercises opened amid a great flourish of trumpets and a selection by the band. Then followed several war songs, prayer and testimony. Before the evening meeting the officers and soldiers from all over New England marched in a "procession of nations," made up by a cluster of American colors, a cluster of army colors, the divisional staff, the divisional banner, the Jubilee band, the American brigade, Swedish flags and soldiers, Scottish brigade, French flag, banner and brigade; English flag, banner and brigade; German flag, banner and brigade; Irish flag, banner and brigade, and representatives of India, Switzerland, Japan, Spain and Belgium.

Chandler to Morrison.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 30.—Senator Chandler has forwarded a letter to W. B. Morrison in reference to a communication from Railroad Commissioner Knapp. "The curtain should," he says, "be speedily run down on on the Knapp farce. When the pending gigantic pooling contract came to his ears, he proclaimed that the commission could have nothing to do with it. He now writes to me that he did not say in terms that the commission 'had nothing to do with it,' but only that with it the commission 'has no power to deal.' Mr. Chairman, it is not with Mr. Knapp that the people have to deal, and will deal; it is with you. If you agree with him, please frankly say so to the public and to President Cleveland."

An Ocean Episode.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 30.—The whaling bark Petrel, Captain E. J. Reed, which arrived here yesterday from a two years' cruise, brought information regarding the abandoning of the British bark Mysterious Star by her crew. Captain Reed states that the vessel was abandoned near Cape Verde island, Oct. 21, 1894. Captain Reed boarded the abandoned vessel and found that the pumps would not work, the lower boxes evidently having been removed purposely. The water was coming into the vessel's hold, and nothing could be done to save her. Captain Reed states that by the general appearance of things the vessel had been abandoned leisurely.

Good Work by Police.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—The police made another important arrest yesterday in connection with the case against Joseph Lambert, alias "Dutchy" Sullivan, arrested for burglary in Fall River some time ago. Albert Barlow, a wholesale junk dealer, is charged with assisting Solomon Sagarman, the pawnbroker who was arrested for disposing of thousands of dollars' worth of property stolen from residences in this city. It is believed that several other persons are implicated. Thus far $7000 worth of stolen property has been recovered by the police.

Tool Chest on the Track.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Oct. 30.—What may have been intended for a serious accident was averted on the Boston and Maine railroad, about 2½ miles north of Brattleboro, where a party of miscreants destroyed the section house and placed the tool chest on the track, together with other obstructions, which were struck by the southbound freight and smashed. The train did not leave the track. Stones and other missiles were thrown through the cab window, the brakemen were pelted, and one of them was quite seriously injured.

Witnesses Missing.

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 30.—The case of Joseph Calo, charged with murder, was called in the superior court yesterday, and State Attorney Terry asked for a continuance until February, as four of the government's principal witnesses could not be found, it being said that these witnesses had been paid a large sum of money to stay away. The case was continued till February.

More Trouble For Pendleton.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 30.—Captain Pendleton of the ship William H. Conner, who was arrested on his arrival at this port on a charge of cruelty to the ship's cook, and who was discharged by the court, is again in trouble. District Attorney Bradbury having libeled the ship yesterday for an alleged failure to display the red and green lights at night for one month while at sea on the recent passage of the ship from New York to Yokohama. Four members of the crew of the Conner are the chief government witnesses.

Police Officer Badly Beaten.

WOBURN, Mass., Oct. 30.—George Burraughs, John Burraughs and John Lucy were arraigned here yesterday, charged with assault and battery upon Police Officer James J. Scally at Stoneham early yesterday morning. The men pleaded not guilty and were remanded to await the appearance of the police officer. Scally is injured so badly that grave fears are entertained that he may not recover.

Having a Good Time.

LEWISTON, Me., Oct. 30.—Merchants' week opened yesterday with a trades procession of over a mile in length. The cotton mills, lumber manufactures, jobbers and retailers of the city were nearly all represented. The Lewiston fire department was in the parade, and the several divisions were headed by bands. During the evening there was merry making in all parts of the city.

Wanted to Die.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 30.—Daniel Howland, a Jamestown farmer, made three unsuccessful attempts to commit suicide in a cell yesterday. Howland was arrested for drunkenness. He was finally put in a strait-jacket, and after he came to himself and paid a fine for drunkenness was taken home.

Campbell Acquitted.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—In the superior criminal court yesterday the jury that tried John E. Campbell for alleged manslaughter returned a verdict of not guilty. The defendant was charged with having killed Thomas F. Rotchford on July 21 by striking the latter on the head with a brick.

For a Nine-Hour Day.

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 30.—The coal handlers of this city met last night and received an unfavorable report from the committee recently appointed by them to request the Retail Dealers' association to grant a nine-hour day. The sentiment was strongly in favor of a strike, but another conference will be held before taking final action.

To Carry Passengers.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—The Leyland line, which for many years has conducted a large freight business between Boston and Liverpool, has decided to inaugurate a passenger service. The new steamer Victoria will leave on Thursday with the first passenger list of the line from this port.

Dr. Langdon Dead.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 30.—Rev. William C. Langdon, D.D., a well-known Episcopal clergyman, died here yesterday. Dr. Langdon established the American Episcopal church in Rome and had held many prominent positions in the United States. He was 64 years old.

Settled at Last.

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 30.—The long contested library question was brought up in the common council last evening, and the resolution authorizing the city to acquire a title to the lot of land selected was passed by a vote of 15 to 11.

In a New Field.

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 30.—Rev. Lewis V. Price, pastor of the First Congregational church, was last evening installed as pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The exercises were held in the Central Methodist church.

Schooner Aground.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—Schooner Acacia, from Bridgewater, N. S., grounded in Broad sound yesterday, and sustained serious damage. Schooner Gladstone, from Moncton, N. B., is aground on the bar at Everett.

Swinburne Convicted.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 30.—William C. Swinburne was yesterday found guilty of assault and battery upon Editor David Lingane. The assault was the outcome of a distasteful article published in Lingane's paper.

FOUND IT TOO HARD.

Holmes Changes His Mind About Conducting His Own Case.

Rotan and Shoemaker Again Act as His Counsel.

What Was Done at the Second Day's Trial of the Arch Conspirator.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—District Attorney Graham remarked last night that there was a likelihood of the Holmes trial outrivaling the Durrant case in point of time, but that if night sessions were held regularly it might be concluded within a month or less.

Holmes made a plea last evening asking the court to hold but two sessions a day. In plaintive tones he said that his physical condition was such that he felt unable to continue the cross-examination of the witnesses, and, besides, he was subject to sick headaches.

Judge Arnold insisted, however, upon holding an extra session last night at least, and said tomorrow could be attended to when it came. During the supper recess which followed this incident, Holmes privately said that the preparation of his case in his cell Monday night had kept him up until 4 o'clock yesterday morning, and then he was roused from bed two hours later. In addition to this, he had not eaten anything from Monday night until 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was after making this statement that he sent for his counsel.

Up to that time there had been a general impression that human nature could not stand the terrible ordeal which he had set for himself, and that if he persisted in going on with his own case he would break down before long.

All day, as he sat in the dock, the eyes of the man he is charged with murdering gazed at him from a large crayon portrait placed upright on the district attorney's desk, in full view of the entire court. Next to this was a large sized picture of the daughter, Alice, whose death is also laid on his shoulders. But Holmes did not seem to be affected. His stolid demeanor never deserted him for an instant.

The announcement that the taking of evidence would begin yesterday drew a still larger crowd to the city hall, but the admirable police arrangements kept everybody out of the courtroom except attorneys and those concerned in the case. The interest manifested in the case is not confined to one class. During the day, Judge Arnold had no less than eight visitors—all judges—from this and other cities in the state. Besides, the head of every municipal department was noticed in the room at different times, including the mayor.

It Became Apparent

last night that the picturesque and startling features of H. H. Holmes' career were not to be confined to his destructive wanderings over the American continent, for with each successive day comes something still more strange and unexpected.

On Monday he dismissed his counsel and began to try his own case, because the court refused to grant the plea made by them for a continuance. They left the courtroom in spite of Judge Arnold's threat to disbar them, and religiously kept away. Last night, after fighting tooth and nail single-handed against the tremendous machinery of the commonwealth, and the apparently complete chain of evidence which has been forged around him, he threw up his hands and sent for his lawyers, Messrs. Shoemaker and Rotan. Then he told the court what he had done, and a consent of their continuing with the defense was given.

There was an impression that this was but another piece of by-play following Holmes' personal failure to catch the sympathy of the court and jury by making himself out a much-wronged man, forced to fight alone what may prove to be his last battle, in spite of his ignorance of the technicalities of the law and his alleged physical infirmity.

The big work of the trial—taking testimony—was begun yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and with the exception of brief intermissions at lunch and supper time, was continued until nearly 9 o'clock last night. It had been the intention of the court to sit until 10, but the absence of a witness hindered this, and an adjournment was taken. The star witnesses of the trial—Mrs. Pitezel, Detective Geyer, Agent Perry of the swindled insurance company and the arch criminal himself—yet remain to be heard, as also nearly two score of others.

As Russians See It.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 30.—The Novoe Vremya says that the British squadron of warships in the waters of the Far East have been concentrated at Fou-Chan, and adds: Great Britain is zealously seeking a pretext for declaring war upon China, in order to counteract the successes of Russia and restore her shattered prestige in the Pacific.

Three New Records.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Oct. 30.—W. W. Windle, the bicyclist, broke three world's records here yesterday, which were held by Champion Johnson. He made a half mile in 48s. flat, Johnson's record being 51s. The quarter was made in 22 4-5s., against Johnson's record of 23s., and the third in 30 3-5s., against Johnson's record of 32 2-5s.

Street Cars Idle.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The Anacostia street railroad is tied up by a strike of the employes, caused by the repudiation by their union of a recent agreement made between the company and the men. The management announces that no immediate attempt will be made to run the line.

Filibusters Captured.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—steamer Antilla arrived last evening from Nassau, N. P., and Purser Howe reports the landing in Nassau of 21 filibusters Monday afternoon, the 21st inst., by H. M. S. Partridge, from Inagua, who were under arrest as alleged Cuban filibusters.

Mr. Leonard J. Pastor, the South Quincy pharmacist has taken up quarters over his store, that he may be better able to serve his patrons at night.

The "Hardly Able" social club has reorganized for the winter and have opened house in the Hunt building, Newbury avenue, where they are now prepared to receive their many friends.

The Burkhardts, who spend the summers at Squantum had a very valuable St. Bernard dog taken from their home in Brookline recently, but after a diligent search located the dog in Arlington.

Fire alarm boxes 63 and 67 were cut into the circuit Tuesday and one round from each rung in about 4 o'clock for a test. Box 63 is located at the Atlantic depot and 67 at the corner of Squantum and Atlantic streets.

Miss Thompson commenced her study of George Eliot's works yesterday afternoon in the Unitarian chapel. A large number of ladies were in attendance and the subject of the afternoon's reading "Scenes from Clerical Life, Adam Bede" proved very interesting.

A club of boys, calling themselves the "Holler an yell" club, have organized and have hired the room in the building opposite the Atlantic depot formerly occupied by the Chinese laundry. There are about a dozen members and they intend to make Atlantic lively this winter.

Lots have been purchased on Presidents' hill by W. T. Babcock, W. R. Bateman, Everett C. Bumpus, W. A. Richards and J. W. McAnarney. Unlike some of our land schemes, this property is laid out in large lots and the streets are thoroughly built. Such syndicates should be encouraged in a city, as they attract desirable people.

The many friends of Miss Malinda Jilbert, the clerk at the office of the Water department, are congratulating her today on the announcement of her marriage to Mr. Burton Halburt of Indianapolis, which quietly took place in the rectory of the Episcopal church, Newport, R. I., Sept. 19 last. Rev. R. G. McGill, the pastor, performed the ceremony.

At the M. E. church, West Quincy, Sunday morning, Rev. A. A. Brown took for his text Psalm 8:4—"What is man that thou art mindful of him? and the Son of man that thou visitest him? In the evening his subject was taken from Rom. 8:14—For as many as are led by the Spirit of God they are the sons of God. Mr. Brown speake without notes, draws very fine comparisons, is a fluent and very pleasing speaker.

Knights of Honor Funeral.

The funeral of the late Hugh McPhail was held Tuesday afternoon from his late residence, and was largely attended by his many friends.

The services were conducted by Rev. C. W. Wilder and were very impressive.

The burial service of the Knights of Honor were rendered by acting dictator, W. W. Penniman, and the chaplain, T. C. Houston, of Merry Mount lodge Knights of Honor.

The remains were escorted by the Knights of Honor to Mt. Wollaston cemetery, Messrs. J. Moody, Jr., George N. Nash, Elwood M. Litchfield, Edgar F. Hayden, Peter J. Williams and Frank Barnes acting as bearers. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers.

Incendiary at Quincy Neck.

Robert Stevenson, who lives alone at Quincy Neck in the office formerly used by the granite company, returned about 8 o'clock Monday evening from a visit to Weymouth just in time to save the building and contents. Someone had deliberately removed a pane of glass from a window and set fire to a carriage cushion on the inside. No alarm was given and the loss was trifling.

ITALIAN ART.

An Instructive and Entertaining Lecture by Miss Schmidt.

Miss Anna Seaton Schmidt of Washington, D. C., was greeted by a cultured audience at her first lecture on "Italian Art," which was delivered at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Tuesday evening.

Miss Schmidt prefaced her lecture on art by taking her audience on a journey through Naples, Rome, Pompeii and other Italian cities. She devoted the evening to an exposition of Italian art from the time of the destruction of Pompeii down to that of Leonardo da Vinci. The illustrations which accompanied the lecture were beautiful, they being nearly all reproductions from paintings and frescoes in the Vatican and Roman churches.

"Pictures are the books of the ignorant," said St. Augustine, and to teach the ignorant the church enlisted the great artists in its service. To Cimabue of Florence the revival of painting in Italy is generally ascribed. The Tuscan schools, comprising the Sienese, Pisan and Florentine were, in the 15 century merged in the last named, of which Giotto di Bondone in the 14th century was the founder. Giotto rejected the dark colorings which his predecessors had retained from their Byzantine models, and introduced that which was more natural.

But to Masaccio, who discarded the conventional type of the human form and made his studies directly from life, is due the credit of establishing the great era of the pictoral art of this century. With Leonardo da Vinci, a master accomplished in many arts besides painting, begins another epoch, in which Masaccio's conceptions of form were combined with more forcible and dramatic composition and clearer notions of local color. Contemporary Florentine masters of this period were Fra Bartolommeo di San Marco and Andrea del Sarto, both of the highest excellence, and Michael Angelo Buonarroti, prominent as painter, sculptor and architect. Miss Schmidt also in dwelling upon the Roman school gave examples from Raphael whose fame overshadowed all the rest and to which also belonged Pietro Perugino, his teacher, as well as Giulio Romano and Caravaggio.

The next lecture in the course will be given on Friday evening.

UNIVERSALIST CONFERENCE.

Old Colony Association and Norfolk S. S. Union at Quincy.

About 150 were in attendance this morning at the annual meeting at the Universalist church, Quincy, of the Old Colony Association and Norfolk Sunday School Union. The church was decorated with autumn leaves and flowers.

Rev. Albert Hammatt of Brockton presided and H. F. Nye led the praise service, Rev. Mr. Atwood of South Weymouth offered prayer, Rev. H. W. Rugg was absent. The occasional sermon was delivered by Rev. J. S. Gledhill. He read the scriptures 1st Timothy, fourth chapter, and took the tenth verse as his text: "We trust in the living God, who is the Saviour of all men."

The business meeting of the Old Colony Association followed, and reports were made. The resolution to unite the societies was under discussion when adjournment was made for lunch.

A bountiful collation was served by the ladies of the Quincy church.

Only Hood's

Local Dealers Sell More of Hood's Sarsaparilla Than of All Others.

Druggist A. C. Durgin, whose store is at 124 Hancock Street, has been in business in Quincy, Mass., for 19 years, and was clerk at Natick for nine years.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla not only sells more than any other," says Mr. Durgin, "but its sales are ten to one in excess of any other."

Stephen A. Pierce, corner of Hancock and School Streets, testifies thus:

"My sales of blood medicines are mostly of Hood's Sarsaparilla and are more of that than of all the others combined."

The record of remarkable cures effected enables us truthfully to say that

LOCHREN'S REPORTS.

Interesting Figures Accompanied by Some Pointed Remarks.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Pension Commissioner William L. Lochren, in his annual report, under the head of "Patriotism and Pensions," says: "Those men who enlisted early and fought the battles of the war were not moved by mercenary considerations, and unless actually disabled did not show the haste in applying for pensions manifested by those who enlisted near the close of the war for large bounties, and did little actual service, and who are now the noisiest in clamoring for more pensions. As compared with this latter class, the real soldiers have been modest in preferring claims for pensions."

WILLIAM L. LOCHREN.

The report shows that the number of pensioners on June 30, 1894, was 969,544; new pensioners added during the year, 39,185; dropped pensioners restored, 4206; deaths during the year, 29,816; dropped for other causes, 14,575; making a net increase of pensioners during the year of 860.

The appropriation for the year was $150,000,000, and there was paid during the year $138,807,337. The estimate for pensions during 1897 are $140,000,000 for pension payments, $800,000 for surgeons' fees and $450,000 for clerk hire at pension agencies, and about $200,000 for other expenses.

The commissioner commends the valor of the department of justice and of special agent examiners in prosecuting dishonest attorneys and others who are engaged in pension frauds. Two hundred and ninety-four persons were convicted during the year for frauds.

The Evacuation of Korea.

SEOUL, Oct. 30.—Japanese officials have announced their intention of evacuating Korea at the same time as the evacuation of the Liao-Tung peninsula takes place. The disbanding of the Korean troops trained by the Japanese, as demanded by the Russian and French governments, is regarded with anxiety in Japanese official circles, as it is claimed this would leave the kingdom of Korea without any force with which to maintain order after the Japanese depart.

Gotham Police Changes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The extensive "shake up" of the police force, which has been preparing for a month, was ordered by Acting Chief of Police Conlin yesterday. Commissioner Parker said for the police board that some of the changes were because the men removed could not be trusted, either because of affiliations with liquor dealers, politicians or other persons about them, or because of other conduct of a nature to lose them the confidence of their superiors.

To Cheer Insurgents.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—According to Enrique Trujillo, editor of El Porvenia, a Cuban newspaper published in this city, Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, who sailed from Canada 10 days ago at the head of a secret expedition, has safely landed in Cuba. The expedition, according to Mr. Trujillo, consisted of 107 men, and the De Cespedes party succeeded in landing 500 rifles, 500,000 cartridges and 10 cases of miscellaneous war material and 250 machetes.

Another Move.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 30.—Manager Joe Vendig and Secretary Wheeler of the Florida Athletic club were arrested yesterday on warrants charging them with conspiring to commit a breach of the peace by aiding and abetting a fight. Both were promptly released on bail. If Fitzsimmons succeeds in getting here there will be a fight. Corbett has already been arrested, and is at his training quarters hard at work, being guarded by a deputy sheriff Discouraging Figures.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—The annual report of Canada's finance department for the year 1894 shows that the value of the real estate mortgaged is $115,800,000, compared with $110,916,000 in 1893. Total loans for 1894 are $121,600,000, as against $115,346,000 in 1893. Never in its history has Canadian lands been so heavily mortgaged. Since 1878 the increase in total loans has been over 350 per cent.

Gloomy Political Outlook.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—It is generally thought that M. Bourgeois or M. Ribot will be invited to form a new cabinet. The Temps says: The gravest feature of the situation is the manner in which the cabinet was defeated. Another disquieting fact is that nobody sees on what basis a new ministry can be formed.

Double Boom For Pingree.

DETROIT, Oct. 30.—The Evening Press, a newspaper started during the present city campaign in the interest of Mayor Pingree, after alluding to the events, respectively, through which Washington and Lincoln were called to the presidency, booms Pingree for governor in 1896 and president in 1900.

Marquis Claims Accident.

BOURGES, Oct. 30.—In the trial of the Marquis de Nayve yesterday on the charge of murdering his stepson in 1885, the marquis insisted that the boy fell over the cliffs along the Sorrento road, on the bay of Naples, while he himself was absent for a few moments.

Trial Tests Begun.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The contest of horseless vehicles began yesterday on the Washington park race course, where for three days carriages propelled by electricity, steam, oil, gas or air will undergo tests preparatory to the final race of Saturday

Receiver For Brewery.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 30.—The Waukesha Springs Brewing company went into the sands of Receiver Marx yesterday. His bond was fixed at $100,000.

A Cosy Parlor.

There's no reason on earth why everyone shouldn't have an attractive, well furnished, comfortable parlor. It adds much to your happiness and enjoyment, and just why people don't make themselves comfortable, and enjoy life as they live, is a mystery hard to solve.

The reason we are selling for $45.00 an elegant Wilton Rug, Silk Brocatelle or Silk Tapestry Parlor Set worth $65.00 in any other store on earth, is because we bought these sets at a third less than regular price from a retiring manufacturer, and we are giving to those who take advantage of this opportunity a bargain in Parlor Sets long to be remembered. Only the seeing of these sets will convince you of the magnitude of this offer. Other sets at any price you say.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

FOUNDER'S DAY.

Adams Academy Celebrates Birthday of President John Adams.

The annual fall games of the Adams Academy Athletic association were held this morning on the Academy grounds and were witnessed by a large gathering of the parents and friends of the students.

The list of events, fourteen in number, were such as would bring out the best athletic element of the school, and as a result there were a large number of entries.

Perhaps the most interesting event on the list was the quarter mile run for the challenge cup, which was offered by Dr. William Everett when he was head master of the school. The conditions in this gift were that in order to become the property of any of the boys, he must win it for three years in succession.

J. D. Kent had succeeded in holding the cup for two years and today was to settle the question as to whether the cup should become his property or pass into the hands of some of the other boys. The boys were not willing that he should become the possessor of the cup without a struggle and three of the best runners in the school were entered against him.

When this event was reached it was watched with interest, particularly by Dr. Everett. Taylor took the lead at the start but was soon overhauled by Kent who won the race and cup, his time being 1 minute 5 1-2 seconds. Kent's time in the two previous years was: 1893, 1 minute 10 seconds; 1894, 1 minutes 10 1-4 seconds.

The other events and their winners were as follows:

Eighty yards dash,—J. D. Kent, 8¼ seconds.

Running, hop, step and jump,—J. J. O'Hara, 35 feet, 4 inches.

Base ball throw,—C. H. Rippey, 275 feet, 2 inches.

Five mile bicycle race,—H. W. McCabe, 14 minutes, 53½ seconds.

Potato race,—W. T. McConarty, first; L. W. Hall, second.

Three-legged race,—R. F. Duffield, A. B. Holden, 13 seconds.

Barrel roll,—S. B. Southworth, 12 1-4 seconds.

Quarter mile run,—J. D. Kent, 1 minute 5 1-2 seconds.

Foot ball kick,—J. B. Manning, first, 120 feet; J. L. Eldridge, second, 109 feet, 8 inches.

Obstacle race,—F. L. Hewitt, first; S. B. Southworth, second.

Hurdle race,—First heat, C. H. Rippey, 11 1-4 seconds. Second heat, J. B. Manning, 11 seconds. Final heat, C. H. Rippey, 10 3 4 seconds.

Rope climbing contest,—C. H. Rippey, 10 seconds; F. L. Hewitt, 14½ seconds.

Tug of War,—First heat, between First and Fourth classes, won by First class, who had a walkover. Second heat between Second and Third classes, won by Second class; distance 2 feet, 3 inches. Final heat between First and Second classes won by First class; distance, 6 feet, 5 inches.

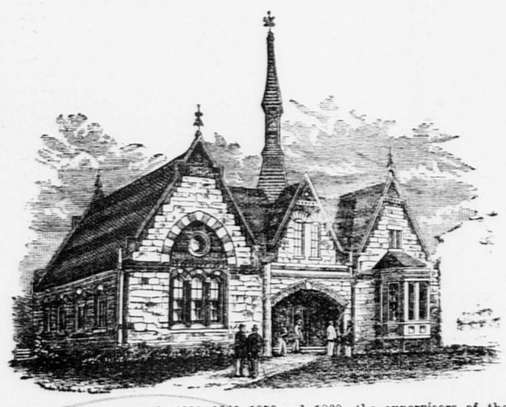
The judges were W. R. Tyler, J. O. Hall, Jr., B. F. Linfield, H. W. Barker, A. R. Wendell, G. B. Gavin, H. W. Porter. Time keeper W. B. Holden.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a foot ball game between the Adams-High and Graduates eleven.

This evening the alumni has its annual dinner at the Parker House, Boston.

John Adams.

HON. JOHN ADAMS, the second President of the United States, was one of the foremost of American patriots, and "by his energy and wisdom did more, perhaps, than any other man to crystalize the American sentiment in favor of Independence." He persuaded Congress to adopt the Declaration and was one of its most distinguished signers. In 1822, he gave by deeds to the town of Quincy, in trust, 211 acres of land for the purpose of founding a classical school of a high order in his native town. He was born Oct. 30, 1725, and his 170th anniversary is observed today.



In 1869—after attempts in 1832, 1846, 1850 and 1860—the supervisors of the fund decided to build, and work was begun that year on the site of the birthplace of John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration, in the city of Quincy granite and brick cost $28,867.99, and was opened in September, 1872. The masters have been the late W. R. Dimmock, L. L. D., William Everett, L. L. D., and William R. Tyler, A. B.

New Phase of the Water Question.

While the city fathers are prolonging the discussion, and the people are divided, as to the policy of entering the Metropolitan water system, we are still getting the same old dirty water. It is poor even for washing purposes, except when thoroughly filtered, as at the Wollaston Steam Laundry, where a large Pittsburg filter is in full operation, and rendering fine water for laundry work.

TODAY'S COURT.

Jeremiah Doran of Weymouth was sent to the House of Correction for 3 months for drunkenness.

John J. Connell a bill poster was arraigned for using profane language at Quincy. He entered a plea of nolo contendere and was fined $3.

William Shields was arraigned on four counts for breaking and entering and larceny from the Scandinavian Granite Co., and held in $800 for the grand jury.

From the Stoughton Record.

NO MAN ACCUSES HIM.

Sheriff Endicott's Qualifications Ably and Fairly Stated.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE RECORD:—

Believing that you have the welfare of Norfolk county at heart, I venture to address you and your readers a few words upon the unexpected and unwarranted action of the recent Republican convention in placing in nomination a candidate for sheriff in opposition to the present incumbent, Mr. A. B. Endicott, who has so ably and acceptably filled the office for the past ten years. It is a responsible office, requiring talent, dignity, courtesy and humanity or kindness of heart. The sheriff has charge of the courts, looks after the comfort and convenience of the judges, keeps order, appoints the deputies, has charge of the prisoners and house of correction, orders the provisions, sees to the sanitary arrangements and is responsible only to the county commissioners and the laws of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Endicott posseses in a marked degree all of the above qualifications, and has discharged all the varied dutles of his office to the pleasure and satisfaction of all parties. He is a good officer, with sufficient firmness to do his duty, and at the same time combine the manners of the gentleman with the functions of his office. Now, can any responsible citizen of the country tell why such a man should be set aside to make place for one untried, and whose character and qualifications are comparatively unknown? No man in the county will come out under his own name and accuse Sheriff Endicott of any neglect of duty or abuse of his position; no one dares intimate any irregularity or unfaithfulness in his accounts or management. His character is above reproach; he never loses his temper nor his equilibrium. He is one of the first citizens of his town, and has the social and financial confidence of every man in it. Who can give any substantial reason why such a man should be put out of an office he so creditably filled to the honor and interest of the county? If no one speaks, let us listen to the audible whispers of the disaffected:

Some have been heard to whisper that he is a Democrat, which is true; but he is an old-fashioned Democrat, a patriot and a friend to the institutions and laws of his country. He has a perfect right to his private opinions; but do any say that he has carried partisan politics into the administration of his office? He has treated all parties alike, recognizing, as the best people generally do recognize, that the shrievalty is not a partisan, but an administrative business office. Republicans are professed believers in better civil service. Does it confirm their sincerity to try and remove a good officer to make room for a partisan whose chief claim is that he wants it?

Again, it is whispered that he has appointed one or two deputies whose religious faith is not in harmony with the prevailing Evangelical Protestant standard. Supposing he has. It is his business to sit in judgment upon men's consciences and set up an inquisition in the stone fortress at Dedham? It is late in the day to place religious tests upon petty offices and proscribe American citizens and taxpayers on account of their race, religion or color. All good citizens have equal rights as to the duties, privileges and honors of this free government, and any one who maintains to the contrary is not fit for high sheriff.

Finally, it is whispered that Mr. Endicott is getting old and has held the office a good while. This is true, but not necessarily a disagreeable truth. In some positions age and experience are no hindrance to efficiency. In the army 64 is the limit, I believe, for a general, and in the Christian ministry about 50 is the deadline; but physicians and statesmen are in their prime at these ages. In any civil administrative office one is not old until his faculties begin to fail. Mr. Gladstone ruled England until past 84, and did it as well as the younger men who succeeded him. No man is old until his eye is dim and his natural force begins to abate. The old-age argument is only a pretense, and will not avail with the others who desire to see the office of high sheriff wisely and faithfully administered.

The old friends of Mr. Endicott of all parties will see that he is triumphantly re-elected, the action of the Republican county convention to the contrary notwithstanding. An Old Republican.

REV. GEORGE HILL,
Norwood, Mass.

The Mount Lebanon Shakers recently performed a great deed of charity, although it was not designed as a charity, being nothing more nor less than an advertising scheme. It however resulted in great good just the same. They gave away 1,000 bottles of their Digestive Cordial to those suffering from stomach derangements.

It was so effective in curing those who used the remedy that they were loud in their praises of it and in consequence a large demand for the cordial was at once created.

The druggists of this town have little books that tell all about it. Digestive Cordial creates an appetite, aids digestion and brings about a rapid increase in flesh and strength.

Laxol is the name of a palatable Castor Oil. Just the thing for children.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Its Supporters Invite Opponents to a Public Discussion of the Question.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—The following invitation to debate has been extended to the Man Suffrage association by the suffrage referendum state committee:

Believing with Thomas Jefferson that "error is harmless when truth is free to combat it," we assume that you share our desire for a full and fair discussion of the question "Is it expedient that municipal suffrage be granted to women?" in advance of the so-called referendum.

We therefore invite you to hold a public discussion with us in Boston on any day this week. We are prepared to prove:

1. That under our theory of government suffrage is the moral right of every citizen who possesses the qualifications prescribed, irrespective of sex.
2. That women need the ballot.
3. That government needs the votes of the women.
4. That good government will be promoted by the co-operation of women and men in municipal elections.
5. That woman suffrage is in accordance with reason, experience, Christianity and common sense.

The expense of hall and advertising to be shared equally by the two associations. Each association to name its own speaker. Each speaker to have equal time to make his statement, and an equal opportunity for reply.

The Laurada's Freight.

KINGSTON, Jam., Oct. 30.—Steamer Laurada, Captain Hughes, reports that after leaving New York, Oct. 21, she met two boats outside the bay, in which there were 84 Cubans, who embarked upon the Laurada. Later in the voyage they were disembarked off Cuba. The steamer also met two other boats which carried 83 cases of ammunition, which were taken on board and again unloaded on Sunday, while the steamer was off Guantanamo, Cuba.

The Color Line.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Judge Barrett yesterday denied the application of Sarah Frazer for a writ of mandamus to compel the trustees of the Twenty-second ward school board to appoint her a teacher. The young woman, whose name was on the list of candidates for appointment, was sent for by the trustees, but it is said that when she presented herself before them, and they saw she was colored, she was told that they could not appoint her.

Split In Liberal Party.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—Wilfred Laurier, the Liberal leader of the opposition, has thrown over the advanced Liberal party. This means that the Liberals expect the aid of the Catholic church in the next general election, but how they expect to make the fight is a very perplexing riddle. Some people hold that the action is ill-advised and will result in Mr. Laurier losing all chances for the premiership.

To Prevent Lynching.

ATLANTA, Oct. 30.—Governor Atkinson, in his annual message to the legislature, recommends that the general assembly pass a law giving the family of a person taken from officers and lynched the right to sue the county for the full value of his life. He also asks that the governor be authorized to remove from office the man from whose custody he was taken.

Five Fatalities.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—Two suburban trains on the Missouri Pacific road collided within the city limits about midnight last night. A horrible wreck resulted, both engineers being killed and both firemen and a passenger being fatally injured.

Visited the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Secretary Olney yesterday brought to the White House Sir Mackenzie Bowell, the Canadian premier, and Sir Charles Hibbert-Tupper, Canadian minister of justice, and introduced them to the president.

About Time.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 30.—Ten armed constables have been sent to Burin to arrest all those implicated in smuggling there. The board of revenue has swung into line for the prosecution of smugglers.

Called Back.

BERNE, Oct. 30.—James O. Broadhead, United States minister to Switzerland, will, tomorrow, present to President Frey his letters of recall.

MANY WOMEN SUFFER

FROM LACK OF INFORMATION.

Doctors Are Too Reserved. A Woman Should Be Dealt With Openly.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women are often allowed by their physicians to suffer much from lack of information and anxiety.

Many medical men are vain, and it is a struggle for them to acknowledge that they do not understand acase. Women do not investigate; they have faith in their doctor, and often wreck their lives through this unfortunate confidence.

In the treatment of female diseases men work from theory; and it is not to be expected that they can treat as intelligently those complaints from which they have never suffered, as a woman can who has made the organism and diseases of her sex a life study.

Women afflicted with female diseases are wise in communicating promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Their distressed condition is due to womb trouble, and their symptoms tell the story.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one remedy that removes the cause, and restores health, courage, and happiness. The druggists sell more of it than all other female medicines. Why?

The following short letter speaks for itself. Mrs. Parker is a very young wife; only twenty-one years old. She was suffering untold misery when she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. See the result.

Can evidence be stronger than this? "I deem it my duty to announce the fact to all my fellow-sufferers of all female complaints that your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me of all the pains and suffering I was enduring when I wrote you last May. I followed your advice to the letter, and the result is wonderful."—MRS. CHAS. PARKER, Little Falls, Minn. Any druggist has it.

Life's Masquerade.

And what is life but one gay masquerade,
In which the masked figures come and go,
Where all the brilliant scenes dissolve and fade,
As fleeting shadows, passing to and fro,
And all the people in the merry game
Keep well their masks before their hearts and lives?
Though some seek honor, wealth or power or fame,
Each one's a masker, while he works and strives.
The maiden with a coy and timid grace;
The youth more bold, but yet an actor still;
The dame, the grandsire, keep before their face
The mask of life, which they hold firmly till
Death comes to end the senseless masquerade,
Then over all the mask of death is laid.

NO GOOSEBERRY PIE FOR HER.

The Old Lady Had a Dinner That Surprised the Knowing Gamblers.

The old lady entered a restaurant which, rightly or wrongly, is known as the resort of the gay and careless. She was typically countrified in appearance, her spectacles resting on the bridge of her nose, her hat being old fashioned and her gait and general attitude those of one fresh from the little farmhouse.

Without, however, any sign of halting confidence that was to be expected of a stranger to city ways, she sat down at the most conspicuous table in the room. A surly looking short card player, who, although it was 6 o'clock in the afternoon, was just getting his breakfast, stared at her with curiosity. Two dejected turf gamblers, prevented from attending the races on that day by bad luck on the day before, who were solacing themselves with strong waters and who hadn't spoken to each other for half an hour, observed her with slight smiles.

"Well, now," said one, "that's a funny old girl to see in here. I remember seeing her kind in country towns when I was in the show business. I'll gamble on what she'll order. She'll have gooseberry pie and milk, and she'll eat the pie with her knife. They don't have no forks where she comes from."

But the other would not bet. He said merely and not unkindly, "She doesn't seem to fit this place."

They could not hear what she ordered, but they could see that there was nothing flippant in the attitude of the waiter who went to her. She ate with deliberation and then departed. One of the two unsuccessful patrons of the turf called the waiter and asked, "What did that old lady order?"

"Why, le's see," answered the waiter, "I think she had pigeon and a pint of fizz. She's very fond of both."

The gamblers looked surprised.

"Who is she?" asked one.

"Why, don't you know her?" queried the waiter. "That's Mlle. Lanconi, the head dancer in this new burlesque at the Jupiter theater."—New York World.

BURNED AT A STAKE.

Awful Punishment Dealt to a Negro Rape Fiend In Texas.

Oil-Soaked Wood and Straw Piled Around the Victim.

Seven Thousand People Looked on While the Mass Was Set Ablaze.

TYLER, Tex., Oct. 30.—Henry Hillard, a negro, was brought to this place yesterday and burned to death in the public square. Hilliard had met Mrs. Bell at a point about four miles from here. What occurred could only be told by the negro himself and the evidence given by the dead body of the woman.

The ground shows that she had struggled for her honor, and the condition of the body told of cruelty that has rarely been equalled by Jack the Ripper. After outraging the body the negro deliberately cut her throat, and then taking his knife, ripped up her body. A posse was quickly organized, led by Deputy Sheriff Smith of Tyler, who with lanterns in hand and aided by a hound, tracked the negro to within four miles of this place, where they found him fast asleep in a cotton pen. The negro's clothing was stained with blood which he had attempted to wash out. The posse started back to Tyler with the negro.

The negro was captured about 4 o'clock yesterday morning three miles from Kilgore. He offered no resistance. Soon after the officers had him handcuffed, a mob of some 200 men, heavily armed, arrived on the scene and demanded the immediate surrender of the prisoner, which was readily given.

The mob then left for the scene of the murder, where they arrived yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The crowd continued to gather at the scene of the horrible crime until nearly 2000 citizens of Tyler and vicinity were there. A few moments before the fiend was brought to the place a meeting was held and a committee was appointed to investigate his identity. Witnesses were summoned and closely interrogated. The result was

A Thorough Identification.

In a few moments an officer approached from over the hill, followed by 300 determined and well-armed men. When near the scene the officers were overpowered and disarmed, and the negro, Hilliard, brought before the committee.

He made a full confession, in substance as follows: "I was coming down the road and saw Mrs. Bell in the road. She was scared of me, and I knew that if I passed her she would say I tried to rape her, and I concluded that I would rape her and then kill her. I cut her throat, and cut her in another place and left."

He wrote a note to his wife and gave it to the sheriff. It read as follows: "I am arrested by 'Wig' Smith. You know what they will do with me. If I don't see you any more, goodby. Henry."

After his confession and thorough identification, a vote was taken as to what the mode of punishment would be. It was agreed to burn him, and it was agreed that he should suffer the penalty in the public square. The line of march was taken up toward Tyler, and at 4 o'clock the head of the line entered the main plaza, where no less than 7000 people were assembled. A large crowd of women and children were congregated on the awnings surrounding the public plaza. Wagons, carriages, trees and building were converted into grandstands and were thronged at 4:30 o'clock.

A Gruesome Exhibition.

A scaffold was erected in the center of the square. Wagons laden with kindling wood, coal oil and straw were driven to the scene and placed in position. The negro was then given an opportunity to speak, but his words were inaudible, but when he offered up his last prayer his words could be heard for several blocks. He was then lashed to the iron rail that extended through the platform, Mr. Bell, the husband of the murdered woman, applied the match and the flames shot upward, enveloping the brute in sheets of fire.

He begged for mercy. It was denied him, the assertion being that he would be punished for the murder of the woman. It was determined to burn him at once, but the fire was quenched after the last piece of wood was burned. In a few moments the fire was started again. From the time the match was applied until his death was exactly 50 minutes.

The I and G. N. south bound train was crowded with people from the towns north. Hundreds of negroes witnessed the execution, and representative negroes expressed their endorsement of the punishment. The officers were powerless, and the sheriff wired the governor, but his message was too late. All business houses and factories closed and the big cotton-belt shops were deserted.

Newpaper Business Is Risky.

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—The trial occurred yesterday of a number of journalists charged with lese majeste, among them being Joseph Dierl, editor of The Vorawaerts, who was sentenced to prison for six months. Others tried on the same charge were Herr Pfundt, who was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment, and Herr Randmann, whose sentence was to imprisonment for a year. All were liberated on ball in the sum of 5000 marks.

Building Collapsed.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—An explosion, supposed to have been caused by escaping gas, wrecked a house on the Strand last evening. Six persons are known to have been killed, and many were injured by the collapse of the house. The tenants were mostly Covent Garden market porters. The house collapsed as if made of cards.

Liabilities of $200,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—Isador H. Sultzbach, dealer in clothing, made an assignment yesterday. The assets will amount to about $200,000, but the liabilities may exceed that sum. Sultzbach is said to have lost $250,000 in the last two years.

Two Murderers Executed.

DANNEMORA, N. Y., Oct. 30.—George H. Smith, murderer of Philip Richmyer, was executed by electricity in Clinton prison yesterday. Charles N. Davis was executed in like manner for murdering May Shannon, 6 years old.

No Fatalities.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 30.—The Lagonda hotel caught fire at midnight. The guests escaped. The Western Union telegraph office and a clothing, hat and drug stores were burned out.

Mary Anderson Navarro is said to be inclining toward fleshiness. It is told of her that during her engagement in New York she would eat a "smothered Venus" (fred steak and fried onions) at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, shortly after her usual light luncheon.

De Brazza's bride, who is to accompany him to Africa is almost an American. Her father, the late Marquis de Chambrun, was for years a resident of Washington as legal adviser of the French legation, and his daughter, who was brought up there, has hosts of friends at the American capital.

Kate Field says if she were doomed to live permanently in two American cities—always the same two—she would divide her time between Washington and Chicago, turning her back on Lake Michigan in November and returning in June. She likes Washington for its society and Chicago for the lake breezes.

ELECTRICAL NOTES.

No insulator of magnetism is known.

The pull of a magnet is increased by reducing its polar surface.

It is said that electric lamps run by storage batteries last twice as long as lamps operated directly by dynamos.

Electro magnets with long limbs are practically no better than those with short limbs for sticking on to masses of iron.

Any galvanometer having a resistance which is large in proportion to the current to be measured can be used as a voltmeter after calibration.

In making a spark coil, or, in fact, any electric apparatus, the main requirements necessary for success are patience and determination to construct each part thoroughly.

The strength of the solution in each cell of a storage battery should be tested with a hydrometer once a month. When the battery is fully charged, it should indicate 22 degrees Baume.

In an arc lamp, supplied with a direct current, the consumption of the positive carbon is in round numbers one inch per hour and of the negative carbon one-half that amount.—Boston Transcript.

SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN

Is a Certainty if they Ever Make a Demand For It.

Francis Parkman Says the Majority Are Averse to It.

Relative Position of the Sexes Has Always Remained the Same.

Nothing is more certain than that women will have the suffrage if they ever want it; for when they want it men will give it to them regardless of consequences. A more than readiness on the part of men to conform to the wishes of the other sex is a national trait in America, though whether it would survive the advent of the female politician is matter for reflection. We venture to remind those who demand women suffrage as a right that, even if it were so, the great majority of intelligent women could judge for themselves whether to exercise it better than the few who assume to teach them their duty,

The agitators know well that, in spite of their persistent importunity, the majority of women are averse to the suffrage. A small number of women have spent their time for several decades in ceaseless demands for suffrage. but they have lost their best argument in failing to show that they are prepared to use the franchise when they have got it. A single sound and useful contribution to one side or the other of any question of current politics—the tariff, specie payments, the silver bill, civil service reform, railroad monopoly, capital and labor, or a half score of other matters—would have done more for their cause than years of empty agitation.

Permanence of the Relation of the Sexes.

The agitators say that no reason can be given why women should not take a direct part in politics, except that they have never done so. There are other reasons, and strong ones, in abundance. But this particular one is nevertheless good. All usages, laws and institutions have risen and perished, and risen and perished again. Their history is the history of mutability itself. But, from the earliest records of mankind down to this moment, in every race and every form or degree of civilization or barbarism, the relative position of the sexes has been essentially the same, with exceptions so feeble, rare and transient that they only prove the rule. Such permanence in the foundation of society, while all that rests upon it has passed from change to change, is proof in itself that this foundation lies deep in the essential nature of things. It is idle to prate of the old time that has passed away and the new time that is coming. The "new time" can no more stir the basis of human nature than it can stop the movement of the earth.

The cause of this permanence is obvious. Women have great special tasks assigned them in the work of life, and men have not. To these tasks their whole nature, moral and physical, is adjusted. There is scarcely a distinctive quality of women that has not a direct or indirect bearing upon them. Everything else in their existence is subordinated to the indispensable functions of continuing and rearing the human race; and, during the best years of life, this work, fully discharged, leaves little room for any other. Rightly considered, it is a work no less dignified than essential. It is the root and stem of national existence, while the occupations of men are but the leaves and branches. On women of the intelligent and instructed classes depends the future of the nation. If they are sound in body and mind, impart this soundness to a numerous offspring and rear them to a sense of responsibility and duty, there are no national evils that we cannot overcome. If they fail to do this, their part, then the masses of the coarse and unintelligent, always of rapid increase, will overwhelm us and our institutions.—Francis Parkman.

Grounds of Remonstrance.

The following protest, addressed by women of New York to the constitutional convention of that state, expresses briefly and forcibly some of the reasons which lead the great majority of American women to object to having the great responsibilities of the ballot thrust upon them:

We, American women, citizens of the state of New York, protest against the proposal to impose the obligation of suffrage upon the women of this state, for the following, among other reasons:

First—Because suffrage is to be regarded not as a privilege to be enjoyed, but as a duty to be performed.

Second—Because hitherto the women of this state have enjoyed exemption from this burdensome duty, and no adequate reason has been assigned for depriving them of that immunity.

Third—Because conferring suffrage upon the women who claim it would impose suffrage upon the many women who neither desire it as a privilege nor regard it as their duty.

Fourth—Because the need of America is not an increased quantity, but an improved quality of the vote, and there is no adequate reason to believe that woman's suffrage by doubling the vote will improve its quality.

Fifth—Because the household, not the individual, is the unit of the state, and the vast majority of women are represented by household suffrage.

Sixth—Because the women not so represented suffer no practical injustice which giving the suffrage will remedy.

Seventh—Because equality in character does not imply similarity in function, and the duties and life of men and women are divinely ordered to be different in the state as in the home.

Eighth—Because the energies of women are engrossed by the present duties and interests, from which men cannot relieve them, and it is better for the community that they devote their energies to the more efficient performance of their present work than to divert them to new fields of activity.

Ninth—Because political equality will deprive woman of special privileges hitherto accorded to her by law.

Tenth—Because suffrage logically involves the holding of public office, and office holding is inconsistent with the duties of most women.

ROBBED HEN ROOSTS.

Fred Pike Has Relieved Farmers of Thousands of Fowls.

Sold Them to Boston Restaurant Keepers.

People of Wakefield Alone Have Lost $2000 Worth of Hens.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—An alleged hen thief who seems to have been industrious for the past two years in neighboring towns was arrested in this city yesterday by officers of station 3, assisted by Chief of Police Vannah of Wakefield. He was photographed for the rogues' gallery and then taken to Wakefield.

He gave his name as Fred Pike, alias George Gould, 42 years of age, but he refused to reveal where he has been living of late. He claims to have originally come from St. Albans, Vt.

For two years past he has been in the habit, so it is alleged, of making nightly visits to different towns a few miles out of Boston and robbing hen roosts. The following day he has always appeared at the West End of this city, where he has done a thriving business among 30 or more restaurants, who have purchased from him chickens for a price much less than they could the same articles at the market.

But up to the time of his arrest no suspicion was cast upon him, it being the impression among his customers that he was living out of town, who made his source of revenue from that business.

He had a bag in his possession when arrested, which contained about 50 keys of various kinds, a glass-cutter and a combination screwdriver, besides some hens' feathers.

The proprietor of a restaurant also identified Pike as the man from whom he had daily purchased chickens for the past two years, and later on the prisoner was identified by many others with whom he had dealings for some time.

In his pocket was found a memorandum book with the names of many of his customers, and further investigation by the officers revealed the fact that for some time he has been plucking feathers from the poultry in a house on Lowell street, giving a woman named Kelly the feathers for the privilege granted him. Mrs. Kelly now has two or three bolsters stuffed with the feathers which she got in this manner.

Investigation shows that for a long time he did the same thing at 43 Leverett street, giving the woman the feathers for the privilege of allowing him to dress the hens and chickens at that place. There the woman saved enough feathers to make a whole feather bed, two pillows and a bolster. To these people he always represented that he had two farms

A Little Way Out of Town.

Chief Vannah of Wakefield says that during the past two years the people of that place alone have had $2000 worth of hens stolen from them, and besides there the farmers of Medford, Malden and Lynnfield have also been robbed to a large extent.

Pike, alias Gould, is supposed to have been the thief in all instances, owing to the facts that have been learned in Boston, where he did a thriving business. When arrested he had about $40 in his pocket.

The Connor's Case.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 31.—A hearing was given the captain of the ship William H. Connor in the United States court yesterday morning on a $12,000 libel against that vessel for failing to display lights at night while on her voyage from Yokohama to this port. Witnesses testified that for over a month while the vessel was at sea no lights were shown at night. The defense was as no accident had resulted from this negligence, the United States had no right to interfere in the matter. The case is unfinished.

Special Struck a Freight.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 31.—A special train, containing President Tuttle and other officials, crashed into a heavy freight moving in the same direction yesterday near Valpey's crossing. Four freight cars were thrown down an embankment. Thomas Murray, a brakeman on the freight, was injured. Conductor Murray had charge of the freight train. He claims he had no notification that the passenger train was to follow his train to Lawrence.

Burned Itself Out.

MILLERS FALLS, Mass., Oct. 31.—Fire, which started in a Main street livery stable at 10:30 o'clock last night, swept away the buildings on one side of the street in the business section and jumped across the street and destroyed the buildings on that side. The fire department early proved utterly inadequate, and help was summoned from Greenfield and Northampton. The fire burned itself out about 2 a. m. The total loss will reach about $60,000.

Myers' Flying Machine.

LEWISTON, Me., Oct. 31.—Professor Carl E. Myers, the sky cyclist, made a trip yesterday for the merchants' week crowd. At the start the professor's sky cycle struck a strong current of air of 20 miles an hour, and he was unable to navigate successfully. The wind bore him over in a southerly direction, following the Androscoggin to Lisbon Centre, about seven miles, where he alighted safely in a field.

Crowded Meetings.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—The Salvation Army meetings yesterday were largely attended. After a meeting in the forenoon a rescue meeting was held in America hall. Last night 15 battalions of the army held open-air meetings in all parts of the city, afterward uniting at People's Temple, where Brigadier Brewer addressed a large audience on "The Perils of Our Cities."

Charles Witham Dying.

MALDEN, Mass., Oct. 31. — Charles Witham, who shot and killed Dr. Farnsworth in Malden on account of a woman, and who was to be tried within a few weeks, is very sick with consumption at his old home at Southboro, Me., where he has been on a visit, and it is said he cannot live but a short time.

Man Suffragists' Reply.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—The executive committee of the Massachusetts Man Suffrage association has sent the following reply to the request of the woman suffrage state committee for a public debate: "Your esteemed communication of the 29th inst is at hand, and in reply we desire to say that in our opinion it would be impossible in the four days remaining before election suitably to arrange the details for such a discussion as you propose. Indeed, we doubt whether, in any event, this would prove any material addition to the arguments which have been and are being advanced on both sides in the columns of the daily and weekly press throughout the state."

Not Murdered.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 31.—John Archibald, who mysteriously disappeared from this city last Friday, and who was thought to have been murdered, was seen in Bangor yesterday by a Portland man. Searching parties have been dragging the bay and river for the man since Friday night.

For Populist Presidency.

LEWISTON, Me., Oct. 31.—A conference of leading Maine ex-Greenbackers and Populists will be held in Auburn some time next month to further a movement that for some time has been quietly carried on to make Solon Chase the Populist candidate for the presidency next year.

Futile Search For Missing Man.

SOUTH HADLEY FALLS, Mass., Oct. 31.—George Hofman, 68, the South Hadley Falls man who disappeared from his home Sunday afternoon, has not yet been found. The search was continued yesterday by a large posse of men, who scoured the country for miles around.

Money For Mr. Smith.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Friends of Rev. Frank H. Smith, pastor of the North Avenue Congregational church, Cambridge, have thus far raised $4300, to be used in his trial before the United States court on the charge of sending scurrilous matter through the mails.

Mother Claims Body.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Anna, wife of Moy Fook of Chinatown, died of her self-inflicted wound at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Dunbar of Peterboro, N. H., Anna's mother, came to Boston and took charge of all that remained of her beloved but willful child.

Church and Factory Burned.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 31.—Fire broke out last night in the carriage factory of J. A. Porter, in the center of a group of wooden buildings. The flames reached a Baptist church near by. The damage to the church was about $7500 and the loss to Porter $5000.

Whirled to Death.

PEABODY, Mass., Oct. 31. — William Connors, aged 35, employed in the morocco factory of A. C. Lawrence & Co., was caught in the belting and instantly killed. He was whirled around the shaft and every bone in his body was broken.

Chinaman's Store Robbed.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—The store of S. Y. Tank, 18 and 20 Harrison avenue, was broken into and $300 in money and 17 gold watches stolen. The robbery was committed some time between the hours of midnight and 7 o'clock in the morning.

Forger Sentenced.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Henry T. Woodruff was yesterday sentenced to serve 10 years in the state prison for forgery. Woodruff and an accomplice named Davis operated extensively among Boston banks, realizing about $15,000 on forged checks.

A Poor Night's Work.

WRENTHAM, Mass., Oct. 31.—Burglars made a raid on this place, and the new school building, the railroad station and the bank building were entered, but only about $44 in cash and a few tickets were obtained.

Case of Manslaughter.

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 31. — Thomas Paige, who was assaulted by John Flannigan on July 4, died yesterday from injuries received at that time. Flannigan will be charged with manslaughter.

Meek For Mayor.

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 31.—The Municipal league last night nominated Henry M. Meek for mayor. Mr. Meek has been city clerk for over 20 years. The balance of the ticket will be nominated later.

Plea of Insanity.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 31.—A plea of insanity is to be entered in the case of Hutchins, the New Siberia farmer who committed a criminal assault on his daughter, Edna, and tried to murder her.

An autopsy on the body of Charles Peterson at Newport, R. I., proved that he came to his death from natural causes.

The directors of the Christian association at Greenfield, Mass., have voted to suspend all business until April 1, because of inadequate financial support.

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr and Mrs. Jonathan Crocker of Uxbridge, Mass., was celebrated at their home. Mr. Crocker has served the town 23 years as overseer of the poor.

An Unofficial Call.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. — The British ambassador had an unexpected visitor yesterday in the person of Count De La Boissier, who, as the so-called grand chancellor, represents the claims of Baron Harden-Hickey to the island of Trinidade, off the coast of Brazil. The call was of an unofficial character.

WILL FIGHTERS MEET?

Governor Clarke Countermands His Order Concerning Militia.

Fitzsimmons' Party Arrested on Railroad Train.

Matters Will Probably Come to a Climax at Little Rock Today.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 31.—Governor Clarke yesterday afternoon countermanded his order sending the militia to Hot Springs.

GOVERNOR CLARKE.

This was because Attorney General Kinsworthy telephoned the governor from Hot Springs to the effect that Corbett would be tried before a justice of the peace in Hot Springs, and, after that, has consented to come to Little Rock for trial before Chancellor Martin.

Sheriff Dillard and deputies of Mills county, who left Texarkana on the Iron Mountain Cannon Ball yesterday afternoon, succeeded in Bagging the Pugilists.

Fitzsimmons and his trainer were arrested by them and taken off their train at Fulton. A special train was telegraphed for to bring the officers and pugilists back to Texarkana. They arrived here about 7:15 o'clock, and the sheriff, with his deputies, with Fitzsimmons and Julian under arrest, left Texarkana at 7:35 last night, via the Cotton Belt railroad, for Little Rock. They took this route to avoid any trouble that might arise at Malvern if the Iron Mountain route was used.

Sheriff Houpt of Hot Springs, who sought to carry Fitzsimmons and Julian through to that city, under the guise of arrest, was lost in the scuffle when he disputed Sheriff Dillard's authority. The latter arrested him on the Iron Mountain train, but when the crowd got off at Fulton, Houpt remained aboard, but got off at Hope, the next station above, where he telegraphed Dillard that he was not trying to get away and would come back on the first train and give himself up.

Sheriff Dillard has been assisted by the deputy sheriff of Little Rock, and every move has been made according to written instructions from Governor Clarke. The governor ordered Sheriff Dillard and Deputy Heard to get a big posse of men to take Fitzsimmons at all hazards and at any cost and produce him before Judge Martin at Little Rock as soon as possible after arresting him.

Kinsworthy's Move.

Attorney General Kinsworthy appeared before Justice of the Peace Rapley last evening, and moved that the warrants issued several days ago for the arrest of Corbett and his party be recalled.

City Attorney Martin, who with Mayor Waters constituted the citizens' committee which went to Dallas and secured the removal of the headquarters of the Florida Athletic club to this city, appeared in the interest of those who were trying to have the contest pulled off here, and upon the showing by him Justice Rapley denied the motion.

The purpose of Attorney General Kinsworthy, who represented Governor Clarke in this section, was to have the Corbett party released from the custody of the Garland county officers, in order that they might be removed to Little Rock, after being arrested under the warrants issued by Judge Martin of that city and placed in the hands of Sheriff Houpt's deputies.

The plan of the fight people seems to have been to keep Corbett and his party under the jurisdiction of Justice Rapley and out of the hands of the state officers as long as there was a chance for Fitzsimmons to reach this city on schedule time. When this vanished, there was no longer a possibility of an encounter between the two heavyweights within the next 24 hours, and they evidently thought it advisable to let the governor have his own way for a while longer and bide their time.

A Talk With Fitz.

A newspaper correspondent interrogated Fitzsimmons and Julian at Texarkana. Both said they were ready for the fight, but could not say when or where it could take place, as they were under arrest. Both denounced Corbett and the Florida Athletic club for doing everything in their power to prevent and stave off the fight to a later day. Fitzsimmons said he was in fine trim and felt confident of easily knocking out Corbett. He had trained continuously and was never in finer form. He and Julian will claim the $2500 forfeit if they can get through to Hot Springs. Both appeared in good humor, although under arrest, and said it was useless to fret over such a thing, as it was unavoidable on their part. The trial of their cases under warrant issued by Chancery Judge Martin at Little Rock will be held today.

All of Fitzsimmons' baggage, with the exception of his personal belongings, came through to this city last night, as did an enormous tent which is to be used for the fight. The members of the Hot Springs Athletic club are in no way cast down by this last blow to the chances, and reiterated their belief that the fight will eventually be pulled off.

To add to the present mystery, Corbett has disappeared from his training quarters. It is reported that he is en route for Little Rock to answer charges preferred against him by the Pulaski county authorities.

Glenwood Ranges.

We say a great deal about Glenwood Ranges, but by no means all, hints only are possible. It's better so, otherwise you would lose much of the pleasure of discovery. It's surprising how some people expect old fashioned ranges to cook for new fashioned people. If you haven't owned a Glenwood Range, you don't know what it is to have a range that knows all about cooking, and costs but a trifle. $20.00 to $33.00.

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. A reasonable allowance for your old range.

GREENLEAF PARK.

The Finest Residential Section in Quincy,

And the home of many of Quincy's most prominent citizens.

This property—a part of the old Butler estate—is in close proximity to the new High School, the Adams Academy, the Woodward Academy for girls, a few steps from the electric cars on Hancock street, and within a few minutes' walk of the depot and Quincy Centre.

It embraces the land lying between Greenleaf street, one of the best streets in Quincy, and the new Merry Mount Park. The improvements are nearly all made, and some of the finest residences in the city are located here.

PRICES are very reasonable, ranging from 10 to 15 cents per foot and some good small lots at even lower prices.

TERMS can be made satisfactory if desired.

REASONABLE RESTRICTIONS as to the character and location of buildings have been established, and with the prospect in the near future of a new R. R. station at President's Bridge, close to the property, lots are sure to advance rapidly in value during the next few years.

REMEMBER there is no other land in Quincy so well located at such reasonable prices. Call at our office in Quincy for plans, prices and particulars, and take a look at some of the lots on Merry Mount and Butler Roads, Greenleaf, Hudson and Putnam streets. They are certain to please you if you are prospecting for a home site.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

The last day of October.

The three days fair of the Swedish Lutheran church will open at Plumers hall this evening.

The Quincy Cooperative Bank is to retire fifty more shares in its first series at the December meeting.

Mr. A. G. Olney, Mr. A. A. Lincoln and Mr. E. H. Sanborn, of Wollaston, were in Concord this week fox hunting.

The Quincy Teachers' association will hold its first meeting of the year this evening at the High school building.

In the words of a Councilman, the editors accept the apology of Dr. Everett. Perhaps we will vote for him now but it is hardly probable.

The Shipp Bros., bell ringers, are to give a concert under the auspices of the Ladies' Benevolent society at the Wollaston Congregational church.

At the Granite City club last evening there was an exciting game of drive whist played by the members with the following results: The first prize was taken by J. Warren Nightingale, and the second by E. W. H. Bass.

Rt. Em. David V. Poole D. D. G. H. P., for the 7th Capitular dstrict, accompanied by Em. Com. William Pierce as G. C. of H., and suite visited St. Stephenson Chapter on Tuesday evening. The Mark Master degree was worked. Supper was served by Landlord Hayden of the Greenleaf in the hotel dining room.

The Quincy Co-operative Bank will begin next month, its fourteenth semi-annual period of work in this city, and it will do so under its usual prosperous conditions. The directors have lately voted to declare a dividend of 3½ per cent for the last six months. Under system of monthly payments many are in process of owning their homes, notwithstanding recent hard times. Shares in fourteenth series now for sale.

If anyone admires flowers it will well repay them to visit the conservatory of James Nicol on Coddington street, who makes a specialty of chrysanthemums. Mr. Nicol has some thirty varieties, four of which are new, and in all about 1500 plants. Many of these plants are now in bloom and they make a very handsome appearance, some of the blooms being six inches in diameter. Mr. Nicol will enter some of his choicest blooms in the annual chrysanthemum show in Boston next week.

GOODWILL RECEPTION.

The Wollaston Idea Which Other Wards Might Imitate.

The third annual "Goodwill Reception" of the various Wollaston denominations was brought to a successful consummation at the Wollaston Baptist church on Wednesday evening. The affair was characterized by its simplicity and sociability. Over 400 people attended and were carefully looked after by a very cordial reception committee. All of the societies were well represented.

The Rev. Preston Gurney of the Baptist society, under whose auspices this reception was given, welcomed the large gathering with a few felicitious remarks.

After singing by the church quartet, the Rev. Preston Gurney and Mrs. Gurney, the Rev. James E. Bagley and Mrs. Bagley, the Rev. Charles W. Wilder and Mrs. Wilder, and the Rev. Edward A. Robinson, were introduced to the people as they passed by to the vestry, where ices and coffee were being served by Mr. George F. Pinkham and Mr. A. D. Albee.

After the lunch short speeches were made by all of the pastors, Rev. Mr. Gurney acting as toastmaster.

The speaking was interspersed by singing, by the quartet, both collectively and individually,—Mrs. A. Page, Mrs. Edgar A. King, Mr. Samuel King, and Mr. Charles F. Wilde.

The organ music was by Mr. Charles A. Pinkham.

A GRAND RALLY.

McEttrick, Everett, and Russell the Speakers.

Democratic Doctrines Expounded on State and National Affairs

Henry H. Faxon Was There and Was Heartily Cheered.

The second rally of the Democrats was the most enthusiastic and appreciative of any in recent years and also the best attended. The speakers were Hon. John E. Russell of Leicester, Dr. William Everett and Michael J. McEttrick. The speakers were met at the station by William B. Orcutt, Esq, and members of the city committee and escorted to the hall.

Councilman Charles F. Adams, 2d, presided and seated on the platform besides the speakers were the following gentlemen: William B. Orcutt, Paul R. Blackmur, Charles T. Baker, Mayor Hodges E G. Hall and James L. Lincoln.

The first speaker was Michael J. McEttrick. His speech was a recapitulation of the acts of Republican legislatures, State and National, and demonstrations of the fact that all remedial and reform legislation was always succored and helped on by Democratic influence. In closing the speaker touched upon a matter of some pertinency and that was the affairs of this Congressional district. He pleaded for harmony and pledged himself to work for that end.

If the applause and other pleasurable manifestations which greeted Dr. Everett when he was announced by the presiding office may be accepted as a precursor of the action at the polls, the doctor will receive a handsome endorsement. His speech was at times feeling, particularly when dealing with the criticisms of his friends and neighbors, who had unjustly charged him with many failings in his social relations with men, little realizing the sacrifices he was constantly making that the educational interests in his hands might not suffer, and again when dealing with the many malignant restrictive and proscriptive phases of Republicanism, he defined a position that was clearly honest and logical.

He gave a resume of the works of the fifty-third Congress, and the beneficient measures passed, and eulogized President Cleveland and his cabinet, particularly the late Secretary Gresham. He declared that the policy of the administration in regard to foreign affairs was the only one that could be pursued by men who approached all questions in the light of truth and justice. The doctor declared hat he was proud to wear the badge of Democracy, but would hesitate before carrying his allegiance to party to the extreme of wearing the party collar. He would treat all questions critically, and he arraigned the Republicans for their failings in this respect, claiming that they made every matter subservient to party exigency. He did not approve of the radicalism of many reformers, believing that only parts of the governmental machinery needed repairs. The lobby and attendant corruption, he did not think as prevalent as reported, but still from unbiased sources it has been shown that enough does exist to warrant the effort of all honest men to stamp it out. He saw in the Democratic party a disposition to deal with the question of today and thought the present complacency of the Republicans did not augur well for the permanence of the party. He urged all to vote for principles and not for men.

The last speaker was Hon. John E. Russell. Mr. Russell treated upon State issues principally, and urged every one to judge for himself of the worth of the two platforms this year. He was pleased with the independence of the Democrats in the last election and thought there was more of it in his party than in the Republican and though he had been the loser by such independence, still he did not complain. He deprecated the lack of intelligence on the part of Republicans on currency matters, stating that it was impossible to argue the Democratic resolution of last year relative to State banks. The system of State government by commissions was a costly absurdity, and the Governor's Council was characterized as a cumbersome antiquity. The Democrats had every reason to be proud of the principles promulgated this year and though success was not to be expected this year, the people of Massachusetts would yet place their faith in like principles as the Democracy always aimed at satisfying the new needs of our ever growing Commonwealth. Mr. Russell paid a fine tribute to Massachusetts and said that he was heartily in accord with the sentiment that no one should strive to serve her the most, but to serve her the best.

During Mr. Russell's remarks about the independence found in his party, Mr. Faxon arose with an objection, which was that similar independence was to be found in the Republican party.

Mr. Russell acknowledged that Mr. Faxon was right, but pleased the audience by saying that such independence was rather in the nature of revolt, brought about by the disclosures of wrong-doing during Gov. Brackett's administration, and pressed by the present Democratic candidate for governor. Mr. Russell further in his speech, quoting from Mr. McEttrick, said that 80 per cent. of the Legislature were honest, to which Mr. Faxon rejoined: "I don't believe there's that much!" The speaker in reply said that he could not accept Mr. Faxon's pessimistic ideas and would confine himself to his original source.

Toward the close of his speech, in speaking of the rule of Quay, Platt and Foraker, he said that these men with their power and influence would name the candidate for the presidency and the Republicans the country over would bow in acquiescence.

Mr. Faxon declared that he would have none of that in his, and Mr. Russell thereupon congratulated him upon his righteous stand and the audience received their new, found brother with vigorous hand-clapping and cheering.

The meeting closed shortly after ten o'clock.

VERY FEW TARDY.

Only 110 Cases in Nearly 140,000 Chances Last Month.

The report of attendance of the Quincy public schools for the four weeks ending Oct. 25, is furnished by Supt. Lull. The record of tardiness is particularly good this month. Did you ever note the number of chances. In four full weeks, with the exception of the High school, a pupil goes to school forty times a week. The average attendance last month was over 3700 daily making about 140,000 chances. The summary:

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Not a Sick Day

Since Taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

For Impure Blood.

A strong point about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that people in our own vicinity have been cured by this medicine and are willing to testify to its merits.

"I have been troubled with phthisic, or asthma ever since I was a child. In the spring of 1894 I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I have used about three bottles. I was induced to take it by reading the wonderful cures it had effected in so many cases. After I had taken one bottle I could see a great improvement in my condition, and I have not been troubled with the asthma since. At first I could not believe that as the people around here had never heard of anything of the kind being cured. Three years ago last March I had the grip and the doctor did not think there was much help for me. For 18 years I raised blood and was all run down. My condition was very bad to say nothing of the asthma. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have not had a sick day, and I recommend this medicine as excellent." CHARLES BURRELL, Liberty Street, Randolph, Mass. Get only Hood's because

It Was Helping Me

PITEZEL'S WIDOW

Faces Holmes and Gives Her Testimony In the Famous Trial.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—The feature of the third day of the Holmes trial was the dramatic and pathetic recital of Mrs. Pitezel, who persistently insisted on the completion of the terrible ordeal of facing the prisoner, whom she charges with the murder of her husband and children, and telling all the details of that series of intrigues which came to such a fatal climax.

Mr. Graham said: "When did you last see or hear from your husband?"

In a voice choking with emotion, Mrs. Pitezel replied: "I have never seen my husband since July 29, or heard from him in his own handwriting since Aug. 29."

Then Mr. Graham, in a solemn voice, asked: "Have you ever seen any of your three children since you gave them to this man?"

Mrs. Pitezel replied: "I have never seen my little girls except lying side by side in the morgue at Toronto, and I have never seen Howard, but I saw some of his little things in the coroner's office at Indianapolis."

There was more than one moistened eye in the court while the sobbing woman was speaking, and the defense, realizing the probable effect of the incident upon the jury, interposed an objection.

Mr. Graham was so vehement in his indignant reply to the defense's objection that he was rebuked by the court, who, however, sustained his line of questioning.

This concluded Mrs. Pitezel's direct testimony, which had consumed 2 hours and 40 minutes.

SALISBURY'S MUSINGS.

A Few Words In Regard to the Tariff and Foreign Relations.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Marquis of Salisbury made a speech at Walford yesterday to an audience which included a number of Conservative members of parliament. During the course of his remarks, the prime minister referred to the agricultural question, and said:

"Since the repeal of the corn laws we have had the strongest cause to lament that, though the protectionists resisted, their warnings had not been listened to more carefully. The repealers laughed at the idea of its injuring husbandry; but a lowering of prices resulted, and free trade has almost killed husbandry in several countries."

The marquis did not blame those who had passed the free trade act, but they should have thought more of the peculiar burden under which the land labored, and should have lightened the weight of these burdens when it could have been done with ease.

Lord Salisbury then adverted to the foreign policy of Great Britain, and in this connection he declared he had carried out the work of his precursors for the sake of maintaining the very important object of a unity of English policy in the face of foreign nations. The speaker protested against Mr. Gladstone's interference in the Armenian affair in a passage of his speech in which he said that he regretted that any man, however earnest and eminent, had thought it worth while to add to the difficulties with which the nations of Europe had to contend in dealing with countries in which bitter differences of race and creed were traditional.

Passengers Were Soared.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The passengers on the North German Lloyd steamship Trave, from Bremen, had an experience which they will not soon forget. The ship was rolling helplessly in the trough of the sea on the 25th, when suddenly the engines stopped and the engine room was filled with clouds of steam that penetrated the cabins. The impression that the ship was on fire seized on the passengers, and they became panic-stricken until calmed by Captain Thalenhorst. It was part of the steam-steering gear that had broken.

Now Belong to France.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—The two islands of Huaheine and Bolabola, belonging to the Tahitian group, in the South Pacific, have been annexed to France by consent of the native chiefs. Both form part of the Society islands proper, otherwise the Leeward islands, and have hitherto been considered distinct from the Tahitian or Windward group, which have been under a French protectorate, although nominally governed by Queen Pomare, a native ruler.

Bank Cleaned Out.

MCGREGOR, Tex., Oct. 31.—The First National bank was looted early yesterday morning. Entrance was effected through the door. The thieves opened the outer door by the combination. To the inner steel chest dynamite was applied, completely wrecking the safe. The booty secured amounted to between $10,000 and $12,000 in paper and gold. The bank is fully solvent, and will continue business.

Heavy Sentences.

HALIFAX, Oct. 31.—The two American seamen, Alfred Gillis and William Malcolm, who were arrested at Antigonish for burglary and safe cracking, pleaded guilty yesterday and were sentenced to 10 years each in the penitentiary.

A Cosy Parlor.

There's no reason on earth why everyone shouldn't have an attractive, well furnished, comfortable parlor. It adds much to your happiness and enjoyment, and just why people don't make themselves comfortable, and enjoy life as they live, is a mystery hard to solve.

The reason we are selling for $45.00 an elegant Wilton Rug, Silk Brocatelle or Silk Tapestry Parlor Set worth $65.00 in any other store on earth, is because we bought these sets at a third less than regular price from a retiring manufacturer, and we are giving to those who take advantage of this opportunity a bargain in Parlor Sets long to be remembered. Only the seeing of these sets will convince you of the magnitude of this offer. Other sets at any price you say.

THE INSTALLATION.

Rev. Edward N. Hardy to Become Pastor of Congregational Church.

An event of unusual interest to the members of the Evangelical Congregational church is the installation today of Rev. Edward Noah Hardy as its pastor, as it is the first installation this church has had for 23 years, Rev. Edward Norton having been the pastor of the church during all these years.

The exercises will commence this afternoon at 2.30, at which hour the council of Congregational churches will meet and examine the records of the parish and church in relations to the acceptance of the resignation of Rev. Edward Norton, and bestowing upon him the honor of pastor emeritus.

The council will then examine the call of the church and parish to Rev. Mr. Hardy, and examine the candidate in relation to his christian experience and theological belief.

The installation proper will be held in the evening at 7 o'clock and will be public.

It is expected that Rev. Edward Norton will deliver the charge to the people, Rev. Ellery C. Butler the welcome to the city and Rev. Edward A. Robinson of Wollaston the right hand of fellowship.

Other clergymen who will take part are Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Boynton, Rev. Dr. A. H. Plumb and Rev. Dr. P. B. Davis of Boston.

Special music for the occasion will be rendered by the choir.

UNITED AND DIVIDED.

Church and Sunday School Come Together, Then Divide Territory.

The afternoon session of the Old Colony association and Norfolk Sunday School union, which was held at the Universalist church was very largely attended.

The first business was on the advisability of dividing the territory and after some discussion it was voted that the territory now covered by these associations be divided for purposes of convenience and that the cities and towns on the line of the Old Colony Division of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., be known as the "Old Colony Association" and include Plymouth, Abington, South Weymouth, Weymouth, North Weymouth, Quincy, Braintree, Norwell, Brockton, Marion and Mattapoisett. Those cities and towns on the line of the Providence division be known as the "Norfolk association" and include Mansfield, Foxboro, Hyde Park, Attleboro, Canton, Stoughton, Norwood, Franklin, West Wrentham, Taunton New Bedford, and North Attleboro, both to include churches and Sunday Schools.

The following officers were then elected: Old Colony Association, Rev. Albert Hammett of Brockton, president; Rev. C. S. Nickerson of Abington, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. M. S. Nash of Norwell, Miss Flora S. Davis of Quincy, Mrs. Turner of Mattapoisett, directors.

Norfolk Association, Rev. A. W. Gose of Stoughton, president; Rev. J. L. Sweet of Attleboro, vice president; Rev. O. G. Petrie of Canton, secretary; Rev. T. W. Dwyer of Hyde Park, treasurer.

The gathering then listened to an eloquent address by Rev. W. F. Potter of Hyde Park who took for his subject "How to make our churches effectual."

Rev. J. Harry Holden who was to have delivered an address was not present and the meeting passed on the question box which was in charge of Rev. O. G. Petrie.

The first question was: "Of what use are Sunday Schools." Rev. L. W. Atwood of South Weymouth was assigned the question.

"Why is it that so few church members are in the Sunday School." Rev. M. F. Nash of Norwell replied."

"Why is it so few of our Sunday School scholars become members of the church." Rev. Mrs. Mabel McCoy of Mansfield replied.

"How shall we get teachers for our Sunday School and how shall we hold our meetings." Rev. A. E. White of Cambridge, replied.

"How shall we get the young men into our Sunday Schools," was responded to by Rev. A. W. Grose of Stoughton.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Coronation hymn.

Rev. Father Hewitt, a fine old gentleman from South Weymouth, over 90 years of age, was present and took part in the discussions. Also, Mr. Joseph G. Brackett of Quincy, nearly 90, who commenced his labors with the Quincy parish when the church was built in 1832. Also, Mr. Perez Joyce, who has been a member of this Universalist society for over 60 years.

DeWitt G. Ray Dead.

The Boot and Shoe Recorder announces the death of DeWitt G. Ray, the manager of its western department, and formerly of Wollaston. Mr. Ray was well known in Boston, where he did newspaper work for many years. About two years ago he left for Denver, where he made his headquarters. Early last July it was reported that he had become insane, but he recovered and was on an extended business trip when he died at Omaha, Neb. He was born in Utica, N. Y.

Godey's Magazine makes a point of having at least one article of weighty importance each month. The November number contains a timely and suggestive discussion of "The Vatican and the Peace of Europe," by Jesse Albert Locke. A narrative that will provoke much argument is Cleveland Moffett's impartial description of "The Miracles of Saint Annie."

OUGHT TO BE.

High School Society Decide Education Should be More Thorough.

At the meeting of the Quincy High school debating society on Wednesday, Mr. Foley presided. Miss Thompson, '97, the secretary, presented her report.

The critic, Miss Cummings, recommended that debaters speak with fewer notes.

The debate of last week was concluded: "Resolved, that Education in the United States ought to be more thorough."

The affirmative was taken by Miss Bemis, Miss Briggs and Miss Burke.

The speakers in the negative were: Miss Chapman, Miss Curtin and Miss Deane.

The board of decision decided in favor of the affirmative.

The entertainment followed:

Recitation, "The Vagabonds," Miss Walker, '97.

Essay, "Gentlemen of the Road," Jacob Warshaw, '96.

Recitation, "Aunt Peggy and High Art," Miss Schamagee, '97.

Essay, "From New York to Sing Sing by wheel," Frank M. Coe, '96.

EVENLY DIVIDED.

Nothing to Nothing the Score at the Academy Foot Ball Game.

The annual sports of the Adams Academy Athletic association wound up Wednesday afternoon with a foot ball game at Merry Mount park between the Adams-High and Academy graduates elevens.

Two half hour sides were played and the game was a hard fought one which kept the ball constantly on the move neither side having an advantage over a few minutes at a time.

During the first half the graduates secured a touchdown but it was not allowed. This was the nearest that either side came to scoring and when time was called the score was nothing to nothing.

The two teams lined up as follows:

Adams High.		Graduates.

For Nearly Forty Years.

The following letter signed by prominent Republicans has been sent to a large number of voters throughout the County. If any Republican voter in this city has not received such a letter it is simply because their names were not known to the Committee, as it is the Committee's intention that such a letter shall be put into the hands of every thinking Republican in the County, believing if they will give the matter proper thought that they will feel it their duty to support A. B. Endicott at the polls next Tuesday.

SIR:—For nearly forty years the voters of Norfolk County have upheld the policy of continuing in the leading administrative offices of the County men of proved integrity and capacity without regard to their party connections. Men of all parties acknowledging the just claim of experienced and competent officials to their support have united in resisting every attempt to drag the County offices into the arena of party politics.

In the belief that the party interests will be best served by continuing this wise and intelligent policy, prominent Republicans have placed in nomination for the shrievalty, Augustus B. Endicott, the present incumbent, who by years of faithful service has proved his ability and fitness for the duties of his office.

In the political campaign of 1889, the assistance of prominent Republicans of your town contributed much to the defeat of the partisan attempt to displace Sheriff Endicott and as friends of good local government once more we appeal to you to give your vote and influence to re-elect the Sheriff to the position he has filled so honorably.

REMONSTRANTS.

Speakers Oppose Woman Suffrage but Audience Disagree.

A meeting of the remonstrants to the cause of woman suffrage was held Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. E C. Bumpus. Three gentlemen and thirty ladies were present. Miss Johnson of Weymouth presided. She said that ten days ago this cause first came under deliberation in Quincy and that it was now supported by Mrs. John Quincy Adams Mrs. Sturdevant, Mrs. Joseph Morse and sixty other ladies including many wage earners. She further said in substance it was to secure the best interests of woman and of political life in the present, that this movement would be carried out. Circulars with the names of those who first started this general movement were placed by each person present.

The first speaker was Mr. Donaldson of Cambridge. He said he should show why none of the many important objects to be gained by voting, could be secured with the ballot in the hands of women. He then enumerated the different questions, none of which he said women could help with their vote. The temperance question should be met by levelling the laws against the offender, the criminal, the man who drank, rather than against the liquor seller. Men should be educated to self control. He thought sugar should not be put away from children's reach, but that they should be taught not to take it.

He cited statistics and made affirmations to show that as women had not embraced limited suffrage they did not want it. He said woman's position in the West had not been a success in political life. He said that suffrage as used by men meant force, which women could not exert. The speaker was a refined delicate young man of pleasing presence. The question next came up with a bright paper by Miss McIntyre of Cambridge. She felt that if women voted for temperance, the many women who come here from Europe who are used to the use not abuse of wines in various forms, would feel that their freedom were restricted. Her long paper received merited attention. She dwelt upon the good position of woman under Massachusetts laws and the many privileges and safeguards placed about her in a forcible manner.

At the close Mr. Faxon proposed some of his conundrums which were quickly parried by the young speakers.

Mrs. Babcock said in regard to the sugar question, as a mother of a family, she had found it wisest to put the sugar beyond the reach of children.

Rev. E. C. Butler of First church said the first speaker had made affirmations which he felt were not arguments, and which could be met and disproven. That if force were the main factor in voting, the votes of such men as Corbett would be more valuable than those of more studious, thoughtful men. He thought the young lady was rather a refutation of what she represented, woman's value in the world of government.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh said she had thought long over the question, and after the meeting she should be more of a suffragist than ever. She was a mother of a family and she felt a woman could be faithful in that trust and find time for further development and work.

Miss Johnson would like an opportunity for discussion on the other side. Such meetings should cultivate the best spirit as all desire only to secure the highest and best ends in this vital subject.

TODAY'S COURT.

Albert Hopkins and John Linquist were fined $8 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

Frank E Smith of Milton was fined $5 for drunkenness.

Patrick Mullen was fined $5 for drunkenness, and $5 for disturbing the peace at Milton.

Everett Sears of Weymouth was arraigned for the larceny of a horse, saddle and whip valued at $335 from William F. Hathaway, and was held in $800 for the grand jury.

Political Potpourri.

The official nominations for all Norfolk County towns, certified by the Secretary of State, will appear in the PATRIOT of Saturday.

It is rumored that Dr. Everett may run behind his ticket in this city, That there will be a large defection among the workman, particularly in Wards Three and Four.

Seventeen crosses are all that are necessary to mark the ballot at the State election next Tuesday. This includes the amendment. With two exceptions a single cross is all that is needed in each group, put three Representatives are to be chosen, and two special commissioners for Norfolk County.

Hon. William Everett and James H. Slade are to speak at Odd Fellows hall, East Weymouth, Monday night.

The sample ballots for the coming State election were posted this morning.

An Independent Democratic club has been formed in Ward Three.

The boys have a good joke on ex-Councilman Roger H. Wilde. The Herald reports him as being on the platform at the Democratic rally last evening, and omits a good Atlantic Democrat from the list.

DURRANT WAS COOL

While Everybody Else in the Courtroom Was Fairly Thrilled.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—District Attorney Barnes yesterday appeared as the high central figure in the last scene of the trial of Theodore Durrant. He delivered what is considered in many respects one of the strongest arguments ever made to a California jury. Aside from being logical and convincing in his discussion of the testimony, he made two or three dramatic by-plays that put a severe test to the iron nerves of the prisoner.

While looking intently at the frame bearing Miss Lamont's dress, which stood near the jury box, and telling how through the long days of the trial he had seeen the young schoolgirl clothed in all her innocence and purity, Mr. Barnes reached the climax of the scene. Turning upon Durrant, who was seated only three feet away, the district attorney, with clinched fists and in a voice of thunder exclaimed: "I see her now. There she stands behind him at this very moment, not praying for vengeance for her deep and remediless wrongs, not for the law's retribution upon her murderer, but with uplifted hand and streaming eyes, praying that God will not put it into your hearts, by the mockery of a verdict of not guilty, to set free this monster to prey upon other souls, pollute with vile hands the unsunned snow of other children and defy anew that God of justice whose ministers you are!"

While everybody else was thrilled with the impressiveness of the scene, Durrant sat stolid and indifferent. As the district attorney's last words were uttered, the prisoner whispered something in the ear of his mother, who sat near him, and smiled as if pleased at the wit of his own remark.

The district attorney will close his argument today, when the jury will be charged and the fate of Durrant will be placed in their keeping.

BY ACCLAMATION.

Cuban Assembly Chooses Palma as Its Representative Abroad.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The Cuban delegation, which was established in this city at the beginning of the war for the independence of the island, received yesterday the official appointment of Tomas Estrada Palma as minister plenipotentiary of the republic of Cuba abroad.

PRESIDENT PALMA.

The document bears the date of Oct. 18, 1895, and is signed by all the members of the Cuban assembly in Jimaguaya, province of Principe. The appointment was made by acclamation.

Against Locals.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. — The supreme court has sustained the decision of Judge Beach in the official ballot case. This forbids the state Democracy from having a list of state candidates printed in the column with its local nominees, under the emblem of a rooster, the state Democracy having held no state convention. The effect of the decision will be to put the state Democracy's local ticket entirely by itself and to deprive the candidates of whatever advantage might accrue through their names appearing in conjunction with the regular Democracy's state ticket.

"May Excite Enthusiasm Among Riff-Raff."

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The few comments made by the London press upon the war prophecy of Senator Chandler in his paper on Oct. 28 may be generally regarded as summed up by The Standard in the following utterance: Senator Chandler may excite enthusiasm among the riff-raff of the great towns, but his prophecy, we may be assured, will be received with indignation and disgust by the great bulk of the people of the United States.

Armenian Affairs.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 31.—The sultan declines to accept the names which the grand vizier has suggested for the Armenian commission. He wishes to have men who are in his own confidence. The massacre at Marash has ceased, and the missionaries are safe. A demand has been made to the British embassy and to the American legation that relief operations at Sassoon shall cease.

To Go Before Juries.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 31.—Owing to the prosecution of the bank directors and smugglers special terms of the supreme court will be needed. The trials of eight of the smugglers' cases are of such a character as to require that they shall be heard before juries. The crown prosecutor admits that there is little prospect of the juries convicting for this offense.

THE WITCH WIFE'S CHARMS.

As I came down the budding lane,
The birds a-singing free,
There came along an old witch wife,
And shrilly called to me.

"Oh, buy a charm, young maid!" she said,
"Oh, buy a charm of me,
To chain thy sweetheart to thy side
Though he is on the sea."

"I will not do it, dame," I said,
"If false at heart he be,
I'd rather have a charm to keep
His face afar from me!"

"Oh, buy a charm, young maid!" she said,
"Oh, buy a charm of me,
To break the curse of foes of thine
Who might work ill to thee."

"I will not do it, dame," I said,
"If foul of heart they be,
A deeper curse is laid on them
Than aught they lay on me."

"Oh, buy a charm, young maid!" she said,
"A potent charm of me,
To bind the strong heart of thy friend
In love and loyalty."

"I will not do it, dame!" I laughed,
"The charm could never be
Could make or break the chain that binds
My friend's strong heart to me!"

THE CHURCH OF ST. SOPHIA.

It Stands as the Masterpiece of Byzantine Architecture and Construction.

Materials were brought from far and near, Egypt and Greece uniting with Asia Minor and the islands, each contiguous to the capital, in supplying their quota of marble for the columns and walls of the church of St. Sophia. For nearly six years the work went on with unabated energy. Many difficulties were overcome and many experiments were tried and found successful, and at length, on the 26th of December, 537, the church was dedicated amid the acclamations of the populace, and the emperor exclaimed in the fullness of his pride: "Glory be to God, who hath thought me worthy to accomplish so great a work. I have vanquished thee, O Solomon!"

The emperor's joy in his church was, however, destined to receive a rude shock some 20 years later, when the apse and part of the dome were thrown down by an earthquake, but the same energy which was shown in the building of the church again asserted itself. The damage was repaired—the dome being heightened 20 feet to give it additional security—and the church was reconsecrated on the 24th of December, 563, 5½ years after the disaster.

The church of St. Sophia has never been surpassed in the unity and completeness of its design and in the daring nature of its construction. In this building the arch and dome assert themselves and dominate everything, and we have a lightness, a spaciousness and a grandeur that had never been reached in the finest of the basilicas and has never been surpassed since. During all the centuries which have elapsed since its erection, it has maintained its supremacy as the masterpiece of Byzantine architecture and construction, and it fixed generally the type on which most of the later churches in the east were based, but it has never been surpassed by any of them.—Scottish Review.

Hints to Book Canvassers.

A good story is told of one of the canvassers of a leading publishing firm in London. He found his way into the parlor of a branch bank, and saw the manager, who, as soon as he learned his business, ordered him out. Very quietly he said:

"I meet with so many gentlemen in the course of the week that I can afford to meet a snob occasionally," and took his departure.

Next day he called at the bank again, and wished to open an account. He was again shown in to the manager, and gave very satisfactory reasons for opening the account, and deposited £270. The manager could not do less than apologize for his rudeness on the day preceding, and ordered a copy of the work, an expensive one, and allowed access to the clerks, several of whom did the same. Two days afterward every farthing was drawn out.—London Tit-Bits.

Sitting Bull as a General.

"Do you know," said an army officer, "that if Sitting Bull, the old Sioux chief, had been a white man, he would have been called a great general? In fact, he was a great natural soldier—a sort of red Napoleon.

"Sitting Bull was not a real chief; that is, he wasn't a war chief. He was a medicine man, what the Indians call a medicine chief. But he had great natural capacity as a commander. His surprise and cutting off of Custer would have been called a great achievement if a white general had in some war performed the feat. It is significant of Indian character that Sitting Bull would never tell the story of the fight at all; wouldn't say a word about it, although I suppose the question was put to him a thousand times by all sorts of people."—Washington Post.

A Fifteen Million Pound Bowlder.

The very largest erratic bowlder yet recognized and measured within the limits of the United States is a block of granite lying near the town of Madison, N. H. Professor Crosby of the Boston Institute of Technology gives the following as its maximum dimensions: Length, 83 feet; width, 45 feet 2 inches; height, 36 feet; contents, 90,000 cubic feet; probable weight, 15,300,000 pounds, or 7,650 tons.—St. Louis Republic.

The fruition of what is unlawful must be followed by remorse. The core sticks in the throat after the apple is eaten, and the sated appetite loathes the interdicted pleasure for which innocence was bartered.—Jane Porter.

He who murmurs against his condition does not understand it, but he who accepts of it in peace will soon learn to comprehend it.—Anon.

CRADLE SONG.

The crickets in the corner sing,
O'er farm and field the shadows creep,
Their homeward way the swallows wing,
The sun is setting in the deep,
The squirrels seek their leafy hold,
The fox is in his hollow tree,
And, huddled in their silent fold,
The downy lambkins sleeping be,
The little bird within his nest
Hath hid his little head in rest,
And soon, oh, soon
The dreamy moon
Will sail along the fleecy west.
The day is done,
The night begun;
To sleep, my drowsy little one.

But when at break of day we see
The spider weaving at his loom,
The soaring lark above the lea,
The bee amid the clover bloom,
When frisking baby squirrels wake
And sip the leaves of morning dew,
When baby foxes from the brake
Do prowl the thorny hedges through,
When on the meadow sweet with hay
The white and curly lambkins play,
And, sweet and cool,
O'er plain and pool,
Bloweth the breeze of coming day,
Thou, too, shalt rise
To sunny skies,
And open wide thy baby eyes.

AN IDEAL BOOM CITY.

MR. BEADLE DISCOVERS AND DISSECTS ANNISTON, ALA.

The Rise, Collapse and Revival of a Southern City—Its Cosmopolitan Character, Its Substantial Buildings, Its Wine and Its Mineral Ores.

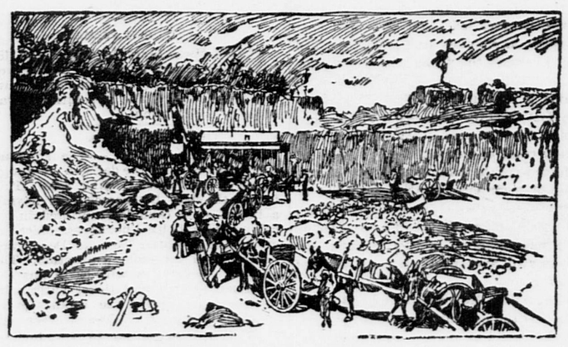
[Special Correspondence.]

ANNISTON, Ala., Oct. 28.—The Atlanta exposition is a big thing, of course, the greatest show the south has ever had, and yet I grew tired of it. Street scenes in Atlanta just now are wonderfully enlivening, what with the brilliantly lighted stores, the motley dressing and the many colored people, the open air music and the many theaters all crowded nightly. Yet one does get tired of living in a hubbub, and Atlanta's racket wearied me. And, furthermore, lovely autumn is just now at her loveliest. This season is so long and so mild and its changes are so gradual and soothing in this latitude. It was no time for the city, and so I was off for the iron mountains.

Where the Vine Flourishes.

The Georgia Pacific railway, by which I traveled, took its ambitious title because it was designed to run to the Mississippi and connect with the Southern Pacific. It succeeded in getting as far as Birmingham and is now absorbed by and a feeder to the Piedmont Air Line on the Great Southern. Short as it is, it has on a string four of the most remarkable places in our country—Atlanta, Fruithurst, Anniston and Birmingham—and, strange to say, the second, as yet unheard of in the north, is just now exciting the landed interests of Alabama.

About ten miles west of the Georgia line passengers familiar with the topography called our attention to a region where the hills seemed a little more abrupt, the soil a little redder and the timber more ragged than elsewhere, the land being considered a few years ago almost worthless. To this region came by chance a few exiles from Alsace, who declared on sight that here were reproduced the exact conditions of the best wine districts in France. The mercury very rarely rises above 90 degrees and the cold is never severe enough to injure the vine. The late winter is rainy, the early summer variable as to moisture, and from July to November the season is dry four times out of five.



ORE BEDS IN THE CITY LIMITS.

Here, then, if anywhere in the new world, said these exiles, can the French grape be perfectly naturalized and all the French wines produced. A large land company took the district in charge and now a great success is assured.

The company has laid off the tract in ten acre lots, and each purchaser is required to plant two of his ten acres in grape vines. If he does not care to do the work, the company does it for him at a cost of $35 per acre. The chief executive man is ill—Farciot, an Alsatian who had had great experience in grape culture on Kelly's island in Lake Erie and is an enthusiast as to the possibilities here. I will not repeat his glowing prophecies, as they come to me second hand, but his most persistent statement is often repeated hereabout—namely, that his people will make all these old red hillsides more valuable than the finest valley land in the state. A physician on our train declared this section would become the greatest health resort in the country. The elevation averages 1,100 feet above the sea, the summers are much cooler than in the central north, the soil is of such a nature that there is little or no mud, and for three months the invalid can live on grapes just from the vine, as is the regimen now at many German health resorts. Anything is a blessing which induces the rural southerners to vary their monotonous diet of corn bread, fried pork and black coffee, and I feel it a duty to give these enterprises a good showing. But I presume any reader inclined to invest will first investigate.

A Point In Finance.

"When the foreigner comes, the nigger goes," is a sort of proverb in Alabama. The foreigner has come to Fruithurst and the "nigger" has gone, or rather staid, away, for there never were many negroes in the hill country of Alabama. The last registration showed, say the politicians, the most composite population of any southern locality except San Antonio, Tex. There are Swedes enough to have a flourishing church, Poles, Hungarians, Bohemians and a few Italians, besides the Alsatians. Southerners, Yankees and Englishmen are in the crowd, of course, as they are in all these boom towns. I asked my medical companion, who was so enthusiastic about the future of the region, why the congressional district lines ran so tortuously, taking in one of the blackest of the black counties with these almost exclusively white counties, whereupon he "smiled a sort o' sickly smile" and asked my opinion on the silver question. The result was laughable. Every man in the car was on the point of his hoofs at once, and in less time than it takes to tell it a furious discussion was raging. The testimony was equally positive on both sides. A prominent iron man of Birmingham declared it a positive certainty that with the exception of Mobile, Memphis, one district in Florida and two in Kentucky, every district in the south would send delegates to the national Democratic convention in favor of free coinage at the old ratio. An Atlanta merchant said he had been traveling three months in the two states, and to his certain knowledge "the silver craze is over—nobody talks or cares about it—8 cent cotton has killed it." Maybe the interest is lessening, but the discussion in that car certainly did not show it.

As the Georgia Pacific runs nearly straight west and the mountain ranges nearly straight southwest, the road crosses them at a "long angle," and the result is a peculiarly twistical and diversified line. First we cross a level, then enter the red foothills and next wriggle through the main range on a course running to every point of the compass, to emerge into another high valley, and in the narrowest of these is this very interesting city of Anniston. Two things strike the visitor with astonishment at the first view—the great number of fine residences on all the commanding points and the many really magnificent churches. Brooklyn does not compare with it in that respect. The highest estimate of the population, including Oxanna and other suburbs, is 15,000, and it certainly is less than that. Yet there are 18 white churches and several colored. And some of the white churches might be called small cathedrals—imposing structures of gray and white stone which look as if they were built for all time. In truth, that is the great characteristic of the city. The founders evidently had faith in the future, for all the hotels, banks and general business structures are seemingly as solid as if in New York and Boston. No city looks less like a boom town, yet that is just what it is. Other cities have had booms, but this is the ideal boom city. It completely fills the bill. Probably no other city of its size in the country had so sudden and phenomenal a rise, and certainly none suffered a more complete and sudden collapse. But this collapse came in 1890, and the revival was in full progress by the time the rest of the country began to decline.

Anniston Enterprise.

'We knew nothing about the panic of 1893," said Colonel Hoffman Atkinson president of the Anniston Land company. "We were so deep in the pit that it passed 100 degrees above us. In fact, that's about the time the revival began here. It was in 1890 that we fell. Our industries did not stand on the order of their dying, as Lady Macbeth said; they just died. They did not even lie down and die, as folks say; they just dropped dead in their tracks. I don't say that the failure of Baring Bros. did it, but soon after the news of that arrived the United States Car company stopped work. Then all the furnaces stopped in rapid succession on account of the low price of iron. The banks, with one small exception, held through it in good shape, and so did this land company, the only one in the south that did, I believe. Everything in the manufacturing line stopped, and we had to carry all the laboring people who didn't leave. You may imagine, then, how odd it sounded to our folks when speakers came along to tell them that congress had caused the trouble in 1894. We were over it by that time, and now you see that the vacant houses are filling up fast. Let me see—we have running now the big pipe works, the biggest in the world under one roof, making 200 tons of heavy iron pipe a day; the Hercules Pipe works, 46 tons a day of small pipe; the Anniston Manufacturing company's cotton mill, which has always paid good dividends; the Anniston Cordage mills, also making webbing bands and cotton carpets; the Woodstock Iron furnace, 125 tons of pig iron a day; the Anniston Lime works; two large lumber establishments, three machine and boiler shops and many minor works.

"There's a romance about the building of Anniston. The founders made their money on charcoal iron, and made piles of it too. When a depression came, they stacked it away, and when the boom of 1879-80 came on their profits were enormous. And they were profusely generous. Look at that splendid church of St. Michael and All Angels; cost $125,000. Well, that was built by John W. Noble as a monument to his brother, Samuel Noble—built of stone and marble. And Grace Episcopal church was built by the iron company at a cost of $50,000. There are two other churches costing $50,000 each. In fact, there isn't a really poor looking church in the place, unless it is some of the colored, and the liberality of the founders did it. Now about the future. We concede that Birmingham can make iron a little cheaper than we can, and our future is in other minerals and manufacturing."

THE VENEZUELAN ROW

Concessions to Americans Not Within British Sphere of Influence.

"Frontier Outrage" a Purely Individual Act.

Governor of British Guiana Gives Views on a Much Discussed Matter.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 31. — Governor Sir Charles Lees of British Guiana arrived here at midnight, having been recalled to England to confer with Colonial Secretary Chamberlain on the Venezuelan boundary question.

The governor was asked if any difficulty was likely to arise out of the concessions made to American capitalists by Venezuela. He said: "No concessions have been made within the British sphere of influence, and therefore no difficulty is likely to arise.

"I have no idea that there will be any serious resistance to the British demands growing out of the Uruan incident, as the Venezuelan government seems desirous of doing everything possible to repair any injury done to British subjects."

"I regard the frontier outrage (the so-called Uruan incident) as a purely individual act, as the British subjects, Barnes and Baker, who were arrested by the Venezuelan officer, when brought before the higher representatives of the Venezuelan government, were asked by them to return to the British territory. But they declined on the ground that there were no means of transit back."

The Uruan incident referred to by Mr. Lees was that upon which the reported British ultimatum to Venezuela was based. A British sergeant of police (the Barnes above referred to) and two assistants crossed the river at Uruan and planted the British flag on the Venezuelan side. The Venezuelan police tore down the flag, drove the intruders across the stream and subsequently arrested them. While on their way to Ciudad Bolivar with their prisoners they were instructed from Caracas to release the Englishmen and to permit them to return to British Guiana. The British government demands

Reparation For These Arrests.

Mr. Lees was asked further to explain the action of the Guiana high council in voting its disapproval of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's suggestion for the purchase of maxim guns to be taken to the Venezuelan frontier. Sir Charles said: "With regard to this vote, the matter was purely an imperial one. There is only a post, consisting of seven men at Uruan, being merely a police station to mark the frontier on the Schomburgk boundary line, and there is practically no military station there, although the colonial government has repeatedly asked the imperial government for a supply of maxim guns.

"The Venezuelan party, when they crossed the river at Uruan, hoisted their flag upon a building within the Schomburgk boundary. Sergeants Barnes and Baker hauled it down merely to show that it was within the British lines, although the colonial government would be delighted to welcome squatters to that territory, and only desired to show that it was British territory."

He was asked if he thought that any serious affair would occur in the event of a crisis, to which he replied: "I think not, as there is only a very small police station on the Venezuelan frontier. The Venezuelans tried their utmost to persuade Barnes and Baker to return to British territory after they had been arrested."

Sir Charles came home principally to recruit his health, and although some matters of private business will also receive his attention, he will see Mr. Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, as soon as possible.

Swallowed Aconite.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Dr. W. S. Miller, 49 years old, an attache of the New System Dental parlors, 2 Union square, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by swallowing four ounces of aconite. It was said by persons in the house that Dr. Miller was known as a hard drinker. It was said that on several recent occasions he had been called on by a young woman, and that after these calls his sprees were of a harder and longer nature than usual.

Put Out of the Way.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Dr. Orlando Bradford, the counterfeiter, was yesterday sentenced to six years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. Michael Manning and Frank Carr were given similar sentences. Albert Brown was given four years, and Harvey Kingsley, also a counterfeiter, was sent to the reformatory for 13 months.

Bad For Bulls.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—The Philadelphia stock market had the liveliest shakeup yesterday experienced since the Reading railroad collapsed, nearly three years ago. The Philadelphia "Kaffirs," as they have been called, went all to pieces, one stock, Electric Storage, breaking $18 a share in two hours.

Sampson's Figures.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—In his annual report to the secretary of the navy, Captain Sampson, chief of the ordnance bureau, submits estimates aggregating $6,457,984 for the next fiscal year. Last year's estimate of $500,000 for guns for the auxiliary navy is renewed.

Badly Wrecked.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 31.—A survey was held yesterday on the Norwegian ship Reciprocity ashore near Musquash. The surveyors found the vessel so badly damaged that they recommended her condemnation and immediate sale.

Bourgeois Called On.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—President Faure yesterday summoned M. Bourgeois, Republican Radical, to the palace, and requested him to form a ministry. M. Bourgeois promised to consult with his friends and give the president a reply today.

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.
